Obituary

MRS. WILLIAM STANLEY.

The funeral of the late Mrs. William Stanley will be held from the family residence, 413 Bethune street, on Friday, Feb. 3, at 2 p.m, the Rev. D. Wren officiating.

WILLIAM R. CORNEIL.

Many friends in this city will regret to hear of the passing away on Sunday evening of William R. Corneil at his residence, 57 Regal Road, for the past eight years manager of the City of Toronto Municipal Abattoir. He was a native of Lindsay and was educated at the Collegiate Institute there. Of a jovial disposition, he made many friends throughout Ontario, while engaged as salesman for the Swift Canadian Company of Canada. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Emma Corneil, and one daughter, Norma. Several relatives reside in Peterborough, Mrs. R. G. Allan, Stewart street, is a sister, and Mr. R. B. Pearson, Aylmer street, is a brother-

SCOTCH SINGERS WATCHED.

Whether the singing of "Annie Laurie" in the churches of Glasgow, Scotland, would lead to prosecution of the singers, was a question raised at a recent meeting of the Glasgow Presbytery, the senior Ecclesiastical Court of that city. One of the officers reported that the Performing Rights Society, Ltd., was becoming very vigilant and that if there were sung in a church hall or church many songs that long had been thought immune from copyright restrictions, there might be trouble. "Annie Laurie" was one of the songs mentioned. Rev. Stewart Cameron said that the prosecutions of the society has caused a sort of bandage on churches as regards their music. A committee was appointed to confer with the Performing Rights Society regarding songs that may be sung.

SCOTCHMAN PAYS MAN'S FINE

Insisting that he was morally responsible, a Scotchman paid the fine of an Irish laborer, charged recently in a London police court with being drunk and disorderly. The Irishman struggled and fought all the way to the police station, and civilians who rendered aid were thanked by the magistrates.

'Y' HOBBY SHOW BEING PLANNED

Will Be Held April 12, 13 and 14, During Easter Vacation.

BIGGER AND BETTER.

The preliminary announcement is out for the second Peterborough Boys' Hobby Show which will be held in the Y.M.C.A. on April 12, 13, 14. With the experience of last year's show the board of directors anticipate a bigger and better than ever exhibit this year. Coming as it does during the Easter vacation, the Show will not interfere with a boy's school work in any way.

The postponed hike of the Junior Section of the Y.M.C.A. will leave at 10 a.m. Saturday. Skis and toboggans will be the order of the day and each boy will bring a cup and spoon with his lunch, as the Outing Club are going to demonstrate their ability to make tea for the gang.

GERMANY WANTS BABY FILM

German psychologist have requested that the new film made in Vienna, Austria, for use in baby training be exhibited in Germany. The film analyzes a baby's complexes from birth to two years. It shows the little one's reaction to toys, sounds and human beings, and gives illustrations of its progress in love, anger, control over the body and limbs, self defense, and overcoming obstacles. The picture was made at the Vienna Municipal Baby Home under the direction of Prof. Hildegarde Hetzer, of the Psychological Institute of Vienna University.

THOUSANDS CROWD STREETS AS HAIG'S FUNERAL PASSES; BRITAIN MOURNS WAR LEADER

Historic Gun Carriage Used, With Flag Which Was Flown at Cenotaph.

PEOPLE PAY TRIBUTE.

King's Sons Lead Three Mile Procession To Westminster Abbey.

LONDON, February 3. (Canadian Press).—While all Britain mourned and three sons of his King led the three-mile procession from St. Columba's to Westminster Abbey, the body of Field Marshal Earl Haig to-day was borne through the streets of London in one of the greatest military pageants in the historic British capital.

It was a pageant of poignant memories. The casket was wrapped in a weather-worn Union Jack which had served a similar function on the cenotaph, Britain's memorial to her hero dead. The body also was borne on the gun carriage on which had been mounted the gun which fired the British Empire's first shot in the Great War. It was the same gun carriage, too, on which the body of Britain's unknown soldier was taken to its last resting place.

To-day, seven mounted men drew it slowly, and men's heads everywhere were bared as the casket came into sight and passed along the thoroughfares. To the muffled music of a military band whose strains the Field Marshal had loved, the procession moved through the silent streets, crowded with tens of thousand of men, women and children. There were many weeping women, and most of them wore black and carried little bunches of red paper Flanders poppies, symbolical of heroic sacrifice and devotion. Three of King George's sons, the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York, and Prince Henry, were in the sad procession.

Impressive Service.

Inside Westminster Abbey a hushed assembly waited the honored dead who came on the shoulders of stalwart soldiers while the great organ sounded Chopin's funeral march. For a brief hour the coffin rested on the bier before the chancel. The congregation joined in the service, and in singing "Abide With Me" and in conclusion "Onward Christian Soldiers," the hymn of the church militant.

Just before the service was concluded, Scottish pipers in the far part of the Abbey sounded the plaintive song, "Flowers of the Forest."

After the Abbey service the great cortege again formed outside the ancient edifice and with the casket replaced on the gun carriage retraced its steps across Parliament Square, then to Waterloo station, where a special train started for Scotland immediately. The Abbey services were broadcast to the world while throughout the British Isles at the same hour special memorial services were held in honor of the Field Marshal.

CANADIAN PAPERS NOT REPRESENTED

Seating at Abbey For Newspapermen Handled By Outside Body.

LONDON, February 3 (Canadian Press Cable).—Canadian newspaper representatives were not admitted to the Westminster Abbey service to-day in connection with the funeral of Earl Haig. The formal application for seats in the Abbey had not been made in accordance with the instructions of the War Office. The press seating arrangements were handed over to another organization holding no responsibility to the overseas press, and representations made to the War Office by the Canadian High Commissioner in London on behalf of Canadian newspaper men proved fruitless.

This Day In Parliament.

OTTAWA, February 3 (Canadian Press).—To-day, the Senate will continue the debate on the Address, Senator Gideon Robertson speaking. In the Commons, R. K. Smith (Conservative, Cumberland) will continue the debate on the Address.

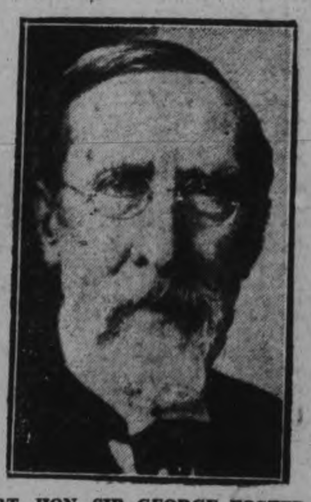
Yesterday, in the Senate, the following Senators spoke: Sir George Foster, Senators Belcourt, McDougald and Reid. In the Commons the following members took part in the debate: E. J. Garland (Progressive), Sir George Perley (Conservative, Argenteuil), Pierre Casgrain (Charlevoix-Saguenay), C. H. Cahan (Conservative, St. Lawrence), J. A. Glenn (Liberal, Marquette), W. J. Lovie (Liberal-Progressive, Macdonald), Dr. F. W. Gershaw (Liberal, Medicine Hat), George W. McPhee (Liberal, Yorkton).

Tipped with a tiny disc of touch-paper, which glows upon being struck against the prepared side of the package, a cigaret which lights itself has been invented by a retired London business man.

Wheat Enters Poland Under Present Rate

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 3 Canadian Press). — Canadian wheat and wheat flour will continue to enter Poland under the present rate of duties until the middle of April, even though the Dominion has as yet not concluded any commercial treaty with Poland, according to a communication received yesterday at the offices of the Canadian National Millers' Association here. It was explained that had the maximum duties been imposed, flour shipped from Canada to Poland would have been subject to a duty twice that imposed on flour shipped from the United States.

CONTINUES ONSLAUGHT.



RT. HON. SIR GEORGE FOSTER, Who continued his attack against the Federal Government on establishment of legations in Senate yesterday.

SIR GEORGE FOSTER CONTINUES ATTACK AGAINST GOVERNMENT

CONDITIONS CHANGED.

Expresses Fear Might Ultimately Tend Towards Complete Independence.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 3.—(Canadian Press.)— Right Hon. Sir George E. Foster continued his onslaught against the system of "plenipotentiary representation" abroad in the Senate yesterday, and expressed his fear that Canada's incursion into that field might ultimately tend towards complete independence. What loss in any material way would this country incur if Canada did not enter the diplomatic field, asked Sir George. Canada had no part nor lot in the old conditions; she had no interest in their institutions; she had not inherited them in any degree. The old conditions were rapidly changing from day to day and the new diplomacy was taking place. "Why, then," Sir George asked, "should Canada enter in and asume to erself the habilimetns which are being laid aside?"

The whole system of diplomatic representation rested on the undoubted sovereignty of the power which accredits and the power to which the plenipotentiary is accredited. It would be difficult for the European and Asiatic countries to understand Canada's position. France and the United States did so, but, Sir George queried, "what do we lack in France itself under the present sytsem that we would gain by adopting the system of plenipotentiary representation?"

He himself never found difficulty in gaining access to French offcials and French departments. If that were so "in the olden times" it has become more and more a feature of Canada's present trade representative in Paris. It would not facilitate the intimacy which now exists in communications between the Canadian and French Governments to confer ambassadorial powers on the high commissioner or anyone else. Plenipotentiaries were the indices of political affiliations, and Canada had not these with France or Japan, nor was any political alliance wanted with them.

Counsels Caution.

In all the galaxy of ambassadors of the four different kinds to-day there was not one which was not a sovereign power. Had Canada that position? Here was a situation that caused difficulty and apprehension; and, said Sir George, he regretted that the train of thought and the impulse towards independence had been contributed by the government now in power. Sir George counselled caution. He pointed to Canada's position in the League of Nations. He made reference to the treaty outlawing war between the United States and France and drew attention to the statement in the treaty that "France and the United States admit that war as a statement of national policy is wrong and barbaric, is an obsoletism at the present time ,and we set our faces against it."

Fifty-five nations at the last Assembly of the League came to the conclusion that aggressive warfare against humanity was a crime, and Sir George thought it the duty of all the League members to imbed this as well in the mentality of the units of the country in which they belong.

Urges Co-operation.

Sir George spoke of immigration and urged the closest co-operation between all administrative bodies. He approved the calling of the Dominion-Provincial conference of last November and thought that a great deal might be gained if those in authority, both in the Dominion and in the provinces ,would cal ltogether in consultation citizens of repute and experience from different parts of the country as a consultative and contributory body. The great effort that had been put forth in the war should be employed again to-day to tackle the countries problems.

Hon. H. A. Belcourt followed Sir George Foster. He commented on the treaty between France and the United States,and said that the American government, in order to be consistent with the action they had taken, must realize that their participation in the work of the League of Nations had become essential. He believed that the United States would join the League before very long.

Senators W. L. McDougald and Reed spoke and the debate was adjourned by Senator Gideon Robertson.

Issues Report On Industrial Future

LONDON, Feb. 3 (Canadian Press Cable).—The Liberal Industrial Enquiry, whose executive includes David Lloyd George, Sir Herbert Samuel, Ramsay Muir. and John Maynard Keyes, has issued a voluminous report of 500 pages on Britain's industrial future. It contains an exhaustive diagnosis of industrial maladies and suggestions for their treatment.

A single chapter is devoted to Imperial development. It maintains that the objections to Imperial preferences are insuperable and expresses the opinion that Imperial development must be forwarded by other means; in the case of the Dominions, by improved communications, organized assistance in emigration, and wise direction of capital for overseas development.

SESSION OPENS AT EDMONTON

SPEECH READ.

EDMONTON, Alta., Feb. 3.—(Canadian Press)—The second session of the Sixth Legislative Assembly of the Province of Alberta was opened yesterday afternoon by Lieut.-Governor Egbert, with all the customary ceremony attendant upon such occasions. A detachment of Royal Canadian Mounted Police and a guard of honor from the officers' training corps of the University of Alberta lent the requisite military touch.

Speaker G. N. Johnston notified the House of the vacancy brought about through the death of C. S. Pringle, Medicine Hat, and fitting reference to the loss was made in the speech from the Throne, read by the Lieutenant Government. D. C. Breton, Leduc, and M. McCool, Cochrane, will move and second the adoption of the Throne speech.

In the Throne speech the House was notified of the sale of the Lacombe and Northwestern Railway to the Canadian Pacific Railroad.

The Province was congratulated upon its unprecedented field crops and progress in development of natural resources. Deep regret was felt at the death of Earl Haig, who made so many friends during his visit to Alberta in 1925. Negotiations for the return of Alberta's natural resources are to be continued with the Dominion government; a system of travelling health clinics is to be extended by the health department and an enlarged programme of highways construction and maintenance is promised.

Adjournment was taken following the speech from the Throne.

LOW RATE FOR ALBERTA COAL AGAIN SOUGHT

U.F.A. Deputation is Promised Consideration By Premier King.

URGE $6.50 RATE.

But Sir Henry Thornton Asks $9 Rate Per Ton.

OTTAWA, Feb. 3.—Urging that a statutory rate of $6.50 per ton for the movement of Alberta coal to the central markets of Ontario be established by law this session, a committee of U. F. A. members conferred with the Prime Minister here yesterday morning. They got the promise that the matter would be looked into carefully. The delegation, headed by E. J. Garland, M.P., included Messrs. Jeliffe, Coote, Kellner, Speakman, and Kennedy, M.P.'s.

Precedent Exists.

Last session a reduction in maritime freight rates was effected, and, in a way, this is a precedent, although the cases are not quite analagous.

The contention of the Alberta group is that if coal were handled at $6.50 there would still be no need for a subsidy.

Commission in Error.

They claim the Railway Commission erred in its finding as to the out-of-pocket cost of coal movements and that the quantity of coal to be carried in a single car is more than was computed as an average. This, they figure, would make the actual cost $6.75 a ton, instead of $7.22, as the Commission found. It is also claimed that the average annual allowance for car repairs is exaggerated, and that this would further reduce the cost to $5.45, but, conceding the railway claims as to the return of empties, etc., they are willing to agree on a rate of $6.50. They want it made by law. Sir Henry Thornton asks a $9 rate.

MOVIES OF FIRE ARE SHOWN AT Y

Fred Roy Exhibits Films Taken On Sunday to Y's Men's Club.

OTHER PICTURES SHOWN.

Moving pictures of the Lock Works fire, taken on Sunday, were shown by Fred L. Roy at the meeting of the "Y" Men's Club at the Y.M.C.A. last night. Mr. Roy showed these pictures on the same reel with those taken last April at the testing of the new pumper, thus showing the pumper being tested out and also in actual work.

Others shown of local interest were a fishing party and scenes of the northern part of the county. Pictures of Lindbergh and other aviators the coronation of Sir Hari Singh at Kashmir, and other travel films completed a most interesting program.

Vice-President Howard Woods presided at last night's meeting. The first of a series of five-minute talks by members of the club on their occupations was given by Alec Donnelly who told of the many places to which Quaker Oats is shipped.

The Weather

This morning at daybreak the temperature was 4 degrees above zero. During the night the thermometer had been down to 13 below zero. Several who were out late last night remarked to me this morning of the severity of the cold. The bear yesterday must have got a sniff of the near approach of a cold dip, as he has now retired for a six weeks' slumber. A few robins are around, whose cheer-up note I have heard, although the birds themselves I have not seen.—W. P.

FIVE BURNED.

Father and Four Children Lose Lives in Minnesota Fire.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 3. —(Canadian Press).—A father and four of his children were burned to death by fire which destroyed a three-room cottage at Deep Haven, Minnetonkia, near here, last night. The mother and the youngest child escaped death but both were seriously burned. The cause of the fire is unknown.

Fingerprints Show Men Collect Twice

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.— (Canadian Press.)—Inauguration by the city of a system of finger printing of emergency snow shovels has disclosed that large numbers of workers have been collecting their pay twice under different names, Commissioner of Accounts James Higgins said to-day.

Bombay Students And Workmen Strike; Declare Boycott On Royal Commission

BOMBAY, British India, Feb. 3 (Canadian Press).—The native City of Bombay was in the throes of a "Hartal" strike, organized as a boycott of the Royal Commission on Indian Reforms, today, following the arrival earlier in the day of Sir John Simon and other members of the commission. When the commissioners arrived they found a huge crowd gathered about the wharves and were forced as a result to stay aboard ship until a way could be cleared for them. The colleges were closed and a large gathering of students passed a resolution condemning the commission. At a Labor demonstation effigies of Premier Baldwin, Birkenhead, Simon, and Ramsay Macdonald were burned.

Second Of Family On Murder Charge

PATERSON, N.J., Feb. 3 (Canadian Press).—The second member of her family to be charged with murder, Miss Lena Hammock, 23, will plead to-day before Recorder Harry Joelson for the killing of Edwin Whalen, whose body, pierced by two bullets, was found in the apartment they shared.

Whalen was killed as a result of an argument with Miss Hammock, with whom he had been living, according to her confession, which stated she fired in self-defence after an alarm clock had been thrown at her, and she feared for her life. Miss Hammock's brother, convicted of the killing of a milk truck driver, is serving a life sentence.

JUDGE O'CONNOR GIVEN WELCOME

Law Association Meets To Greet New Occupant of Bench.

PRESIDES IN COURT.

The Peterborough Law Association fittingly welcomed L. V. O'Connor, newly appointed judge of Durham and Northumberland Counties at the Court House in this city this morning.

Previous to the opening of the new judge's first Court, a number of members of the association had gathered and, through His Honor Judge Huycke, extended felicitations. Among those present were: Judge Huycke, F. D. Kerr, K.C.; J. R. Corkery, J. A. O'Brien, Joseph Wearing, City Solicitor; B. Park; V. J. McElderry, president; George J. Sherry, local registrar; Charles C. Moore, Clerk of Court; S. R. Pearson, bailiff; W. F. Huycke.

Also present was a goodly representation of private citizens, many of them personal friends of Judge O'Connor.

Judge Huycke

Judge Huycke was most complimentary in his references to his new colleague. He felt it a very pleasant duty to introduce Judge O'Connor to the Peterborough Law Association, though at the same time, there came a certain feeling of sadness at the passing of his predecessor, Judge McGlade, who all had known and loved. "Nevertheless," said His Honor . "I am pleased to introduce to you Lawrence Vincent O'Connor. It is your sworn duty to assist him in every way and I trust that the relationship of Bench and Bar will be as it should be—a most intimate one.

President V. J. McElderry

As President of the Peterborough Law Association, V. J. McElderry also welcomed the new judge. He referred to the honor which accompanied the appointment and expressed the trust that the new occupant possessed those qualities of heart and mind that would fit him to his new office.

Judge O'Connor

"To say that I appreciate the sentiment expressed by you gentlemen is putting it mildly, indeed. I am pleased to be here not only because I know this district but because it brings with it the opportunity of association with such a man as Judge Huycke. During my acquaintance with him he has been more likt a father than a brother, and with his assistance I hope to meet my responsibilities."

His Honor recalled past associations with members of the Peterborough Law Association and concluded by expressing the hope that his relations with all its members would be most pleasant and profitable to all concerned.

Regular court business was then proceeded with, there being a number of Division Court cases in which claims of small amounts were made. Throughout, Judge O'Connor conducted the court business most efficiently and courteously.

IN POLICE COURT

Two young men appeared before Magistrate Langley this morning, charged with being intoxicated, and were fined $10 and costs.

MODEL VILLAGE DESCRIBED BY KIWANIS CLUB SPEAKER

FOUNDED BY QUAKER.

No Policemen Required—Rents Very Low—Natural Beauty Retained.

Perhaps in every man's mind, there is some conception however vague, of just what might constitute a model village, but to those members and friends of the Peterboro Kiwanis Club who attended the luncheon to-day, there came an entirely new and happy conception, through the splendid address given by James Dutton President of the Stock Bread Company. Occupying the final half hour of the luncheon time Mr. Dutton's talk was a most comprehensive one taking in all the details of his model village—Bournville a village in Warwickshire, England.

The attendance at the luncheon was fair, though not as large as on some other occasions but those privileged to be present not only enjoyed a splendid address but also a delightful little solo by Miss Diana Liddle, accompanied by her father, and two truly splendid violin numbers by Miss Edwina Palmer, whose accompanist was Miss Agnes Best.

All four as well as Mr. Dutton, were voted the appreciation of the club as voiced by Charles Elliott.

The Speaker.

Mr. Dutton prefaced his address proper with a few remarks on why he hoped his subject might be interesting to Kiwanians. Granted that his subject might seem most unusual he felt that the very motto of Kiwanis—"We build," might be sufficient justification for its delivery. He continued: "The model village that I have in mind is the little village of "Bournebrook." This village has come into existence and thrived, due to the keen intellect and desire to serve his fellow men, possessed by the late Richard Cadbury a man of broad mind and wide sympathies, a Quaker teacher of a large Bible class in Birmingham. This class of between three and four hundred people, met at seven o'clock each Sunday morning and being of a thoroughly Democratic nature, Mr. Cadbury was not slow to adopt many of their ideas into his own life, so that he might come into closer relations with them.

Acquiring an estate, Cadbury conceived the idea of a model village and forthwith hired an architect whose instructions were to leave the contour of the landscape as he found it, to leave the brook to its own course, the mounds and hills unchanged and trees growing. Houses were not to be built alike but were to meet the needs of all classes. These instructions were well carried out and the original plans were not altered save that the original idea of allowing the tenant to purchase his house had to be discarded owing to the activity of a syndicate which sought to acquire them.

Rents Are Low.

The houses rented for about one dollar per week and a trustee board took over the entire business of the estate. The Education Act, which had come into force, gave rise to a new situation and to meet it, the rents were lowered and the tenants paid their own taxes with regard to this act. Incidentally, it might be mentioned that Dr. John Clifford, who laid the corner stone of Murray Street Baptist church, was one of the men concerned with the effects of this Education Act.

An ingenious method of providing a bath in the cheapest residence was put into practice and further conveniences for the tenants were provided, including a garden of 110 square yards. An allotment garden was also used to make up to tenants what their house gardens lacked in size and village planters prepared them for the tenant ,whose duty it was to care for them. Weekly profits from each of these gardens often amounted to half the rent of the house. Bulb planting for spring display, competitions for best-kept gardens and tree planting, methods of naming the streets were worked out and the estate was divided into three parts, for factory, parks and residential purposes.

Policemen were not needed and there was no hotel or public house where liquor of any kind might be obtained owing to the fact that trustee board had to be unanimous in its decision to allow liquor. This un-

CHANGES IN CUSTOMS STAFF IN TORONTO RECOMMENDED; PROSECUTIONS ADVOCATED

Heavy Property Loss; Fire Sweeps Village

FALL RIVER, Mass., Feb. 3 (Canadian Press).—Fire starting in the Pocasset Mills, a dismantled textile plant, swept through the main district of this city last night, with loss placed in early estimates at many millions of dollars. Aid was summoned from New Bedford, Taunton, Providence, R.I. Newport R.I. and even from Brockton, sixty miles away. The four units of the Pocasset Mill were the first building to go. The fire rapidly spread to the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad bus terminals, the Granite block, the Herald-News building, the Independent Newspaper building, and the R. A. McWhirr Department stores. Other buildings in the path of the flames appeared doomed.

At the same time, ten other fires were reported in other parts of the city.

WANTS M.O.H. ON FULL TIME

NOTIFIES DEPARTMENT.

The Board of Health, at its meeting this morning at the home of A. J. Reynolds brought in the following recommendation, moved by Mr. Reynolds and seconded by J. J. Turner, that this Board recommend to the City Council that a full time M.O.H. be appointed, and that the Department of Health be notified of the Board's action.

In order to get a grant to keep the Provincial Laboratory here, the delegation that visited the Hon. Dr. Godfrey, Minister of Health, promised that steps would be taken this year towards the appointment of a full time Medical Health Officer.

The City Council, at its January meeting asked the Board of Health to study the question, and consequently Ald. Ackerman, chairman of the local board, called a meeting of representatives of all societies and bodies interested in the city's health, and studied the question from a financial standpoint. At the last regular meeting of the Board of Health, the chairman asked the members to consider the matter, and as a result of this the above recommendation was passed at the meeting this morning.

The Council now must consider the appointment with the Board of Education and other bodies in order that several offices might be combined.

The report of the Queen Mary Hospital showed a total expenditure of $8,598.58 for 1927, and total receipts of $1,478.90.

FIRE DESTROYS SIX CITY BLOCKS

2,000 OUT OF WORK.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Feb. 3. —(Canadian Press).—An irregular area covering six city blocks was a mass of charred and burning debris to-day as a result of a fire which swept the centre of this city's business district with a loss estimated at from seven to twelve million dollars. More than a score of buildings, including two theatres, six banks, three hotels, and several of the large office structures, were reduced to ruins. Fire apparatus summoned from points as distant as Providence, R.I., and Boston, and a dozen other cities jammed the streets and continued to pour thousands of gallons of water into the debris.

Close to two thousand persons were without their regular jobs to-day as a result of the fire. Most of them stood in the streets last night and watched the flames eat up building after building as a high wind carried the fire along. Those who were not on the scene last night came to look at the ruins and found their places of employment levelled and covered with ice. Four streets were completely blocked by the ruins and several others were barely passable.

Most of those who were thrown out of work were office employees and store attaches. Telephone operators reported for work as usual, for the building in which they work was saved from fire, although the church next to it was burned to the ground. The wall of the church itself fell against the telephone building, and was leaning against the neighboring structure when firemen stopped playing streams upon the church.

Interim Reports of Customs Commission Tabled in House.

WANT PROSECUTIONS.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 3 (Canadian Press).—Complete reorganisation of the customs ports of Vancouver, Regina, and Windsor and important changes in the customs staff at Toronto are recommended by the royal commission which investigated the customs department in a number of interim reports made while the commissioners were conducting their investigations. These interim reports, ten in number were tabled in the House of Commons yesterday by Premier King. In addition to making recommendations with respect to the administration of the four ports mentioned, the commissioners include, in interim report No. 10, their findings and recommendations with respect to about 100 specific cases. Distilleries, brewing companies, importers of shoes, hats, silks, dresses, salt, and other commodities, are mentioned in the long list of special cases reported on. In some cases prosecutions are recommended, while the general recommendation is that steps be taken to collect amounts due the government for non-payment of taxes. The specific cases and the findings of the commission with respect to them were, generally speaking, announced during the sittings and were reported at that time.

The commissioners include in report No. 4 recommendations for amendment to existing federal liquor legislation designed to enable the western provinces to better control the sale of intoxicating liquors within the province and to curtail the activities of the bootlegger and rum runner. Representations with respect to such legislation were presented to the commissioners at Victoria and other points in the west.

Ranks Second

The port of Toronto, the commission points out, ranks second among all the Canadian ports in point of revenue and volume of business done in connection with the department of national revenue. Investigation into the administration of this port "revealed a very unsatisfactory condition of affairs." The commissioners say that some officials examined blamed the disorganised condition to lack of proper facilities in the form of a customs house. "But," says the report, "we are convinced that this is only a minor factor in producing the present situation. The collector does not appear to have the situation in hand, and is not sufficiently in touch with the different branches of the service."

Not Satisfactory

The work of the outside appraiser at Toronto is also commented upon unfavorably in the report. "His method of examination of carload lots for the purpose of appraisal is very superficial and unsatisfactory, and as this work comprises a very large volume of business the present method of appraisal must necessarily result in great loss to the revenue," the commissioners declare. The training and qualifications of the outside appraiser at Toronto do not fit him for the post he now occupies, the report states.

"It also appears that the selection of packages for examination where the same are not numbered, is left to a carter, who may not have the slightest knowledge of what the packages contain. This procedure deprives the appraisers of any reasonable opportunity to make a proper examination and appraisal of the goods," the commission states.

It also finds that the chief appraiser of the port of Toronto at the date of the report, Oct. 11, 1927, "was lacking in qualifications for his important office. The evidence of the present occupant and of the other witnesses showed that he exercised very little supervision over the other appraisers and did not, as his duty required, give them proper instructions in the performance of their work.

"We had selected from among the chief officers of the port the cases that deserved consideration," the Commissioners said. "As the positions occupied by the officials are of a supervisory character, the effect upon the entire organization is not at all beneficial, and in the interests of efficiency a change in the positions is desirable."

Windsor.

Windsor, Ontario, requires thorough staff re-organization, the Commission states in the report dated October 11, 1927. The collector should be transferred to some "other port which he could capably administer." While this officer "appears to be thoroughly honest and conscientious in the discharge of his duties," the Commission finds that he is not possessed of "sufficient capacity" to have charge of a port suggesting so many difficulties. The administration of the Department of National Revenue at Windsor presents many complex problems and the duties of the officials are most arduous and important. The Commission finds

TOWN PLANNING ACTS FAIL FOR LACK OF HELP

Co-operation of Trained Staffs Badly Needed to Develop Movement.

VANCOUVER LEADING.

Naulon Cauchan Addresses a Meeting of Dominion Surveyors.

OTTAWA, February 3 (Canadian Press).—What is needed to bring the town planning movement in Canada abreast with that of other countries is the appointment of technical and educational staffs to make the acts workable and intelligible to the people, Naulon Cauchon, technical adviser to the city of Ottawa, told the annual meeting of the Association of Dominion Land Surveyors here yesterday.

Mr. Cauchon addressed the convention on the legislative aspects of town planning in Canada, and emphasized the fact that practically all the provinces have town planning acts on their statute books, which would appear to indicate that considerable progress is being made.

This was the second day of the convention and was featured by Mr. Cauchon's paper on town planning and papers on geodetic survey work, by F. A. McDiarmid and J. L. Rannie, of that branch.

Reasons For Failure.

In ascribing the failure of town planning to make progress in Canada commensurate with the progress in other countries to the indisposition of provincial governments to appoint competent staffs, Mr. Cauchon drew a parallel with the handling of town planning legislation in the United States. In that country, he said, as soon as an act is passed, the state appoints its staff of specialists, and by marvellous publicity methods lets the people know why they have passed the act, what it means and how socially beneficial it may be to the cities and towns concerned.

Vancouver Bright Spot.

Mr. Cauchon referred to Vancouver as the bright spot in Canadian planning and the planning of the university endowment lands there as a magnificent project which will bear comparison with any planning scheme in any part of the world. Other centres of activity were stated to be Regina, Winnipeg, Edmonton, and Saskatoon, in the west, and London, Ontario, in the east.

The Ontario Planning and Development Act was alluded to as quite obsolete, and in order to find what town-planning authority there is, it is necessary to consult a half-dozen other acts.

DECLINES TO TELL SECRETS OF CONTINENTAL

OIL INVESTIGATION.

Stewart Says He Never Made Dollar Out of Deal Personally.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3—Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the Indiana Standard Oil Co. Board, refused to tell the Senate Teapot Dome Committee yesterday what he knew about the mysterious disposition of $3,000,000 profits of the Continental Trading Company.

"I never got a dollar out of the deal personally," Stewart said. "I never gave any of the bonds to any political party, any Government official, or any official of any municipality.

"Further than that I must decline an answer."

Senator Walsh, of Montana, announced the committee would give Stewart another chance to answer today, and that if he persisted, contempt proceedings would be begun against him. He would either be taken into custody or cited to the district attorney for court contempt action, Walsh indicated.

The Continental firm made its money by buying millions of barrels of oil at $1.50 a barrel and without handling the oil selling it immediately at $1.75 a barrel. Stewart testified he had bought some of this oil from Continental, but only because he thought it was cheap. He said he was not concerned with what the Continental made out of the deal.

Stewart admitted he guaranteed the contract whereby the Continental made the $3,000,000 profits the committee is tracing, but said he had to do it to get the oil.

"It was just like guaranteeing a note after the note is paid," Stewart said.

For that reason he joined with Harry Sinclair, he said, to consummate the deal.

From these $3,000,000 profits, the committee already has learned that Sinclair sent $233,000 to former Secretary of Interior Fall, after Fall had leased Teapot Dome to Sinclair.

MAROONED FERRY VISITED BY PLANES

Three Planes Leave Cleveland To Visit Car Ferry, Maitland No. 1—No Food Needed.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Feb. 3.—(Canadian Press).—Three Ohio national guard aeroplanes hopped off from the airport here yesterday on a reconnaisance trip to the ice locked car ferry Maitland No. 1, marooned since last Friday in the ice of Lake Erie near Ashtabula with forty men aboard. The planes carried no food as radio advices from the ship have stated there were two weeks' supplies on board.

No Dirges To Be Played At Funeral; Faithful Servants Have Place of Honor

LONDON, Feb. 2 (Canadian Press).—The hymn of the church militant, "Onward Christian Soldiers," was played when the body of Field Marshal Earl Haig left Westminster Abbey today. At the request of Countess Haig there were no dirges or funeral music when the world and the British Empire paid the last tribute to the war leader.

In the procession of many titled and famous men who accompanied the body to the Abbey from St. Columba's Church, where it lay in state yesterday, were two humble and faithful servants of the Field Marshal. They had a place of honor immediately behind the gun carriage carrying the coffin. The faithful retainers were Sergeant Secrett, Haig's trusted servant for fifty years, and the old war horse which carried Haig through the campaign in the war. The horse is now in possession of King George, who loaned it to grace the last pageant in its master's honor.

GAIN CONTROL STEEL HOLDINGS

Holt-Gundy Interests Take Over British Empire Steel Corporation.

McNAUGHT AT HEAD.

MONTREAL, February 3 (Canadian Press). — No immediate announcement of plans for re-organization of the British Empire Steel Corporation will be made, it was announced here last night, and it is probable that it will be some considerable time before such plans are matured.

Following the meeting yesterday of the directors of the British Empire Steel Corporation and subsidiary companies, it was officially announced that Holt, Gundy interests had acquired control of the British Empire Steel Company and its subsidiaries.

President Wolvin announced his resignation, and was succeeded by C. R. McNaugh, of Toronto, while Sir Herbert S. Holt, J. R. Gundy, George H. Montgomery, G. H. Duncan, and W. E. Wilder became members of the board of directors.

The announcement issued following the meeting stated that Holt, Gundy & Company had acquired among other holdings 94 per cent. of the currency series of the consolidated mortgage bonds of the Dominion Iron Steel Company, Limited.

It was also announced that to ensure stability for the Dominion Steel Corporation and its chief operating subsidiaries, the British Empire Steel Corporation had created a voting trust for five years.

LEADING FINANCIER.

MONTREAL, February 3 (Canadian Press). — Sir Herbert Samuel Holt, C.E., who was yesterday added to the board of directors of the British Empire Steel Corporation and subsidiaries companies, has been identified for many years as one of the leading financial men of the Dominion. He is president of the Royal Bank of Canada, president of the Montreal Light, Heat and Power Consolidated, president of the Kaminitiquia Power Company, president of the Montreal Trust Company, and president of the Montreal Gas Company. In addition to being head of these companies, he is vice-president or director of a score or more others.

He is identified as a partner in the firm of Holt, Gundy & Company which was largely responsible for the change in the financial control of the British Empire Steel Corporation announced yesterday. The Montreal Light, Heat and Power Company has in contemplation the establishment of a coking plant in Quebec Province in which connection it is being suggested that Nova Scotia coal might be used.

RAILWAYMEN MEET ONTARIO PREMIER

Ask Increased Income Tax Exemption and Free School Books.

TORONTO, Feb. 3.—(Canadian Press).—With a dozen requests of varied nature, a deputation from the Brotherhood of Railway Engineers and the Brotherhood of Railway Conductors, Firemen, Brakemen, and Engineers, interviewed Premier G. H. Ferguson and the Cabinet of Ontario yesterday.

They requested an increase in income tax exemption for children to $500 instead of $400, expressing appreciation of the increased exemption granted last year.

Free school books for all classes up to junior fourth, or junior matriculation in high schools, were urged.

The consent of the Provincial Government to have legislation making industries otherwise within provincial jurisdiction to be brought under the federal industrial disputes act and an amendment to British North American Act, restricting the veto powers of senate, were sought. They would have the Senate veto restricted to bills passed more than twice by the House of Commons.

Firemen Save Asthma Sufferer

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—(Canadian Press).—Unable to get a physician promptly, the husband of Mrs. Adeline Scipp called the fire department pulmotor squad Wednesday night to treat a case of critical asthma. Oxygen was pumped into Mrs. Scipp's lungs for three hours, after which she was pronounced out of danger. Soon afterwards she slept for the first time in 96 hours.

BELIEVED MOTHER INSANE AT TIMES

Brother of Confessed Slayer Takes Stand in Hickman Murder Trial.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Feb. 3 (Canadian Press).—Alfred Hickman, elder brother of William Edward Hickman, confessed slayer of Marian Parker, testified at the youth's sanity trial yesterday that he at times believed their mother, Mrs. Eva Hickman, was insane.

Speaking freely and rapidly, Alfred asserted Mrs. Hickman had been worried and distraught by her burdens after the father left the family when Alfred was 13. Otto Buck of Hartford, Ark., his grandfather, was described by Alfred as very irrational.

The witness said his bother's ambition was to be a great public speaker and leader, and his defeat in a high school oratorical contest at Kansas City affected him.

Belief that his brother at the time of the Parker crime did not know the difference between right and wrong was expressed by the witness. Under cross-examination, Alfred testified his mother "tried to be good to us and worked as hard as she could."

He was followed on the witness stand by William Thomas Hickman, who, in a faltering voice, asserted that the defendant was "my son." Testifying of his wife, Eva, the witness said they lived as man and wife 17 years. His answer to the question of her sanity was, "Well, she was insane." Tears rolled down the father's face and he sobbed convulsively.

The witness said his wife many times threatened to kill him and their children, and that some nights he would wake up to find her watching him with a "knife or hatchet."

ATTEMPT TO SAVE CONDEMNED WOMAN

Friends Submitted Affidavits That Mentality is Defective to Attorney.

MOUNT VERNON, N.Y., Feb. 3.—(Canadian Press).—In an effort to save Mrs. Doris MacDonald from execution at Valleyfield, Que., friends have submitted affidavits to her attorney setting forth that she was subject to mental aberrations, it was learned yesterday.

Rajah Can't Live Without Girl, He Says

BOMBAY, India, Feb. 3.—(Canadian Press).—The vernacular newspaper Sandesh says that the former Maharajah of Indore has sent this telegram to his former secretary in regard to his intentions to marry Miss Nancy Ann Miller of Seattlie, Washn.

"Inform all if marriage to Miss Miller cannot take place, I shall die."

The paper says that the former ruler having up to the present failed to arrange for his fiancee to be initiated into Hinduism has been urged to turn to Islam.

Mrs. Graham McNamee, wife of the radio announcer, says she likes to hear her husband talk. We knew a woman would come along some day and say that.

MAJOR HAHN NEW DIRECTOR

WAR VETERAN

An announcement of interest to Canadian Radio Industry has been made in Cincinnati by Powel Crosley Junior, President of the Crosley Radio Corporation, to the effect that Major J. E. Hahn, President of the De Forest Radio Corporation, Limited of Toronto and of the Amrad Corporation of Boston, Mass. has been elected to the New Board of Directors of the Crosley Radio Corporation. Major Hahn is widely known throughout Canada not only through his position in the Radio Industry, but also because of his close connection with many other lines of industrial activity. His name is also particularly familiar to many former members of the 3rd Canadian Division C.E.F. of which he was General Staff Officer in charge of Intelligence.

At the first meeting of the new Board, Mr. Crosley reviewed the history of the Company for 1928 during which it has definitely consolidated its position of leadership in the Radio Industry of the United States. He welcomed Major Hahn to the Board and introduced him as one of the pioneer radio manufacturers of the British Empire. The remarkable success of the De Forest Radio Corporation, Limited of Canada will undoubtedly render his assistance of exceeding value to the new Board.

Obituary

DAVID HENRY GREENLY.

HAVELOCK, Feb. 3.—The funeral of the late David Henry Greenly, on Sunday afternoon, under the auspices of the Havelock Lodge A.F. & A.M. No. 435, testified to the high esteem in which the deceased was held in the community.

The service was impressive in the extreme and was held in Knox church which was filled to capacity by sorrowing friends. Rev. G. E. Lougheed conducted the service and spoke very feeling of the life and character of the deceased. Mr. Lougheed took as the text for his sermon the first three verses of the 12th chapter of Hebrews: "Wherefore seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses let us lay aside every weight and the sin which doth so easily beset us and let us run with patience the race that is set before us, looking into Jesus, the author and finisher of our faith; who for the joy that was set before Him endured the cross, despising the shame, and is set down at the right hand of the throne of God. For consider Him that endured such contradiction of sinners against Himself lest ye be wearied and faint in your minds."

The late Mr. Greenley was noted for his cheerful disposition and will be sadly missed, not only by the members of his own home circle, but by the church of which he was a faithful member and also by the people of the community where he has lived for the past eighteen years.

Interment was made in Maple Grove Cemetery. The pallbearers were Messrs. Alfred Spencer, John Hunter, William Hitchins, Russell Green, Robert Anderson, Stanley Barlow.

The floral tributes which were extremely numerous were massed upon the top of the grave in lavish profusion.

The out-of-town friends who attended the funeral were: Miss B. Blaney, Mrs. W. Baird, Mrs. A. Empringham, Messrs. George Greenley, W. Hartry, Fred Empringham, Geo. Empringham, William Blakely, W. Webb, Ross Webb, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Cleave of Toronto, Mrs. A. Greenley and Mr. Earle Greenley of Healey Falls, Messrs. A. Langford, C. McKelvey, J. Parks of Campbellford, Miss K. Payeau of Merrickville, Mr. Thomas Langford of Burk's Falls, and Mr. Joseph Langford of Magnetewan.

SHERIFF A. S. ALLAN.

GUELPH, Ont., Feb. 3.—(Canadian Press).—Sheriff A. S. Allan, 85, for the past 27 years sheriff of the County of Wellington, died here Wednesday night. He served in the Ontario Legislature from 1887 to 1894.

MRS. BERT CHEYNE.

After nearly a year and a half of illness, a highly regarded lady, Mrs. Cheyne, wife of Mr. Albert E. Cheyne, died on Friday at her home in Peterborough. Mrs. Cheyne was taken ill about seventeen months ago with a form of paralysis, from which she was unable to make any permanent improvement.

Before her marriage Marie Antoinette Neill. She was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Neill of Gore's Landing, and was born at Plainville, which was for some years the Neill family home. She married Mr. Bert Cheyne of Gore's Landing, and they made their home in that village until about five years ago, when they moved to Peterborough. Mrs. Cheyne took a prominent and very useful part in church and community life at Gore's Landing, where she and her husband were both valued and faithful workers in the former Methodist Church at that place. After their removal to Peterborough they identified themselves with Trinity United Church there, where they also gave their assistance freely and faithfully in carrying on its various activities.

Mrs. Cheyne is survived by her husband and two daughters, Rhoda and Beryl at home, and by eight sisters and a brother, Mrs. Frank Ward and Mrs. Hugh McCullough, Cobourg; Mrs. Asa Latter, Stratford; Mrs. (Dr.) T. Walden, Kilarney, Man.; Mrs. Wm. Finley, Sudbury; Miss Maud Neill, Gore's Landing; Mrs. Hiles Macdonald, Stonewall, Man.; and Mrs. John D. Fowlie, Gore's Landing, and by one brother, Thomas D. Neill, Gore's Landing.

A funeral service was held at the residence, Peterborough, on Monday and was conducted by Rev. Mr. Wren, after which the cortege left by motors for Plainville, where a service was held in the church. Interment was in the family plot in Plainville United Church. The funeral was very largely attended by relatives and by many friends, especially from Plainville and Gore's Landing, where Mrs. Cheyne resided for so many years.—Cobourg Star.

MRS. ELEAZER HUBBLE.

HAVELOCK, Feb. 3.— There was laid to rest at Maple Grove cemetery on Tuesday afternoon, one of the late Mrs. Eleazer Hubble. The the oldest residents of South Lake, deceased, whose maiden name was Eunice Post, was in her 76th year and was born in Percy township. For fifty-five years she has been a resident of South Lake. Her husband predeceased her last November, and she has been in ill health since then.

The funeral on Tuesday was held from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. O. Parcels, Alexander street, Havelock, a large number of friends gathering for the service, which was in charge of Rev. W. R. Archer. His text was Revelation, 21-25, "And the gates of it shall not be shut at all by day; for there shall be no night there." Left to mourn her loss are four daughters, Mrs. O. Parcels of town, Mrs. Walter Davis of Belmont, Misses Jennie and Lillian at home; six sons, Ray and Ross of Toronto, William of Oshawa, Harry of Galt, Bert in the west and Charles at home; four sisters, Mrs. Bayes of Toronto, Mrs. Johnston of Smith Falls, Mrs. Kelsh of Oak Lake, Mrs. Jesse Whitney of town; two brothers, Messrs. Frank and John Post of town.

The many beautiful floral tributes spoke eloquently of the love and esteem in which the deceased was held.

The pallbearers were five sons, Messrs. Ray, Ross, William, Harry and Charles Hubble, and her son-in-law, Walter Davis.

Perhaps it was the Queen of Spain!

WE asked our dietitian where the name "Spanish Bun" originated. To our surprise, she didn't know. So perhaps it was the Queen of Spain, who, when giving a party at the palace, was so intensely pleased with a cake made by Don Chef, that she instantly (being an English Princess) exclaimed: "I just adore this Spanish Bun." This, of course, is pure speculation. But there's no denying that Spanish Bun, made after the following recipe, deserves universal praise.

- ¾ cup butter
- 1½ cups brown sugar
- 3 eggs
- 2 cups flour
- 4 teaspoons Magic Baking Powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon ginger
- ½ teaspoon nutmeg
- ¾ cup milk

Sift together flour, baking powder and spices 2 or 3 times, then add sugar; melt, but do not oil, butter, add to first mixture, then beaten eggs and milk. Beat well, put in greased pan and bake 30 minutes in a moderate oven. When cool cover with icing.

QUART OF WATER CLEANS KIDNEYS

Take a Little Salts if Your Back Hurts ,or Bladder Is Troubling You.

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Eating too much rich food creates acids, which excite the kidneys. They become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the water and poisons from the blood. Then we get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys, or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin drinking a quart of water each day, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, and in a few days your kidneys may act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been [illegible] late the kidneys; also to help neutralize the acids in the system, so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby often avoiding serious kidneys complications.

that the trade in exporting liquors to the United States appears to be largely centralized at this port and its outports. The Commission says there is no justification for continuing the outport of Belle River and doubts the advisability of continuing the outport of Sandwich.

Regina.

The port of Regina has been under-manned for some time, and has not had proper and efficient inspection, the post of inspector for the district having been vacant for some time, the Commissioners state.

"In the interests of efficiency, the port should be re-organized. The staff should be strengthened, sufficient capable appraisers appointed, and a capable, energetic and efficient officer appointed to the position of collector The report points out that at Regina "there prevailed a practice which constituted an abuse of the moiety system of granting an award to the seizing officer. It appears that the seizing officer in this port invariably shared his award with the collector and his chief clerk. This was so much a custom of the port that it virtually amounted to a rule which no seizing officer would consider it wise to depart from. The reason given for the practice was that it had prevailed for a great many years, and was in vogue when the collector and the chief clerk took office. Even though such practice prevailed to the extent mentioned, we would have expected superior officers to see its impropriety and to have discouraged it rather than to have continued and participated in it."

"The inquiry into this port impresses us with the view that the collector has not sufficient grasp of the situation, nor does he give it effective supervision." The appraisal staff at Regina is found to be quite inadequate.

Temporary guards for the examination of vessels from the Orient to detect narcotic smuggling; frequent boundary patrol and re-organization of the Vancouver staff is recommended. "The position of collector at this port demands the services of a thoroughly competent and experienced official of outstanding executive ability." An increase in the preventive service in British Columbia is recommended.

Uncle Wiggily

To-day's Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE IGLOO

Uncle Wiggily ran after the Eskimo rabbit, down into a little hollow between the hills of snow and so, for a time, they were out of sight of the Bushy Bear, who was chasing them.

"Have you a knife?" asked the Eskimo rabbit of Mr. Longears.

"Yes," answered Scooter's daddy, "but I hardly think it will be safe for me to wait and tickle this Bushy Bear with my knife."

"Oh, I wasn't going to ask you to do that," chuckled the Eskimo rabbit, who, though only a boy like Scooter, seemed to know just what to do when a dangerous adventure happened. "I want your knife so we can make the igloo," he add

"There's that queer word again Daddicums," whispered Scooter. "What is an igloo and how is it going to save us from the Bear?"

"You watch and you'll see," answered the Eskimo rabbit.

Those of you who read the story last night remember how Uncle Wiggily and Scooter started out to look for adventures, and how they met the wandering Eskimo rabbit from the North Pole who had come to visit his uncle, Mr. Hare, and had lost his way. Mr. Longears offered to take Eski, as he was called for short, to his uncle's burrow and, on the way, the Bushy Bear chased the three friends.

"But we'll build an igloo and fool the bad chap!" Eski had said, though neither Uncle Wiggily nor Scooter knew what an igloo was.

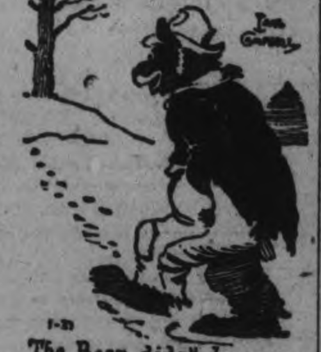
The three rabbits were down in a hollow now, out of sight of the oncoming Bear for a time, and as soon as Eski had Uncle Wiggily's knife the visiting rabbit began cutting square blocks out of the stiff snow which was all about.

"Oh, I see what you are going to do!" exclaimed Scooter when he watched Eski piling the blocks one on top of the other in a circle. "You are going to make a block house."

"That's just what an igloo is!" said Eski, cutting fast with Uncle Wiggily's knife. "An igloo is an Eskimo house made of snow blocks. It's just like the houses the seals make under the ice where they live with their little ones. The Eskimos learned how to make igloos by watching the seals."

While Eski was talking he was also cutting snow blocks and piling them up, with the help of Uncle Wiggily and Scooter. Higher and higher rose the walls of the igloo until they were above the heads of the rabbits. The top layers of snow blocks slanted inward and soon began to form a sort of curved roof. In a short time this curved roof was closed except for a small hole in the center.

Down near the ground, in the first row of snow blocks, was another opening like a front door. In fact, it was a front door to the igloo.



The Bear didn't hurry.

"If we had time," whispered Eski, looking anxiously over the hills for a sight of the Bushy Bear, "we could make a vestibule to our front door, but I guess we hadn't better wait. Come in! Pop in!"

As he spoke, over the top of a distant hill was seen the head of the Bushy Bear. He had not hurried as fast as he might, for this Bear growled to himself:

"I can easily catch those rabbits. They can't get away from me. The snow is too deep. I can take my time and catch them whenever I wish. I'll not hurry."

So the Bear didn't hurry, and this gave Eski a chance to help Uncle Wiggily and Scooter build the igloo, or snow block house. Into this house the three rabbits now crawled by way of the low, front door. They had to stoop down to get in. Once inside, Eski pulled a loose block in front of the door and partly closed it.

"Now we are safe from the Bear," said the Eskimo rabbit.

If you will take half an orange and eat the juice inside (provided mother allows it) and then if you will turn the skin upside down on the table you will see exactly how an Eskimo igloo looks. Cut a little hole in the lower edge of the half-round orange skin and make a hole in the top, and you will know just what sort of a place Uncle Wiggily, Scooter and Eski were in, hiding from the Bear.

Quite snug the three rabbits were in the igloo, and Scooter thought it was quite jolly until, all of a sudden, there was heard outside a sniffing, snuffing noise.

"Hark!" exclaimed Eski. "What's that?"

SUNDAY GOLF STARTS TROUBLE.

Playing of golf on Sunday by members of a North Wales club has started what is evidently a series of clashes over Sabbath observance laws in Wales. After being mobbed for three successive Sundays as they went to play, the golfers have issued summonses against a number of the crowd. Their enemies, however, say the players have no legal rights, for the Lord's Day Observance Act of Charles II has never been repealed, and there are similar laws still in existence, which, if enforced, would reduce the weekly rest day to a period of hardship and misery beyond the imagination of the modern youth. At Barmouth, Wales, the proprietor and customers of a cafe were arrested for being in the place on Sunday. At Pwllheli, Wales, members of the Liverpool Motor Club were summoned for holding a Sunday afternoon hill climb.

THE HONOR ROLL.

It is of the utmost importance that the committee in charge of Peterborough's war memorial should be given a complete and accurate list of the soldiers of this city and county who gave up their lives in the Great War.

The Examiner feels satisfied that the list already published, even with the addition of the names received since, is not yet complete, and therefore earnestly requests any of its readers who know of any omissions to send in the names at once.

Don't take it for granted that some one else will report the absence of these names, but telephone the information to this office yourself.

It is essential that when the monument is completed that every name should be included, and the committee can only make sure of that fact through the cooperation of the public.

Readers of The Examiner who have any information as to casualties not already listed will be contributing a very valuable service if they will send in the missing names.

Read over the lists carefully and help the committee secure an accurate record of the war dead of the city and county.

There may not be another chance to secure the desired information.

USEFUL EDUCATION.

The principal of one of Peterborough's Public Schools is teaching the pupils of his school to keep off other people's property and to avoid taking "short-cuts" even in the winter.

That is education along useful lines, and the example might be generally copied with profit to the community.

While it may be true that when the ground is frozen and covered with snow no particular harm can be done by cutting across lawns, and many of us who scupulously avoid such practices at other seasons are not so careful in the winter; the principal is wise in his warning inasmuch as carelessness at this time of the year is usually habit-forming, and children who learn to cut across lawns when there is snow on the ground are very likely to continue to do so when the protection is removed.

Many properties suffer through this tendency on the part of pedestrians to save a few steps, and the schools will be doing a very useful service if they succeed in driving home to all their pupils that it is the decent and courteous thing to respect the property rights of others.

Property owners would be glad to hear that progress is being made along this line.

FIRE PROTECTION FOR LAKEFIELD.

The Lakefield Council has appointed a committee to investigate the question of additional fire equipment and to report to the Council as soon as possible.

Our neighbors will find that it will pay to have adequate protection.

Many a ship has been spoiled for the sake of a little tar, and many a community has lost more in one bad fire than would have paid for half a dozen times as much equipment as might have made that fire impossible.

Experts, including Mr. Ritchie of the Fire Marshal's office and Fire Chief George Gimblett of the Peterborough department, have recommended to the village authorities the desirability of purchasing a triple pumper, the Peterborough Chief reporting that the pumper bought by this city paid for itself at the Lock Works fire here by enabling the brigade to save adjacent property.

The Lakefield volunteer brigade is an enthusiastic and capable body of fire fighters, who take a great interest in their duties and a pride in doing them well.

They should be encouraged by providing them with equipment that will enable them to do their best work and to satisfactorily protect the lives and property of the village.

HONESTY IN ADVERTISEMENTS.

The Retail Merchants' Association have done their business and the public a real service by the prosecution of an Ottawa man for falsely advertising a "bankrupt stock" sale. The announcement that brought this unscrupulous dealer within the attention of the law was, "Manufacturers' bankrupt sale of $75,000 stock high-grade knitted wear, bought at very low rate on the dollar."

It transpired at the Police Court trial that the manufacturers who had made the goods were not bankrupt and the value of all the goods in the store was approximately $7,000.

Such bare-faced misrepresentation, if not downright fraud, deserves the penalty the magistrate imposed. Consumers are universally susceptible to that alluring phrase, "bankrupt stock." It hints of bargains at the expense of some unknown merchant who fell by the wayside in the race for business.

This Ottawa case revealed the possibilities of crude, reckless deception, and its chief significance rests in the fact that the public's only protectors are the honest, solvent merchants who deplore such irregular and demoralizing practices, and in their own business ask only for a fair profit for the reliable services they give the public year in and year out.

Honest advertising everywhere, whether local or national, retail or otherwise, is jealous of the high place it has attained in business and other human relations. Its bedrock is confidence, and retail merchants should not be slow to defend that public sentiment against the spurious assertions of transients or others who have little to lose by exposure.

GHOST LEGENDS OF ONTARIO.

The phenomena at Frank Keating's house near Campbellford are comparatively uninteresting because of the facilities for prompt investigation. The Guelph police station spook also suffered severely when the light of publicity was directed into the shadows. The same is true of every "ghost" that has had the temerity to raise its head in the Province for many decades. The enterprising newspapers, from the standpoint of the spirits, are most ungenerous. Fortunately, however, for those who like their spirits undiluted with exposure, there still remain in Western Ontario the traditions of a few ghosts unlaid and a few mysterious happenings for which there were no contemporary explanations.

Of all the Western Ontario witches, bogies and spirits, the Baldoon ghost was the most energetic. It operated in the Selkirk of Baldoon settlement on the shores of Lake St. Clair more than a century ago. The family of a Scot named Jock McDonald was sadly tormented. Bullets kept dropping on the floor, after crashing through windows in truly disagreeable fashion; fires broke out within partitions; cattle died strangely, and so on; all the usual things an evil spirit might be expected to engineer. So Jock made a trip all the way to Long Point to consult the famous Dr. Troyer, specialist in exorcising witches. The doctor warmed up his moonstone, threw his divining-rod into gear, and polished his crystal ball. He finally asked McDonald if there was not an old grey goose in his flock at home. Yes, said Jock, there was. He had never liked it and had often tried to shoot it, but never could hit it. No wonder; an ordinary lead bullet was too soft for a tough old witch masquerading as a goose. A silver bullet must be used. So away home went Jock, and broke the grey goose's wing, first shot, with the silver bullet. Later Jock observed that an old woman neighbor was leaning on her gate-post with a broken arm. So then he knew that Dr. Troyer's divination was correct, because he had always suspected this particular old woman anyway.

The same Dr. Troyer, be it said, had supernatural troubles of his own. In spite of dozens of horseshoes nailed above his door, and a formidable steel trap in his bedroom, three feet long when open and two feet high when its jaws snapped shut on an evil spirit, the doctor's rest was much interrupted. One night the witches changed him into a horse, drove him across the lake to Dunkirk, hitched him to a post and made him eat rye-straw while they danced. His digestion was ruined for weeks.

The Baldoon and the Troyer legends smack of Scottish and Dutch folklore. Nevertheless, the Baldoon settlers really thought they had bogies to contend with; and as for Troyer, he was a well-authenticated historical character, his witchtrap actually existed, and his old house still stands. Partly for these reasons, but chiefly because no nosey and inconsiderate investigators interfered with the early performances, the ancient ghost stories have been admitted to a permanent place in Ontario's history, and there they will remain.—London Advertiser.

TEN THOUSAND DOLLARS.

Ten thousand dollars is a heavy price to pay for the carelessness or incompetence of a truck driver.

Such is the final award of a court in damages, against an Ottawa business firm whose truck ran down a bicyclist at a street crossing.

The members of the firm were not to blame for the accident, except possibly to the extent that they may not have exercised the utmost possible care in examining into the competence of the man they employed as a driver. We do not suggest they did not—but merely say that that was the only way in which they could be supposed to be involved in the matter at all.

Yet a very heavy penalty falls on the firm. And a danger of this kind threatens every business firm in the city which employs trucks or delivery cars. Every business man is similarly at the mercy of a possibly careless chauffeur or driver. The moral is plain. Better be particular about the sort of driver employed—and still more particular about the instructions given him.

Incontestably, a considerable part of danger in Ottawa in motoring is the temperament of the men—and boys—who drive delivery cars. Many of them are always in a hurry, probably without the slightest necessity. They want to go at the rate of 25 or 30 miles an hour and they mostly do it, the younger they are the worse—and cross streets mean nothing to them. It is pure folly. They might just as well go at the rate of 15 or 20 miles, and it would not hurt their employers' interests one iota. But they are not thinking of their employers' interests, they are indulging themselves in a pleasing sport.

Now, ten thousand dollars' penalty upon an employer for an accident with which he has had nothing whatever to do directly, is no joke. This verdict may reasonably suggest to any employer in Ottawa who sends out one or more delivery vans to call in his driver or drivers and inform them that if they are found travelling in the streets of Ottawa at faster than say 20 miles an hour, their services will be dispensed with. Such a little sermon will not take much time or trouble, and it may save ten thousand dollars some day.

Incidentally—even to citizens who drive their own motor cars, does not ten thousand dollars seem a considerable sum, as compared with the pleasure of driving around town faster than need be, particularly past cross streets?—Ottawa Journal.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, February 3 (Canadian Press). — Extreme dullness again marked the export trade in Canadian grain here yesterday owing to the continued indifferent attitude of foreign buyers.

A feature of the domestic grain trade was the increased demand that developed from both local and outside buyers for Argentine corn which resulted in a fairly active business. Supplies on spot have been reduced considerably, and in consequence a stronger feeling prevailed and prices were advanced 2 cents per bushel, with sales of car lots at $1.03 to $1.04 per bushel, ex-store. There was also some trading in car lots of oats for all-rail shipment from Fort William.

The trade in spring and winter wheat grades of flour continued slow, but prices were unchanged.

There was some inquiry from United States buyers for millfeed and sales of several cars of Manitoba bran were made for February shipment. The local trade was fair and prices were firm. Business in standard grades of rolled oats was quiet, but values were unchanged.

A fairly active business was done in all grades of eggs and prices were well maintained. The receipts were 1,208 cases.

The undertone to the potato market was firm under a good demand. Car lots of Prince Edward Island Green Mountains were quoted at $1.20 per bag of 90 pounds, Prince Edward Island White potatoes at $1.15 per bag of 90 pounds, New Brunswick Green Mountains at $1.10 per bag of 90 pounds in bulk, New Brunswick White potatoes at $1.05 per bag of 90 pounds in bulk, and Quebec varieties at 95c to $1.00 per bag of 90 pounds in bulk, ex-track.

The trade in imported beans was more active and the tone of the market was firm. Sales of car lots of choice white hand-picked were made at $2.90 per bushel, ex-track, and broken lots at $3.00 per bushel, ex-store.

The butter trade continued dull, and values were inclined to be easier. The receipts were 663 packages.

Little business was done in cheese, but prices were unchanged. The receipts were 41 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, February 3 (Canadian Press). — Selling of the July delivery of wheat here against simultaneous buying at Winnipeg had a bearish effect yesterday on the Chicago wheat market. There were late reports, too, of rains in domestic winter wheat territory south-west, where drought has been prevalent. Profit-taking sales on the part of holders more than wiped out gains in the corn market.

Wheat closed heavy, ½c to 1¼c net lower, corn ⅝c to 1⅛c down, oats ⅜c to ½c off, and provisions varying from ½c decline to a rise of 7 cents.

Reports that suggested a good deal of winter killing of wheat in Illinois and Indiana led to a rather sharp rally at one time yesterday in wheat prices, but the upturns failed to last in the face of selling ascribed largely to north-west account. Late weakness of the corn market contributed also to decline in wheat toward the finish.

Earlier, the dominating influence as to wheat came from unexpected lower quotations at Liverpool and from predictions of increasing Argentine wheat shipments.

According to prominent wheat trade experts here, the pressure of Argentine offerings together with slackness of consumer demand abroad is emphasized just now by a persistent liberal movement of wheat in Canada, indicating likelihood that the Canadian crop has been underestimated. Actual supplies of Canadian wheat in sight at present are figured at about 42,000,000 bushels larger than last year, with the United States wheat visible supply also 23,000,000 bushels in excess of the total a year ago.

Fortify Yourself Against Colds!

Toronto, Ont.—"I would have a spell of sore throat a couple of times every year, especially in the winter, and it would be a couple of months each time before I would fully recover and get my voice back. REGARDING RANK.

The Editor of The Examiner.
Dear sir:

I agree with 'One Who Came Back' that the ranks of men who served and died overseas should not be included on the War Memorial.

This principle of forgetting rank is recognized by the Canadian Legion, where members of all ranks from Generals to Privates are known as "Comrade."

As Comrades in arms these men fought well and died bravely, and in their memorial there should be no distinction made. No man can give more than life for his country—and that these men did give.

Yours truly,
VETERAN.

ELECTRIC LIGHT BILLS SUGGESTION.

Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—I would like to suggest, through your paper, that each time the light bills are due in the Claraday district, that the manager of the local office insert a notice in The Examiner to the effect that the light bills can be had at Claraday P.O. It will save people making unnecessary journeys to Claraday P.O., and would, I imagine, also save Mr. Grady a lot of time. Nearly everyone buys The Examiner in Claraday district, and I am sure would like the above suggestion carried out, because one trip to the P.O. would suffice, where now as many as five or six are made.—Yours faithfully,

SERVICE.

PASSING OF THE "MOONLIGHT".

Peterboro, Ont., Jan. 23, 1928.

For many years the greater part of the traffic out of Peterboro and also the traffic arriving in Peterboro has been handled by the train service known as the "Moonlight". Traffic shipped during each day was switched into this train which left every evening, except Sunday, for Port Hope. There the traffic was turned over to trains east and westbound, while the "Moonlight" picked up all Peterboro loads set out by these trains and returned, arriving back at 7.00 a.m.

Time brings its changes and the freight traffic in and out of Peterboro has increased until it was decided with the beginning of the year to make a change in the freight service.

Therefore the old "Moonlight" has passed out of existence. In its place is a freight service leaving Port Hope at 10.00 a.m., arriving at Peterboro about 2.00 p.m. Freight for local points, Fraserville, Millbrook, etc. to Port Hope, east to Trenton and west to Oshawa should be delivered at our freight shed before 2.00 p.m. as this train returns to Port Hope, leaving at 3.00 p.m.

Then instead of the "Moonlight" we have the "Highball" leaving Peterboro at 6.30 p.m. running via Lindsay and arriving at Danforth at 12.30 a.m. (midnight). This gives an improved time service for carloads destined Toronto and points west. Our shed cars for Toronto and west of that city are now placed in Toronto shed at 8.00 a.m. ready for handling when business commences each morning. Return traffic from Toronto and west thereof is handled on a sister "Highball" leaving Danforth at 12.30 a.m. arriving Peterboro at 6.30 a.m. We find this service has cut off 24 hours from former time on traffic from points west of Toronto to Peterboro.

Traffic for the east, formerly handled to Port Hope on the "Moonlight" is now moved direct to Belleville leaving here at 8.00 p.m. and is handed to manifest train No. 496 at 2.30 a.m. which train is due to arrive in Montreal at 4.00 p.m., or 20 hours from Peterboro.

This reorganization of the service will cost the people's railway more money, but it is expected the improved service will bring more traffic to our rails, and we, in common with the business men of this country, look for largely increased business in 1928.

Yours truly,
A. MacNABB,
Canadian National Agent.

CANADA AND MEXICO.

The Managing Editor:

If the religious minority of Canada consents to have a protest entered in or out of Parliament, in their name, against the infamous bandits who now govern Mexico, the case should rest on broad international precedents. Some members of Parliament from the Atlantic provinces and others from the West, when asked, said they only read the head lines in the papers and thought notoriety hunters were at the bottom of the appeal. The action taken should be amply justified by citing parallel cases or otherwise withdrawn. All parliamentarians and pastors will recall when the Sultan of Turkey began his policies of reforming the Christian Armenians by wholesale murders, extermination and terrifying edicts. The great Gladstone characterized that monarch as the "Crowned Assassin of Europe." The white light that beats on thrones and harems alike, we thus cast on the infamies of an ancient State. President Coolidge might have said the same today of the President of Mexico. If the masses of Mexico were Calvinists would he remain silent? He could find many precedents to warrant such action. Canadians will find the late Dean Harris' book (Paths And Trails In Mexico) a standard work. Few in Ontario, Toronto, St. Catharines, Windsor, Peterboro, Kingston or Ottawa, where he was personally well known, would doubt the written word of that distinguished man. Degeneracy, decadence can be seen everywhere in Mexico, and the press agencies are vile. Not many months ago a Canadian mining engineer asked an army officer what was the cause of the anti-clerical sentiment of the Mexican politicians. He replied: "The aggressive tyranny of pastors who are allowed to stay too long in one parish, commercialized evangelism, selfishness and pagan vanities." In 1924, or thereabouts, Rome sent a Legate or Nuncio to investigate conditions in Mexico, but His Excellency was promptly expelled.

There is only one creed involved, but several good people, in the Dominion, on both sides, have lashed themselves into a fury. The promise of civil and religious liberty is a cannon and precept of the B.N.A. Act and the U.S. Constitution, but Mexico ostentatiously affirms that such is also one of their ten commandments.

Immediately after the war I dared to advocate the founding of Canadian Embassy at Washington in the Review of Reviews and many of the foremost U.S. dailies. No political leader or front bencher in the House of Commons, except Hon. T. A. Crerar of Winnipeg, would countenance the propect. The war left fires burning under many flags, and the old church of the ages, knowing that uninformed democracy is a blind giant, stood guard on the side of righteousness and tranquillity. It may be different in Mexico, but I doubt it. Pensioners, place-hunters in Ottawa, and economic free thinkers, tell us day by day that nations and race have lost faith in each other since the great cataclysm 1914-18. I dissent from all such doctrines. On the contrary, there never was a time when the sanctity of contrast among nations stood higher than today. The world is run on promises. What are the bonds of Italy, France, Britain, Germany, Japan or Canada worth? They are simply promises to pay. Russian and Mexico prove the rule. Russia with more natural resources than any other power, is today offering 9 per cent interest in the U.S. for a small loan. Canada is producing probably the finest citizen in the world today, and I ask are we forsaking any of our ideals in calling attention to the last attempt at despotism in North America.

DISTRICT CHURCHES.

MADOC CHURCHES.

MADOC, February 3. — In spite of the bitterly cold day, the congregations at the churches were good, and at the various Sunday Schools also.

At Trinity Church in the morning, Rev. G. W. Rivers continued the series of sermons on the "Marks of a Christian," the third mark being Patience. "Let us run with patience the race that is set before us." Suitable hymns were sung ,and an earnest appeal made for all to enter this race.

In the evening, beginning with a short song service, the whole theme was "The Life and Hymns of Isaac Watts, the greatest of Hymn Writers and the Father of Hymnody." Basing his talk on the text, "He has put a new song in my mouth" (Psalm 40, 1), Mr. Rivers gave a most interesting review of the life of Isaac Watts, and of his best known hymns, and these were sung by the choir or by the congregation at intervals during the service, making a most impressive service of song and praise.

For the hymns, "O God, our help in ages past," "Before Jehovah's awful throne," and "Jesus shall reign where'er the sun' 'were sung, and the choir sang softly, "Not all the blood of beasts' 'and "There is a land of pure delight," and the congregation joined in singing "When I survey the wondrous cross." A well-beloved favorite of the pastor's mother was "When I can read my title clear," and was sung at his request by a member of the choir, Mr. Raymond Rivers, of Albert College, Belleville, who was home for the week-end.

"To Isaac Watts we owe the general use of hymns in the Protestant churches of to-day," said Mr. Rivers. "Over 259 hymns were written by him as weekly contributions to Sabbath worship, and in a collection of Best Hymns by Benson (32 in all), five were by Isaac Watts and three by Charles Wesley, the next most popular author."

In St. Peter's Church, morning services, Sunday School, and Bible Class were held as usual, the Sunday School reporting an attendance of 91.

The evening service began with the song service. The theme was a conscenes in the life and history of the continuation of "Famous Women of the Bible—the Beautiful Queen Esther,' 'with colored slides depicting the queen.

The choir was assisted by the quartette, Messrs. Wellman, F. Gillespie, C. I. Ross, and W. Hawthorne, who sang beautifully, "Just As I Am."

MAKING FARM LAND PROFITABLE

The profitable production of farm crops on muck land depends, in most instances, upon such factors as drainage, proper cultural methods, the use of potash and phosphorus-carrying fertilizers, and the selection of suitable crops.

Drainage of muck land, is almost always necessary for maximum crop yields. Open drains are generally used first, followed in two or three years by clay tile-drains. If the land, on account of its location, is low in value, the cost of an extensive drainage system may not be warranted.

Fall ploughing of muck land is desirable. A furrow 16 or more inches in width and about six inches in depth turned flat, is best for muck soils. A long mould-board and a rolling-coulter should be used. Muck land may be ploughed only when it is in sod, as the more compact the soil can be kept the more it will produce. For firming meadow land and for use after ploughing sod and before seeding, a heavy roller, or an ordinary one heavily weighted is recommended.

Muck soils, which are acid, require lime, except where only acid-tolerant meadow plants are grown. There are many acres of muck, however, that are not acid. Light dressings of well-rotted manure applied to muck land will give very beneficial results, but when only sufficient manure is available for the upland soils, commercial fertilizers should be applied to the muck areas. Almost all soils of a peaty or mucky character are deficient in potash and usually lacking also in phosphorus. Mixtures of 75 to 150 pounds of muriate of potash and 200 to 300 pounds of acid phosphate (superphosphate) per acre will, in almost every case, give excellent returns in crop yields. Dressings such as these may be applied to intertilled, cereal and hay crops.

Hay mixtures composed of alsike clover, timothy and red top, and other crops, such as rye, wheat, corn, mangels, flax, potatoes and sweet clover, have all been grown with success on muck soils. Meadows and pastures, however, cover a larger area of these soils in Eastern Canada than any other farm crop. Further information on the management of muck soils, and soils of other types, may be obtained by writing to the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, for a copy of Bulletin 72, new series, on "Crop Rotations and Soil Management for Eastern Canada."

Mississippi Floods Can't Be Controlled

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (Canadian Press).—Mississippi River's floods cannot be controlled, in the opinion of Capt. Hugh Crouse, of Hickman, Kentucky, veteran river boat pilot. He advocates depressed sections on the levees fifty miles apart to let the water overflow and "creep through the country, causing no trouble or danger."

"I have followed the river for 35 years and watched it, lived with it, loved it, and hated it at times", he added. "I have watched engineers try to control it and do not think it can be done."

Holt Gundy Firm Buys Besco Bonds

TORONTO, Feb. 2 (Canadian Press).—"Following recent rumors of a big merger in the iron and steel industry in Canada, it is revealed today that Holt, Gundy and Company are behind the reorganization plans of the British Empire Steel Corporation," says a Toronto paper today.

"The bond holders' committee, representing the holders of the five per cent consolidated mortgage bonds of the Dominion Iron and Steel Company, Limited, of which Richard Hoyt, of Hayden, Stone and Company is chairman announces the sale of all the bonds of the above issue deposited with the committee's depository at the close of business, January 30, 1928.

"The bonds were sold to Holt, Gundy, and Company, Limited, Montreal, for a consideration equal to 87½ per cent of the principal amount plus all interest accrued and unpaid thereon from March 1, 1926, to January 21, 1928, plus a sufficient sum to cover the expenses of the committee."

Become Directors

MONTREAL, Feb. 2 (Canadian Press).—Following a meeting of the directors of the British Empire Steel Corporation, the Dominion Steel and Iron Company, the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company, and subsidiary concerns it was officially announced that Roy M. Wolvin, President, had resigned. C. B. McNaught, Toronto, was elected to succeed Mr. Wolvin.

The following were added to the board of directors of the various companies: Sir Herbert Holt, J. H. Gundy, G. H. Duggan, W. E. Wilder, and C. H. Montgomery, K.C.

HUSBANDS' PARADISE FOUND.

What has been described as a paradise for husbands has been discovered by an expedition in the island of Nunivak, off the coast of Alaska. The island is inhabited by 170 Eskimos, and, during five months in the year, by thousands of seals. A native custom orders that, directly the seals appear, the men, who live by selling the skins, shall move into a camp known as the "Kazhoe" and live there until the last seal leaves the island. They are not allowed to see their wives or their families, and their food is brought by their wives to a central spot, where it is collected. A feast at which the bladders of all seals caught during the year are thrown back into the sea to propitiate the seal tribe ends their period of isolation.

"CYANO" FIRST NIGHT BUSY.

To all the troubles of the usual "first night" of a play, many more were added for Mrs. Robert Loraine, wife of the famous actor, at her recent debut as "Roxanne" at the opening of the revival of "Cyrano" in London. At the end of the first act the curtain refused for awhile to come down, and she had to hold her position until it did. Later in the evening, when she was acknowledging applause, the descending curtain fell on her arm and gave her a shock and a slight injury. Still later when she and her husband were on the stage alone, and he was "dying," a stage tree fell on him. He arose, pushed the tree back, and then resumed his "dying." The audience took the mishaps kindly, and declared Mrs. Loraine a good actress and a good sport.

Miss Josephine Pitison, of Brooklyn, who has won the American amateur typewriting championship, did it by averaging 117 words a minute for half an hour.

NATION MOURNS LATE COMMANDER

Impressive Ceremony Will Mark Funeral Service of Earl Haig.

LONDON, February 3 (Canadian Press). — The body of Field-Marshal Earl Haig, in a heap of poppies, reposed last night in the quiet of St. Columba's awaiting the morrow, when Great Britain will pay Imperial honors to her dead soldier chieftain in Westminster Abbey.

All day long vast crowds, even more thousands than on Wednesday, passed through St. Columba's to look for the last time upon the flag-shrouded flower-strewn coffin of Britain's hero warrior.

Despite periods of brisk rain, long columns of silent mourners stood outside the church patiently waiting for the fleeting minutes when they might pay respect to the man who led Britain's Armies through the black days of the war to ultimate victory.

Just as on Wednesday, many of the pilgrims were men who had fought and bled under his command, and as they inched along, they whispered stories of seeing or being spoken to by their leader in France and Flanders.

Nearly all who went to the church wore or carried poppies made by disabled veterans whom Earl Haig had tirelessly served since the war left them broken. These little artificial blossoms, symbolical of unselfish sacrifice and devotion, fell one by one around the casket.

Many Disappointed.

In wheeled chairs, pushed by policemen or pegging along on crutches, many of his Tommies came to say good-bye. Hundreds were turned away disappointed when the gates closed last night leaving the casket with only a small picked guard who stood about the bier in the attitude of sorrow.

To-day at 10.30 a.m., the family and friends, and especially invited guests, will participate in a memorial service in St. Columba's. Then with impressive ceremony, the body will be taken through mourning thousands to Britain's great Abbey of Remembrance for the funeral service in the heart of the Empire.

After that, the Field-Marshal will take his last journey to his beloved home in Bemersyde, Scotland, where he will rest for ever among the hills of Scotland.

Among distinguished figures who will attend the Westminster service will be Hon. P. C. Larkin, Canadian High Commissioner in London, who will represent the Dominion Government. Lieutenant-General Sir Henry Burstall, who was Inspector-General of Canadian Militia from 1920 to 1923, will represent the Canadian Expeditionary Force and the Canadian Militia.

Zam-Buk
SAVES DOCTORS' BILLS

ECZEMA ENDED

Madame A. Lariviere of Fall River, Mass., suffered with eczema for three years, and had treatment from several doctors, all of whom gave up the case. "Finally," she says, "I went to a specialist, which cost me another $20, but I was no better.

"A friend advised me to try Zam-Buk, which I did, and for which I have ever since been thankful. I very soon felt some relief, and perseverance with Zam-Buk completely rid me of the disease."

SEVERE CUT HEALED

Mr. C. Oakley of Saskatoon, who sustained a terrible cut on his leg, says: "Had I known of Zam-Buk when the accident occurred, I could have saved myself a $40 doctor's bill! A doctor sewed up the cut and attended me for five weeks, but the wound did not heal, and he advised me to go into a hospital.

"I objected, however, and used Zam-Buk instead, and in two weeks' time was back at work."

SAVED OPERATION

"Father developed a painful sore on his face," writes Miss N. Lewis of Silver Lake, Oregon. "Numerous remedies and treatment from several doctors failed to heal it, and the doctor advised an operation. Someone advised him to first try Zam-Buk. A few applications brought relief, and continued use of Zam-Buk entirely healed the sore, saving father from an operation."

Zam-Buk is best for eczema, ringworm, salt rheum, boils, pimples, ulcers, abscesses, blood-poisoning, piles, cuts, bruises, burns and scalds. All dealers 50c box.

THE TRUTH ABOUT BRAN AND CONSTIPATION

Thousands of people eat bran regularly for the healthful roughage it provides. It is a splendid practice. But be sure you are really getting all the roughage you need when you eat bran. Doctors say it takes 100% bran to relieve constipation. Part-bran products, at best, can only accomplish part-way results. That is why they fail!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is 100% bran. It furnishes roughage in effective quantities—and in the most effective form: cooked and krumbled. Just two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal—are guaranteed to relieve constipation.

You'll like the flavor and crispness of ALL-BRAN. Serve with milk or cream. Delicious with fruits or honey added. Mix with other cereals. Sprinkle into soups. Use in cooking. Sold by all grocers. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

It's the money you spend wisely that counts

Someone has said that a rich man has more fun keeping a budget than a man of moderate means. Because the money he saves is tangible, he can see it and invest it, and put it to work. Be that as it may, a budget is an invaluable help to anyone.

A budget helps you keep the right proportions between expenses, prevents you from spending more than is best for food and rent, or crimping more than you should on entertainment and luxury. But a budget is not a reason for getting cheap things, things in which you forfeit quality by attempting to save on price. A budget says to you: "Here is the amount of money you should spend for this. Spend all of it, but don't spend more." And it is up to you to get the best that can be got for that amount.

The person who spends his money wisely, who likes to get the utmost for it, always finds out from advertisements how he can spend it to the best advantage.

It is surprising how much more wisely you can buy if you make it a habit to read advertising. A little more value here . . . . a little better workmanship there . . . in this thing slightly more durability . . . that product perhaps a bit finer. And every cent of money you spend for advertised merchandise will bring you greater comfort, a higher quality of goods, and a standard of excellence that is nationally recognized.

It certainly pays to read the advertisements

GENERAL CONTEST RULES

How to Enter

1. The contest is open to everyone except:
   (a) Employees of The Peterborough Examiner, Ltd., or their immediate family.
   (b) Prize-winners in any similar contest who have won any of the major prizes.

2. Additional puzzle-charts may be obtained free by writing to the Contest Department or by calling at The Examiner Office.

3. Every figure in the puzzle is complete and entirely free from tricks or illusions. If any contestant is in doubt about any of the figures, send in the chart with the figures marked and the Contest Department will gladly give a ruling on the figure.

4. When you have solved the puzzle, fill in completely the solution blank, which must be accompanied by a remittance for at least a six months' subscription at the regular rates to The Evening Examiner. (See subscription rates.) See also the prize-list and note how the value of your prize is increased by paying for a year's subscription and by getting subscriptions from your friends. Renewal subscriptions, or subscriptions in arrears, if paid during contest period, count the same as new subscriptions and will be extended from the present expiry date, but not more than $15.00 will be received on any one solution or subscription.

5. In order that subscribers who pay carrier boys weekly may participate in this contest, books of tickets containing 22 weekly tickets for $3.00, or 44 for $6.00, will be sold. These remittances must be made direct to the Contest Department with your solution. Otherwise it cannot be registered. Each ticket is valued at 15c and will be redeemed from the carrier boy at that price.

6. Readers who give their subscription to some other contestant and later want to send in an answer themselves, may do so providing they fill in the coupon, giving the name of the person they paid their subscription to and the amount paid. No further payment is necessary.

7. The contest will close on March 15, 1928, but send in your solution as soon as possible as we are offering special prizes for the first correct solutions. (See full details under "Special Prizes.") There is nothing gained by holding back your answer once you have solved the puzzle, as a contestant may make several remittances on any answer sent in while the contest lasts up to a total amount of $15.00.

8. Contestants may send in a different answer to the puzzle with each remittance, but if one of your answers is correct the money sent in on your other answers will not increase the total value of your prize, and not more than one regular prize will be paid to one family.

9. Everyone has an equal chance. You can win the first prize and extra cash for only a six months' subscription, but note how the value of the first five prizes increases if you send in more money. Aim to win the maximum Grand Prize. The Evening Examiner is now recognized as the leading daily in Peterborough district and surrounding counties and no difficulty should be found in getting your friends or neighbors to subscribe for it.

10. Contestants who remit by mail or pay at the office should see that these remittances and answers are made on a proper contest coupon to ensure them reaching the Contest Department.

11. If the correct answer is not sent in by any contestant the prizes will be awarded for the nearest correct solutions. In the event of a tie a second puzzle will be presented which will be as practicable and solvable as the first. Only those tieing will be permitted to solve the second puzzle. Should two or more persons be tied in the second puzzle the prizes will be divided equally among those tieing. No cash will be accepted on the second puzzle.

12. In entering the contest, contestants agree to abide by the rules of the contest and to accept the decision of the judges as final. The Contest Department reserve the right to alter and amend its rules if necessary for the protection of contestants or The Peterborough Examiner. It also reserves the right to refund any subscriptions and to disqualify any contestants whom they consider should not be in the contest. Contestants are assured of the same impartial treatment which characterizes The Examiner in all its dealings.

THE PROBLEM

The problem is to add together all the figures shown above, which, when added together, represent the total number of tons that the Lift Lock weighs.

The puzzle is entirely free from tricks or illusions, every figure is complete and stands alone. The figures range from two to nine. There are no ones (1) or ciphers (0) in the puzzle. The sixes are curved, while the stem of the nines are straight.

We wish it clearly understood that every figure can be plainly seen. There is nothing hidden in the trees or shadows, but the problem of adding these is a real test of accuracy.

Remember, each figure is added separately. For example, 9777 is counted 9 plus 7 plus 7 plus 7, or, in other words, simply add them as if each figure stood one above the other in a single column.

REMEMBER, NO ONE KNOWS THE CORRECT ANSWER UNTIL THE CONTEST CLOSES

To ensure this we had Mr. E. M. Elliott, County Treasurer, and Mr. Frank Adams, City Treasurer, each erase one or more figures from the original drawing, which they carefully noted and sealed in an envelope and gave to the manager of the Royal Bank for safe keeping until the contest closes.

In order to qualify for this prize the contestant must send in at least $9.00 worth of subscriptions. If the winning contestant does not qualify for the above prize the contestant will then get

FIRST PRIZE (Total Value, $800.00)—Choice of any Car, value $720.00, plus $10.00 for every dollar sent in up to less than $9.00; if contestant sends $9.00 they qualify for Grand Prize.

SECOND PRIZE (Total Value, $400.00)—Being choice of Radio Set or Victrola, any make up to value of $200.00, and $80.00 cash, plus $8.00 for every dollar sent in up to $15.00.

THIRD PRIZE (Total Value, $175.00)—Being $100.00 each, plus $5.00 cash for every $1.00 set in up to $15.00.

FOURTH PRIZE (Total Value, $95.00)—Being $50.00 in cash, plus $3.00 cash for every $1.00 sent in up to $15.00.

FIFTH PRIZE (Total Value, $60.00)—Being $30.00 in cash, plus $2.00 cash for every $1.00 sent in up to $15.00.

SIXTH TO FIFTEENTH PRIZES—$20.00 in cash each.

SIXTEENTH TO TWENTY-FIFTH PRIZES—$10.00 in cash each.

TWENTY-SIXTH TO FIFTIETH PRIZES—$5.00 in cash each.

SPECIAL PRIZES—While the contest will not close until March 15, we are offering Five Special Prizes for the first five correct, or nearest correct, solutions secured by us. The prizes will be: First Prize, $8.00; Second Prize, $7.00; Third Prize, $5.00; Fourth Prize, $3.00; Fifth Prize, $2.00.

A TIP ON HOW TO WIN

Take a pencil and put down the numbers as you stroke them out, then add them up. Some suggest that you cut the chart into dozens of pieces, then check them from all sides; or if you wish, try blotting them out with colored ink or pencil. Others think the best way is to pick out all the twos, threes, fours, etc. Any they miss the first time they find later. Or suppose you try taking a combination of figures which, when added together, makes a total of ten. For example, 5 and 3 and 2 make 10. Tens are not only easily added together, but there is less danger of making a mistake.

Important Points to Remember

1. Everyone has the same opportunity. A person sending in only $3.00 in subscriptions has the same chance of winning the first prize as a person sending in more money. The advantage of sending in more money is to increase the value of the first five prizes.

2. This is a contest for Central Ontario district, or to any subscriber of The Examiner, no matter where he resides.

3. Don't forget to answer all the necessary questions on the solution blank.

4. If you collect a subscription from a friend or neighbour, that person can also submit an answer to the puzzle without further payment.

THE JUDGES

In order that each Contestant shall have fair and impartial treatment, we have arranged with Mr. Roland Denne, Mayor of the City and Alderman Nagel Phelan to act as judges for the contest. Any complaints in this connection will be referred to these judges whose decision will be absolutely final.

Corn Price Higher; Wheat Opens Weaker

CHICAGO, Feb. 3. — (Canadian Press.)—Corn scored a fresh advance in price early to-day, despite initial downturns and notwithstanding the weakness of wheat. Country offerings and consignments of corn were again small and further corn export business was reported, whereas Argentine and Australian wheat shipments were heavy. Starting unchanged to ½c. lower, corn soon rose all around to above yesterday's finish. Wheat opened 1-8 to 5-8c. off and held near to the initial range. Oats were firmer. Provisions declined.

Seagrams Is Strong Spot; Steel Shares In Demand

TORONTO, Feb. 3 (Canadian Press).—Seagrams and a couple of the steel issues were about the only strong spots in an irregular list on the Toronto Stock Exchange, when in lighter trading most stocks were stationary in price. Seagrams recovered 1¾ at 25¼, while Steel of Canada sold up two at 189½.. British Empire Steel Common firmed fractionally at 4½, though the Second Preferred eased to 9. International Nickel at 92½, Page Hersey at 100, Brompton at 66½, Carlings at 37, and Walkers at 61¼ were all down from one to two points. Massey Harris eased fractionally at 41¾, and Northern Bakeries lost slightly. The oils were generally steady, with British American unchanged at 37½ and Imperial fractionally higher at 60 5-8.

Mine Market Firmer, Kirkland Moves Up

TORONTO, Feb. 3 (Canadian Press).—The selling pressure on the Kirkland Lake issues eased off on the Standard Mining Exchange today and the whole market displayed a firmer tone. Kirkland Lake Gold held at the two dollar mark, slightly above yesterday's close. Teck Hughes closed the morning at 9.00 bid, up ten, and Wright Hargraves was steady around 5.60. Bidgood was slightly firmer at 77 and Barry Hollinger advanced five at 78. Lake Shore, however, finished the morning a little lower at 24.50. Gold Hill recovered five at 25 from yesterday's slump. Pend O'Reille was the strongest feature of the morning with an advance of over a dollar at 9.35. Sudbury Basin was up 35 at 12.25. Hudson Bay Smelting suffered a loss of 85 at 19.35.

Stock Prices Break But Rally Quickly

NEW YORK Feb. 3. — Canadian Press. — Stock prices broke sharply at the opening of to-day's stock market on selling inspired by an unexpected increase in the New York Federal Reserve Bank re-discount rate, and then rallied in sensational fashion. Early losses of one to six points were materially reduced or wiped out, and in many cases supplemented by gains, some of which ran to nearly nine points. Trading was unusually heavy at the opening but turned dull on the rally.

Early eslling was based on the belief that the Federal Reserve Banks' action was intended as an official warning against the further expansion of speculative credit. The reaction was an orderly one and there were no wide open breaks. The lowering of the renewal rate on call money from 4½ to 4¼ per cent. which erved to dispel fears of an immediate credit stringency started a covering movement.

HU. HEY JENNINGS IS BURIED TO-DAY

Hundreds Follow Famous Baseball Player's Body To Grave.

SCRANTON, Pa., Feb. 3 (Canadian Press).—Hughey Jennings, famous baseball player and manager, was buried to-day. The former Detroit manager and New York Giants' coach, who died on Wednesday at his home here, was laid in St. Catherines Cemetery at Moscow, a quaint village at the foot of the Pocono Mountains, near where he spent two years trying to regain his shattered health. Hundreds of persons from all walks of life were among the throng of mourners at the funeral, which moved from Jennings' home to St. Peter's Cathedral, where the solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated.

PARKING FORBIDDEN BEFORE ENTRANCES

Police Will Enforce Rule Regarding Theatre and Other Doors.

Recently many motorists have insisted on parking their cars in front of the entrances to theatres, hotels, and other places of amusement. This practice is strictly against a city bylaw, and parking in front of theatres can also be punished under the Highway Traffic Act, Chief Newhall told The Examiner this morning. The local police will make a careful check-up on this practice, and put an end to the unlawful parking, he added.

MODEL VILLAGE

animity, needless to say, was never reached.

"Some interesting comparisons of land values may be made. Land that was worth but five pounds, in three years reached a value of thirty-five pounds. Housed under ideal conditions there are some two thousand people.

It is estimated that within the first twenty years, it will be worth one million pounds, and the trustees are empowered to use the profits for the purpose of creating similar villages within the British Isles.

The guest of Frank Stinson, Mr. McKeen also spoke briefly on his association with the Chamber of Commerce, and the meeting closed with the singing of O. Canada.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

Racked by Rheumatism

"Fruit-a-tives" Brought Speedy Relief.

MR. S. FLOYD.

Read this honest letter:

Nanaimo, B.C.—"I had been suffering with rheumatic pains in my shoulders. Decided to try "Fruit-a-tives.' ' In a very short while I had relief. Also had a touch of bleeding piles, "Fruit-a-tives" worked like a charm. I think they are really marvellous." —Mr. S. Floyd.

"Fruita-tives" is composed of fresh fruit juices intensified and combined with tonics. The easy, natural action corrects constipation, stomach, kidney and bladder troubles, rids the system of poisons, purifies the blood, and banishes rheumatism and kindred pains. "Fruit-atives" is sold everywhere, 25c and 50c a box. Test it—ao-day.

GRADS PLAYING CHARITY GAME

Will Give Exhibition at Antwerp Rink This Evening.

REGULARS VS. SUBS.

ANTWERP, Belgium, February 3 (Canadian Press Cable). — Varsity Grads of Toronto, Canadian Olympic hockey team, are now in excellent condition, and to-night they stage an exhibition game among themselves, Regulars against Yannigans, for the benefit of charity. P. J. Mulqueen, of the Canadian Olympic Committee, who is now on his way ahead of the team to St. Moritz, Switzerland, where the winter sports are to be held, reports that the Grads, after the enforced inactivity on ship board, resumed practice here "like wild men."

FORWARD MOVEMENT IS BEING PROMOTED

Chamber of Commerce Engages Experts For the Campaign.

Announcement was made Monday at the Rotary Club meeting by President G. A. Gillespie of the Chamber of Commerce; that the organization was planning a Peterborough Forward Movement" for its revamping and adequate financing.

Assistance in developing this work has been secured through the American City Bureau an organization of experts in community development; that has conducted twenty-two campaigns in Canada in recent years.

This organization has assigned Harry R. McKeen as campaign manager andAlexander Karr as educational director to the task at Peterborough. Mr. Karr will be here ten days and hopes to have an opportunity to address every social, luncheon, educational and fraternal club in the city. His specialty is the problems of merchandizing and salesmanship, and, while here, hopes to have opportunity to address merchants and clerks in series of addresses at such times as may best suit their convenience. There will be no charge for this service, nor will money be raised at any of the meetings. Mr. McKeen, who spoke briefly at the Rotary Meeting on Monday night, will be available for addresses throughout the city during the month of February.

Mr. McKeen recently spoke to 3,500 people at Greenfield, Mass., and 4,300 at Dubuque, Iowa. Mr. Karr comes here from Lansing, Michigan, where his work is very highly commended by the merchants. Should these men's services be desired, the Chamber of Commerce will gladly assign them.

HOME AND SCHOOL OFFICERS CHOSEN

Mrs. G. Kirkwood President of Prince of Wales'

The regular monthly meeting of the Prince of Wales Home and School Association was held Wednesday afternoon in the Kindergarten room with a good attendance. The president, Mrs. G. Worboy was in the chair. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President, Mrs. G. Kirkwood, 1st vice-president, Mrs. G. Worboy; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Fred Elliott; secretary, Mrs. H. Beatty treasurer, Mrs. George Davis. Convenors of Committees: Social, Mrs. A. McWilliams; Program, Mrs. Harold Wilson; Membership, Mrs. Fred Pearson; Telephone, Mrs. C. Wiley; Relief, Miss E. Huffman. Repreesntative to the Local Council of Women, Mrs. A. McWilliams.

After the business session was concluded, dainty refreshments were served and a musical programme given, consisting of a vocal solo by Marion Ralston, a piano solo by Margaret Parker, and a recitation by Gladys Stenson. Miss L. Wilson took the chair for the election of officers.

GRANDFATHERS' EVENING

MILLBROOK, February 3. — The "Grandfathers' Evening" held in the Town Hall on Tuesday, January 31, under the auspices of the Women's Institute, proved a unique and most enjoyable event, with a large gathering in attendance.

The chairman was L. C. Russell, who welcomed the guests on behalf of the Institute, and spoke appreciatively of the good which this organization is accomplishing in the community. The new piano in the Town Hall, the flowers planted and cared for round the Soldiers' Memorial, the sign boards at all the main roads leading into the village, were mentioned as benefactions which the Institute has sponsored, and much-needed improvements to the stage and its furnishings in the Town Hall were referred to as a responsibility which the local branch expects to undertake within the next few months.

Guests had been requested to dress in old-time costumes, and quite a percentage did so, Mrs. J. McBride, in quaint grandmother's attire, with small bonnet tied under her chin, Paisley shawl, and big, white apron, collecting the fine imposed from those who had failed to comply with the condition mentioned.

Tight-fitting waists and basques, long skirts ruffled and flounced, hats feather-trimmed or flower-laden, cameo pins, curls, and "waterfalls," silken shawls, bustles and hoop skirts, were all in evidence when about thirty of the Institute members were massed upon the platform for the opening Ode, Mrs. R. J. McKnight presiding at the piano.

The West-End Minstrels, Messrs. J. W. Hutchison, H. Hunter, Piercey Pitt, and George Clarke with banjo, guitar, mouth organ, and accordion, provided a number of selections during the evening, and among the grandfathers who appeared in the program were Grandfather Thomas Aiken, who gave a reading, "Just Fifty Years Ago"; Grandfather Charles Thorndyke and son, who sang, "There's a Trick in Pickin' a Chick-Chick-Chicken"; and Grandfather T. H. Harkness, who, with Minstrel P. Pitt, contributed a mouth organ selection; Grandfather Thorndyke also sang two old-time songs, "Sweet Rosy O'Grady," and "Mr. Dooley," the latter as encore.

Dressed in blue, with white lace fichus, and looking quite dainty and attractive, Misses Ruth Thorndyke and Jean Stinson sang, "Two Little Girls in Blue," and the song, "In Berry-Pickin' Time," by Joe Thorndyke and Dalton Brown, the former with overalls and big straw hat, and the latter in gingham dress and sunbonnet, while each carried a berry pail, brought forth an insistent demand for a repetition of the character song.

Little Lloyd McMahon won popular favor with his number, "My Grandfather's Girl," giving "I Won't Tell Who," as an encore; and the reading, "Grandfather's Chair," by Mrs. F. Smith, with the Institute members grouped about her and coming in with a singing refrain after each stanza, was another favorite selection with the audience. Mrs. Hilliard Lang had a most appropriate reading in "The Settler's Story," and the round, "Sweetly Brays the Donkey," by the Institute members, was well received, the encore being "My Bonnie Lies Over the Ocean."

A handsome quilt which had been made by the Institute members during the summer months was displayed by Mrs. Thomas Harkness and Mrs. R. Brown, Mr. G. B. Winslow of Winnipeg, drawing the ticket from the box held by Mrs. H. J. Armstrong. The lucky number was 88, Mrs. F. P. Stinson being the holder and having the good fortune to carry off the quilt.

A "grand promenade" was arranged as the next feature, when the floor of the hall had been cleared, music being furnished for this, and the old-fashioned dances which followed by Messrs. M. Todd, W. Todd, J. Rusk, G. Rusk, and C. Thorndyke. The judges for the costumes were: Mrs. E. Armstrong, Mrs. G. B. Winslow (Winnipeg), and Mrs. F. Cann (Peterborough). They evidently had some difficulty in arriving at a decision; the following couples being asked to promenade before the final announcement was made: Mr. and Mrs. Chester Fee, Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Morton, Mr. and Mrs. C. Thorndyke, Mr. and Mrs. Offa Williamson, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dawson, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Argue, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Harkness, Mr. and Mrs. S. Pritchard, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Larmer.

The award was: Best Dressed Couple, Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Morton (bride and groom); Best Dressed Lady, Miss Maud Finnimore (lady of Victorian Era); Best Dressed gentleman, Mr. C. Thorndyke (costume of the Dickens' character type); Oldest Grandfather present, Mr. Arthur McMahon; Youngest Grandfather present, Mr. Wilbert Larmer.

L. S. Morton acted as floor-manager, and a feature of the evening which afforded much entertainment was the response of some of the grandfathers present to the request for a "step dance," Messrs. J. H. Paul, Wentworth Gray, and A. McMahon being among the number; Mr. Matt Todd also complied when his name was called.

Supper was served about midnight, and dancing resumed for some time afterward, so that it was well into the morning hours before the happy gathering was finally brought to a conclusion.

The Institute is to be congratulated upon the unique and very pleasant evening it provided for its friends in the community, and the surrounding district. The committee in charge was Mrs. Charles Thorndyke, president; Mrs. William H. Armstrong, secretary, and Mrs. Fred Smith.

MILLBROOK GIRL BADLY BURNED

Lillian Foottit, 2, Lights Matches While Not Watched.

CLOTHING CATCHES FIRE.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 3.—A serious accident occurred on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Footit, West Street, when their only child, Lillian, aged between two and three years, secured some matches when no one happened to be watching, and set her clothing on fire.

The little girl was badly burned about the face and hands before her mother succeeded in extinguishing the flames. Dr. H. A. Turner gave the necessary medical attention, and while the injuries are of a most painful nature, recovery is assured.

CHURCH REPORTS SHOW PROGRESS

Annual Meeting Held of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church at Norwood.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 3.—The annual congregation meeting of the Meyersburg United church was held on Friday evening, January 20th. The Reverend D. R. Clarke presided as chairman during the meeting. The church secretary, Mr. Merrills, acted as secretary for the meeting. The reports presented showed a successful year for 1927. Immediately after these had been received, the election of officers for 1928 followed.

The session for 1928 will be constituted by Messrs. B. Hopps, J. Bertrand, J. Ibey, Mrs. Leslie Finlay, Miss Pomeroy and Mrs. Albert Bertrand. The stewards for the the present year will be Messrs. J. Clarke, R. Nelson, J. Jones, W. Scott, R. Bateson and A. Merrils.

The annual meeting of the Ladies Aid of Meyersburg United church was held in the church hall on Friday afternoon, January 27, 1928. The reports for the past year were received and officers for the present year elected. President, Mrs. A. Bertrand; 1st vice president, Mrs. J. Clarke; 2nd vice president, Mrs. Cook; secretary, Miss A. Pomeroy; treasurer, Mrs. Harry Jacques; organist, Mrs. Robert Nelson; social committee, Mrs. J. Bertrand, Mrs. R. Bateson, Mrs. B. Hopps and Mrs. S. Elliso.

The next function of the society will take place Friday evening, February 17th, and will take the form of a Valentine social. This will be open to any who wish to attend.

Legion Notes

The sudden death of the Grand President of the British Empire League has cast a pall of sorrow and deep regret upon the entire Empire. All ranks who served under Field Marshal Earl Haig had every reason to revere his memory as an officer, gentleman, a patriot and one of the best of friends in peace as well as in war time. Members of the Legion and all ex-service men will ever recall his stand for unity and its remarkable benevolent consequences in all British countries.

The Dominion President, General Sir Percy Lake, K.C.B., K.C.M.G., authorizes and asks all commands, branches and auxiliaries to take everywhere appropriate action to demonstrate sorrow on this sad occasion. He specially mentions memorial services and trusts that these will be held throughout the Dominion by the local branches of the Canadian Legion. He urges that every possible endeavor be made to have the service held at every point where a branch of the Legion exists and authorizes all memorial services be held on Sunday, February 12, 1928.

General Sir Percy Lake further enjoins that the public and, particularly other organizations, military and otherwise, be invited to take part in this service.

A special meeting of the executive committee of the local branch of the Canadian Legion will be held on Friday evening, February 3rd, to make arrangements for the occasion. The meeting will be at 7.30 p.m. sharp. All members please take note.

The sympathies of all Legionnaires and ex-service men are extended to Comrade W. Stanley and family in the loss they have sustained by the death of a devoted wife and mother. Mrs. Stanley was vice president of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion of the local branch, and was always a consistent worker in the interest of ex-service men and their dependents. She will be sadly missed by all.

Wednesday night the regular euchre and dance was held as usual. A feature of the evening was the dance which took place after the euchre game was completed. A new attraction was the change of orchestra. Logan's Merrymakers were much in evidence, and the music supplied was of the best. The management has decided to continue the dances having arranged for the benefit of the patrons to engage only the best of musical talent for the remainder of the season.

Further announcements of the memorial service and other Legion activities will be made later.

DUBLIN HAS MUCH DISTRESS

To relieve the distress caused by the great number of unemployed in the city, Dublin, Ireland, has voted $50,000. A road extension scheme has given work to 325, but neither money nor employment is available to absorb all unemployment. Those with dependents are being given first consideration.

MINISTER GIVES FAREWELL TALK

Rev. G. E. Lougheed Leaves Knox Church, Havelock, This Week.

GOES TO HARRINGTON

HAVELOCK, Feb. 3.—On Sunday evening Rev. G. E. Lougheed, B.A., minister of Knox Presbyterian church preached his farewell sermon to a large congregation. Mr. Lougheed, who leaves this week to enter upon his new duties in the Master's vineyard at Harrington, gave a very appropriate address on this occasion, taking as his text 1 Corinthians, 16, verse 13, "Watch ye, stand fast in the faith, quit you like men, be strong."

These words, written by the apostle Paul, to the Church at Corinth, might be called "orders for soldiers." Disorders had arisen in the church and Paul gave them this friendly admonition to watch and stand fast in the faith. Christianity is no dying faith. It is splendidly vital. It faces dangers, but they are born of its strength, and the Christian life is not a sham battle, but a real battle.

Mr. Lougheed divided the text into four parts, and dealt first with the words "Watch ye" which he said were a frequent command of Jesus. Watch in every way, words, acts and motives. The greatest foe of Christianity is not atheism, infidelity, heathenism, but indifference and men today think more of business and pleasure than of fellowship. The person who misplaces the emphasis of life is the worst cheated person in the community. Emphasis should be placed on the Bible, love and faith.

Taking the words "Stand fast in the faith" as the second division of the text, the speaker said they did not mean to stand at ease in the Christian warfare "Watch ye" means to maintain a defensive practical life and "stand fast" to maintain a defensive doctrinal life. The faith delivered to the saints is faith in God as Father, in Jesus Christ as Saviour, the Holy Spirit as Sanctifier, to believe in ruin by the Fall, redemption by Jesus Christ and regeneration by the Holy Spirit.

Thirdly, "Quit you like men." This means an aggressive practical Christian life or in other words, "Forward"—"Quick March," "Charge!" "What is Christian manliness?" he asked. Not physical size, nor physical courage—not great dignity nor intellectual greatness, but it is heart power and conscience power. It is courage of duty to God and man.

Fourth, "Be strong" to lay hold fast and be strong for God, right and truth. Not outward might, but inward power; not outward conquests but inward strength.

In closing, Mr. Lougheed said, "Let this country, this church, go in for the strong men, strong in wisdom, grace faith and prayer.

"A truthful soul, a loving mind
Full of affection for its kind:
A spirit firm, erect and free,
That never basely bends the knee;
That will not bear a feather's weight
Of slavery's chain for small or great;
That truly speaks from God within;
That never makes a league with sin;
That snaps the fetters despots make,
And loves the truth for its own sake;
That worships God and Him alone,
And bows no more than at His throne
And trembles at no tyrant's nod;
A soul that fears no one but God,
And thus can smile at curse or ban;
This is the soul that makes the man."

DISTRICT CHURCHES.

BRIDGENORTH UNITED

In the Bridgenorth United Church on Sunday evening, the pastor, Rev. J. V. McNeely, preached from the following text, "Let him that is without sin, cast the first stone," John 8-7.

Mr. McNeely said, "The words of the text were those spoken by Jesus when the woman taken in adultery was brought before Him. The scribes and Pharisees hoped by this act of judgment to entangle Christ. If Jeuss had said 'No' to their query, "shall we stone her?' He would have contradicted the law of Moses. If he had said 'Yes,' He would have contradicted the Roman law. But Jesus lifted the whole matter out of its legalistic setting, and brought the indictment upon the accusers, rather than the accused, 'Let him that is without sin cast the first stone.'

"The Christ we forget, is the Christ before whom we stand with all our Pharisaical attitude of mind; we, who claim Him for our Master, yet substitute ourselves in the position of judge. The Christ we forget' is the title of a book, but I have not read it, nor do I know precisely what the author had in mind, but I have a meaning, which I would like the title to convey, viz., it is a distinction between the Christ of our profession and the Christ which others see, and fail to see in us. To assent to the Christ of the Bible, and to declare ourselves religious is one thing; while to incarnate the principles of Christ in our lives is quite another thing.

"The Christ we remember is often traditional, a matter of the Bible. The Christ we forget is that living Companion who enters our common life. The Christ we remember is often that comforting Spirit that comes to us in our dark moments, the Christ we forget is the militant Jesus, who wells up in us as living, dynamic, revolutionizing our stagnant self-satisfaction into spiritual graces that give to men around us faith in a life to be lived. We remember the Christ that is easy to assimilate, and it is well we should love the Man of Galilee, who went about doing good. But how quickly we can forget that man's principle of love toward our enemies when war is upon us.

"To agree with the religion of Jesus on paper is one thing; but when you have to take that beautiful theory into the laboratory and put it into the test-tubes of daily experience and boil it in the heat of business frailty and passions—that is quite another matter. To love one's enemies, especially when they are on the other side of the earth may be beautiful and admittedly correct, but 'to pray for them that despitefully use you and persecute you' in the laboratory of our calendar days is to call into action the Christ that men like to forget. We remember what we like, we forget what we dislike. We all remember John 3-16, and John, chapter 14, for they are soothing, but Christ's so-called hard sayings, we would rather forget.

"Jesus upheld the law, 'Let him cast a stone.' But when He said, 'who is without sin' he disarmed everyone, except Himself, who would apply the law. The Christ we forget is the Christ who does not purpose to condemn anyone, no matter how well deserved by judges who accuse, because of sins in their own hearts. Jesus was the only one who could take up the stone. He is the Christ we profess, but the Christ we forget. Jesus aroused in them the consciousness of their own sin, and they could not stand before him for fear He would raise His eyes again. 'Where are those accusers,' He asked the woman. They had slunk away. The record of the church in a section of her history, portrays her lack of touch with human life. She believed the Book, but forgot the Christ way.

"Then came the age of monasticism. The church adopted her highest ideal, a complete retirement from the world. The hermit, the monk, the recluse—these were her choicest patterns. Those, who, under the guidance of Hallam and Gibbon, have studied the history of those ages, know how pitifully feeble the church became during that extraordinary phase of her career. In the first three centuries, the heroic devotion of the individual Christians, and the missionary activity of the church, had spread the faith to the utmost borders of the then known world. But with the advent of the cloistial spirit, a fatal languor settled upon the church, and for nearly one thousand years stagnation disfigured almost every aspect of her existence.

"But in the sixteenth century the church awoke to a sense of her torpid and impotent condition. The eyes of men were opened to the paralyzing effects of the monastic systems. They recognized that, even if the convents were all they were designed to be, their existence, to quote the words of Hallam—'was deeply injurious to the general morals of manhood.'

"This then, is the only conclusion I can reach; we must form our judgments in Christ's company—conclusions reached outside of Him are warped. Beware, friend, in thy slanderous words are seen the evil of thy life. Thou canst not stand in the presence of Christ.

"The next time you condemn—and condemnation lies not only in the tongue, but in the heart, I hope these words may come—'Let him that is without sin cast the first stone'."

BASKET SOCIAL GREAT SUCCESS

Omemee L.O.L. Holds Happy Function in Coronation Hall.

DANCE FOLLOWS

OMEMEE, Feb. 3.—The Basket Social and Dance held on Friday evening in Coronation Hall, under the auspices of the Orange Hall committee of the local lodge was one of the most successful events of the season, not only in attendance, but in general enjoyment. The ever-popular auctioneer William Howden, with keen wit auctioned off in short time the numerous baskets which were of varied design and color; aeroplanes vied with automobiles and stars, but the canny bidders looked well to the size of the receptacle for eats instead of the style of lunch basket.

An interesting feature of the evening was a Fiddlers' Contest, open to contestants up to 35 years of age and over 40. Mr. Russel Brooks carried off first prize, L. Pogue second and A. King third, in the first contest, while Mr. Harvey Hall gained the prize for those of forty years or over.

An old time dance followed and at one time the spacious dance floor was occupied by nine sets. The music for the event was furnished by the Brooks orchestra with Mr. Tom McCammon as pianist.

It was a happy gathering and the many beautiful party frocks worn by the ladies added the needed touch of color to a most enjoyable event.

CAUGHT BAD COLD WHILE OUT PLAYING NOT PROPERLY DRESSED

Mrs. L. Mantle, Millet, Alta., writes:—"My youngest child had a very bad cold which she got by going out playing in a strong, cold wind not properly dressed.

"She got so hoarse she could hardly speak, and her throat and chest were very sore.

"I used everything available, but she received no relief until, finally, I secured a bottle of and the first few doses certainly did her good. It is wonderful how it can help so quickly."

"Dr. Wood's" Norway Pine Syrup is 35c. a bottle, large family size 60c.; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

MADOC INSTITUTE PLANNING RE-UNION

Will Hold Social on Feb. 14th—Millinery Course to be Held.

MADOC, Feb. 3.—The monthly meeting of the Madoc Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. D. Moorcraft on Friday. In the absence of the President and vice-Presidents, Mrs. W. J. Hill presided, and the meeting opened with the reading and adoption of the minutes of the last meeting.

Reports of committees were called for, and Mrs. D. Brown reporting for the play committee, announced that the players are willing to present their play again under the auspices of the Women's Institute but that owing to the press of hockey games, etc., it would be impossible to put it on much before the latter part of February. The matter was left in the hands of the play committee to make further arrangements.

For the Relief committee, Mrs. W. E. Connor reported donations of $4.00 toward the Hospital Fund, and the matter being discussed, on motion of Mrs. R. Wellman, seconded by Mrs. A. Moon the sum of twenty-five dollars was donated to the Red Cross hospital in Bancroft, to be sent at once, and the proceeds of the play to go to the Red Cross hospital in Coe Hill.

Correspondence was read regarding the Millinery Course. Instructors are not available for the date chosen, so it was decided to accept the earliest date offered and that the dress-making course be applied for and put on before the other if possible.

Thanks for fruit and flowers during illness were read from Mesdames Bristol, McCoy, Watson, Nayler and Nickle and a letter of appreciation and thanks from Miss A. Harris, of the Children's Shelter, Belleville, for the New Year's donation of jams and jellies, and the cash donation of $2.50.

Arrangements were made for the Valentine social evening and Institute re-union for February 14th. Mrs. James A. Caskey sent a very cordial invitation for that evening to all the members and their friends, and a strong entertainment committee was appointed, consisting of Mesdames C. N. Whytock, W. E. Connor, A. Kincaid, G. West, G. Huffman and D. Brown, to have the program and arrangements in charge. Each member to assist with refreshments and provide two cups, and each person attending is to make one Valentine for the Valentine exchange.

Mrs. J. B. Hough was then called on for her paper on "Canadian Women of Note and their Work." This was a very interesting paper, showing much careful preparation, and was so enthusiastically received that on motion of Mesdames Nickle and Brown it was requested that the paper be available for publication in the Institute papers.

Roll Call was answered by the name of a Canadian author, and a short time was spent in singing, closing with the National Anthem, and a social half hour.

DECORATIVE WRAPPINGS

Gifts of all kinds are much more acceptable if wrapped in one of the new decorative papers. There are appropriate designs for ocean travel, for bridge souvenirs, and so on.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

"THE MISUNDERSTOOD JESUS"

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Feb. 5. The Misunderstood Jesus. Mark 3: 19-27; 6:1-6.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D.D.
Editor of The Congregationalist.

Misunderstanding is the fatal tragedy of life. It would be found, we believe, to underlie more unhappiness and spiritual disaster than any other single cause.

It enters into what might be the happiest situations in home and society, and it disrupts these relationships with irreparable violence. There is in the world a great deal of selfishness and a great deal of ill-will, however, much we may strive to gloss over or conceal the most objectionable aspects of human nature and action, but the tragedy of misunderstanding is that so often it makes its subtle power of destruction most manifest under circumstances where a good understanding would result in the most holy and happy experiences.

The causes of misunderstanding are many, and its manifestations vary. It enters into home and family relationships. It breaks the bonds of communion between husband and wife, and oftentimes a foolish silence, or a misplaced and unfortunately expressed sensitiveness, are the roots from which it springs.

Frankness Helps.

There are few circumstances in life where frankness and openness of mind and spirit cannot help the situation. Misunderstanding arises between parents and children, and too often it is allowed to establish a chasm so wide that it is never bridged. It enters into all the environment of religion.

It is a fruitful source of trouble between ministers and their people, and oftentimes an outsider can see clearly how this trouble arises, not from real causes, but simply from a seeing of certain facts and circumstances from different points of view. It enters into the conflicts of religion, between new and old, conservative and progressive, and here also it invades the sacred relationships of family and friendship.

One realizes the pathetic misunderstanding that lies back of such a statement as Paul made concerning his own faith and life in Christ. "After the way that they call heresy," he said, "so worship I the God of my fathers." In how many a young life struggling for light and liberty has that been true!

How Jesus Suffered.

Our lesson reminds us how Jesus himself suffered from misunderstanding. The religious people of the day failed to understand him. Not all of the scribes and Pharisees were hypocritical or even conventional, but in the glimpses that we have of such religious leaders as Nicodemus we see how difficult it was for many of the best disposed of them to understand Jesus.

He was misunderstood by his own disciples. How pathetic to see one who had come in the spirit of such self-abnegation and utter abandonment of love for humanity contemplating within his inner circle the quarrels of disciples regarding places of position and preferment. He was so misunderstood by those of his own household that he said at one time, "A man's foes shall be they of his own household."

And here in our lesson we have brought before us this crucial misunderstanding of his friends. They said, "He is beside himself." It was bad enough to be persecuted by his enemies, but what tragedy in this that the holiest and best of all should be regarded by his friends as a mad man.

Friends' Attitude.

And this attitude of his friends extended to the misunderstanding on the part of his fellow countrymen. Instead of being impressed by the wonder of his teachings and his works, they were offended. They could not understand how one from their own number should have such power, and they resented what they could not understand. How strangely true that is to human nature.

Yet it is true not only in relation to Jesus himself but with regard to all the widespread manifestations of progress. It has become a recognized proverb, "A prophet is not without honor save in his own country." Yet how simple is the record of the impression of it all upon Jesus himself "He marveled because of their unbelief."

There is an interesting story told of a neighbor of the poet Wordsworth who went once to a gathering where "the poet-laureate" was advertised to speak. He came away disgusted, telling his neighbors that it was "no one but auld Wadsworth." Thus it is that genius and goodness lives next door to us while our eyes are unopen to behold and appreciate them.

We are always looking for divine messengers and divine truth in unusual and glorious forms while God sends to us his greatest gifts in human guise, to be appropriated only through the simple and sincere response of the human heart. There are many prayers that we may make with profit, but the deepest and most needful of all prayers is this "Lord give us a good spirit of understanding."

Text: Mark 3:19-27; 6:1-6.

And they went into an house.

And the multitude cometh together again, so that they could not so much as eat bread.

And when his friends heard of it, they went out to lay hold on him for they said, He is beside himself.

And the scribes which came down from Jerusalem said, He hath Beelzebub, and by the prince of the devils casteth he out devils.

And he called them unto him, and said unto them in parables, How can Satan cast out Satan?

And if a kingdom be divided against itself, that kingdom cannot stand.

And if a house be divided against itself, that house cannot stand.

And if Satan rise up against himself, and be divided, he cannot stand, but hath an end.

No man can enter into a strong man's house, and spoil his goods, except he will first bind the strong man; and then he will spoil his house.

Verily I saw unto you. All sins shall be forgiven unto the sons of men, and blasphemies wherewith soever they shall blaspheme.

And he went out from thence, and came into his own country; and his disciples follow him.

And when the sabbath day was come, he began to teach in the synagogue and many, hearing him, were astonished, saying, From whence hath this man these things? and what wisdom is this which is given unto him, that even such mighty works are wrought by his hands?

Is not this the carpenter, the son of Mary, the brother of James, and Joses, and of Juda, and Simon? and are not his sisters here with us? And they were offended at him.

But Jesus said unto them, A prophet is not without honour, but in his own country, and among his own kin, and in his own house.

And he could there do no mighty work, save that he laid his hands upon a few sick folk, and healed them.

And he marvelled because of their unbelief. And he went round about the villages, teaching.

LITERARY SOCIETY HEARS ABOUT BURNS

Rev. A. H. McConnachie Gives Talk on Scotland's Famous Poet.

SPRINGVILLE, Feb. 3.—On Friday evening, January 27, an interesting program was enjoyed by the goodly number present. Miss Murray, who was in charge of a musical program for the night, found it impossible to attend the meeting and at somewhat short notice Rev. A. H. McConnachie volunteered to speak on "An Appreciation of the Life of Robert Burns" whose birthday was celebrated only a few days previous.

The meeting was opened in the usual manner with the vice-president, Miss H. Staples, in the chair. As there was no new business to be brought before the meeting Mr. McConnachie was then called upon.

In introducing his subject he read the complete wording of the song "Auld Lang Syne", offering explanations of interesting parts. This old favorite was then sung by the audience in a manner that showed their understanding and appreciation. Numerous interesting facts about the life and works of Burns were mentioned and enlarged upon in order that all might appreciate his good qualities and overlook those which in his day were not out of the ordinary.

Mr. McConnachie lived for some years at Ayr and is therefore well acquainted with the settings of the poems of Robert Burns. His beautiful descriptions enabled his listeners to live with the poet during the reading of several of his outstanding poems by which Mr. McConnachie brought his lecture to a suitable conclusion.

The remainder of the evening was spent in a social time at games and carpet bowling.

On February 10 the debating evening is anticipated. The subject for debate will be "Resolved that the good resulting from publications in newspapers outweighs their evil results." S. S. Staples and Mrs. George Whitfield will support the affirmative side of the debate while Mr. Robert Armstrong and Mrs. B. Preston will uphold the negative.

WEDDING BELLS

DOHERTY—CONVEY.

A pretty mid-winter wedding was solemnized at St. Jerome's church, Warkworth, on Wednesday, January 25, at 9 a.m., when Mary Teresa, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Convey, Codrington, became the bride of Jeremiah Patrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Doherty, Hastings. Rev. J. B. Ferguson sang the nuptial mass.

The bride, who was given away by her father, looked lovely in a gown of blonde satin-faced canton and hat of sapphire blue with applique design in gold embroidery. She wore a seal coat, the gift of the groom, and carried an arm bouquet of sweetheart roses and maiden-hair fern. The bridesmaid, Miss Genevieve Convey, sister of the bride, was becomingly attired in tango canton with sand trimmings and hat of contrasting shades in combined effect of velvet and felt. She wore a beaverine coat and carried pink carnations and maiden-hair fern. Mr. John Doherty, brother of the groom, was best man.

The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a rope of pearls and to the groomsman a diamond tie pin.

After the wedding ceremony the bridal party repaired to the home of the bride's parents, where a sumptuous wedding dinner was served. Mr. and Mrs. Doherty left late amid showers of confetti for Rochester, Detroit and Saginaw. The bride travelled in rosewood silk canton and small hat of gold with black felt trimmings and seal coat.

The guests included: Rev. Father Ferguson, Warkworth; Mr. and Mrs. P. Butler, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Doherty, Mr. Felix Convey and daughter, Madeline, Mr. John Doherty, Miss Nellie Doherty, all of Hastings; Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Doherty of Campbellford; Misses Marguerite Convey and Kathleen Doherty, nurses-in-training at St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterboro; Mr. and Mrs. E. English of Peterboro, and Misses Loretta Doherty and Ann Reis of Saginaw, Mich.

A miscellaneous shower was held at the home of the bride's parents, where numerous beautiful and costly gifts were received testifying to the esteem in which the young couple are held. Silver candlesticks were presented from the choir of St. Jerome's church, of which the bride was a member.

PACIFIC FLIGHT ENTHUSES

Plans for the flight across the Pacific from Japan this year is arousing great enthusiasm in that country. Entries are already being received and the list promises to be a long one. Even children in the public schools are singing songs about the proposed flight and the decorations of hagoita, or battledores, used in the favorite children's game at New Year, showed a Japanese aviator with the inscription "Flying Across the Pacific."

Bride Breaks Arm Wedding Goes On

BARRIE, Ont., Feb. 3.—The fact that she had fallen on an icy sidewalk on the eve of her marriage and broken her arm did not prevent Miss Florence Smith, of Cundles, near Barrie, from keeping her appointment at the altar of St. Mary's R. C. Church. With the injured limb in splints she was married on scheduled time to James Legoria Toner, of Phelpstone. The honeymoon has been postponed until a later date.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

Faith had no opportunity to read her letter from Nils Jonson until after Cherry and Bob had departed for the office, and even when she found herself alone she held the big square white envelope in her hands for a long time, dreading to open it.

Despising her own cowardice, Faith seized her amber-handled nail file and slit the envelope.

"Dear Faith—" Hope quivered in her heart. He would not address her in that way if he intended to retract his confession of love for Cherry—"Rhoda writes me that you have been dangerously ill, but that you are now recovering. I am still suffering from the shock of the news. Please take the best possible care of yourself.

"I'm rather keen to get a report from Rhoda's singing teacher on her progress and prospects, and still more eager to see you. I want to see for myself that they are taking good care of you. As it happens, business is taking me to Darrow this week, and I'd like to drop in on you on Wednesday orl Thursday, if you'll let me. I shal wire or telephone from Darrow on ednesday to confirm but until then I'd appreciate it if you kept my prospective visit a secret between you and Hathaway and me. Of course you may drop a hint to Rhoda, if you like.

"Now, please, don't be ill again. There are too many of us who need you. Nils."

"Rhoda!" Faith sang out joyously when she heard the patter of quick, busy feet down the hall. "Nils is coming Wednesday or Thursday. He has business in Darrow—or so he says," she laughed, when Nils' sister came running breathlessly into the room.

"If that isn't just like a man!" Rhoda scoffed when she had read the letter. "Wednesday or Thursday! As if Cherry didn't have a thing in the world to do but sit around with her hands folded, waiting for that conceited brother of mine to show up! Cherry said at breakfast that she was going to a masquerade ball with Mr. Warren. Wouldn't it be awful if he came on Wednesday night and missed her?"

"I hadn't thought of that," Faith confessed dubiously. "I wish Nils had been more definite, or that he had not asked me to keep his coming a secret from her. I can't ask her to refuse the invitation, without giving any reason at all. I told her I was glad she was going—that I thought she needed some gayety. What shall we do, Rhoda?"

Rhoda tucked her honey-colored head on one side and studied Faith through guileless Chinablue eyes. "You look awfully pale to me, Mrs. Hathaway. I honestly think you're going to be feeling just awful by Wednesday night, and I shan't be able to stay with Hope. I—I have a previous engagement."

"You're a shameless little liar, Rhoda" Faith laughed. "No, I'm not going to cheat Cherry out of her party unless I'm absolutely sure Nils is coming on, Wednesday. If he phones that he is I shall tell her the truth and let her decide whether she wants to see him or to go to the ball."

"I've always found that it pays to obey Nils, and Nils said she wasn't to know," Rhoda protested apologetically.

TOXEMIA AND INFECTIONS IN RHEUMATISM

The medical profession is almost united in the view that rheumatic diseases are caused by some kind of infection. Various forms and varieties of streptococci have been thought responsible, but so far no specific organism has been found which is always present with rheumatism.

It is thought that possible sources of infection may originate in the teeth, mouth, throat, tonsils, sinuses, inner, chronic bronchitis, infection of the gall-bladder or the urinary tract, pelvic diseases in women, and infection of the prostate and seminal vesicles in men. It has even been claimed that streptococci infection from the intestinal tract is responsible.

My point of view is that such infectious causes must be regarded as secondary to that which I consider the primary cause, found in a specific kind of autointoxication which may be known as the "rheumatic toxemia." The rheumatic toxemia resembles in some manner that which we know as common autointoxication, but there are many outstanding points of difference. The elimination is always retarded, the bodily odors are pronounced and distinctive, while the urine is heavy and full of urates and phosphates. Skin elimination being sluggish, sweating is brought on with great difficulty, even by Turkish baths and cabinet sweats.

The specific toxemia responsible for rheumatism is just as different from that producing other diseases as tuberculosis is entirely different from diabetes. I am not disparaging the infection theory, however, as I am certain that various forms of infection are often sufficiently irritating causes whenever there is the necessary rheumatic toxicosis. For instance, a tonsillar infection may be like a match, setting off the blaze of rheumatism; but the fuel must have been ready, and that fuel is always a toxic, poisoned state of the body.

The removal of diseased tonsils, the extraction of abscessed teeth, or the cure of a genito-urinary infection has not been found sufficient to banish a real case of rheumatoid arthritis, or arthritis deformans. Working from the theory that a rheumatic toxemia is responsible, I have seen thousands of cases cured. Some have had their tonsils and all their teeth removed without results, and others have been cured with no attempt made to remove such local infections.

The amazing thing is that these loca infections usually disappear when the patient gets rid of the primary causative toxemia! Of course, in practise I do not fail to treat local conditions, and always attempt to remove local infections. Abscessed teeth should always be removed, and suitable treatment given the tonsils or other focal points of infection. But there are not more of these sources of infection apparent with rheumatism than with the other common disorders which the physician meets with in his daily practise.

All diseases are built upon bad habits of living. The one with rheumatism simply has a tendency to this type of trouble, whereas the tubercular, from almost the same causes, develops an entirely different disease. Errors, like eating the wrong food, too much food, improper combinations, lack of exercise, waste of energy and so on, cause rheumatism with one who has that tendency, and after a cure, bad habits must be replaced with good ones or the same disorder will again develop.

Questions and Answers.

Question: Anxious writes: "A little while ago I was examined by a doctor who said I had mitral regurgitation of the heart as well as an exaggerated dorsal curvature of the spine. He advised me to quit all exercise whatsoever. I am sixteen years old and feel that I should forget everything that he told me, but what would you advise?

Answer: You can at least partially correct the spinal curvature by taking the proper kind of corrective exercises. Get the advice of some gymnasium instructor regarding both the exercises for your spine and other exercises which will help in curing your heart trouble.

Question: M. K. L. asks: "Is there an oil made from poppy seeds that may be used as a salad oil, and is it a good food?"

Answer; Poppy oil extracted from the poppy seed, is popular in parts of Europe as a table oil. It is of a pale yellow color, practically odorless, and has a very pleasing flavor. The inferior grades are used in soap making and like products. As far as its food value is concerned it has no especial merit.

Question: Miss B. F. asks: "Will you please tell me what causes my hands to be exceedingly dry—so dry they often wrinkle in the palms! This is mostly at night. Also, I have a craving for fresh fruit and cool, tart drinks—anything cold and juicy. I have been this way for several years."

Answer: Satisfy your craving for fresh fruit by eating nothing else for a few days. This treatment will help correct the dryness of your skin. For temporary relief rub cocoabutter on the skin. Use a small amount all over the body each night before you retire.

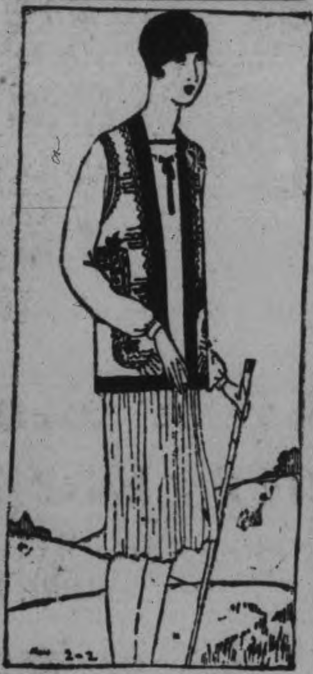
DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL



All the colors of the rainbow—and then some—are used in the appliques and embroidery of this corn-colored felt sports jacket, included in the Palm Beach wardrobe of a fashionable society woman.

Maybe before long you will be making a gay sleeveless felt jacket, and working embroidery stitches to provide it with the color contrasts. But just now felt jackets are mere novelties and quite expensive and come, I believe, from Italy. Usually there is a border of felt of contrasting color and there are appliques of felt in bright colors to carry out the design along with the rather coarse embroidery.

Sports frocks are made with rather long overblouses, and these overblouses have the effect of snugness. Made of jersey or other knitted materials they conform rather closely to the body from hips to waist, and where the slenderness of the waistline permits some fullness of the material above the hips there is sometimes a slightly indicated blousiness. This is achieved by having the tunic fairly tight and drawing it up slightly so as to permit this slight blouse effect.

Though usually accompanied by a narrow belt I have seen these long crush girdle that was drawn closely sometimes a figured silk square is folded and worn round the lowered waistline over the jumper—and then knotted at one hip.

Although the tendency may still be for a somewhat raised waistline I have seen some evidence of a decidedly lowered waistline. With these new long overblouses and tunics the belt is sometimes worn at the very broadest part of the hips—a device that makes the figure below this line seem very slender indeed. But it is a fashion that should be attempted only by the very slender.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1928.

This is a day of contending planetary influences, according to astrologers who warn men and women to be conservative in opinion and cautious in actions.

Uranus is in an aspect supposed to quicken the intellect and to insure clear vision regarding personal interests.

There is a sway beneficial to aviation and aviators who will find that the winter has been a period most fortunate for their interests.

Members of Congress and all legislators should beware of untoward ambitions. There is a rule that inclines small minds to mistake their own possibilities.

Serious controversies will be waged within political parties as the winter advances, it is prophesied and women will have a subordinate power in party affairs.

As the day advances the planetary aspects improve so that commercial enterprises should benefit greatly.

American commerce is to expand amazingly, it is forecast, and Pacific coast ports will benefit greatly.

Novel forces are at work secretly in the United States and will be recognized later by the revival of intense patriotism, astrologers declare.

Great organizations will combat movements destructive to national standards of life, the seers prophesy.

Writers who are friendly to radical ideas are to be much discussed and Americans may lose popularity by espousing extreme liberal ideas, astrologers prognosticate.

Persons whose birthdate it is probably will have a prosperous and successful year. They should avoid religious controversies.

Children born on this day may be strongly original and inventive in the trend of their minds.

70 YEARS YOUNG OR 40 YEARS OLD?

Many Folks in Early Life Older Than Others Past 70—In Which Class Are You?

Just because you are near or past 50 years old and are handicapped by Ill Health, Nervousness and a lack of former strength—don't make the mistake of thinking your case is hopeless or that you must now submit to old age.

A prominent Doctor recently said, "Old Age is not always a matter of years. Weakness, disability, wrinkles, dimmed eyesight and gray hairs are frequently due to lack of vitality and nerve force, as a result of worry, high speed living and overwork!"

For conditions of this kind—lack of strength and energy; sleeplessness, despondency, depleted nerve force and signs of premature old age—the recent Erbac discovery has brought joy and satisfaction to many hundreds. One business man says, "Erbac has certainly been worth a million to me. At 51 I seemed pretty much "all in" and had felt badly for years—now, thanks to Erbac. I feel like a boy again!"

Plainy wrapped and put up in convenient tablet form for easy home use—the genuine Double Strength Erbac can now be obtained from Bond's or the local druggists who have been furnished with the regular 20-day treatments to supply to all adults who wish to try it on a no risk basis. Double Strength Erbac—always sold on a guarantee of money back if not satisfied—is a special formula, and should not be confused with ordinary tonics.

Lyrics of Life - By Douglas Malloch

THE PEDRO

I'm good for six when I've an ace,
For seven with a king,
And, if a queen should show her face,
Then I'll bid anything.
I'll take a chance I'll draw the low,
The jack or ten I'll land;
But one thing I don't care for, though—
A pedro in my hand.

Yes, I'll be grateful for the deuce,
And for the queen the same,
But want the pedro running loose,
For that is half the game.
So somewhere let the pedro lie
That I must figure out,
Because to take it, or to try,
Is what it's all about.

And in the game of life, I guess,
'I want it that way, too.
I hope so much I won't possess
There's nothing left to do.
I do not want my fate too kind,
Or always ease demand.
In life I hope I do not find
The pedro in my hand.

Hints on Etiquette

1. Is a hostess responsible for her guests at a dance, in the sense that she should see that they all have partners?

2. What is the best way to arrange this?

3. Is it customary to invite more men than women to insure partners for every woman?

THE ANSWERS

1. Yes.

2. See that every woman guest comes with an escort who will be responsible for her dance partners.

3. Extra men are always welcome at a dance.

TASTY SALAD

NERVE PRESERVER

Door checks should be put on every screen door immediately. Such wearying noises as banging doors should always be avoided.

LAUNDERED DRESSES

White silk dresses should never be hung on the line to dry. Wash in tepid water, rinse well, dip in slightly blue water and roll in towel. Iron damp.

LABOR SAVERS

With a return of tiered skirts, long sleeves and dressier clothing, a sleeve board and a slender skirt board will be worth the purchase.

SOFTENED FLANNELS

When laundering the smart flannel skirt or sleeves jacket, one-half teaspoon glycerine to a gallon of rinse water will keep material soft.

Lakefield and Havelock in Tie for Group Honors

AILROADERS TAGE RALLY TO WIN 2-1 VICTORY

Havelock Takes Lead After Playing Tame Hockey for Two Periods.

TIE ON COUNT

Sudden Death Game to be Played Next Week for Group Winners.

The Havelock-Lakefield feud is still unabated. Last night a crowd that filled Brock Street Rink saw the Havelock Intermediates pull a last-session rally that netted them two goals—enough to win the game from Lakefield by 2-1 and tie the count on the round 4-all. A sudden death game will be necessary to declare a group winner, and that game will be played next week.

Last night's game, though much depended on it, was not the exhibition of wild and woolly hockey that the other battles between the same two teams were, but it had a last-minute kick that sent the fans home talking. Lakefield had drawn first blood with a counter in the first period and had managed to hold the opposition scoreless during the middle chucker, but out came the C. P. R.'s with their brace of goals in the final session, and now they've got it to do all over again.

The game was late in starting because the lighting didn't quite conform to Referee "Nip" Dwan's standards, but once it began there was very little delay that the spectators could crab about. With L. Sabatino, Wannamaker and J. Sabatino showing the way, the Lakefield outfit easily took the first round, they had a slight margin in the second, and went down fighting in the third, while the Quinn-Hooper aggregation improved with use. Their stand in the last twenty minutes was worth seeing, with Wright, Pollock and Brennan getting in some nice offensive work. Jack, subbing, was quite as aggressive and did a lot to redeem himself for paving the way to the single Lakefield goal. It was just a bad break that made the rubber flip away from his stick into a position where Loosemore could bat it in.

The first period was undeniably Lakefield's. The Red and Whites climbed right in at the first bell and camped right at Barney's front doorstep. Yet the only shots that came for the first few minutes were long-range heaves. One of these floaters, shot by a teammate, gave Wright his first opening to put Havelock out in front, and he made a gallant attempt to do so. When the rubber dropped and was brought out to the blue line, he checked the carrier and proceeded to work right in on Moore, only to have that goalie pull the first flashy stop of the game. Play evened up with both teams having difficulty in getting beyond the blue lines. It then became dull until Hooper so far forgot his manners to bump off an opposing player; then the Sabatino outfit piled in once more, and had Fox doing overtime clearing. Hooper returned to his post, but Quinn rode Louis Sabatino into the fence, and got a session in the box for his efforts. Close back-checking kept the C.P.R.'s well in hand until Wright and Jack did another rush, Jack handing Wright a pass at the Lakefield goal mouth. Wright mussed it up and nothing resulted. Wright and L. Sabatino were both hurt within the next couple of minutes, and Stabler drew a rest for holding Quinn as he rushed up right rail. Then the the first goal of the game, a charity. Jack was about to pass behind his own citadel when the rubber got on the wrong side of his stick. It flipped out near the goal post, and Loosemore drove it in, while Fox had no chance to flop on it. There was no further score and the period ended rather tamely.

2nd Period.

Both teams seemed to be stalled in the middle session; the old spirit of battle was gone, and when it did flare up, momentarily, in the form of an individual rush or break through one defense or another, it was short-lived. Earle drew a penalty for tripping Quinn a few minutes after the start, and it was not long until L. Sabatino took to the cooler for dropping Pollock as the latter was breaking away about half-way down the ice. Hooper and Stabler staged a bumping act that was nipped in the bud by Referee Dwan, but there was no scoring. Lakefield still held their share of the play until the gong.

3rd Period.

The final chucker developed the fastest and most exciting playing of the evening, with the Lakefielders clinging to their slim margin of one goal, which had brought their total to two on the round. The Railroaders threw four men up on the line, and the rival aggregations forthwith proceeded to stage a series of rushes, spills—with resultant penalties—and close saves, that for a time made the fans forget all about the two slack sessions earlier in the evening.

Series of rushes and spils livens up third period.

The Railroaders evened the game count two minutes after play began, when on a face-off in Lakefield territory Pollock sent the rubber back to the waiting stick of Hooper, who took a standing shot. It beat Moore and put Havelock within striking distance. Neither team had any appreciable margin for a few minutes. Then Brennan and Wright began to show their wares, and for the first time Lakefield lost command. Wannamaker lost his head and tried a haymaker on Hooper, who showed his resentment, and both were chased. The five-man variety of hockey is a little livelier than the standard and play opened up until the timers released the bad boys. Wannamaker hadn't benefitted much by his spell of discipline, and back he went to the bench for throwing his stick. His absence was very nearly costly to his team, for Wright and Jack again combined and were right in on Moore, only to have the shot go astray.

Private battle staged in third when Wannamaker lodges haymaker on Hooper.

Then came the break that put the Railroad boys on even footing. Hooper was chased for dropping Loosemore and the advantage should have gone to the opposition, but Pollock took a sache up the right rail and passed to Wright, who knew what to do with it. He beat Moore and gave his team an even break. There was no further scoring, and the bell found both teams pretty well tuckered. They are tied on the round, and a sudden death game will be arranged for next week.

The Teams.

Havelock — Goal, Fox; defense, Hooper and Quinn; wings, Wright and Brennan; centre, Pollock; subs., Jack and McCarthur.

SECOND ROUND ON SATURDAY

Scottish Football Association Competitions Feature Games for Week-end.

INTERNATIONAL MATCH

GLASGOW, Scotland, Feb. 3. — Canadian Press Cable. — Scottish football fans will have on their soccer bill of fare Saturday the second round of the Scottish Football Association Cup Competitions.

The best fixture will be the meeting between Rangers, the League leaders and Cowdenbeath in this city. These are both first division teams.

Other big clubs such as Motherwell and Celtic, have easier tasks. Motherwell meets Raith Rovers, one of the lowly first division clubs, at Motherwell, while Celtic, who are the cup holders, should have a picnic with Keith, a little team who have entered the competition for the experience.

The draw follows:

Forfar vs. Kilmarnock.
Forest Mechanics vs. Hearts.
St. Mirren vs. Vale of Athol.
Dundee United vs. Dundee.
Dunfermline vs. Leith Amateurs.
Partick Thistle vs. Nithsdale.
Stenhousemuir vs. Alloa.
Ayr vs. Falkirk.
Armadale vs. King's Park.
Motherwell vs. Raith Rovers.
Rangers vs. Cowdenbeath.
Airdrieonians vs. Hamilton Academicals.
Queen's Park vs. Norton.
Brechin City vs. Albion.
Third Lanark vs. Hibernians.
Keith vs. Celtic.

International Match.

BELFAST, Ireland, Feb. 3.—Canadian Press Cable. — Ireland meets Wales in an International Soccer match here. These international soccer games were inaugurated in 1882 and the standing of the countries now is: Wales won 18; Ireland 14, drawn 9.

The teams will be:

Ireland: Scott, Liverpool; McCluggage, Burnley; W. McConnell, Reading; Irving, Cardiff City; Morgan, Notts Forest; Sloan, Cardiff City; Chambers, Bury; Dunn, Sheffield United; Davey, Portsmouth; P. McConnel Doncaster; M. Hood, Belfast Celtic.

Wales: D. Lewis, Arsenal; Williams, Swansea; Evans, Newcastle United; Dennion, Manchester United, Keenor, Cardiff City; John, Arsenal; Sole, Swansea; Len Davies, Cardiff City; W. Lewis, Swansea; Jones, Notts Forest; Cook, Portsmouth.

League Fixtures.

LONDON, Eng., Feb. 3. Canadian Press Cable. — English soccer clubs Saturday swing back to league fixtures after the fourth round of the Football Association Cup Competitions. Leaders in the averages are: First division, Everton, Huddersfield Town, and Leicester City; second division Chelsea, Manchester City and Leeds United; third division, southern section, Millwall, northern section Bradford. In the first and second divisions the contest for leadership is still very keen, but in the minor circuit Millwall and Bradford have established substantial advantages in points. By the luck of the draw Everton and Huddersfield Town are drawn together next Saturday at the Yorkshire Town's grounds. While a win for Huddersfield will not put them on the top of the heap because they are three points behind Everton, it would give them great encouragement. Leicester City play Portsmouth at Leicester and they should garner a couple of points. Chelsea have to visit West Bromwich Albion and judging by the way Chelsea has been going lately the prospects for the London Club are none too bright. Manchester City are at home to Notts Forest, who may not be in the best shape, as they have played two gruelling cup tie games against Derby county in the past seven days. Millwall are hosts to Brentford, another London team, and are picked as winners. Bradford meet Rovers at Bradford, and while the Rovers are a militant crowd the home team should bring off a victory.

ONSLOW LEADS FIRST SACKERS

Has Percentage of .996 in International League Last Season.

AVERAGES RELEASED

NEW YORK, N.Y., Feb. 3.—(Canadian Press.)—Edward Onslow, Rochester, led the first basemen of the International Baseball League last season with a percentage of .996, according to fielding averages released yesterday. Walter Maranville, Rochester, is the leading second baseman with .976. Joseph Brown, Syracuse, tops the third basemen with .970. Andrew Cohen, Buffalo, leads the shortstops with .963. Merwin Jacobson, Toronto, is leading outfielder with a mark of .993. Leo Mangum, Buffalo, has the best record among the pitchers, accepting 82 chances without an error for a mark of 1,000. William Hargrave, Toronto, has the best mark among the catchers, with .985. Albert W. Head, Rochester, had the most passed ball, 11.

Buffalo leads in club fielding with a percentage of .971. Buffalo also made the most double plays, 172. Rochester had the most runners left on bases, 1,237, made the most assists, 2,073, and had the most passed balls, 17. Toronto led in put outs, with 4,353, and amassed the most total chances, 6,586. Reading made the most errors, 278.

Buffalo turned in the only triple play of the season, May 22, against Toronto, the players who performed the feat being Bishsonnette, Cohen and Taylor.

Leading Pitcher.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Feb. 3.—(Canadian Press.)—For the second consecutive year, Al Mamaux, Newark, is the International League's leading pitcher, with an earned run average of 2.61 in 1927, according to official figures made public last night. He also pitched the most complete games, 30, took part in the most innings, 318, secured the most victories, 25, and faced the most batters, 1,308.

Leo Mangum, Buffalo, leads in won and lost percentage, with 21 victories and 7 defeats, for a mark of 750. George Earnshaw, Baltimore, took part in the most games, 46. Fred Vincent, Baltimore, finished the greatest number of games, 19. Vernon Parks, Jersey City-Reading, lost the most games, 19. Four pitchers tied for leadership in shutouts—Erwin Brame and Richard Coffman, Jersey City; Leo Mangum, Buffalo and John Prudhomme, Rochester-Toronto, each with five.

Herbert Thormahlen, Rochester, allowed the most hits, 305, and with Nicholas Harrison, Rochester-Reading, allowed the most runs, 152. Harrison was touched for the most sacrifice hits, 38, and also the most earned runs, 129. William Henderson, Baltimore, hit the most batsmen, 15. William Hallahan, Syracuse, gave the most bases on balls, 135, struck out the most batsmen, 195, and made the most wild pitches, 12.

Two pitchers turned in no-hit performances during the season. Sylvester Johnson, Syracuse, on July 31, turned back Buffalo without a hit, and John Prudhomme, Toronto, on August 23, blanked Reading without a safety .

McTigue Matched Against Lomsky

NEW YORK, Feb. 3 (Canadian Press).—Michael ("Methuselah") McTigue, ancient of the prize ring, will match the wisdom of almost 40 years against the slashing fists of Leo Lomsky, youthful Aberdeen assassin, in a light-heavyweight elimination joust of ten rounds at Madison Square Garden to-morrow night.

The winner has been promised a match with Jimmy Slattery, clean-cut Buffalo star, and later Joe Sekyra, curly-headed blonde from Dayton, as a part of the process of weeding out another challenger for Tommy Loughran's 175-pound title. Lomski and Slattery failed to lift the Philadelphian's crown in recent tries, although the hard-smacking Westerner twice dumped Tommy for nine counts in the opening round of their set-to.

The canny old Irishman, who twice sported the light heavyweight title, is running a poor second in the betting with odds to 2 to 1 against his chances.

SCORES EIGHT END.

Curlers at Kingston Perform Feat—First Time in Rink's History.

KINGSTON, Ont., Feb. 3.—(Canadian Press).—An event in curling which corresponds to a hole in one in golf occurred at the local curling rink Wednesday night for the first time in the memory of the oldest curler here. It was an eight end, and the veteran skip, Thomas Slater, made the play. Only one of his rink's opponents shot a stone past the rings and Mr. Slater with his last stone drew through the narrow port and wicked his opponent's stone out.

The Chicago promoters who propose to give indoor greyhound racing this winter might be reminded that it was an attempt at winter racing that killed the horse racing game in Chicago for upwards of twenty years.

FENELON FALLS RINK CAPTURES MORROW TROPHY

H. H. McCallum Defeats R. G. Sturgeon in Final Game For Coveted Cup.

DAVIDSON WINS.

Unionville Rink Captures R. M. Waddell Trophy From Fenelon Falls.

H. H. McCallum of Fenelon Falls won the Morrow Trophy last night when he defeated R. G. Sturgeon by 4 points.

G. Davidson of Unionville defeated M. J. Lansfield of Fenelon Falls by 8 points to win the R. M. Waddell trophy. Three of the four trophies of the local bonspiel go out of the city this year, as the Peterborough Cup went to Stouffville.

M. B. Chenhall and R. G. Sturgeon are battling it out this morning for Matthew-Blackwell trophy. Mr. Sturgeon has been in the finals for the two major trophies and Mr. Chenhall, who has a schedule rink, has made a wonderful showing in this bonspiel.

Mr. McCallum, winner of the Morrow Cup, has been coming to the local bonspiel for years, and has won all the trophies but the R. M. Waddell. On his first end he got 2 points against Sturgeon. Sturgeon came back with two on the second end, McCallum got one on the third, Sturgeon two on the fourth, McCallum one in the fifth and in the sixth Sturgeon lay four and two each in the ninth and tenth. McCallum did the counting after the tenth, getting one each in the next three ends, four in the fourteenth, one in the fifteenth, and two in the last.

J. H. Sedgwick, in the absence of the president, Gray Copping through sickness, presented the R. M. Waddell Cup and four wool auto rugs to Mr. Davidson and his rink. "You come from Unionville, and in your curling you have displayed union, showing that in union there is strength," said Mr. Sedgwick.

Mr. Davidson, in reply, expressed it as a delightful pleasure to come to Peterborough bonspiel and renew old friendships. "Winning is a small part of this roaring game; it's friendships renewed and the friendships made that play a big part," said Mr. Davidson.

T. Brightman presented wool V-neck sweater coats to the members of Mr. Lansfield's rink, the losers in the Waddell finals.

J. W. McDermid presented the Morrow Trophy to Mr. McCallum along with silver well and tree meat platters to the members of the rink, and Dr. Sutton presented silver entree dishes to members of Sturgeon's rink.

The men who put the Peterborough Bonspiel across are: W. G. Morrow, chairman; H. F. Foote, secretary; W. D. Campbell, Ira D. Moore and J. J. Howden.

J. Mayneord and H. Martin were in charge of the draws.

ONE-MINUTE INTERVIEWS

.... EDDIE COLLINS SAYS: ..

A lot of people are wondering why I turned down the chance to manage the Cleveland club at twice the salary I am to get at Philadelphia.

I must admit that such action on my part makes me look like a mighty poor business man. Yet I am sure that those who know me will say that I am a pretty good bargainer.

I have any number of reasons to offer why I decided to remain in Philadelphia. Some I feel are mighty logical, some may be purely sentimental.

In the first place, Connie Mack started me in baseball. There never was a finer man to work for. When he decided to break up his great team of 1914, he made it possible for me to benefit myself to the utmost by making a very advantageous contract with the Chicago White Sox.

When Chicago last year, at a late hour, decided it no longer cared for me as manager, it was Connie Mack who came to the rescue, when it seemed there wasn't a worth while opening left in the majors. He made me his assistant at a fine salary.

Before Cleveland sought my services I had signed with Mack. Yet, when a much better offer came my way, he expressed a willingness to release me from my contract. That was just like Connie Mack, always more than fair.

Then there was the thought that some day Connie Mack might retire and that he might want me to try to carry on where he left off. However, no one could quite do that.

It seemed to me that a sense of loyalty to the man who shaped my career in baseball, and has since influenced it for better, called for my staying with him and doing everything possible to help him put over another pennant winner before he retires. I asked him if he wanted me and when he replied that he did, the Celveland offer was graciously declined.

BAILEY STARS AS LEAFS WIN

Former Pete Engages in Feud With Joliat During Game.

GETS SIX PENALTIES.

MONTREAL, Feb. 3.— Canadiens are still in slump and are staggering more groggily than ever following another clout on their collective chin, a straight right shot with telling effect by a battle-scarred, crippled Toronto team.

Never has there been such a weird, nerve-racking struggle as that which ended in a 4 to 3 victory for the Leafs at the Forum last night, a bitterly fought game which started in peppery fashion with a budding feud between Irvin Bailey and Aurel Joliat and, after a perfect nightmare of hockey, ended with Manager Connie Smythe and others of the Toronto team making pointed remarks to President Calder and referee-in-chief Cooper Smeaton about the way in which the tussle had been handled.

Irving Bailey, a "Goatgetter."

The questioned goal; the injury to Day, which will keep him out of hockey for some six weeks; Toronto's early parade and the rally by Canadiens after they were beginning to look a badly beaten team at the half-way mark, were high spots. But there were others. Irving Bailey, who was the best man on the ice, started early in the game to "get" Auriel Joliat's noted "goat." And Bailey did this with such effect that the pair shared six penalties in the first period. They carried high sticks against each other throughout the tussle. Joliat was put completely off his game ,and it was only in the last period, when Toronto were weakened and their playing strength so depleted that they hardly knew where to place their men, that Joliat showed anything like hockey.

Weird Refereeing.

Toronto took serious objection to a penalty meted out to Bailey in the final session. Albert Leduc cracked the Toronto star over the head when the latter blocked his rush. Leduc was given a major penalty—and then suddenly Bailey was waved off to the bench with a minor. The crowd was mystified by the ruling and the Toronto contingent went wild again, especially Bailey.

The Summary.

First Period.
1—Maple Leafs, Keeling, 2.42.
2—Maple Leafs, Bailey ,16.58.

Second Period.
3—Maple Leafs, Carson (Cox) 2.15.
4—Maple Leafs, Day (Lowrey) 11.22.
5—Canadiens, Gauderault (Lepine) 2.22.

Third Period.
6—Canadiens, Joliat, 4.35.
7—Canadiens, Hart (Lepine) 4.47.

Penalties —First period (Bailey 3, Joliat 3, Day, Herberts); second period (Joliat, Rodden, Langlois); third period (Bailey 3, Morenz, Leduc, major). Leafs 18 minutes, Canadiens 17 minutes.

SHEIKS SPURN PLANES, AUTOS.

Airplanes and automobiles failed to impress a party of real sheiks when they recently visited a small town in the Soudan, but a staircase aroused their veneration. They were familiar with trees growing in groups, but they could explain the shade-givers being in rows only through the trees being able to walk. Water faucets amazed them, for to turn a screw and see water rushing out of a wall seemed magic to them. They bought a number of the "rods of Moses" from a junk dealer to hang on their walls at home to spurt water for them. When their error was explained the dealer took back the faucets, but later each sheik stealthily repurchased them so that he "would not be cheated out of the white man's magic."

MONEY DAYS ABOUT THROUGH

Rickard's Dream of $3,000,000 Gate Fades for Lack of Attractions.

REACHED CLIMAX

BY HENRY L. FARRELL

In discussing recently the difficulties attending any attempt to stage two heavyweight championship bouts in one season, Tex Rickard let it slip out that he didn't expect to draw much more than $1,500,000 for either one of the two fights Gene Tunney had demanded.

When he discovered he had been talking out loud Rickard admitted candidly that for the present at least he had laid aside the hope of reaching the $3,000,000 gate that he predicted before Dempsey-Tunney No. 2 had been staged in Chicago.

Rickard has a very candid way about him when he is in the mood, and unlike the attitude of the New York Giants in the Hornsby case he is willing to give reasons frankly and freely.

"Dempsey is the gate man of all of them", Rickard said, "but I don't believe he'll draw more than a million and a half against Tunney again and anybody else against Tunney is more of a gamble.

"I want to put one of those fights in the Yankee stadium and the best I can do by scaling the house down from $40 will not reach two million. The other places wouldn't draw any more."

Rickard was asked if he thought the days of the "battle of the billions" would never come and that the peak had been reached, as promoters in other sections of the country believe.

"Looks like it right now," he answered. "Can't get the people without the cards."

When he was asked what was the matter with the cards he let it slip out again, although he had made no secret of his opinion at other times.

"Well, Dempsey ain't like he used to be."

Rickard then admitted that Dempsey brought on the million-dollar days of boxing and that as Dempsey declines the market is declining with him.

The question then arose whether it was Dempsey or Jack Kearns who was really responsible (or to blame, if you wish) for the rise of boxing to a place on the New York Stock Exchange list.

A remark that Johnny Kilbane made in Shelby before the Dempsey-Gibbons fight in Shelby was then brought up. Kilbane had just lost the featherweight championship and he had been lucky to get a couple of shots of the big dough. Kearns at this time was being panned all over the nation for using the gun on the cowboy promoters of the fight and even some of his friends were telling him he was all wrong.

"You can say what you want about Kearns, but I wouldn't rap him and no other boxer should rap him", Kilbane said. "He made the big money days for boxing and even preliminary boys have benefited by it."

"Dempsey did that, not Kearns", it was argued.

"Dempsey, nothing", Kilbane came back. "If Kearns hadn't put that big dough idea across, Dempsey would have been fighting for what Willard was getting when he was champion. Kearns asked for the big end and held out until he got it."

It was suggested that even if Dempsey might not be a business genius he would not have been modest enough or dumb enough to take only a small part of a million-dollar gate.

"If Kearns hadn't made his demands so big, there would never have been million-dollar gates. Rickard never would have had the nerve to ask for $50 for tickets. They might still be fighting for ten and fifteen-dollar tops."

Rickard listened to all of it and then remarked:

"They pay to see the fighter."

As Rickard's Garden does not depend entirely on the support of boxing he doesn't have to be alarmed by prospects for the future, but promoters in other sections of the country and the little fellows in New York are losing money and they believe that the business is declining rapidly.

WE CAN'T EAT OVERCOATS

That's a darn funny statement to make, isn't it? We know it, and believe us we suffer too much from indigestion to try it. At times we wish we could eat wool. We would whet our appetite on these swell overcoats and save some money on food.

My good friends, we're up against a tough proposition. We've got about seventy-five overcoats in our store, just about three times as many as we should have at this time of year. The weather man played havoc with the clothing retailer this year and we're no exception. We're trying to wriggle out of a tight squeeze, and this is what we've decided to do. We've taken all our overcoats that sold as high as $35.00 and reduced them to the ridiculously low price of $24.75. And besides this we will allow you $5.00 off this price for your old overcoat, regardless of its condition and turn over all wearable coats to the charity board to give to men who need them badly.

Men, these cats may be indigestible, but that's the only bad thing anybody can say about them. Literally speaking they cannot be eaten, but commercially speaking they will be "eaten up" during the next seven days. And why shouldn't they be at this price? No one has ever offered such values! We are just taking a licking this year, for anticipating good weather and big business. But that's our hard luck. See our ad on another page.

RAFFLE PRIZE STARTS BIG FLOCK

As a result of having won five turketys in a raffle eight years ago, Mrs. W. E. Freeman, of Ardenode, Alberta, became interested in the birds and now has a flock of 800 bronze turkeys, said to be the largest single collection in the West, if not in the whole Dominion. Some of the large herd are seen grazing on Beau Desire ranch, near Calgary. Also shown is Mrs. Freeman.

FLYWEIGHT CHAMP TRAINING HARD

Belanger Working Hard for Bout in Defense of Title.

TORONTO, Feb. 3.—Frenchy Belanger is finding out that the life of a champion is not all milk and honey and he would like to be a prelim. boy again just for the night. When he was battling his way to the top he trained more or less when he felt like it and his hours for going to bed and arising from his downy cot were irregular to say the least. Now conditions are altogether different. Even when he hasn't any engagements he lives a monk-like existence, but when there is a bout in view it is a tough old grind. Belanger's regular program these days calls for him to be on the road at 6.30 in the morning with his shadow, "Polly" Raeme, who sends him up and down the hills at the Rosedale ravine through the deep snow until he is ready to drop with exhaustion. This goes on for an hour and a half, when a halt is called until noon. Then gym work is the order—shadow boxing, rope skipping, sparring and bag punching. It is the latter item that gives Belanger his greatest "kick"—and how. What he does to the 200-pound sand-filled sack is a caution. He wallops it until he has it swinging to the ceiling, and it is easy to be seen where the youngster gets his tremendous punching power after seeing him spend a few minutes at this form of exercise. When in humor the champion is a hard and willing worker and he is training "pretty", to quote Manager Dave Garrity, these days.

Want Belanger.

The Canadian sports writers are up in arms against the action of the New York commission in suspending Frenchy Belanger, their brilliant little flyweight champion. Belanger fouled Frisco Grande in Buffalo a few nights back and he and his manager were asked to come in on the carpet about it. The board, wishing to be fair, wanted to hear the Canadian side of the argument. There was every indication that Frenchy would be let down with a warning, it being his first visit and his first offense. But they didn't show up. For that breach both were set down indifinitely.

The Canadian Press seems to think that it is a plot to wish Belanger's title away. Nothing of the kind. They claim that it would be well for the New York commission to first notify them and then suspend. I'm inclined to think that the New York board did inform them that they must appear. It is possible that, in travelling back and forth, they did not get the summons. That being the case, there is room for explanation, even now. But to say that we are trying to whisk Frenchy's honors away from him isn't true. They are won and lost in the ring, and if Canada treats our boys with as much fairness as we tender invaders in this state, it will be a happy family all around. We're all dead anxious to see Frenchy. Any boy who can whip Newsboy Brown, Genera and Jarvis in one-two-three order is worth looking at. Steal his title? That's so funny! We want to see him fight and we promise him the squarest deal he ever got in his life.

Let's have Frenchy Belanger. We need new life in our rings, new faces, especially when they're worn by boxers worth while.

THEATRES

AT THE REGENT.

RALPH INCE MAKES FAVORITE FILM

Because he has always desired to make a picture based on the background of the Barbary Coast Ralph Ince made an intensive study of that picturesque section of San Francisco's water front several years ago before the strong arm of the law made it the harmless district it is to-day.

The result of this desire and the knowledge gained by Ince's research is "Shanghaied," the great FBO sea picture now playing at the Regent Theatre.

"Shanghaied" is the story of a dancer in one of the tough Barbary Coast joints and her love for a sturdy sea captain. Because she was forced by her employer to aid in a plot against her lover his soul is turned to wormwood and he plans a revenge. His revenge and its result form what is said to be one of the most dramatic situations ever filmed.

Much of the action is laid along the waterfront of San Francisco, and all these scenes are said to be the most realistic ever thrown on the screen, mainly because of the knowledge gained by Ince during his study of this region several years ago. No detail has been too small, according to the director, to have it absolutely accurate.

In addition to his role as director Ince also stars in the picture and is supported by a cast of such famous players as Patsy Ruth Miller, Gertrude Astor, Tom Santschi, Alan Brooks and others. The story is from an original by Edward Montagne.

EARLY DINING COMING BACK

Later dinners among fashionable people of London are passing. The nine and 10 o'clock meals that have been hooked up with cocktail parties are being replaced by comparatively demure repasts at seven and eight. One reason for the change is that women are learning that the cocktail hour, followed by a very late dinner, with more to eat or drink in the early morning, is causing them to put on weight.

LONDON, ENGLAND, HEARD OVER RADIO

Local Fan's Reception Perfect During the Re-broadcast.

Many local radio fans enjoyed an excellent concert yesterday afternoon from station 2-LO, London, which was re-broadcast through WMAK, Buffalo, and for nearly three hours listened to perfect reception. The annunciation was audible all the time, in fact, it was a marvellous achievement, reported local listeners, who stated that it came in clear.

There had been no previous announcement of a plan to attempt the re-broadcast of the London station, because of the doubt as to the possibility of success, and Robert Strigl, announcer at station WMAK told the listener-in how it was accomplished.

Wellington Muir, of Walnut Street, Lockport, a radio engineer, had been experimenting for some time, and on Tuesday afternoon had such good success that he notified station WMAK.

Mr. Muir's house was connected by a telephone line with the broadcasting station at Martinville, where London't programme was re-transmitted over 545 meters.

It was announced over the radio that they would broadcast to-day at 1.44 p.m.

CHURCH REPORTS SHOW GOOD YEAR

Meyersburg Congregation and Ladies' Aid Hold Annual Meeting.

NORWOOD, Feb. 3.—At the annual congregational meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church held recently, the various reports of the different organizations showed a most successful year. For all purposes the givings of the congregation totalled over $4,000, which enables the managers to start this year with a good balance on hand. The receipts from the women's organizations were as follows: Ladies' Aid, $815.48; Women's Missionary Society, $193.06; Y.W.A., $109.50.

The board of managers, ushers, auditors and treasurer were all re-elected for 1928.

Votes of thanks were tendered by the members to all those who had helped to make the past year such a successful one.

A welfare committee, consisting of Messrs. J. W. Rork, J. Robb, I. N. Ackerman and N. C. Porter, was appointed to work with the pastor to promote the interests of the church.

It was decided that the anniversary services would be held in May.

Risk Lives To Get Supplies For Crew of Stranded Ferry.

CONNEAU, Ohio Feb. 3.— (Canadian Press.)—Thirty-one members of the crew of the ice-bound car ferry, Maitland Number 1, looked over the frozen wastes to the Conneau shore two miles away to-day in search of well provisioned sleds, which their nine comrades promised to bring back. Braving the treacherous ice that lies between the stranded ferry and the shore, nine men walked ashore late yesterday and immediately set about garnering food and fuel to carry back to the ship. They have to depend on favorable conditions to assure the success of the dash back.

THE "CANARY" MURDER CASE

by S. S. VAN DINE AUTHOR of THE BENSON MURDER CASE

THE STORY THUS FAR

The jewel case was most baffling to Vance. It had been opened with a steel chisel after unsuccessfully being pried with a poker, and it was found in the room with the murdered Margaret Odell. Spotswoode had gone out with her the evening of the murder. When he left her he told Jessup, at the switchboard, to call a cab. They heard a scream from her room, but when they reached the door were told everything was all right. The next morning she had been found strangled. Vance believes another man was in the apartment beside the murderer and that he hid in the clothes closet. Investigation discloses that Cleaver had been seen with her a lot and he is brought in for questioning.

CHAPTER XVII.

"I can eliminate myself easily enough" Cleaver proclaimed with easy confidence. "There's a speeding summons from Boonton, New Jersey. Note the date and the time: September the 10th—last night—at half past eleven. Was driving down to Hopatcong, and was ticketed by a motorcycle cop just as I had passed Boonton and was heading for Mountain Lakes. Got to appear in court there tomorrow morning. Damn nuisance, these country constables."

He gave Markham a long, calculating look. "You couldn't square it for me, could you? It's a rotten ride to Jersey, and I've got a lot to do to-morrow."

Markham, who had inspected the summons casually, put it in his pocket.

"I'll attend to it for you," he promised, smiling amiably. "Now tell me what you know."

Cleaver puffed meditatively on his cigar. Then, leaning back and crossing his knees, he spoke with apparent candor.

"I doubt if I know much that'll help you. . . . I liked the Canary, as she was called—in fact, was pretty much attached to her at one time. Did a number of foolish things; wrote her a lot of damn-fool letters when I went to Cuba last year. Even had my picture taken with her down at Atlantic City."

He made a self-condemnatory grimace. "Then she began to get cool and distant; broke several appointments with me. I raised the devil with her, but the only answer I got was a demand for money . . ."

He stopped and looked down at his cigar ash. A venomous hatred gleamed from his narrowed eyes, and the muscles of his jowls hardened.

"No use lying about it. She had those letters and things, and she touched me for a neat little sum before I got 'em back. . . ."

"When was this?"

There was a momentary hesitation. "Last June," Cleaver replied. Then he hurried on: "Mr. Markham"—his voice was bitter—"I don't want to throw mud on a dead person; but that woman was the shrewdest, coldest-blooded blackmailer it's ever been my misfortune to meet. And I'll say this, too: I wasn't the only easy mark she squeezed. She had others on her string . . . I happen to know she once dug into old Louey Mannix for a plenty—he told me about it."

"Could you give me the names of any of these other men?" asked Markham, attempting to dissemble his eagerness. "I've already heard of the Mannix episode."

"No, I couldn't." Cleaver spoke regretfully. "I've seen the Canary here and there with different men; and there's one in particular I've noticed lately. But they were all strangers to me."

"I suppose the Mannix affair is dead and buried by this time?"

"Yes—ancient history. You won't get any line on the situation from that angle. But there are others—more recent than Mannix—who might bear looking into, if you could find them. I'm easy-going myself; take things as they come. But there's a lot of men who'd go red-headed if she did the things to them that she did to me."

Cleaver, despite his confession, did not strike me as easy-going, but rather as a cold, self-contained, nerveless person whose immobility was at all times dictated by policy and expediency.

Markham studied him closely.

"You think, then, her death may have been due to vengeance on the part of some disillusioned admirer?"

Cleaver carefully considered his answer.

"Seems reasonable," he said finally. "She was riding for a fall."

There was a short silence; then Markham asked:

"Do you happen to know of a young man she was interested in—good-looking, small, blond mustache, light blue eyes—named Skeel?"

Cleaver snorted derisively.

"That wasn't the Canary's specialty—she let the young ones alone, as far as I know."

"Sorry to disturb you, sir, but there's a phone call for your brother. Party said it was important and, as your brother isn't in the club now, the operator thought you might know where he'd gone."

"How would I know?" fumed Cleaver. "Don't ever bother me with his calls."

"Your brother in the city?" asked Markham casually. "I met him years ago. He's a San Franciscan, isn't he?"

"Yes—rabid Californian. He's visiting New York for a couple of weeks so he'll appreciate Frisco more when he gets back."

It seemed to me that this information was given reluctantly; and I got the impression that Cleaver, for some reason, was annoyed. But Markham, apparently, was too absorbed in the problem before him to take notice of the other's disgruntled air, for he reverted at once to the subject of the murder.

"I happen to know one man who has been interested in the Odell woman recently; he may be the same one you've seen her with—tall about forty-five and wears a gray close-cropped mustache." (He was, I knew, describing Spotswoode.)

Markham was disappointed.

"Unfortunately, he's checked off the list. . . But there must be somebody who was in the girl's confidence. You're sure you couldn't cudgel your brains to any advantage?"

Cleaver appeared to think.

"If it's merely a question of some one who had her confidence," he said, "I might suggest Doctor Lindquist—first name's Ambroise, I think; and he lives somewhere in the Forties near Lexington Avenue. But I don't know that he'd be of any value to you. Still, he was pretty close to her at one time."

"You mean that this Doctor Lindquist might have been interested in her otherwise than professionally?"

"I wouldn't like to say." Cleaver smoked for a while as if inwardly debating the situation. "Anyway, here are facts: Lindquist is one of these exclusive society specialists—a neurologist he calls himself—and I believe he's the head of a private sanitarium of some kind for nervous women. He must have money, and, of course, his social standing is a vital asset to him—just the sort of man the Canary might have selected as a source of income. And I know this: he came to see her a good deal oftener than a doctor of his type would be apt to. I ran into him one night at her apartment, and when she introduced us, he wasn't even civil."

"It will at least bear looking into," replied Markham unenthusiastically. "You've no one else in mind who might know something helpful?"

Cleaver shook his head.

"No—no one."

"And she never mentioned anything to you that indicated she was in fear of any one, or anticipated trouble?"

"Not a word. Fact is, I was bowled over by the news. I never read any paper but the morning Herald—except, of course, The Daily Racing Form at night. And as there was no account of the murder in this morning's paper, I didn't hear about it until just before dinner. The boys in the billiard-room were talking about it, and I went out and looked at an afternoon paper. If it hadn't been for that, I might not have known of it till tomorrow morning."

Markham discussed the case with him until half past eight, but could elicit no further suggestions. Finally Cleaver rose to go.

"Sorry I couldn't give you more help" he said. His rubicund face was beaming now and he shook hands with Markham in the friendliest fashion.

"You wangled that viscid old sport rather cleverly don't y' know," remarked Vance, when Cleaver had gone. "But there's something deuced queer about him. The transition from his gambler's glassy stare to his garrulous confidences was too sudden—suspiciously sudden, in fact. I may be evil-minded, but he didn't impress me as a luminous pillar of truth. Maybe it's because I don't like those cold, boiled eyes of his—somehow they didn't harmonize with his gushing imitation of open-hearted frankness."

"We can allow him something for his embarrassing position," suggested Markham charitably. "It isn't exactly pleasant to admit having been taken in and blackmailed by a charmer."

"Still, if he got his letters back in June, why did he continue paying court to the lady? Heath reported he was active in that sector right up to the end."

"He may be the complete amorist," smiled Markham. "At any rate, he gave us, in Doctor Lindquist, a possible source of information."

"Quite so," agreed Vance. "And that's about the only point of his whole passionate unfoldment that I particularly put any stock in, because it was the only point he indicated with any decent reticence. . . . My advice is that you interview this doctor without further delay."

"I'm dog-tired," objected Markham. "Let it wait till tomorrow."

Vance glanced at the great clock over the stone mantel.

"It's latish, I'll admit, but why not, as Pittacus advised, seize time by the forelock?

'Who lets slip fortune, her shall never find:
Occasion once past by, is bald behind.'

But the elder Cato anticipated Cowley. In his 'Disticha de Moribus' he wrote ——"

"Come!" pleaded Markham, rising. "Anything to dam this flow of erudition."

MAN, 70, WANTS BOBBED WIFE.

Specifications for a wife were given clearly in a letter from a man, who said he is "over 70," to the Board of Health of Belfast, Ireland, recently, asking it to send him a life partner at once. He suggested that a committee choose the mate. "I do not want a very tall woman, because I have a horror of a long sleeper," he wrote, "and would like one with her hair bobbed and shingled, and her neck neatly shaved, the sort of a woman who would always appreciate a close shave. I would like a wife with good eyesight, because if she has a taste for dainties she'll always have to keep on the lookout for them; but I would not desire that the lady have too long a nose. She might be inclined to inconveniently poke it into my neighbors' affairs, and, worse still, into mine." The board members did not know of any such woman that was not in demand.

COUNTRY DOGS HURT IN CITY

Country dogs, taken to cities of England to become racers are swelling the number of accident victims of the Royal Veterinary College of London. While they may be fleet enough on the track they are too slow for city traffic ways. Breeders say they have no traffic sense whatever, and unless carefully watched will surely get into trouble.

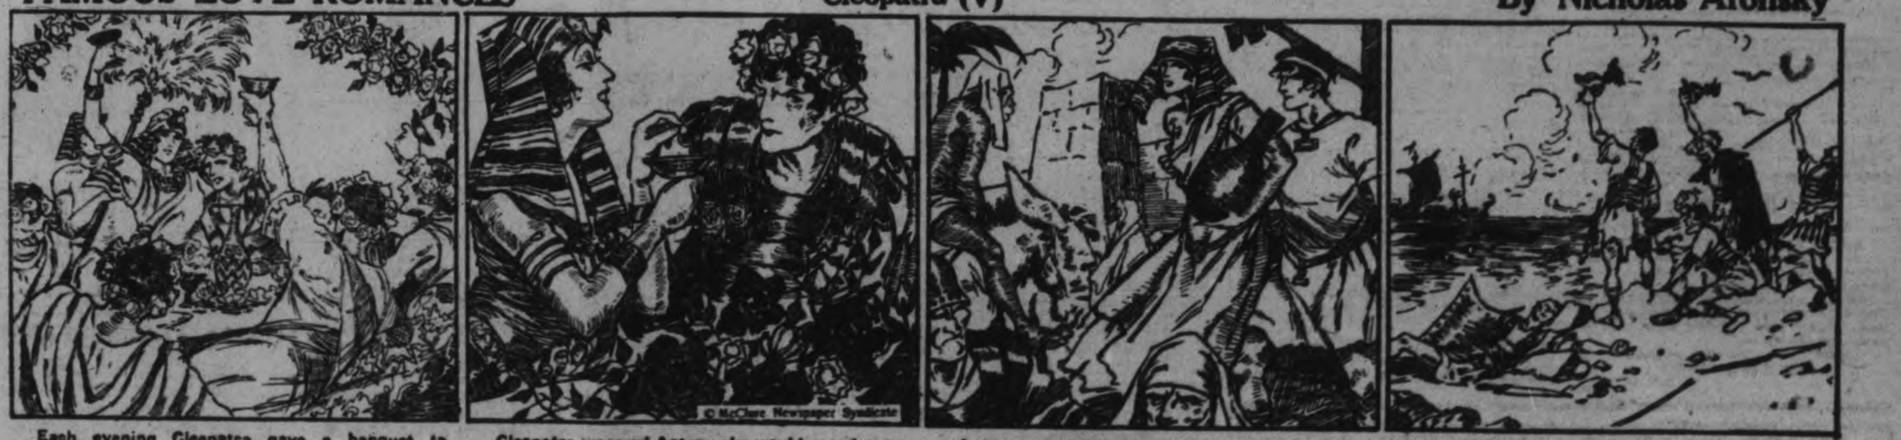
FAMOUS LOVE ROMANCES Cleopatra (V) By Nicholas Afonsky



© McClure Newspaper Syndicate

Each evening Cleopatra gave a banquet to Antony and his friends. Each far surpassed the last in lavishness. The banquetting room was once carpeted two feet deep with roses. Once the queen gave each guest the silken couch on which he had lain, the next night the rich litter and slaves that carried him home.

Cleopatra wagered Antony she would spend seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars on one banquet. After the feast was over Antony chided her with not coming up to her wager.. "Wait," she said. Then, dropping one of her priceless pearl earrings in a cup of vinegar, she waited till it was dissolved, and drank it.

Antony soon fell in love with the daring, passionate young queen. He followed her to Egypt, and forgot the troubles of the Roman world. They fished and hunted, sailed and rode. Sometimes, dressed like a peasant, with Antony as a slave, they would romp through the streets of Alexandria in search of adventure.

Though Antony left Cleopatra many times on military affairs, and though once he married in Rome, their union lasted for years. Once, when he was disastrously defeated by the Parthians, he sent to her for aid, and she headed a fleet carrying all sorts of supplies. She found him and his men in rags.

Ovaltine rebuilds

OVALTINE performs a double duty in the sick room. Its delicious, unique flavour appeals to jaded invalid appetites—and at the same time it quickly helps to build up the run-down system, restoring health and strength.

Easily digested, Ovaltine gives just the right kind of nourishment. It is a perfectly balanced food, rich in vitamins, containing in highly concentrated form all the natural goodness of ripe barley malt, fresh eggs and creamy milk. One cup supplies more nourishment than twelve of beef tea or three eggs. Ask your doctor.

NOTED EVANGELIST WILL SPEAK IN CITY

Rev. A. W .Roffe, of Toronto, at Bethany Tabernacle For Week.

Rev. A. W. Roffe of Toronto will be the speaker at an eight-day Bible and Prayer Conference, to be held in Bethany Tabernacle, George Street, beginning Sunday at the morning service.

Mr. Roffe is well known in Peterborough, having spoken in Bethany Tabernacle and other places of worship frequently, while Superintendent of the Alliance work in Eastern Canada. Mr. Roffe is now National Evangelist for the Christian Missionary Alliance.

The addresses at the evening services, which begin at 8 o'clock, will be from the Bible, on the "Spirit Life in the Believers." Mr. Roffe's long experience as a pastor and teacher qualifies him to unfold the Word of God in its deepest meanings. Every Bible loving Christian should endeavor to hear some, if not all, of these addresses.

The afternoon services, at 3 o'clock will emphasize the subject of prayer. The messages will help the hearers to understand the true purpose and power of prayer. Mr. Roffe is the author of a book and a number of leaflets on the subject of prayer.

This is an opportunity for every believer in Peterborough to get help in the understanding of the Scriptures and to comprehend more fully the meaning of prayer.

Come, bring a friend and your Bible.

Mr. Roffe's Sunday morning subject will be "Up to Carmel and Down." His evening subject will be "If Prayer is a Lost Art, What about Praise?"

THE TOAST.

By Clayton Martin, formerly employed in the Grand Trunk freight office, now serving with the 13th Battalion:

Here's to the day when the war will end,
When peace is restored to the world again;
When the thunder of guns is no longer heard,
And each warring nation has sheathed the sword,
And vowed that never again
'twill be
Unsheathed, for all eternity.

REV. DR. CLAY DIES TO-DAY

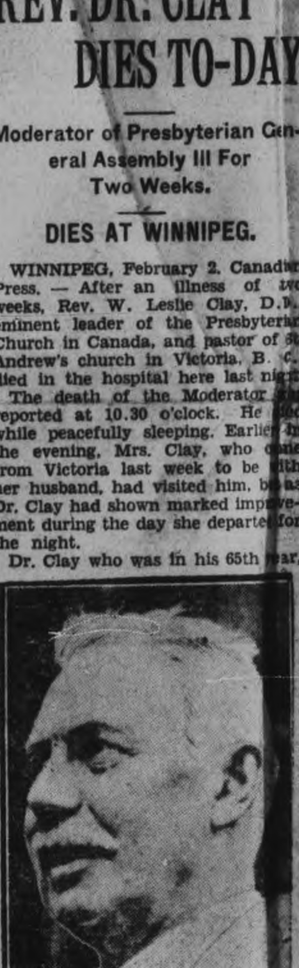
Moderator of Presbyterian General Assembly Ill For Two Weeks.

DIES AT WINNIPEG.

WINNIPEG, February 2. Canadian Press. — After an illness of two weeks, Rev. W. Leslie Clay, D.D., eminent leader of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, and pastor of St. Andrew's church in Victoria, B. C., died in the hospital here last night.

The death of the Moderator was reported at 10.30 o'clock. He died while peacefully sleeping. Earlier in the evening, Mrs. Clay, who came from Victoria last week to be with her husband, had visited him, but as Dr. Clay had shown marked improvement during the day she departed for the night.

Dr. Clay who was in his 65th year, suffered a heart attack while journeying from Victoria to Ottawa to attend the opening ceremonies of parliament. Arriving here on Thursday January 20, he was taken from the train and confined to hospital.



Late Rev. W. L. Clay.

Rev. Dr. William Leslie Clay, B.A., D.D., was one of the outstanding clergymen of British Columbia, and for many years a leading figure in Canadian Presbyterianism.

Born in 1863 at Bedeque, P.E.I., he had a brilliant scholastic career. He attended Prince of Wales College, Charlottetown and graduated with honors from McGill University and Presbyterian College, Montreal. Proceeding in 1890 direct from college to Moose Jaw Sask., he was there ordained to the ministry. Four years later he was called to St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Victoria, B.C., where he remained as pastor for the balance of his ecclesiastical career. Thus in the course of nearly forty years, Dr. Clay served only two churches as pastor in charge.

In 1890 Dr. Clay married Florence N. Letich. There are four daughters and one son.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR.

Arthur Brisbane speaks of four hundred million Chinese going down to "hel" (endless torment) every few years, and says it would soon make a terrific population in the city of suffering, and that billions of Chinese must be there now, to say nothing of the heathen. He says it is a serious problem, that may well worry the missionaries.

But why take heed to such nonsensical talk? The Bible answer to his "serious problem" is—that at death everybody goes to hell with absolutely no exception, even Jesus went there. The Bible hell is the grave, where all await the resurrec-rection. The heathen are no worse of than are the missionaries, all are in the same place, in fact many of the poor heathen will fare far better in that day, than many preachers, who have taken hard earned money as salary, and lived luxuriously and fared sumptuouly every day, and who have falsely represented God and His Word. It is to be deplored that as to what "hell" really is seldom finds any place in the public press or pulpit, on account of the preachers having so much influence, and having so much their own way. But gradually the truth is coming out.—M. T. Butcher. 1d-29-3134

GEORGE SALTMAN.

The death occurred this morning of George Saltman, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Saltman, 457 Gilmour street.

MRS. HUGH LOWERY

The death took place in Peterborough today February 3, of Pauline Alberta Lowery, beloved wife of Hugh Lowery, R.R. 1, Franklin, terminating a lengthy illness. Deceased was widely known and esteemed in the district in which she lived and word of her passing was received with genuine regret.

The funeral will take place from the family residence, R.R. 1, Franklin, on Sunday, February 5, proceeding to St. Mary's Cemetery, Manvers, for interment.

MISS FANNY THOMPSON.

CAVAN, February 3. — On Tuesday the funeral of the late Miss Fanny Thompson, a former resident of Cavan, took place. The remains were brought from Whitby, arriving at Millbrook on the noon train. A funeral service was held in Cavan United Church, conducted by Rev. J. O. Totten.

Those who gathered in the church for the service were personal friends of the deceased, many of whom, as boys and girls, had been members of her Sunday School class.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. Jas. Douglas, William Tinney, C. Carr, William Pritchard, R. Winslow, and John Newton. Interment was in St. John's Cemetery, Ida.

FISH AND GAME SOCIETY MEETS

Annual Meeting Will Be Held in Empress Hotel Next Tuesday.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association will be held on Tuesday evening, Feb. 7, at eight o'clock. The meeting will be held in the Empress Hotel and President Chris Graham is anxious to have as large an attendance as possible.

R. G. STURGEON WINS TROPHY

Matthews-Blackwell Cup Only One of Four To Stay in City.

FINAL PLAYED TO-DAY.

Peterborough's big curling bonspiel closed to-day when R. G. Sturgeon defeated M. B. Chenhall in the Matthew-Blackwell finals. Mr. Sturgeon was beaten out last night by two points in the finals of the Morrow Trophy, but he came back to-day with a nice win. Mr. Chenhall's rink made a good showing and are to be congratulated on the showing they made, as they are a regular schedule rink.

At the fifth end this morning Mr. Chenhall was up five to two, but on the next four ends Sturgeon got two, three, two and one points respectively. Chenhall got two in the tenth and one in the thirteenth, and Sturgeon added to his total in the rest of the ends.

Mr. Sturgeon's rink has played twelve games since the bonspiel opened, and reached the finals in the two major series. In the twelve games played they won eleven and lost the other by two points.

The ice during the bonspiel was the best in the history of the local event, and from all prospects a bigger bonspiel than ever will be here next year.

W. D. Campbell presented the trophy and leather club bags to the members of the winning rink. In making the presentation he congratulated Mr. Sturgeon on making his splendid showing in both series, and also remarked that the club was also glad that he did not win the two trophies, for from the standpoint of the visitors who come here to play it would not look just the thing.

H. F. Foote presented the fancy glass sandwich and olive dishes to the members of Mr. Chenhall's rink

BIBLE SOCIETY MISUNDERSTOOD

Not Connected With Bible Students' Association in Any Way.

TRANSLATES SCRIPTURES.

Some people at least in Peterborough do not appear to clearly understand the difference between the Upper Canada Bible Society, of which there is an active branch in Peterborough, and the Bible Students' Association, known as the Russelites and as Millenial Dawnists. Last evening an officer of the local branch of the Bible Society was in a home in Peterborough when a lady representing one of the Peterborough Protestant churches called in connection with the city-wide canvass that is in progress to raise funds for the Bible Society. The gentleman of the house opened the door and from the conversation which took place it was evident that he believed she represented the Bible Students. After she had left, the difference between the two organizations was explained to him, somewhat to his surprise. In view of the fact that there may be others in the city who are under the same misapprehension, it has been thought desirable to point out the difference.

The Bible Society is supported by all the Protestant Church of Canada. It translates the scriptures into different languages and circulates them through the different missionary organizations of the various Protestant churches. The Bible Students are followers of the late Pastor Russel, and from time to time send their members throughout the city from house to house selling copies of Pastor Russell's books. Just at present women representing some fourteen churches in Peterborough are canvassing the city by districts to raise funds for the Bible Society.

NEW FORWARD MOVEMENT IS OUTLINED AT MEETING

Purpose Re-organization and Refinancing of Peterborough Chamber of Commerce.

MANY ADDRESSES.

Expert in Charge Gives Interesting Talk on Work To Be Undertaken.

The Peterborough Chamber of Commerce is a going concern at present. As for its future, its continued success on a much larger scale seems assured if the dinner meeting of the Board of Directors, held last evening in the Empress Hotel, may be taken as a criterion. A splendid new forward movement, which has as its purpose the re-organization and refinancing of the Chamber was most ably outlined at the meeting and the general feeling of all present seemed to be that there was something worth while. As one man said at the conclusion of the meeting, "it's good and it's going to go over big."

The Chairman.

In the absence of President G. A. Gillespie in Windsor, Past President Chris Graham was appointed master of ceremonies and he met the responsibilities of his office ably. He it was who called the members to the festive board and afterward briefly introduced the various speakers and matters of business which arose.

H. R. McKeen.

As the main speaker of the meeting, Harry R. McKeen, who with his co-workers, Dr. Alexander Karr, of the American City Bureau, is conducting the campaign, gave a most comprehensive talk on the various phases of the work to be undertaken. He explained that the main purpose of the campaign is, as stated above, to re-organize and re-finance the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce as has been the case in some thirty-two towns and cities of the Dominion. Among them are Toronto, Hamilton, London, Montreal, Medicine Hat, Alta, Victoria, B.C.

He said in part: "The purpose of the the "Peterborough Forward Movement" is to arouse public interest on the part of the citizenship of the town and environs in the re-organization, refinancing of the Chamber of Commerce and the co-ordination of the several allied agencies in such a way that Peterborough can meet the competition for men and money in the Dominion, from the Mother Country and the States, to the end that the town may not only hold its own but surge steadily forward economically.

Things don't just happen any more, especially in town building. If anything turns up about Peterborough somebody is going to do the turning. The program outlined above cannot be accomplished by "wishing." It will require backbone, investment of time, money and energy. This must all be volnutary on the part of Peterborough's representative and professional people.

The first thing to be done is to get a representative membership in the Chamber of Commerce. Adequate finance naturally follows. Then it will be possible with 'men' and 'money' to systematically carry out a program of work. The first steps in the Peterborough Forward Movement will be to set up an organization from the citizenship to "sell" the organization and secure support financially.

The campaign organization consists of three parts or groups all working at their several tasks under the direction of the manager who has charge and is responsible to the board of directors. He will be aided by the Educational director. All matters of policy will be passed upon by the executuive committee, consisting of the general chairman, chairman of Activities and Colonel of Teams. The volunteer groups will consists of four committes, Advisory, Activities, Educational, Quota. It might be mentioned that the names of the members of these committeemen have not as yet been confirmed. When this is accomplished, the names will be published.

The sales force will be divided into two groups, sustaining the Activities fund and Membership team. Each committee and group will have specific tasks assigned by the chairman.

Duties of Groups.

The Advisory committee will consist of the Board of Directors, augmented by fourteen other men to be chosen, so that the committee shall be representative of every group in the entire community. This committee will pass on the policies of the campaign, determine items suggested, the budget presented by the Board of Directors and Staff the annul dues, etc

From this group, by reason of prompt action will be selected an executive committee which will have general charge of the campaign, following policies laid down by the Advisory committee.

The Quota committee, consisting of three representative men familiar with the financial standing of the prospects to be solicited, it is understood that theirs is only a suggestive quota as the prospect must always be the final arbiter of the amount invested in the organization.

The Educational committee will arrange speaking engagements before

Electrical Acts Being Modernized

OTTAWA, Feb. 4 (Canadian Press).—Parliamentary authority is to be sought for the appointment of a Director of Electricity. The aim of the measure, which will be a government bill, is to bring the Electrical Inspection Act into conformity with existing conditions in electricty in regard to the commercial unit of supply, units of electrical measure, inspection standards, verification of meters, and related matters.

URGES SHOWING OF TRENT VIEWS

Claude H. Rogers Thinks Exhibit Would Help If Taken To Motor Shows.

PROPOSES FISH SANCTUARY.

Claude H. Rogers, president of the Peterborough Canoe Company, was so favorably impresesd by the Trent Waterway Development Association's display at the New York Motor Boat Show that he recommends a similar advertising effort at the automobile shows, for instance, at Rochester, Cleveland, Buffalo, and Detroit.

"The Trent Association's exhibit certainly attracted crowds and got attention," Mr. Rogers told The Examiner. "It was money well spent, and any citizen of the municipalities that are contributing to the Association would fully agree with me. The Motor Boat Show brings together all the motor boat men and women of the country, and it was largely attended, but I believe we would get even better results in the way of advertising this district to prospective tourists if we could have that exhibit at some of the automobile shows. The colored transparent pictures of Trent waterways were excellent, and they would have the effect we all desire if more of them were made and distributed in some of the large hotels and railway ticket offices or other prominent places in cities across the border."

Mr. Rogers' contention is that many of the United States towns and cities are comparatively close to the Trent district. It is only seven or eight hours by car from Buffalo, for example, and suitable docking facilities at Charlotte would bring Rochester more closer to Central Ontario. Agitation for that improvement should be continued by the Trent Association, Mr. Rogers suggested. His chief comment, however, is that some effort should be put forth to extend the present advertising plans of the Trent Association to the automobile shows, in addition to the motor boat show.

As To Fishing.

"Should we describe the Trent waters as a fisherman's paradise?" Mr. Rogers suggested. "All this district is an ideal summer resort for tourists, and those who come for a holiday might come anyway, whether you promised them good fishing or not. But when you do tell the world that all the rivers and lakes around here afford good fishing, and real fishermen come here only to be disappointed, you are likely to lose them next year. And we want them to come back year after year, as many of them do."

Piscatorial Sanctuaries.

"What should be done," Mr. Rogers continued, "is to arouse local and Governmental interest in our own

PALMIST FORMER RESIDENT OF CITY

Prof. P. C. McKenna Recalls Minstrel Shows of 20 Years Ago.

Prof. P. C. McKenna, Master Palmist and Phrenologist, who has been in the city for some weeks in connection with his profession, was at one time a resident of Peterborough and took part in several amateur minstrel shows that were put on here.

In speaking of one event of over twenty years ago, he recalled the names of a number who took part in it. One item on the program was an instrumental duet, Frank Clark on the banjo, and Prof. McKenna on a one string violin. This particular item rather fell flat as the violin was not in the right key.

He was also a member of the first T.A.S. Band. He was much impressed with the substantial, if not very rapid, growth of the city.

Arrives At Winnipeg With Second Plane

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 4. — (Canadian Press).—Lieut. Bernt Balchen, famous trans-Atlantic flyer, piloting the second of the six big Fokker "Universal" monoplanes, bought by the Western Canada Airways, Limited, Winnipeg, for commercial service in Northern Manitoba, arrived here yesterday afternoon.

Balchen completed his 1,500-mile journey from New York without serious mishap. He was temporarily delayed at Madison, Wis., owing to a defective oil feed line. The flyer will make four more trips from New York to this city with the remainder of the machines purchased.

LEGION PLANS HAIG SERVICE

Will Conduct Memorial For Late Commander of British Forces.

AT ALL SAINTS'.

At a meeting of the Canadian Legion executive last night it was decided to hold a Memorial Service for the late Field Marshal Earl Haig on Sunday, February 12, at All Saints' Church. Instructions were read from the Dominion Command, and an invitation from Rev. J. Douglas Paterson. Officers commanding the militia units of the ctiy will be asked to have their units represented, and all returned soldiers are invited to parade.

It was decided that the service should be held in the afternon, and that the public be invited to join in doing honor to the memory of the man who commanded the British Armies, in which the Canadian Corps held an honorable position. The branches of the Canadian Legion all over Canada will observe this Memorial Service on the same day.

There were present: Commander J. A. Abraham, N. E. Crowe, J. R. Heron, and the secretary, S. Whatley.

ELLIOTT STAFF ORGANIZES CLUB

Mrs. F. Marshall is President of Society of Girl Employees.

FOR RECREATION.

Concrete evidence of the friendly relations between the Elliott Manufacturing Company and its employees is seen in the recent formation of the "Elliott Club,' 'organized by and for the girls of the company.

At an organization meeting held in the L.O.O.M. hall officers were elected as follows:

President—Mrs. Frances Marshall.
Secretary—Miss Kathlyn Allen.
Treasurer—Miss Rosa Jay.

The appointments of committees on Membership, Entertainment, Sports, Music and Refreshments also took place during the meeting and as there is considerable talent available, the Music committee is already planning a program of instrumental and vocal numbers. A piano, and a radio receiving set is already possessed by the club, and a Victrola will be obtained, making possible a varied and complete musical program at any time.

The club is thought by its organizers to be one of the first of its kind yet established. Its objects will be to foster recreation, sports, musical and social pleasures. In fact it is planned to have a "Friends' Night" each month to which the members will bring their friends, while another worthy feature is a Christmas Club within the Club, having a fund to which all will contribute so that there will be ample money at the end of the year to tide the club over the Christmas season of giving.

Taken in all, this new club is expected to be a distinct asset to the employees and further word of its progress will be heard before long.

GOOD ICE TO-NIGHT AT BROCK ST. RINK

Skating and Band Concert — Skate While There Is Ice.

There will be skating at the Brock street rink to-night. The ice is exceptionally good and it is possible there will not be very much skating during the balance of the season, owing to the weather conditions this year, so it would be advisable to take advantage of all the skating opportunities there are.

To-night there will be a fine band concert and a good sized crowd is expected.

The Panama canal is 50 miles long.

MANY TOPICS ARE DISCUSSED IN COMMONS

Maritime Rights, Status and Tobacco Duties Among Subjects Discussed.

ADJOURNED TILL MONDAY.

South Essex Member Advocates Extension of Co-operative Tobacco Marketing.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 4. — Canadian Press. — Another day of speeches failed to bring House debate on the address to an end. The speeches came from both sides and touched on almost every imaginable topic—Maritime rights, revision of the steel tariff, Hudson Bay Railway, status, tobacco duties—all had their innings as the discussion ebbed and flowed. H. K. Smith, (Conservative, Cumberland) urged that Nova Scotia's representation in the House be increased from fourteen to fifteen.

For difficulties among the tobacco growers of Western Ontario, Eccles J. Gott (Conservative, Essex South) advocated an increase from 40 to 65 cents per pound on flue cured tobacco from the United States; extension of the co-operative marketing and a reduction in the excise tax.

Miss Agnes McPhail brought a smile into the listless debate. W. G. Bock, Liberal, of Maple Creek, was speaking.

"I have been somewhat impressed" Mr. Bock declared, "by the grandeur, the splendour of these historic halls, conscious as I am that I am surrounded by brilliant statesmen and gifted orators——"

Miss McPhail interrupted with her first remark of the session.

"I wouldn't take the splendour too seriously," she said caustically.

The house was amused but the debate soon rolled again on its way.

J. A. Bradette (Liberal, North Temiskaming) thought that in proceeding slowly on the St. Lawrence waterway, the government was following the only practical course. Mr. Bradette was the last speaker of the evening. Following his remarks the House went over till Monday afternoon.

Senators Clash

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 4. (Canadian Press).—Debate on the address continued in the Senate yesterday, with Hon. Gideon Robertson and Hon. J. S. Maclennan speaking. Senator Robertson agreed that the Government should have cause of rejoicing in 1927—Canada's Jubilee Year—"after the Gethsemane they had passed through in 1926 and the cross they had to carry for weeks and months during the long investigation, and now, when they were approaching their Calvary, they committed harikari." To find themselves ransomed by the people must have been an occasion for great rejoicing.

A sharp passage between Senator Robertson and Senator Dandurand occurred following a reference by the former to the visit of the Prince of Wales. Senator Robertson declared it was well known how one member of the government had travelled at least 1000 miles in advance of royal party to have his constituents present the Prince with a bouquet at 7.50 in the morning. That was remarkable when one recalled that the same minister during two preceding elections, failed to have the National Anthem sung at any of his meetings, as far as he was aware.

Hon. Mr. Dandurand: Is it customary in some parts of the country"—

Hon. Mr. Robertson: It was in that constituency.

Hon. Mr. Dandurand: —at political meetings to sing the National Anthem?

Hon. Mr. Robertson: I am surprised that my honorable friend should ask such a question.

Hon. Mr. Dandurand: In party wrangles at public meetings we do not think of the National Anthem.

Hon. Mr. Belcourt: We know that the flag can be used pretty often.

Senator Robertson replied that at no political meeting which he had attended did the people fail to remember first that they were British subjects and to pay their respects to the sovereign by singing the National Anthem.

Senator Robertson deplored increasing expenditures on embassies in foreign countries and said that such were liable to lead to bankruptcy. He criticized the trade treaties entered into between this country and France and Australia and charged the government with having increased taxation. With regard to population he said that immigration as distinct from colonizaton, was no longer necessary in Canada to the same extent as previously. The manufacturing industries of the country could not absorb additional men. He hoped that the Government would continue its aid to technical education.

Senator Maclennan agreed that too much attention had been given to immigration. Once the people in this country were prosperous there would be no difficulty in getting others to come here. Senator Maclennan asked with regard to the Canadian diplomatic service, if it has to be open to career-men, or would the appointments be political? He also enquired if the Canadian diplmats would be drawn from these persons with wealth or would others of more modest means have an opportunity to enter the service?

Senator Foster adjourned the debate, and the Senate rose until Tuesday next.

ITALIANS LIVING ABROAD GIVEN CONSTITUTION

May Become Members of the Fascist Regime Under Its Terms.

ISSUED TO-DAY.

Obedience To Laws Where They Are Living and to Party Discipline Enjoined.

ROME, Feb. 4 (Canadian Press).—A world wide organization of Fascism is outlined in the new constitution for Fascists abroad which has been issued by Premier Mussolini. By this constitution, Italians resident in other countries may swear allegiance to the Fascist regime, receive membership cards of the organization and receive direction from Consuls abroad as direct representatives of the Fascist Government.

The constitution consists of twelve articles of nearly twenty paragraphs, the first of which calls upon all Italians abroad to respect the laws of the countries in which they are living, and enjoins Fascists abroad to probity in their public and private lives, to be charitable to compatriots in want, and to be disciplined with the same discipline imposed upon the Fascists of the homeland.

PARTS FROM OPERA FEATURE PROGRAM

Miss Audrie Rubanni Will Give Selections From Norma.

One of the interesting portions of the concert to be given by Mis Audrie Rubanni in the Grand Opera House on Monday evening will be parts from the opera "Norma." This is especially interesting in that it will be given in the original key. On account of caste difficulties, this fete has not taken place, as far as is known, in the Metropolitan Grand Opera House of New York City, during the past 38 years. Miss Rubanni in this fete has been heard by a member of the original La Scala Grand Opera Company, who still lives, and his approval was extremely enthusiastic. The Italian "Courier" of New York City, states that her execution of this role is marvellous.

The story of the opera deals with the love of Norma, high priestess of the Druids in Gaul, for Pollio, a Roman proconsul, whom she has clandestinely married. Pollio conceives a violent passion for Adalgisa, a virgin of the temple of Irminsul and, won by his protestations, she consents to fly with him. Agonized, however, by the thought of her broken vows, she confesses to the high priestess. Norma, discovering who the lover of Adalgisa is, becomes infuriated, but later, resolves to make amends for her past errors by confessing her guilt and perishing on the funeral pyre. Adalgisa, aghast on finding out the truth about Pollio and Norma endeavors to dissuade her, and promises to bring back Pollio, repentant. He refuses to listen to the plea of Adalgisa to return to Norma, and follows the former into the temple, an offence punishable by death. He is brought before Norma, the high priestess, who promises to aid his escape if he will renounce Adalgisa. He prefers death. This leaves only one alternative for Norma, who publicly proclaims her own infamy and demands to be led to death. Pollio, moved by her devotedness feels his old affection return, and ascends the funeral pyre with her.

OFFICERS SEEK MORE VICTIMS

HEARING FEB. 9.

MONTREAL, Feb. 4.— (Canadian Press.)—Despite the denal of Joseph Coulombe, confessed butcher of two persons, that he had any more victims to his credit, police to-day were continuing their search of his squalid quarters on Sanguinet street, for evidences of further possible crimes. Meanwhile, Coulombe was behind prison bars, being held for preliminary hearing set for Feb. 9, a coroner's jury yesterday having held him responsible for the death of Arthur Richard, whose body Coulombe confessed to having dismembered after killing him with his bare hands during a brawl on January 3.

Police Arrest Third Set of Boy Bandits

WINNIPEG, Man., February 4 (Canadian Press). — Activities of Winnipeg "baby burglars" were curtailed further when detectives yesterday arrested four juveniles, members of the third gang to be broken up this week.

Seven shopbreaking and one housebreaking charge are laid to the four.

Five juveniles made a short-lived escape on Thursday night from custody at the Detention Home, but were quickly rounded up by police as they were settling down to sleep in the back of a local store.

FEW BUYERS VISIT MARKET

Rain Serves To Keep Down the Attendance This Morning.

GREAT VARIETY OFFERED.

Buying was desultory at the farmers' market this morning. The rain that dampens the potatoes and carrots represses the spirits of the patrons and vendors alike. There is an air of sedate gravity about the market on such mornings.

In the basket section, large, plump chickens were much in evidence. They sold from 30 to 35 cents a pound and senior birds were 28 cents a pound. Ducks were 30 cents a pound, the same price as a pint of cream. Eggs were 40 and 45 cents a dozen, and butter was 40 cents a pound. The usual sale of miscellaneous articles was going on this morning. Packages of tea and coffee, woollen socks, cooking of all descriptions, from home-made bread to tarts and pumpkin pies, Devonshire cream in little bowls at 50 cents apiece, silk flowers for coats and patchwork tops for bedspreads—all form the offerings in the basket section.

On the open market, potatoes were selling at $1.60 a bag and red onions at $2.25. Pork was priced at 14 and 16 cents and 15 and 17 cents. Little pigs' hearts were two for fifteen cents. Other vegetables were at the usual range of prices.

A philanthropic gentleman who had a large and rather silent audience was offering gold watches and opera glasses and fountain pens at a bargain.

Hay was priced at $14.00 a load and wood had a wide range. A load of elm was $8.00, mixed wood was $7.00, and hardwood ranged from $9.00 to $12.00 a load, cut and ready for the stove.

VISITOR ADDRESSES MEN OF ST. PAUL'S

Alexander Karr Will Give Talk at Meeting on Monday.

Alexander Karr, who is in this city in the interests of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, planning a "Peterborough Forward Movement," will address St. Paul's Men's Association at the annual meeting on Monday night at 8.00 o'clock. Mr. Karr is a gifted and interesting speaker, with wide experience along constructive community building lines. He will be in the city from Feb. 3rd to 11th, and during that time he expects to address many meetings of clubs, social, labor, and agricultural groups. He is particularly qualified by training and experience to speak to merchants and their employees along the lines of salesmanship.

PORTRAIT UNVEILED OF REV. R. POGUE

TORONTO, Feb. 4.—The unveiling of a portrait of Rev. Robert Pogue, minister of St. Enoch's United church, Winchester and Metcalfe streets, featured an enjoyable event held on Wednesday evening by the Ladies' Aid Association of the church, to mark the opening of the new Robert Pogue Sunday school. The address of the occasion was given by J. R. Robinson, who splendidly expressed the esteem and appreciation with which all parishioners, and particularly the Ladies 'Association, regarded the pastor, who had by his untiring efforts made the new building possible.

THREE-HOUR DAY FOR BEGGARS

Because of the great number of beggars in Asakusa Park near Tokyo, Japan, they have drawn up an agreement specifying the number of hours they may "work" each day. No beggar may ply his "trade" more than three hours in 24. The agreement has greatly lessened the confusion caused by the alms seekers there, who, despite the short hours, collect nearly $35 a month, which are considered high wages in Japan, especially as the beggars sleep under the floors of the temple.

COUNCIL COMMITTEES MEET IN THREE LONG SESSIONS

Finance, Board of Works, and Fire, Water and Light Meet.

HEATED DISCUSSION.

Consulting Engineers Engaged For Sewage Disposal Plant —Fire By-law Revised.

Three committees of the council met last night, their sessions taking from 7.30 to 11.05. Much of the time was devoted to rather tedious proceedings but some heated arguments ensued. Among the business transacted was:

The Boy Scout Association was granted $125 towards the expenses of the convention here this month. —(Finance Committee.)

A. G. Metheral, Plumbing Inspector and Relief Officer, was granted an increase of $100 in the allowance made him for the use of his car in his duties. —(Finance Committee.)

Consideration was promised the Children's Aid Society's request for a grant of $2000 instead of $1200. —(Finance Committee.)

City Engineer R. H. Parsons was given authority to engage Gore, Nasmith and Storrie as consulting engineers on the addition to the sewage disposal plant.—(Board of Works.)

W. H. Lytle's offer to take $114 in settlement of his claim for rent for a cement mixer, later bought by the city was accepted. The bill had been $228.—(Board of Works.)

The revised fire department by-law was read and with a few changes passed on to the council for passing.—(Fire, Water and Light.)

In Ald. Phelan's absence Ald. Greene was voted into the chair, on motion of Ald. McIntyre and Ackerman, and the Finance Commitee meeting began.

A deputation headed by W. R. Morris and including J. John and J. J. Turner, represented the Peterboro Boy Scout Association.

Mr. Morris explained that the Ontario convention is being held here this year, and asked for $125 to help defray the expenses. The subscriptions received every year are only enough to carry the regular work.

Alderman Ackerman asked regarding the number of troops, and was told there are six.

J. J. Turner supported the request made and asked that it be regarded as an investment rather than as a donation. The delegates will take away a good impression of the city and it will not do for the city to fall down. He told of the association's intention of arranging for souvenir packages advertising the various industries of the city. The $125 will cover such items as hall rental, invitations and other incidentals.

Mr. John endorsed the appeal of the other gentlemen, reiterating that the grant will be for convention expenses and not for the regular budget.

The chairman assured the deputation that the appeal would have sympathetic consideration.

The deputation retired and the aldermen voted the money without debate, Ald. Stocker, the seconder, taking opportunity to commend the work.

Ald. Greene remarked his pleasure at seeing several conventions being planned for the city this year.

Ald. Ackerman stated that many of the associations of boys need only a little help and proposed that the aldermen keep a look-out for suitable quarters for the Scouts.

Aldermen McIntyre and Ackerman who moved that Ald. Greene be chairman, and had been sitting back from the table, moved up when Ald. Phelan came in, and Ald. Greene, calling attention to this, surrendered the chair to Ald. Phelan.

An extra long list of indigent patients in the hospitals was read but the chairman explained that it was for two months.

More Money for Car.

Relief Officer A. G. Metheral asked an extra $150 for the use of his car, pointing out that he had driven his car 2471 miles for $150. He had also spent $9.50 in car tickets.

Ald. Stocker proposed that $100.00 more would bring the total up to more than ten cents a mile and moved that this be done. Ald. Greene seconded.

Ald. McIntyre pointed out that there was other wear and tear on the car and Aldermen Huffman and Cotton moved an amendment calling for $150.

"Granted that Mr. Metheral has saved the city a great deal during the year" said Ald. Greene "there is always the danger of setting a precedent."

"As one who has driven a car for 17 years" returned Ald. Huffman, "I don't see how he can drive his car that distance for less."

The vote was 4-4, but Ald. Macdonald, who had come in late, voted for the motion, when the matter had been explained to him, and the increase was set at $100.

A circular asking the city to advertise in the American Campers' Manual was turned down but the city will renew its advertising in Ackerman's Sportsmen's Guide at the same rate.

Children's Aid Asks $2000.

John Edgar, secretary of the Children's Aid Society, presented a statement showing what the society would have received had it billed the

Militiaman Killed During Short Course

KINGSTON, Ont., Feb. 4.—(Canadian Press.)—Sergt. George Caldwell, of Sydney, N.S., died to-day from injuries received at Tete Du Pont Barracks recently when he was thrown from an ammunition limber on which he was riding, alighting on his head. An inquest and military inquiry will be held. Sergt. Caldwell was a member of the 36th Battery of the Canadian Field Artillery and was attending the short course at the Royal School of Artillery here.

FINE ADDRESS GIVEN ON TRENT

Walter Fowlds Extols Beauties of District Over Radio.

VISITED EXHIBIT.

The following are excerpts from the address on the Trent Waterways which Walter Fowlds of Hastings broadcast from Station WEBJ New York City, last week: "Plan a tour of Trent Waterway this year and let your car bring you unexpected pleasure. Rich in historical romance, impressive in modern achievements, the Trent waterway will give you a never-to-be-forgotten vacation. Here are motor highways and lakeland vistas of entrancing beauty. Each mile opens an exquisite panorama. Each moment reveals a new picture; each picture a surprise and inspiration."

Also "Central Ontario the cradle of the Trent Waterway, is the home of the canoe. A silver network of dustless waterways invites the sturdy paddler. Vast stretches of cool, sweet smelling pine ford secluded retreats where deer and other monarchs of the wild scamper at the first sound of the intruder. Clear days of glorious sunshine and cool, restful nights bring health with every breath."

These paragraphs are only a sample of Dr. Fowlds panegyric. The president of the Trent association surely sold the scenic and holiday attractions of the Trent Waterway to some of his unseen audience whose imaginations were keen enough to follow him along "dustless waterways, through sweet-smelling pine."

Mr. Fowlds, accompanied by his wife, went to New York chiefly to see the association's exhibit. The trip was undertaken on his own initiative, and is just another evidence of the sincerity of Mr. Fowld's interest in any enterprise to which he gives his thought and work. He is a born booster with a great fund of energy and enthusiasm and a gift of friendliness that has given permanence to his personal contacts far from his native Hastings.

Other local visitors at the Trent Association booth were Mr. and Mrs. Claude Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Wood, Fred Hungerford, Ross Dobbin and Fred Roy.

CHOIR BANQUET WELL ATTENDED

Talk on Harmony Features Annual Social at Park Street.

The annual choir banquet of Park Street Baptist Church was held in the Sunday School Hall on Thursday, with a full attendance of choir members and a number of visitors.

After a very sumptuous repast, a toast to the King was proposed by Mr. M. Dunkley; the toast to visiting guests by Mr. C. Lapp, and the toast to the pastor and his wife, Rev and Mrs. Harton, by Mr. George Batley, the president of the choir. This was responded to by Rev. J. L. Harton.

Rev. William McDonald of Knox Church gave a very fine address on "Harmony," dwelling on the need of harmony among the choir members and between the choir as a whole and the church, bringing out as a main point, the necessity of harmony throughout a church as a great radiating influence for good in the community and the world.

A presentation of a letter of appreciation and a cheque from the church was made to Mr. C. Lapp, the popular organist, and a letter of appreciation and a cheque from the church was presented to the choir as a whole.

Community singing was a feature of the evening, led by Mr. George Batley, with Mr. Lapp at the piano.

The remainder of the evening was spent in playing games and before dispersing all joined hands and sang "Auld Lang Syne"

BRITISH STATESMAN SETS SAIL FROM ST. JOHNS FOR LIVERPOOL

Rt. Hon. L. C. M. S. Amery More Than Satisfied With Canadian Tour.

SUMMARY OF TRAVELS.

Has Been On Tour of British Dominions For Over Six Weeks.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Feb. 4 (Canadian Press).—Lieutenant-Colonel the Right Hon. L. C. M. S. Amery, British Secretary of State for the Dominions, and Mrs. Amery and party sailed from here last night on the liner Montclare, which pulled away from the dock at 8.10 o'clock, en route to Liverpool, England.

Six Months' Term.

Previous to sailing, Rt Hon. L. C. M. S. Amery gave the Canadian Press the following summary of the impressions he had gained throughout his tour of the Empire and particularly during his sojourn in Canada:

"Having now come to the end of my tour of over six months of the British Dominions, I can say unhesitatingly that I am more than satisfied with its result. I set out in the first instance to learn, and, thanks to the members of all the governments and indeed communities visited, I have learned a great deal, both about the economic development and the general outlook in every Dominion which will be invaluable to me in dealing with the whole problem of our mutual co-operation in the future. I set out also in the hope of contributing something towards the satisfying of that need of personal contact between the governments of the Empire which we all realized at the last Imperial conference as the essential element in maintaining a unity which is based not on centralized control but on mutual understanding and sympathy. Whereas at the Imperial conferences we British Ministers only meet two or three Ministers from each Dominion, and occasionally meet others who visit us in the interim between conferences, I have been able to get to know almost every Minister in every government, Federal or Provincial, in all the Dominions, as well as leading men in all parties and in every walk of life. While many bonds of old friendship and sympathy have linked me in the past with all the Dominions, and especially with Canada, I feel that I return home with the old friendships renewed and strengthened and innumerable new ones added. It was also my hope that in the course of such personal contact I might expedite current business that was in course of discussion between the British Government and various other governments of the Empire, and I think we have settled many matters between us in our conversations which might have taken far longer to deal with by correspondence. Lastly, compelled as I have been by the kindness of my hosts everywhere to make a certain number of speeches, I hope I have been able, without interfering either in the domestic politics of my hosts or obtruding any of our own political differences in Great Britain, to convey something of the outlook of Great Britain on Imperial problems at the beginning of what I believe to be an era of freer and more fruitful co-operation than we have known before.

Great Future.

"As regards Canada, what has impressed me chiefly on the material side has been the complete recovery from post-war depression and the quiet confidence with which Canadians are looking forward to a period of prosperity and rapid development. While there is no rash optimism as to immeditae results there is a greater consciousness than ever before of the immense natural resources of Canada and of Canada's capacity to develop. Where there is still some uncertainty of mind is perhaps as to the line that development should take. There are some whose ambition does not go apparently beyond the conception of a Canada developed within the orbit of the American economic system. Others seem more disposed to think that Canada can attain a fuller development by a mainly self-contained policy of initiating and duplicating the development of the United States in the northern half of the continent. But a view which I also found widely held, and which if I may express an opinion, as an outsider seems to me to show the truest appreciation both of the limitations of Canada's resources from a climatic point of view, and of the unique opportunities which her geographical position and her partnership in the Empire gives her is that she can attain her fullest development of a great industry but also outward at the expansion of that industry overseas and particularly in its expansion by making use to the full, in co-operation with our other partners in the Empire, of the natural resources and of the markets of the world, east and west, across the Atlantic and Pacific, as England, in the opening period of the modern world faced the markets of Europe across the North Seas and the markets of the new world across the Atlantic. In the Empire she has a field for economic development and leadership which is as much hers to make use of as Great Britain's. It is in fact a Greater Britain rather than a lesser United States or appendage of the United States that it seems to me she can most fully realize her destiny.

Cavan

CAVAN, Feb. 4.—Miss Maud Moore visited Mrs. T. Kellett of Pontypool for a few days this week.

Miss Viola McBride is visiting friends in Toronto.

The Ladies' Aid of Cavan church and W.M.S. will meet at Mrs. Richard Matchett's home on Thursday afternoon.

Leaders Attempt To Avoid Meeting

NEW YORK, N.Y., Feb. 4. — (Canadian Press). — President William T. Cosgrave of the Irish Free State and Eamon de Valera, his political opponent, made plans yesterday to avoid a meeting, although both came under the same roof.

President Cosgrave accepted an invitation to attend the Emerald Ball at the hotel where de Valera is stopping, as one of his last acts before sailing on the Olympic to return to Ireland. He sailed at 3 o'clock this morning.

De Valera said he was not invited to the ball, and would not have gone if he had been invited. Both men, once close friends, said that there was no chance of a meeting between them.

STEWART TAKEN UNDER ARREST BY COMMITTEE

Placed in Custody of Deputy Sergeant at Hotel Quarters.

GO BEFORE SENATE TO-DAY.

Oil Magnate Refuses To Give Evidence Before Teapot Dome Committee.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Feb. 4 (Canadian Press).—Robert W. Stewart, one of the foremost oil executives of the country, was under arrest by the Senate last night because of his persistent defiance of its Teapot Dome committee.

He was not taken to jail, but permitted to remain in his quarters at a hotel in the custody of a deputy sergeant-at-arms, who is to take him before the Bar of the Senate at noon today, unless he decides in the meantime to sue for a writ of habeas corpus.

While the chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana declined to make any statement, it was said by his close associates that he probably would appear in the Senate. In that event he would be directed to answer forthwith questions as to what, if anything, he knows about disposition of Liberty bonds by the Continental Trading Company of Canada, which has figured so prominently in the Fall-Sinclair Oil conspiracy trial, to date.

Should Stewart again refuse to do so, the Senate would have open to it two courses: Adoption of a resolution demanding his imprisonment in common jail or approve of one referring his case to the District of Columbia Courts ,as was done in the instance of Harry F. Sinclair, who is now under a three months' sentence.

Favors First Course

Senator Walsh of Montana, the Teapot Dome committee prosecutor, favors the first course and probably will insist upon it. The Chicago oil operator then might have reand a court hearing to determine whether the Senate has the power to imprison for contempt.

The arrest of Stewart followed a day of dramatic events that swung from committee rooms to the floor of the Senate. There was the anticlimax however for the Senate warrant, bearing the signature of Vice-President Dawes, was served in the privacy of the oil man's apartment. Newspapermen and photographers were locked out.

Y. P. S. GIVES BURNS PROGRAM

ATTENDANCE LARGE

WARWORTH, Feb. 3.—A Robert Burns' night was fittingly observed by the young people of St. Andrew's church on Monday evening in the basement of the church. A large crowd was present. The meeting opened with singing the hymn "Jesus Calls Us O'er the Tumult," after which Marion Wilson led in prayer. Annie McKenzie read the Scripture lesson. Mrs. Carlaw and Mr. Fowler had charge of the rest of the meeting. Community singing of Scottish songs was enjoyed and the following program given:

Solo, Bonnie Banks of Loch Lomond—Miss Hether Grant.

Piano Solo, 2nd Valse—Mrs. Will Mowat.

Recitation, Joyful Widower—Everett Maycock.

Recitation—Mrs. Neil.

Recitation, Grandpa's Dream—Betty Meiklejohn.

The remainder of the evening was spent in playing games after which lunch was served.

The Society had invited the young people's society of St. Andrew's church, Hastings, to be with them for this evening but owing to the condition of the roads they were unable to be present.

Poincare Gives 8-Hour Speech In Chamber Explaining France's Financial Situation

PARIS, February 4 (Canadian Press). — Premier Poincare surpassed all his previous efforts at speechmaking before the Chamber of Deputies yesterlay, and left the rostrum at the end of an eight-hour address with the cheers and plaudits of the majority of the body in his ears.

The speech was that in which he explained in detail what his ministry had done toward the rehabilitation of the French financial structure, and what may be expected in the future.

In it he definitely refused to be hurried into the legal stabilization of the franc before the conditions prerequisite to that action definitely exists. In it, he refused, too, to give an indication of the rate at which the eventual stabilization will be affected. He explained in detail what had been done, and then laid down coldly his dual refusal—refusals that brought him an ovation from the majority of the French Parliament, but only increased and intensified the opposition to him and his policies represented by the Socialists and Communists of the body.

Poincare, who on Thursday confined himself to the technical details of the financial restoration, yesterday entered into its political phases. He reminded Parliament that the French Government, while pegging the franc, had saved French industry from crisis and avoided the idleness of a great number of French

"The time is yet to come for the legal consecration of the work that has been done," he said, resisting the pleadings of the Socialist leader Blum for immediate stabilization of the franc at the present rate of exchange.

TWO FACE CHARGE OF SERIOUS NATURE

Doctor and Woman Remanded in Case Arising From Girl's Death.

TORONTO, Feb. 4. — (Canadian Press.)—Dr. R. R. Walker was arrested to-day on a charge of performing an illegal operation on Miss M. E. Flavin, 22 ,who died two days ago in the home of Mrs. Dorothy Crouch, after giving the name of Helen Grady. Mrs. Crouch was taken into custody last night and to-day a charge similar to that against Dr. Walker was laid against Mrs. Crouch. The fact that a criminal operation had been performed was revealed at the autopsy last night, it is understood, though the death certificate issued by Dr. Walker gave the cause of death as acute heart trouble and intestinal influenza.

The funeral of the girl was held to-day from S t.Mary's Roman Catholic Church to Mount Hope cemetery, among those attending being the mother and relatives. The father was unable to leave home because of illness.

In the women's court Mrs. Crouch was remanded to Feb. 10 without bail. Dr. Walker was also remanded to Feb. 10 in the men's court but bail was set at $10,000 and his counsel set about arranging this.

HEAVY DAMAGE FALL RIVER FIRE

BUSINESS SECTION.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Feb. 4.—(Canadian Press.)— For the second time in twelve years a large part of the business centre of this city last night was a waste of smoking ruins, the result of a dsastrous fire which swept the area surrounding city hall Thursday night and early yesterday morning. Taking toll of the losses before the embers were yet cool, residents estimated the property damage variously from $7,000,000 to $15,000,000. Insurance investigators placed the losses even higher, in some cases at $25,000,000.

The damage was even greater than that caused by the conflagration of February 16, 1916, which ravaged a similar section of the city. Items in the loss were:

Twenty or more buildings destroyed and as many more damaged.

Approximately sixty stores and similar establishments wiped out or so badly damaged that it may be some time before they will operate at normal.

Several thousand persons out of employment.

Offers of assistance in the work of rehabilitation reached the city to-day from many sources, including the Red Cross. Due to the fact that the residential district was unscathed, there was little need for other than temporary aid to help in restoring business activities, and this came in the form of funds to enable the banks whose buildings were destroyed to resume operations.

No one was able last night to predict what the effect might be upon the industries and business activities of the community, although all admitted that there would be many concerns which probably would be unable to resume and others which would be seriously crippled.

Eastern And Western Provinces Will Be Represented In the Joint Chairmanship

OTTAWA, Ont., February 4 (Canadian Press). — Quebec, Ontario, and the Western Provinces will be represented in the joint chairmanship determined upon for the national gathering of Liberal women in Ottawa on April 17 and 18. The three chairmen will be Mrs. P. F. Casgrain of Montreal, wife of the chief Liberal whip in the Federal House; Mrs. C. R. Thorburn of Ottawa, who is connected with leading national women's organizations, and has been a prominent Liberal worker and speaker; and Mrs. W. R. Motherwell, wife of the Minister of Agriculture.

Miss Helen Doherty, one of the secretaries of the National Federation of Women's Liberal Clubs, will be secretary. The treasurer will be Mrs. H. H .Carpenter of Hamilton, Ont., and the honorary secretary, Mrs. F. W. Johnson of Toronto, and Miss Beatrice Belcourt, daughter of Senator Belcourt, of Ottawa.

Chairman and members of all committees to prepare for and arrange the business of the national meeting, were named at a meeting of the wives of Liberal Senators and Liberal members of Parliament in the House of Commons. The meeting was called by Madame Lapointe, wife of the Minister of Justice, and was under the joint chairmanship of Madame Lapointe and Mrs. Norman F. Wilson, chairman of the Administrative Committee of the National Federation of Women's Liberal Clubs, and a prime mover in the calling of the national gathering.

DOUBTS CRUISER MISSING VESSEL

County Constable Doesn't Think Boat Found From Watertown.

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 3 (Canadian Press).—Doubt is expressed by County Constable James Loveless and others that the cabin cruiser found wrecked on the shore of Prince Edward County is the "Sea Hawk," which with four men aboard, has been missing from Watertown, N.Y., for two weeks. The owners at Oswego are being sought to identify the boat, which is frozen in two feet of ice, badly damaged, and stripped of most of its equipment.

Willing To Discuss Evacuation Of Rhine

BERLIN, Feb. 4 (Canadian Press).—The statement of M. Briand, the French Foreign Minister, that "France has nothing to fear on the Rhineland is interpreted by German officials as rendering the whole French argument on the necessity of further security futile. In their opinion, the question of evacuation of the Rhineland now resolves itself into a problem of international financial arrangement—how much and in what manner can Germany pay for evacuation.

It is with a certain amount of pride that the House of Fry celebrates its 200th anniversary this year. There are not many firms in business today whose history antedates the year 1728. Still fewer perhaps, whose affairs are in the hands of able descendants of a Founder who lived 200 years and more ago. Not many of any age whose Products are sold so widely over the earth and held in such high esteem.

It is said that every Institution is but the lengthened shadow of one man — but he must have been a great man. Young Doctor Fry was such, earnest, sincere, upright and a clever scientist. In founding the House of Fry he became, in reality, the founder of the vast cocoa and chocolate industry as we have it today. . . . . His passion for uprightness in business laid the foundation for those ideals of purity and quality which are still, after 200 years, the leading characteristics of FRY'S Cocoa and Chocolate.

MUSINGS AT A MANSE WINDOW

THE REV. SAMUEL CHADWICK OF LEEDS once preached a remarkable sermon on "Systematic Giving," excerpts from which might be very seasonable when so many churches are busy making an every-member canvass. My only regret is that limited space prevents me from giving it just as I first received it. He goes on to show that there is a close connection between religion and prosperity. By that, I don't mean spiritual prosperity, but prosperity in the material things of life. There is a close and intimate relationship between the righteousness which is enjoined upon us of the Lord and the prosperity which is promised shall follow. The Old Testament makes no secret about it; it does not mince matters. Irrespective of all appeals to motives of selfishness, and the fact that it lays itself open to reproach from critical and cynical people, it boldly and plainly declares that if the children of Israel will be obedient to the covenant and keep the commands God has enjoined upon them, they shall be rewarded in return with plenty, with prosperity, with an abundance of happiness and peace.

Honeycombed and Undermined.

Every nation that rises to pre-eminence, rises in virtue of its righteousness. When a nation falls it is its own fault. No nation has ever fallen through external forces. It has first of all been honeycombed and undermined with inward deterioration, and then when the first breath came from without, it was sufficient to bring about its overthrow and ruin. Everywhere it has been admitted, not only by ecclesiastics, but by statesmen, that the British Empire owes its position of prosperity and pre-eminence to the fact that it has cultivated righteousness and exalted the truth set forth in the Word of God. And the Empire will stand so long as it remains true to the tradition of godliness and honor. When it comes to personal matters, the same principle must apply.

Giving and Getting.

Most people might be greatly surprised to learn that there is a very close connection between giving and getting. Samuel Chadwick says that some men will never lose less until they give more! God calls for the whole tithe, not for a tithe. There are some Christian people who think it is sufficient if they give a tenth, but such people are not equal to a decent Jew. The Jew gave a tenth after the first fruits of his increase, and every third year a tenth for the poor; and probably he would give one-fifth or one-fourth of all he possessed. There is no definite sum laid down in the New Testament, but the command of the Old Testament is intensified and enlarged in the New.

I shall be told, of course, that we are not under the law, but under grace. To this I want to say two things. In the first place, the principle of giving a tenth was in operation before the law was given. And in the second place, I have every reason for doubting that you know anything about grace, if those whom you suppose to have been under the law can easily outstrip in generosity those who are supposed to be under grace.

Proprietor or Steward?

The principle of giving the first fruits to God is recognized in St. Paul's Epistles. I believe people who give much lose much of the blessing of it, because they give contrary to the principles laid down in the Scriptures.

Too many people give merely as the result of impulse or rivalry and competition. God has never let go His right to the things material. Everything a man gets God snips a bit out of it, to remind the man that he did not get it by his own skill and wit. God gave it to him, and the man is not the proprietor, but the steward.

The principle laid down is this—that a man has got to settle between himself and his God what the proportion ought to be which he should give to God. Perhaps it might not be wide of the mark to say that a tithe is a generous maximum for the poor and a mean minimum for the rich.

Let the Witnesses Speak.

Having settled whether it is to be a tenth or a quarter, or whatever it be, remember that the proportion is the Lord's and not yours; and whosoever will thus honor God with his substance, in return God will honor him with prosperity.

In the north of England two brothers went into business. They were born in a very small cottage, and had nothing to start business with. But they were enthusiastic in religion. They were determined to give to the Lord, and they made an arrangement that the Lord Jesus Christ should be a partner in the concern, and that a fixed proportion should be given to Him out of all profits. They so gave, and prospered. The first year they had a nice lot of money to give. The second year they had still more. The third year they had again more. At the fourth year the profits were so great that they went into four figures. Then they thought the proportion to be set apart for God was too much to give to charity.

Always be suspicious when you change your terms. It was for charity now, not for the Lord!

Seeing it was such a big lot they divided it, took half for themselves, and gave the other half away. The next year, on the testimony of one of the brothers, they did not make a copper. And before the end of six months of the following year they came to a crisis.

Facing the Music.

The two brothers met one day and locked themselves in the office to face the situation. And William said to James, "We have never prospered since we robbed God. The first charge on the business must be to pay back what we have robbed." They got down on their knees and prayed and made this promise. Before the end of the year the business pulled round. Strange enough, after some years they made a similar mistake and had a similar experience. Today they are amongst the wealthiest Christian people in the land. They prospered as they honored God in their giving.

Christ as Financial Secretary.

I am afraid that it is not because of our anxiety for a right division of the word of God, but rather to find an excuse for our meanness in giving to the work of God, that we try to prove that we are putting ourselves under the law when we teach tithing. The tithe is older than the law. Before the dispensation of law we read of the paying of tithes when Abraham met Melchizedek. Surely a child of God under grace wouldn't want to do less than the Israelite did under the law. The tithe is to be the minimum, not the maximum, of the Christian's giving.

God judges our gifts by what we have left. Every old miser tries to excuse his measly gift by calling it the widow's mite. The widow's mites were all she had. When a person gives until they have nothing left they have given the widow's mite, but not until then. If your gift leaves a comfortable balance on hand you haven't come within speaking distance of her gift.

If we realized we were giving to the Lord Christ and that He is the financial secretary who keeps the records we would be a little more careful in our giving.

—Allan Fairbairn.

—Some men would join fifteen lodges if they could be out fifteen nights a week.

—The family that doesn't like the neighborhood usually improves it by moving away.

—Nothing will cut friendship quicker than a sharp tongue.

—In using alcohol to run an auto the tank should be kept out of the driver's seat.

—It is probably true in some cases that marriage is a failure, but so, for that matter, is remaining single.

—The woman who claims to know most about how to rear children usually has none of her own to practice on.

—After getting the short end of it a wise man says nothing, but proceeds to get even.

Be Careful

THE desire to explain the Atonement may go too far. All help is welcome, but the fact itself is much more easily understood than many explanations of it. Its "Onlyness" is the main thing.

The Face of Jesus Christ

THE supreme and outstanding thing about the Bible is the fact that a reverent and unbiased mind everywhere beholds in it the face of Jesus Christ. Evangelicals do not regard it, therefore, as merely a book of facts, data and ethical teaching. We find it a living thing, pulsating with life, which is none other than the life of the Saviour of the world. To us it has heart beat, temple throb, sanctifying breath and healing touch. It is bound together part to part with the scarlet thread of promise and sacrifice.—"Jesus Christ at the Crossroads."

WHY NOT ADVERTISE?

FROM time to time the question of professional ethics and advertising in the medical profession is agitated. No doubt there will always be a difference of opinion, but, for the life of me, I cannot see why the doctor should not enjoy the same advantage afforded by the press that is enjoyed by other men of business! I know that for a doctor to advertise is considered unethical; and, the physician who has had the courage of his convictions and has advertised has been looked upon as a quack and a fraud. Perhaps it is only a false spirit of modesty that keeps the medical profession from advertising.

It stands to reason if you have a good thing you are justified in advertising the fact to the world. A man, however dignified, is foolish to hide his light under a bushel. If he has the ability to do certain things why should he hide the fact? On the contrary, he should make the fact known in order that humanity may be benefitted by his skill and knowledge.

Preachers are now using the press of the country as a medium of advertising. The method of eliciting the attention of recalcitrant church-goers has been so effective that in many churches the campaign of advertising has been extended.

I know that there are good people who don't like church advertising any more than they would like the doctors to advertise. Their objections are usually on the ground that it is sensational. What if it is? Isn't the gospel the most sensational thing in the world? Advertising is essential to all well-conducted business, and that of bringing men into vital relationship with God is a business of the greatest importance.

Lawyers, architects, artists, flower girls, beauty parlors all advertise their wares. In fact, men of practically all professions resort to the newspapers in order that they may openly place before the people their claim to do certain things and do these things in a satisfactory way. Publicity in any profession is the breath of life. Without newspaper advertising many business enterprises would quickly perish.

Unfortunately too many quack physicians do advertise. But this fact should not discourage the man of schooling and ability to come with clean hands before the people and tell what he can do and what he is willing to conscientiously try to do. In this progressive age can any man afford not to advertise?

WHAT a terrible thing is a burning house! But here I see many houses all in flames and no one is trying to put out the fire. Invaders often pillage and burn cities which they have taken, but here is no invading army, no foreign soldier is in the place. Great excitement prevails, men run here and there, blows are struck, wild cries are heard—now the stream of human beings flows in this direction, now it stops and the current runs in an opposite way; now a great ring is formed enclosing large numbers, some burst through the opposing crowd and make off in an easterly direction; they are closely followed and many fall, it is a matter of speed altogether, a few who are very light of foot gradually draw away and get into desolate places away from the haunts of men. Whither shall they escape? for they must needs seek shelter. There are those rocky heights four miles away to the south, shall they try for them? No—enemies, not friends, would be found there. There is a long hill, steep and inaccessible, further off towards the east, thither they fly—desperate men can defend themselves here from the attacks of much greater numbers, and here these fugitives find safety at last, but, O! what a change in their prospects has come about this fateful day!

You can worship God any time and anywhere; but unless you learn to worship Him sometime and somewhere you will not be able to worship Him anywhere and at any time.

Our Own House

"Two whole years in his own hired house."

WITH this picture of a hired prisoned apostle daily converting it into an ante-chamber of the Kingdom of Heaven, the inspired record of the holy activities of the early church concludes. And it is surely a strong inspiration to all who profess the faith of Christ Few, if any of us, can ever scale the heights of public and prominent service for the Lord on which much of Paul's life was lived. We cannot stand with him disputing with rulers and mightily convincing whole cities of the reality and the power of our Lord. Nor can we all traverse sea and land as ambassadors of the King. But we can, each one of us, dwell in his own house amid the commonplace duties of life and make of every one of them an opportunity for "teaching those things which concern the Lord Jesus."

It is when the stream which has its source far off in the high hills of God flows down into the flat and desert country of our ordinary common lives, there to sweeten and sanctify and save, that we alone realize the purpose of our redemption. For the highest enduement of heaven is intended to qualify us for the lowest service of earth. It may be, and often is, unseen and entirely unapplauded by men. Like much of the earthly ministry of the Saviour Himself, it may be quite inconspicuous and almost negligible because of its lack of the showy qualities which appeal so loudly to the world. But in the sight of the Lord it is priceless. And in the end of the day it will be seen that it is of this sort of service that the Kingdom is builded.

—J. Stuart Holden.

Why He Quailed

I met a minister not very long ago who actually told me that he had read in his railway journeys Macleod Campbell on the Atonement. To do him justice, he quailed before my silent and prolonged contemplation of his face. Of course, Macleod Campbell cannot be read in a railway train. The thing is utterly inconceivable. You might as well say that you had read "Sordello" while crossing Piccadilly Circus.

—Robertson Nicoll.

Answer These!

THAT which befits us, embosomed in beauty and wonder as we are, is cheerfulness, and courage, and the endeavor to realize our aspirations. Shall not the heart which has received so much, trust the Power by which it lives? May it not quit other leadings, and listen to the Soul that has guided it so gently, and taught it so much, secure that the future will be worthy of the past?

—R. W. Emerson.

A Great Purpose

THERE is no action so slight nor so mean but it may be done to a great purpose, and ennobled thereby; nor is any purpose so great but that slight actions may help it, and may be so done as to help it much, most especially, that chief of all purposes—the pleasing of God.

—John Ruskin.

TELL US A STORY

A beautiful story is told of a peasant, at the door of whose room Death one night knocked, and called him by name. The peasant was afraid, and kept silence. Death came the next night; and, when the peasant inquired what was wanted, he said the time had come for him to depart. The peasant begged to be allowed to remain a fortnight, and then if Death would come he would be ready, provided he was assured that, after a week, he should be brought back again. The fortnight passed; Death came, and the peasant was ready. He was carried to a beautiful garden, filled with choicest flowers; and he was so happy among them that it seemed almost no time until Death came once more. "What do you want?" he asked, forgetful of the agreement. "I have come to fulfil my promise, and take you back to earth," was the answer; to which the peasant replied, he was so happy where he was that he would release Death from the agreement, and on no account return whence he had come. So it will be with us. When the change shall once be made, nothing will induce us to be willing to return.

Inward Harmony

THE state of mind which is described as meekness, or quietness of spirit, is characterized in a high degree by inward harmony. There is not, as formerly, that inward jarring of thought contending with thought, and conscience asserting rights which it could not maintain.

Pseudo Heroism

The New Country

WHEN the famous editor of The British Weekly was writing of the death of one of Scotland's most famous sons, he said: Henry Drummond's departure for the new country has made the other life for many, in an unspeakable degree, more real and more winsome. FAVOR OLD AGE PENSIONS.

The Brotherhood of Railway Engineers and the Brotherhood of Railway Conductors, Firemen, Brakemen and Engineers and the York County Council are the latest Ontario bodies to put themselves on record as favoring this Province's participation in the old age pension system adopted at the last session of the Federal Parliament.

Members of the York Council, in discussing the question, denounced the present methods for taking care of the needy aged as "shameful" and "disgraceful," particularly the system by which homeless and penniless old men were arrested on nominal charges of vagrancy and sentenced to jail in order that they might be looked after during the winter months.

The pressure of public opinion in support of old age pensions continues to increase, and if the tide keeps on rising the Ontario Government, anxious as it may be to shift the whole burden of such a pension system upon the Federal administration, will be forced to recognize the fact that the majority of people in this Province favor taking advantage of the present plan by which half the cost will be met by the Dominion Government.

But the agitation must be kept up.

Mr. Ferguson and his Government believe that the whole responsibility should be accepted at Ottawa, and there will be no action at Toronto unless public opinion forces the hands of the Provincial administration.

HEALTH BOARD ACTS.

The local Board of Health has decided to recommend to the City Council the appointment of a full-time Medical Officer of Health, and the matter will now have to be decided by the members of the Council.

This question will probably prove to be one of the most important to come before the Aldermen this year.

The Provincial Department of Health expects Peterborough to implement the promise made when a Provincial grant toward the expense of the Laboratory here was given, and in view of that promise and of the decision of the Board of Health that the appointment of a full-time Health Officer is desirable in the general interest, the whole question will undoubtedly receive earnest consideration from the city fathers.

It seems to be the opinion of the majority of those people who are authorities on health matters that the time has come when Peterborough should have more adequate protection for the health of her citizens than is possible under the present system, and that such protection can only be afforded when a Medical Officer of Health gives his whole time to the organization of our defenses against disease.

In fact, the Provincial Minister of Health expressed surprise that such an appointment had not been made years ago.

PETERBOROUGH'S BONSPIEL.

The Peterborough Curling Club is to be congratulated upon the success of this year's bonspiel, one of the best in the history of the annual competition.

Peterborough's yearly "spiel" has invariably reached a high level of sportsmanship, and has done much to give this city a reputation for hospitality.

Outside curlers like the atmosphere of the big competition; they appreciate the good fellowship that prevails and the quality of their reception, and they are always glad to come back to Peterborough.

In fact, the local bonspiel has developed into an annual re-union, the spirit of which was admirably expressed during the presentation of prizes by Skip G. A. Davidson, of Unionville, winner of the Waddell Trophy, who declared that the winning of prizes was a small part of this roaring game.

"It's the friendships renewed and the friendships made that play a big part," remarked the Unionville skip, and he was right.

The Peterborough club has always realized that fact, which is undoubtedly the reason for the great popularity among outside curlers of the bonspiel.

One of the most satisfactory features of this year's competition was the division of prizes, the Morrow Cup going to Fenelon Falls, the Waddell Trophy to Unionville, the Peterborough Cup to Stouffville, and only the Matthews-Blackwell Trophy remaining at home.

TALK ABOUT TALKING.

Resenting The Examiner's criticism of public bodies in wasting time in profitless talk, a correspondent, signing himself "Reader," counters with the following lusty swing at ourselves:

> To the Editor of The Examiner:
> Sir,—You deem it your duty to chastise the legislatures of Canada for talking too much and for too long sessions. You are right. We all waste time talking too much, including yourself. It might be wise for you to close up the editorial page of The Examiner altogether and sow it with cabbages. Think of it—half a page daily for a whole year, and year after year! The legislatures are only kindergartens in comparison. It is time they deal with vast affairs and leave some excuse, but what excuse have you and I? READER.

Bless your innocent heart, "Reader," newspapers do not need any excuse for talking.

Why, that is their mission in life; their editorial columns exist for no other purpose, and while admittedly much that the newspaper staffs write themselves and much more that they publish from correspondents who feel an irresistible urge to inflict their opinions on all and every subject upon the public may represent wasted time, it must always be borne in mind that the only duty of a newspaper from an editorial viewpoint is to talk—wisely, if possible, of course—but anyway to talk.

But members of our parliamentary bodies are supposed to transact our public business, as well as to talk; we pay them $4,000 a year in the Federal House and good-sized salaries in the various Provincial Legislatures, and we have a right to expect executive and administrative ability instead of an endless flow of words.

Every day that is wasted by these legislators in debating academic questions costs us money.

Every day they throw away at the beginning of a session in a flood of oratory, good, bad and indifferent, we pay for through the nose at the close when men who have made the roof ring with denunciations of things that meant nothing to the mass of the people allow millions of our money to be voted without a question being asked.

Voices that can quiver with indignation over some question that does not affect the welfare of the country in the least are settled when talking to some purpose might be done.

The time wasted in the debate on the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne and to a large measure in the Budget debate, might much more profitably be given over to a closer scrutiny of governmental spending programs.

The annual carnival of voting millions of money at the close of a session without a protest from anybody is a striking commentary on our unbusinesslike methods of doing public business.

A SUPER-SPEAKER.

The inventors are going too far. One stands aghast at the possibilities contained in a device for augmenting the human voice, by means of a super-loudspeaker, so that it may be heard plainly one mile away. Experiments are said to have demonstrated the practicability of this new invention, and the statisticians already estimate that through its agency an audience of one million persons can be addressed without any difficulty.

We have accepted the wonders of radio. We are prepared for television, and we are more or less resigned to the day when obedient husbands will carry pocket sets by which they will be in constant oral and visual communication with their homes. But we shall rise in indignant protest against any scheme by which, against our will, we may constitute a unit in someone's super-audience.

Suppose, for instance, Parliament Hill were equipped with this malignant device and everybody within a mile, willing or not, had to take his daily quota of information on the state of the nation! This thing has frightful potentialities for our discomfort and stern steps should be taken about it.—Ottawa Journal

THE ONTARIO TOBACCO POOL.

It was Hon. W. R. Motherwell who said there could be no continuous organization of farmers for the marketing of their product which would militate against the public interest. The Minister of Agriculture was merely giving expression to what has come to be the common view of the pool system of co-operative marketing. People understand that the producers' pools have no designs on the consumers' dollar. The basic price of farm commodities in the world market depends on time and place, and supply and demand, and the pools do not alter it. The pools, however, by scientific marketing, do alter the basic price of farm commodities to the farmer; the producer gains and the consumer does not lose. That is the fundamental principle underlying the great Canadian wheat pool, toward which the people of the Dominion have shown generally sympathetic attitude; and it is the principle which is enlisting support for the Ontario tobacco pool, which recently took shape at a meeting of growers in Windsor.

Economic necessity compelled the tobacco growers of Western Ontario to organize. Tobacco is a scientific crop, produced at great risk and heavy expense, and the prices which were being offered by the organized tobacco interests have been too low to repay cultivation. Growers saw no apparent glut in the world market, were aware of the high preference in favor of Canadian tobacco in England, and knew that the big tobacco concerns were paying heavy dividends. There was more than a suspicion that the benefit of the British preference was not accruing to the grower, even in part. Defensive measures became imperative. There existed a Canadian Growers' Co-operative Company, but it was too small to handle so large a problem unassisted. The projected pool will supplement the Co-operative and will use existing facilities to prepare and handle a much larger output of tobacco. An effort will be made to recruit 80 per cent. of the growers under cast-iron contracts, which it is expected would give their central tobacco-selling agency some measure of control over marketing conditions.

Just how strong the tobacco pool will be remains to be seen. If the 80 per cent. objective is achieved, it will mean control by the pool of something like 30,000,000 pounds of the 45,000,000 pounds now produced annually in all Canada, since Ontario has three-quarters of the Canadian acreage, and the percentage is gaining. Success for the pool would mean that its salesmen would be handling a big part of the crop. Any project of this magnitude calls for care in organization and efficiency in administration, and the tobacco pool seems to be proceeding with praiseworthy caution. Moreover, it is born with official Government sanction that the friendly interest of the Federal Minister of Agriculture. Mr. Motherwell, besides, is naming a survey board of three experts to investigate tobacco marketing and growing in Southwestern Ontario.

There are limits to what may be accomplished by the efficiency of market machinery alone. The pool will naturally have to insist on high quality of product, which in itself will be a very good thing for the industry in Ontario. To insure success of the pool idea, there will also have to be a unity of purpose among the growers, and this seems in a fair way to be brought about. Considering the growing importance which the tobacco crop has assumed of late in Elgin and Middlesex as well as Kent and Essex, good fortune for the pool plan is important to the Province and to the Dominion. The pool method seems economically sound, and should have the practical support of both Provincial and Federal Governments.—London Advertiser.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Premier Ferguson says he is going to convince every one in the Province he is right about Regulation 17. Convincing all the people on any subject looks like a real job even for Mr. Ferguson.

The capture of one curling cup has saved the winter season from being a total loss so far as Peterborough is concerned.

Whether the bear saw his shadow or not we'll have to keep on buying coal for a few more weeks anyway.

Will the Speech from the Throne at the opening of the Ontario Legislature next week mention old age pensions? About as much probably as the Federal Speech mentioned Senate reform.

You'll have to give T. L. Church credit for finding forty things to complain of in his forty-minute contribution to the debate on the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne.

Few people realize that their neighbors could be worse.—Chicago Daily News.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, February 4. — Cattle trade this week has experienced a rather sudden change in the demand for heavy beef steers. Aside from the fact that receipts have included too large a proportion of green and unfinished poor quality steers, there is a decided lull in the beef cattle trade generally.

The "trade" has been somewhat puzzled to account for the slow demand this week following the very active demand in the weeks immediately preceding. It was said packers are loaded up with supplies, which they are finding difficulty in disposing of. Local butchers in the retail business complain that the general public are not buying beef so freely as formerly.

It is probable, however, that the present dullness is but a passing phase, and that conditions will return to normal. At this week's decline of 50c to 75c, prices are considered still to be good for the class of cattle offering.

Choice heavy steers sold from $10.00 to $10.75, with a few fancy at $11.00. Choice light steers, $9.50 to $10.50, choice butchers heifers, $9.50 to $10.25; good steers and heifers, $9.00 to $10.50; baby beef, choice, $12.00 to $13.00; good, $11.00 to $12.00; medium, $9.00 to $10.00.

Fat cows, choice selling at $7.75 to $8.25; choice light butchers bulls from $7.00 to $7.75; choice heavy bulls were very slow this week, selling from $6.50 to $6.75; bologna bulls, 5$.75 to $6.25.

Springers and milkers — Only local buyers on the market. Trade quiet, choice springers selling from $90 to $115; good, $70.00 to $85.00; common cows from $40.00 up. Very little demand for milkers.

Stockers and feeders — There were 5 cars Western cattle on the market, mostly all heifers and sold around $7.25 to $7.50. There have been very few Ontario stockers on the market, a few choice steers sold around $8.75 to $9.00.

Calves — Choice veal calves sold from 13½c to 14½c, good 12c to 13c; medium calves from 8c to 11c; and stocker calves are mostly of the dairy type, selling at 4c to 5c.

Sheep and lambs — Choice lambs, 13c to 14c; heavy lambs 2c less; buck lambs, 3c less. Yearling sheep 7½c to 8½c; choice butchers sheep, 5c to 6c; heavy fat sheep and aged bucks 4c to 5c; cull sheep, 2c to 3c.

Hogs — On Tuesday and Wednesday hogs sold on a basis of $8.75 f.o.b. selects, an advance of 25c per hundred over Monday's trading.

Receipts.

Corn closed firm ⅛ to ½ cent net higher; wheat unchanged to ¼ to ⅜c off; oats a shade to ¼c up, and provisions 7c to 17c down.

In the wheat market, persistent weakness of Liverpool quotations together with larger shipments from Argentina than either last week or a year ago outweighed the influence both of continued dry weather in Winter wheat sections southwest, and of Winter killing in the central west. Besides, no export business in wheat from North America was heard of yesterday.

Oats were responsive to improved cash demand.

DEPUTIES CHEER FRENCH PREMIER

Poincare Given Ovation at Conclusion of Eight Hour Speech.

PARIS, Feb. 3 (Canadian Press).—Premier Poincare had the majority of the Chamber of Deputies on their feet cheering to-day when he finished an eight-hour speech dealing with the country's finances. Deputies of all parties excepting the Socialists and Communists showed full approval of the Premier's efforts to restore the French financial structure and the results obtained and they demonstrated effusively that they were in hearty sympathy with the formidable oratorical effort of the sixty-eight-year-old statesman.

A Thought

FASHION IN WORDS.

Words, like clothes, go out of fashion. Take the word prudence, for example. Prudence, says Milton, is the virtue by which we discern what is proper to be done under the various circumstances of time and place.

Prudence, in the old accepted sense, is a species of wisdom and today wisdom seems a weighty and important word suitable to be applied only to the learned and the mature.

"Smart, that's what that chick of mine is", said a father of his five-year-old, in telling how he found her with her face to the wall in a corner of the living room and of her reply to his questioning, "I'se been berry bad!"

Yes, words do go out of fashion, but whether the wisdom of discernment is called prudence or smartness, it's a highly desirable quality to cultivate.

A NEW Willys-Knight

THE Standard Six

COACH $1480 F.O.B. Factory, Toronto. Taxes Extra

The supremacy of the Willys-Knight sleeve-valve engine is a matter of general knowledge—not only to more than 300,000 owners, but to leading engineers as well.

Naturally, it costs more to build this superior engine. It is only today, after nearly a decade and a half of constant experiments, and with greatly improved and increased manufacturing facilities, that we have reached our goal of bringing the patented Willys-Knight sleeve-valve engine into a lower price field and making its supreme advantages available to countless buyers.

The new Willys-Knight Standard Six offers features unobtainable in any other car at its price. For instance: The 45-horsepower engine has a thermostat, air-cleaner and oil-rectifier. The front axle has full anti-friction bearings, for easiest steering. Positive, mechanical 4-wheel brakes are provided for utmost safety.

Bodies have deeply cushioned, form-fitting seats, doors with remote controls and an adjustable steering wheel designed to be non-splinterable. An extra-large cowl ventilator and a windshield that opens very wide permit perfect ventilation.

TWO OTHER BRILLIANT SIXES

Willys-Knight "70" Special Six—improved, finer; now still further distinguished by advanced features and beautiful new color options.

Willys-Knight Great Six—one of Canada's most luxurious cars. Now a larger, more powerful engine insures even higher and smoother speed and even flashier acceleration.

Willys-Knight Sixes, from $1480 to $3695, in the Standard Six, Special Six and Great Six divisions. Prices f.o.b. factory. Taxes Extra.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

Cherry came home on Tuesday evening lugging a big dress box, her cheeks a deep apricot tint with excitement, her golden eyes luminous. Faith smiled involuntarily, but not unkindly.

"Oh, the darlingest costume for the masquerade, Faith!" Cherry exulted. 'I'm going to get into it right now—just dying to show it off!"

Bob, who had been putting up the car for the night, came into the living room where Faith was resting on the couch, just after Cherry had kissed her sister joyously and sped from the room.

"Good news, sweet!" He stopped and lifted his wife into his arms and carried her to the biggest of the arm chairs, cradling her slender body comfortably in his arms.

"Oh! Then Cherry's heard from Nils? He told me not to tell her—" Faith began, lifting a very white, fragile-looking hand to rumple his chestnut hair.

"No," Bob shook his head, then caught her hand and pressed it to his lips. "This is you-and-me news honey. Hemingway has approved my plans for his country home."

"Bob! Oh, darling, I'm so glad and so proud! But I knew he would like them. He'd be a fool not to. He'll have the most beautiful home in the state—"

"In the whole Middle West!" Bob interrupted exultantly. "There are places that cost more than this one will, but if I do say it, there won't be a handsomer one." He broke off to stare at the small figure that had run noiselessly into the room.

"Cherry! Where in the world did you get that costume?" Faith twisted about in Bob's arms to stare at her sister. "It's adorable! Surely you haven't had time to have it made—"

"Rather not!" Cherry laughed and pirouetted joyously on the toe of a green leather boot.

The costume was a musical comedy version of an aviatrix's outfit. Cherry's coppery-gold curls were completely hidden under a snug helmet of hunter's-green leather.

"It's a costume used for a specialty dance in the prologue for that aviation picture they were showing at the Liberty Theater last week," Cherry explained. "I rented it. Isn't it a gorgeous fit? I'm sick of going to masquerades as Pierette or Madam Pompadour or 'A Belle of 1860.' What do you bet I'll take the prize for the best costume?"

"I wouldn't bet on a sure thing," Bob chuckled. "Isn't she a knockout sweet?" he appealed to his wife, and for the first time Faith heard Bob pay Cherry a compliment without wincing with a twinge of jealousy.

When Cherry had run to the kitchen to show Rhoda, Faith said quietly: "That settles it, Bob. If Nils calls tomorrow, Cherry isn't to know. It would be criminal to cheat her out of the glorious time she's sure to have."

"Oh, don't bother about Nils," Bob reassured her. "If he's as gone on her as you think he is, he'll stay over Thursday night to see her."

"I wish I could be sure of that," Faith worried. "But lets talk about the Hemingway house, darling. Do you realize what it will mean—to the boy?"

HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH

BY DR. FRANK McCOY
Author of "The Fast Way to Health"
© 1928 McCOY HEALTH SERVICE - LOS ANGELES - CAL.

Dr. McCoy's menus suggested for the week beginning Sunday, Feb. 5th:

Sunday.

Breakfast—Poached egg on Melba toast, stewed figs.

Lunch—Baked potato, spinach, string beans, celery.

Monday.

Breakfast—Wholewheat mush with milk or cream.

Lunch—Cooked celery, pumpkin, shredded raw cabbage.

Tuesday.

Breakfast—Coddled eggs, Melba toast, stewed apricots.

Lunch—Corn bread, okra, cauliflower salad.

Dinner—Leg of mutton, cooked lettuce, baked ground beets, celery, Jello or Jell-Well.

Wednesday.

Breakfast—French Omelet, waffle, stewed raisins.

Lunch—Macaroni, cooked beet tops, head lettuce.

Thursday.

Breakfast—Wholewheat muffins and peanut butter, stewed prunes.

FRIDAY.

Lunch—Cooked carrots and peas, *turnip cup salad.

Dinner—Baked white fish, cooked spinach, cooked beets, salad of sliced tomatoes, Jello or Jell-Well without cream.

Saturday.

Breakfast—Oatmeal with milk or cream.

*TURNIP CUP SALAD: Peel and scoop out the centers of medium size turnips and place in steamer, or in small amount of water in one of the heavy aluminum pans, and cook until tender. Remove from fire and allow to cool. When ready to serve, fill with a mixture of chopped cabbage, celery, and parsley, and a tomato cut into small pieces. Serve on crisp lettuce.

Questions and Answers.

Question: Mrs. J. F. K. asks: "Will you tell me if hot baths are harmful to varicose veins? Also, is it advisable to wear an elastic bandage, and how should it be worn, evenly or criss-crossed?"

Answer: Hot applications will relieve the pain from varicose veins, but it is much better to always use cold applications, with wet, cold cloths or with ice. This will shrink the veins more to their normal size. If plenty of ice treatment is used it will not be necessary to wear an elastic stocking or bandage. However, if the bandage is used it should be put on criss-crossed.

Question: J. D. asks: "What do you consider as really the most important food element?"

Answer: Protein is the most important substance used in the building of the body. An ample amount in the daily fare is of the utmost importance in order to effect repairs in the cell structure and muscles, and to bring about the necessary changes in the cells themselves. These cells cannot be replaced or built up with any other substance any more than the worn out parts of an engine can be replaced with gasoline.

Wooler

WOOLER, Feb. 4.—Mrs. George Adams of Carmen spent Friday afternoon with Mrs. L. H. Rowe.

Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Terrill took tea with Mr. and Mrs. Percy Gooding on Friday evening.

Miss Mabel Rogers, Mrs. W. Orvis, Mrs. J. J. Way and Mrs. S. L. Terrill met at the home of Mrs. George Anderson on Friday afternoon to discuss the organizing of a public library under the supervision of the Women's Institute.

Mrs. Hess of Trenton is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Nelson.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott, Mrs. Scott, Sr. and Mrs. Purtelle of Picton spent Sunday with Mrs. N. McColl.

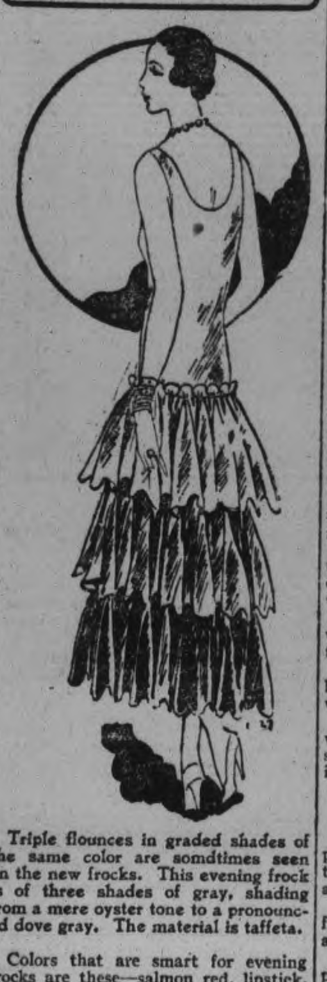
The Sunday service in the United church was conducted in the morning by a young man, Mr. Ormston, of Trenton. The male quartette sang the beautiful old hymn "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere." The message was taken from St. Luke, seventh chapter and the fourteenth verse. In the evening the pastor, Rev. H. B. Neal, was in charge of the service. The choir sang an anthem. The message was based on Matthew, twenty-second chapter and forty-second verse: "What think ye of Christ."

S. L. Terrill accompanied by C. R. Terrill, L. H. Rowe and Sam Milligan attended the Rotary Club banquet at the [illegible] House hotel in Trenton on Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Dorland entertained their friends to tea on Wednesday evening.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL



Triple flounces in graded shades of the same color are somdtimes seen on the new frocks. This evening frock is of three shades of gray, shading from a mere oyster tone to a pronounced dove gray. The material is taffeta.

Colors that are smart for evening frocks are these—salmon red, lipstick, coral, peach, flesh, pale pink, turquoise, light green, jade, pale yellow—a wide variety of so-called attentuated colors—lighter, paler than pastels—with much white and some black. For resort wear this winter I understand figured chiffon frocks will be revived. Blues are not so much seen in the evening as they were—doubtless because blue is never a very good evening color anyway. Bright blues look hard by artificial light, pale blues look spiritless and dark blues might much better be black.

A reader has just asked my advice in selecting material for an evening dress she intends to make at home, and I have suggested a three-shade dress—three shades of rose, three shades of yellow, or three shades of green—using the same sort of material for the three shades or different materials if you like. For instance, you might select a very light pink chiffon, a brighter pink crepe and a rose-colored satin—or deep green velvet with a lighter green taffeta and a very light green chiffon. Usually it is better to have the heaviest material in the deepest tone.

One of the most attractive evening frocks I have seen recently was of three shades of gray georgette. A degrade effect with parchment tones has also been used with smart results.

Lace evening frocks have recently been worn by such women of fashion as Mrs. Fair Vanderbilt, Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt and Mrs. Marshall Orme Wilson. Some of the best of the French dressmakers have included lace evening frocks in their collections all winter.

And the lace frock, let me tell you, is one that has many advantages for the home dressmaker. Black lace brings out all the charms of youth and kindly hides possible signs of age. This season it is smartest when used without color. The bright-colored shoulder flower is not so much seen. The best ornament you can choose is a rhinestone buckle at the girdle with perhaps another rhinestone ornament at the shoulder.

Hints on Etiquette

1. If a girl sits nearest the door when returning home in a taxi, should she open the door and get out first?
2. Is there any general answer for this type of question?
3. Are people fussy about such little things nowadays?

The Answers.

1. No.
2. Yes. Always allow a man to pay the little attentions he feels he owes his partner of the evening.
3. Yes, the best people are as careful of little courtesies as ever.

WINDOW BOXES

Before filling with dirt, window boxes should be whitewashed inside, as this discourages insects and prevents the boxes from rotting.

Are You Nervous? Sleepless?

St. Catharines, Ont.—"I was in such a nervous and rundown state of health that I could hardly get around to do my work. I could not sleep and the least noise or excitement would completely upset me and throw me into a nervous spell. I was advised to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and I was soon well and strong and have never had another spell of nervousness since.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1928.

Contrary planetary influences rule today, according to astrologers who counsel rest and quiet through the daylight hours.

Preachers may find congregations unresponsive while this configuration prevails, for egotism will be prevalent under this direction of the stars.

A positive attitude of mind should be maintained, for there will be a tendency toward depression and pessimism.

The churches will benefit greatly in the coming year, it is foretold, for there will be a revival of general interest in religion.

Scientists will become interested in investigating the unseen world, it is foretold, and there will be revelations regarding occultism.

There is a sign presaging growth of oratorial attainment and the seers foresee the rise of American preachers who will attain international fame.

If the stars are rightly read the reaction from the reign of gross materialism will bring marvelous spiritual awareness.

This should be a day fairly favorable to the aged and their counsel should be sought.

The Moon today is in a sign making the increase of wisdom and caution on the part of the people.

France and the British Isles are to be swept by terrific gales of wind that do great damage.

In a time when floods are afflicting the lands denuded of trees large areas of timber will be destroyed by fires as well as winds, the seers foretell.

Seismic shocks in China and India will add to sufferings in both these disturbed countries, the seers prophesy.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have many changes in the coming year which holds promise of prosperity.

Children born on this day probably will be intensely ambitious. They should safeguard their sight and hearing.

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1928.

This is not an important day in planetary direction, according to astrology, but benefic aspects are dominant.

It is an auspicious day for meeting friends and for promoting one's private ambitions.

Under this sway it is believed to be possible to make a good impression on even hostile persons. Promoters should benefit.

It is better today to earn money than to seek investments, for financial judgment may not be trustworthy.

While this configuration prevails the newspapers are likely to contain reports that are disturbing to all who dream of world peace.

This is read as a lucky wedding day since it presages long-continued love and confidence.

By this same sign engagements to marry entered into under this direction of the stars should be exceedingly fortunate.

This is likely to be a propitious date for presenting new plays and it is to forecast that dramatic enterprises of great importance will mark a new era for the stage.

Actors and actresses should benefit while this planetary government continues. Again new stars for the stage as well as the screen are prophesied.

Cases where normal persons apparently become obsessed with evil spirits will be numerous, astrologers prognosticate.

Return to the simple life and wholesome pleasures will be much preached, if the stars are wisely interpreted.

Sleep starvation, lately discussed, is to be stressed as one cause for moral obliquities and strange mental defects.

Persons whose birthdate it is may expect a year rich in old friendships and new social contacts.

Children born on this day probably will be gifted and energetic. The subject of this sign usually are fond of detail and make first-rate executives.

Lyrics of Life - By Douglas Malloch

A GIRL AND BOY

When I was just a little boy,
And you were just a little girl,
And I in kilts and corduroy,
And you in calico and curl,
We knew each rose that grew a long
The road to school, for eyes to see;
I think we knew each robin's song,
And every apple on the tree.

When you were just a little girl,
And I was just a little boy,
We listened to the river's purl,
And heard the notes the birds employ,
But now we go to harder schools,
And seek for fortune and for fame;
And never find the lily-pools
Along the road that once we came.

Now somewhere you're a lady grand,
And somewhere I have large affairs;
And many things we understand
And things we own, and no one cares
We bade farewell to kilt and curl,
Ah, yes, and bade farewell to joy
When you were just a little girl,
And I was just a little boy.

GREAT PRAISE FOR BABY'S OWN TABLETS

The Dr. Williams Medicine Co. have received the following letter from Mrs. Griffith, of 21 Merchison Ave., East Hamilton, Ont., concerning her experience with Baby's Own Tablets:

Dear Sirs,—I wish to thank you for the handy little booklet you sent me on the Care of Children. My baby boy was six weeks old when I first used Baby's Own Tablets, being new to Canada, but since the first proof of their many uses in bringing up a family, I have never been without them, for they are worth their weight in gold There is no trouble in getting the little ones to take them and they often prevent an illness if taken in time My first baby is now, at the age of four and a half years, a picture of health, and my nine-months-old baby is also well and happy. They are both a real good sample of what Baby's Own Tablets can do, for I have never yet needed a doctor for either of them."

The booklet to which Mrs. Griffith refers is entitled "Care of the Baby" and treats with what a mother ought to know for baby's sake. A copy of the booklet will be sent free to anyone requesting same from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Norham

Mrs. Turney and two children of Burnley are at present visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Campbell, of Norham.

Miss Boyce of Brighton visited her niece, Mrs. Stanley Brenton, over the week end.

MINES.

F. G. Oke and Company wire as follows:

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 4. — The market opened this morning with all the ear marks of continuing the forward movement of prices from yesterday's close, but apparently the "fly in the ointment" was that of Noranda which under heavy selling receded to 19.74 per share. One favorable feature regarding this decline appeared the promising manner in which the comparatively large blocks of Noranda were taken up at this price. As a result it would not be surprising to see sufficient buying power come in over the week end to further support his stock.

The decline in Noranda seemed to have a curbing effect on the prices of other stocks which for the most part eased off slightly from opening prices. However, many substantial gains were recorded, the most noticeable being Gold Hill which sold as high as 28 cents per share.

Howey, Kirkland Lake Gold and Beaver. Many other such as Teck, Wright Hargreaves, Tough Oakes, Arno, Central Manitoba, Crown Reserve and Barry Hollinger, did not alter in price to any appreciable extent and held their gains of yesterday.

Amulet receded a little but it is significant to note that the present decline does not look as though it is going to the previous Amulet low spots and if this be the case, the secondary reaction indicates an upward movement in price.

Reviewing the market action for the whole week, the last two days have looked distinctly favorable, particularly in view of the black looking days of the first of the week. The unanimous opinion on Street seems to be that yesterday's market strength was the healthiest looking reaction in prices that we have had for some time and sound optimism prevails regarding the continued upward swing of this market which is anticipated to follow.

General Downturn Begins At New York

NEW YORK, February 4 (Canadian Press).—An early period of uncertainty in to-day's stock market was succeeded by a general downturn of values. The raising of the San Francisco re discount rate apparently convinced many traders that curtailment of speculative resources was being resorted to by the gradual lifting of these rates in interior Federal reserve districts.

A decrease of $12.000,000 in stock exchange member loans seemed to have no more than a temporary effect on the sentiment and efforts to combat a wave of selling for both accounts were futile except in a few issues which had powerful pool support.

Short covering caused recoveries in spots and some of the early losses were turned into gains before the session ended. Vanadium Steel continued to show strength, getting up around the 85 level, and Nevada Copper sold above 21, the highest for an extended period.

Wheat Prices Sag As Weather Improves

CHICAGO, February 4 (Canadian Press)—Showers over dry districts in the south-west, together with unexpected lower quotations at Liverpool, brought about an early downturn today in wheat prices here. Corn was firmer owing to export business, and as a result of less favorable weather for the crop movement. Opening ¼ to ⅞ cent lower, wheat held near to the initial range. Corn started unchanged to ¼ cent higher, and then scored general gains. Oats were easy.

Opening prices were: Wheat, March 129; May 129 1-8. Corn, March 88¾; May 91 1-8. Oats, March 54½; May 55¼.

Toronto Exchange Easier; Trading Fairly Heavy

TORONTO, Feb. 4. — (Canadian Press.)— Generally easier movements on the Toronto stock exchange this morning were offset by occasional gains in moderately heavy trading. Canadian Oil was the firm feature of the whole market, climbing 3¾ at 67¾. The other oils were unsteady, Imperial gaining a point at 62, but British American and International Petroleum easing fractionally to 37 and 37 7-8. Weak spots in the the regular list were Photo Engravers, newly listed, which lost 3½ at 31, Page Hersey, three lower at 97, and International Nickel, 3-8 lower at 91¼. Brompton softened 1¾ at 65 and New Brazillian, British Empire Steel Second, Steel of Canada and Seagrams at 25 softened fractionally. Loblaw was marked down four at 105. Liquors in the unlisted section were steady, Walkers even gaining a little to 62 and Northern Bakeries improved a little at 49.

Mine Shares Steady With Slight Losses

TORONTO, February 4 (Canadian Press). — Mining issues on the Standard Exchange to-day were fairly steady, with the stocks that made the greatest headway yesterday inclined to show some slight reaction. Bidgood was back around 77, a loss of four, and Barry Hollinger sold off slightly to 84. Howey was two points higher around 142. Kirkland Lake Gold at 2.10 was a little firmer, and Gold Hill among the cheaper issues firmed gaining one at 27. Noranda was one of the weakest spots in the list with a drop of 40 at 19.85. Hudson Bay sold down 30 at 1945. Sherritt and Sudbury Basin, however, recovered.

HAIG HONORED IN NATIVE LAND

EDINBURGH, Scotland, Feb. 4. — Canadian Press. — The body of Field Marshal Earl Haig, who was born in the county of Fife, and rose to high command in the British Army, lay in state in St. Giles' Cathedral to-day. Coming from London, where the British Empire and the world paid the marshal the last honors, Earl Haig received the tribute of his native country side. The body will remain three days on a catafalque guarded by sentries, and then be laid to rest in Dryburgh Abbey.

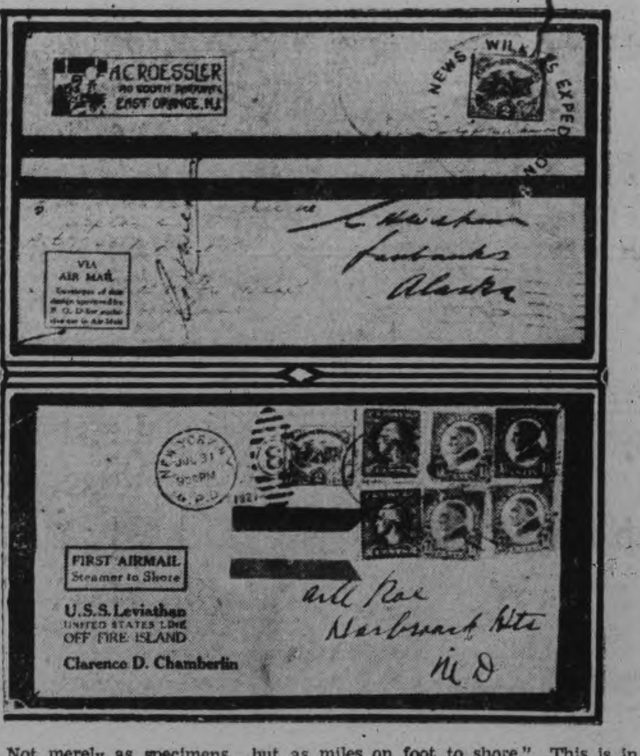
SOUVENIRS OF AIR MAIL



Not merely as specimens, but as souvenirs of the adventure and heroism of the pioneer air mail carriers, the collection of the envelopes in which letters have been carried on first flights and on unusual flights has become a recognized fad. The Top specimen records Wilkins' first flight to Alaska. It has written lower left: "3,000 miles over Arctic by airplane. Lat. 77.45, lon. 175.100 miles on foot to shore." This is in Wilkins' handwriting and is endorsed across its face with his signature. A value of $35 is placed on this specimen LOWER is the envelope carried by Clarence D. NORMAL SCHOOL "AT HOME"

The president, officers and members of the Peterborough Normal School Literary Society held an "At Home" last evening in the Normal School, with an attendance of about three hundred people. A reception was held in the teachers' room, which was beautifully decorated with potted ferns and bouquets of yellow daffodils. The guests were received by Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Walker, Miss MacVannel, the Misses Lily Kay, Evelyn Miller, Ruth Cruikshanks, Ruby Theobold, and Messrs. Laurence Allen and Howard Pammett.

The program was opened by a few introductory remarks by the president of the Literary Society, Mr. Laurence Allen.

The first number on the program was a violin solo, Beethoven's Minuet, by Dr. H. G. Park, accompanied by Miss M. Rannie.

A five-act play, "The Rivals," by Richard Brinsley Sheridan, was then presented, under the direction of Miss E. Munroe and Mr. A. MacDonald.

A very pretty number between the third and fourth acts was a Minuet danced by Miss Helen Bateman and Miss Ruthene Day, dressed as old-fashioned ladies, with powdered wigs, and Miss Ethel Davidson and Miss Marguerite Teskey, dressed as court gentlemen of the time. This was under the direction of Miss M. Rannie.

Phonograph selections were played between the scenes.

Refreshments were served in the library, and two of the class-rooms. The tables in the library and lower hall looked very attractive, being decorated in the school colors, gold and green, with yellow daffodils, and green and yellow candles in brass candlesticks. The library was beautifully decorated with green and gold streamers, and the class-room blackboards were decorated with the school crest and borders of yellow daffodils.

Hooper's catered and a number of the students assisted in serving.

After refreshments there was a promenade in the assembly hall.

Committees in charge were as follows:

Finance—Mr. D. Walker, Misses Vera Wagar, Jean Jackson, Helen Bateman, Messrs. Joseph Waddell and Laverne Souch.

Reception Committee—Miss MacVannel, Misses Lily Kay, Evelyn Miller, Ruth Cruikshank, Ruby Theobald, Mr. Douglas Campbell.

The play, Sheridan's famous production, "The Rivals," was presented in splendid fashion, with an excellently-chosen cast, outstanding in which was Adrian Macdonald as Sir Anthony Absolute, Miss Marjorie Dunford as Mrs. Malaprop, and Albert Hill in the role of Acres.

Others taking part were: Delbert Douglas Campbell as Faulkland, Kenneth Godden as Sir Lucius O'Trigger, Elton Sutton as Fag, Robert Shaw as David, Charles Young as Thomas, Loreen Lorriman as Lydia Languish, Aileen McCamus as Julia and Vera Weeks as Lucy.

LABORERS SEEK COMRADE'S BODY

Boleslou Meleeche Buried By Cave-in in Toronto Excavation.

TORONTO, February 4 (Canadian Press). — Laborers to-day were still working to recover the body of a fellow-worker, Boleslou Meleeche, from a cave in of clay at an excavation for a new building on the corner of Bay and Richmond Streets, which occurred late last night. Tons of clay crushed Meleeche, probably causing his instant death, but immediate rescue was impossible, and would-be rescuers were further hampered by the danger of another fall of earth. Domidic Leom, another laborer, was buried under three feet of earth at another point in the same cave-in. but he was rescued suffering little worse than bruises and shock.

Uncle Wiggily

To-day's Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE WOLF'S EYE

Uncle Wiggily and his forty 'leven little bunny boys and girls with Baby Bunty, who was an orphan rabbit and numbered forty twelve, were all in the lollypop shop. Mr. Longears had found a money vine, as I told you in the story last night, and the silvery shining leaves were used to buy the little bunnies as many lollypops as were good for them. But as Uncle Wiggily didn't care for candy just then, his little boy Tooter said:

"Daddicums, why don't you buy a squeezie?"

Tooter pointed to a rubber ball in the window of the toy and lollypop shop and said:

"That's a squeezie, Daddicum! You fill it with water and you squeeze it and the water squirts out of a hole in the rubber ball and its lots of fun if the water sprinkles somebody in the eye. Get a Squeezie!"

"I think I shall!" chuckled Mr. Longears. So he gave some of the silvery leaves from the money vine to the nice old tabby cat lady, who kept the toy and lollypop shop, and she gave Uncle Wiggily the squeezie, which, as you know now, was a rubber ball that squirted water.

Uncle Wiggily pressed the rubber ball.

"And now," said Uncle Wiggily to his forty 'leven little rabbit boys and girls, "I think we had better hop along home for it is getting late and I think I smell my supper cooking. Yes," he went on as he sniffed and snuffed with his pink nose, "I smell friend carrot shortcake. Hurry, children!"

Skipping and hopping, the forty 'leven little bunnies—or forty twelve if you count Baby Bunty, and I'm sure she wants to be numbered with the others—skipping and hopping, Uncle Wiggily and his bunny boys and girls hurried toward the hollow stump bungalow. Some of the rabbit boys and girls were taking teeny weeny tastes of thier lolly-pops. But they did not eat much for they wanted to save room for the carrot shortcake.

"Aren't you glad you bought the squeezie, Daddicums?" asked Tooter, as he hopped along beside his father.

"Oh, yes, I guess so," answered Uncle Wiggily, looking at the rubber ball in his paw. "Though what I am going to do with it is more than I know," and he gave the ball a little squeeze.

"Look out!" cried Tooter suddenly.

"What's the matter?" asked his father.

"Look out!" cried Tooter, suddenly.

"What's the matter?" asked his father.

"The tabby cat lady in the store filled that ball with water before she sold it to you," said the rabbit boy. "And when you squeeze it the water squirts out. And it's so cold, Daddicums, that water freezes now and I don't want to turn into a frozen rabbit." Tooter laughed, for his daddy had, without meaning to, squirted a little water on the bunny boy.

"No, indeed, you don't want to freeze," said Mr. Longears. "I didn't know it was so cold out. I'll not hold my squeezie so tightly."

"And if you don't want it you can give it to me," suggested Tooter. "I can have some fun with it in summer when water won't freeze."

"I'll think about it," was all Mr. Longears would say.

So the rabbits hopped along and they were almost home when Baby Bunty shouted:

"Oh, Daddicums! (for so she called Uncle Wiggily) Oh, Daddicums, here comes the Wolf!"

"Oh, I guess you see a shadow on the snow," said Uncle Wiggily.

"No, really, it's the Wolf, and here he is!" cried Bunty and at that moment the bad chap sprang out from behind a bush and rushed at Mr. Longears.

"Squirt water on him! Squirt water on the Wolf with your squeezie, Daddicums!" cried Tooter. Uncle Wiggily pressed the rubber ball. But alas! No water came out.

"Ha! Ha!" laughed the hungry Wolf. "You can't squirt on me!"

"Then I'll throw my squeezie at you!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. With that he threw the rubber ball at the Wolf hitting the bad chap right in his left eye. The cold weather had frozen into a solid lump the water in the rubber ball. So that when it hit the Wolf's eyes it was just as if he had been struck by a chunk of icicle.

"Ow! Wow! Double wow!" howled the Wolf, and, holding his paw over his sore eye, away he ran, not biting any one and Mr. Longears and the little bunnies safely reached the bungalow.

"I'll take my squeezie in by the fire and thaw out the ice," said the rabbit daddy, picking up the frozen rubber ball after it had hit the Wolf. "It's a good thing I bought it instead of a lollypop."

MUSIC CLUB RECITAL

(By Jeanette.)

The fortnightly meeting of the Women's Music Club was featured yesterday afternoon by the playing of Miss Agnes Best and Miss Edwina Palmer, of Toronto, in piano and violin renditions. These talented young musicians made a splendid impression on local audiences when they appeared together last year, while Miss Palmer's violin music has been made familiar to Peterborough audiences through her many years of residence in the city. Their playing together is delightful. Both are proficient and earnest artists, and their grasp of technical difficulties, their profound and sincere appreciation of every nuance of noble music and their charming rendition, makes every number interesting in the extreme. They were accorded renewed applause for every item on their program of yesterday. Mrs. H. F. Doig was the assisting vocalist. The president, Mrs. J. F. Allan, introduced the several musicians.

Miss Palmer, in announcing the opening number, spoke of it as illustrative of the few violin compositions by the great Schubert, whose centenary is being celebrated this year. He composed three sonatinas for the violin. The third, written in the key of G Minor, was played by Miss Palmer and Miss Best. Full of the melodic beauty, the alluring brightness and charm which characterized the work of Schubert, it was beautifully interpreted. The four movements are comprised in the gay opening allegro, the andante whose calm, soothing strains are interpreted mainly by a legato bow that alternates at intervals with brief staccato passages played near the heel, a dainty little minuet and trio, with embroidery of captivating grace notes ,and a jocund allegro moderato that form a somewhat mischevous conclusion.

A Sonata by Walter Davis, a modern composer, who was for many years organist and choir leader of the famous Temple Church in London, and who is now musical supervisor of Welsh schools, demonstrated the purity which was described as typical of this musician. Somewhat similar in atmosphere to the massive music of Brahms, it had an orchestral touch to its rendition, with a lofty and dignified tone to the theme, and an ambitious impression imparted by a slight straining after effect. The second movement is brisk and somewhat bizarre, with abrupt changes in tempo and treatment, and the third portion is slow, dreamy and poetical, contrary to the general rule in the composition of sonatas, which usually have an allegro or presto finale.

A group comprising four English sketches by William Hurlston, a contemporary of Coleridge-Taylor, was especially attractive. Entitled in simple fashion, they were, oddly enough, just like their names. No fancy titles could have been half as effective as these, and seldom is music encountered that gives such a picture of a theme. It is unnecessary to describe them in any further manner than to mention their several titles; a Pastorale, a Caprice, a Romance and Revelry. They were of the older type of composition, the "heart" music, holding in its essence, warm and sweet. To the renewed applause which followed the masterly rendition of this music was given a final encore, in a bit of haunting Celtic melody, played with double stopping to the strings; an Irish composition, "The Foggy Dew."

Mrs. Doig's songs, with accompaniment by Miss Agnes Logan, were received with much appreciation. They demonstrated effectively the ringing power and volume of her voice and formed an attractive interlude to the instrumental numbers. They were an old English air called "Phyllis Hath Such Charming Graces," a composition of Brahms; "A Thought Like Music," an Indian love lyric, "Krishna," with musical setting by the Canadian composer, Gena Branscombe, and a song by Roger Quilter, "Love's Philosophy."

Thomasburg

THOMASBURG, Feb. 4.—Sunday being the last Sunday in the month it was Missionary Sunday in the United Sunday School. The attendance was increased from twenty-nine to thirty-nine. There were four visitors present. After the lessons Mrs. Edward Carter, superintendent of the Missionary Department, took charge of the school and a short program was given, with choruses and a reading with a talk on missionary work by Mrs. Carter.

A party was given at the home of Mr. Robert Fennell on Thursday evening in honor of Miss Elizabeth Runnett, R.N., of Belleville. About twenty attended. The evening was spent in euchre, bridge, and other games, also contests and dancing. At the lunch hour a dainty lunch was served.

Mrs. Carter attended a missionary convention in Picton on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Vance and children were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Chappell for tea on Friday.

Mrs. E. Runnett of Belleville and Mr. Wilson Riseborough of Norwood visited at the home of Mr. Fennell last week.

Mr. Harry Sherry accompanied by Mr. Henry Free motored to Kingston on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. David Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Mullett of Moira were entertained at the home of Mr. Melbourne Adams on Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. William Vance and children were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. William Holbert.

Mr. Harry Blakely of Queen's University, Kingston, spent the week end with his parents here.

Mrs. George Booth of Chapman spent a few days with Mrs. Ervin Bateman.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Morton visited at the home of Mr. H. Vance on Sunday.

STIRLING CHURCH PROSPERS IN 1927

Annual Meeting Held by St. Andrew's Congregation—Stirling News.

STIRLING, Feb. 4.—St. Andrew's Presbyterian church annual meeting was held last Wednesday night. The Ladies' Aid adopted a different plan in serving lunch at this meeting, to what they have hitherto been doing. Instead of a free lunch after the business of the meeting, they had a cafeteria tea, before the business session began and secured $26 for their treasury by so doing. The business meeting began at 8 o'clock, the Rev. A. N. Reid, the pastor, conducting devotional exercises. He was then elected to act as chairman of the meeting. M. W. Sine was chosen secretary.

The minister read the report of the session which showed progress, although the church had been without a pastor for the first three months of the year. The reports of the different organization were then read, all showing good work and marked progress all along the line for 1927.

The Ladies' Aid Society did great work as usual and by their efforts the congregation begins 1928 free of debt, with balances in the treasuries of the different branches of the church work of $500.00.

Represented at Picton.

At the meeting of the Belleville Presbyterial of the United Church which was held in Picton last week, Mrs. Lottie Vanderwater represented the W. M. S., Mrs. Earl Lavery the Mission Band, with Miss Dorothy Joblin as their delegate attended from St. Paul's United church here. Inspiring meetings were held, the chief speaker being Miss Shibley a returned missionary from North Honan, China.

The members of the W.M.S. of St. Paul's United Church are practicing for a pageant which will be presented in the near future.

On Saturday afternoon the ladies of St. John's Anglican church, held a very successful sale of home-made cookery, in the Agricultural rooms.

Mill Sold.

Mr. A. C. Connor has disposed of his chopping mill to Mr. Frank Stapley of Madoc Junction, who is now in charge of the business at this old and well known stand on Front street East.

Mr. Charles Scott has purchased the property at the corner of the Campbellford road and Front street from Walter Barker and will take possession at once.

Mr. Clayton Nix has moved to Brighton, and Mr. Turner of Church Street will occupy the house on the Campbellford road vacated by Mr. Nix.

The cutting of ice began on Saturday, with a showing of from 12 to 15 inches in thickness.

The painters are to begin the decoration of the new community service building this week.

Society Active.

The annual meeting of the Stirling Horticultural Society, which had been postponed a couple of times was finally held last Friday night in the Agricultural rooms, with a fair attendance present. The president, J. B. Belshaw, gave an outline of the community work of the Society for the past year, some of which are the looking after the flower boxes and lawn at the public library, also cutting the grass in the park and planting flowers in the cemetery.

The Society can reasonably take the credit for the beautiful lawns of the village, as well as a great many farm homes throughout the district. It has distributed to the 130 members 3,300 bulbs, 70 shrubs, 13 rose bushes, several ferns, also a great quantity of garden and flower seeds. The Society also repaired the main driveway in the cemetery and provided seats at the bowling green when not needed in the park. The receipts for the year were $408.75. A balance of $94.97 is in the bank. The following are the officers for 1928:

President—J. B. Belshaw.
1st Vice—Mrs. C. F. Walt.
2nd Vice—Mrs. Bissonnette.
3rd Vice—Mrs. E. T. Ward.
Secretary-Treasurer—Mrs. M. W. Sine.
Directors—Mrs. Samuel Hardy, Mrs. J. M. McGee, Mr. John S. Morton, Mrs. (Dr.) J. M. C. Potts, Mrs. E. Ward, Mrs. A. Hammond, Mrs. Mary Nolon, Mrs. George Bailey, Mrs. Annie Bailey, L. Meiklejohn, Mrs. R. H. Williams, Mr. A. E. Dobbie.
Auditors—Messrs. H. C. Martin and J. D. Mills.

district waters. We want more fish deposited every year, and we could try to conserve the stock of fish by establishng sanctuaries, as proposed by Jack Miner when he was here. Miner's idea was to isolate parts of lakes and rivers as natural preserves in which fishing would be forbidden all the year round. For instance, at Rice Lake one of the large bays could be selected and a boom thrown across it. Signs would be posted warning the public that this is a sanctuary for fish. One or more bays could be segregated in this simple and inexpensive way, and Jack Miner told us that fish would spawn and remain there, and afterwards would go out into the deeper water for food. This plan could be adopted in other lakes and in sections of the rivers. I fancy that it would work out as Jack Miner predicted, and any way it would be a cheap method of providing some protection for our game fish. Now is the time to do something along that line, before the streams are fished out. There is plenty of good fishing around here yet, but at the same time many a tourist has been disappointed.

Every person who helps in a movement of this kind will be doing something worth while, for the tourists have been coming in greater numbers every year, and they leave a great sum of money here. Fishing attracts most of them, and we should see to it that these waters continue to be good fishing grounds.

HEATED DEBATE IN LEGION HALL

Member Moved Vote of Non-Confidence in Branch Executive.

AT CAMPBELLFORD.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 4.— Although the local branch of the Canadian Legion has passed through some fairly troubled seas without mishap, the meeting held in their club rooms on Thursday night was by far the stormiest yet on record. The president, Major J. M. Bygott, and the secretary, Comrade G. A. Ironside, were both unable to attend so the chair was occupied by George Free, the second vice-president, he being the highest officer of the branch in attendance. J. S. Dickson was appointed secretary for the meeting and had all he could do to keep his pencil from over-heating. Time after time the "lid came off" and the vice-president had to call the members to order. Because the flag had not been flown from the regimental flag pole in memory of the late Sir Douglas Haig, a motion of non-confidence in the legion executive was put, but it failed to get a seconder since the mover was unable to show wherein the Legion had authority to issue orders concerning the property of the Northumberland regiment. The old grudge of the president's action as reeve of the town, when the appointment was made for the operation of the public weigh scales, was aired again and without much result save a lot of heated argument that led nowhere.

Up to the present time, it has not been considered necessary that committes report in writing, but since the constitution calls for this method and the report of the unemployment committee caused so much strife, it was made necessary that written reports be submitted hereafter. These reports must also bear the signatures of each and every member of the committee. This should prove a distinct advantage to the progress of the future meetings. In the present instance, the report of the committees and the discussion regarding them carried the meeting on till after midnight. Even then it was necessary for some matters to be left over till the next meeting before taking any definite action.

After electing Comrade Dickson to act as secretary for the meeting, and with Comrade Free in the chair, the business began with the usual dull preliminaries, but J. A. Jones broke in on the unfinished business to remind the branch that Earl Haig was dead and that the flag had not been flown. This caused some really hot remarks to be made, and Mr. Jones made a motion of non-confidence in the executive committee. He failed to get a seconder and the motion was quashed. In the argument that followed, it was decided that there were certain military rules and orders governing certain properties that he did not understand or know. He was repeatedly called for being out of order and finally the meeting got to the stage for the reading of the correspondance. There was very little to be read. Most of it was placed in the hands of the executitve and pensions committee. A letter re memorial service for the late Sir Douglas Haig was on file in the club rooms, to be brought up for further discussion. A circular letter which was a report on the second Dominion Conference held at St. Johns, N.B., was also led in the club rooms for the inspection of the members.

Comrades Smith and Jones reported that they were unemployed and their names were submitted to the Employment committee. The Social committee reported that the date for the smoker which was to be held on Monday next would be altered on account of the Warden's banquet being arranged for the same evening. It was also reported that terms had been received from Dorothy Allan Park of Peterborough for an entertainment to be held under the auspices of the local Legion. After reading the press comments and hearing the terms and Mr. Dickson's opinion of the artist, the Entertainment committee was authorized to proceed.

It is expected that the concert will take place near the end of the present month. Miss Agnes Logan, concert pianist, will be the assisting artiste.

The next thing to be considered was the advisability to put on a "draw" with a considerable amount of money involved. After some discussion and both a motion and an amendment being made, the matter was placed in the hands of the executive for their consideration and to report at the next meeting.

The Sick and Visiting Committee reported that they had attended Walter Scott on several occasions and had assisted in his removal to the Belleville Hospital, where he underwent a serious operation. Comrade Smith detailed his trip to Belleville with Comrade Scott, and regretted that he was unable to accomplish all that he desired before his train time arrived.

Then the real struggle of the evening began. The best war tactics were not employed, but the old method of hammer and tongs was the accepted mode of procedure. It all began when Comrade J. A. Jones accused the president of working against rather than for the returned men. This stand at once divided the house, and before the argument had gone very far, the president, Major J. M. Bygott, entered the room. He had been attending a meeting of certain church officials, and had come into the rooms when he had seen the lights in passing. The trouble arose from the belief of certain members that the president who is also the Reeve of Campbellford did act on the Council in a manner contrary to the constitution of the Legion, but though the argument swayed from side to side in its advantages, and more than an hour and a half was spent at it, there was no head or tail to the whole thing.

When the matter was entirely settled to all intents and purposes, Dickson asked what was to be done and pointed out that, so far, nothing had been done. This only started the same old thing again and with the same result. Finally it was decided to leave the subject on the table till the next regular meeting. The president has promised to be present and conduct the thing to the bitter end. Just what sort of end this will be is being very much disputed by the two factions at the present time. The remarks of the president carried an air of quiet assurance that bore conviction to those who listened. Those of Comrade Jones were made in a much more heated manner. Comrade Johnston, who is resident in the building, asked the president to exert his authority as officer commanding the Campbellford detachment of the Northumberland regiment and order the house cleared, but the Major did not care to hide behind his authority in this manner.

Arrangements to have the Executive Committee arrange the church service were completed and there was another matter placed in the hands of the pension committee, suggested and detailed by Comrade MacEacherin. Then Mr. Free, who had occupied the chair during the meeting, asked the members to understand that he had tried to conduct the procedure without fear or favor to anyone and hoped that he would never be called upon again to perform a similar duty, but his feeling was somewhat lessened when President Bygott and J. A. Jones, the two leading figures on the opposing side of the argument, made a motion of confidence which carried without a dissenting hand. Comrade Free duly expressed his appreciation.

Owing to the lateness of the hour and out of consideration of those who were attempting to sleep in the rooms above, the singing of the National Anthem, which is the correct procedure, was waived by unanimous vote. The next meeting is called for February 16th, and it is expected that there will be some really interesting discussion.

Four Months in Hospital Didn't Help Rheumatism

T-R-C's did, giving immediate relief

What a cruel disease Rheumatism is! Albert Richardson, 3457 St. Urbain Street, Montreal, was in despair with it. He suffered terribly, spending four months in hospital without relief from the nagging torment.

Then along came a friend suggesting Templeton's Rheumatic Capsules. Mr. Richardson refused. He had no faith in anything. But the friend persisted, practically forcing T-R-C's on Mr. Richardson, who later wrote us: "I had been suffering terribly from rheumatism for 18 months. After leaving hospital, where I had been 4 months, I was obliged to use a stick.

"One day a friend of mine, seeing me suffering, induced me to take three doses (6 capsules, which he gave me) of Templeton's Rheumatic remedy. They worked like magic. I was so pleased that I used two large-sized boxes and am now completely well.

"I strongly recommend T-R-C's."

Here is good common sense advice for you, if your body is tortured by Rheumatism. Ahead are cold, damp, stormy days, weather that aggravates Rheumatism. Be wise. Lay in a supply of T-R-C's. Get rid of that Rheumatism NOW. Enjoy life. T-R-C's help your body throw off those poisons which cause Rheumatism, Sciatica, Neuralgia, Neuritis, Lumbago, etc. You can take T-R-C's without fear. HARMLESS; entirely free from habit-forming drugs. 50c and $1 at all druggists.

NORHAM Y.P.L. MEMBERS HOSTS

Entertain United Church Young People From Warkworth.

NORHAM, Feb. 4. — On Monday evening the Norham Church hall was filled to capacity, when the Norham Young People's League entertained the Warkworth Young People's Union of the United Church.

Hayden Newman, President of the Norham League, opened the meeting with a hymn. Mr. Allen Platt read Psalm 46, and the Rev. D. R. Clare gave a brief exposition on the Scripture lesson. After prayer, Mr. Edgar of Warkworth took charge of the meeting.

A vocal duet was delightfully rendered by two Warkworth juveniles, Miss Lila and Master Edgar Allen.

Then the debate between the two leagues, "Resolved that Warkworth is a better place in which to live than is Norham," was explained.

The members on the negative side of the debate, upholding the side of Norham, were: Arthur Meneilley, Miss Claire Curtis and Edward Huycke.

Each leader was allowed seven minutes and each supporter was allowed five minutes. The leader of the affirmative side was given two minutes, after the other five speakers, for refutation only.

It was decided that, considering the subject, no judges would be appointed.

As the debate proceeded the interest increased. The main objects of the question were to provoke mirth and to increase the local pride in one's home town.

After the debate had been brought to a happy conclusion, a vocal quartet was rendered by four young ladies of Warkworth, Misses Ina Brown, Frances Jones, Elizabeth Duncan and Nellie Greenly.

Following this, Orval Kelly of Warkworth addressed the audience with fine eloquence on the subject, "The Secret of Success."

The Norham Society had prepared a very dainty luncheon, and the evening concluded with the hearty singing of the old song, "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows."

BASKET SOCIAL

Orange Lodge No. 194 Hold Social Gathering at East Emily.

EAST EMILY, Feb. 4—The Orange Lodge No. 294 held their basket social in the hall on Wednesday night and despite the very stormy evening there was a good attendance.

The program was as follows with Rev. Mr. Rowland acting as chairman:

Chairman's address.
Period—Community singing.
Recitation—Ivan Deyell.
Instrumental — Mrs. O. Ruth, Messrs. Elwood and Wilbert Harrison.
Solo—Eleanor Sherin.
Play, in two acts—"Dr. Cure-All."
Solo—Elean Sherin, between acts.
Instrumental — Mrs. O. Ruth, Messrs. Elwood and Wilbert Harrison.
Recitation—William Douglas.

After the program came the sale of the baskets. Mr. William Howden acted as auctioneer.

The proceeds amounted to about $28.50. Lunch was served to those without baskets, and a social half hour was spent.

But with that outlook has also come an even stronger national consciousness, a deeper pride and faith in Canada, a higher sense of responsibility, and inseparable from these, as indeed throughout all her history, the underlying conviction that in the maintenance and development of the unity of the British Commonwealth lies the natural field for the fullest development of Canada's own national life and for the exercise of all the responsibilities which go to make a people great."

Sustaining Fund.

"It is generally agreed that the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce has not had finance adequate to carry out an expanded program under its low single membership fee of $15.00 per year. It is generally conceded that firms, organizations and corporations should invest in the organization according to their ability to pay and possible returns to their business. Peterborough, in order to meet present conditions, must do the same.

The task of the Activities Fund or Sustaining Fund committee shall be to solicit support from outside business concerns." This concluded Mr. McKeen's address, which was heartily applauded.

Other brief addresses were delivered by Mr. Fraser and P. D. Kerr, while resolutions were passed by the Moar of Directors approving the plan of campaign and also to the effetc that the annual election of officers be postponed for one week in order that new members secured in the campaign, may have an opportunity to vote in the elections.

The meeting was closed by a brief inspirational address by Dr. Carr, who expressed the thought that we are living in an age of specialization and organization and emphasized the fact that Canada's future is a golden one, provided Canadans appreciate that fact as they should.

FIGHT TO KEEP WELL.

There are forces within the body that are constantly fighting to keep us in health. It is only when this defence is weakened that disease germs get the upper hand and we become ill.

One of the most powerful of these forces that work for health is rich, red blood. Good, healthy blood increases the resistance of the body to the diseases that are always threatening. It is easier to keep up this resistance by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, eating proper food, avoiding articles of food that do not agree with us and getting plenty of fresh air day and night, than it is to cure diseases after it gets a foothold. Keep up the resistance of your body to disease by these tonic pills, which you can get at any drug store at 50 cents a box; or you can get the pills direct from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. Send the Company your name and address and they will send you a free little booklet, "What to Eat and How to Eat."

Canadian Entry Will Meet Cuban-Japan Winner

CANADA DREW BYE IN FIRST

Dominion's Tennis Team Will Meet Winner of Cuban-Japan Match.

FOR DAVIS CUP.

PARIS, Feb. 4 (Canadian Press).—Japan or Cuba will be the first obstable to be hurdled by tennis stars of Canada in their campaign to win the Davis Cup, wrested from the United States by France last year.

Canada and China both drew byes in the first round of the draw in the American zone, made at Elysee Palace by President Doumergue yesterday. Canada will engage the survivor of the first round match between Japan and Cuba, while China will face the winner of the Mexico-United States series, in the second round.

The main strength in the European zone is in the upper half, where the luck of the draw brings together two of the strongest challengers in the first round—Australia and Italy. The tennis stars from "down under" are returning to Davis Cup competition after two years' absence with a promise of giving the other zone contenders considerable opposition. Italy was the only team in the European zone able to give France a struggle in the preliminary cup play last year the match series ending three to two in favor of the French. Germany which re-entered the competiton last year, draws Greece as its first opponent.

Great ceremony surrounded the draw. Diplomats representing the record-breaking list of thirty-three nations entered in the competition—eight more than the previous high-water mark—were assembled at the palace when President Doumergue drew out the first slip from the Davis Cup itself.

"This is the first time any president of France has been called upon to perform similar duty," commented Pierre Gillou, non-playing captain of the team which brought the trophy to France in 1927, "but we tennis fans hope it won't be the last time."

Representatives of the other countries all dug into the cup but none succeeded in picking his own country.

Rene Lacoste was the only member of the winning team present. Henri Cochet was at his home in Lyons. Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon are in Australia.

"I can't say I am not supremely happy for France's victory and must add that I hope I will be called upon to preside at a similar operation next year," said President Doumergue, and then added: "But to all the other nations entered in this competition, I wish luck and ask fair play."

The draw:

European Zone, First Round

Upper half.—Byes, India and Switzerland; Australia vs. Italy; Rumania vs. Belgium; Germany vs. Greece; Chile vs. Spain; Jugo-Slavia vs. Finland; Argentina vs. Great Britain.

Lower half.—Hungary vs. Norway; Ireland vs. Holland; Poland vs. Denmark; Philippines vs. Austria; South Africa vs. Sweden; Byes Portugal, New Zealand, Czech-Slovakia.

American Zone, First Round

Upper half.—Bye, China; United States vs. Mexico.

Lower half.—Cuba vs. Japan; Bye, Canada.

NATIONAL LEAGUE SCHEDULE ADOPTED

Baseball Season to Open on April 11 and Close on September 30.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4 (Canadian Press).—The 1928 National League playing schedule was formally adopted by the club-owners in session here yesterday, the baseball season to open on April 11 and close on September 30.

The campaign gets under way with Philadelphia at Brooklyn, Boston at New York, Chicago at Cincinnati, and Pittsburgh at St. Louis. Last year the season began on April 12 and closed on October 2.

Proposed agreements with minor leagues providing for increased allowances in the drafting of players together with a like clause relating to umpires were withdrawn, due to the failure of the minors to ratify these subjects.

The National League had submitted a new scale, increasing draft prices on players some time ago which class AA clubs raised the maximum from $5,000, $7,500 per player and so on, in proportion to the club rating. As the minors did not take action, the club owners voted to discard the proposals.

TEAMS PLAY TO TIE SCORE

FINAL COUNT 1-1.

Staging a three-man combination rush with Dormer netting the lone tally for the Married Men in the last moments of the final period, Collins, Grey and Dormer tied the score of the Single Men's team in Examiner inter-shop game played at Brock Street Rink last night. Dugan, who drew the only penalty of the match, starred for Single Men by scoring on a lone rush in the second period. Line-up:

Married Men.—Goal, Phillips; defence, Collins and Butcher; centre, Dormer; wings, Grey and C. Clark.

Referee—F. Thirnbeck.

P.C.I. ELMINATES PORT HOPE TEAM

Wins Round 9-7, Though Beaten in Port Hope Game.

FINAL MATCH CLOSE.

PORT HOPE, February 4. — Unable to overcome a four-goal advantage gained in the first game of the series, the Port Hope High School team was eliminated from the Interscholastic League race on Wednesday night by the Peterborough Collegiate by nine goals to seven. The Port Hope team was defeated 5-1 in Peterborough on Saturday last, and they went into last night's game facing a four-goal deficit. Even at that they narrowed the margin down with a crushing attack in which they all but tied the count in the final period. With only three minutes to go, Port Hope needed but one goal to tie the score, and the whole five men were right in on top of the Peterborough goal, but failed to get the tieing counter. Just as full time was expiring, Dunkerley, left wing for the Petes, broke out of a melee with the puck and sailed through with no one to beat but the goalie, and notched Peterborough's ninth counter on the round. The final score of the encounter was: Port Hope 6, Peterborough 4.

The teams were:

Peterborough — Goal, Merritt; defence, Woods and Doxsee; centre, Cuthbert; wings, Hewitt and Dunkerley; subs., Taylor, McGee, and Gamble.

Port Hope — Goal, Haskill; defence, Sherry and Cameron; wings, Greenaway and Sneyd; centre, Highfield; subs., Gallagher and Berbert.

Referee—Stan Grossett.

DR. PELTZER WANTS EXTENSION OF TIME

Famous German Runner Would Like to Meet Lloyd Hahn.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Feb. 4 (Canadian Press).—Having tasted the fruits of victory in his first American indoor race, Dr. Otto Peltzer told The Associated Press yesterday he looked forward to gaining an extension of time here permitting him to race outdoors at Los Angeles and also to meet Lloyd Hahn, the ace of United States sprinters in a one-mile test at Madison Square Garden in the Knights of Columbus meet, February 29.

The German star's next competitive appearance is scheduled in a 1,000 metre race in the Illinois A. C. meet at Chicago, February 10, it will be his last race unless German athletic authorities grant him an extension of time, but Dr. Peltzer yesterday indicated he expected to get this permission.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By a Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, it's all over so far as us and the O.h.a. is concerned. And the winter of '28'll go down to history as the season we didn't cop a league game. In a row we lost 17 straight this year, and if you want to throw in the tail end of the 1927 campaign, we haven't won a O.h.a. settoo in the last 21 starts. And it mighta been worse, two, if Mister Wright and Mister Lebarr hadn't tossed in the sponge before their serious was completed. The trouble was, the teams wasn't only losing on the ice—they was losing at the box-office, two—and after all, you gotta have enough jack coming in to meet the overhead or you're sunk. They ain't no railways or taxies carrying teams around for nothing, and players anyway gotta eat, even if they can't win no hockey games. Some of us was kinda hoping to see the Kitchener Dutchmen and the Preston gang here, but the way the fans was sticking to their radio sets or jamming the movies meant to bring the Westerners to Peterborough was going to be more of a luxury than the treasury could stand. And so all our teams is scratched for the year, which is the usual fate of them that get left at the post. Next season is another thing again, and while right now the outlook might be a whole lot brighter without being any two rosy at that, you can't never tell. Anyway to be worse than this year it couldn't, and so we can at least count on holding our own.

Failing any hockey to get excited about, Mac, I been looking over this curling fracas, and, believe me, I gotta lotta kick out of it. And if you think that all the curling is down out there on the ice, Mister Sporting Editor, all I gotta say is that they musta given you that forehead just to finish off your face and forgot to put something behind it. Why, Mac, some of the greatest shots you ever heard of was pulled off by the birds sitting in behind the glass partition where they could glimpse the action without getting their tootsies chilled. Say, they was more tankard material cramped into that 1 room than I thought could be found in the whole Province. They wasn't 1 of them guys that couldn't call a shot before the skip out there had begun to think about it, and the stones they threw in their conversation, if they was placed side by side, would reach from here to Toronto and leave enough over for a siding into Newmarket. And if any of them pulled a mistake he never admitted it. My tip to the local curling bosses is, the next time they're going to pick a couple rinks to battle for the tankard, let 'em lay off the fellows out on the ice and make their selection outa the sideliners. They can't go wrong—and 8 of them birds'd bring home the bacon or I don't know the difference between a broom and the hogline. Mebbee, anyway, I don't, but that ain't the point. The talent is there—why not use it, sez I.

By the way, Mac, you shoulda seen some of them curlers sweep. Almost all of them threw a wicked broom, and I couldn't help wondering how many of them kicked about that snow-cleaning bylaw when, from the way they polished off that ice, they wasn't 1 of them that couldn't sweep off a block of pavement in 7 mins., if they put their heart into the work. That's the way of the world though. A bird what takes his car out to drive 2 blocks for fear of broken arches will walk about 10 miles a p.m. on the golf links and never show a callous spot.

This is being wrote before the Havelockers-Lakefield 2nd clash, so I can't say nothing about that, except if the Railroaders win we'll see anyway another round, and if they don't, well, it won't be long until the ball season is here.

Sportfully yours,

A. WISE CRACKER.

STIRLING BEATS CAMPBELLFORD RIGHT AT HOME

Visitors Practically Eliminate Home Team From Running.

FINAL SCORE 3-2.

Losers Battle Hard When Two Goals Down—Big Crowd Sees Match.

Campbellford, Feb. 4. — Davidson's Arena housed its record crowd last night when Stirling came up with two hundred and fifty rooters and a special train, to take home the bacon. First the band played, and then the teams played, and when the smoke cleared the visitors were ahead 3-2 in the game, which all but makes it impossible for Campbellford to come out on top of the league. But the game was clean throughout. The number of penalties was unusually small and the players showe enough speed during the entire 60 minutes to keep the crowd on its toes till the last second of the last minute.

Walter Jackson, Peterboro, put on his white pullover sweater with the red O.H.A. across the front, his horn rimmed spectacles and kept his eye on the play, without "Fear, favour or affection." His part in the affair was no mean task, and he apparently gave satisfaction to both groups of fans, which is a sure way of identifying a good referee.

The first period ended without any score although if close ones had counted the tale would have been different. In the second session Stirling counted twice and the home team still remained with a big zero chalked up for them. The local supporters began to have grave doubts as to their team winning but the third period cheered them up when the local team got two with the visitors scoring another in between the pair. With the minutes to play becoming fewer and fewer, the Campbellford squad fought hard for the necessary goal, and more than once it seemed within easy reach. But like the will-o'-the-wisp it vanished. Then the gong sounded and the jig was up. Of the goals scored, Jack Ackers for Stirling got two and Harry Ingram got the other. For Campbellford Cowell got one and Ivey the other.

First Period.

After the usual preliminaries, Stirling started the fireworks with a combination that went right down to the Campbellford goal. McArthur worked his way out, and Maurice, Stirling, checked, and came back for a shot. Fox saved twice and then Campbellford tried a combination that failed to score. Johnson tried a long shot and Harry Ingram brought it back with a rush. His shot was blocked and as soon as Wallace got half a chance he took a long shot. Stirling rushed and McArthur, all by himself on defence, checked and the local team forced their way into the Stirling territory. H. Ackers kicked the puck at the Campbellford defence line. McArthur recovered from the face off and worked as far up as the Stirling blue line. Maurice returned the compliment and for a time the play was around the Stirling goal. McArthur made a slow rush that came near to being successful. His slow shot was easily blocked however. In less than half a minute Fox got another opportunity to stop one. For a while the game was held in Stirling territory but Cowell falling frequently as he checked. Jack Ackers made a neat check from Ibey and almost scored. Ibey got a trip to the bench for tripping. Then the press came around the Campbellford goal and Fox certainly paid attention to business till the puck was shot into the crowds and the pressure was relieved.

Huck McArthur rushed but it was of no use. In another half a minute Stirling got another shot at the Campbellford goal. Fred Ingram drew a penalty for bodying his brother into the boards and Campbellford played a desperate game with only four men on the ice, goalie and all. But Stirling failed to score till Ibey came back and the fans breathed easier. The rest seemed to have put new life in him.

He simply was everywhere at once. Stirling broke through with a close up rush, but Fox blocked the shot. Hulen saved a long shot and Blute followed in for a rebound. Stirling tried a long shot and Ingram was let out again. Fox saved three real attempts to score.

Then the local team organized a rush but Cowell's shot hit the side of the net. Campbellford went in with another combination. Maurice got off on a rush but was penalized for bodying a Campbellford man behind the nets. On a three-man combination right up to the Stirling net, Cowell shot high. The play remained close around the visitors' net till they staged a rush down the boards. Campbellford returned the rush but Hulen saved the shot. Hulen stopped a low one. Ibey shot on the rebound and the play returned to the Campbellford goal where a small mob scene was staged. Stirling tried another rush. McArthur bodied into them and was put off. Ibey got the puck and got well behind the Stirling defence line when Harry Ingram got a penalty for tripping him. The bell rang with Ingram still in the penalty box, and no score on either side.

Second Period

The second period started out with some comparatively slow hockey till Maurice started with a rush but shot in front of the net. Ingram tried to make a count from the opposite flank and managed to put the puck in Fox's pads. The local team worked their way back to Stirling's defense area and then both sides exchanged long shots. Fred Ingram saved a fast shot with his shins and the game began to speed up a little. Another offside at Campbellford blue line, Wallace kicked the puck, and Campbellford tried a long shot which Hulen blocked neatly. Campbellford staged a rush on Stirling goal, but the visitors worked their way back out of danger till Ibey figured in two combination rushes but failed to fool Hulen on either occasion. The third rush was a spectacular solo affair by Ingram of Campbellford. Maurice drew a penalty for slugging. Ingram of Stirling scored the first goal of the game when the puck bounced off Fox's pads. Maurice came back again and the play centered about the Campbellford nets.

Jack Ackers, Stirling, followed Ingram's example when he made a spectacular solo rush and scored with a close in shot. Then the game began to get real interesting. Fox saved a hot one. Campbellford began to force the game up to the Stirling end and Stirling retaliated, getting two shots at Fox.

A moment later the play was being staged in the visitors end of the rink. Hulen made a brilliant save and Ingram, Stirling, drew a penalty for some trouble with Ibey. Jack Ackers made another rush, but failed to fool Fox again. McArthur managed to get off to a good start, but Hulen saved his shot. Cowell rushed but his shot went high. Wallace returned the rush and Fox was on the job. Ibey got a close shot on a combination rush, but Hulen saved. McArthur playing a fast game with four minutes of the period to go Blute subbed Johnston and a combination rush put the play in the Stirling nets. Wallace tried a long shot from centre ice, and H. Ackers drew a penalty for a trip. Wallace took a shot and scored, but he was offside, and the bell rang just as he tounched the puck. Fox did not attempt to make a save. Stirling rushed and Ibey made the comeback for Campbellford. Blue and Blute began a neat two man combination, but Wallace broke it up and shot wide for the Campbellford net. Time, and the game was at centre ice.

Third Period

The final period began with a rush and bustle that promised to be a genuine garrison finish. Ingram, Campbellford, got in two rushes right off the bat with Fox saving a Stirling shot in between. H. Ackers made a serious attempt to score, but Fox saved. Then Wallace tried a long shot. Campbellford were going strong on the offensive and holding the play well up into the Stirling section. Huck McArthur tried to bore in, but Stirling relieved him of the rubber and Jack Ackers tried another of his rushes. Fox saved a shot from Wallace. Ibey kicked it, H. Ackers rushed. Fox saves, and Campbellford rushed. Stirling retaliated, but failed to get a shot at the net. Ingram got mixed up with Blute, but there was no penalty. Hulen saved a shot from Cowell. J. Ackers rushed and failed to score. H. Ackers took a shot but McArthur saved when Fox was out of the net. Fox saved the rebound when Ackers got it. Wallace checked at middle ice and missed a long shot. Jack Ackers tried to argue with the referee when he was called offside near the Campbellford goal, but it was no use. The press changed to Stirling territory. Fox saved another shot, and Cowell stopped the next rush.

Ibey scored for Campbellford and the local supporters almost raised the roof with their cheers. At least something happened to make the water drip in larger quantities

Things began to get real interesting. The supporters from both sides yelled advice and encouragement to their men on the ice who appeared to be doing their utmost, the visitors to increase their lead and the locals to tie the score. Campbellford pressed the game. Maurice rushed and Fox blocked his shot. Cowell got his strong arm into action and followed in after his shot for the rebound. Before Ackers got away, Cowell got two good shots at the Stirling net without counting. Then Ackers got away on a rush that ended in the third goal for Stirling. This goal brought every fan to his feet yelling and shouting like a Comanche. Two minutes of fast hockey followed. There was an offside and Blue relieved Johnston. Fox slid out of his goal to save a shot and Ibey stepped in and saved a sure count as Ackers of Stirling got his stick around a loose puck about ten feet in front of the Campbellford net.

Five minutes to go and the puck was being shot at Fox with alarming frequency. But he kept his head, and then Blue got hitting the high spots. Fred Ingram rushed and Cowell scored the second goal for the home team, during a scrimmage around the Stirling net. The score stood 3-2, and the minutes were getting more precious every second. Taking all their eggs in one basket, Campbellford played all five men in the forward line and put up a game that was well worth the price of admission for just the last two minutes. They forced the game into the Stirling area, and the visitors relied on long shots to keep them out of trouble and help pass the time. With but one minute to go, there was an offside in the Stirling area, and the bell rang with the visitors leading by one goal.

The gate receipts for the game were in excess of $400, and the management states that last night's crowd was the largest ever to witness a hockey game in Campbellford. The entire seating capacity of the house was sold out, and there was not much standing room available either. When these same two teams met in Stirling, the game went into overtime for twenty minutes. Last night's fixture might easily have been the same. Campbellford is going strong and putting forth every effort to win all the rest of their games so they can still be in the play-off.

GENARO LOOKS FOR WIN ON MONDAY

Challenger Confident That He Will Take Belanger to Camp.

TORONTO, Feb. 4.—Frankie Genaro is on the groud supremely confident that he will reverse the result of his last meeting with Frenchy Belanger and win back for those United States the flyweight championship of the world. He says he will pursue different tactics on Monday night at the Coliseum than he did in the initial tilt with the champion but he refused to give any inkling as to what his new plan of campaign would be. It is Dave Garrity's fervent hope that the New Yorker will do less holding and more fighting on Monday night. He did a lot of grabbing in close a la Graeco-Roman when he engaged Belanger last November and got away with it but if he tries this sort of thing in Monday's ten-rounder, Belanger is likely to get real rough, according to Manager Garrity. This is both a threat and a promise. Both battlers are within a few ounces of the agreed weight—112 pounds — and on that score there is little chance of a hitch.

Genaro worked out immediately on his arrival and showed lots of speed. He is a real past master of the boxing game and lightning fast every way.

Manager Joe Jacobs, who had planned coming along with his protege, could not get away and did not arrive until yesterday. Jack Delaney, Tunney's next opponent, and who is managed by Jacobs, will not be here as was originally intended. He has a bout on Monday night.

The interest in the contest is increasing as the time of battle approaches, and there is every indication that there will be an even larger attendance than at the first clash between the pair. Playfair Brown, matchmaker of the Shamrock club, is optimistic in this regard. He predicts that there will be a twenty-five thousand dollar gate.

SAYS SCOTCH ESCHEW EGGS

That Scotland lags behind, not only as a country of egg producers, but also as egg eaters declared Sir Robert Breig to members of the Scottish National Poultry Council at a recent meeting in Edinburgh. Americans, he said, require five or six more hens per thousand of the population than does Scotland, where one hen is not overworked to produce all the eggs that one individual eats in a year. In Canada, he continued, four hens laying at full pressure are required to supply each egg eater.

JOHNSON WANTS LEAF FLY-CATCHER

Jacobson is Toronto Player Desired By Newark Manager.

TORONTO, Feb. 4. — There is some talk of a triangular trade involving the Toronto, Baltimore and Newark clubs going the rounds, but Manager O'Hara of the Leafs declares that he knows nothing about it. The players concerned are: Jacobson of the Leafs, Carlyle of the Bears and Brower of Baltimore. Newark wants "Jake," Baltimore wants Carlyle, and according to outside advices the Toronto club is willing to take Brower. If the trade works out as planned by Jack Dunn the latter will come here in exchange for Jacobson, and Baltimore will then turn the veteran centrefielder who was secured by Toronto from Brooklyn last summer over to Newark for Carlyle.

Manager O'Hara is prepared to talk business with Newark direct but the athlete that he would like to land is not the brother of Cleo Carlyle, who formerly cavorted in the Toronto outfield. The player he has designs upon is Johnny Conlon and if Walter Johnston will part with that fast hustling performer he will give him Jacobson in a hurry. Brower can hit so can Carlyle but that pretty well lets them out. Conlan would fit in better with O'Hara's scheme of thing than either of the above.

A small army of players will be taken south by the Toronto club next month as follows:

Infielders.

Dale Alexander and Les Burke, last year with Toronto; Fred Hasselman, last year with Wheeling, Middle Atlantic League; William Webb who was last year with Tor-Toronto; Harry Whitehouse, last year with Toronto and Clarksbburg, W. Va.; Fred G. Bedore, last year semi-pro., Chicago; Harold A. Peterson, last year semi-pro, New York and Brooklyn; Warren P. Cote last year with Toledo, American Association.

Outfielders.

Catchers.

Pitchers.

Walter Brown, last year with New York Giants and Toronto; Clarence Fisher, last year with Toronto; C. S. ("Steamer") Lucas, last year with Toronto and Hanover, Pa.; J. Mayo, last year with Augusta, South Atlantic League; J. Prudhomme, last year with Toronto and Rochester; Frank Reil, last year with Wilson, N. C., Virginia League; C. Satterfield, last year with Toronto; Don Songer, last year with Toronto and New York Giants; B. L. Bobo, last year with U. S. Navy; William Martin, last year emi-pro., Pittsburgh; Kemp C. Wicker, last year with the North Carolina State College; A. Fraser last last year with Portland Me.; Don Hankins, and Rip Collins, last year with Detroit.

Russell (Lena) Blackburn once with the Leafs, who held the technical batting leadership of the major leagues in 1927, with one time at bat and one hit on the first pitched ball, has been signed by the Chicago White Sox to coach again this year.

Manager Schalk was banished one day last year, Blackburn succeeding to the authority temporarily. When a pinch hitter was needed Blackburn put himelf into the pinch and delivered a timely single.

Mackenzie-Payson Matched In Finals

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Feb. 4 (Canadian Press). — Miss Ada Mackenzie of Toronto, former amateur champion of the Dominion, will meet Miss Helen Payson of Portland, Me., in the finals of the Women's Bermuda Golf Championship today. Miss Mackenzie advanced through the semi-finals yesterday by beating Aileen Pattison of Bermuda 2 and 1. Miss Payson defeated Maureen Orcutt, Metropolitan champion of New York, 7 and 6. Miss Pattison gave Miss Mackenzie a hard battle from start to finish. Going into the last nine holes two down, the Bermuda entry played the Canadian even all the way home, but could not retrieve the ground she lost on the opening nine.

Hap Day Out of Game For Six Weeks

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 4 (Canadian Press). — Hap. Day, captain and defenceman of the Toronto Maple Leafs, who received a cut tendon in Thursday night's game against Canadiens, had the injured part of his right leg operated upon yesterday by Dr. Fraser Gurd, at the Western Hospital. Early this evening the hockey star was reported as "doing nicely." Day will be out of hockey for some time to come, six week at least, according to medical authorities in attendance.

Brown, Alabama and other of the celebrated "unbeaten" football teams of last year have found the going a bit rocky this season.

THEATRES

AT THE REGENT.

LEATRICE JOY HAS FINE STAR ROLE IN "VANITY"

The story deals with a young society woman who is to wed a rich young man. She accidentally meets a sailor whom she has encountered in France during the war and on the night before the date set for the wedding he contrives to entice her aboard the vessel of which he is the skipper. When it is too late she realizes that she has been trapped and the subsequent scenes are said to be intensely dramatic. The skipper is killed by a vicious ship's cook and he in turn—well it would be unfair to the reader to reveal the climax of this remarkably thrilling photoplay.

Unlike her recent pictures, "Vanity" affords Miss Joy the type of role in which she made her first big success in "Manslaughter," "The Ten Commandments," "Saturday Night" and "Triumph," the Cecil B. De-Mille productions that paved the way for her elevation to stardom.

Miss Joy's remarkable flare for comedy was evident in the humorous scenes of these dramatic roles, and this talent was capitalized in her starring pictures, "Eve's Leaves," "The Clinging Vine," "Nobody's Widow," and "For Alimony Only."

AT THE CAPITOL.

"JOHNNIE, GET YAUR GUN" IS NOW "JANNIE, GET YOUR MAN"

Eve, the lovely little lady who used to live in one of Eden's suburbs "got her man" with a fig leaf. After she got him, she almost lost him with an apple. However, that's another story.

Different girls have had different methods of "getting their men." They say, although you can't prove it by me, that Cleopatra's silken skin made Anthony an easy M-ark. Salome got a-head in the world, if you'll pardon our foolish way of saying it, by doing a Babylonian Black Bottom. There were lots of others—Du Barry, Madame Pompadour, George Sand,—much too many to list here. They all had, well, I guess you'd call it "sex appeal."

When one gazes at modern misses it isn't the hardest thing in the world to realize why their percentage is so high. If a girl with short skirts, bobbed hair, beautiful figure, gorgeous complexion, etc., etc., can't "get her man" no one can! It's hard, very hard ,to understand how the ladies between Eve and Lorelei won mates. With all those pounds of pantaloons, petticoats and mutton sleeves, it's a wonder that any Tom ever turned to look at the weaker sex.

We might even go a step further. Girls don't have to be beautiful these days. Of course it helps, but should they discover that paint, powder and peroxide fail to do the hoped-for, there are other paths yet to be tried. Sister becomes a highbrow, frightening almost everyone way except the certain few who are attracted to tortoise shell specs and Freudian psychology. Or, she studies dancing and insists upon breaking into a hot Charleston at the slightest provocation.

Then, if all fails, Fay develops "It"—and that's deadly They say that the female of the species is more deadly than the male. That's true—if Fanny has "It." She can ask for what she wants and get it. She can take what she wants and keep it. "It's" a terrible thing—for the poor chap Jane has her high powered eyes trained on. He may as well give up the ship if he can't slip away. The only life belt he'll get will be in the shape of a wedding ring!

We next come to that famed exponent of "It"— Clara Bow— than whom there is no whomer. Clara has everything—looks, ability, charm—and in addition, she has "It."

Charles Rogers is doubly lucky. He's the man Clara "gets" once again, this time in Paramount's lively new comedy "Get Your Man," which will be shown at the Capital next Monday. In this story of an American go-getter in France, Clara has the time of her life trying to break up a fifteen year engagement. However, Clara Bow is Clara Bow—and she "gets her man" after all seems lost by methods so ingenious that only Clara could possibly try them!

NERVOUS AND MELANCHOLY

Mrs. Geo. McKenzie, Campbellford, Ont., writes:—"A short time ago I was troubled very bady with my heart and nerves, the cause of it, I think, was my going through the change of life.

"I was very weak and melancholy, and so nervous I could hardly bear to hear a clock ticking, and I did not sleep well.

"I was advised to try MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS so I sent at once for a box; took them and got another, and before they were all gone I felt good, my nerves are fine, I do not mind any noise, and I can sleep well. I cannot recommend them too highly to those suffering as I did."

MUTUAL LIFE'S 1927 REPORT REFLECTS THE PROSPERITY OF DOMINION OF CANADA

YEAR'S RECORD OF MUTUAL LIFE OF CANADA

High Lights From 1927 Report

The satisfaction which President Cronyn and Mr. W. H. Somerville expressed in the result of the year's operations as shown by the report are summed up in brief in the following table of results for 1927:

Surplus Earnings
$4,501,387
Surpassing those of 1926 by $360,000.

New Business Written
$52,295,136
All written in Canada and Newfoundland

Assurance in Force
$386,712,481
A net increase of $32,600,000.

Total Assets
$89,233,343
An increase of $8,600,000.

Policyholders' Dividends
$3,646,105
An increase of $550,000 over 1926.

Surplus Funds and Special Investment Reserves
$11,829,283

Rate of Interest Earned 6.46%
Expense Ratio.........14.44%

Waterloo, Ont., Feb. 2.—The rising tide of prosperity in Canada is reflected in the Annual Report of the Mutual Life of Canada presented at the fifty-eight Annual Meeting of the policyholders of the Company held at the Head Offices here today.

"The general prosperity which prevailed throughout Canada during the past year," said Mr. W. H. Somerville, the General Manager, in his address covering the Annual Report, "the steady improvement in agriculture, and the good tone of business, not only enabled our efficient agency staff to produce a healthy increase in the volume of new business written, but also placed our investments in a highly satisfactory condition."

Mr. Somerville pointed to the new assurances written during 1927, a gross amount of $52,295,136, as compared to $50,039,348 in the year previous. An analysis of these figures showed that the average policy issued in 1927 was for a larger sum than the average of 1926—a desirable feature. In the past three years 25% of the Mutual Life's new policies were written with the Disability Benefit Clause and 22% with the Double Disability Benefit. Death losses for 1927, Mr. Somerville showed, were remarkably low.

"We continue to encourage our policyholders to safeguard their good health by offering, at the Company's expense, periodical health examinations by experienced physicians. Advantage is quite generally taken of this service."

Mr. Somerville analysed the sound investment position of the company in detail, showing 79.1% of its total bond holdings to be invested in Government and Municipal bonds.

"The record of 1927," said Mr. Somerville in conclusion "is evidence that our Company continues to fulfil its misson of safeguardng funds entrusted to its care and using them to the best advantage for the important purposes for which they have been received. The report which has been presented should serve to increase the confidence which the public continues to manifest in life insurance. The outlook for 1928 seems quite as bright as were the prospects a year ago and it is confidently anticipated that the current year will prove an equally successful one with the Company.

President Cronyn's Address.

The General Manager's address was followed by that of the President, Mr. Hume Cronyn, who expressed hearty satisfaction with the Company's progress during 1927.

"As has already been pointed out by the General Manager," said Mr. Cronyn, "the results of the year just closed have surpassed all our previous records. Whether we take new business written, net increase of insurance in force, or additions to our special reserves and surplus funds, we can, (adopting a famous phrase) rest satisfied that co-operative assurance 'of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth'."

Mr. Cronyn then alluded to a gratifying fact which had not been mentioned in the General Manager's remarks.

"Our policyholders," said Mr. Cronyn, "will be gratified to learn that our ratio of expense has dropped to the lowest point in the Company's history."

Mr. Cronyn traced the course of the Company's investments showing that real estate holding had shrunk to a comparatively trifling figure. There was a downward tendency, however, in interest rates, and nearly all classes of securities were affected.

Interest Rate Maintained

"Thanks to the foresight of our Investment Committee," said Mr. Cronyn, "heavy purchases made in past years of long-date bonds yielding a high return have to date helped to counteract the prevailing condition. It seems, however, clear that we are facing an era of lower rates of interest, and, in common with other like investors, that we must perforce be satisfied with diminishing returns.

"Unfortunately for us," Mr. Cronyn continued, "as policyholders the decline in rates of interest over practically the whole continent, is a matter beyond our control. It is but one of the many items which bring home to us the fact that we have emerged from the shadow of the Great War, and that we live alongside a nation teeming with wealth whose unemployed capital, unhampered by tariff or artificial restrictions, of necessity flows into channels commanding the confidence of the investor."

Increased Value of Holdings

To offset lower interest rates, Mr. Cronyn called attention to the sharply-increased values in bonds purchased by the Company when interest rates were high.

"Taken at the values fixed by the Department of Insurance in Ottawa, our holdings are worth three million dollars more than the total shown in the statement before you. In the second place, there is a distinct advantage to Canadian borrowers, whether they be Governments, Municipalities, Corporations or individuals, in being able to secure funds at rates much below those prevalent a few years ago.

"In the meanwhile, there remains the problem of investing your funds so that they may be secure beyond question and yet yield a reasonable return. During the current year we shall have twelve millions of dollars for investment. Government or high-grade municipal bonds, when available, have risen so sharply in price that they yield less than 4½%, while the best type of corporate bond gives a return of 5% or less."

Preferred Corporation Stocks

"Bearing in mind the large sum to be invested, and the facts above noted, your Directors, after careful consideration," said the President, "have decided to invest a modest portion of the Company's funds in preferred stocks of well-established and prosperous corporations. In making this departure from the former investment policy of the Mutual Life, the Board has been guided by the practice governing British Life Offices and by strictly limiting the amount to be invested in any one stock, and by spreading such investments among Corporations of varying types operating in different geographical areas, there will be attained that diversity of risk which in the Old Land has over a lengthy period proven so beneficial. Needless to say, in selecting these—to us—new avenues of investment, our old-time motto of 'Safety First' will prevail; only those Corporations—the record and reputation of which will bear the closest scrutiny—will be approved."

The retiring Directors, Messrs. J. Kerr Fisken, Toronto; L. J. Breithaupt, Kitchener; Major-General Hon. S. C. Mewburn, K.C., Hamilton; Mr. T. A. Russell, Toronto, and Isaac Pitbaldo, K.C., Winnipeg, were re-elected.

At a meeting of the board, held subsequent to the Annual Meeting, Mr. Hume Cronyn, London, Ontario, was re-elected President; Mr. R. O. McCulloch, Galt, 1st Vice-President; Mr. J. Kerr Fisken, Toronto, 2nd Vice-President, and Mr. C. M. Bowman, Chairman of the Board.

In addition to these, and the Directors re-elected, the following are also members of the Board: Mr. W. G. Watson, Toronto; Sir Lomer Gouin, Montreal; Mr. Louis La Course Lang, Kitchener; Mr. Glyn Osler, K.C., Toronto; Hon. J. Fred Fraser, Halifax; Mr. W. J. Blake Wilson, Vancouver, and Mr. E. J. Long, K.C., Toronto.

THE "CANARY" MURDER CASE

by S. S. VAN DINE AUTHOR of THE BENSON MURDER CASE

© Charles Scribner's Sons

THE STORY THUS FAR

Spotswoode had gone out with the "Canary" the evening of the murder. When he left, he asked Jessup, on the switchboard, to call him a cab. "Then," said Jessup, "we heard Miss Odell scream. We ran back to her door and she called to us that everything was all right." But the next morning she was found strangled. Vance thinks two men were in the room when she was murdered, one of them hiding in a clothes closet. Cleaver is questioned and gives an alibi. But he mentions Dr. Lindquist as a possible source of information.

CHAPTER XVIII.

(Tuesday, September 11; 9 p.m.)

Ten minutes later we were ringing the bell of a stately old brownstone house in East 44th Street.

"Take this to the doctor at once, and say that it's urgent."

"The doctor is just finishing dinner," the stately seneschal informed him; and conducted us into a richly furnished reception-room, with deep comfortable chairs, silken draperies, and subdued lights.

The prediction proved true. Doctor Lindquist entered the room a moment later inspecting the district attorney's card as if it had been a cuneiform inscription whose import he could not quite decipher.

He was a tall man in his late forties, with bushy hair and eyebrows, and a complexion abnormally pale. His face was long, and, despite the asymmetry of his features, he might easily have been called handsome. He was in dinner clothes and he carried himself with the self-conscious precision of a man unduly impressed with his own importance. He seated himself at a kidney-shaped desk of carved mahogany, and lifted his eyes with polite inquiry to Markham.

"To what am I indebted for the honor of this call?" he asked in a studiously melodious voice, lingering over each word caressingly. "You are most fortunate to have found me in," he added, before Markham could speak. "I confer with patients only by appointment." One felt that he experienced a certain humiliation at having received us without elaborate ceremonial preliminaries.

Markham, whose nature was opposed to all circumlocution and pretense, came direct to the point.

"This isn't a professional consultation, doctor; but it happens that I want to speak to you about one of your former patients—a Miss Margaret Odell."

"Ah, yes. Miss Odell. I was just reading of her violent end. A most unfortunate and tragic affair . . . In just what way can I be of service to you?—You understand, of course, that the relationship between a physician and his patient is one of sacred confidence——"

"I understand that thoroughly," Markham assured him abruptly. "On the other hand, it is the sacred duty of every citizen to assist the authorities in bringing a murderer to justice. And if there is anything you can tell me which will help toward that end, I shall certainly expect you to tell me."

The doctor raised his hand slightly in polite protestation.

"I shall, of course, do all I can to assist you, if you will but indicate your desires."

"There's no need to beat about the bush," doctor," said Markham. "I know that Miss Odell was a patient of yours for a long time; and I realize that it is highly possible, not to say probable, that she told you certain personal things which may have direct bearing on her death."

"But, my dear Mr. —"—Doctor Lindquist glanced ostentatiously at the card—"ah—Markham, my relations with Miss Odell were of a purely professional character."

"I had understood, however," ventured Markham, "that, while what you say may be technically true, nevertheless there was an informality, let me say in that relationship. Perhaps I may state it better by saying that your professional attitude transcended a merely scientific interest in her case."

I heard Vance chuckle softly; and I myself could hardly suppress a smile at Markham's verbose and orbicular accusation. But Doctor Lindquist, it seemed, was in no wise disconcerted. Assuming an air of beguiling pensiveness, he said

"I will confess, in the interests of strict accuracy, that during my somewhat protracted treatment of her case, I came to regard the young woman with a certain—shall I say, fatherly liking? But I doubt if she was even aware of this mild sentiment on my part."

The corners of Vance's mouth twitched slightly. He was sitting with drowsy eyes, watching the doctor with a look of studious amusement.

"And she never at any time told you of any private or personal affairs that were causing her anxiety?" persisted Markham.

"No, I can't recall a single statement of that nature." His words were measured and urbane. "I know, naturally, in a general way, her manner of living; but the details, you will readily perceive, were wholly outside my province as a medical consultant. The disorganization of her nerves was due—so my diagnosis led me to conclude—to late hours, excitement, irregular and rich eating—what, I believe, is referred to vulgarly as going the pace. The modern woman, in this febrile age, sir——"

"When did you see her last, may I ask?" Markham interrupted impatiently.

"When did I see her last? . . . . Let me see." He could, apparently, recall the occasion only with considerable difficulty. "A fortnight ago, perhaps—though it may have been longer. I really can't recall. . . . Shall I refer to my files?"

"That won't be necessary," said Markham. He paused, and regarded the doctor with a look of disarming affability. "And was this last visit a paternal or merely a professional one?"

"Professional, of course." Doctor Lindquist's eyes were impassive and only mildly interested; but his face, I felt, was by no means the unedited reflection of his thoughts.

"Did the meeting take place here or at her apartment?"

"I believe I called on her at her home."

"You called on her a great deal, doctor—so I am informed—and at rather unconventional hours. . . . Is this entirely in accord with your practice of seeing patients only by appointment?"

Markham's tone was pleasant, but from the nature of his question I knew that he was decidedly irritated by the man's bland hypocrisy, and felt that he was deliberately withholding relevant information.

Before Doctor Lindquist could reply, however, the butler appeared at the door and silently indicated an extension telephone on a taboret beside the desk. With an unctuously murmured apology, the doctor turned and lifted the receiver.

Vance took advantage of this opportunity to scribble something on a piece of paper and pass it surreptitiously to Markham.

"Is it the function of the district attorney," he asked distantly, "to harass respectable physicians with insulting questions? I did not know that it was illegal—or even original, for that matter—for a doctor to visit his patients."

"I am not discussing now"—Markham emphasized the adverb—"your infractions of the law; but since you suggest a possibility which, I assure you, was not in my mind, would you be good enough to tell me—merely as a matter of form—where you were last night between eleven and twelve?"

The question produced a startling effect. Doctor Lindquist became suddenly like a tautly drawn rope, and, rising slowly and stiffly, he glared, with cold intense venom, at the district attorney. His velvety mask had fallen off; and I detected another emotion beneath his repressed anger; his expression cloaked a fear, and his wrath but partly veiled a passionate uncertainty.

"My whereabouts last night is of no concern of yours." He spoke with great effort, his breath coming and going noisily.

Markham waited, apparently unmoved, his eyes riveted on the trembling man before him. This calm scrutiny completely broke down the other's self-control.

"What do you mean by forcing yourself in here with your contemptible insinuations?" he shouted. His face, now livid and mottled, was hideously contorted; his hands made spasmodic movements; and his whole body shook as with a tremor. "Get out of here—you and your two myrmidons! Get out, before I have you thrown out!"

Markham, himself enraged now, was about to reply, when Vance took him by the arm.

"The doctor is gently hinting that we go," he said. And with amazing swiftness he spun Markham round, and led him firmly out of the room.

When we were again in the taxi-cab on our way back to the club, Vance sniggered gaily.

"A sweet specimen, that! Paranoia. Or, more likely, manic-depressive insanity—the folie circulaire type: recurring periods of maniacal excitement alternating with periods of the clearest sanity, don't y' know. Anyway, the doctor's disorder belongs in the category of psychoses—associated with the maturation or waning of the sexual instinct. He's just the right age, too. Neurotic degenerate—that's what this oily Hippocrates is. In another minute he would have attacked you. . . . My word! It's a good thing I came to the rescue. Such chaps are about as safe as rattlesnakes."

PHONE OFFICERS ARE RE-ELECTED

Annual Meeting Held by Belmont System—Trent River News.

TRENT RIVER, Feb. 4.—The annual meeting of the Belmont Municipal Telephone System was held in the Council Chamber, Town Hall, Havelock on Saturday, January 28th. There was a good attendance from the township. Reports showed a balance on hand of $515.

The same officers were appointed—three commissioners, Messrs. W. J. Peoples (chairman), Isaac Lawson (Trent River) and J. W. Russell, sec.-treas.

The result of the progressive euchre held under the auspices of the L.O.L. at "Cedar Isle" Thursday night of last week, at which nine tables were played, aws as follows:

Ladies 1st—Mrs. McKee, 82.
Ladies' 2nd—Mrs. S. Carnrite, 74.
Consolation—Mrs. Armstrong, 45.
Gents' 1st—Mr. Revelr, 80.
Gents' 2nd—Earl Dunham, 75.
Consolation—Raymond Thompson, 39.

Stover's bread truck made its return trip to Campbellford Sunday after being laid up at Havelock since the recent big storm.

The mercury was 28 below the zero mark at seven a.m. Monday. Fortunately there was no wind, but a heavy white frost formed the night previous and continued till some time after sunrise. Some residents near the wharf found the mercury 30 below.

Mr. Harry Carr, of Cutknife, Sask., was a recent visitor with his sister, Mrs. John Armstrong and family, "Hillview Farm."

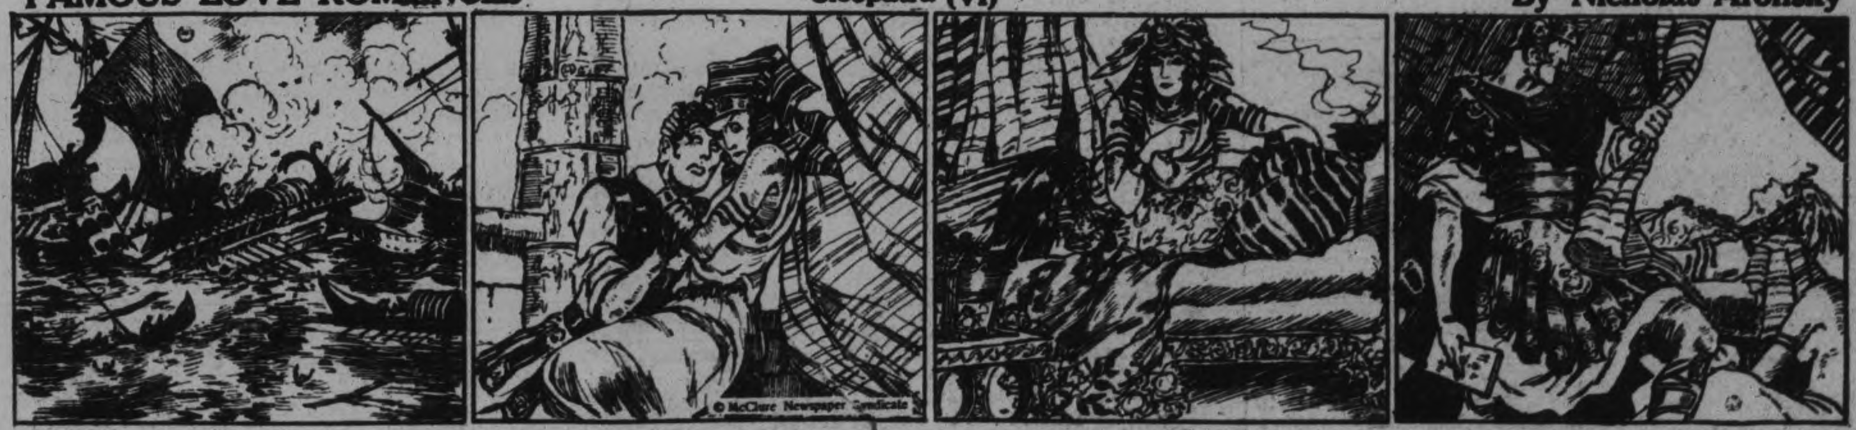
FAMOUS LOVE ROMANCES Cleopatra (VI) By Nicholas Afonsky



© McClure Newspaper Syndicate

In the year 32 B. C., Octavian, the brother of Antony's Roman wife, declared war on Cleopatra, and Antony, in revenge, divorced his Roman wife. He and Cleopatra both took part in the ensuing campaign. But when, at the battle of Actium, Cleopatra started back to Egypt, Antony followed her, forsaking all his men.

He boarded her ship, but at first she would not see him. Finally, forgiving him for a defeat which she considered his fault, she took him back to Alexandria. Octavian pursued them, and overwhelmingly defeated Antony. Hearing that Cleopatra had killed herself, Antony stabbed himself, and then died in her arms, begging forgiveness.

A little later Cleopatra, having failed to make peace with Octavian, and hearing that he intended to take her to Rome as an exhibit in his triumph, retired with two attendants to a mausoleum where she had been living. She took a basket of figs, lifted them, drew out an asp, allowed it to bite her, and fell back dead.

A little later Octavian, having received a letter in which Cleopatra asked him to bury her by the side of Antony, rushed to the mausoleum. There lay the queen, in her robes of state and all her jewels, on her royal couch. Beside her lay her two attendants, dead from poison. So ended the passionate life of the great queen of Egypt.

CARD OF THANKS.

The family of the late Mrs. William Stanley wish to express their sincere thanks for all kindnesses received during their recent bereavement, particularly to those who supplied cars, to the doctors, sisters and nurses of St. Joseph's Hospital, and to the officers and members of the Canadian Legion and Ladies' Auxiliary.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. T. Lang and family of 544 Elm Street wish to thank the doctors and nurses of Nicholls Hospital, also Commandant and Mrs. Ham, Bandmaster F. Robinson and fellow bandsmen of the Salvation Army Band for their kindness and sympathy, also for floral tributes received during their sad bereavement.

Obituary

MRS. WILLIAM STANLEY.

The funeral of the late Mrs. William Stanley took place yesterday afternoon under Canadan Legion auspices. The Rev. David Wren officiated and spoke fittingly of the deceased. There was a large attendance of friends while numerous floral offerings bespoke the esteem of many others.

The pallbearers were Messrs. J. Abraham, S. Whatley, C. Wiggins, F. Ebdon, A. Parberry and E. G. Johnson.

Mrs. Stanley was vice-president and an active worker in the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion, and a staunch member of Trinity church. Members of the Auxiliary attended in a body and Mrs. J. Mills read the ritual at the cemetery. The coffin was draped with a Union Jack, and a poppy wreath of the Legion was placed thereon.

HAROLD A. THORNDYKE.

The death occurred at the home of his parents, on Friday, February 3, of Harold A. Thorndyke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Thorndyke, 337 London Street. Deceased was in his twenty-third year. Left to mourn are his sorrowing parents and wife and two brothers, A. Gerald Thorndyke and J. Stewart Thorndyke, both of the United States.

The funeral will take place on Monday, February 6, from the above address, at 2.00 p.m., the Rev. William Allan officiating.

MRS. W. H. MEREDITH.

The death took place quite suddenly this morning, February 4, of a well-known resident of Peterborough in the person of Mrs. W. H. Meredith, who passed away at her late residence, 576 Water Street. News of her passing came as a distinct shock to a large circle of friends.

Left to mourn are her sorrowing husband, one daughter, Miss Meta, of the local Collegiate Institute staff, and one son Elton, attending Osgoode Hall, Toronto.

The funeral will take place from the family residence, 576 Water Street, at 3 p.m., on Monday, February 6, 1928, Rev. J. E. Todd officiating. Interment will take place in Little Lake Cemetery.

The Examiner regrets a reporter's error in yesterday's report of the Kiwanis Club luncheon, giving credit for a very splendid vote of thanks to the wrong member. J. Ernest Smith expressed the thanks of the Club to the speaker and musicians.

In the account given of the banquet of Eastern Start Lodge No. 121, L.O.B.A., omission was made of a vocal solo by Miss Maybee, with accompaniment by Miss E. Webber, and of a reading by Mrs. G. H. Rowe. The presentation of roses to Mrs. Sexsmith was made by Miss F. Brown and the response to the toast to "Our Visitors" was made by Miss F. Millard of Vimy Ridge Lodge and Mrs. E. Tate, of Star of Bethlehem Lodge.

city and county at the rate of 75c a day. City children were in the Shelter 2016 and county children some 303 days. Overhead expenses were $3,360. Totals would be $3726 for the city and $2500 for the county. The actual amount spent was $5153 or $3109 to the city and $2044 to the county. He asked for a grant of at least $2000. Last year's grant was $1200. The matter will be left over until the grants are struck.

The Public Library Board estimates totalling $10,600, were presented, with a request that the council pay the grant monthly, as the board had to pay interest on the overdraft.

Ald. Greene: "They might as well pay as we."

No action taken.

"It's a real book," said Ald. Stocker, and Ald. Greene moved that the city take a half page ad. in the Ontario Motor League road book at $40. The motion carried unanimously.

A letter was read from City Solicitor Wearing stating that the examination of insane persons is not part of the Medical Officer's duties and that if he is chosen to do so by the magistrate he is entitled to the statutory fee. Information on this matter had been asked by an alderman at a meeting several weeks ago.

Ald. Greene presented the report of the conference of Ontario municipalities held last month in London. He read only the resolutions contained in the 27 page document. He suggested that each alderman should read the report. The resolution covered changes in the Highways' Act, and the Gasoline Tax Act, asking help for the urban municipalities, which build all their own roads and pay a proportion of the costs of roads outside. The bringing in of immigrants of high class was advocated, with the matter entirely taken out of politics. Assistance in providing work for the unemployed is sought and the provincial government urged to put into operation the old age pension act. The municipalities pointed out that the people of Ontario are paying $52,000,000 annually for American coal and urged that the use of Alberta and Nova Scotia coal be encouraged. Homes for senile mental patients are suggested.

That gross negligence in the matter of snow and ice on the sidewalk be defined as leaving the sidewalk in a dangerous condition for a period, in a county or township, of seven days, and in a city or town of three days, is proposed.

Mayor Denne and Ald. Greene are going to Toronto on Monday to represent the city on a deputation to present these matters to the Ontario Government.

A long memorandum about government suggestions regarding the operations of the sewage disposal plant was considered by the Board of of Works and instructions given to comply with it.

Engineer Engaged.

Four engineering firms, Gore, Nasmith & Storrie, James, Proctor & Redfern, Wayne Roberts, Son & McLean, and F. Dallin, quoted terms for their services as consulting engineers on the addition to the sewage disposal plant, and City Engineer R. H. Parsons was authorized to engage Gore, Nasmith & Storrie at $75.00 a day. The time was estimated at one week.

"Why can't Mr. Parsons design our plant? Why can't the department tell us what to do? Why do we have to get a consulting engineer?" was the barrage of questions fired at the chairman by Ald. McIntyre, when the letters had been read.

"We have to have a specialist in this work," answered Ald. Stocker, while the Mayor added that the consulting engineer would lay out the general scheme and Mr. Parsons would then make the actual plans.

Mr. Parsons spoke in favor of the first two firms, and Ald. Greene proposed taking the second, as the price for consultation was only $50.00 a day. Ald. Hamilton remarked that Gore, Nasmith & Storrie had more experience, while Ald. Ackerman pointed out that Col. Nasmith had had charge of the sanitation for the Canadian Army during the war, and gained a world-wide reputation.

"Get the best; a week's salary is only $150 more," was Mayor Denne's advice.

"I thought it was only some drying beds," Ald. McIntyre countered, and the chairman pointed out that there is also the digestive system.

"We've had trouble enough," said Ald. Macdonald, proceeding to move that Gore, Nasmith & Storrie be engaged, as they were well known and highly experienced. Ald. Ackerman seconded the motion, which carried.

F. Dallin was the engineer who was in charge of this division of the Department of Health when the plans were made, and who, Ald. Phelan recolled, had been insistent on the installation of the activated sludge type of plant.

Ald. Macdonald asked when Mr. Mitchell, of the Bus Company, is to come. The Mayor proposed that Mr. Armstrong write that the city wants action at once.

W. H. Lytle presented an account for $228 for use of a concrete mixer which the Council later bought. The matter had been laid over and Mr. Lytle felt that the aldermen had not been acquainted with all the facts.

Mr. Lytle said he had granted the city the use of the mixer and later the Council decided to buy it. There was a lien note against the machine and when the city took it over the people holding the lien, Gould, Shapley & Muir, had signed papers stating that the machine had been repossessed and they were to get the cheque. The company had then billed Mr. Lytle for the work done on the mixer. Mr. Lytle said he felt that he was entitled to rental for the time the machine was used by the city.

Street Commissioner Harry Evans stated that he had, on authority from Mr. Parsons, rented Mr. Lytle's machine. It had been used off and on for about 13 days, and it was found that the jacket had been cracked. Both Lytle and the company had appeared to be anxious to sell the machine. The machine had been put in the shed and the agent took the engine off and had a new one put on. He had understood that the agreement had been made between Lytle and the company.

City Engineer R. H. Parsons said that ex-Alderman J. O. Fife had signed a paper purchasing a machine, said to have been re-possessed from Mr. Lytle. Ald. McIntyre confirmed this, and said he had heard nothing further. He had understood that the machine had been left by Mr. Lytle and not rented.

Mr. Lytle pointed out that when he rented a piece of apparatus he had to pay for it, wether he used it or not, unless he took it home. He had seen this machine working, and thought it had been used longer than thirteen days.

Mayor Denne: "Mr. Lytle has taken the matter up with a solicitor, and should go through with it"

Ald. Hamilton: "Mr. Lytle knew that the machine was wrong."

Ald. Greene: "It should have been sent back.""

Mr Lytle: "I can prove the machine was ruined on the job. I can bring the man who put water into it when it was running."

Ald. Stocker: "What is your best figure?"

Mr. Lytle: "Without prejudice. I will split it in two."

Ald. Greene: "The factory supplied a new engine."

Mr. Lytle: "I paid for that engine."

Ald. Cotton: "I move that the Council accept the offer. I think that the city is responsible."

Ald. Hamilton: "If we used it only 13 days we owe him $52."

Mr. Lytle said that Mr. Evans had ordered him to take the machine away, but that he had refused, as it had been broken. This Mr. Evans denied, saying that Mr. Lytle had asked permission to store the machine.

Ald. McIntyre: "We bought it from Lytle. Why did the other people step in?"

Ald. Phelan: "Ald Fife signed a paper."

Ald. McIntyre: "What right had Fife?"

Mayor Denne: "The Council gave him authority."

Mr. Lytle: "The motion mentioned Lytle."

Mr. Lytle, questioned by Mayor Denne, admitted that Gould, Shapley, and Muir had a lien on the machine, but denied knowing that they were going to repossess it. He then retired.

"Possession passed to Gould, Shapley, and Muir when he defaulted a payment on the lien note," declared Ald. Ackerman. "His trouble is with Gould, Shapley, and Muir," added Ald. Huffman.

"We owe him for thirteen days. Let's pay it," suggested Ald. Macdonald.

"We're willing to pay it," replied the Mayor.

Ald. Green calculated that the machine had been in the city's possession, available for use, for 71 days. Mr. Lytle had made allowance of fourteen days for the time it was out of repair. It had been Mr. Lytle's machine until repossessed and the city should pay for it.

Mr. Parsons pointed out that Mr. Lytle didn't own it as title remained with the holders of the lien. To this, Ald. Greene replied that it was in his possession to work with or rent to make money with. Ald. Ackerman compared it to a taxi, bought on time and taken out by the buyer to earn money with.

Ald. Macdonald proposed that if the city owed money it should pay it all, and that Mr. Lytle shouldn't be willing to take half. A motion by Alderman Cotton and Greene to accept his offer to take $114 was passed.

Fire, Water, and Light

The Fire, Water, and Light Committee's session lasted over an hour but was entirely occupied with the reading of the revised by-law governing the fire department, a document of more than one hundred clauses covering the duties of the officers and men, the duties of citizens, rules for inspection of property, and many other items concerned. Among points of interest to citizens were clauses forbidding the parking of cars within fifteen feet of a hydrant, and requiring all vehicles to pull in to the curb when the apparatus is approaching.

Another point of interest is that any citizen present at a fire may be required by the chief or other officer in charge to give any assistance needed, and is subject to a fine for refusal to comply.

Some discussion rose regarding the chief's hours. It was agreed that he, being subject to call at all hours, cannot be held to any regular hours. His right to a driver was also cancelled, the clause calling for this being deleted, while his vacation was cut to two weeks to conform with those of other city officials.

Kellogg Proposes Abolition of Undersea Craft

ROTARY SHOWS ATTENDANCE OF 100 PER CENT.

Every Member of Organization Secured His Attendance Last Week.

TO-DAY'S LUNCHEON.

Eloquent Address is Given By Rotarian Rogers, of Toronto.

It was announced at today's luncheon of the Peterborough Rotary Club that, owing to the loyalty of a number of members in getting their attendance in by going to Port Hope for the luncheon there, an attendance of 100 per cent had been registered last week. Furthermore, it is expected that to-day's meeting will also show a 100 per cent attendance.

The principal speaker at the luncheon today was Rotarian T. G. Rogers of Toronto, head of the Lake Simcoe Ice Company and secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Ice Association; the president of which organization, Arthur Hilmer of Oakville, was also in attendance. Other guests included Reg. H. Turner and John Allin, local ice dealers.

Rotarian Rogers delighted the members with an eloquent and witty address on the subject, "Working to a standard," in which he pleaded for the incorporation of the Rotary code of ethics into the business and professional life of the members. Pointing out however in ancient times standards of measure and weight had been religiously guarded and how a multitude of laws regulating the conduct of individuals and of business had sprung into being, the speaker remarked that something more had been found necessary and thus had come about the adoption of many codes of ethics by which various business and industrial concerns laid down a standard and by which business would be guided.

Rotarian Rogers drew attention to the great changes that had taken place in the world of business through the development of competition from chain store enterprises and similar organizations. This new development was felt in every business all professions, even among the doctors. Years ago, the speaker said, a doctor hung out his shingle and announced himself ready to cure all diseases of the skin and its contents, but today there were specialists, each of which reserved some particular part of the human anatomy as his own.

"Even in the ice business," said Mr. Rogers, "we have competition to contend with, but then our product is nearly always in a liquid state, even if our assets are frozen."

Rotarian Rogers pointed out that the Rotary code of ethics which was foundational, should be incorporated into the business life of the community. There was no transaction so small that these principles could not be successfully applied and he declared many of the practices that had been tolerated in business life years ago had gone and the speaker recalled for a general incorporation of the Rotary code.

The thanks of the club were extended to Rotarian Rogers by Rotarian W. R. Morris, who declared that the address had been both instructive and timely.

Howard Macdonald, Peterborough member of the Ontario Boys' Parliament, addressed the club briefly, to call attention to the bond selling campaign. He explained that the work of the boy's organization was aimed at the four-fold development of Ontario boys and in regard to the bond campaign remarked that while no dividends were guaranteed they would promise interest in the form of Christian citizenship.

Alexander Karr of the American City Bureau, who is here to take part in the Chamber of Commerce campaign, was introduced and made a short speech full of wit and eloquence. Its keynote was the necessity of getting together in the interest of Peterborough.

Before the meeting adjourned, Rotarian Fred L. Roy reminded Rotarians of the visit to Peterborough on Friday of Jack Miner.

FISH AND GAME MEN MEET TO-MORROW

Annual Meeting of Association To Be Held in the Empress.

All the sportsmen of the city are reminded of the meeting of the Peterborough Fish and Game Association which is to be held in the Empress Hotel on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. Fishing through the ice and its resultant disastrous effect upon the supply of game fish is a real live problem, officials state, and suggestions for its solution will be welcomed at the meeting to-morrow evening.

477 Peterborough Men Now On Memorial List

There have been 73 additions made to the city list of Peterborough's war Dead and 25 additions to the county list, bringing the total number of city men who gave their lives in the Great War to 315, and those from the county to 162—a total of 477.

There have been 69 corrections made in the city list and 23 in the county list.

NEW PLANES ARE RECEIVED

Royal Canadian Air Force Has Machines of Latest Type.

IMPROVEMENTS SECRET.

OTTAWA, Feb. 6 (Canadian Press)—Canada is now equipped with the latest and best type fighting airplanes with the arrival at Camp Borden of four "Sisken" planes for the Royal Canadian Air Force. "Type Four A," as they are officially described, are the most up-to-date of air fighters and embodied in them are improvements over which the Camp Borden authorities are maintaining the veil of secrecy.

The new machines can attain a height of 28,000 feet, although their best performance is at ten thousand feet when they can reach 153 miles an hour with a service load of 500 pounds. Three machine guns can be fitted to each plane.

LEVINE FLIGHT STILL MYSTERY

Time and Place Puzzle Aviators at Roosevelt Field.

SUSPECT "FAST ONE."

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (Canadian Press).—The mystery of Charles Levine's proposed airplane flight increased today with the addition of the query "when" to that of "where." Delayed on Saturday by the late arrival at Roosevelt Field of Levine and Miss Mabel Boll, "Queen of Diamonds," who is a passenger, and on Sunday by rain and adverse winds, the Columbia's owner announced last night that the prediction of unfavorable winds for today would prevent the flight. He also said that since he had already announced that Havana was to be the destination, no other announcement was necessary. However, the plane has enough gasoline aboard to take it four thousand miles, while Havana is only 1,400 miles away, and airmen think Levine is trying to slip a "fast one" across.

Prof. Condit Expects To Take Off For Other Planet in Few Weeks.

RETURN QUESTIONED.

Scientist Will Cross That Bridge When He Comes To It, He Declares.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 6 (Canadian Press).—Jules Verne, wherever he may be writing, is invited to sit up and take a lot of notice of Professor Robert Condit, of Miami, scientist and chemist, who has conceived a scheme so fantastic that the leagues under the sea business becomes as commonplace as two cups of coffee.

Since nobody has ever succeeded in divorcing himself completely from Mother Earth, Prof. Condit is anxious to be the first to do so. He has a machine which resembles in some respects a rocket, and on its completion within the next few weeks the professor will see out or up for Venus, which he plans to make in approximately one jump.

Miami has watched the progress of the machine building with mingled doubt and admiration. The local attitude is that if Professor Condit makes the grade he will be a true favorite son, and if he fails, Miami can take a joke as well as any one.

The question arises on how will the professor return if he succeeds in conquering the millions of miles which separate Venus and the earth? This obviously is worrying everybody but the professor.

"Why cross bridges?" he asks. "I'm not there yet, and I may not want to return if I do make it."

There are a good many persons in Miami who believe Professor Cond't may return rather suddenly.

BUS SERVICE IS EXTENDED

Five Trips Daily Being Made To Crawford's Grove District.

STARTING TO-DAY.

The Border Transit Company, in a further effort to serve the transportation need of the citizens of Peterborough, this morning inaugurated a new bus service which appeared to fill a long-felt want.

Starting from Crawford's Grove post office at 6.30 a.m., a regular 22 passenger bus proceeded east on Cameron Street to Park Street; north on Park to Charlotte Street and east to George Street. This served well the factory workers who were charged the regular city rate, five cents, and who made transfers to city busses at George Street. Following this stop, the new line bus traveled over the Jackson Park route to the Bonnerworth mills.

At 1.30 p.m. people living along the new line came to the business section over the same route—Cameron, Park and Charlotte streets—for the ten-cent far; returning, it left George Street at 4.30 p.m.

At 5.00 p.m., the bus left the C.G.E. plant and for the city fare, employees of all factories en route reached their homes.

The next trip starts from the Crawford's Grove Post office at 7.30 p.m. and returning, leaves Charlotte and George Street carner at 10.30 p.m. It will be noted that the two trips, 6.30 a.m. and 5.00 p.m. required the passenger to pay the city fare, while the others were ten cents a passenger.

This will be a regular daily service which is certain to be appreciated by those who will benefit by it.

KELLOGG VISITS OTTAWA TO-DAY

United States Secretary of State Greeted By Cabinet and Others.

OTTAWA, Feb. 6. — (Canadian Press.)—Frank B. Kellogg, Secretary of State for the United States, accompanied by Mrs. Kellogg, arrived here to-day. They were met at the station by Eric Mieville, secretary to the Governor-General, Premier King, the Hon. J. A. Robb, the Hon. Dr. J. W. King ,the Hon. William Phillips, United States' Minister, the Rt. Hon. F. A. Anglin, Chief Justice, the Hon. J. L. Ralston, Dr. Z. Additions to County List.

Pte. Wagstaff.

Someone wrote a few days ago correcting "Pte. W. Wagstaff" to "Pte. Walter Wagstaffe." and a correction received on Saturday changes it back to "Pte. Walter Wagstaff."

The large number of additions and corrections shows that the list on hand is very incomplete indeed, and citizens who desire to see that the Peterborough City and County War Memorial is complete, are requested to give this important matter their attention within the next few days. Please don't put off making corrections and additions.

Canadian Farmers Return To London

LONDON, Feb. 6 (Canadian Press Cable)—The party of touring Canadian farmers, full of pleasant memories even if a little tired, returned to London Saturday following a week in Denmark. Yesterday afternoon they were received by their Majesties King George and Queen Mary at Buckingham Palace.

Queen Mary, who was present despite a bad cold, wore in her dress a maple leaf presented to her in Canada when she visited there in 1901 as the Duchess of York. Their Majesties chatted vivaciously with all members of the party who remained at the Palace an hour, being entertained at tea. The visitors were delighted by the unaffected graciousness of the reception.

Their Majesties simultaneously received the members of the Canadian Navy League, who are here enquiring into the possibilities of emigrating naval men to Canada.

THREE KILLED IN ACCIDENTS ON WELLAND CANAL

Two Lose Lives in Premature Explosion of 3,000 Lbs. of Dynamite.

OTHERS INJURED.

Second Fatality Occurs When Workman Falls From Ladder.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Feb. 6.—(Canadian Press).—Three men were killed and three others injured in two accidents on the Welland Ship Canal on Saturday, the more serious of which, a premature explosion of 3,000 pounds of dynamite, caused two of the deaths and three injuries and violently shook the vicinity of Allanburgh.

Lorne Whitewell, of Allanburgh, and Carl White, of Thorold, both instantly killed in the explosion, were operating a well drill while nearby other men were engaged loading other wells with dynamite for rock blasting in the widening of the present channel to ship canal width when quite unexpectedly one of the charged wells exploded, the concussion setting off several others of the thirty-six charged wells.

Injured About Head.

The rapid explosions sent great quantities of flying rock in all directions. The two dead men were badly smashed about the head and the shanty which they were using as a shelter was demolished. Ed. Griffin, who was operating another drill 20 feet away was thrown about thirty feet. Patsey Benifaro, his helper, was also thrown a considerable distance, alighting on his head. Joe Altobello required medical attention but was sent to his home in Thorold, as also was Bonifaro. Griffin, who was the most seriously injured of the three, was taken to St. Catharines General Hospital. He will recover.

The explosion occurred on Section 4 of the Canal, the contractors being Porter Bros. Officers of the company are unable to determine just how many of the charged wells were exploded, but it is estimated that 3,000 pounds out of 5,600 that had been laid was discharged. Great danger lies in the way of future work on this section because of the uncertainty as to which of the wells may not have discharged.

Cause Unknown.

Considerable doubt exists as to the cause of the premature explosion. One theory, however, which seems plausible to men familiar with such work is that the insulation of the electric wires which supplies power to the well drills had become rubbed and came in contact with the fuse wires that had been inserted in one of the charged wells, causing the first explosion, the resultant concussion of which set off the other wells.

Coroner Herod of Thorold will hold an inquest at Allanburg. Lorne Whitewall, one of the victims, is a native of Allanburg. He leaves a widow and one child. Carl White is an Italian workman residing in Thorold.

Falls From Ladder.

The first fatality of the day occurred on Lock 4 at Thorold on Saturday morning, when James McCoy of Beamsville fell 60 feet from a ladder in a valve shaft of the big concrete structure to the concrete floor of the artificial cavern. He landed on his head and died shortly after being picked up, without having regained consciousness. McCoy was foreman of a staff of men engaged in installing the huge steel gates in the lock. He leaves a widow and six children.

An engine frequently will start with the hand crank when the battery is too low to operate the starter, because then all the energy of the battery is available of ignition.

Earl of Stradbrok Succeeds Bledisloe

LONDON, February 6 (Canadian Press). — The Earl of Stradbroke on Saturday was appointed Secretary of the Minister of Agriculture succeeding Lord Bledisloe, who has resigned.

The Earl of Stradbroke, Governor of Victoria, Australia, has long been interested not only in agriculture, but fisheries, has been connected with a number of agricultural associations. He was Colonel of field artillery in the war. He owned estates amounting to 10,000 acres in Suffolk.

The Earl's daughter, the former Lady Pleasance Elizabeth Rous, married a steamship radio operator in 1923, and later besought her friends for new work to eke out expenses and provide funds to start business as a dressmaker. Her husband, Owen McKenna, left his maritime job for work in London.

Lord Bedisloe, who was a Captain of Engineers in war time, has been connected with and held office in British agricultural and cattle associations.

KEATING GHOST STILL AT LARGE

Bad Roads Prevent Prof. P. C. McKenna From Investigating Spook.

WILL GO LATER.

The ghost of the Keating household at Campbellford still exercises a weird spell. Its drawing power was sufficient to take six people in two motor cars over thirty miles of snow and ice swept roads yesterday in an effort to reach the mysterious house but its magic spell failed just about seven miles short of a finish, and the party was forced to abandon the attempt and return to town without discovering the mysterious source of the knockings and odors, and strange sights, that have kept the Trentside town agog for several weeks past.

Last week, the Keatings appealed to Professor P. C. McKenna, the palmist and phrenologist, who is at present staying at the Grand Hotel here. They wrote asking him to give them some information relative to the disturbances in their home and to settle the question as to whether natural gas and oil or an unearthly guest, was the cause of the visitations.

Professor McKenna firmly believing that he can give a correct answer once on the premises, set out yesterday morning about ten o'clock to make the journey to Campbellford. He was accompanied by his secretary, T. Fenwick Mr. and Mrs. Earl Foster, Mr. Poucher, and an Examiner representative.

The day was delightful and the roads not too bad—for a short distance. After that things began to happen. The glare ice and the deep ruts made travelling very difficult.

About seven miles from the destination the leading car was ditched in the heavy snow and an hour was spent in getting it out. After firm assurances from district residents that it would be absolutely impossible to proceed farther by motor on account of the increasingly difficult condition of the roads, the party returned to town, arriving five hours after the start had been made.

However another attempt to reach the house, this time by train, will be made by Professor McKenna, later in the week.

UNITED STATES WILLING TO SIGN PACT WITH ALL WORLD POWERS PROHIBITING USE OF SUBMARINE

Secretary Kellogg Makes Proposal to House Foreign Affairs Committee.

EUROPEAN COMMENT.

Emphasizes World-Wide Agreement Necessary Before Resolution Could Be Adopted.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Feb. 6 (Canadian Press).—The United States government was represented Saturday by Secretary Kellogg as willing to sign a treaty with all world powers to prohibit the use of submarines for any purpose.

The head of the state department disclosed this position in a letter to Chairman Porter of the House foreign affairs committee, which addressed at some length the Frothingham resolution proposing the abolition of the undersea craft.

The secretary emphasized, however, that while the Washington government was ready to sign such an agreement, it would be impossible for any country to abolish submarines and leave other nations free to operate and build them.

The resolution, which the secretary endorsed, would provide that the United States "continue to use efforts to bring about discontinuance of this type of vessel."

World Agreement Necessary

Chairman Butler of the House naval committee, was called in by the foreign affairs of the group for consultation, and agreed that the submarine could be dispensed only by the agreement of all powers. He touched upon the administration's $740,000,000 new warship building program saying that it proposed construction of 32 new submarines.

But he added that the navy's postponement of the plan for a 20-year period would approximate three billion dollars, and Porter said that he regarded this as "cheap" insurance for a nation as wealthy as the United States. The former head contended that the United States must build submarines as long as any other country did.

Representative Frothingham, Republican, Massachusetts, author of the resolution, said the World War had demonstrated that the submarine was an inhuman weapon and that the S-4 disaster showed that its use in peace was hazardous.

Remains Silent

MOSCOW, Feb. 6 (A.P).—Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg's proposition on behalf of the United States to abolish submarines is not published nor commented upon by the Soviet press.

The foreign office and naval officials who could be induced to talk expressed widely differing views, some accepting Mr. Kellogg's statement as a concrete offer to eliminate the most cruel weapon in naval warfare, thus laying the foundation for gradual disarmament which meets in some measure Russia's radical views of the subject of universal disarmament and coincides with their basic principles of world peace. Others, however, profess a genuine dislike for Secretary Kellogg and consider him an obstacle to Soviet-American understanding, and therefore are unwilling to give him credit for anything.

In this quarter, the opinion is freely expressed that the secretary had ulterior motives in proposing such a far-reaching step. The opinion is also given that countries with big navies like Great Britain and the United States fear submarines because this modern undersea craft constitutes the greatest menace to the establishment of big navies while giving nations possessing small sea forces a fighting chance, providing they can exploit them skilfully.

Italy in Dilemma

ROME, Italy, Feb. 6 (A.P).—Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg's declaration that the United States is willing to sign an anti-submarine treaty finds Italian officials in a dilemma.

The scant comment forthcoming—none yet in the official press—is to the effect that Italy must be governed by the desires of her neighbors in the Mediterranean and Adriatic seas. In this connection, it is pointed out that Italy has an immense coastline to defend and African possession with which she must keep in constant touch.

Owing to the stand taken by France against abolition of undersea craft at the Washington naval conference, it is felt here that Italy cannot take the initiative in responding favorably to Mr. Kellogg's invitation.

Attempts to solicit opinions from naval officials and foreign office spokesmen proved futile as it is realized that Premier Mussolini himself must render Italy's decision in the matter.

CLASH OVER INTERVENTION AT PAN-AMERICAN CONGRESS

Peruvian Envoy Proposes Intervention Be Recognized as Necessary in Some Cases.

FAVORED BY BRAZIIL.

Marks First Serious Controversy Between Delegates at Present Conference.

HAVANA, Feb. 6 — (Canadian Press.)—In the first serious controversy of the sixth Pan-American Congress, the delegates fought Saturday over the right of intervention. A proposal from Peruvian delegates that intervention be recognized as necessary in some cases preciptated a fight which occupied the morning and evening sessions. A suggestion for a reference to a sub-committee was about the only point on which delegations could agree.

Countries which have been voting in unison on almost every other point, found themselves at variance on this one. Peru was supported at the outset by Brazil and the United States and later on in debate Cuba threw the weight of its eloquent ambassador to Washington, Dr. Orestes Ferara, in support of the proposal. But the Peruvian submission was flatly opposed by Argentina. That country's ambassador to Washington, Dr. Henorio Pueyrreden, early in the day, opposed the suggestion that the conference recognize intervention under any circumstances. "Diplomatic or armed intervention, permanent or temporary," he said, "is an attempt against the independence of states without finding its justifiaction in any duty of protecting rights of nationals since the same right could not be enforced in their turn by weak countries should their subjects suffer from convulsions in strong countries. Senor Pueyrredon submitted that people who left one country to live in another must live under the laws of the new country and therefore their personal or property rights could hardly be invoked as justification for armed intervention. One by one delegates from small American republics arose and found fault with the Peruvian proposal. Some of them took their lead from Argentina and demanded that the conference recognize no compromise on the finding of the Congress of American Jurists at Rio de Janeiro last year which incorporated in its report a flat condemnation of all intervention by one state in the affairs of another. Others were for discussion and amendment of Peruvian proposals, most of them favoring a sub-committee on the subject.

Hughes Favors Proposal.

At the outset, Charles Evans Hughes, head of the United States' delegation, rose to applaud the Peruvian proposal, which had just been read by its delegate, Maurtua, reporter for the international law committee. Mr. Hughes found the Maurtua report excellent basis for definition of the fundamental principles of international law. He commented on the fact that the proposals laid down at one time or another had found approval in decision of the United States' Supreme Court on international law, the fixed principles of one could not clash with another without destroying the force of the law.

Mr. Hughes hoped the committee would find itself in accord on the proposal.

The chairman of the committee, Dr. Gustave Guererro of Salvador, had delegated his chair to Dr. Ferandez of Brazil so that he might be free to take part in the debate. When Guererro did so, he opposed the proposal.

Brazil and Cuba supported the Argentine, Mexico opposed and almost without exception the smaller countries threw their weight against it.

The position of the United States in Nicaragua or any particular country was not mentioned in the debate. The Nicaraguan delegation here long ago approved the presence of the United States as an arbitrator in Nicaragua. The general question of intervention by one country in the affairs of another has become overnight the dominant question in the Pan-American conference.

Famous Flier Will Pilot Third Plane

WINNIPEG Man., Feb. 6. — Canadian Press. — Floyd Bennett, who will accompany Commander Richard E. Byrd on his projected flight to the South Pole this summer, will fly from New York to Winnipeg next week with one of the twelve Fokker monoplanes purchased by the Western Airways Limited, for for commercial service in Northern Manitoba. Two of the machines have already been piloted safely to Winnipeg by Lieut. Bernt Balchen who flew with Byrd across the Atlantic. Balchen will take off at the same time as Bennett with another plane.

The flight to Winnipeg is primarily being undertaken by Mr. Bennett to prepare for the polar flight by accustoming himself to winter flying conditions.

FIRE DESTROYS BUSINESS BLOCK

Firemen Fight Campbellton, N.B., Blaze, With Temperature 15 Below.

$6,000 LOSS.

CAMPBELLTON, N.B., February 6 (Canadian Press). — The Goudry Brick Block Company on Minto Street was destroyed by fire early yesterday morning while the temperature stood at 15 below zero.

The loss is estimated at approximately $6,000.

The building contained two stores, the gymnasium of a local organization, two private flats, and a hall used by the Knights of Columbus. Next to the owner of the building, H. R. Humphrey, jeweller, and Oliver Dewar, grocer, will be the heaviest losers.

FLIERS MAKE SAFE LANDING AT NEW ORLEANS

1,100 MILE HOP.

Make First Non-Stop Flight Between New Orleans and Mexico City.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Feb. 6.—(Canadian Press.)—Dieudonne Costes and Joseph Lebrix, "flying ambassadors of France," completed another leg of their air journey from Paris to New York when they landed at Alvin Callender Field here Saturday afternoon after a non-stop flight from Mexico City. They took off from Mexico City at 7.10 a.m. and landed at 5.16 a.m., completing the 1,100 mile hop in 10 hours and 6 minutes. It was a the first non-stop flight between the two cities.

Several hundred persons, most of them from New Orleans French quarter, were at the field to greet the interpid airmen, who have blazed an air trail between France and the United States by way of Africa, South America, Central America and Mexico.

Washington Next Stop.

Their journey will be resumed Tuesday morning when they take off for Washintgon, going from there to New York. The fliers were greeted by Mayor Arthur J. O'Keefe, of New Orleans; Maurice de Simonin, French consul-general, and Andre la Fargue, local attorney. Through Mr. la Fargue, the fliers said they had a good trip with the exception of a short while just before they entered Louisiana, when they bucked head winds.

When the Nungesser-Coli, the plane named for the French airmen who perished in an attempted non-stop flight from Paris to New York, was brought to the ground, the crowd surged toward the fliers and police had to hold them back from the plane while it was being wheeled across the field.

The aviators then emerged from the cockpit and after posing for photograhers, were taken in tow by the reception committee and started to their hotel.

Costes and Lebrix received newspapermen in their hotel suite an hour after their arrival. They revealed they had tentatively decided upon an air tour of the United States, visiting all principal cities and were holding in abeyance their original plan to bake the last leg of their hop a non-stop New York-to-Paris flight. They said a definite decision would be reached with their arrival in New York and would depend largely on weather conditions.

OVER THE TOP!

THE CANADIAN LEGION Wants 1,000 New Members.

Just as in the days of the war, men are needed—but now it is for a peaceful task. Every year the need of the Legion is more felt, as overseas men realize that the Great War left its mark upon them. You helped out before, when war called. You are asked now to help those who were your comrades, by joining the only organization that is looking after the interests of war veterans.

LADIES' AID MEETS.

Thomasburg Group Plans To Sell Names on Autograph Quilt.

THOMASBURG, Feb. 6. — The monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid met at the home of Mrs. James Bateman, who is president of that society, on Tuesday afternoon. Over twenty ladies were present. Two quilts were quilted, after which the meeting was held. The meeting was opened by the hymn, "I Need Thee Every Hour," after which Mrs. James Adams and Mrs. Dorothy Elliott led in prayer. It was then planned to sell names for an autograph quilt to raise money for the aid of the church. The meeting was closed by Mrs. William H. Kerr. Mrs. Bateman served a very dainty 15-cent tea in aid of the society.

OFFICERS ELECTED FOR "Y" COUNCIL

WINDSOR, Feb. 6. — "The National Council of the Young Men's Christian Association of Canada at its closing session here on Saturday afternoon elected the following officers:

Hon. President, J. J. Gartshore of Toronto; President, H. F. Williams, Winnipeg; Vice-Presidents, George Hodge, Quebec; C. J. Ford, Alberta and Dr. J. A. Clark, Prince Edward Island; Treasurer, John Watt, Toronto; Recording Secretary, Harry Ballantyne, Toronto; Chairman of General Board, P. N. Peacock, Toronto; Chairman Personal Service Division, Dr. E. M. Best Montreal; Chairman Foreign Service Division, Gerald W. Birks, Montreal.

Most important of all of the activities which marked the morning's session of the council was a decision to add the council staff by the naming of a personnel secretary whose job it will be to recruit, train and place "Y" Secretaries and other employed officers

Hailed as a big step forward in the association's program of increasing its usefulness to national life, the council's decision in this respect aims at the raising of secretarial standards so as to be better able to cope with the new problems which face the association from time to time.

When the new appointee is picked for the position he will be employed as a "full time specialist" in personal training.

FIRE DESTROYS HISTORIC HOUSE

Residence Built in Madoc By Pioneer is Badly Burned.

USED AS SCHOOL.

MADOC, Feb. 6. — A serious fire broke out on Thursday afternoon in the house occupied by Norman Miller on Durham Street, Madoc, shortly after the noon hour. It is thought to be from from an overheated chimney, as fire and smoke proceeded from the chimney cupboard upstairs in one of the bedrooms. The fire engine was quickly on the spot, also the chemical extinguishers, and after a strenuous fight the fire was got under control. The house s a complete wreck, with broken windows and holes in the roof. Only the vigilance of the fire fighters saved the house immediately adjoining, belonging to A. L. Connor, and it was thought several times that it would go too.

The house destroyed was one of the oldest in the village, being formerly known as the Jake Huff house, and having been built by one of the earliest pioneer residents, John Dale, the father of J. C. Dale of Dale's bank.

Many residents well remember going to school there when the school house of early days was burned until the new school was erected.

FINE SHORTHORNS RAISED AT OMEMEE

John Bent Has Good Herd of Pure Bred Cattle.

John A. Bent of Omemee has a herd of pure-bred Shorthorn cattle that any farmer would be proud to own. Among his fine herd is "Autumn Queen," who in a 365-day Record of Performance test gave 8,441 pounds of milk, averaging 4.03 per cent. butter-fat. This cow was sired by King of Ida and the dam was Maggie May, and she was 6 years old on the commencement of the test on December 16, 1926. The production required for registration in this class is 6,500 and 227 pounds of butter-fat in the 365 days. "Autumn Queen" beat the required production by 1,941 pounds and the butter-fat weighed 340 pounds.

January was her best month, when she gave 1,051.0 pounds of milk and 40.98 lbs. of butter-fat. Her production dropped to 778.5 in February, but in March it recorded 860.

Mr. Bent also had two other cows on the 305-day division test. "Maggie May," the mother of "Autumn Queen," gave 8,128 pounds of milk and 301 pounds of butter-fat in the 305 days from November 27, 1926, during which time she carried a calf. Her average per cent. of butter-fat was 3.70 and the total production required for registration was 5,500 pounds of milk and 192 pounds of fat. This cow was 9 years old on the commencement of the test.

"Red Velvet," another daughter of "Maggie May," and a full sister of "Autumn Queen," carried off the record for Mr. Bent's herd. In her 305-day test her total milk production was 9,292 pounds and the butter-fat registered 393 pounds, with an average of 4.23 per cent. "Red Velvet" was 5 years old when the test commenced on December 14, and calved after the test on December 16, 1927. In five months of the 10 on test she gave over 1,000 pounds of milk.

The registered records:

"Red Velvet."

COLUMBIA LOADED FOR LONG FLIGHT

Mechanics Say Havana Destination But Fuel For 4,000 Miles.

CURTISS FIELD, N.Y., Feb. 6.—(Canadian Press).—Charles Levine's plane Columbia was taken from the hangar at Curtiss Field early Saturday and loaded with 460 gallons of gasoline for a flight. the destination of which was somewhat of a mystery. John Curisl, Levine's representative at the field, and the mechanics insisted the flight was to Havana, but fliers pointed out that 460 gallons of gasoline would be enough to carry the plane four thousand miles or more. It is fourteen hundred miles to Havana.

Thugs Stage Regular Saturday Hold-Up

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 6 (Canadian Press). — Windsor's regular Saturday night hold-up was staged on schedule with a grocery store as the objective again. A bandit, who escaped from the scene in a light delivery truck, secured $25 from the till when he held up one of the Red and White chain grocery stores at 673 Pierre Avenue. The manager, Earl Linott and a customer, Joe Zimmerman, 751 Pierre Avenue, furnished police with a good description of the gunman who, they said had the lower portion of his face covered with a dirty white handkerchief.

EGG CIRCLE BUSINESS UP

More Eggs Handled By English Line Organization in 1927.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 6.—The English Line Egg Circle held its annual meeting at the residence of Thomas Rowe, Front Street, on Thursday afternoon. Though the figures for last year were not immediately available for the press, the manager states that the business for the year 1927 shows a marked increase over that for the preceding year. During 1927 there were sold 67,061 dozen eggs. The average price for the year was 31.8 cents per dozen. The treasurer's report shows that the profits to the members after meeting all current liabilities amounts to $805.67 The eggs sold were graded as 35,803 dozen extras, 25,594 firsts and 5,261 seconds or "splits."

During the year, the circle bought 396 dozen eggs from outside dealers. The balance sheet shows $19.236.73 paid in advance, $838.26 as the manager's commission, $335.31 to be the grading cost, and other expenses as $127.63.

After the business of the meeting had been concluded, F. H. Buker, poultry promoter for East Ontario, with headquarters in Brockville, addressed the circle on the production, grading, and marketing of eggs. His remarks were of vital interest to the poultry breeders and egg producers generally.

The officers for 1928 were also elected at this meeting: W. H. Locke, president; Allan Watson, vice president; Lindsay Anderson, secretary. The board of directors: E. J. Bonney, Mrs. Alfred Grills, Mrs. Arthur Barnum, Mrs. W. C. Craighead, Mrs. Marshall Longmuir. The auditors: Mrs. P. B. Nelson and Mrs. Ernest McCook. The manager, Thomas Rowe, Front street.

It is also of interest to note that there has been an increase in membership, volume of business and financial returns during 1927.

A sudden decrease in applause in London music halls and theaters was attributed to an announcement by jewelers that hand-clapping put wrist watches out of order.

Obituary

MRS. WILLIAM GILCHRIST.

MARMORA, Feb. 6.—On Tuesday afternoon at the residence of her niece, Mrs. Michael Gallagher of Marmora Township, passed away another local nonogenarian in the person of Mrs. William Gilchrist. The deceased lady, who had almost reached her ninety-second birthday was born in County Clare, Ireland, and came to this country with her parents at the age of nine. For the greater part of her life she resided in the vicinity of Belleville, but about four years ago decided to spend her last years with her niece and nephew. Her husband predeceased her seventeen years ago. There are no children of the marriage.

The obsequies took place on Thursday, the funeral Mass at the Sacred Heart church being taken at 7.30 by Father J. J. O'Reilly. The body was later conveyed by C.N.R. to Belleville for interment there.

JAMES CLARK.

HAVELOCK, Feb. 6.—The funeral of the late James Clark took place on Thursday afternoon from his late residence in Belmont to Pine Grove Cemetery.

The late Mr. Clark, whose death occurred on Saturday had only been ill for a few weeks. He was in his 64th year and had been a resident of the Township of Belmont for twenty-five years.

The deceased is survived by his wife; four daughters, Mrs. William Hinds of Toronto, Mrs. Frank Johnston of Winnipeg, Mrs. Harold Salter and Mrs. Irvine Deline of Belmont; two sons, George of Goodland, Man., and Randal at home, and one brother, John Clark, of Chandos.

WOMEN WANT TO BE "VETS"

Lifting of the ban against women students by the Royal Veterinary College of London is expected to cause feminine invasion into the veterinary field. When the announcement of the change was made recently there were at once a number of fair applicants for instruction. Dog racing is expected to attract many of the graduates, for members of the college have inspected, for possible mistreatment, all animals entered in greyhound races at White City and Harringay, two of the most popular English tracks. It is believed that women will leave the treatment of larger animals, such as horses and cows, to men, but will specialize in dogs, cats and birds.

OBITUARY

PAUL WARREN.

Physical Perfection
That Schoolgirl Complexion

IDEALS OF BEAUTY

If you wish to gain them, follow nature's laws— and, above all, this natural rule in skin care which has proved its effectiveness to the world

RIGHT living, right diet and proper exercise are the factors leading experts urge for physical perfection. For skin perfection these experts urge natural ways in skin care.

Thus, on expert advice, the artificial beauty methods of yesterday have largely been discarded.

Foremost beauty authorities have found beauty insurance starts with proper cleansing of the skin. They urge the soothing lather of olive and palm oils as blended in Palmolive as the safe, natural way in skin care. Most of the pretty skins you see today are due to it.

Use Palmolive according to the simple rule here given. Note the difference a single week will make. It is nature's formula to "Keep That Schoolgirl Complexion."

Start today with this simple care— Note how your skin improves

Wash your face gently with soothing Palmolive Soap, massaging the lather softly into the skin. Rinse thoroughly, first with warm water, then with cold. If your skin is inclined to be dry, apply a touch of good cold cream—that is all. Do this regularly, and particularly in the evening. Use powder and rouge if you wish. But never leave them on over night. They clog the pores, often enlarge them. Blackheads and disfigurements often follow. They must be washed away.

Avoid this mistake

Do not use ordinary soaps in the treatment given above. Do not think any green soap, or one represented as of olive and palm oils, is the same as Palmolive.

And it costs but 10c the cake! So little that millions let it do for their bodies what it does for their faces. Obtain a cake today. Then note what an amazing difference one week makes.

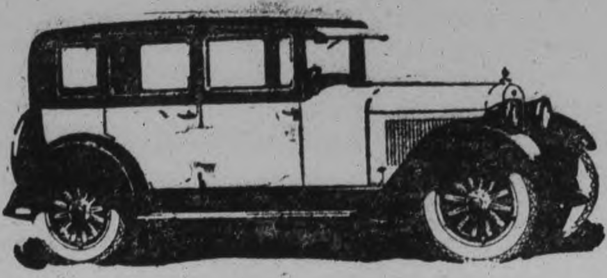
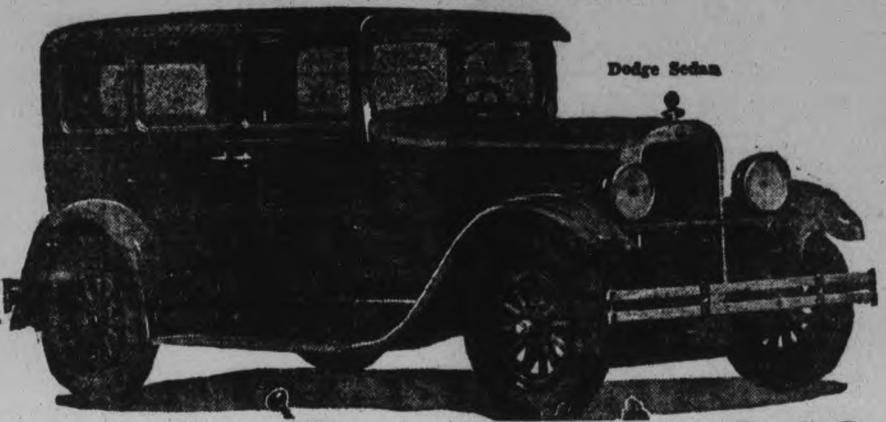
PETERBORO EXAMINER'S FIGURE PUZZLE CONTEST

50 FREE PRIZES $2500 IN VALUE

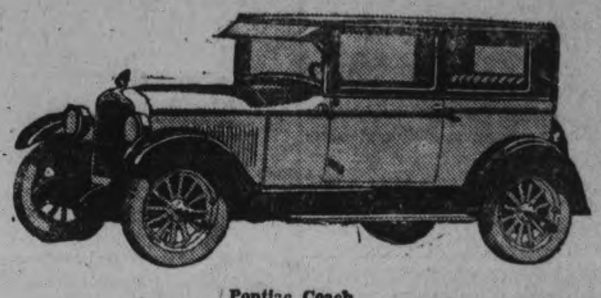
GIVEN AWAY



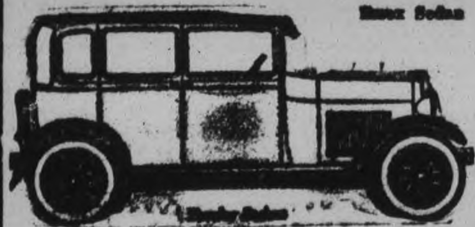
Essex Sedan



Dodge Sedan



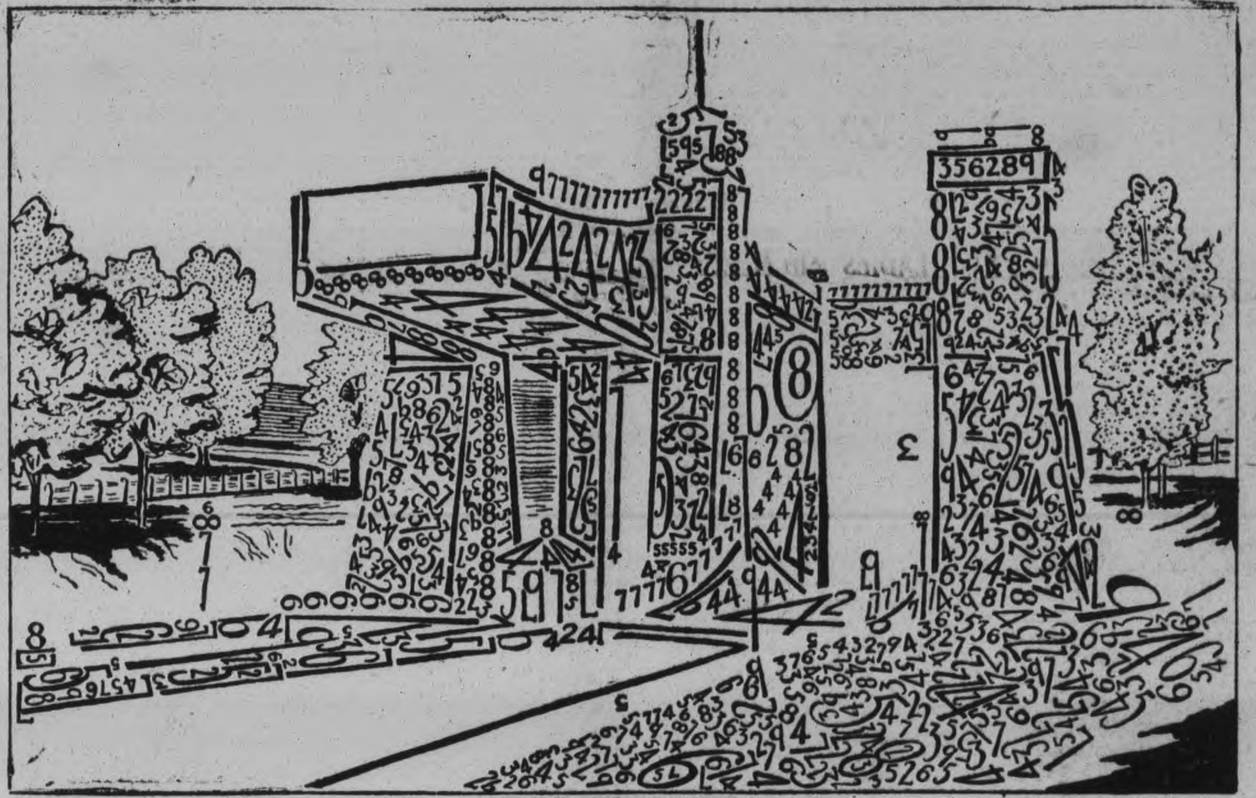
Pontiac Coach



Chevrolet Sedan

Peterboro's Famous Lift Lock

HOW MANY TONS DOES THE LIFT LOCK WEIGH?



GENERAL CONTEST RULES

How to Enter

1. The contest is open to everyone except:
   - (a) Employees of The Peterborough Examiner, Ltd., or their immediate family.
   - (b) Prize-winners in any similar contest who have won any of the major prizes.

2. Additional puzzle-charts may be obtained free by writing to the Contest Department or by calling at The Examiner Office.

3. Every figure in the puzzle is complete and entirely free from tricks or illusions. If any contestant is in doubt about any of the figures, send in the chart with the figures marked and the Contest Department will gladly give a ruling on the figure.

4. When you have solved the puzzle, fill in completely the solution blank, which must be accompanied by a remittance for at least a six months' subscription at the regular rates to The Evening Examiner. (See subscription rates.) See also the prize-list and note how the value of your prize is increased by paying for a year's subscription and by getting subscriptions from your friends. Renewal subscriptions, or subscriptions in arrears, if paid during contest period, count the same as new subscriptions and will be extended from the present expiry date, but not more than $15.00 will be received on any one solution or subscription.

5. In order that subscribers who pay carrier boys weekly may participate in this contest, books of tickets containing 22 weekly tickets for $3.00, or 44 for $6.00, will be sold. These remittances must be made direct to the Contest Department with your solution. Otherwise it cannot be registered. Each ticket is valued at 15c and will be redeemed from the carrier boy at that price.

6. Readers who give their subscription to some other contestant and later want to send in an answer themselves, may do so providing they fill in the coupon, giving the name of the person they paid their subscription to and the amount paid. No further payment is necessary.

7. The contest will close on March 15, 1928, but send in your solution as soon as possible as we are offering special prizes for the first correct solutions. (See full details under "Special Prizes.") There is nothing gained by holding back your answer once you have solved the puzzle, as a contestant may make several remittances on any answer sent in while the contest lasts up to a total amount of $15.00.

8. Contestants may send in a different answer to the puzzle with each remittance, but if one of your answers is correct the money sent in on your other answers will not increase the total value of your prize, and not more than one regular prize will be paid to one family.

9. Everyone has an equal chance. You can win the first prize and extra cash for only a six months' subscription, but note how the value of the first five prizes increases if you send in more money. Aim to win the maximum Grand Prize. The Evening Examiner is now recognized as the leading daily in Peterborough district and surrounding counties and no difficulty should be found in getting your friends or neighbors to subscribe for it.

10. Contestants who remit by mail or pay at the office should see that these remittances and answers are made on a proper contest coupon to ensure them reaching the Contest Department.

11. If the correct answer is not sent in by any contestant the prizes will be awarded for the nearest correct solutions. In the event of a tie a second puzzle will be presented which will be as practicable and solvable as the first. Only those tieing will be permitted to solve the second puzzle. Should two or more persons be tied in the second puzzle the prizes will be divided equally among those tieing. No cash will be accepted on the second puzzle.

12. In entering the contest, contestants agree to abide by the rules of the contest and to accept the decision of the judges as final. The Contest Department reserve the right to alter and amend its rules if necessary for the protection of contestants or The Peterborough Examiner. It also reserves the right to refund any subscriptions and to disqualify any contestants whom they consider should not be in the contest. Contestants are assured of the same impartial treatment which characterises The Examiner in all its dealings.

THE PROBLEM

The problem is to add together all the figures shown above, which, when added together, represent the total number of tons that the Lift Lock weighs.

The puzzle is entirely free from tricks or illusions, every figure is complete and stands alone. The figures range from two to nine. There are no ones (1) or ciphers (0) in the puzzle. The sixes are curved, while the stem of the nines are straight.

We wish it clearly understood that every figure can be plainly seen. There is nothing hidden in the trees or shadows, but the problem of adding these is a real test of accuracy.

Remember, each figure is added separately. For example, 9777 is counted 9 plus 7 plus 7 plus 7, or, in other words, simply add them as if each figure stood one above the other in a single column.

REMEMBER, NO ONE KNOWS THE CORRECT ANSWER UNTIL THE CONTEST CLOSES

To ensure this we had Mr. E. M. Elliott, County Treasurer, and Mr. Frank Adams, City Treasurer, each erase one or more figures from the original drawing, which they carefully noted and sealed in an envelope and gave to the manager of the Royal Bank for safe keeping until the contest closes.

SPECIAL PRIZES—While the contest will not close until March 15, we are offering Five Special Prizes for the first five correct, or nearest correct, solutions secured by us. The prizes will be: First Prize, $8.00; Second Prize, $7.00; Third Prize, $5.00; Fourth Prize, $3.00; Fifth Prize, $2.00.

A TIP ON HOW TO WIN

Take a pencil and put down the numbers as you stroke them out, then add them up. Some suggest that you cut the chart into dozens of pieces, then check them from all sides; or if you wish, try blotting them out with colored ink or pencil. Others think the best way is to pick out all the twos, threes, fours, etc. Any they miss the first time they find later. Or suppose you try taking a combination of figures which, when added together, makes a total of ten. For example, 5 and 3 and 2 make 10. Tens are not only easily added together, but there is less danger of making a mistake.

Important Points to Remember

1. Everyone has the same opportunity. A person sending in only $3.00 in subscriptions has the same chance of winning the first prize as a person sending in more money. The advantage of sending in more money is to increase the value of the first five prizes.

2. This is a contest for Central Ontario district, or to any subscriber of The Examiner, no matter where he resides.

3. Don't forget to answer all the necessary questions on the solution blank.

4. If you collect a subscription from a friend or neighbour, that person can also submit an answer to the puzzle without further payment.

THE JUDGES

In order that each Contestant shall have fair and impartial treatment, we have arranged with Mr. Roland Denne, Mayor of the City and Alderman Nagel Phelan to act as judges for the contest. Any complaints in this connection will be referred to these judges whose decision will be absolutely final.

A CHANCE FOR MR. HANNA.

While there may be some chuckling over The Globe's anxiety that customers of Mr. Ferguson's chain stores should get full value for their money, there is no doubt that that paper is quite justified in its insistence that ordinary business principles should prevail, even in the sale of liquor.

If the bottles of liquor sold in Government stores contain several ounces less than the reputed weight of their contents, as many customers maintain, then the patrons of the Ferguson-Hanna establishments have a legitimate grievance, and in fairness and honesty, it should be rectified.

A man, whether he buys liquor or sugar, has the right to get what he is paying for, and if in the case of the former commodity the weight turns out to be materially less than that marked on the container, an explanation is due.

To announce a reputed weight several ounces heavier than the real weight is a bit of deception that should be made impossible, especially when the Province itself is the agency through which the liquor is sold, and when the remedy is so readily at hand.

Mr. Hanna should get busy—this looks to be a case wherein he can really act the part of a "strong man."

A FORWARD MOVEMENT.

No one who has given a moment's thought to the matter questions the importance of an efficient and aggressive Chamber of Commerce as a factor in the development of a municipality.

The local Chamber has furnished sufficient evidence of its ability to serve the community to remove any doubt as to the value of such a body.

The announcement, therefore, of a campaign of reorganization and re-financing, designed to make the organization one capable of still great service and general usefulness, will be received with interest that will increase as the campaign develops.

The plan outlined at the meeting of the Board of Directors the other night seems to be business-like and feasible.

Undoubtedly the first step must be the enlistment as members of the Chamber of a representative body of live citizens awake to the possibilities of developing their home community and willing and anxious to contribute their ability, energy and enthusiasm to the cause.

With such a membership and with an adequate budget, the carrying out of a progressive program becomes a comparatively simple matter.

There is a real work to be done here by the Chamber of Commerce, and it is to be hoped that the present campaign will leave the organization in proper shape to give the best service in its history.

THE DEER HUNTING SEASON.

A resolution to petition the Ontario Government for a shorter deer hunting season was turned down by the County Council of Lincoln last week, the legislators declining to support an agitation for an open season of fifteen days as against the present limit of thirty days.

One member of the Council declared that the more days of shooting the more American dollars came into the country, and his view prevailed.

But isn't that a short-sighted sizing up of the situation?

If deer hunting brings American dollars into Ontario, and undoubtedly it does, then it is manifestly to our interest to conserve our resources in this respect so that there will be deer to attract our neighbors, and their money if you will, for many years, as well as to furnish our own sportsmen with a chance for the type of outing they prefer.

A long open season hastens the day when there will be no deer for ourselves, and our visitors and no "American dollars" brought in because of our hunting possibilities.

According to the Lincoln line of reasoning, of course, the logical thing to do would be to remove all restrictions and cause a real flood of United States money—but, unfortunately, the flood would not be of long duration.

It will not be very long anyway, unless this question of game conservation is given more serious consideration than the majority of people are giving it at the present time.

THE KIND WE WANT.

The Examiner is glad to note that Claud H. Rogers, whose interest in and knowledge of the tourist situation are recognized, endorses our views in regard to the inadvisability of booming the waters of this district as offering exceptional opportunities for fishing.

We have for years urged all those interested in advertising this section of Ontario to stress the charms of our rivers and lakes from a scenic and family resort viewpoint, rather than to emphasize the facilities for fishing.

The Kawartha Lakes have enough real advantages to offer tourists without attempting to bring hard-shell fishermen in here under false pretences.

There is nothing that can do more to harm the reputation of any locality than to have tourists go away dissatisfied, and there is nobody, incidentally, who can become more discontented and more eloquent in his criticisms than a man who comes here expecting to find the water teeming with bass and maskinonge, pays good money for guides and boats, and spends two weeks with little or nothing to show for it when his holiday is over.

He goes away talking to himself, and when he gets home he talks to everybody who will listen to him.

And you can depend upon it that what he says will make his hearers tough material for the most eloquent tourist pamphlet to work upon.

We want the people who come to our section of Ontario to go home delighted with their experience, and therefore we should confine our efforts to attract tourists to whom fishing only means an incident in their vacation, not their whole holiday.

Peterborough seems to be up to date in everything save automobile markers.

GOOD STOCK WILL PAY THE FARMER.

A barred Plymouth Rock hen, C. H. 188, the property of the Experimental Farm at Lennoxville, has just completed her laying year with 305 eggs, it is announced from the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa. She is the daughter of a 243-egg-registered hen, C. F. 175, her sire coming from a 234 dam, G. 151. This is a record for Quebec in this particular breed. The pedigree of the bird shows six years' careful breeding by the Experimental Farm. The value of the 305 eggs was $12.82 and the cost of feed for the year $2.35, showing a profit over feed of $10.47. The weight of eggs laid was over thirty-eight pounds, or about six times the weight of the hen. The laying record was made without the use of artificial lights.

Information such as contained in the above is getting to be almost an every-day announcement from our Government departments, but the average city dweller often wonders if all this progress in various phases of expert farming, poultry and stock raising is being reflected on the average farm of the country. We are still able to go out any day and see flocks of chickens, as mongrel and mixed as they were years ago before Experimental Farms intensified their work and grew to such proportions as that on which they are now supported by the public.

Take the above item. The hen made $12.82 and it cost $2.35 for feed in a year. At that rate, a hundred hens would make over $1,000 for the owner. It is an exaggerated statement of the case, but cut the figure in two, if necessary and spread scientific poultry keeping on every farm and loog what the result would be.

The farmer is not doing himself justice who does not keep the highest utility stock, poultry, swine, cattle or sheep. It is deplorable in many instances how the complaining agriculturist who wants legislation to put him on his feet neglects to take advantage of the spread of knowledge from Government institutions in the country.—St. Catharines Standard.

LESS BITTERNESS AT OTTAWA.

Are politics in Canada becoming less bitter? Is the partisan strife which has been the invariable accompaniment of the discussion of the country's business moderating? Is the day of the old political warhorse who dealt in abuse, vindictiveness and acerbities approaching an end? Do public men generally appreciate the advantages which arise from a calm, dispassionate study of the nation's business, and are they less eager than once they were to place obstacles in the way of the party in power to the end solely of partisan considerations?

The answer to these questions and to other questions of the same type which might be asked is to be found not only in the new attitude of fairness and independence which the press is assuming towards political questions, but, as well, in the attitude which is being assumed by political leaders themselves. When Parliament was opened last week, the country witnessed as radical a change from the old order of things as it was possible to exhibit. It saw the Prime Minister of the country, and the leader of one of its great parties, actually conveying his congratulations to his chief opponent upon his election to the leadership of the Opposition and speaking of him in terms of the highest praise. It saw the same gentleman paying similar tribute to Mr. Guthrie, who had directed the Opposition benches during a preceding session. It saw the leader of the Progressive party joining in the references to Mr. Bennett and Mr. Guthrie, and it saw Mr. Bennett and Mr. Guthrie, in their turn, extending thanks for the words which had been spoken and the former denying the old assertion that the chief purpose of an opposition is to oppose. "I shall endeavor to discharge the duties of the difficult task which I have undertaken," said the new leader of the Conservative party, "with a desire to be of some service to Canada and to make it easier, I trust, to conduct public business than if we took a merely partisan view for the purpose of interposing objections and opposition for its own sake. That, sir, we will not do. . . . I trust the relations which have been so auspiciously opened between the Government and His Majesty's loyal opposition may be long continued, and if the fortunes of war change the position of the parties. I know the right hon. gentleman (Mr. King) who now leads the Government will approach the discharge of his duties in the future in the same high spirit which he displayed in 1919 when he found himself in the position which I now occupy."

If Parliamentary discussion remains upon such a high level for the duration of the session, and all succeeding sessions, the country will be well pleased. No fault can be found with legitimate criticism of the Government, and, indeed, it is for such a purpose that an opposition exists. But when that criticism is of the hair-splitting variety, or is governed solely by the desire to make party capital, it is Parliament and the country's business which suffer. If the new spirit which was introduced in the House of Commons at the last session by the Hon. Mr. Guthrie, as the temporary leader of the Opposition, is continued by its permanent leader, it is the country as a whole which will be the gainer and which will be loudest in its applause.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

EDITORIAL NOTE SAND COMMENT.

There will probably be nothing in the Speech from the Throne at the opening of the Legislature about The Globe's bigger-and-better-bottle campaign.

The debate in the Dominion House has not been running very long, but already speakers have discussed almost every subject except the cause of the local hockey slump.

The Oshawa Police Department is asking for the appointment of six more policemen. The Motor City is paying the penalty for its rapid growth.

Arguments as to the relative merits of the Toronto and Kingston street railway systems leaves us cold. But we ask the contenders to take a look at our bus system.

Motor "mashers" had better take warning. It is intimated that the suspension of their driving license may follow attempts to flirt with women unknown to them.

That forty-minute limit to speeches in the House of Commons seems to be working to excellent public advantage. At present, its chief value probably is to prevent waste of time, but as time goes on, the rule will undoubtedly lead to more careful preparation and greater compactness of speeches—there will be more quality as well as less quantity. Very few men sit in any Parliament or exist anywhere whose ideas on any particular occasion need more than forty minutes for expression sufficient to serve all useful purposes.—Ottawa Journal.

When a Brooklyn judge asked Constantine Pappadimitrakopoulos why he didn't change his name, the answer came back, "I don't want to. That is the name my ancestors passed on to me." But surely in installments, Constantine?—Border Cities Star.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

LOCAL HOG MARKETS.

Live hogs, thick smooth, $8.50; select graded, $9.00; dressed hogs, head on, $14.00; head off, $15.00.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, February 6 (Canadian Press). — The local cash grain market was quiet on Saturday owing to the fact that buyers in most cases had provided for their wants earlier in the week. Prices, however, were firmly maintained. There was some demand on the Montreal market from English importers for Canadian Western oats, but exporters stated that the prices bid were below working basis.

The tone of the flour market remains steady, with an increased foreign demand and diminishing local and country demand. Trade in winter wheat flour was of a somewhat limited character, but a steady feeling still prevails, and prices remained unchanged. A moderate amount of business was done in white corn flour.

The condition of the millfeed situation remained strong owing to increased production, and a continued good domestic and United States demand. No actual change in prices has been announced as yet, however. A steady business was reported in standard grades of rolled oats.

Receipts of eggs in Montreal on Saturday were 1,209 cases. Demand was steady. Values continued steady and unchanged. Butter receipts were 18 packages, with the market presenting a steadier feeling. Prices were unchanged. A slight improvement was noted in the demand from both local and outside buyers.

The trade in cheese continued exceedingly slow owing to the absence of any demand of importance either from English or American buyers. There is no pressure on the market, and the feeling continues steady.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, February 6 (Canadian Press). — Directly opposite results from unsettled weather developed in the grain markets on Saturday, corn going upward in price and wheat down. Good export business in corn helped to lift corn values.

Closing quotations on corn were firm, ¼c to ½c net higher. Wheat finished unchanged to ⅝c off, oats at ⅛c decline to ⅛c to ¼c advance, and provisions 22c to 60c down.

Influenced by corn strength, wheat rallied a little at the last, but throughout the day was chiefly dominated by the fact that scattered rains had fallen in parts of Texas, Oklahoma, and Kansas.

A sharp break in wheat prices at Liverpool was also a bearish factor in connection with reports of heavy shipments of wheat from Argentina.

Oats prices kept within narrow limits, and were swayed by the action of other grain.

Active selling of lard by eastern houses and foreigners pulled down the provision market.

Voice of the People

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner Office on the day before it is desired to have them published.

To the Editor, Examiner:

Dear Sir.—In writing the letter that I did, I had no thought of casting any reflection on Mr. Grierson or his work; he has been a man I respected very much, always paying attention to the business he had on hand. I merely wished it inserted as a warning to others not accustomed to this class of work.

If I offended in my first letter, I sincerely regret it.

Yours truly,

Wise and Otherwise

The city of London is seeking a slogan. We suggest "Now you see it; now you don't."

An Englishwoman says she doesn't see how the slender women of America manage to dominate their husbands so well. But it always seemed to us a slender lady could weep just as much and as often as a fat one.

A good barber is a bald-headed man who sells hair tonic to at least half his customers.

Women are taking men's place in the world, all right, but we haven't heard any stories yet about the traveling saleswoman.

The only thing the matter with our system of criminal punishment is that convicted persons can't get their paroles in advance.

ALSO ITS INCOMMUNICABLES.

It is in its incommunicables that life leaves with us its richest rewards, like being rightly in love; like discovering yourself; like the incomparable benefits of spiritual thinking and acting; like the perseverance of a worthy profession, a commendable trade, or an honorable business; like that of being much absorbed in some service for our fellow man.

These are the indefeasible accomplishments in a life worth while and they are also its incommunicables.

COOKERY COURSES FOR MEN.

The declaration of Sir Robert Horne, speaking at the Glasgow College of Domestic Science recently, that a cookery class for poor and isolated single men should be established, has found many champions among leading educators of Europe. J. P. Thomas, of the Battersea Men's Institute of London, strongly favors the teaching of cooking to men, and his institution has established a men's class in the art. Among the pupils are both married and single men, and the instructor is a young woman. The entire duties of the kitchen are being taught, but stress is placed on the preparation of homely dishes. At each lesson the pupils' luncheons or suppers for the next day are prepared. The tuition is about 25 cents a term.

LITERARY SOCIETY AT WINTER SCHOOL

The first literary society meeting of the Bridgenorth Short Course was held on Thursday morning in the Foresters' Hall. Previous to the opening of the program two lectures were given. One, by Miss E. Hopkins, was on "Public Speaking." A number of valuable points were given to budding orators. The other was by E. S. Somers on "How to Debate." No doubt the effects of this lecture will be seen in the debate next week.

Russell Roseborough was appointed chairman. The program consisted of short speeches from every member of the class. Other numbers were a piano solo by Miss Helen Moore, "The Robin's Return", and a reading by Phyllis Moore.

Two visitors were present, Mr. James Jopling and Mr. William Telford of Bridgenorth, who were also called to speak. They responded, commending the Short Course. Mr. Jopling also gave a reading, which was very much enjoyed.

GERMAN "HAMLET" SCORED.

Seldom has a great man of letters been so severely criticized as Gerhart Hauptmann, Germany's most famous poet and playright, following the recent production in Dresden of his version of "Hamlet." Hauptmann's theory is that the fourth act of Hamlet, as it is today, contains only the mutilated remains of what Shakespeare wrote, and that the first actors who played Laertes, dissatisfied with the part, filched lines and scenes which Shakespeare had given to Hamlet. Hauptmann gives back to the Dane the lines he thinks he should have, and therefore puts Laertes at the head of the rebellion against King Claudius. He has written six new scenes and interpolated new lines, and has moved the "To be or not to be" monologue from the third to the fifth act.

ROBB PRESENTS 1928 ESTIMATES

Annual List Showing Where Money Is To Be Spent Out Next Week.

SESSIOONAL MILESTONE.

OTTAWA, Feb. 6.—(Canadian Press).—Three milestones mark the course of every session of parliament. The Speech from the Throne indicates the legislative program, the estimates tell where and how the public money will be spent, and the budget tells where and how the money will be raised. Next week in parliament will be notable for the presentation of the estimates by the Hon. James A. Robb, Minister of Finance.

Copies of the estimates, bound in the traditional blue paper covers are destined to become documents most scrutinized by members of parliament. All the details of government expenditure for the fiscal year commencing April 1 are printed in the estimates and in committee of the whole House of Commons passes on each item. Next week the members will learn just how much is to be spent in their constituencies on public buildings or harbors and many benevolent societies will learn whether or not their annual grants have been reduced or increased.

Someone has said that a rich man has more fun keeping a budget than a man of moderate means. Because the money he saves is tangible, he can see it and invest it, and put it to work. Be that as it may, a budget is an invaluable help to anyone.

A budget helps you keep the right proportions between expenses, prevents you from spending more than is best for food and rent, or crimping more than you should on entertainment and luxury. But a budget is not a reason for getting cheap things, things in which you forfeit quality by attempting to save on price. A budget says to you: "Here is the amount of money you should spend for this. Spend all of it, but don't spend more." And it is up to you to get the best that can be got for that amount.

The person who spends his money wisely, who likes to get the utmost for it, always finds out from advertisements how he can spend it to the best advantage.

It is surprising how much more wisely you can buy if you make it a habit to read advertising. A little more value here . . . a little better workmanship there . . . in this thing slightly more durability . . . that product perhaps a bit finer. And every cent of money you spend for advertised merchandise will bring you greater comfort, a higher quality of goods, and a standard of excellence that is nationally recognized.

It certainly pays to read the advertisements

SAINT and SINNER

Cherry had not been out of the house five minutes Wednesday morning when Nils Jonson's telephone call came. During breakfast, and those last hurried minutes while Cherry had been giving Hope her nine o'clock bottle, Faith had prayed that the call would come while Cherry was still there.

But fate was ironic. Five minutes after Cherry had left the house, tight-lipped and pale with the disappointment that the morning mail had again brought her, the telephone rang long and insistently, proclaiming the fact that it was "long distance" calling.

"Nils speaking, Faith," the rich voice came startlingly clear. "I'm in Darrow. I'll be tied up here all day on business, but I'd like to drop in this evening, if I may."

"Can't you come for dinner?" Faith asked hopefully. Cherry was not to leave for Marlboro until half past eight.

"I'll make it if I can, thanks, but don't count on me. I'm trying to finish up here today, and there are a lot of legal papers to be prepared and signed. Something rather big, Faith, but I'll tell you all about it tonight."

Whether he concluded the conversation abruptly or whether the connection was accidentally broken Faith did not know, but the result was the same. She had no opportunity to tell him of Cherry's engagement for the evening.

She was so concerned with the possibility that Cherry and Nils might not see each other at all on this hurried business trip of Nils that Faith gave little time to speculating on the nature of the "something rather big" of which Nils had spoken, nor did she mention that part of the conversation to Rhoda, who was as excited over the prospect of a visit from her brother, as if he had been a sweetheart.

Cherry was at home by half-past five. She whirled gayly through her duties for the baby, whisked her off for a brisk walk in the stingingly cold air, came back almost dancing with exuberance and looking as beautiful and carefree as if she had never suffered a heartache in her life.

"Going to have fun, Faith, old dear!" she sang ecstatically. "Going to have heaps of fun! Lord, but I'm simply ripe for adventure. Got to wash my hair and manicure my nails. Hoop-la! Ain't it a gr-r-and and glorious feeling to be young and beautiful and all dated up for a swell party?"

Half an hour later Cherry was sitting on a hassock at Faith's feet, busy with nail file and buffer, while Faith, using a big soft Turkish towel, was rubbing the wet, short curls to dry them.

"Wouldn't it be funny if Bill Warren proposed tonight?" Cherry remarked casually. "Poor duck! He's been half-scared to be seen with me, since my disgrace—"

"Please don't, Cherry," Faith begged. "You were acquitted."

"Of murder—yes," Cherry shrugged her slim, bare little shoulder. She was dressed only in a brassiere and "step-ins," of printed white silk, sprinkled with apple blossoms and tiny knots of pale green ribbon. "But not of the charge of being a heartless flirt, engaged to at least three men at the same time. Poor Bills has been as loyal as his family and friends would let him be, and now I think I detect the well-known glitter in his eye. Yes, Faith, I have a hunch I'm going to be proposed to to-night."

"Are you going to accept him?" Faith asked in a voice that was suddenly slow and dreary.

"Half a loaf, darling! But —I don't know! All dry? I'll dress then!"

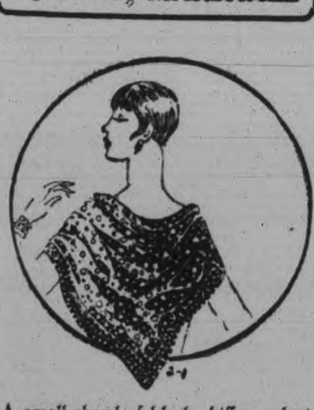
DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL



A small shawl of black chiffon velvet embroidered with strass.

When is a shawl not a shawl? One is inclined to ask nowadays—and the answer, of course, is—when it is so small that it isn't really a shawl at all but a square handkerchief scarf. Of course, if the handkerchief scarf is fairly small you can't mistake it for a shawl, and if the shawl is large enough you can't mistake it for a scarf, but there are squares in the shawl departments really smaller than some of the squares in the scarf department—so there you are.

And shawls are still counted among the smart accessories for evening. Women who dispensed with them for winter wear in town have gone back to wearing them now that they are in the balmy climates of Southern winter resorts, where some sort of shawl is often all that is needed by way of evening wrap. And some of these new shawls that can be made to do for evening wraps very satisfactorily are made of velvet, lined with georgette. There are very little velvet shawls also that simply provide a bit of protection and warmth to the evening gown with a deep back decolletage.

Then there are shawls of regulation size made of heavy crepe silks, some of them showing embroidered designs and others hand painting. Usually they have deep fringe—for after all the best thing about the large shawl is the fringe.

Scarfs, though certainly not new, are extremely smart for spring, and where the new clothes have been worn at Southern resorts here and abroad it has been observed that for daytime wear there are many smart coats devoid of fur trimming. Obviously the fur is omitted for the sake of the scarf. Then there are some new coats with detachable fur collars. And the fox scarf continues smart, though still not overpopular.

Sometimes the new sports coats are worn with a loosely arranged scarf beneath extending in a careless sort of muffler fashion over the neck. The straight fairly narrow scarf is frequently drawn fairly closely round the neck with one end hanging over the shoulder at the front and the other end hanging down at the back. A large brooch is sometimes used to keep the scarf taut around the neck.

HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH

FASTING FOR ANEMIA

The cure of pernicious anemia depends upon eliminating every possible disease toxemia from the body. A thorough bodily house-cleaning is necessary in order to stop the vicious destruction of the red blood cells.

The enemic toxemia is like a devouring monster in the body which eats up the red cells and drinks up the hemoglobin. Starving this toxic monster out seems to be the only solution to the cure of primary anemia. Fasting on plain water will bring about very desirable results, but experience has shown that the orange fast is even more satisfactory. I believe this is because of the fact that while the poisons are being eliminated from the body because of the absence of assimilation and the stimulating effect of the citric acid of the orange, at the same time the calcium and other minerals contained in the orange juice supply the blood with the needed vitamins and the alkaline bases of which the blood has been depleted.

The normal number of red cells should be something over five million, but in pernicious anemia often three to four million of these cells are destroyed, leaving only one or two million remaining. I have never known of a single case of pernicious anemia that did not immediately begin to improve on the orange fast, and the almost unbelievable fact is that the number of red sells is actually increased at a rapid rate when no food of any kind other than orange juice is used. Laboratory tests will prove this assertion, and I have yet to see a case where this change does not take place.

This is not a new discovery of mine, but I have used this same method of treatment for anemia for many years with unvarying results. The improvement in the quality of the blood stream will usually continue for about two weeks, but after that it seems that not much change takes place, so those with primary anemia are usually advised to fast on orange juice for from one to two weeks.

Of course, the usual intestinal irrigation should be taken as with any other kind of fast, and two or three sponge or shower baths used every day.

The patient is advised to take deep breathing exercises from the very start, and to continue taking these breathing exercises indefinitely, even after it seems the cure has been effected. This extra breathing supplies the blood with more oxygen with which to carry on its work, and this extra oxygen is badly needed by the patient.

After the fast the diet should be similar to that which I recommend in my weekly health menus given in this column. These menus include a plentiful supply of green vegetables which, of course, are needed by everyone, whether or not they have a tendency to anemia. At the same time, the patient must take up a regular course of physical culture exercising and do everything to increase functional activity in every muscle and organ of the body.

Blood tests should be made frequently, and if there is any material loss after the blood cell increase it is advisable to take another short fast the same as before, and then return to the diet, alternating with the fasting and dieting for some time if it seems necessary until all of the bodily toxins which may have been responsible for the original trouble are entirely removed.

The secret of this treatment is ELIMINATION OF TOXINS. The blood will then quickly become normal.

I will gladly send you further information on this ailment. Just write to me in care of this newspaper and ask for my articles on anemia. This is part of the service your newspaper gives you.

Questions and Answers.

Question: Reader of your Helpful Talks writes: "Kindly state the cause of redness of the nose on a woman of 35 who has never tasted liquors of any kind."

Answer: A red nose comes from some kind of intoxication, and as you say you do not use liquors, the redness of your nose must come from auto intoxication or self-poisoning from principally intestinal toxins.

Question- T. J. D. asks: "Where can I buy brown rice? How much acidolphilus milk should a person take where gastritis is present? Can one take tomatoes? I should like to add that your letters are very helpful."

Answer: Brown rice can be purchased in any health food store—just ask for unpolished rice. I usually recommend a sweet milk diet for gastritis, but different kinds of sour milk may sometimes be used with benefit. With either the sweet or sour milk the patient should take about three quarts daily, using a glassful every hour. Tomatoes are a healthful food, but must be used in careful combination with other foods.

Question: Reader asks: "What would you recommend for a person on whom destructive thoughts have gotten such a hold that she broods continually? The family doctor says there is nothing organically wrong, but she is becoming a total wreck, physically and mentally."

Answer: She should have a good diagnosis made and find out the condition of her alimentary canal. It will no doubt be found that the abdominal organs are prolapsed low in the pelvis. Nothing will produce nervousness in a woman and lead to neurasthenia and insanity as quickly as congestion in the pelvic organs, and prolapsus is one of the commonest causes of such a condition.

Hints on Etiquette

1. If a formal dinner is out of the question, what other ways can a hostess present a house guest to her social circle?
2. If one lives in a metropolitan apartment, where does one give a formal dinner or other large parties?
3. If one has limited means, what informal way can one introduce guests?

The Answers.

1. By a series of informal dinners, luncheons, a big reception or tea.
2. At a club or hotel.
3. By giving a Sunday breakfast to friends.

Uncle Wiggily

To-day's Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

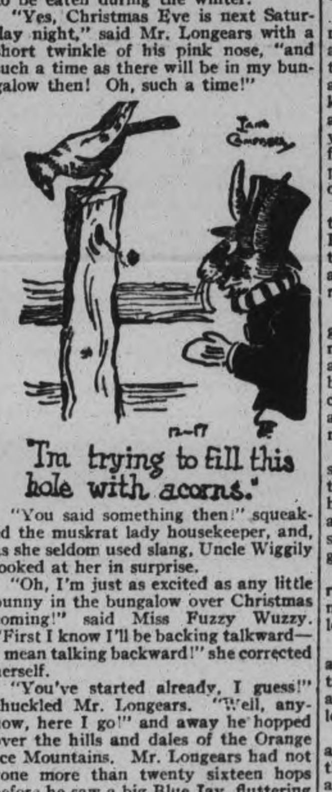
UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE SILLY BOB CAT

Uncle Wiggily started out one day to hop through the woods and across the fields to look for an adventure.

"And if," said the kind old rabbit gentleman to himself, "and if I see some Christmas presents as I hop, I may pick them up and save them for Santa Claus to drop down the chimney of my bungalow a week from to-night."

"Dear me, is Christmas Eve as close as that?" asked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, who was cutting some carrots into slices to be dried and put away to be eaten during the winter.

"Yes, Christmas Eve is next Saturday night," said Mr. Longears with a short twinkle of his pink nose, "and such a time as there will be in my bungalow then! Oh, such a time!"



"I'm trying to fill this hole with acorns."

"You said something then!" squeaked the muskrat lady housekeeper, and, as she seldom used slang, Uncle Wiggily looked at her in surprise.

"Oh, I'm just as excited as any little bunny in the bungalow over Christmas coming!" said Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "First I know I'll be backing talkward—I mean talking backward!" she corrected herself.

"You've started already, I guess!" chuckled Mr. Longears. "Well, anyhow, here I go!" and away he hopped over the hills and dales of the Orange Ice Mountains. Mr. Longears had not gone more than twenty sixteen hops before he saw a big Blue Jay, fluttering around a fence that had a large knothole in one of the boards. Every now and again the Blue Jay would fly off and come back with an acorn in his beak. He would thrust the acorn through the hole in the fence and yell:

"Hay! Hay! Hay!"

"What's the matter? What are you doing?" asked Uncle Wiggily, stopping to watch the Blue Jay. "What's the idea?" asked the rabbit.

"I'm trying to fill this hole with acorns," the Jay answered. "And it's keeping me busy. I never knew a small hole could hold so many acorns. Excuse me, but I've got to go pick up another," he added. "The snow has melted enough so I can gather the acorns now, but it may storm again soon and then I can't find any. And I've got to fill this hole."

Uncle Wiggily squinted through the knothole in the board fence and saw a big field on the other side.

"Come back here!" called the rabbit to the bird. "You can never fill this hole with acorns in a hundred years."

"Can't I?" shrieked the Jay. "How do you know?"

"Because I once read a story by a man named Mark Twain who told about a Blue Jay dropping acorns down through a hole in the roof of a barn," answered the rabbit. "That Jay didn't know the barn was almost as big as all outdoors, and if you'll take a look you'll see that you never could fill this fence hole with acorns. As fast as you put one in, it drops on the other side of the fence into the big field."

"Oh, so it does!" yelled the Jay, taking a look. "Well, I guess, then, I'm wasting my time. I know where there's a hollow tree I can fill, though, and I'll try that. I'm glad you told me about this."

"Don't mention it," said Uncle Wiggily politely as the Jay flew off. The rabbit gentleman was about to hope along when, all of a sudden, out of the bushed jumped the silly Bob Cat. I call him silly because the Bob Cat was always trying to think up ways of making his little tail grow longer.

"Ah, ha! I've caught you this time!" snarled the Bob Cat as he jumped toward Uncle Wiggily. The rabbit had to think quick and fast to play a trick on that silly Bob Cat. And, seeing the hole in the fence, Uncle Wiggily bethought himself of what to do.

"Look here, Mr. Bob Cat," spoke the rabbit sweetly. "Would you rather nibble my ears or have your tail grow longer?"

The Bob Cat thought for a moment and then growled: "I'd rather have my tail grow longer. It's so short I'm ashamed of it. But how can I get a longer tail?"

"See that knothole in the fence?" asked the rabbit. "Well, you back up there, stick your tail through the hole and wait. As soon as your tail grows longer pull it out."

"I will," said the Bob Cat. "Thank you for telling me." Eagerly he backed up to the fence and thrust his tail through the knothole. There he stood, patiently waiting. And Uncle Wiggily ran away, knowing that the Bob Cat, silly chap, would not leave the fence until his tail grew longer. And, of course, it never did—tails can't be made to grow long just by sticking them in a hole. Anyhow, the bunny got safely back to his bungalow, and the silly Bob Cat may be standing there yet, for all that I know.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1928.

Again the stars appear to smile on the planet Earth, according to astrology, which finds the dominant aspects kindly.

This is a day read as most suspicious for all sorts of entertainments, making for success in places of amusement.

It is a lucky day for social affairs of every sort and should be most favorable to ambitious plans.

They who wed under this direction of the stars are supposed to be fortunate, since they will prosper and their marriage bonds will not break easily.

Increase in the general desire to seek pleasure will be marked in this new year, the seers prophesy.

Warning is given that craving for novelties in the way of enjoyment is one of the most sinister signs of the time.

There is a sinister aspect held responsible for the outpouring of biographies and character studies that are not reassuring regarding personalities of men and women called "great."

Manufacturers of cosmetics are warned that the latest beauty cult is to discourage whatever is artificial and to stimulate natural ways to acquire or maintain good looks.

Long skirts soon are to typify the long-foretold reaction toward old-time modes and customs.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of many pleasures. Friends and relatives will be unusually kind and attentive, it is foretold.

SHE GAINED WEIGHT WITH McCOY'S COD LIVER EXTRACT TABLETS

You remember of course—not so long ago she was a regular scarecrow—skinny is a mild word for the way she looked.

Just look at her now—if ever a woman had a perfect figure she has it—she is the envy of half the girls in town.

It's nothing to get excited about—all she did was to take on weight—filled out the hollows in face, neck and chest—any skinny, weak, run down woman can do the same and gain a clean, clear complexion at the same time.

McCoy takes all the risk—Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking 4 sixty cent boxes of McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets or 2 one dollar boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—your druggist is authorized to return the purchase price.

Ask McDermid & Jury, Lynch's, Bond's and Giles' Drug Stores, or any good druggist.

Cleaning Soiled Woodwork is an easy matter if you put a teaspoonful of Gillex in a pail of water. Dirt just rolls off, practically without effort. Far less "elbow grease" is required than with ordinary cleansers. Gillex removes the grease and the dirt goes with it. Just try Gillex on the most soiled surface you can find. The test will make you want to use Gillex for all your cleaning.

PETERBOROUGH COUNTY BOY IS CALIFORNIA CATTLE KING

...ph Elmhirst, of Athlone, Raises Aberdeen Angus Breed.

BREEDS OWN STOCK.

Handles About 3,000 Head of Cattle on Ranch Near Merced.

The "cattle king" of the Athlone district, California, is an old Peterborough County boy, Joe Elmhirst, son of the late Joe Elmirst, and grandson of the Late Philip Elmhirst, of Otonabee Township. Mr. Elmhirst's mother is still living and resides with her daughter, Mrs. George Fowler in North Monaghan. An uncle, Mr. Arthur Elmhirst resides at Indian River. The Elmhirst family in Peterborough County have always been breeders of cattle and horses.

Fresno, California.

Known as the "cattle king" of the Athlone district in Merced county, Joe Elmhirst, for six years a resident, is pioneering in a new line in the beef cattle industry, the active production of Aberdeen-Angus cattle.

Mr. Elmhirst's herds of pure black animals on both sides of the Golden State highway, eight miles south of Merced, attract considerable notice from motorists traveling the route.

Until three years ago Elmhirst purchased most of his stock as calves and fattened them. But at that time, forseeing the day when prices would rise greatly, he directed his efforts toward becoming a breeder and producing his own stock. This year he has definitely accomplished this purpose.

He handles approximately 3,000 head of beef stock, mainly purebreds and registered Aberdeen-Angus and Herefords make up the number and all are handled by Elmhirst with the aid of two men. All of the animals are kept in the Valley, no mountain grazing land being utilized. Elmhirst leases 17,500 acres of pasture land to feed his herds.

Boost Black Cattle.

Elmhirst is quite enthusiastic about the black cattle and believes that they will achieve great popularity in this state as beef cattle. He believes that the breed has several slight advantages over Hereford stock.

The black cattle reach maturity and are finished off at the age of two years. A scrub will not finish off before three years, he says, and even then will weigh almost 200 pounds less than the mature Angus animal.

A test of the rapid maturing qualities of the Angus stock, he has placed two typical calves born January 8 in a separate field for grain feeding. Since birth the two calves have been fed on barley and pasture and have made an average gain of three pounds a day, weighing at present more than 880 pounds apiece. This test is also valuable, according to the rancher, as proof that grain feeding of beef stock is advantageous in that the two calves weigh almost 250 pounds apiece more than stock of the same age allowed to subsist on pasture alone.

Carcasses dress High.

Aberdeen-Angus carcasses dress a greater percentage of meat than other types, Elmhirst declares. The breed has won 23 of 25 first prizes in competition on carcass dressing at the International Livestock expositions in Chicago. An Aberdeen-Angus animal recently dressed 72 per cent in Denver, he said.

"Aberdeen-Angus cattle have won more prizes at stock shows in the United States than all others, I believe" Elmhirst declared.

The animals sell more readily to beef buyers than Herefords, he declared, basing his statement on actual comparison.

The average dressing percentage for Angus stock is from 45 to 48 for cows and from 50 to 60 for steers. The animals are bigger bodied than other types.

Black cattle put on more weight per pound of feed consumed, Elmhirst stated, as a conclusion reached after several tests. During the coming year, to further prove this conception, he plans to conduct an experiment in feeding between Hereford and Angus animals.

Quick turnover is one of his big principles for success with beef cattle. Very few animals are allowed to pass the age of two years when intended for beef. In the near future he intends to concentrate on the production of yearling baby beef.

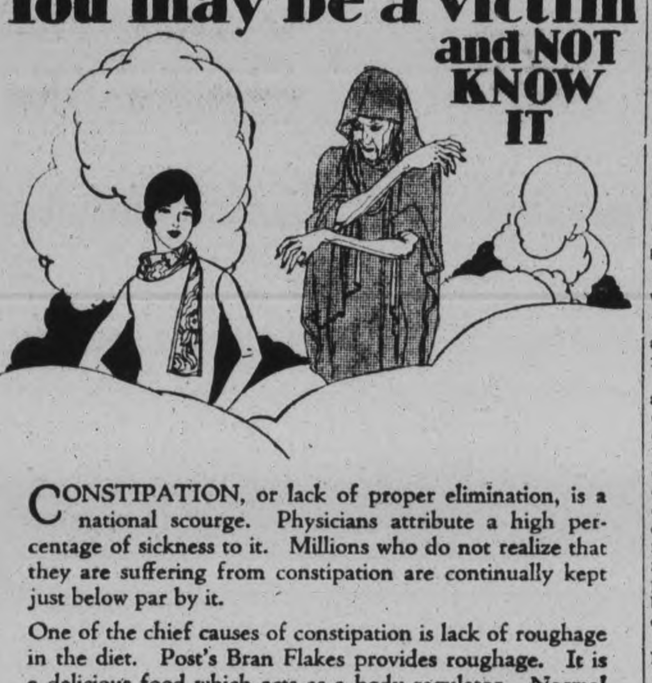
Recently Elmhirst secured seven young bulls from the Harrison stock farms at Woodland as a part of his scheme of maintaining his Aberdeen-Angus stock at a high level.

Hornlessness, a fixed characteristic of Aberdeen-Angus stock, is hailed by the Athlone rancher as a considerable factor in shipping. Bruising of the meat is reduced to a minimum. When crossed with other breeds, an Angus bull being used, the polled characteristic of the black cattle is almost invariably a characteristic of the crossbred animal.

MECHANICAL HAND DEVISED

After years of study, James Smith, a Scotchman, has invented a mechanical hand that will help the crippled. He says that with it "people who have lost one or both hands will be able to compete in the industrial market with those fully equipped by nature." By using it, clerks will be able to write and laborers to use pick and shovel, he declares. The device is made of white metal, possesses fingers and thumb of spiral wire, and a "grip" is given by merely stretching the arm.

There are approximately 85,000 automobile repair shops in the United States.



You may be a victim and NOT KNOW IT

CONSTIPATION, or lack of proper elimination, is a national scourge. Physicians attribute a high percentage of sickness to it. Millions who do not realize that they are suffering from constipation are continually kept just below par by it.

One of the chief causes of constipation is lack of roughage in the diet. Post's Bran Flakes provides roughage. It is a delicious food which acts as a body regulator. Normal persons who eat it every morning find it a safeguard against constipation. And because each crisp, golden flake is filled with tempting flavor you'll like to eat it every day.

Now You'll Like Bran

It is dangerous to experiment with patent medicines and drug laxatives. They bring only temporary relief and may make matters much worse. Ordinary cases of constipation caused by too little roughage in the diet should yield to Post's Bran Flakes. If your case is abnormal, don't experiment. Consult a competent physician.

Make this two weeks' test and note the difference

Constipation must not be neglected. Start a two weeks' test now. Order a package of Post's Bran Flakes from your grocer.

Start by eating a dish of Post's Bran Flakes for breakfast. Eat it as a cereal with milk or cream. You will be delighted with the crispness and the delicious flavor. You will find it as good as any cereal you ever tasted.

Do this every day for two weeks. We predict you will find a real difference in the way you feel and that you have been "regular" all the time.

But don't stop at the end of two weeks. Eat Post's Bran Flakes every morning for health and regularity.

Post's Bran Flakes is sold by all grocers in a wax-wrapped package. Ready to eat.

JOLLY JINGLES

ONCE A PUP WITH A VOICE RATHER FLITTY
WOW! WHAT A VOICE
SANG A SONG WHICH HE THOUGHT REAL PRETTY
TILL HIS VOICE, POORLY KEYED, BROUGHT AN EGG AT HIGH SPEED—
THAT'S GRATITUDE FOR YA!
WHICH ENDED HIS SWEET PLAINTIVE DITTY

Lyrics of Life - By Douglas Malloch

NOW AND HERE

Since earth is all I have to travel,
  Today is all I can control,
Why should I hurry to unravel
  Tomorrow's scroll?
I'll make the most of roadside beauties,
  I'll find whatever joy I can,
And, when the day brings heavier duties,
  Still play the man.

Since only love can give me pleasure,
  And love is all the heart can hold,
Why should I hunt for worldly treasure,
  For too much gold?
I'll look for treasure in men's laughter,
  In women's smiles, in children's glee,
Love here and now, not there and after
  In days to be

Since other years may bring me sorrow,
  A larger load, a harder way,
Why let the shadows of tomorrow
  Obscure today?
I shall not wait for phantom riches,
  Nor phantom troubles greatly fear,
But find the roses in the ditches,
  And now, and here.

EXPECT EARLY END TO STRIKE

Officials Believe Barcelona Workmen Return When Financial Reserve Limit Reached.

PROTEST INCOME TAX.

HENDAYE, France, Feb. 6 (A.P.).—The general strike of Barcelona workmen against the new income tax, which has practically tied up business in the Catalonian capital, is expected in government circles to end soon, when the strikers reach the limit of their meagre financial reserves.

Information reaching the border is that so far there has been no violence in connection with the protest against the government's effort to extend the income tax to laborers.

The numbers of workers leaving work is gradually increasing, but an attitude of passive resistance rather than violence has so far marked their conduct. Both employees and employers appear agreed that the government made a mistake in applying a new tax at this moment when it had just been announced that a national budget had been balanced and there was no need for further taxation.

Never in the history of Spain has a government, whether Conservative or Liberal, imposed a tax on laborers' earnings, because it has always been considered that their earning capacity was so small that they could not be called upon to pay direct income taxes. The majority of laborers have even escaped local municipal taxation as the apartments they rented for a hundred pesetas paid no taxes and most laborers occupied habitations of that class.

The new income tax reaches all laborers earning ten pesetas daily and there are a large number of these, as wages have gradually advance since the war.

The percentage payable by laborers is 3½ on incomes ranging from 3,250 pesetas upwards. Employers are compelled to deduct the tax from the labores' wages and remit it to the government.

Some Catalonian employers have offered to pay the tax for their men, but this was objected to because the majority of wage earners feel that the tax is unjust and point to government statistics which show that the wealthy class pay proportionately less on their incomes.

Thousands View Body In Chapel

EDINBURGH, Scotland, February 6 (Associated Press). — The young Earl Haig, who succeeds the famous Marshal to the title of nobility, learned only yesterday of his father's death last Monday. The young Earl has been seriously ill, and Lady Haig, his mother, on Saturday night came to Bemersyde, the Haig estate, to tell him the news that had been withheld.

The late Earl's body, lying in state at the Chapel of St. Giles' Cathedral, was supposed to be on view only between 2 and 5 yesterday afternoon, but such a vast crowd had accumulated before the opening hour that the Cathedral authorities decided to prolong the period until late at night, and curtail the evening services in the Cathedral while the public was passing the coffin.

The body will be moved back into the Cathedral to-day, where it rested on Friday and Saturday.

CHILDREN MEET TRAGIC DEATHS

Winnipeg Tribune Tells Story of Tragic Experiences in Northwest.

FROZEN TO DEATH.

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 6 (Canadian Press).—The Winnipeg Tribune in a story from Fort Smith, Northwest Territories, said Saturday that this section of the frozen north has experienced a winter of tragedy. Three children had met tragic deaths, the despatch stated.

"Dorothy, four-year-old daughter of William Pinsky, died yesterday from the effects of dog bites. While going to visit a friend, the child was attacked by police dogs from the post here, and was bitten and gashed in 60 places.

"An Indian woman, hearing the child's screams, ran to her assistance and managed to beat off the blood-maddened dogs with a club.

"The victim, suffering terribly, lingered for two weeks before death arrived.

"A school boy, playing in a basement wood chute, was struck on the head with a block of wood and died of his injuries. An Indian girl was the third victim. Standing too close to the fire in her father's tepee, her dress caught fire and she died later of shock.

"Joe Tarrangue, Fort Smith district trapper, lost all his possessions when fire destroyed his cabin. Tarrangue, without food or blankets, walked for four days to reach Fort Smith."

Coastguard Vessels Capture Rum-Runner

PROVIDENCE, R.I., Feb. 6 Canadian Press).—The schooner Minnie M., of New Bedford, Mass., loaded with 1,000 cases of whisky, wine and gin, said to have been brought from Nova Scotia, was captured and brought into Providence harbor Saturday night by coastguard vessels who had trailed the schooner from the Grand Banks. The schooner is valued at $75,000 and her liquor cargo at $50,000.

The schooner was captured off Woods Hole, Mass., after the CG-133 had trailed her for many days. Coastguard boats CG-241 and CG-288, based at Block Island, assisted in the capture after responding to radio calls from the other boat. The captain and five members of the schooner's crew were held by Federal officials for questioning.

When You Catch Cold Rub on Musterole

Musterole is easy to apply and works right away. It may prevent a cold from turning into "flu" or pneumonia. It does all the good work of grandmother's mustard plaster.

PERIOD OF GRACE IS EXTENDED YEAR

ANGORA, Turkey, Feb. 6 (Canadian Press).—Russian monarchists, who sought refuge in Turkey after the Bolshevik revolution, will have another year of grace to remain here in safety, due to the intervention of the League of Nations. Their period of grace was due to expire to-day, but in consequence of League negotiations, it has been extended twelve months for humanitarian motives.

Its Habits Produce Constipation which "Fruit-a-tives" Corrects

MONTREAL, Que.,—"After suffering many years from constipation, I was advised to try 'Fruit-a-tives.' All my ills are gone now." Mrs. H. Godin.

Indoor work, soft, rich foods, lack of exercise, impair our bodily functions. The most common evidence is constipation. Normal intestinal activity, denied to most of us by our way of living, is restored and maintained by "Fruit-a-tives", made of the juice of fresh, ripe fruit, blended with health building tonics.

DEBATERS FAVOR CANADA OVER U.S.

Castleton Young People Discuss Relative Opportunities of Two Countries.

WARKWORTH, Feb. 6.—At the Castleton Young People's meeting on Friday evening, January 27, a very interesting debate was delivered "Resolved that Canada offers greater opportunities for young people than the United States." The affirmative side was taken by Messrs. George Clarke and George Brown. The negative side was taken by Messrs. Hervie Welton and Everett Allan. The following arguments were presented by the affirmative.

Leader: Young people are considering beginning a new life in new lands. The United States is fully developed, while in Canada there are still vast stretches of virgin territory appealing to the ambitious settler. The United States has forty-three people to the square mile while Canada has only three people to the square mile. The financial standing in the National Exchequer gives Canada $9.30 per capita and $4.20 to United States. But the income of the country is derived from its mines forests, lands and fisheries. Canada is the greatest grain exporting country in the world. From field crops the income per capita was Canada $130.00, United States $12.00.

The farming advantages are greater in Canada because as yet only one sixth of the farm land is worked. The income per capita derived from livestock and dairying industry was, Canada $15.00, United States $9.00. The mining industry gave an equal value of $27.00, but the mining sections of United States are drained, while the mining industry of Canada is still in its infancy. There are untold mineral resources awaiting the prospector. It is said the surface of the country's mineral area has hardly been scratched

The fisheries gave a net income in Canada of $4.50 per capita as compared to $1.00 per capita in United States. The fur trade is completely shut out in United States. The tourist traffic netted $22.00 per capita from American tourists. After the Prince of Wales visited Canada in 1927 on his return to England, His Royal Highness said, "Canada as all of us must see, is on the threshold of one of the most astonishing eras of expansion and development ever seen. Exactly how long that will take none of us knows, but certainly it will occur in the lifetime of many of us."

Supporter: The immigration in 1924 was enormous from Canada to United States, but since then the departures have been fewer and the returns greater. The geographical position of Canada makes it great for opportunities as it is the centre for world markets. As it lies in the temperate zone the people are hardier and more ambitious. The tropical climate of United States spoils its trade and commerce. Canada has a better form of government. The United States Government is not a true democracy. In politics United States became dispirited to the world, she did not help properly in the world war and since the war she has exacted every pound of flesh from her debtor during the war. Law enforcement is better in Canada than in United States. There is much less crime committed. It is said that in Chicago there is a murder every day. Canada has a better system and a higher standard of education. The schools of United States for the most part are of the log cabin type. The intelligence test of the average American soldier was fourteen years. Canada has more religious advantages and the Lord's Day is much better observed. A review of the growth of nations shows that all nations north of the forty-ninth parallel of latitude remained firm while those of the south were of the mushroom growth.

Leader: "I am proud of the fact that I am a Canadian. Had I been born in America I would be proud to be an American citizen. The United States is not filled to saturation as we were led to believe. Florida has 17.4 people to the square mile, but there are sections of Canada which cannot be fully populated. When the Americans came to Canada they were dissatisfied and caused some of the upheaval of political parties. It is true the stock raising industry of Canada is great, but American buyers pay one-third more than Canadian buyers. The resources of United States were spoken of as being developed and that is all the more reason why America affords great opportunities to young people.

Canada has great mineral wealth, but American cars are transported into the mine and the American says to the Canadian worker, 'Dig in, who pays you?' United States has ideal climate conditions. No industry is held up by it. The leaders in the government are of high moral and religious standing, for example: Bryan, Roosevelt, Wilson, Coolidge. On Thanksgiving Day the President said, 'I beseech you on this Thanksgiving Day to give thanks to Almighty God who holds you in the hollow of His hand.' Every church in United States is self-supporting and has given such evangelists as D. L. Moody, Billy Sunday and Paul Raider. Young people have greater opportunities because of the restricted immigration.

Supporter: "My worthy opponents failed to mention the drift of tourists to Florida in the winter. The United States government wasn't flexible. United States saw liquor was not best for American citizens so it was restricted in the eighteenth amendment, which heaven and earth cannot remove Canada had a similar amendment, but Ferguson removed it. There are more opportunities in the industrial field and you cannot blame Canadian engineers for coming to United States, for they get better pay. American engineers developed the new Ford, and when it comes here they call it a Canadian car, but no Canadian engineer touched the car. It's the same with General Motors. The plans of all cars are made in United States. It is true the Canadian farmer has done tremendous things under tremendous difficulties, but United States gives a tariff which protects them, but the tariff in Canada is against.

"In the financial reports there is no comparison. New York stock markets control the world. United States is the wealthiest nation under the sun. United States gave great help in the war. Woodrow Wilson gave the peace sentence. If the world had listened to Wilson it would have been better to live in. When a student has completed his education here he is sent to Harvard or Columbus to finish. It is a recognized fact that United States education is higher than our own. The greatest leaders in religious education come from United States: Fostig, Cross, Harold Bell Wright. Modernism is the reformation of Protestantism. It will lead the world out of darkness and eventually lead the world to peace. It is the only outlook of the Protestant Church. It points the way forward."

Mr. Clarke —leader of the affirmative in his reply, contradicted nearly all the arguments advanced by the supporter of the negative side.

The judges awarded the decision to the affirmative side and when this decision was given the entire crowd seemed to feel like Pauline Johnson must have felt when she wrote:

"We first saw light in Canada the land beloved of God.
We are the pulse of Canada, its marrow
  and its blood.
And we, the men of Canada, can face
  the world and brag,
That we were born in Canada beneath
  the British Flag."

With a weight-lifting capacity of thirty passengers, probably the most powerful air liner in the world is being built in Scotland. It is an all-metal monoplane with a wing span of 140 feet.

The difference is easily explained!

OFTEN when you have asked to speak to a telephone in a distant city, connection is established while you remain at the telephone.

At other times you are told "the operator will call you," and you hang up and wait.

What makes the difference?

In the majority of cases, when you give "Long Distance" the number you want, she establishes the connection at once — there is practically no waiting. When she must look up the distant number, it of course takes time — you are recalled when your party has been reached.

Why not let us make up for you a list of the distant numbers you frequently call? This will enable you to give Long Distance the number when you place a call, and assure you speedy connection—usually while you remain at the telephone.

Our new high speed long distance service is very popular. It is almost as speedy as local service. The distant number is an important factor.

"Every Bell Telephone is a Long Distance Station."

A SERIOUS CONTENDER

Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, who is seen with his wife in the garden of their Washington home, is daily becoming a more serious contender for the Republican presidential nomination. Henry Ford declared: "Hoover is my candidate. You couldn't get a better man—a sound, able fellow and a hard worker. Work counts. Hoover does things." Hoover showed a great organization ability in the conduct of relief campaigns during the war and more recently among the Mississippi flood sufferers. Canadiens and Maroons Play Scoreless Game at Montreal

TEAMS BATTLE FOR FULL TIME WITHOUT COUNT

Les Canadiens Lose Many Golden Opportunities to Sink Tally.

GOALIES GOOD

Clean Hockey Feature of Saturday's Game in National League.

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 6. Canadian Press. — Canadiens and Maroons are still in a deadlock as far as the intra-city series series between the two clubs is concerned. The fourth game of the series played Saturday night, resulted in a scoreless draw. Each team had previous won one and tied one.

Saturday night's game, which attacted a capacity crowd of 14,000, was featured by sterling defense work by both teams. The defences were not air tight however and both teams, especially Canadiens and had many golden scoring opportunities. Hard luck and good goal tending by Benedict and Hainsworth however kept both nets clear and the teams were forced to split the points after 70 minutes of gruelling hockey.

Usually Maroon-Canadien games are partially featured by penalties, but with the exception of minor outbursts in the first period, Saturday night's struggle produced a strictly clean hockey.

In the initial sesion eight minors were handed out. Two and one respectively were the allotments in the second and third periods while one trip to the timers was made in the overtime session.

Morenz and Sibert each received three minors. Siebert's all coming in the first period. On two occasions he tripped Morenz when the latter had potential goals wthin his grasp. Each time Morenz managed to crack the tight Maroon defence by high flights of speed and was all but on top of the unprotected Benedict. Each time however Siebert managed to come apparently from nowhere to upset the Canuck speedster before the latter could get set to bank his drive on goal. It is quite within the realm of possibility that Siebert saved his team from defeat by his offences which while of a minor nature, were enough to give him three two minute rests.

The attacks launched by the Canadiens were more consistently dangerous than the Maroon offensive moves. In the latter part of the regular time and during the overtime play, the Maroon-shirted players showed signs of tiring, but a dogged defence held up well and the late attacks of Canadiens, although dangerous, did not prove effective.

During the latter part of the third period, the Canucks, taking advantage of a fast tiring opposition, showed signs of the form which made them the National hockey league's record-breaking team before their recent slump. Morenz and Joliat began to flash some of their true form. Once Morenz dashed right through and had Benedict at his mercy, only to hit the post with his fast backhand drive. Joliat had several splendid opportunities but either missed them or found it impossible to beat Benedict. Morenz, Joliat and Mantha were Canadiens' most consistent scoring threats Mantha proving a star both on the offensive and defensive. Ward looked best for the Maroons on the offensive although Siebert and Stewart both had several scoring possibilities offered them, but they could not beat Hainsworth.

Smith with his sweeping poke check starred on the defensive for the Maroons. Lepine at centre for the Canucks, is the same type of player, and a real poke-checking duel between the two ensued at centre ice. Canadiens, in an effort to come out of their slump, which reached three straight losses last Thursday, when they were beaten by the Toronto Leafs, started Pete Lepine at centre and shifted Morenz over to right wing in place of Gagne.

Summary.

First period, no score.
Penalties: Siebert 3, Morenz 2 Joliat, Ward Smith.
Second period, no score.
Penalties: Mantha, Stewart.
Third period, no score.
Penalties: Ward.
Overtime period, no score.
Penalties, Morenz.

SNOWSHOERS HOLD ANNUAL CONVENTION

Representatives of Canadian and American Clubs Gather at Montreal.

MONTREAL, February 6 (Canadian Press). — Twenty-five hundred snowshoers, representing 60 clubs throughout the eastern part of Canada and the United States, the vast majority of French-Canadian extraction, held their annual convention here over the week-end.

Rain with resultant slop and slippery roads and sidewalks greeted the visitors on Saturday, but yesterday was cold and crisp. The rain, however, stopped in time enough on Saturday night to allow perfect weather for the holding of a monster and demonstrative torchlight parade which ended at Lafontaine Park, where a magnificent display of fireworks was staged.

One feature of the convention, the holding of the world's snowshoe championships under the auspices of the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association, was staged during the rain on Saturday afternoon. The competitors raced over slush and boards, but nevertheless the races proved interesting.

Entrants from the M.A.A.A. won every event on the programme despite strenuous opposition from several out-of-town entrants from Quebec, Sherbrooke, and Lewiston, Me.

The keys of the city were presented to the visiting snowshoers on Saturday morning at the City Hall, a large and colorful contingent being present at the ceremony.

120 yards, hurdles—W. J. Montabone, M.A.A.A., won; J. Ducles, National A.A.A., second; time, 19 1-5.

100 yards — J. H. McKechenneay, M.A.A.A., won; J. O'Neill, M.A.A.A., second; H. K. Kelly, Montreal Club, Quebec, third; time 58.3. 12 2-5.

330 yards — S. A. Crites, M.A.A.A., won; D. Crites, M.A.A.A., second; G. Barrie, National A.A.A., third; time, 2.34 3-5.

220 yards — W. J. Montabone, M.A.A.A., won; L. Gengron, Gounod Club, Sherbrooke, second; R. Couillard, Montagnard Club, Lewiston, Me., third; time, .33 3-5.

One mile — Frankton, M.A.A.A., won; Clouette, National A.A.A., second; Picard, Loretteville, third; time, 5.38 2-5.

440 yards — G. Crites, M.A.A.A., won; D. Crites, M.A.A.A., second; C. Weir, M.A.A.A., third; time, 1.08.

PIRATES TAKE 4-2 VICTORY

SCORES THREE GOALS

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 6.—(Canadian Press.)—The excellent playing of Harold Cotton, left wing, Saturday night, gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 4 to 2 victory over the New Rangers in a National Hockey League contest. Cotton made a goal in each of the three periods and Bib Milks, centre, put across the fourth tally in the last period. Bun Cook, Ranger left wing, scored the two markers for his team, registering in the first and second periods. A packed rink saw the contest.

BATTLE TO TIE.

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 6.— (Canadian Press.)—The Kansas City Plamors and the Duluth Hornets battled to their second consecutive 1 to 1 tie in an American Hockey Association game here Saturday night. Munroe scored for the Plamors on a pass from Dunfield, and Goodman accounted for the Duluth score, unassisted.

BEAVERS DEFEATED.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Feb. 6.—(Canadan Press.)—Before a crowd of 7,000 here Saturday night the Springfield Indians defeated the Quebec Beavers in a Canadian-American League game by a 1 to 0 score. The lone tally of the contest came after two minutes of play in the second overtime period, Vail getting the puck from scrimmage behind the Quebec goal and shooting it through La Montagne from a point two feet to the left of the Beaver cage.

The game was one of the fastest seen here this season and up until the overtime sessions, the Quebecers had a slight edge. The work of the rival goalie was excellent. It was the first defeat Quebec has suffered since losing at Providence on January 14. The victory moved Springfield to within four points of the league leading Boston Tigers.

SPEAKER SIGNED WITH ATHLETICS

Veteran Ball Player Will Report for Spring Training on March 1.

SATISFIED WITH TERMS

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (Canadian Press)—Tris Speaker has signed with the Philadelphia Athletics for the next baseball campaign. The veteran outfielder in-pilot of the Cleveland Indians made known here last night.

Speaker arrived here yesterday afternoon from the Sounth, where he had been engaged on a hunting trip. He said he had been in touch with Connie Mack, manager of the Athletics, since receiving his release from the Washington Senators.

"I spoke with Connie over the long distance telephone at Plymouth, Fla., late yesterday afternoon and we agreed on terms," Speaker said. "I will report to the Athletics at Fort Myers for Spring training on March 1."

Speaker has been one of the eight highest-salaried players in baseball. It was understood his contract with the Senators last year called for a sum between $40,000 and $50,000. The Washington club served notice on Speaker recently that it would not be in a position to pay him a like figure, and as a result of a disagreement on terms, "Spoke" forthwith received his release.

"I'm satisfied with the terms, and so is Connie Mack," Speaker replied in answer to a query over salary terms.

Brothers Compete For Ski Honors

RED WING, Minn., Feb. 2 Canadian Press).—Two brothers, one the old champion, fought it out in the cross country ski run for the national championship here as a side attraction to the national ski tournament.

Magnus Satre is the new titleholder. His time for the eight-mile course was one hour, seven minutes and ten seconds. Finishing second by one minute and thirty-six seconds was John Satre, who won the title last year.

The brothers are from the Salisbury Outing Club of Salisbury, Conn.; a third brother, Olaf, was placed fifth.

SPORT BITS

WINS SECOND ROUND.

BERLIN, February 6 (Canadian Press). — K. Helling, of Germany, beat L. Steiner, of Hungary, in the second round of the international chess masters tournament at the Berlin Chess Club yesterday.

Germany was less successful in other games as Nimzewitsch, of Denmark, beat B. Koch, of Germany, F. Johner, of Switzerland, beat P. S. Leonhardt, of Germany, and Dr. S. Tartakower, of France, defeated E. D. Bogoljubow, of Germany.

TAKES FIRST HONORS.

CANNES, France, February 6 (Associated Press). — The three kilometer hurdles, paying 125,000 francs, was won yesterday by A. Kalley's Orange Pip, which was heavily backed and paid only thirteen for ten.

J. Barre's Kiva was second and R. Dornaletche's Cote Devoire was third. There were eleven starters.

WINS TOURNEY.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Feb. 6 (Canadian Press). — Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, for eight times the nation's tennis champion, on Saturday captured the Brooklyn Heights invitation tournament singles for the eighth time. She overwhelmed Miss Eleanor Goss, Newark veteran, in the final round, taking eight games in a row to win by scores of 6-4, 6-0 after a close fight in the first set.

Canadian Drivers Prepare For Derby

NORTH CONWAY, NH., Feb. 6.—(Canadian Press.)— The pick of Canada's sled dog drivers, the "big three" from The Pas, Man., pulled into town Saturday to begin final training for the third annual point to point race of the New England Sled Dog Derby next Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Plenty of snow on the ground, United States veterans and the soft-voiced dog wizard of Alaska, Leonard Seppala, hero of the anti-toxin dash to Nome three years ago.

They will battle over a 15 mile hill and dale course for cash prizes totalling $2,300.

Plenty of sonw on the ground, with more forecast in the next few days to cover icy spots, indicate good footing over the new course from this town to Laconia, to Wolfeboro and Wolfeboro back to North Conway. Part of the run, weather permitting, will lie across the frozen wastes of Lake Winnepesaukes.

The Canadian contingent includes the two youngsters of The Pas, Emil St. Goddard and Earl Bridges, and Shorty Russick diminutive fur trader, whose proper home lies 300 miles north of The Pas.

RECORD CROWD AT EVERTON GAME

Estimated 51,000 People See English League Teams Clash at Huddersfield.

LONDON, England, Feb. 6 (Canadian Press Cable).—Soccer football matches in the English League Saturday were played on wet grounds generally. The great attraction on the fixtures was the battle between Huddersfield Town and Everton at Huddesfield which drew 51,000 people, a record for the grounds. Huddersfield were clearly superior as a whole team to Everton, whose great centre forward, Dean, saved them from a whitewash by a clever goal he secured. At half time Huddersfield led by three goals to one, Smith netting twice and Dent once for the Yorkshiremen. In the second half Smith completed his hat-trick. Portsmouth never had a look-in at Leicester. The Leicester City team had them three goals down at the interval through the tallies of Lochhead, Hine and Chandler. After the turn round Barry, Lochhead and Chandler hit the target for Leicester City, while Watson bagged a brace of counters for Portsmouth. tI was a happy day for the great local crowd who jammed themselves into the grounds of Newcastle United to see the cup-holders, Cardiff City, blanked. Newcastle got both their markers in the first half through McKay and Wilkinson. West Ham United gave a sterling performance when they beat Liverpool on their own grounds and collected a couple of much-needed points through pre-interval goals by Ruffell and Watson. Ruffell registered again late on in the second half just after Romeo had got a penalty for Liverpool. Arsenal and Derby County played a well-contested match, the latter having the advantage at half time through a successful scoring effort by Gill. After the turn round Drain put the Arsenal in front by two quick goals. Then Gill equalized, Crook netted, and Gill's boot into the net ten minutes from time gave Derby County the victory. Through Brain, Fulham beat Wolverhampton Wanderers in a second division game by the extraordinary score of seven to nothing. Elliott did the hat-trick, Temple got two, while McKenna and Craig did their little bit. Forler's two counters gave Swansea the victory over Port Vale.

West Bromwich Albion and Chelsea were deadlocked at half time with no score. The Albion took control of the match after that and Short scored twice and Barter once.

Broadbent and Whipp gave Clapton Orient their advantage over Barnsley. In the game between Manchester City and Notts Forest the goal which tied up the score at which it remained till the finish was secured by Austin of Manchester from a penalty kick.

In the third division there was some fine individual efforts. Bowen, formely with the Arsenal, now with Northampton; Clarke of the Crystal Palace; Andrews of Lincoln; McDonald of Brandford, and Cunson of Wrexham all did the hat-trick.

Canadian Boxers Will Enter Tourney

NEW YORK, N.Y., Feb. 6.—(Canadian Press.) — Headed by Frederick Taylor, Canadian inter-collegiate heavyweight champion from McGill University, Montreal, an amateur boxing team representing the Dominion will compete against the stars of New York, Boston, Buffalo, Philadelphia and New Haven, Conn., in an international intercity tournament at Madison Square Garden next Saturday night

Taylor tentatively has been matched with George Hoffman, national light heavyweight champion and metropolitan heavyweight titleholder, in one of the main bouts of the card.

PAYSON WINS BERMUDA TITLE

Miss Ada Mackenzie Defeated 3 and 2 in 36-Hole Final Round.

PLAYS STEADY GOLF

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Feb. 6 (Canadian Press).—Miss Helen Payson of Portland, Me., won the women's annual Bermuda golf championship here Saturday by vanquishing Miss Ada Mackenzie of Toronto, former Canadian titleholder, by 3 and 2 in the 36-hole final round.

Miss Mackenzie started unsteadily, putting badly with the hooking irons, and only won two holes in the morning round. She displayed better form during the final 18 holes, but Miss Payson steadily clung to her advantage. At the end of the morning round, Miss Payson took a 38 going out and returned in 44, while Miss Mackenzie had a 40 out and came in with a 37.

For the afternoon course, Miss Payson was out in 38 and came home with two over 4's. Miss Mackenzie scored a 37 on the outward journey and had two over 4's returning.

Miss Mackenzie's chances were ruined when she took three putts on the first and eleventh and struck a water hazard on the tenth and twelfth. Miss Payson was 3 up at the 5th, lost the 7th, and was two up on the turn. She won the next three and lost the eighteenth. In the afternoon Miss Payson won the first two holes and the sixth to become seven up. She lost the seventh, eighth and ninth, which Miss Mackenzie played brilliantly. The Portland golfer won the tenth and lost three in succession, making her but two up, but she then won the sixteenth.

VETERANS LOSE RACQUETS TITLE

Pell and Mortimer Defeated by English Team for Championship.

THREE TO ONE

NEW YORK, N.Y., Feb. 6 (Canadian Press).—Clarence C. Pell and Stanley G. Mortimer of New York, Saturday lost the national racquets doubles title they have held since 1915, when they were defeated in the final round by the English team of J. F. Simpson and G. N. Bruce.

Playing sensationally, the British team won, three games to one, 16—18, 15—8, 15—11, 15—8.

MADOC BEATS MARMORA H.S.

Interscholastic Game at Madoc Keenly Contested—Rough at Times.

MADOC, Feb. 6. — Madoc High school hockey team played Marmora team on Thursday night on their home rink. The game was late in starting, owing to the heavy roads which made the visitors late in arriving.

At the end of the first period the score was 2-0 for Madoc. During the second period, neither team succeeded in scoring, though the play was strenuous and often very rough. Many penalties were handed out to both teams, but none of the players was seriously hurt. The third period was played after eleven o'clock, and the cold was intense. Marmora succeeded in scoring the last goal, making the final score 2-1 in Madoc's favor.

This is the fourth game to be played by the Madoc boys in the Interscholastic series, making the record three games won and one lost.

The winner in this series plays Stirling for the Whitty Cup, which Madoc H. S. boys won last year for the second time.

Team Has Hard Trip.

Madoc senior hockey team started to go to Tweed on Wednesday evening. They got there, but very late, after literally digging their way through. They were game, however, and prepared to play, even though it was after midnight, and after putting up a hard fight were defeated 2-1. It was after one o'clock when they left the ice, and deciding to leave their cars, they took the train for Ivanhoe, only to find that the Madoc-Ivanhoe bus had been unable to get through, and some of the boys undertook to walk the distance to Madoc, rather than wait the arrival of quicker transportation. At that they arrived in Madoc some hours before their comrades, who awaited the arrival of the noon stage. This trip will be one of their "pictures of memory" for some time.

BOROTRA WINS TITLE.

TORONTO TIED WITH OTTAWA

Leafs Defeat Detroit to Climb Into Second Place in League.

HAWKS WIN AT LAST.

TORONTO, February 6. — The Maple Leafs jumped up into a tie for second place in the Canadian group of the National Hockey League on Saturday night when their 2 to 0 victory over the Detroit Cougars at the Arena put them on even terms with the Ottawa Senators on the second rung of the ladder. The win also gave them the edge on Jack Adams' club so far this season, and with only one game to play the locals cannot finish with worse than an even break with the Cougars. As far as winning of games and the improvement of their position in the struggle for a play-off berth for the group standing, the result was most satisfactory, and in gaining the two points the Leafs outplayed the visitors even more than the two-goal margin indicates. The victory was the locals' first shut-out this season.

BLACK HAWKS WIN.

NEW YORK, N.Y., February 6. — The Chicago Black Hawks broke into the win column for the first time since January 18, when they trounced the casualty-ridden New York Americans in the battle of tailenders of the National Hockey League here last night by the score of 6 to 0. The Hawks got two goals in each period, each pair coming within a minute or so of each other. McKay scored twice, and Moran, Keats, Lafrance, and McVeigh one each.

OLYMPICS WIN.

DETROIT, Mich., February 6.—Detroit Olympics became lone leaders of the Canadian Pro. Hockey League here last night when they handed another jolt to the desperate Windsor Hornets, 4 to 1. Two or three thousand Border Cities fans followed their team across the river and saw them go down to defeat before the smart hirelings of Percy Lesueur.

CARSON RESTS FAIRLY EASILY

Hockey Star Believed To Have Suffered Severe Concussion

IN GAME ON SATURDAY.

TORONTO, February 6 (Canadian Press).—Dr. Bill Carson, one of the famous hockey playing family, spent a good night in St. Michael's Hospital and to-day was resting fairly easily with a damaged skull sustained in the Toronto-Detroit National Hockey League game here Saturday night. Stitches were required to close the gash in Carson's head, and it is feared he has sustained a fairly serious conclussion of the brain. Carson bumped into Traub, of Detroit, in the second period of the game, and, in falling, his head struck the ice with terrific force.

FATES UNKIND TO EARL SHEELY

Bad Job of Bone Setting Slowed the Great Infielder.

LED TO HIS RELEASE.

BY BILLY EVANS

Earl Sheely, for seven years first baseman for the Chicago White Sox, has been sent to the Sacramento club of the Pacific Coast League. For so doing, Chicago, it is understood, gets the option on that club as to selection of players at the close of the season.

Fate was unkind to Earl Sheely or he would be starring in the big leagues for at least five years more. Fate came into the picture back in 1912, his first year in professional baseball. An unkind act of fate that year has been a terrific handicap ever since, yet Sheely carried on to great success.

While with Vancouver during the season of 1912, Sheely suffered a broken ankle. Whoever had charge of the injury certainly bungled the job, for Sheely's leg at the ankle assumed an almost grotesque line.

Naturally such a bad job of bone-setting prevented free action at the ankle and slowed Sheely up badly. This was far more noticeable on the bases than in the field—here his great height—six feet four inches—helped cover up the defect as to covering ground.

Sheely first came into national prominence at Salt Lake in the Coast League back in 1916. Despite four good seasons, he always batted over .300, but the leg injury caused the scouts to pass him up because of lack of speed. However, a fat mark of .371 amassed in 1919 caused the Chicago White Sox to take a chance. He has been with that club ever since. Last season, a youngster, "Bud" Clancy, was given the preference at first base, which marked the beginning of the end for Sheely as a big leaguer.

Over 22 years I have been watching closely the star first sackers of the majors. I have seen wonders in Hal Chase, George Sisler, "Stuffy" McInnis, Frank Chance and others of that caliber, yet in two respects Sheely was without an equal.

During all that time, I never saw a first baseman who could compare with Sheely in making plays with the gloved hand. He is simply uncanny.

Stabbing the ball with the gloved hand, as the runner comes crashing into the first baseman, is a play at which Sheely had no equal. It is one of baseball's most difficult plays.

His other strong point was taking high or low throws. There never was a better target for the other infielders. Of course, his great height, was a big asset on the widly thrown balls, but on low balls, digging 'em out of the dirt on the short hop, he was equally proficient.

Always a .300 batsman, Sheely was a wonder on the hit-and-run play. With his wide range, due to an extra long pair of arms, it was exceedingly difficult to pitch out on him in an attempt to outguess the hit-and-run play. In some way, he would manage to hit the ball and very often safely.

The majors will miss the passing of a player of Earl Sheely's caliber, because his standards off the field were as high as his play on the diamond. Earl Sheely was a real ball player and a gentleman.

Fate was mighty unkind to him. Only for that broken ankle, which slowed him up terribly on the bases, he would still be a big league star.

A Georgian Home

Geo. T. Evans, Architect.

The charming refinement of the Georgian style here illustrated is expressed to perfection without the aid of much expensive detail. That which has been employed, however, is beautifully emphasized by the contrast between its plain white surface and the red rug brick walls.

First among the features to greet the observer is the tiled vestibule with the commodious lighted coat closet. The living room, which is large and bright, has one end wall occupied by a fireplace flanked by bookcases and a high window, on each side.

Notice the provision of a special cupboard to contain table leaves. This eliminates the problem, not usually very satisfactorily solved, of keeping them readily accessible. Notice, too, the ample cupboard space in the kitchen and combination breakfast nook and pass pantry, the refrigerator in the rear entry, and the provision of both outside and inside basement stairs.

On the upper floor are three bedrooms, a tiled bath equipped with built-in bath and pedestal basin, a separate toilet, den connected with a rear balcony, and abundant closet space, including a built-in wardrobe in the owner's room.

This home exclusive of lot, cost approximately $8,800.

Readers desiring further information regarding a house of this design should communicate with MacLean Builders' Guide, 345 Adelaide St. West, Toronto, Ont., who will see that it is supplied. When writing please mention design number 110. Copyright, 1928.

London May Be Next Battle Site

NEW YORK, N.Y., Feb. 6 (Canadian Press). — London maybe the battle site of a world's heayweight champion this year.

Promoter Tex Rickard, in a telegram from Miami Beach, Fla., Saturday, told his assistant, John A. Chapman, at Madi. Square Garden, to prepare for a voyage across the foam.

Chapman said the message required him ("to look over the situation in London." Chapman stated a bout abroad might develop for the Fall.

Rickard is due back at the Garden on February 4, and Chapman is scheduled to sail on March 15.

VAIN SOCIETY GIRL IS DISILLUSIONED IN "VANITY"

Peacocks were not more conceited than Barbara Fiske. Nor was the splendor of their plumage more dazzling. But Barbara learned the futility of externals on ther wedding eve.

"Vanity," Cecil B. DeMille's new starring vehicle for Leatrice Joy, is the story of a girl reared along Social Register lines. Carefully sheltered from the brutal forces of life, believing implicitly in the rules of the games as dictated by her friends, she is quite incapable of understanding that there are other standards for other people.

On the evening before her wedding Barabara ,acting upon impulse, visits the catpain of a tramp steamer whom she had met during the war, and sees a man killed before her eyes. She understands at last that environment can change all things, that culture vanishes when confronted with fundamental situations—and that the one all-powerful law is that of survival before which all else fades into insignificance.

It is a big story brilliantly filmed under the direction of Donald Crisp. Miss Joy as Barbara Fiske is the smart debutante incarnate. Superbly does she meet the strenuous demands of her role with the natural poise and grace of the finished actress which she is. "Vanity," now playing at the Regent theatre, marks her return to the strong drama in which she first achieved success.

Charles Ray, playing opposite her as her fiance, has a part totally at variance with those he has previously essayed.

PILES GO QUICK

Piles are caused by congestion of blood in the lower bowel. Only an internal remedy can remove the cause. That's why salves and cutting fail. Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid, a harmless tablet, succeeds because it relieves this congestion and strengthens the affected parts. Hem-Roid has given quick, safe and lasting relief to thousands of Pile Sufferers. It will do the same for you or money back. McDermid & Jury, Bond's Drug Store and druggists everywhere sell Hem-Roid with this guarantee.

In the World's Series of 1920 Elmer Smith of the Cleveland Indians covered himself with glory by making a home run with the bases full.

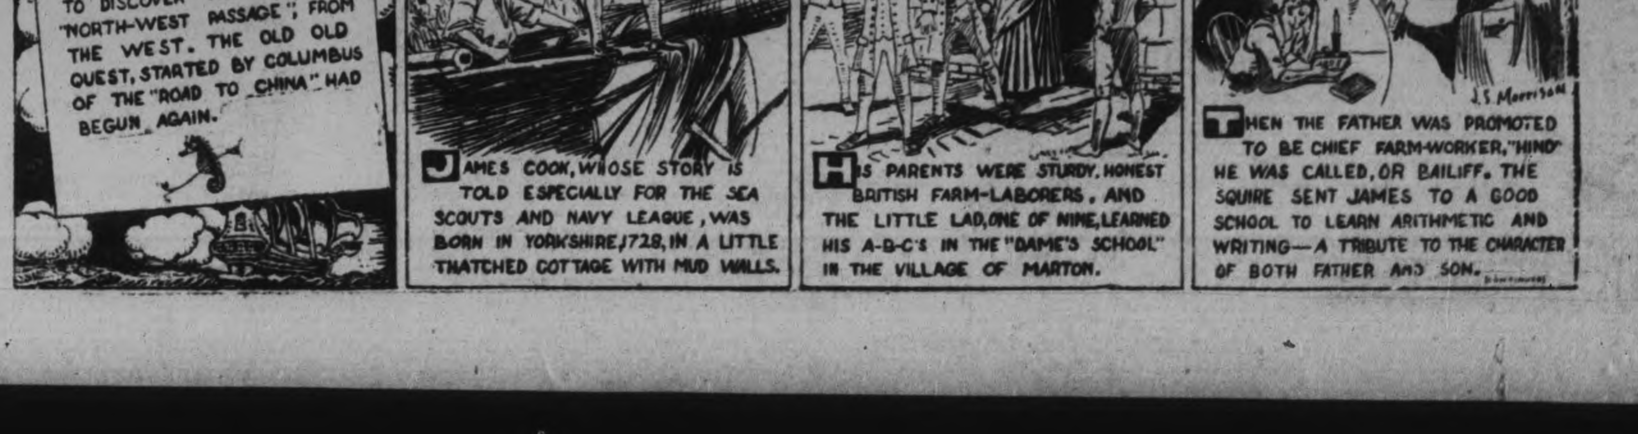
THIS CANADA OF OURS by J. S. Morrison & Maude Morrison Stone. - - - - The Story of James Cook



THE STORY OF CANADA'S WESTERN COAST PRACTICALLY STARTS WITH THE THIRD VOYAGE OF CAPTAIN COOK. KING GEORGE III SENT HIM TO DISCOVER THE FAMOUS "NORTH-WEST PASSAGE", FROM THE WEST. THE OLD OLD QUEST, STARTED BY COLUMBUS OF THE "ROAD TO CHINA" HAD BEGUN AGAIN.
JAMES COOK, WHOSE STORY IS TOLD ESPECIALLY FOR THE SEA SCOUTS AND NAVY LEAGUE, WAS BORN IN YORKSHIRE, 1728, IN A LITTLE THATCHED COTTAGE WITH MUD WALLS.
HIS PARENTS WERE STURDY, HONEST BRITISH FARM-LABORERS, AND THE LITTLE LAD, ONE OF NINE, LEARNED HIS A-B-C'S IN THE "DAME'S SCHOOL" IN THE VILLAGE OF MARTON.
THEN THE FATHER WAS PROMOTED TO BE CHIEF FARM-WORKER, "HIND" HE WAS CALLED, OR BAILIFF. THE SQUIRE SENT JAMES TO A GOOD SCHOOL TO LEARN ARITHMETIC AND WRITING—A TRIBUTE TO THE CHARACTER OF BOTH FATHER AND SON.

THE WORLD OVER, Miss Irma Schubert tells us, smiles are growing brighter, teeth healthier, by the film-removing dentifrice, Pepsodent

Glorious White Teeth

Are Dull Teeth Freed of Dingy Film

NOW science restores dull teeth to dazzling whiteness.

It's been found that dingy teeth come from a film that forms on teeth. A stubborn film ordinary dentifrices do not successfully remove. That's why brushing fails you.

Run your tongue across your teeth and you can feel that film now—a sort of slippery coating.

It absorbs discolorations from food, smoking, etc. It invites tooth decay, gum troubles and is the chief cause of pyorrhea because it breeds bacteria and is the basis of tartar.

Now, in a new-type dentifrice called Pepsodent, scientific combatants are found. Leading dentists widely urge it. All druggists have it. Test free.

THE "CANARY" MURDER CASE

by S. S. VAN DINE AUTHOR of THE BENSON MURDER CASE

© Charles Scribner's Sons

THE STORY THUS FAR

Spotswoode had gone out with the "Canary" the evening of the murder. When he left, he asked Jessup, on the switchboard, to call a cab. "Then," said Jessup, "we heard Miss Odell scream. We ran to her door and she called through it that everything was all right." But the next morning she was found strangled. Cleaver, known to be an intimate of the girl, is questioned but provides an alibi. He mentions Dr. Lindquist, who orders Markham out of his house when the latter questions him as to his whereabouts the evening of the murder.

CHAPTER XIX.

Vance shook his head in a mock discouragement.

"Really, y' know, Markham, old thing," he added, "you should study the cranial indications of your fellow men more carefully. Did you, by any chance, note the gentleman's wide rectangular forehead, his irregular eyebrows, and pale luminous eyes, and his outstanding ears with their thin upper rims, their pointed tragi and split lobes? . . . A clever devil, this Ambroise—but a moral imbecile. Beware of those pseudo-pyriform faces, Markham; leave their Apollonian Greek suggestiveness to misunderstood women."

"I wonder what he really knows?" grumbled Markham irritably.

"Oh, he knows something—rest assured of that! And if only we knew it, too, we'd be considerably further along in the investigation. Furthermore, the information he is hiding is somewhat unpleasantly connected with himself. His euphoria is a bit shaken. He frightfully overdid the grand manner; his valedict'ry fulmination was the true expression of his feeling toward us."

"Yes," agreed Markham. "That question about last night acted like a petard. What prompted you to suggest my asking it?"

"A number of things—his gratuitous and obviously mendacious statement that he had just read of the murder; his wholly insincere homily on the sacredness of professional confidences; the cautious and Pecksniffian confession of his fatherly regard for the girl; his elaborate struggle to remember when he had last seen her—this particularly, I think, made me suspicious; and then, the psychopathic indicants of his physiognomy."

"Well," admitted Markham, "the question had its effect. . . I feel that I shall see this fashionable M.D. again."

"You will," iterated Vance. "We took him unawares. But when he has had time to ponder the matter and concoct an appealin' tale, he'll become downright garrulous. . . . Anyhow, the evening is over, and you can meditate on buttercups till the morrow."

But the evening was not quite over as far as the Odell case was concerned. We had been back in the lounge-room of the club but a short time when a man walked by the corner in which we sat, and bowed with formal courtesy to Markham. Markham, to my surprise, rose and greeted him, at the same time indicating a chair.

"There's something further I wanted to ask you, Mr. Spotswoode," he said, "if you can spare a moment."

At the mention of the name I regarded the man closely, for, I confess, I was not a little curious about the anonymous escort who had taken the girl to dinner and the theater the night before. Spotswoode was a typical New England aristocrat, inflexible, slow in his movements, reserved, and quietly but modishly dressed. His hair and mustache were slightly gray—which, no doubt, enhanced the pinkness of his complexion. He was just under six feet tall, and well proportioned, but a trifle angular.

Markham introduced him to Vance and me, and briefly explained that we were working with him on the case, and that he had thought it best to take us fully into his confidence.

Spotswoode gave him a dubious look, but immediately bowed his acceptance of the decision.

"I'm in your hands, Mr. Markham," he replied, in a well-bred but somewhat high-pitched voice, "and I concur, of course, with whatever you think advisable." He turned to Vance with an apologetic smile. "I'm in a rather unpleasant position, and naturally feel a little sensitive about it."

"I'm something of an antinomian," Vance pleasantly informed him. "At any rate, I'm not a moralist; so my attitude in the matter is quite academic."

Spotswoode laughed softly.

"I wish my family held a similar point of view; but I'm afraid they would not be so tolerant of my foibles."

"It's only fair to tell you, Mr. Spotswoode," interposed Markham, "that there is a bare possibility I may have to call you as a witness."

The man looked up quickly, his face clouding over, but he made no comment.

"The fact is," continued Markham, "we are about to make an arrest, and your testimony may be needed to establish the time of Miss Odell's return to her apartment, and also to substantiate the fact that there was presumably some one in her rooms after you had left. Her screams and calls for help, which you heard, may prove vital evidence in obtaining a conviction."

Spotswoode seemed rather appalled at the thought of his relations with the girl becoming public, and for several minutes he sat with averted eyes.

"I see your point," he acknowledged at length. "But it would be a terrible thing for me if the fact of my delinquencies became known."

"That contingency may be entirely avoided," Markham encouraged him. "I promise you that you will not be called upon unless it is absolutely necessary . . . And now, what I especially wanted to ask you is this do you happen to know a Doctor Lindquist who I understand, was Miss Odell's personal physician?"

Spotswoode was frankly puzzled. "I never heard the name," he answered. "In fact, Miss Odell never mentioned any doctor to me."

"And did you ever hear her mention the name of Skeel . . or refer to any one as Tony?"

"Never." His answer was emphatic.

Markham lapsed into a disappointed silence. Spotswoode, too, was silent he sat as if in a revery.

"You know, Mr. Markham," he said, after several minutes, "I ought to be ashamed to admit it, but the truth is I cared a good deal for the girl. I suppose you've kept her apartment intact . . ." He hesitated, and a look almost of appeal came into his eyes. "I'd like to see it again if I could."

Markham regarded him sympathetically, but finally shook his head.

"It wouldn't do. You'd be sure to be recognized by the operator—or there might be a reporter about—and then I'd be unable to keep you out of the case."

The man appeared disappointed, but did not protest; and for several minutes no one spoke. Then Vance raised himself slightly in his chair.

"I say, Mr. Spotswoode, do you happen to remember anything unusual occurring last night during the half-hour you remained with Miss Odell after the theater?"

"Unusual?" The man's manner was eloquent of his astonishment. "To the contrary. We chatted a while, and then, as she seemed tired, I said good night and came away, making a luncheon appointment with her for today."

"And yet, it now seems fairly certain that some other man was hiding in the apartment when you were there."

"There's little doubt on that point," agreed Spotswoode, with the suggestion of a shudder. "And her screams would seem to indicate that he came forth from hiding a few minutes after I went."

"And you had no suspicion of the fact when you heard her call for help?"

"I did at first—naturally. But when she assured me that nothing was the matter, and told me to go home, I attributed her screams to a nightmare.

"I knew she had been tired, and I had left her in the wicker chair near the door, from where her screams seemed to come; so I naturally concluded she had dozed off and called out in her sleep. . . If only I hadn't taken so much for granted!"

"It's a harrowin' situation," Vance was silent for a while; then he asked "Did you, by any chance, notice the door of the living-room closet? Was it open or closed?"

Spotswoode frowned, as if attempting to visualize the picture; but the result was a failure.

"I suppose it was closed. I probably would have noticed it if it had been open."

"Then you couldn't say if the key was in the lock or not?"

"Good Lord, no! I don't even know if it ever had a key."

The case was discussed for another half-hour; then Spotswoode excused himself and left us.

"Funny thing," ruminated Markham, "how a man of his upbringing could be so attracted by the empty-headed, butterfly type."

"I'd say it was quite natural," returned Vance. . . "You're such an incorrigible moralist, Markham."

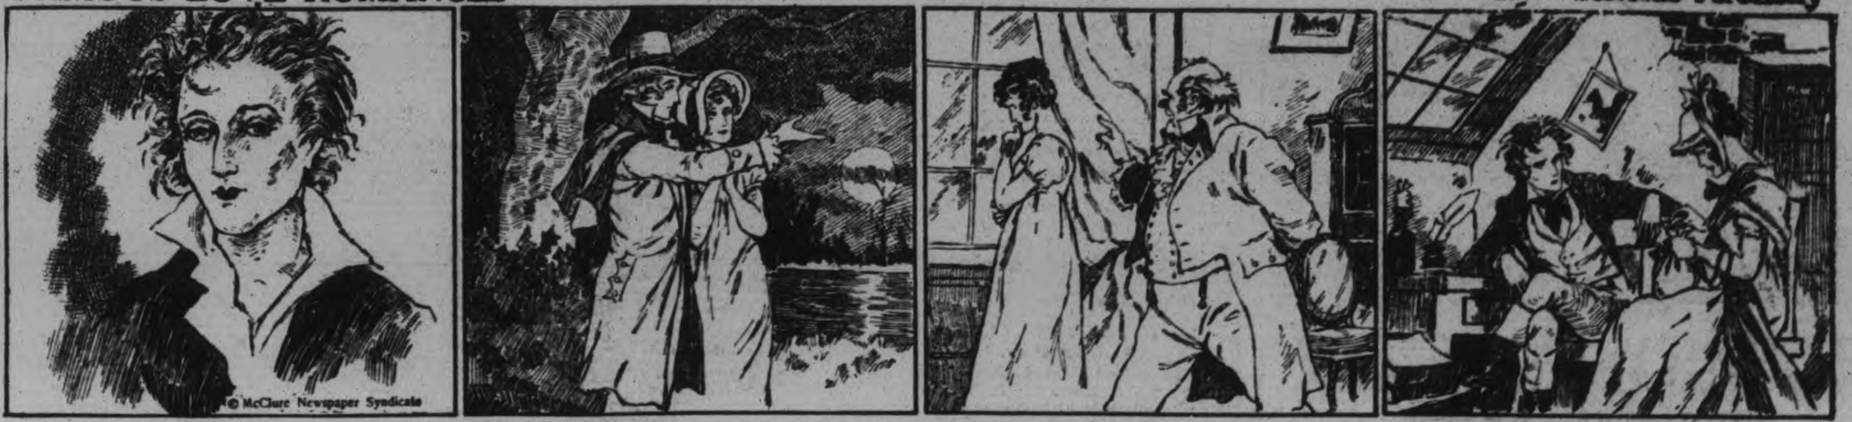
FAMOUS LOVE ROMANCES

Shelley and Mary Godwin (I)

By Nicholas Afonsky



© McClure Newspaper Syndicate

Percy Bysshe Shelley, great English poet, was a passionate young boy. He loved argument and never accepted things at their face values. At Eton he used to take his tea and coffee without sugar because sugar was produced by slave labor, and would argue stormily on the evils of slavery.

In 1809, when he was seventeen, his cousin, Harriet Grove, came to visit his father's house in Sussex, England. She was a fascinating young woman and was attracted by Shelley's beauty and romantic nature. He took long midnight strolls, and Harriet often went with him. They fell in love.

When Harriet Grove went home her parents were scandalized at the advanced doctrines the wayward young boy wrote about, and forbade her having anything more to do with him. And when he was expelled from Oxford for publishing a tract on atheism, they enforced their objections.

Shelley was in trouble at home, for his father felt disgraced by his expulsion from Oxford. He sent the young man from home without funds. His mother smuggled money to him, and his sisters saved their pocket money and used to send it to him by one of their schoolmates, Harriet Westbrook.

CANUCKS TRAIN FOR OLYMPICS

FEEL HIGHER ALTITUDE.

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, Feb. 6.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—The Varsity Grads hockey team, figure skaters, speed skaters, and skiers who will represent Canada in the Olympic winter sports at St. Moritz, commenced their final week's training here today for the various events in which they are entered. The Grads indulged in free skating for an hour and a half without let up, while the speed and fancy skaters limbered up during a short period. While participating in training, the Canadan entrants wil lnot be on diet at the Grand and Kulm hotels, where they are stopping, as they are being severely punished by the high altitude. The weather is cold, it being nine below zero to-day with snow 25 inches deep.

MICKEY MURRAY IS GOING STRONG

Former Peterborough Goalie Saves Providence Team From Defeat.

PLAYS SENSATIONALLY.

"Mickey" Murray, former Peterborough star goalie, is proving a sensation in professional hockey. Newspaper reports shows that he is the star of the Providence team, and time after time, through his superior goal-tending, he has saved his teammates from ultimate defeat.

"Mickey" turned pro. this year and went to the Canadian-American League.

The Montreal Gazette says:

"Murray was easily the outstanding star on the ice, his work between the poles bordering on the sensational, and if the Reds were not defeated, they can thank him, for the Providence team was outplayed by Quebec, who could not beat Murray more than twice. Two, three or four men attacks meant nothing in the life of this young goaler, only recently obtained by the Reds, and he surely proved his worth."

The Providence Bulletin says:

"Local hockey followers have heaped plaudits upon Herb Rheaume of the Boston Tigers on "Jakey" Forbes, formerly of the Reds but they were given an opportunity to give accolade to another crack goal tender, 'Mickey' Murray, Galt, Ontario, youth, who gave a splendid exhibition in the cage of the Rhode Island Reds as his team rolled up its third 6 to 1 victory of the season, this time at the expense of the Philadelphia Arrows. By virtue of this overwhelming triumph in the presence of some 4,800 fans at the auditorium, the Reds go into a tie with New Haven for third place in the Canadian-American League."

ROTHERMERE AS COWBOY

Lord Rothermere, British publisher, and his party of associates had a chance to wear real cowboy togs when they visited the farm of Amon G. Carter at Fort Worth, Texas, the other day. The lord and his comrades felt fit and fine under 10-gallon hats, with rancher coats and real Texas bandanas.

PRESENT-DAY MONTREAL

(J. H. Burnham.)

Having promised The Examiner an article (for which I expect, as usual, to be paid) upon my visit to Montreal, I will now do my best to redeem my promise.

First of all let me say that I am trying to set down things as I heard and saw them—that is, truthfully and without that absurd bias and prepossession which those people affect whose love is so great that they cannot tell the truth. They can't bear to do it and don't. Montreal is truly a magnificent city and its population of a million will soon greatly exceed that figure.

My visit was not only for the purpose of seeing kind friends but it soaked up a lot more before I got through with it. And here let me say that I went from end to end of Montreal, by day and by night, and not once did I see a drunken man or one noisy from drink. Though the season was the festive season, Montreal was a model of decorum so far as drink is concerned. Moreover, there were no records in the police or other courts during my more than five weeks' stay, of any crime attributed to drink or of any accident. This all sounds too good to be true, but it is true and what is more, the influences in favour of order were all there when Montreal was a hell, so that we must look for the result in the new handling of the drink question itself.

Hard liquor is sold only in government shops and government officials keep an eye on the buyers who are simply not allowed to run wild. But whether it is really so or not, people there do not include so many "bloaters" and "bounders" as in some other places, and I was told that "a fool" was treated as a fool there and not as an object of pity or pardon or prohibition. He had to pay so high for being an ass that he gave it up. Beer is sold in licensed beer-shops. Three judges are the licence commissioners and one black mark causes the loss of a license. I visited about thirty such shops and in order to make sure that it was beer they were selling I tasted a glass or two which also enabled me to engage the licensees in conversation. The places were full; men sat, smoked, talked and drank beer, but no one was either drunk or noisy. It is only at licensed eating houses that wine and beer can both be got, and then only at meals. One girl told me that they had just lost their license but no one seemed to know why, though it might have been for selling one minute after hours. I asked them if they used our Niagara wines, the kind we were allowed to drink under the O.T.A. They said "No, they are too strong."

However, that may all be, religion and good works have both room for reaching the people such as they never had before. But what astonished me most of all was that bootleggers could do no business in Montreal, and traded with the U.S. only or nearly so. Home-brewing, the curse of all curses, is unknown except where the dear, good, old-fashioned people cling to the "harmless" cordials or have contracted the deadly "ginger habit."

Walking along that great highway, St. Catherine's Street one day, I happened to look up into the twilight sky and there I descried the spires of the famous Methodist Church, St. James'. In its day and glory it was far the finest Methodist church in Canada and indeed on this continent. Not being able to keep it up in these degenerate days, all the frontage and part of the sidage was sold or let for shops, and now all you can see of this architecturally beautiful and spacious edifice is what can be seen above the thirty or forty-fine shops surrounding it like a belt. I asked a leading member of it for an explanation. "Oh! People don't seem to be satisfied with the new religion. They want the old mysteries. They seem to hang tenaciously to old theory of a future life instead of letting their religion consist in a good life and good works."

But just at this time there descended upon the city a great cloud, breathing flame and fury. I said "This looks to me as if there must be some Christians about. What's the row?" It is needless to say it was the Prayer-book. The whole tempest centres about whether Christ did as He did or did as He said, at the Last Supper. People who pooh! pooh! forms when it suits them went wild when it didn't suit them. The church which I attended, the "highest" in Canada was the wildest against the Pope. "What is your contention?" I asked its clergy. They instantly replied "We do not deny that the Pope was the first of bishops, but we do deny that he is the only one or the only head of a church. We grant his primacy but not his supremacy."

"But what about the Keys?" I said. "Christ certainly gave the Keys of Heaven to someone. It can't be the Protestants, for they deny having the Keys or that any one has them. The only claimants are the Catholics. If they haven't them then where are they?" This disagreeable alternative was in no case answered, and I am still searching. Some people wanted to swallow the Catholic Church and failed. Having fired and missed they will fall back.

But the most interesting of my encounters was with the French bilingual school question. I was convinced before I went away that there was a screw loose somewhere. Having armed myself with a letter of introduction from the Mayor of Montreal, and with correspondence from the French-Canadian leaders in Ottawa and Quebec, I was about to visit some of the schools themselves, in the counties of Stormont and Glengarry, when a strange if not providential thing occurred. "LeSoleil" a leading French-Canadian journal summed up its editorial by saying that "the French-Canadian ideal is, after intensive French-Canadian development, 'to create a French-Canadian nation within' the Canadian state."

I immediately sat down and wrote to my French-Canadian correspondents. Those who replied repudiate this statement. If the English were to do likewise it would mean a fight to the death, not unity and concord. How could it be otherwise?

But it was meanwhile firmly established in letter to me that French-Canadian claims were based on the pact of Confederation, and the pact of Confederation says nothing about bilingual schools or interference in strictly provincial affairs arising subsequent to the pact of Confederation—and education is one of these. So, here we have it. Our French-Canadian friends in Ontario are just as the English minority is in Quebec—entitled to consideration, fair play, and decent treatment with regard to their language, but to no "legal" rights. Moral rights or the rights of fellow-Canadians, but no constitutional "legal" rights in defiance of provincial utonomy. The wrong claim has been made. Put it on the right basis, and the uproar will cease.

It took me twenty years to find that out and then it was by accident. I hope I have helped in the cause of true Canadian unity at last, when politicians will cease hiving the prejudiced and fanning the flames of racial hatred will be a lost political art.

The Province of Quebec is simply booming. Money for investment is coming in not in millions, but in hundreds of millions. There is no government ownership there. People are allowed to manage their own business. But that is not all. "We are not jealous of our coming men as you seem to be in Ontario. You know it was the jealousy of the people of Athens which ostracised Aristides the Just. They couldn't bear to hear him praised above the rest. Jealousy is a queer thing," said this Frenchman. "Perhaps it is Nature's way of protecting democracy." I suggested. "It may be fear, not jealousy." "No, it is common ordinary jealousy," he persisted.

"That's how you account for Quebec's rapidly advancing supremacy then, is it?"

"I don't know about our supremacy, but we are content," with a shrug of his shoulders.

Since writing the above I have received from "Le Soleil" a copy of its original editorial. It actually does state that the ideal of the French-Canadian race is by intensive development to create "a French-Canadian nation within the Canadian state." I at once pointed out to "Le Soleil" that if that journal would substitute the word "English"-Canadian for "French"-Canadian it would see how disastrous such a policy would be for French-Canadians. This dec'aration of "Le Soleil" when run down to its logical conclusion shows how necessary it is for our French-Canadian fellow-citizens to abstain from exclusive claims if they desire to live on any possible terms of friendliness and unity with English-Canadians. It is only fair to state that such eminent and representative French-Canadians as Premier Taschereau and Senator Belcourt utter ly repudiate "Le Soleil's", stand. The issue is now cleared up We now know why it is, that despite all efforts at a bonne entente, the latter seemed to be an impossibility. With "Le Soleil's" claims brought out into the light of day and repudiated by the French-Canadian leaders themselves, the way is now open to a definite and friendly settlement, and the accomplishment of that unhyphenated brand of Canadianism which Premier Taschereau, Senator Belcourt and English-speaking Canadians have been so long striving for. From now on there is nothing to prevent Canadians being "Canadians" whatever races they spring from, and while it will deprive designing politicians of the means of hiving races for political purposes it will make for the true unity of all Canadians in one great Canadian nation and for a mutual consideration and spirit of generous friendliness which will enable us to solve all difficulties, such as bilingual schools or any other.

FLORIDA.

More people would travel, according to W. Fulton, District Passenger Agent for the Canadian Pacific Railway, if they realized how simple it all was. "When a man who has done little travelling gets an idea that he would like to go to Florida, a thousands questions come into his mind which are apt to scare him off, whereas if he just walked into nearest Canadian Pacific office all his problems of rates and routes and reservations might be solved without any worry or trouble."

Why not just do that if you feel the urge at all?

Any Canadian Pacific Agent will gladly assist in arranging your trip. 28-6-4

KNOX UNITED.

Dr. Harry R. McKeen, campaign manager in connection with the Chamber of Commerce "Peterborough Forward Movement," occupied the pulpit yesterday of Knox church, during morning and evening services the Rev. William McDonald, pastor of Knox church, having been confined to his home suffering from a severe cold. Dr. McKeen delivered inspirational sermons in fine style, and won, it was felt, the esteem and high regard of the congregation of Knox United Church.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR.

Arthur Brisbane speaks of four hundred million Chinese going down to "hell" (endless torment) every few years, and says it would soon make a terrific population in the city of suffering, and that billions of Chinese must be there now, to say nothing of other heathens. He says it is a serious problem, that may well worry the missionaries.

But why take heed to such nonsensical talk? The Bible answer to his "serious problem" is—that at death everybody goes to hell with absolutely no exception, even Jesus went there. The Bible hell is the grave, where all await the resurrection. The heathen are no worse off than are the missionaries, all are in the same place, in fact many of the poor heathen will fare far better in that day, than many preachers, who have taken hard earned money as salary, and lived luxuriously and fare sumptuously every day, and who have falsely represented God and His Word. It is to be deplored that as to what "hell" really is seldom finds any place in the public press or pulpit, on account of the preachers having so much influence, and having so much their own way. But gradually the truth is coming out.—M. T. Butcher. 1d-31-3134

PATTERSON—STEWART.

On Wednesday, January 25, at 7 p.m., a quiet but pretty wedding took place at Knox United Church manse, Peterborough, solemnized by Rev. William McDonald, when Etta Stewart, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stewart, became the bride of Archie Wellington Patterson, North Monaghan. The bride looked very pretty, attired in white crepe de chine with veil and white shoes and stockings. She carried a bouquet of roses. Later at the home of the bride, a wedding dinner was served. The young people received many very pretty and useful presents. They will reside at the groom's home in North Monaghan.

The funeral of George Saltman, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Saltman of 457 Gilmour street, whose death occurred suddenly on Friday morning took place on Saturday afternoon from Comstock's funeral parlors to the Little Lake cemetery, Rev. J. W. Gordon officiating. The twin brother of this little boy died at birth, a month ago.

IN POLICE COURT

Wilbert Butcher pleaded guilty to being a vagrant and was sentenced to one month in the common jail. A police officer found him loitering around Bethune Street on Saturday night.

The charge against an outside bread company for selling bread under weight was settled this morning in Court by the defendant pleading guilty, His Worship imposing a fine of $25.00, and $4.50 costs.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of my dear father, Lemuel Godfrey, who passed away one year ago to-day.

Always so good, unselfish and kind,
Few on earth his equal we find,
Honored and upright in all his ways,
Loyal and true to the end of his days,
A loving father, tender and kind,
What beautiful memories you left behind.

ST. JAMES' MEN ELECT OFFICERS

J. H. Spence is President — Concert Precedes Business Meeting.

BANQUET FOLLOWS.

The Brotherhood of St. James' Church held a social evening and election of officers on Friday in the Sunday School, and a most enjoyable time was spent. Rev. Mr. Dudgeon occupied the chair, and the following musical program was presented and enjoyed by about eighty members and friends:

Opening hymn.
Prayer, Mr. Dudgeon.
Orchestra selection, Messrs. Whaley, Powers, Sproule and Clark.
Vocal solo, Mrs. Elmer Frost.
Piano and banjo duet, Prof. McKenna of Toronto and Frank Clark.
Baritone solo, Frank Pratt.
Violin solo, C. Rusaw.
Female quartette, Mrs. McKinstry, Mrs. Monks, Mrs. Kitney, and Mrs Robinson.
Banjo and violin, Frank Clark and Prof. McKenna of Toronto.
McKenna of Toronto.
Songs, Charles Coleman.

The following officers were then elected:

Hon. President, Joseph Lee.
President, J. H. Spence.
Vice-President, B. Cutmore.
Secretary-Treasurer, F. Hogan.
Executive, K. Sloane, J. E. Gregson, R. B. English, and B. May.

After a few remarks by the chairman a banquet was served by the ladies of the King's Own and Cheerful Workers' Bible Classes, who, by their untiring efforts and co-operation have aided in the formation and continuing growth of the Brotherhood, and a hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the ladies of these classes for catering to the Brotherhood on this occasion, which was replied to by both presidents, and the evening closed by singing "Auld Lang Syne."

AUDRIE RUBANNI IS SINGER OF NOTE

Prefers to Sing in English, Her Native Tongue—Young Assisting Artists.

At half-past eight o'clock this evening, Miss Audrie Rubanni will give a concert at the Grand Opera House. This artist who is a newcomer in the musical annals of the city, is described as a dramatic coloratura soprano singer, with an extensive repertoire and extraordinary ability in memorizing. Her program will be given mainly in English, with a small number of songs in foreign languages, to give variety and a notable inclusion in excerpts from the opera "Norma." Miss Rubanni prefers to sing in English, which is her native tongue, and has been complimented on her perfect diction. She will be assisted by twelve-year-old Tony Remouche, who for the past two years has been the silver medallist among violinists under twelve years of age at the Canadian National Exhibition; also by the sixteen-year-old pianist, Edgar Goodaire, who caused a sensation at Casa Loma, Toronto, last year, when appearing before a National gathering.

VIVACE CLUB MEETS.

Interesting Program is Given—Works of Von Weber Are Studied.

The regular monthly meeting of the "Vivace" Club was held at the home of Harry Marsh, Homewood Avenue.

The vice-president, Elizabeth Wren, presided during the business part of the meeting. The study period was devoted to the study of the life and works of Carl Maria von Weber, illustrated by one of his piano compositions, "Invitation to the Dance," played by Miss Adams.

The musical program given by the members was followed by musical games, after which dainty refreshments were served by the hostesses.

A vote of thanks was tendered the hostesses, Mrs. Robert Hall, Mrs. Marsh, and Miss Hall for their gracious hospitality by Miss Adams.

The following program was given:

Fairies' Dance (Williams)—Phyllis Harris.
The Enchanted Lake (Oesten) — Margaret Preston.
(a) Invitation to the Dance (Heins), (b) Minuet No. 2 (Bach)—Joyce Harris.
Waltz (Grief)—Viola Dobbin.
(a) Allegro (Clementi), (b) Little Prelude (Bach)—Annie Gordon.
Air de Ballet (Dupoint)—Elizabeth Wren.
Waltz (Tchaikovsky) — Doris Skinner.
(a) The Lifeboat (Carroll), (b) Melody in F (Rubenstein) — Harry Marsh.
Will o' the Wisp (Jungman)—Allison Gordon.
Invitation to the Dance (Von Weber)—Miss Adams.

PLANE RETURNS.

Aviator Who Searched Lake Ontario For Cruiser Goes To Watertown.

KINGSTON, Ont., Feb. 6 (Canadian Press).—The four-passenger airplane in which Fred Taylor, pilot, and another Watertown, N.Y., man arrived here last week after a search for the missing cabin cruiser Sea Hawk, of that town, returned to Watertown on Saturday. Taylor had been repairing the landing gear, damaged when it attempted to take off here for the return journey earlier in the week.

Financial News and Views

Latest Comment on Grain and Industrial Markets. — Closing Quotations on the Principal Active Stocks.

F. G. Oke and Company wires as follows:

TORONTO, Feb. 6. — Although there was no material change in prices over Saturday's close the market as a whole took an easier tendency this morningg which was a little disappointing in view of the anticipated strength. However the market leaders for most part held their own with possibly the exception of Teck Hughes and Wright Hargreaves which were off a few cents. Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Company was the feature, showing an advance from 19.40 to 20.80 at noon. It looks as though some of the selling on Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting has dried up, probably as a result of many of the Mining Corporation shareholders having already taken their profits on the rights of this stock.

Also Sherritt-Gordon moved in sympathy with Hudson Bay and showed an appreciable advance of 60c a share over opening prices.

Noranda still holds at a little below the $20 mark and reasons are sought for the lack of demand for shares of this company, particularly in view of the splendid developments of the Noranda property. We are informed that approximately 450 tons of ore per day is being smelted, and stated to yield a revenue of over $350,000 per month. The unit now operating is considered large enough to handle some 750-tons per day so that when both smelting units are running at full capacity the Noranda plant will likely have a smelting capacity of some 1500-tons per day from which a production of well over $1,000,000 per month can be expected.

Noranda appears to have come in for its share of bearish talk regarding production and profits but judging from the figures available most of this gossip is quite unfounded. Production is considered very satisfactory during the first months of operation and no doubt as further progress is made the magnitude and importance of Noranda as a copper producer will be better understood. Also Noranda should soon be able to give Ontario and Quebec speculators a yard stick with which to measure the respective merits and possibilities of other copper-gold propositions now nearing a point of production.

Rain In Wheat Belt Causes Drop In Price

CHICAGO, February 6 (Canadian Press). — Good rains in parts of Oklahoma, Kansas, and Nebraska, together with lower Liverpool quotations than expected, gave an early setback to-day to wheat prices here. Corn was influenced by unfavorable weather for the crop movement and by persistent talk of export business. Opening ½c to 1c off, Chicago wheat afterward sagged a little more. Corn started unchanged to ⅜c up and subsequently held near to the initial range. Oats were easy.

Opening prices were: Wheat, March 128⅝, May 125⅝. Corn, March, 89¼, May 91⅝. Oats, March not quoted, May 55¼.

Advance Of Morning Lags Toward Close

NEW YORK, Feb. 6. — Canadian Press. — The stock market to-day lacked uniformity after a strong forward movement in the morning had spent much of its force.

Profit taking in some issues which have recently advanced sharply and growth of selling for both accounts, reduced a number of earlier gains of three to six points shortly after noon. Banks cleared about $10,000,000 in loans.

Confidence in the business outlook reinforced by a statement by Secretary Hoover that he saw nothing distressing in the business situation had impelled active buying in the early hours particularly in the steel, public utilities, copper and miscellaneous groups. The extraordinary interest in vanadium steel, which has advanced about twenty points in the past week or so, was reflected in an increased inquiry for other independent steel shares, particularly Midland Steel Products preferred, Sloss Sheffield, and Bethlehem, which registered gains of three to five points.

Three Strong Stocks Feature Mine Market

TORONTO, February 6 (Canadian Press) — Hudson Bay Smelting, Mining Corporation, and Sherritt Gordon were features during to-day's trading on the Standard Mining Exchange. Hudson Bay went up over two dollars, closing around 21.75 at noon. Mining Corporation picked up 45 cents to close at 4.35, while Sherritt finished the morning at 7.00 bid, a gain of sixty cents. Noranda was a weak spot, selling below the $20.00 mark after some advance. Coast Copper climbed a dollar in quotations though no transactions took place. The remainder of the market was irregular.

Advances Are General In Active Toronto Trading

TORONTO, February 6 (Canadian Press). — Most classes of stocks advanced in active trading on Toronto Stock Exchange this morning. Building Products, an active feature, advanced three points at 41½, and Steel of Canada Climbed 5¾ at 195. Canadian Oil was sold down nearly to 62, from an opening of 68, but it recovered sharply to close at noon at 66 for a net loss of two point. International Nickel was marked up a point at 96¾; Massey Harris gained 1½ at 43. Seagrams sold fractionally higher at 25½, and Photo engraving improved two at 38. In the unlisted section, where dealings were light, Walker's gained a point at 63, and British-American Oil firmed fractionally at 37¼. International Petroleum was also a little higher at 38⅛.

SALES ADDRESSES START TO-MORROW

Four Talks To Be Given To Staffs and Executives of Stores.

Alexander Karr, of Chicago, community specialist, who is here in connection with the Peterborough forward movement, will deliver a series of four addresses to the store managers and their salespeople on "Successful Salesmanship."

These addresses will be given in the assembly hall of the St. Alphonsus' Lyceum, from 9 a.m. to 10 a.m. from Tuesday, Feb. 7th, to Friday, Feb. 10th, inclusive.

One half of each sales force to attend every other day. Mimeographed summary of addresses to be furnished to all who attend. The general purpose of these addresses is not solely to impart information—the time is too short—but to create enthusiasm, develop the spirit of loyalty and particularly to impart inspiration.

Subjects to be discussed.—Personality, Enthusiasm, Courtesy and Opportunity—emphasis to be placed on the fact that "What most of us need is somebody to inspire us to do what we can." Every employee, from sales manager to errand boy should be given the opportunity to hear Mr. Karr.

Mr. Karr has had a most unusual experience in dealing with the general problem of merchandising. For a period of four years he was the manager of the first State wide "Trade-at-Home" - campaign conducted in the United States. In his opinion the most imperative need of present day merchandising is more efficient "Salesmanship."

The Chamber of Commerce considers itself especially fortunate in being able to furnish the service of Mr. Karr to the merchants of the city without cost to them.

It is expected that on each of the four days during which this service will be rendered that the managers and the full one half of the sales people will attend in a body and that they be on time—9 a.m. sharp, in the Assembly Hall of St. Alphonsus Lyceum, Simcoe Street.

MISS R. HUNTER IS PRIZE-WINNER

Guessing contests possess an appeal that few other forms of contest have, which may be taken for the reason why the window feature of Boyle's Charlotte Street store last week was so successful. A stove was placed in the window in connection with the Heinz demonstration, and patrons of the store were privileged to guess its weight.

Miss R. Hunter, of 309 Reid Street, guessed 223 pounds — just one-half pound less than its total weight—and was therefore named the winner of the contest. The lowest guess was 50 pounds and the highest 610 pounds. The prize money awaits the winner at the store, 168 Charlotte Street.

MARINES CHASE SANDINO NORTH

Reinforcements Sent To Matagalpa When Rebels Are Reported Near.

TO PROTECT PEOPLE.

MANGUA, Nicaragua, Feb. 6 (Canadian Press).—United States marines massed in the mountainous region some forty miles south of the Honduran border to-day in pursuit of the rebel general, Augustino Sandino. Reinforcements were speeded to Matagalpa by truck when the marine command heard that Sandino was near there. The people of Matagalpa fear that Sandino may attempt an attack on the town in the belief that the marines there have been withdrawn to reinforce the garrisons in the department of Nueva Segovia.

CITIES PRESENT MANY CLAIMS

Deputation From Urban Municipalities Appears Before Cabinet.

WOULD SHARE GAS TAX.

TORONTO, February 6 (Canadian Press). — A deputation representing many Ontario municipalities is meeting Premier G. Howard Ferguson and the Ontario Cabinet this afternoon to present recommendations passed at a meeting of thirty Mayors and aldermen held at London recently. Mayor Wenige, London, Controller Tully, Ottawa, and Mayor Ratz, Kitchener, comprise the deputation appointed for the purpose, but Mayor Ratz resigned from the delegation when the Kitchener Finance Committee found it had no objection to the arrangement under which it pays twenty per cent. of the cast of the roadways in its vicinity.

The deputation is urging Provincial approval of old-age pensions and the assumption by the Province of part of the municipalities' present assessments for the cost of highways construction. Higher grants for hospitals and the provision of three or four institutions for senile patients will also be asked for. The Government will be asked to contribute to excess cost of unemployment relief work and to give a rebate to municipalities of some part of the gasoline taxes levied.

Ferguson Hears Requests of Urban Municipalities

COUNCIL FAVORS APPOINTING FULL-TIME HEALTH OFFICER; TO INTERVIEW SCHOOL BOARD

Ald. Ackerman Sets Out Opinion of Board of Health in Matter.

CO-OPERATION SOUGHT

No Appeal to be Made to Public to Cut Down Requests—Much Routine Business.

A great deal of business was transacted by the City Council in good time last night. Most of it was routine business to be got out of the way before the estimates come up next month, but on other points the discussion was prolonged.

The motion approving of the appointment of a full-time Medical Officer of Health was the subject of much debate, and its passing was followed by a second motion appointing Aldermen Ackerman and Greene to wait on the Board of Education, providing all the facts, and asking that the Board co-operate in instituting the changed system

"You probably have noticed in the papers," said Ald. Ackerman, Chairman of the Board of Health, in introducing the matter, "that your Board of Health has been going quite thoroughly into the question of reorganizing the Department of Public Health of the city. As you know, Kitchener, Guelph Brantford and other cities of the same size as Peterborough have been considering for the past two or three years having one Medical Health Officer.

"Last week a meeting was called and representation was present from each organization interested in public health work. It was the unanimous feeling that steps should be taken toward the appointment of a full-time Medical Officer of Health.

"Last week a deputation visited Oshawa. Oshawa is hardly the proper place, as it is not the same size as Peterborough and has an officer who is devoting practically his full time to the work, not for the salary, which is $500, but for the purpose of doing something for the health of the city, and leaving something behind him. I found that the public is very quickly getting behind the ideas of education and are co-operating with the department. It is particularly noticeable that the child welfare work is being patronized more and more by people who formerly waited until some one was actually sick.

"Your Board of Health carried this recommendation unanimously," continued Ald. Ackerman. "There was not one dissenting voice, and we are carrying it to the Council for endorsation. You can justify your course to the public by saying that the cost will be very little, if any more, than was paid out in various ways last year. You can point out to the ratepayers that the Council in doing so is trying to provide a bureau for the benefit of the citizens of Peterborough that will go a long way toward relieving them of bills they have to pay through lack of knowledge. I doubt whether it would be necessary to maintain the Well Babies' Clinic—if it could be done without increasing the cost, I would be in favor of it—as all would be done in one office, and be of great benefit to the citizens of Peterborough.

"I would ask you to appoint a committee of two or three members of the Council to take up the matter with the Board of Education, rather than place the responsibility on the Board of Health."

Mayor Denne: "In my own opinion, this is a matter on which we should go slow. It would be a good idea for Ald. Ackerman to get the consent of the Board of Education, for if we appoint a doctor whom the Board does not approve we will have them keeping their own doctor and nurse, which will work against the scheme. We have a special meeting in ten days."

Delay Dangerous.

Ald. Ackerman: "I hardly agree with you. I think delay will bring controversy. I have the assurance of a member of the Board of Education that they are willing to co-operate. Delay for fear of opposition may create opposition."

Ald. Macdonald: "This question has been in the minds of the Aldermen since the first of the year, at least, and has been common talk among the people. I am strictly in favor of a full-time M.O.H. and believe that now is the time to keep right at it. I think we should to-night go on record as favoring a full-time M.O.H. I am willing to move that we go on record."

Ald. Ackerman: "I overlooked stating that I have not discussed the matter with any member of the Council. I felt this was the place to go into it. I have not named any Medical Officer as a possible choice for the position. We should discuss it thoroughly, for it is a step forward."

Mayor Denne: "I am not trying to sidestep it. I heard a member of the

What the Council Did.

Re-iterated its approval of the appointment of a full-time Medical Officer of Health and appointed Aldermen Ackerman and Greene a committee to interview the Board of Education in the matter.

Re-appointed George A. Gillespie to the Peterborough City Trust for a further term of five years.

Heard read the longest list of correspondence for months, requiring nearly an hour to get through.

Heard two deputations asking for grants and received two letters for the same purpose, the amounts asked totalling $4,600.

Decided against a proposal from Ald. Greene that the Mayor write, through the press, telling of the heavy demands made on the city funds, and asking the people to make their appeals for grants as light as possible.

Received a bill from the Department of Highways for $36,000, the city's share of work done on the Port Hope road last summer.

HEAVY TRUCK BREAKS POLE

Driver and Companion Have Narrow Escape on Lakefield Road.

BADLY SHAKEN UP.

E. R. Watson, 559 George Street, driver for John Sloan & Company, wholesale grocers, and Gordon Trennum, Grandview Avenue, had a very narrow escape from serious injury yesterday afternoon on the Lakefield Road when the steering gear on the truck driven by Watson went wrong, and the big machine crashed into a C.G.E. power pole, snapping it off, and then ran over an embankment and turned turtle in the ditch.

The two men were lucky to get off with painful but not serious injuries. Watson's hand wag caught under the truck, and he was not released until other motorists arrived on the scene. His hat was cut and bruised, and in addition he received injuries to his ear and head. Trennum's head was cut and both men suffered somewhat from shock.

Watson and his companion were returning from a trip to Lakefield, and were near the Waterworks when the truck got out of control and left the road.

Two cars collided at the corner of McDonnel and Aylmer Streets last night, and as a result William Worboy found himself in Police Court facing a serious charge. The stop sign was broken and one of the cars was considerably damaged.

COMMITTEE PLANS SIMPLE SERVICE

All Saints' Church Expected to be Crowded on Sunday Afternoon.

Details of Sunday's Memorial Service for the late Commander-in-Chief of the British Armies, Earl Haig, were decided yesterday at a meeting of the special committee appointed by the Canadian Legion. The program was drawn up and will be published later in the week.

Several requests have been received by the Committee from fraternal organizations desiring to take part in the service, and arrangements have been made to accommodate these. The service will be simple, following closely those to be held all over the British Empire.

Besides the Canadian Legion members and all returned soldiers, invitations to participate have been sent to the Militia units the Women's Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion the Band of the Peterborough Rangers, the Machine Gun pipe Band, the Salvation Army Band, all clergymen in the city, and the Boy Scout Troops of All Saints' Church.

The Committee planning the service consists of J. A. Abraham, President of the Legion; Rev. J. Douglas Paterson, of All Saints' Church; John R. Heron, of the Legion Executive, and S. Watley, Secretary of the Legion.

SAYS SCHEME FOR BOYS IS ONE OF BEST

Minister Comments On Plan For Bringing British Boys To Canada.

ANSWERS CRITICISMS.

Forke is First Ministerial Victim of the Forty-Minute Rule.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 7.—Hon Robert Forke, minister of immigration and colonization in the House of Commons, yesterday afternoon took the debate on the throne speech as the occasion to declare the policy of the department and to answer some of the criticisms directed against it since last session.

There did not seem any unanimity in the opinions expressed, he declared. Some said there was no immigration and nothing being done while others said there was an open door and no restrictions being imposed.

Mr. Forke pointed out that he himself had arrived as an immigrant and had gone through all the phases of the matter but on taking over the department he found the problem was far wider than his experience. There was no united opinion on the question. He was in daily receipt of letters on both sides, one declaring there was unemployment and no room for more, the other criticizing because the door was not open wider.

Referring to Mr. Bennett's statement that there were 10,000,000 acres of unoccupied arable land Mr. Forke declared these were held by private interests and that capital was needed before a settler could get them.

Immigration must be divided in two sections, Great Britain, United States and Northern Europe on the one hand, and the other countries on the other. The former were people which were assimilated easily and this was the real division between desirable and other immigrants.

In 1922 there were 60,355 of the first group and 21,674 in the second entered Canada. In 1926 the figures were 87,536 and 43,033. In 1923 there were 63,000 in the first group and 16,372 in the second while in the 11 months of 1927 there were 103,297 from Great Britain, United States and Northern Europe and 51,180 from other countries.

Mr. Adshead (Lab.): "Do you seek industrial or agricultural workers in Great Britain?"

Mr. Forke: "Any one in Great Britain who meets the regulations as to health, etc., and has the passage money can come to Canada."

Assisted-Passage Scheme.

Mr. Bennett: "I saw in the papers one had to answer 94 questions and that no questions were asked immigrants from the continent?"

Mr. Forke: "That is not true. It probably refers to assisted passages and even then it is not true."

The minister outlined the assisted-passages scheme and said that most of the criticism was directed to these emigrants. When the Canadian and British governments are paying the biggest share of the expenses it was only right they should make the fullest enquiries as to the applicants. Under this scheme the adults came out for $10.

There was criticism that people came under this cheap rate and then slipped across the line. That was one phase the department had to deal with as far as it was possible. There was also the case of the man who came out to a job on a farm, found his employer not to his liking and quit.

One of the best immigrant schemes was the boy scheme. The British government paid $20, the dominion $10, and the province they go to $10, making a fund of $40. Most of these boys came from private homes though now and then some were brought out as by the corporation of Newcastle which sends some of its boys out. The boys, however, were under contract supervision and would one day be a credit to Canada.

The land settlement board had been placed at the service of every new settler who could go to it for advice or assistance on every problem which might come up.

Mr. Forke's 40 minutes being up he had to conclude without finishing his speech.

He was the first ministerial victim of the forty minute rule. He was answering the criticism of his department and was getting along without any heckling whatever, when the Speaker arose and said: "Time is up."

The minister dropped his papers to his desk, uttered a vexed "Oh dear—" and sat down abruptly.

The next moment he joined in the hearty laugh that ran around the House at his discomfiture.

A workman tearing down a railroad station in Oakland, Cal., kicked an old tin can and discovered that it contained 400 $5 gold pieces.

BIG MOTOR SHOW TO BE HELD IN PETERBOROUGH NEXT WEEK

J. J. Duffus Expects to Stage Biggest Ever Held in Eastern Ontario.

WORKING OUT DETAILS

J. J. Duffus intimated to The Examiner today that it was very probable he would hold a motor show in Peterborough at his showrooms starting next Saturday, Feb. 11.

Details are not yet completed but are being worked out. In an interview he stated: 'Complete arrangements will be finished by to-morrow and we will be able to give out for publication definite information regarding our plans. There are still one or two details that must be arranged for, however, before we can say that we will stage our motor show next week. I feel confident though these matters will be cleared away to-night to enable us to go ahead with our plans."

Asked as to what present plans for the show called for, Mr. Duffus stated they were by far the most outstanding he ever had anything to do with. Other than this he would make no comment, stating he would make a further announcement to-morrow when these other matters had been cleared away.

"You can tell the public, however, stated Mr. Duffus, that our motor show will be the biggest motor show ever held in Eastern Ontario and our plans are developing to take care of more than 30,000 visitors."

All will recall the motor show Mr. Duffus held last year to announce his affilation with the Willys-Overland organization. This show was an exceptional one and if it is to be excelled by this aggressive motor car organization this year Mr. Duffus undoubtedly has some big surprises up his sleeve to announce.

This year Mr. Duffus states he plans to excel in every way the efforts of last year, when more than 20,000 visitors attended his motor show.

He succeeds Major Adams, who has been appointed Principal of the West Indies Training Garrison at Port au Spain, Trinidad.

ALEXANDER KARR ADDRESSES ST. PAUL'S MEN'S ASSOCIATION

Speaks On Development of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce.

REGULAR MEETING.

Urges Good Will and Co-operation as Builders Towards Wide-awake Chamber.

Alexander Karr, who is interested in developing in Peterborough a real live Chamber of Commerce, something that will help this city to progress and make it one of the leading industrial cities in Ontario, was the special speaker at the regular business meeting of the St. Paul's Men's Association last night. Mr. Karr's address was a real dynamic force to those who were privileged to hear it and inspired in them a real live community spirit. Mr. Karr is a speaker with a great deal of eloquence and a man whose whole heart is in his subject and whose only desire is to put the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce on such a footing so that it will be of greater service to this city.

The speaker was introduced by James Dutton, a member of the executive of the Chamber of Commerce "All progressive towns and cities in Canada and the United States have a real wide-awake Chamber of Commerce. The Peterborough Chamber has been to the forefront in years gone by, it has brought new industries to the city and has been interested in all matters affecting the welfare of the community. Lately there has been a certain amount of indifference on the part of those not belonging to the Chamber and with this the activities have been curtailed. It is with the purpose of developing more interest in the Chamber of Commerce and making Peterborough a bigger and better city that these men have been brought to this city," said Mr. Dutton.

Community Spirit.

Mr. Karr took as his subject Community Spirit, and he classified it as the most important thing in any community or nation and without which you canont build a Chamber of Commerce. "Two things are essential, good-will and co-operation and these things include thinking kindly and helping someone and with this goes common opinions, common affections and common interests. These vastly outnumber the things on which people differ for they are what is known as true democracy."

A wide-awake Chamber of Commerce ought to emphasize these things. One man cannot do it, neither can a group of men accomplish such a task but there must be a getting together of everyone with a real co-operative spirit. Things must be done as one united people, speaking one tongue and then there will be a prosperity in this city such as it has never seen before."

"Peterborough has a great future in store for her with all the vast riches to the north and why cannot she be made the gateway to this wealth," concluded the speaker.

The Weather

The thermometer did not get down to zero last night, although it came close to it. Three above was the lowest point reached. The days are now an hour and 12 minutes longer than they were at the first of the year having gained 25 minutes in the morning and 47 minutes at night. The change is quite noticeable in the evening but not so pronounced in the morning.—W. P.

NEW MEASURE IS PRESENTED TO ASSEMBLY

Debate On Amended Prayer Book Begins in Church Assembly To-day.

REVIEW POSITION.

Expected Measure Will Encounter Opposition Despite Recent Modification.

LONDON, Feb. 7 (A.P.).—In an atmosphere charged with expectancy, the amended prayer book measure, a bone of fierce contention in the Church of England, was presented to the National Church Assembly yesterday afternoon by the Archbishop of Canterbury. Action was postponed until today, when debate on the measure will begin.

The preliminary discussions by the leaders revealed that the sharp cleavage of opinion which was emphasized in the rejection by the House of Commons of the revised prayer book last December still exists and that the measure will encounter vehement opposition, despite recent modifications by the bishops.

Again it was apparent that the "rich churchmen" and "evangelicals" will contend over the reservation of the Sacrament, which the evangelicals charge, encourages adoration of the Sacramental elements and is a step toward the Roman Catholic Church.

The Bishop of Ipswich, voicing the positions of the evangelicals, said he could not support a measure which still provided for reservation of the Sacrament.

Reviews Position.

LONDON, Feb. 7. Canadian Press Cable. — Although the Church of England assembly will not get to grips with the amended prayer book until to-day the Archbishop of Canterbury had a tense congregation when yesterday he briefly reviewed the position indicating the changes proposed in the deposited book.

These changes, he outlined, were the restoration of the Black Rubric and the prayers for the King to much the same standing as they occupy in the old prayerbood

"They are well-balanced, and certainly well considered proposals," was His Grace's description of the changes. He added a warning that if any section of the assembly presented considerable amendments the deliberations on these must not be inconsiderately hurried.

The Archbishop spoke of the wide and honest interest evinced in the prayerbook which had been evidenced by the popular discussions in the preceding months.

"But there is a danger of forgetting the deep solemnity and mystery which underlies the questions especially on the point on which the controversy has been centred," he said.

What the archbishop said about disestablishment was very interesting. "The word passes glibly from lip to lip," he remarked. "It is handled colloquially with an ease which indicates forgetfulness of the sacredness of the trust which our church holds from God as the recognized mouthpiece of the nation. Upon the church as such rests in its ordered life the responsibility for what concerns its doctrinean d its worship, and with that ultimate right nothing can interfere. But I would bid some of our friend beware lest by an ill-considered word or an easy silence they strengthen the forces of those who because the skein is somewhat tangled would cut it ruthlessly in half, destroying by an act of impatience something which has all down our history been characteristic of England's complex and strenuous life, and has stood throughout the ages for what is reasonable, loyal, large hearted, public spirited reverent and true."

The assembly refused to give precedence to a motion by H. J. Guest of Birmingham, calling on the assembly to make a repudiation of statements in the Malines conversations made by the Anglo-Catholic participants. The motion saw an inability to support the new prayerbook, and urged the assembly to consider whether the proposals for reservation of the sacrament were necessary. In connection with this point the motion commented, "quite evidently numbers of churchmen desire to bring the church to a position she has largely left since the middle ages."

Approves Amendments.

Lord Hugh Cecil expressed approval of the amendments to the deposited book made by the Bishops, and declared that if any violent changes were made by the assembly in the new book such changes would turn himself and many other supporters of it into violent opponents of the revision.

Young Women Vote At Next Elections

LONDON, February 7 (Canadian Press). — Sir William Joynson Hicks, Home Secretary, announced in the House of Commons to-day that he would introduce a Bill at an early date granting women the franchise at the age of 21. At present women are unable to cast their ballot until they reach the age of thirty years.

Premier Baldwin later told Parliament that the Bill granting the franchise to women on the same terms as men would provide that the new women voters may vote at the next general election.

CHAIRMEN BEGIN CAMPAIGN WORK

J. J. Turner Heads General Committee For Peterborough Forward Drive.

MEMBERS BEING NAMED.

The Peterborough Forward Movement, under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce got into its stride Monday with the opening of headquarters offices in the council room of the organization's offices in charge of Harry R. McKeen, campaign director.

The regular staff was augmented by two stenographers to aid in getting out the letters, folders and other multitudinous detail in such an undertaking.

President G. A. Gillespie spent some time at the office going over the general plan and approving the many matters under way.

J. J. Turner consented to become the general chairman of the campaign and conferred with Mr. McKeen as to his duties and approved the list of letters and folders that he had been preparing for the information of Peterborough citizens.

"The time has come," said Mr. Turner, "when Peterborough must have an adequate Chamber of Commerce. This cannot be attained by just a few men working with inadequate finance. Peterborough is outgrowing the town class and ready to assume the status of a city. That means we must think and act in terms of a city. Folks must clearly see that the Chamber of Commerce is not an end in itself but a means toward the end—which is Peterborough the city and its trading territory. Nor can we think in terms of one phase of our community. Our thinking must include the civic, financial, commercial, transportation, industry, agriculture, immigration, tourists and recreation. It is a big job and is going to take all of us working at the job."

James Dutton will act as chairman of the activities fund group and be ably seconded in his efforts by President G. A. Gillespie. In taking up his work as chairman, Mr. Dutton said, "I firmly believe that the time has come when those of us having larger interests at stake here in the commercial, industrial, financial, and civic interests of the city, should make investments commensurate with our interests in the city."

Mr. Dutton will announce his committee of thirty who will assist him as soon as he has their promise to aid him.

J. Wells Fraser and James F. H. Wallace will be in charge of the general solicitation group. They are organizing a group of ninety men to assist them in making the canvas for

UNEMPLOYED LIST BECOMES SHORTER

Peterborough's unemployment situation is improving quite noticeably according to information given The Examiner at the employment bureau office on Charlotte street, today.

It will be recalled that at Christmas time, there were nearly three hundred names on the list of applicants but since that time many of these have been placed either on farms, in lumber camps, or in other employment for which they were qualified. As a result, there are only about 160 names on the list at present and it is expected this number will be decreased before long.

DELEGATION VISITS PREMIER IN SUPPORT OF RESOLUTIONS PASSED BY MUNICIPALITIES

Cabinet Consideration is Promised and Difficulties Pointed Out.

CITY REPRESENTED.

Mayor Denne and Ald. Greene Attend—Many Points Taken Up.

His Worship Mayor Roland Denne and Alderman J. M. Greene represented Peterborough yesterday on a deputation from the Ontario Section of Canadian Municipalities, which laid before Premier Howard Ferguson several important recommendations couched in the form of resolutions arrived at during the convention held on Jan. 25 at London and attended by representatives of 32 of the most important local bodies in the province.

The resolutions which dealt with public hospital finance highway construction costs and revenue, immigration, unemployment relief work, Old Age pensions, Canadian coal, supervision of senile mental patients, and asked for an amendment to the provisions of the Municipal Act regarding liability for damages following injuries through falls on slippery sidewalks were presented to the Premier by Mayor G. A. Wenige of London, and Controller C. J. Tulley of Ottawa. The meeting was held in the Council Room in the Parliament Building at Toronto.

Mayor Wenige presented the following resolution which was originally brought before the Convention of the Municipalities by the Ontario Hospital Association:

That each public hospital shall have the right to collect from all municipaities other than the municipality in which the hospital is situated the sum of two dollars per day toward the maintenance of indigents patients from such municipalities; and that this increased municipal per diem shall not bar the hospital from receiving the government per diem.

That hospitals be permitted to collect from public ward paying patients two dollars per day and and also to receive the government per diem.

That the period of one hundred and twenty days for which the government per diem is now paid be extended in the case of such patients as require more prolonged stay in hospital and that for the extended period the full government per diem be paid.

That one-half the municipal and government per diem be paid for the hospital care of babies of indigent mothers who are patients in the hospitals.

That patients for whose care and treatment no municipality can be held responsible be regarded as indigent patients as the wards of the province and paid for out of the provincial treasury as is the practice in unorganized districts.

That the government per diem be increased to seventy-five cents for the hospital care and treatment of indigent patients.

Want a Share.

The Prime Minister was also asked that in view of the fact that none of the revenue from gasoline taxes or motor licenses accrues to the municipalities, he take some steps to have the Highway Act so amended that counties and other municipalities will be relieved of the payment of twenty per cent. of the cost of construction and maintenance of Provincial Highways, and that after ten years' experience, provisions be made for an appeal to a properly constituted court board by the municipalities as to proportionment of costs and locations. A share of the gasoline tax was also asked on behalf of the municipalities.

On the question of encouraging the use of Canadian coal in the Dominion, both Premier and the deputation were in accord.

The Provincial Government was asked to erect three convalescent homes for the accommodation of such senile patients who do not require active medical treatment, but over whom supervision is essential. The Premier received the request without enthusiasm.

In view of the very wide difference in which sub-section 3 of Section 460 of the Municipal Act is applied by various members of the Courts and the dissatisfaction which is felt by municipalities as to the uncertainty resulting from the trial of an action under this section, which reads:

"Except in case of gross negligence a corporation shall not be liable for a personal injury caused by snow or ice upon a sidewalk," the deputation recommended the following to replace it:

> "(3) No action shall be brought against a corporation for the recovery of damages for personal injury caused by snow or ice upon a sidewalk unless such sidewalk has been by reason thereof in a dangerous condition, in the case of a county or township, for upwards of seven days, and in the event of a city or town

BANQUET IS TENDERED WARDEN BY PEOPLE OF CAMPBELLFORD

Representative Gathering From Town and Counties Attends Function.

MANY SPEAKERS.

Tribute Paid To New Presiding Officer of Council By Colleagues, Clergy and Others.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 7.. — Last night in the Parish Hall, Rear Street, one hundred and three men of affairs gathered to take dinner with and do honor to Charles H. Davidson, newly-elected warden of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham. There were represented at the tables, men from every walk of life, from members of parliament down. At the head table sat the warden, the mayor, the members for both the provincial and dominion governments, several ex-wardens and member of counties councils both past and present, the clergy and several others prominent in the affairs of the municipality. Among those what sat at the table were, besides the Warden, Mayor Kingston, toastmaster; M. E. Maybee, M.P.; Dr. Robertson, M.P.P.; ex-Warden Howard Phillips, the Rev. James Grier, the Rev. C. D. Daniels, the Rev. D. A. MacKenzie, Captain MacMillan, Salvation Army, and others.

Several clergymen and prominent citizens who arrived late were unable to take places at the speakers' table.

The banquet was complete with cigars of a quality rarely found at such affairs thrown in for scripture measure. The ladies of Christ Church catered for the entire affair and had arranged suitable decorations of flowers and fruit along the tables. During the dinner and at various times during the evening, music was furnished a by five-piece orchestra composed of Messrs. A. Hazell, C. Searles, R. Hazel, E. Dolman, and G. Frederick. The program of speeches and music was interesting throughout and not a single number failed to draw forth generous applause and a demand for an encore.

After a little community singing, led by the Rev. C. D. Daniels, and in which Councillor Stone forgot to stop singing and had to sing a verse by himself as punishment for his crime, Mayor Kingston proposed the tosast to His Majesty the King. When the National Anthem had been sung, His Worship expressed his great pleasure at being the presiding officer for the veening, when Campbellford was assembled to do honor to the first citizen of the United Counties, Charles Davidson. After recalling some of the humorous events of earlier days, the mayor mentioned the respect and esteem in which the new Warden was held by everyone. Many, he thought, who were not present would regret their absence. The Rev. N. Clarke Wallace, compelled to attend to church duties in Toronto, expressed his regrets for his absence through the medium of a letter, which the mayor read. In the same letter, Mr. Wallace, after appealing to the humor of those to whom the communication would be read, expressed his sincere congratulations and wishes for a most successful year. T. E. Bell, bank manager in Bradford and a Campbellford Old Boy, forwarded his congratulations by wire. Ex-Warden Elliot and Mr. Fraser of Trenton also expressed their congratulations and regret that they were unable to attend the function. Having made these communications public, the mayor stated that he would not propose the toast to the Warden at present, although it appeared to be the proper time. He thought it advisable to hear some of the speakers first, and made no bones about telling them that there be a bell ring when their five-minute allowance

Says That Hickman Knew the Difference

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Feb. 7 (Canadian Press).—William E. Hickman knew before he kidnapped and killed Marian Parker that the deed was "a big crime, punishable by death," declared Dr. Frank Mikels, prosecution alienist, on the witness stand at Hickman's sanity trial yesterday.

By this testimony, the alienist sought to establish that the slayer knew the difference between right and wrong, the test for insanity under California laws. Dr. Mikels, who examined the defendant in his cell before the trial, said Hickman admitted knowing "all the time that hanging was the penalty for murder."

FIGHT OCCURS IN RESTAURANT

Customers and Chinese Quarrel in Campbellford Cafe.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 7.—Just what was the direct and immediate cause of the international strife at the Chinese restaurant Sunday night is doubtful as the Chinese tell one story and the patrons another. Shortly before midnight the door of the Royal Cafe was locked and no one allowed to enter or leave the place till the police arrived and took over the situation. The Examiner found signs of strife everywhere, with the proprietor's face injured. The orientals were much too excited to speak coherently, but it appears that the affair started over an order for a glass of water.

The police took charge of the affair when summoned by one of the Chinamen and after restoring the place to some semblance of order, took the names and addresses of all those who were present at the time. The Chinese say they will lay a charge against the patron of the restaurant who struck the blow that precipitated the scuffle that ensued.

PLANES FIND NO TRACE OF MISSING MEN

Seek Ten Fishermen Believed Marooned On Ice On Lake Erie.

LOST SINCE SUNDAY.

Observers Claim They Had Seen Men Drifting Out Into Lake on Flow.

BUFFALO, N.Y., Feb. 7 (Canadian Press).—Belief that ten fishermen were marooned on a drifting ice floe in the lower end of Lake Erie was swept aside yesterday when two airplanes flew over the lake and found no trace of them.

One of the planes was chartered by the Buffalo Evening News, and carried William J. Lee, assistant city editor, as an observer. Lee said the plane covered the whole lower lake region as far west as Dunkirk, N.Y., more than 40 miles by air line from this city, and then crossed to the Canadian side. Not a trace of the men was seen.

"If there were any fishermen adrift we certainly would have seen them," said Lieutenant Edwin M. Ronne, pilot of the plane, after the flight.

The plane was in the air more than an hour.

The second plane, hired by a Cleveland newspaper, and carrying one of its reporters, flew here from Cleveland, covering the lower lake region on the way. Neither pilot nor passenger saw a trace of the men.

Missing Since Sunday.

The fishermen were reported missing Sunday, after a breakup of ice off Windmill Point on the Canadian side between Crystal Beach and Port Colborne, Ont. At least six observers on the shore said they had seen the men drifting out into the lake on a floe.

Lieutenant Ronne said the only "logical" explanation was that the "men must have perished—providing they actually are missing."

The flight was made to help the coastguard service locate the men believed marooned. Early yesterday a tug, pressed into service by coastguardsmen, put out from the Buffalo harbor, but was forced to return after journeying five miles out and encountering packed ice as deep as 15 feet. The coastguardsmen found no sign of the missing men in their limited search.

Whether the search would be continued was problematical last night. It was generally believed, however, that unless a definite clue is discovered, the search will be dropped.

SENATE TO SEEK DISMISSAL OF WRIT

George W. Rickershaw Conduct Case For Government Against Indiana Oil Man.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Feb. 7.—(A. P.)—With George W. Rickersham, attorney-general in the Taft administration, as its counsel, the Senate today will seek dismissal of the writ of habeas corpus by which Robert W. Stewart, Standard Oil magnate, obtained his release Saturday from Senate custody on a charge of contempt.

The case will be heard before Justice Jennings Bailey in the District of Columbia Supreme Court and Wickersham will combat the contention of the Chicago oil operator that the Senate Teapot Dome committee was without authority to ask that he tell what he might know of the disposition of the Liberty Bonds bought by the Continental Trading Company of Canada.

The hearing is expected to consume a day or more and, whatever the decision of Justice Bailey, the same probably will be carried through the District of Columbia court of appeals to the United States' Supreme Court.

Meantime District Attorney Gordon will seek indicemtnt of Stewart by the Grand Jury now sitting here on two counts of contempt of the Senate by reason of his refusal to answer as many questions — whether he had knowledge of anybody receiving Continental bonds and whether he had discussed their disposition with Harry F. Sinclair, his business associate.

With Stewart's case in the courts, the Senate committee went ahead yesterday with its inquiry as to what become of the $1,967,000 profits of the Continental company besides the sum Sinclair delivered to Fall and the $800,000 which James E. O'Neil, former chairman of the board of the Prairie Oil and Gas Company, returned to that Company in 1925 after the Continental transactions in American oil had been brought to light during the trial of the civil suit at Cheyenne for the recovery of Teapot Dome from Sinclair.

The witnesses were examined—Sheldon Clarke, of Chicago, vice-president of the Sinclair Refining Company, and H L. Phillips, president of the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing Company—but both said they had no knowledge either of the transactions of the Continental company or any Liberty bonds it might have acquired with its profits in purchasing oil from the late A. E. Humphreys, of Denver, and selling it at an advance of 25 cents a barrel to the Sinclair Crude and Prairie Oil.

Culverwell Elected For West Bristol

LONDON, Feb. 7 (Canadian Press Cable).—G. T. Culverwell, Conservative, was elected in the bye-election held in West Bristol, with a vote of 16,970. Lady Annesley, Labor candidate, collected 7,708 votes, while William Marcy, Liberal, received 4,996 votes. The bye-election was made necessary by the honor conferred upon the Conservative member, Rt. Hon. George Gibbs who was elevated to the peerage.

In the general election of 1924 the vote in West Britsol was as follows: Rt. Hon. G. A. Gibbs, Conservative, 23,574; and M. Giles, Labor, 6,276.

THE CHURCHES

Bethany Tabernacle

"I see no limit. I see no boundaries of spiritual manifestation in Peterborough if the power of God's executive, the Holy Spirit, were allowed freedom in the lives of Christian people of this city," was one of the heart-searching and challenging statements of Rev. A. W. Roffe, in his address last evening in Bethany Tabernacle. The morning message on the subject, "Up Carmel and Down," taken from I. Kings 18: 41-46, relating to the prayer of Elijah, was intensely gripping and accomplished the purpose of the speaker in revealing that the chief ministry of the Christian is prayer. The text of the morning was taken from Psalm 105: "Call upon the Lord."

In the evening Rev. Mr. Roffe's address was on the subject of "Praise." The scripture text was Psalm 105: Oh, give thangs unto the Lord." After giving a splendid outline on the Bible teaching on praise, during which he mentioned the text, "Who so offereth praise glorifieth God," the speaker said he was going to practice his text, and began with praising God for Himself. Then he praised God for the Lord Jesus Christ. The speaker said "few modernists praise God for the Lord Jesus Christ, for whom He is confessed as Lord, that means: He is Master, and the government of the Life, is upon His shoulders. He is owned as Lord, as boss, of the life. It costs to confess Jesus Christ as Lord."

The speaker further praised God for the Holy Spirit, and for the Gospel. Not a few responded with uplifted hands for an interest in prayer that they might enter into the life of prayer and praise, and gave an earnest heed to Mr. Roffe's fervent words of council before the pastor closed the meeting with prayer and benediction.

The Ministry of Prayer will be emphasized at the afternoon meetings at 3 p.m., lasting one hour. The evening services at 8 p.m., the entire week, will be upon the subject, "Out into the deep with the Apostle Paul."

BRITISH HOUSE OPENS TO-DAY

Present Session Will Be Manoeuvring Field For Next General Election.

MANY PROBLEMS.

LONDON, Feb. 7 (A.P.).—Lords and Commoners are gathering again at Westminster for today's opening of a session of the British Parliament which will be a manoeuvring field for a general election late this year or early in 1929.

Foreign affairs probably will play second fiddle to domestic politics, but disarmament, security, the League of Nations, and Empire problems are likely to come up anyway in the daily questions put to the Secretary of the Foreign Office, Sir Austen Chamberlain, and to other members.

The controversy raging in Great Britain within the Anglican Church will be renewed in May if the amended revised prayer book of the Church of England is submitted to the House of Commons for approval.

Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin has returned to London from his Worcestershire country place, where he smokes his big briar pipe and talks "crops" with his farmer neighbors. Ramsay Macdonald, Labor chieftain, is down from Lossiemouth, his native place in Scotland, completely recovered from the long convalescence that followed his illness in America last year. David Lloyd-George, at 65, as fresh and spirited as a schoolboy, is home from a sea trip to Brazil, to fight the biggest battle of his political life to restore the Liberals to power in the land.

Franchise Bill

The chief legislation of the year is expected to be the equal franchise bill, known to the nation and the newspapers as the flapper vote" issue. By it, British women will get the ballot on the same basis as men, at the age of 21 instead of 30 as at present, and without property and other qualifications as at present.

Five million names will be added to the electorate when the measure becomes law.

Legislation of a secondary nature, liquor licensing and shop hours control, will fill in idle moments while the three big parties—Conservative, Libera and Labor—are manoeuvring for position in the national campaign for votes later in the year.

Parliament will be busy with the country's finance until the Easter recess. At the end of April comes Budget Day, with the ears of the Empire awaiting Chancellor Winston Churchill's pronouncements on taxation and tariffs.

Until August, the finance bill, which puts the budget on the statute book in detail, and the big legislative measure hold the stage at Westminster. August and September are holiday months for Parliament. October sees the beginning of a short session to complete legislation. After that, or early the next year, the Baldwin Government will "go to the country" and ask to be returned to power for another five-year period.

DISTRICT DEPUTY INSTALS OFFICERS

Roy Walker Noble Grand of Stirling Lodge—Stirling News.

STIRLING February 7. — William McInroy D.D.G.M. of Madoc District, I.O.O.F., with his staff of officers from Springbrook Lodge, was present ta Stirling Lodge, No. 239, on Wednesday night, and installed the following officers in a very efficient manner.

R.S.V.G.—George Carlisle.
L.S.V.G.—S. Holden.
R.S.S.—Percy McGuire.
L.S.S.—Percy Utman.
Chaplain—Elgin Jackman.

It was intended to have had a joint installation of the Encampment officers also, but on account of the stormy weather and bad roads, the D.D.G.P. J. Duckworth, and his suite were unable to be present.

After the installation ceremonies were concluded the brethren adjourned to the dining hall, where the committee in charge had provided a satisfying banquet, at which the newly installed Noble Grand, Bro. Walker, presided, ably discharging his office as toastmaster for the following list:

The King—by the chairman, response—National Anthem

Grand Lodge—by J. M. Clark, P. D.D.G.M., response by D.D.G.M. McInroy.

Visitors—by J. B. Thompson, P.D. D.G.M., response by the following: Bros. S. Mason Mumby, S. Matthews, Harry Heath, and M. Fraser.

Bro. A. Park was called upon for a recitation.

Bro. Jackson, of Springbrook, sang.

Successful Social.

The committee of the Women's Institute who had the matter in hand, held one of the most successful of a series of card parties and dances in the old town hall on Tuesday night. Twelve tables of euchre and eighteen of five hundred were played.

The winners were as follow:

Euchre: Ladies 1 Mrs. Lavis; 2 Mrs George Bailey. Gentlemen: 1 Adam Corrigal, 2 E. Sandercock. Consolation, Perry Bronson. Five hundred: Ladies, 1 Mrs. R. Williams; 2 Miss Mulligan; gentlemen, 1 C. N. Bastedo, 2 R. H. Williams. Consolation, Miss W. Morton.

An excellent lunch was served by the ladies followed by dancing. The objective of $100 promised by the ladies of the W. I. towards the new Community building will be easily reached. The pcoeeds on Tuesday night amounted to $90.50.

Mr. James McGowan of West Huntingdon is unloading a carload of hardwood and delivering it sawn ready for the stove at $12 per cord.

Mr. Charles Scott's postponed auction sale was held on Monday, resulting in good prices being received, some of the cows selling for over $100. A number from this vicinity attended Mr. James Johnston's sale near Frankford, on Wednesday.

Mr. William Chambers disposed of his fine matched team recently to Mr. Brough, near Crookston.

Mrs. Harper Rollins attended a meeting of the executive of the Kingston Presbyterial of the Presbyterian church, in Kingston on Tuesday. Miss Fowler the treacurer in her report stated that they had more than reached their allocation, having received from auxiliaries $2445.77; from Y.W.A., $321.60, and from Mission bands $269.50, a total from all sources of $3036.87 to cover an allocation of $2978.80.

Mr. Barton Haggerty only son of Mr. James Haggerty, county treasurer, is seriously ill, at his home in West Huntingdon. His fellow students of the Stirling High School are greatly concerned regarding the outcome.

Master Willman Sills of Belleville, is visiting his aunt, Mrs. Harper Rollins for a few days.

MAN AND DAUGHTER BURNED WITH BARN

Bodies Recovered From Debris of Tecumseh Township Barn.

TORONTO, Feb. 7.—Trapped in the conflagration which totally destroyed the barn on his farm near Schomberg, Aza Robertson, Tecumseh Township former, and his daughter, Mrs. Ruby Martin, were burned to death early Saturday morning. The charred bodies of father and daughter were pulled from the burning embers later in the day, when the intense heat of the blaze died away and allowed the neighbors to approach.

The Robertson Farm is on the 3rd line, Tecumseh Township. The fire is said to have occurred at 6.30 in the morning but it was not until some time later in the day that the charred bodies of father and daughter were pulled from the still burning debris. Mr. Robertson was 72 years of age.

BANQUET IS TENDERED

had expired.

M. E. Maybee, M.P.

M. E. Maybee, M.P, was the first speaker, but before he could utter a word the entire assembly sang, "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," as loudly as they could possibly do it And this procedure continued almost entirely uninterrupted during the entire evening. The songs, however, varied from time to time. Mr. Maybee expressed his great and sincere delight at being present and called upon to do honor to Warden Davidson, then called to mind the days of many years ago when he had first met Mr. Davidson. From that time, said Mr. Maybee, he had enjoyed the best of friendships with the warden and had on every occasion found him to be a real man. He did not think that any advice to him as warden was necessary. To the late C. L. Owen, ex-warden of the counties, Mr. Maybee referred as an illustrious predecessor.

The council itself he considered one of the most dignified bodies in any form of government. He had, he said, been a member for seven years, and he recalled with pleasure the days he had spent as such. The meetings, or rather sessions, he reminded them, were always opened with prayer, and to that end he recalled the story of a woman who refused to have her appendix out unless a minister were present. Asked why she made such a demand, she said that since she must be opened, she insisted on being opened with prayer. Because the bell was liable to ring at any moment and because there was a long list of speakers, Mr. Maybee thought he had better be brief as he was only breaking the ice. If everyone who was on the slate fell in, he thought the splash would be awesome.

Before resuming his seat, he spoke briefly on excellent counties which Warden Davidson represented, remarking on the splendid and refined stock from which the present inhabitnants were descended, many of them of the United Empire Loyalist stock. The counties, he thought, should be proud not only of their diversified production but also in the lines for which they were specially noted. And although the twelve inch electric bell installed specially for the event rang, Mr. Maybee insisted on detailing a few of the famous features of the district, dairy products and cattle, apples and fruit and last but not least, grain.

Ex-Warden Phillips.

Ex-Warden Howard Phillips, Brighton, was the next speaker. Two verses of "See Him Smiling," sung lustily, took up at least a minute of his time. Nevertheless, he managed to say a great deal in the remaining time. As a former colleague, he deemed it a great and signal privilege to be permitted to be present to welcome and congratulate the new Warden. He felt assured that he would do his duty with dignity and efficiency befitting his high office. Warden Davidson, he said, was deservant of great credit from the town and from the counties for his many duties already performed. Mr. Davidson was always certain of election whenever he chose to run, he asserted, and this was because he was a generous man, an excellent neighbor, and a good Canadian.

There were many friends in the assembly, he said, and he was pleased to see them, but he missed his old friends, Col. N. F. MacNachton. (Applause). He hoped that the Colonel would enjoy a long life and continue his excellent service with the Counties Council. Patriotism was the great thing, he claimed, and though the bell rang, continued for several minutes to address those present on that subject. In reply to his remarks, Rule Britannia was sung with sufficient enthusiasm to make the rafters ring.

Solo—"Joggin' Along the Highway" (Harold Samuel)—Mr. George Lucy.

Encore—"Winter Will Come" (The Dumbells)—E. C. Dolman at the piano.

Dr. Robertson, M.P.P.

Dr. Robertson, M.P.P., after a few preliminary remarks of humorous character, expressed his pleasure at meeting his old friend, the warden, on such a pleasant occasion. Many years ago they had met on the field of sport either at football, baseball, curling, hockey, or some other game. Finally they had sat together at County Council. But although the doctor had been associated with the Council for several years, he said definitely that he had never had the honor to be warden. To D. J. Lynch, solicitor for the town of Campbellford, Dr. Robertson paid a fitting tribute, and to Colonel MacNachtan, county clerk, who, he said, was hailed as the best clerk in the Province of Ontario. The ladies, too, came in for their share of the honors for providing such an ample and delicious meal. At this stage, Dr. Robertson claimed that he was in the same predicament as the little boy who had been told to get up, speak up and shut up. Therefore, after presenting his compliments and congratulations to the warden, and wishing him a most successful term of office, Dr. Robertson resumed his seat.

Ex-Warden John McCubben.

John McCubben, ex-warden and one time election opponent of Warden Davidson, was the next to pay tribute to the new warden. He expressed his pleasure at being present and able to personally congratulate the warden, and said that in the many years they had sat together in the Council, he had always found Mr. Davidson straightforward in every way. As for the paving of the Campbellford streets this season, he felt sure that the warden would see that it was properly done. This would tend to make the town all the more popular and incidentally the county. Northumberland, he claimed, was the greatest dairy county in the province. Its cattle were well-known over a large area. Of the many wardens present, Mr. McCubben said that he had first sat on the Council with Mr. Maybee. He was pleased that Mr. Maybee had been able to be present on this occasion. The banquet was second to none, and in defence of his statement he recalled the numerous wardens' banquets which he had attended. His final remarks were to wish the counties a prosperous year and Mr. Davidson a successful one as leader.

Mr. Bowen.

Mr. Bowen, the next speaker, was inclined to be humorous and related two humorous tales before settling down to the business of speech-making. He had been warden of the counties in 1921, he said, and had met Mr. Davidson for the first time during that year. Since then they had been the staunchest of friends. As an ex-warden, he realized the duties which would fall to Mr. Davidson and their proportions. But he considered the new warden equal to the occasion. He hoped Mrs. Davidson and the family would appreciate and remember the tributes which was being paid him to-night.

The Reverend James Grier, when he rose to address the assembly, was forced to wait till the usual two verses of "See Him Smiling" had been sung before he was allowed to proceed. After duly expressing his appreciation for his complimentary invitation and the honor he had thus been accorded, Mr. Grier related the occasion of their first meeting at the fowl supper of St. John's United Church, when he had first come to Campbellford. Being a comparative stranger, he had meekly waited his turn to go to supper. When at last it arrived and he was going downstairs, he was confronted by a large man with a friendly smile and a genuine handclasp, who said, "Good evening, Mr. Grier. I'm Charlie Davidson." Though the introduction had been rather unusual and surprising, it had appealed to the minister and he had never forgotten its sincerity.

Warden Davidson, he said, had done good service to the town, and that was the reason he had been returned with such regularity to office each year. As a representative of a certain percentage of the townspeople, Mr. Grier wished to extend their heartiest good wishes and their assurance that in years to come, they would look back on 1928 with an unusual amount of just pride for its success.

The Orchestra— Alice Where Art Thou (Ascher).

Rev. D. A. MacKenzie.

The Rev. D. A. MacKenzie, Burnbrae, not only congratulated the Warden on his success, but also the counties in having such a man as Warden. He considered Mr. Davidson a man of ability and progressive ideas, but he was of the opinion that since the men present were in the habit of attending church once and many of them twice each Sunday, they would not care to listen to a minister speak during the week. In support of his claim, he recalled the tale of the minister whose sermons were too short for his congregation's liking. Approached on the matter, the minister stated that he had no teeth and therefore he could not preach long sermons. The congregation immediately took steps to remedy the defect. The first sermon after the minister had been presented with the new teeth lasted for half an hour, the next for three quarters, and so on till the time reached the limit of two hours. This being too much for the long suffering laymen, they again approached their spiritual adviser and asked for an explanation, but the fault was laid entirely at their own feet. They had given him women's teeth, he said, and when they started to talk, they had to keep going till they ran down.

Then Mr. MacKenzie recalled the earlier days in the counties when he had been a school boy and later a teacher. These were indeed banner counties, he claimed, since they produced the choicest apples and the best cheese and butter, also grain in the province. He stated that he was glad to be present and glad that the counties had a warden like Charles H. Davidson.

Ex-Warden Henderson.

Ex-Warden Henderson expressed his pleasure at being asked to be present to pay his respect to Warden Davidson. He had known him for several years and felt that he was a real man in every respect. They had sat together on the Counties Council for several terms. He brought regrets from Wilbur C. Wood, South Monaghan and concluded his remarks with a humorous tale of a man who attempted to light a cigar from the light of a cat's eye in the dark.

The Rev. Ernets Harston.

The Rev. Ernest Harston ,after waiting while the usual two verses of See Him Smiling was sung, mentioned the fact that he had heard some person near him murmuring Amen during the remarks of another speaker and asked the pianist if the little flourish at the end of his verse had been intended as such. He thought it only fair that on such an occasion ministers should be permitted to smoke in self defence. An evangelist, he said, had once asked the women to "mother" their husbands. Finally he had asked any woman who would promise to do so to stand. Only one stood, and she had mistaken the word mother for smother. In his opinion the smoke barrage would soon have everyone smothered. Mr. Harston was rather surprised that Dr. Robertson had no subject on which to speak. He had always considered Mr. Davidson rather a big man. As a method of making his speech more concise, Mr. Harston quoted from his own composition.

C—Courageous, Courteous, Careful.
H—Honest, Helpful, Healthful.
A—Active, Ambitious, Aggressive.
R—Resourceful, Rich, Religious.
L—Loyal, Lenient, Learned.
E—Earnest, Energetic, Enthusiastic.

Had it been necessary for him to use the name Charlie, as the warden is popularly known, he would have used, I—Industrious, Intelligent and Indifferent. Now that Mr. Davidson was warden, Mr. Harston said, his responsibilities were greatly increased. He had to preach to the warden of two counties, the police magistrate, several professional men, and the undertaker. Nevertheless, he was proud that Davidson had been elected warden and extended his heartiest congratulations to them and to the counties.

As soon as Mr. Harston had resumed his seat, J. D. Cumming managed to gain the floor for a moment to express the hope that it would be a long time before Mr. Harston would have any professional business with the undertaker.

Solo We've Come Up From Somerset, (Sanderson)—Mr. A. Hazell.

Ex-Warden Fowlds.

Ex-Warden W. M. Fowlds, Hastings, followed the usual procedure of expressing his sincere appreciation for the generous invitation and extending his congratulations to the warden. Mr. Davidson, he said, was most dependable and entitled to the honor which he had won as a reward for the virtue shown in past services rendered. The counties he represented elected two members to parliament, Mr. Fowlds reminded the warden, and at the same time thanked him for helping in his election at an earlier date. Regarding the pavement, he reminded the people that Hastings had done its paving last year and he was glad that Campbellford was to do its paving this year.

The wardenship was not an easy job, he declared. There is always plenty to be done and much responsibility to be shouldered. Frequently it fell to the warden to cast the deciding vote on matters of grave importance.

The Trent Waterways exhibit at the motor boat show in New York City was a success, he said. As an advertising scheme it could not be surpassed. The daily attendance was in excess of 22,000 and the booklets which had been printed for advertising purposes, were distributed to all parts of the world. At the motor boat show they were in great demand.

Briefly, Mr. Fowlds repeated his congratulations and best wishes for a successful year for the counties and for the warden.

Captain MacMillan.

Capt. MacMillan, Salvation Army, briefly expressed his appreciation for having been asked to the banquet, and recalled the event of the arrival of the Warden in Campbellford upon the end of the session at which he had been elected. On that occasion he had said it was not easy to make a speech nor was his election a simple and easy accomplishment. Capt. MacMillan sincerely believed both of these statements and extended his hearty congratulations, both himself and his people.

Duet, Mr. Hazell and Mr. Rollo, Sleepy Hollow Tune. (Richard Kountz.)

Encore, "Until," (Sanderson), Mr. Dolman at the piano.

The honors for the local speakers were upheld by S. J. Abernethy, chairman of the Water and Light Commission, D. J. Lynch town solicitor, and Dr. H. O. Richardson, for the school board. As the orchestra was forced to leave before the end of the program their last number was played after Mr. Abernethy had finished speaking. All three of these speakers paid high tribute to Warden Davidson.

D. J. Lynch said that Warden Davidson was always in the forefront of everything which the town undertook be it sport, education, or municipal affairs. His congratulations were tendered on behalf of the people of the town.

Charles Gillespie, ex-member of the counties council, was called upon for an impromptu address. He said he was pleased to be present as a mark of respect to the Warden, whom he had always known as an industrious man. He had known Mr. Davidson since the latter first came to Campbellford over 40 years go, and knew him to be a man who had taken off his coat and gone to work to be a success. He wished him every success and felt sure that the county council will be pleased to have such a man as warden. He himself had served 14 years as a county councillor and two years ago had visited the council as a member of a deputation. On the latter occasion he had seen only one familiar face of the days of 40 years ago. Loud applause marked the conclusion of Mr. Gillespie's remarks.

Encore Stern old Bachelor, a popular number, Mr. Dolman at the piano.

The Toast to the Warden.

This ended the list of speakers and the Mayor stated that he was going to give the honor of proposing the toast to the warden to the man who had moved his nomination, Major J. M. Bygott, Reeve of Campbellford.

In proposing the toast, Major Bygott was pleased to extend his compliments to the warden and reminded him that few men were privileged to have such a representative audience to do him honor. There were represented in the assembly, the Church, the State and every profession known to the modern world. His tale of the parson who thought himself shot took a moment to sink in but the split second of silence made the humor all the more keen. "To the warden!" After his health had been drunk, everyone sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," and meant it. Also did they sing with fervor, "Who's the Best Man in This Town?"

The Warden.

When the Warden rose to respond to the toast, the crowd simply drowned him out with "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here." When he was able to make himself heard, he felt that he did not know what to say. They had all heard all the good things about his career, but none of the bad ones. If they believed all they had heard he could not begin to estimate all that was expected of him. He was proud to be the Warden, he said, and thanked his mover and seconder (Major J. M. Bygott and James Ross).

Regarding elections and education, he reminded them that he had been defeated for Reeve on the school question the first time, although he had won out on the second attempt. He had prophesied that the school would be built and it had been. He claimed that it had not made any difference to the school being built who went into the Council. He believed that everyone should have a good education. He felt the need for more than he had been able to get. At the age of thirteen years he had left school and before that he admitted that he had played "hookey" too often and too long at a time. The status of the Fire Department, he said, was due not to him, but to the good men he had under him. As for the truck, the Council had helped him to get that. The paving grant for $50,000 was not all that they had asked for. The request had been for $75,000, and he still thought the town should have had that amount.

Of all the ex-Wardens present he had helped elect all but two, and on these occasions he had had to vote for himself. In this, John McCubbin bore him out from his place at the table. There was a lot of work to do this year, and he knew it. He was only beginning to realize just how much work there really was connected with the office, but he assured his listeners that he would do his best. He would be well supported by capable men, such as W. C. Wood, the "Finance Minister" of the Council, Major J. M. Bygott, chairman of the School Committee, ex-Warden Elliott of Murray, Road and Bridge, W. J. Jibb, Board of Management, and many others who were of similar calibre.

In conclusion, Warden Davidson expressed his appreciation to those who were responsible for the excellent banquet and program, and said that while he greatly appreciated their action, he had felt that they had done enough for him when they gave him such a rousing reception on his arrival home. Again expressing his most sincere appreciation, the Warden resumed his seat.

Mayor Kingston expressed the opinion that everything that could be done had been done to honor the new Warden. He thought that the town and district might expect one of the most successful years in the history of the counties.

The end of the program came in the form of "Pack Up Your Troubles" and "Auld Lang Syne," followed by cheers for the Warden. Before leaving the dining hall, each man present personally shook hands with and congratulated Charles Davidson on his success in winning the highest honors of the counties.

DOCTORS SHOW MANY HOW TO END COLDS IN FEW HOURS

RISKED PNEUMONIA BY NEGLECTING HIS COLD

Numbers of Peterborough people—like Robt. R. Page—have found it no longer necessary to neglect a cold because of expense, inconvenience or the need of medicines unpleasant to take. For hospital physicians are now recommending for home use an inexpensive and pleasant method that brings quick, sure relief.

Mr. Page had neglected his cold, hoping each day it would "cure itself." Instead it got worse, spreading from his nose passages down towards his lungs. Fearing pneumonia then he called his doctor, who gave him double doses of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral—a hospital certified mixture of wild cherry, terpin-hydrate and other ingredients which have relieved even the most extreme hospital cases.

In a few hours he felt greatly relieved, and that night he could breathe freely through both nostrils and coughed very little. The next morning he felt like a different person—rid of the "feverish, grippy" feeling—and in another day or so, the doctor reports all traces of the cold had disappeared.

All certified by the physician who treated each case.

CHILD COUGHED DEEP—MOTHER WAS WORRIED

Still another of the many grateful users of Cherry Pectoral, is Mrs. W. H. Durant whose adopted daughter, Elsie was kept from school by a severe cough and cold that brought fear of pneumonia.

Doctors ordered the child to bed, with double strength doses of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral every half hour until relief came—then once every hour until her little bronchial tubes, lungs and nose passages were free from cold and normal again.

The next morning she looked like a different child. In another day or so all traces of the cough and cold had disappeared and she was back in school—well as ever.

Find Hospital-Tested Method Ideal for Home Use During This Pneumonia Weather

Realizing that every common cold may be the forerunner of pneumonia—unless treated properly in time—hospital physicians have chosen a remedy that is ideal for use at home. And numbers of Peterborough people find, as Miss Margaret Miller did, that it brings quick, sure relief—often in a few hours—yet is inexpensive and pleasant to take.

Took Doctors Advice--Cold Gone Next Day

Miss Miller, for example, contracted a cold which she kept neglecting until it had spread down into her bronchial tubes. The day following her fever was high and she coughed hard while attending a movie. Then, on the advice of her doctor, she started taking double strength doses of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral—a concentrated mixture of wild cherry, terpin hydrate and other ingredients certified for home use by hospital physicians.

This hospital formula stopped her coughing spells almost instantly. Inside of a few hours congestion in her nose passages and chest began to clear up. By morning her excessive fever was gone, she was able to be out—and the day following, her doctor reports, the cold was gone entirely.

Note: These reports are all certified by the physician who treated each case.

Doctors find that this hospital medicine does far more than stop coughing instantly. It penetrates and heals inflamed linings of the breathing passages. Absorbed by the system it quickly reduces phlegm, helps allay that "feverish", grippy feeling and drives out the cold from the nose passages, throat and chest.

Just a few pleasant spoonfuls of Cherry Pectoral now and you'll feel like a different person tomorrow.

ENDED COLD QUICKLY WAY DOCTORS ADVISE

By taking the timely advice of her doctor Miss Elsie Hanner, like numbers of people here, has found the quickest and surest home treatment to end a cough or deep seated chest cold.

Miss Hanner had neglected a severe cold which started settling in her nose passages and chest. She began to feel feverish, and finally called the doctor for advice.

Her physicians gave her quick relief with double doses of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which has been so successful in treating hospital cases. With the first pleasant swallow she felt the comforting, healing warmth from her nose passages deep down into her chest. By night the "feverish" feeling had left and she was able to breathe freely and sleep without coughing. The next day she awoke to find that practically all traces of the cold were gone, and in a day or so, doctors report, she was as well as ever.

All certified by the physician who treated each case.

RELIEVED HEAD COLD BY PLEASANT METHOD

Chas. E. Murphy developed a bad head cold which nothing seemed to relieve. He couldn't sleep except to doze off a few minutes and wake up feeling that he was being choked. Then he called his family doctor who advised double strength doses of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

Relief began quickly and the cold was clearing up noticeably in two or three hours. He continued the pleasant doses, and in another day or so, doctor reports his head cold had cleared up completely and he was feeling "like himself" again.

PAYING FOR THE HIGHWAYS.

It is evident from Premier Ferguson's intimation to municipal representatives yesterday that next year the Government will expect the highways to finance themselves, that the motoring fraternity can expect a substantial increase in the gasoline tax in 1928.

With the attitude of the Government that those who get the most out of Government services should pay the most for such services, it is difficult to quarrel and yet remain within the confines of logic.

That principle applied to the highways simply means that those who use these expensive roads most often must be prepared to contribute most toward their cost, and the tax on gasoline is a simple and sure means of making sure that they do have to pay in proportion to the service they obtain.

The tax may not be exactly pleasant to car owners, but they should be able to see the justice of the levy and to recognize the fact that since motoring made costly roads a necessity out of motoring must come the money needed to build and maintain these highways, which are of value and benefit chiefly to those who use them.

There is no particular reason why the man who does not own a car should have to go down in his pocket to help provide a paved speedway for his neighbor who does own one.

JACK MINER'S VISIT.

It is not necessary in calling attention to the visit of Jack Miner to Peterborough on Friday to say much about the celebrated nature-lover and friend of Canada's animal and bird life.

Jack Miner's work along these lines have made him famous.

His is a wonderful personality, and his talks are always brimful of cheery optimism and love for things Canadian.

The Examiner, however, would like to point out that Mr. Miner comes to us on this occasion under the auspices of the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association, and that his visit has a very definite purpose, that of interesting the people of this section in the vital subject of the conservation of game and fish.

Our tourist traffic is based to a considerable extent upon what we have to offer the fisherman and hunter, although we have other great advantages that should be prominently emphasized, and it is unquestionably the case that our supply of fish and game is being depleted at a rate that is alarming.

The association, anxious to concentrate public attention upon a situation that calls for action, has been fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Miner, and his addresses here on Friday should be of material assistance.

Citizens who have heard the famous Jack will need no urging to attend; those who have not are assured of a message that will be found distinctly worth while.

FORWARD, PETERBOROUGH!

The "Peterborough Forward" movement about to be initiated needs first to be transposed into the above if it is to call forth the spirit needed to gain the objectives announced. Next there must be a realization that this is not a movement for the benefit of the Chamber of Commerce. The Chamber seeks only to put itself in a position where it can work most effectively to advance our highest civic interests, as it has through the years that it has been in existence.

There must be appreciation, too, of the fact that a great awakening is going on throughout Ontario. Peterborough must put itself in a position to do its share in this work of defending Ontario's industrial position and stimulating its business.

The first essential in this work of preparedness is the building up of a commercial organization which shall be fully representative of our citizenship. A Chamber of Commerce cannot do the work that is expected of it without warm interest and substantial support from the community. It is the push that such backing as this supplies that gives a Chamber power to accomplish.

It is not a weakness of the Chamber of Commerce idea that campaigns to renew interest have to be invoked. It is simply a fault inherent in every community that interest in public affairs is bound to lag at times unless properly stimulated. This stimulus members of the American City Bureau have come to furnish. That they will find Peterborough cordial in the first place and co-operative as the campaign proceeds seems a foregone conclusion.

Their success will place the town where it should be, on the front line of Ontario's drive to retain and enhance its prosperity.

NO OLD AGE PENSIONS.

Premier Ferguson told the deputation representing Ontario municipalities yesterday that the Ontario Government does not consider the finances of the Province in a sufficiently healthy state to justify Ontario participating in the scheme of old age pensions provided by the Federal Parliament at the last session.

The Government will show a surplus this year, and is not anxious to assume the obligation of $4,000,000 necessary to carry old age pensions and thus run the risk of a deficit next year.

The fact that Manitoba, in spite of a deficit, is assuming the burden of the pension system does not seem to be creating any impression at Queen's Park, where they claim that only one person in twenty-six in Manitoba would be eligible for pension, while in Ontario the rate would be one in every fourteen.

It is true, of course, that there are more old people in proportion to population in this Province than in the Western Provinces, and the outlay will necessarily be greater in Ontario, but there are many people who believe that in spite of this condition that this Province should manfully accept the responsibility and make provision for the care of its aged poor.

The very fact that one out of every fourteen of our population would be eligible for relief under this legislation would seem to be a strong argument in favour of adopting the pension scheme, but the Premier left no doubt as to the decision of the Government.

Old age pensions will come when the people of this Province show the Government that they want them, which means that the agitation for this relief for the needy aged must be maintained at high pressure.

LEGAL BATTLE BEGUN.

In his recent speech in the House of Commons, in the debate on the Address to the Speech from the Throne, the Hon. Mackenzie King made the momentous and significant announcement that the great legal battle between the Federal Government and the Provincial Governments of Ontario and Quebec, relative to their respective rights in the development of the power projects of the St. Lawrence River, had been referred to the Supreme Court of Canada. This was one of the paramount issues raised at the recent conference between the Federal and Provincial authorities. The Province of Ontario, as announced by Premier Ferguson, is determined to defend its rights to these water powers to the utmost, and in this decision it has the support of Premier Taschereau of Quebec. Ontario has always been a staunch defender of Provincial rights ever since Sir Oliver Mowat, for many years Premier of Ontario, disputed the claims of the Federal Government and won notable victories for the Province in the celebrated cases of the Boundary Award, the Streams Bill and the Escheats Case.

There is no doubt that this issue will be a battle royal between the Federal and Provincial authorities. While the Federal Government admits that the Provinces have proprietary rights in the beds of the streams, it insists that the authority to construct dams or other works is exclusively vested in the Dominion Parliament, and that the only limitation upon this authority of the Dominion to expropriate Provincial property for such purposes is that it shall not be exercised without compensation. There will be intense interest in following the progress of this question, as, whichever party wins in the argument before the Supreme Court of Canada, the issue will be immediately carried for final judgment to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council. As the development of the St. Lawrence seaway and its accompanying water-power projects is, perhaps, the paramount question in Canada today, the sooner the rights of the Federal and Provincial Governments in regard to the matter are defined, the sooner will this great enterprise be brought to a successful completion.—Brantford Expositor.

A NEW ELECTRICAL CODE.

The Canadian Engineering Standards Association is not an organization with which many people, beyond those associated with the engineering profession or with the chief industrial establishments of the country, are familiar; yet it is one which is carrying on a most useful work, after only a comparatively short period of existence, and its deliberations and decisions well warrant a continuance of the support which it has received from the Federal Government.

The association has been organized for the purpose of endeavoring to bring about standardization of design in all manner of manufactured articles, principally for employment in construction throughout the country, with the object of eliminating many of the varieties which it is necessary now to manufacture in order to meet the demand Thus, amongst other things, it is devoting attention to the matter of producing brick of uniform size, bar and billet steel of a standard quality, a smaller number of machine screws, and the like. The great achievement of the last quarter, as reviewed in the leaflet periodically issued by the association, has been the production of a Canadian Electrical Code, based upon the National Electrical Code of the United States, the National Electrical Safety Code of the same country, the rules and regulations of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario and other Provincial or municipal regulations. The object is to promote the adoption of uniform electrical regulations throughout the Dominion, a condition which, as the association well says, is much to be desired.

Already a most favorable reception has been accorded this code. The city of Saskatoon and the Department of Telephones of Saskatchewan have adopted it. It has been approved by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of this Province and sent forward to the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council for similar approval. The Provincial Governments of British Columbia, Nova Scotia and Quebec are also considering it, and the time is not far distant when these and other Provinces will have incorporated the code in Provincial legislation and made the adoption of its provisions compulsory. Eventually, there is every possibility that Dominion legislation will follow.

The different regulations in regard to electrical installations pertaining throughout the Dominion render it necessary for the manufacturers of electrical equipment to produce and stock a wide variety of articles. The general adoption of the code, the work of men intimately associated with the electrical industries in all parts of the country, will greatly simplify the manufacture of such articles and remove much of the confusion which now obtains.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Globe has doubts about the strength of the "Strong man." But surely will admit that what he sells is strong enough.

Heads of the Ontario Ice Association were here yesterday, indicating that summer cannot be so far away.

If the people of British Columbia expect the Canadian Minister to Tokio to bring about the total exclusion of Japanese from Canada, the post is not going to rate very high as a sinecure.

If there is no passengers available for that giant rocket, the Miami professor is going to start out toward Venus, no doubt many people have a name they would like to suggest.

Jack Miner, who comes to Peterborough to give two addresses on Friday, has been lecturing in Kentucky, and The Globe arises to remark that doubless he is now a colonel.

Toronto is spending over $928,685 this year in its civic Department of Health. That seems a large sum, but the results justify the expenditure.

In one respect, no equality exists—in one respect, Great Britain is supreme. She is supréme in the price she pays for the lot of us. She is supreme in her naval and military expenditure. The rest of us, the overseas self-governing Dominions, particularly Canada, do not claim equality in that respect. We have the inferiority complex there. But as far as assertion of equal rights in other respects is concerned, the overseas Dominions have gone the limit, and the Old Country makes no kick.—Ottawa Journal.

Voice of the People

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner Office on the day before it is desired to have them published.

SHOULDN'T OMIT RANK.

To the Editor of Examiner.
Dear sir:

I notice in the letter of "One Who Came Back" that he objects to the ranks of the men being placed on the Peterboro War Memorial.

I cannot understand why he shouldn't wish to have the boys who gave their lives, deprived of their ranks acquired through their own efforts.

While we are equally proud of each and every man who sacrificed his life for his country, and, of all who were privileged to return.

Still I cannot think that the memorial would be filling its purpose if the boys were not given their full stripes.

Yours truly.
THE FATHER OF ONE WHO "DID NOT COME BACK."

THE GLORIES OF OUR CITY

Dear Sir:

Have you ever realized how beautiful our city of Peterborough is on a beautiful winter's evening? If not, take time to look over the majestic Otonabee from Hunter Street East, the glory of the setting sun touching the distant spire of Old St. John's Church, also the stately grace of Saint Peter's Cathedral situated on its magnificent grounds. When we look at the madly rushing river, the only frost-defying thing visible, and last but not least, Poverty Pond, where many of our future citizents in numerous bright colors, laugh at the biting frost and enjoy to the full one of our finest Canadian sports. Against the steel blue wintry sky and fleecy clouds rises the dark smoke of our many factories, spelling prosperity and comfortable home to many of our Canadian families. While the solid structure of the magnificent bridge spanning the river brings back the thought that we have builded our city on solid foundations, a city of churches, schools and home.

What citizen of Peterborough could help but be thrilled at the privilege of being alive in such a prosperous city and the glorious possibilites of one and all of us "To live to it and give to it."

—A CITIZEN.

RANK SHOULD BE INCLUDED.

To the Editor of The Examiner.
Dear sir:

Could you find space in your paper for me to reply to Veteran's letter of last week in regard to the Memorial. I myself am a veteran of the South African war and also one of the old 2nd Battalion, who served under Major Bennett and I ask why should we be ashamed of the rank these men held while serving in His Majesty's service. Should I ignore the rank which my officers held in my regiment, also should I ignore the rank of corporals or other ranks who were chums of mine. These men gave up all to serve their country and what greater honor can we give them to show their rank on a Memorial to hand down to future generations. In regard to Veteran saying the Canadian Legion are opposed to rank as this is entirely a civilian organization it is alright to have no rank recognized, but Veteran must remember these men died with the colors, therefore their rank must be recognized. I, myself as a private, would only be too pleased to see the rank and names of my officers acknowledge that my children when they grow up can point to them and say: "These are the officers who 'led' my father, who was proud to tell us of the officers of his battalion.

Yours truly,
ONE OF THE IRON SECONDS.

FROM MAJOR WINTERBOTTOM

The Editor Peterboro Examiner.
Dear sir:

Re the letters which have recently appeared in your Voice of the People column I would beg space to make the following comments:

I trust that the committee in charge of the proposed Memorial to our glorious dead will carry on their work without paying too much heed to people signing themselves as Veterans etc.

My reasons for this are simple in that if a man has an idea or suggestion which he honestly and sincerely thinks is a worthy one he is not going to be ashamed to own such an idea as his own. It is hard to feel that your correspondent was not thinking of something far different from the sacrifice of those gallant privates, corporals, sergeants, lieutenants and etc.

Was he no thinking of some canker within himself that prompted him to write over the signature of Veteran.

As one who served with many of those heroes whose names we shall read with mingled feelings of—there are no words to express what all that we shall feel, but among other feelings that we cannot express there shall be one of regret, regret for many things, and one shall be a feeling of regret that we did not do our duty better.

Your writer friend will probably have a feeling of regret that the committee did not do or arrange something differently.

I hope that we shall all have some of the emotions of Lincoln when dedicating the cemetery at Gettysburg when he said in part: "We cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow this ground. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to that great cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion!"

That, Mr. Editor, is how I hope I shall always feel towards those whose names we honor, rather than being worried as to whether their names are preceded by private or lieutenant.

In conclusion, Mr. Editor, I wonder if it is too much to ask you to refrain from publishing letters signed Veteran or Returned Man, as there are a great many veterans, as myself, who hate to see letters in the paper signed in this manner, as the public are apt to think that he expresses the opinion of all veterans.

Thanking you for allowing me so much space, I am,

Yours,
G. G. WINTERBOTTOM.

CHANGE IN MAIL SERVICE

Springville, Feb. 7, 1928

Editor, Examiner:

Considerable interest has been developed in this community by the recent announcement by the Postmaster General of a change in rural delivery of mail affecting R.R. No. 1 and 2, Ida, also No. 1 Cavan.

The proposed change is a much-needed improvement on existing services, which has not been in accordance with the standard aimed at by the post office department. Heretofore mail has been received by C.P.R. at Cavan, conveyed to Ida, arriving about 12.30 p.m., from which point it is destributed over No. 1 and 2 routes. Outgoing mail collected from No. 1 remains in Ida post office, while mail matter from No. 2 remains in the custody of the courier until the following day. It is then delivered to Ida post office, from which place it is taken and placed on the C.P.R. at 3.30 going west.

The necessary delay of mail matter can be better understood by comparison. Should John Smith place a letter addressed to the Mayor of Peterborough in a box on eastern extremity of said route. Mr. Jones places a letter at same time in a box on R.R. No. 3 Peterborough just across the road addressed to the the Mayor of Montreal or Post Master, Ottawa. These would be lifted about the same time. The Montreal and Ottawa letters would reach their destination. Allow ten hours to be answered and be back in Peterborough before Peterborough's Mayor had the opportunity of reading his epistle. At starting point Peterborough was seven miles from point of mailing the Montreal letter, 350 miles, this letter travelling 700 miles, arriving ahead of the mail matter by the Ida route.

Peterborough Examiner is delivered two or three days after date of publishing. It reads like ancient history.

These are not isolated cases, therefore a change is desirable.

By the proposed change, mail will be received off the Canadian National at Fraserville and conveyed to Springville and delivered from this point. A request is being forwarded to Postmaster General asking that outgoing mail be forwarded by either 5.30 or 9 p.m. train C.N.R. This would be a desirable service.

A petition has been circulated asking that the mail service remain as heretofore. Mr. Lough has proved a very satisfactory official, having faithfully performed duties of office continuously since No. 1 Ida was first established. His fidelity to office and the many other favors so freely performed has won for him the respect and goodwill of the patrons and, with many, outweigh an improved mail service.

ONE INTERESTED.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, February 7 (Canadian Press). — The feature of the local grain market yesterday was the increased demand noted for oats and a moderate amount of business was done for all-rail shipment from Fort William. A steady trade continues to be done in car lots of oats on spot, and prices were unchanged, with sales of No. 2 Canadian Western at 78½c, No. 3 Canadian Western at 74c, No. 1 feed at 72c, No. 2 feed at 71c per bushel, ex-store. The tone of the market for Argentine corn was firm under a fair demand for car lots at $1.03 to $1.04 per bushel ex-store.

There were no further developments in the local flour situation, and business was generally reported rather quiet in spring wheat grades. The undertone of the market, however, was steady and prices were unchanged with first patents selling at $7.90, second patents $7.30, and strong bakers at $7.10 per barrel in jute bags, ex-track, less 10c per barrel for spot cash.

There was no improvement in the movement of winter wheat flour. Sales of choice grades were made at $6.20 to $6.30 per barrel.

A very strong feeling prevailed in the market for all lines of millfeed owing to the somewhat limited supplies available. Good business was done in Manitoba bran at $34.25, shorts at $36.25, and middlings at $44.25 per ton, including bags, ex-track, less 25c per ton for spot cash. The tone of the market for standard grades of rolled oats was steady under a moderate demand at $3.75 per bag of 90 pounds delivered to the trade.

The demand for Canadian baled hay showed no improvement. The feeling on spot was steady and car lots of No. 2 Timothy brought $13.00 to $13.50 per ton. No. 3 Timothy and clover mixed hay sold at $12.00 to $12.50 per ton.

No important change took place in the condition of the egg market. Prices for all grades were steady, but the volume of business was not large. Sales of fresh extras were made at 50c, firsts at 45c, pullet extras at 40c, and seconds at 37c per dozen. Storage extras sold at 41c to 42c, firsts at 37c to 38c, and seconds at 28c per dozen.

The trade in dressed poultry was rather quiet, but a firm feeling prevailed in the market and prices were unchanged. Fresh killed turkeys ranging in weight from 8 to 15 pounds sold from 35c to 42c per pound. Fresh chickens weighing 5 to 7 pounds went at 33c to 36c per pound.

A fair trade was done in potatoes. The undertone to the market was firm, with sales of car lots of Prince Edward Island Green Mountains at $1.20 per bag of 90 pounds, Prince Edward Island Whites at $1.15 per bag of 90 pounds, New Brunswick Green Mountains brought $1.10, while New Brunswick Whites sold at $1.05.

The demand for imported beans continued steady. Tone of the market was firm, with car lots of choice white hand-picked quoted at $2.90 per bushel.

The market for money was steady.

Trade in butter showed no sign of improvement. The market was quiet on the whole, with eastern townships No. 1 pasteurized creamery selling at 35c to 35½c per pound. No. 2

Wise and Otherwise

Two of the oldest chickens in the world were exhibited at a poultry show the other day. They must have paid some boarding house proprietor a pretty price for them.

A woman writes to a doctor to say her 17-months-old baby eats dirt whenever he can get it. That probably indicates he'll grow up to be a politician or some other kind of mud fancier.

A Thought

GOOD COUNSEL FOR ALL.

Elizabeth Towne is a wonderful woman, who exemplifies by her charming individuality, her magnetic personality, and wholesome enthusiasm, the power of right thought.

Mrs. Towne tells the story of New Thought simply, concisely, and convincingly.

New Thought, as explained by Mrs. Towne, is the age-old thought of recognizing God in man and an all-embracing influence for good. It is a modernized acceptance of principles of fraternity that were conceived thousands of years ago.

This earnest woman stresses the thought paramount in many minds today, that a true acceptance of religion in some form is our only safe and sure road to permanent progress.

Mrs. Towne says: "Know the God within you, then—accept, affirm, and act." Surely this is good counsel for all, irrespective of creeds or cults.

GENERAL CONTEST RULES

How to Enter

1. The contest is open to everyone except:
   - (a) Employees of The Peterborough Examiner, Ltd., or their immediate family.
   - (b) Prize-winners in any similar contest who have won any of the major prizes.

2. Additional puzzle-charts may be obtained free by writing to the Contest Department or by calling at The Examiner Office.

3. Every figure in the puzzle is complete and entirely free from tricks or illusions. If any contestant is in doubt about any of the figures, send in the chart with the figures marked and the Contest Department will gladly give a ruling on the figure.

4. When you have solved the puzzle, fill in completely the solution blank, which must be accompanied by a remittance for at least a six months' subscription at the regular rates to The Evening Examiner. (See subscription rates.) See also the prize-list and note how the value of your prize is increased by paying for a year's subscription and by getting subscriptions from your friends. Renewal subscriptions, or subscriptions in arrears, if paid during contest period, count the same as new subscriptions and will be extended from the present expiry date, but not more than $15.00 will be received on any one solution or subscription.

5. In order that subscribers who pay carrier boys weekly may participate in this contest, books of tickets containing 22 weekly tickets for $3.00, or 44 for $6.00, will be sold. These remittances must be made direct to the Contest Department with your solution. Otherwise it cannot be registered. Each ticket is valued at 15c and will be redeemed from the carrier boy at that price.

6. Readers who give their subscription to some other contestant and later want to send in an answer themselves, may do so providing they fill in the coupon, giving the name of the person they paid their subscription to and the amount paid. No further payment is necessary.

7. The contest will close on March 15, 1928, but send in your solution as soon as possible as we are offering special prizes for the first correct solutions. (See full details under "Special Prizes.") There is nothing gained by holding back your answer once you have solved the puzzle, as a contestant may make several remittances on any answer sent in while the contest lasts up to a total amount of $15.00.

8. Contestants may send in a different answer to the puzzle with each remittance, but if one of your answers is correct the money sent in on your other answers will not increase the total value of your prize, and not more than one regular prize will be paid to one family.

9. Everyone has an equal chance. You can win the first prize and extra cash for only a six months' subscription, but note how the value of the first five prizes increases if you send in more money. Aim to win the maximum Grand Prize. The Evening Examiner is now recognized as the leading daily in Peterborough district and surrounding counties and no difficulty should be found in getting your friends or neighbors to subscribe for it.

10. Contestants who remit by mail or pay at the office should see that these remittances and answers are made on a proper contest coupon to ensure them reaching the Contest Department.

11. If the correct answer is not sent in by any contestant the prizes will be awarded for the nearest correct solutions. In the event of a tie a second puzzle will be presented which will be as practicable and solvable as the first. Only those tieing will be permitted to solve the second puzzle. Should two or more persons be tied in the second puzzle the prizes will be divided equally among those tieing. No cash will be accepted on the second puzzle.

12. In entering the contest, contestants agree to abide by the rules of the contest and to accept the decision of the judges as final. The Contest Department reserve the right to alter and amend its rules if necessary for the protection of contestants or The Peterborough Examiner. It also reserves the right to refund any subscriptions and to disqualify any contestants whom they consider should not be in the contest. Contestants are assured of the same impartial treatment which characterizes The Examiner in all its dealings.

THE PROBLEM

The problem is to add together all the figures shown above, which, when added together, represent the total number of tons that the Lift Lock weighs.

The puzzle is entirely free from tricks or illusions, every figure is complete and stands alone. The figures range from two to nine. There are no ones (1) or ciphers (0) in the puzzle. The sixes are curved, while the stem of the nines are straight.

We wish it clearly understood that every figure can be plainly seen. There is nothing hidden in the trees or shadows, but the problem of adding these is a real test of accuracy.

Remember, each figure is added separately. For example, 9777 is counted 9 plus 7 plus 7 plus 7, or, in other words, simply add them as if each figure stood one above the other in a single column.

REMEMBER, NO ONE KNOWS THE CORRECT ANSWER UNTIL THE CONTEST CLOSES

To ensure this we had Mr. E. M. Elliott, County Treasurer, and Mr. Frank Adams, City Treasurer, each erase one or more figures from the original drawing, which they carefully noted and sealed in an envelope and gave to the manager of the Royal Bank for safe keeping until the contest closes.

TWENTY-SIXTH TO FIFTIETH PRIZES—$5.00 in cash each.

SPECIAL PRIZES—While the contest will not close until March 15, we are offering Five Special Prizes for the first five correct, or nearest correct, solutions secured by us. The prizes will be: First Prize, $8.00; Second Prize, $7.00; Third Prize, $5.00; Fourth Prize, $3.00; Fifth Prize, $2.00.

A TIP ON HOW TO WIN

Take a pencil and put down the numbers as you stroke them out, then add them up. Some suggest that you cut the chart into dozens of pieces, then check them from all sides; or if you wish, try blotting them out with colored ink or pencil. Others think the best way is to pick out all the twos, threes, fours, etc. Any they miss the first time they find later. Or suppose you try taking a combination of figures which, when added together, makes a total of ten. For example, 5 and 3 and 2 make 10. Tens are not only easily added together, but there is less danger of making a mistake.

Important Points to Remember

1. Everyone has the same opportunity. A person sending in only $3.00 in subscriptions has the same chance of winning the first prize as a person sending in more money. The advantage of sending in more money is to increase the value of the first five prizes.

2. This is a contest for Central Ontario district, or to any subscriber of The Examiner, no matter where he resides.

3. Don't forget to answer all the necessary questions on the solution blank.

4. If you collect a subscription from a friend or neighbour, that person can also submit an answer to the puzzle without further payment.

THE JUDGES

In order that each Contestant shall have fair and impartial treatment, we have arranged with Mr. Roland Denne, Mayor of the City and Alderman Nagel Phelan to act as judges for the contest. Any complaints in this connection will be referred to these judges whose decision will be absolutely final.

IN PETERBOROUGH CHURCHES

GEORGE STREET UNITED

On Sunday morning Communion service and reception of members was held in George Street United Church.

A large number had expressed their their desire to unite with George Street Church and on Sunday morning were publicly received and welcomed into membership. The pastor, Rev. J. E. Todd, occupied the pulpit and read as the lesson the 14th Chapter of St. John, taking as his text, "Let not your heart be troubled: ye believe in God also in me." Jesus had been speaking to his disciples, telling them that one of them would betray him. These men knew there was to be a testing time, and they wondered if they would prove true. All but Judas; he knew he would be unfaithful; and Christ comforts them them by saying "Let not your heart be troubled."

"Trouble comes into the lives of most people. It's one of the things men do not have control of. Man can not control the sunshine nor the tempest raging, neither can he control trouble as every heart and every home knows. But we have this to learn; that although we can not control the storms of life, when we become a Christian and join the Church. He helps us to build a house which will protect us from the storm. The Master told us about a man, who built a house upon a rock, and when the storm came he was in the house safe.

"Men often ask for explanation, but Jesus Himself does not give it to us. He asks us to launch out on the path of faith. 'In my Father's house are many mansions, if it were not so I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you," he says. No father is able to explain all his acts to his son; only happy harmony exists, when the says says, 'Father knows! He always does right.'

"Trouble is not a condition; it is a state of mind, a state of soul. When you, my brother, my sister, can say, 'God's in my life. I don't understand, I don't see, but God's in this thing,' you will be able to face life's storms. Let not your heart be troubled. Eat and drink in faith, thrusting in His goodness and mercy to carry you through the difficult places."

At the evening service. Mr. Todd took for his subject, "At the Cross Roads," reading the 18th Chapter of the 1st Book of Kings, beginning at the 18th verse, and taking as his text "How long halt you between two opinion? If the Lord be God follow him; but if Baal, then follow him."

"Sometimes we think we have the most difficult problems to face of any age," he said, "but in ancient days there were difficult problems which men had to square themselves and face.

"At this time we just read of how Ahab, King of Israel, was a very wicked king, and sin was so rampant that the prophet Elijah made his appearance. Ahab hated Elijah, because he had prophesied that there should be no rain or dew for years in the land, without his word.

"Then the prophet disappeared and the drouth continued—one, two, three years. Springs were dried up and the land was in a dreadful condition. There was death and devastation on all side. Men were sent out in search of Elijah and at last he was summoned by the Lord to go and meet Ahab.

"When they met, Ahab said: 'Art thou he who art troubling Israel?' Elijah answered, 'Not true, it is you who are troubling Isael. You have forsaken the commandments of the Lord and followed Baalim.'

"Elijah ordered Ahab to gather all the children of Israel and all the prophets of Baal at Mount Carmel.

"Then Elijah said to the people, 'How long halt ye between two opinions?' Not a word is said about the vicious life of the king and queen bu the prophet exhorts the people to stop this life of indecision.

"In a great race, where every ounce of skill, ability and endurance was required, a man stepped up to the' line dressed in a sack. What would you think of the man if, when questioned and asked if he was not handicapping himself, he replied, 'I'm fond of it. I prefer to run in this way?' Yet there are some people who are playing the game of life, the greatest game of all, in this way.

"What is a more pitiable object, than a man who cannot make up his mind? Can not come to a decision or a conclusion? What a great thing it is to be like Paul, to be able to say, 'One thing I do,' or as Martin Luther said, 'This one thing I can do.' It is always a great time in a man's life when he comes to a decision. A state of indecision or irresolution leads to actual wrong-doing. Hamlet said, 'To be or not to be?' Pontius Pilate, looking upon Jesus said, 'I find no wrong in this man,' but he had to be Caesar's friend and he washed his hands. He was irresolute, a straddle the fence man.

"We must choose right or wrong. Life in the year 1928 has a way of presenting its issues to us as it had in ancient times and a way of beclouding issues. The issue is to live with Christ or without Christ.

"Young man, young woman, you are putting off a decisoin when you make excuses, as so many hypocrites in the church? Not all of them are in the church. If you think you can live without Christ launch out, but the man who is betwixt and between is a far greater enemy of the church than an out an dout sinner.

"But on the other hand if you feel you can serve God better in the church, be an out and out worker for Him. If the Lord be God follow him. Don't ruin your life and all its glorious privileges by being betwixt and between."

The musical service was very fine, with an anthem, a duet by Miss Daisy Murray and Mr. Douglas Carlisle, and a solo by Mrs. G. F. Liddle.

At the conclusion of the service a social hour and sing-song was held in the Sunday school auditorium, light refreshments being served.

ON SECOND THOUGHT

BY JOHN F. McGOVERN
(In a Minneapolis Paper.)

A WORKER OF MIRACLES.

Jack Miner, the naturalist and ornithologist from Kingsville, Ontario, delivered his message and displayed his pictures to some five hundred Minneapolitans last night. To-day there are many times that number talking about the marvellous things they heard and the wonderful things they saw and the great things they hope may come to pass. All the stir and excitement and all the hopes for the phenomenal things that are to be are the result of the visit of this inspired and extraordinary man who is doing such a work in a little town in an out of the way place in Canada. His work has been so well done that it has attracted the attention of the world.

Many who have heard something of the history of Jack Miner and his experiments with wild geese, the establishment of his sanctuaries and his ultimate success in luring the wild birds to his haven, conclude that because of his knowledge of their habits and his peculiar understanding of their modes of existence has been able to do more with wold birds than anyone else. By reason of this fact he is an outstanding character, just as any other person would be who has acocmplished something beyond the reach of his fellows.

People who have formed that notion of Jack Miner and his work have not suspected the nature of him, the things that he has done or the greater things that he will do. Jack Miner is one of the outstanding personalities of the generation. He is one of the great men of the continent. He has done such a good work for the western world that the extent of it will not be measured for many years and the fact of it fully appreciated until long after he has passed away.

The superficial facts in the case are that Jack Miner, after years of painstaking effort, has succeeded in attracting to a small mud hole on his little farm in Ontario, thousands upon thousands of wild geese. He has not only attracted the geese to his refuge, but he has tagged them for identification purposes, has studied their habits and learned for a certainty facts about the feathered wild life of the continent which will be of inestimable service to us and to posterity.

The fascinating man who is actuated in all his actions by an abiding love for humanity and all living things, has accomplished such results that nothing short of an opportunity to see his place or the pictures of it together with an opportunity to hear him tell about it, will give anyone even an approximate notion of what it is all about.

Uses Much Food.

Last spring Jack Miner used in feeding the geese which stopped at his sanctuary on the way north to the limits of the Arctic regions, 6.500 bushels of corn and more than 200 bushels of barley. That provides rations for a considerable number of geese, particularly when it is remembered that nearly all this food is consumed in a few months in the spring while the geese are resting on their way north.

His pictures show the pond covered almost to crowding with the wild Canada fowl. In the morning when they come in to feed and at night when they go out to Lake Erie to rest, the air is filled with them. The performance of such a miracle is enough to attract the attention of the people of the continent and to make the author of it a centre of curious interest. Jack Miner intended perhaps only to attempt to intercept the flight of the wild geese if possible when he purchased his first little flock of seven geese in 1904, placed them on a mound in his mud hole, and started his persevering efforts to lure the wild ones to them.

After three years of complete failure, no geese having stopped at his station, the first flock of eleven dropped into his pond among his geese in the fourth year of his trials. From that time forward they increased, growing to thousands in a few years.

He began to catch them and tag them and learn about them from that time forward. He has convinced himself what may be done, has proven to the world what is possible to do. He has opened the door to opportunities for the accomplishment of wonders that are beyond believing.

What Jack learned about geese and ducks he has shown to be true of all birds. He has proven that birds love humanity, and if shown the safety of the matter, will come to human beings for food as readily as any domesticated fowl or animal. Jack showed pictures of little girls and boys in Kingsville feeding young robins from small dishes, giving them the food from spoons. He showed how the robins learn when school is adjourned, and fly to meet a little youngster who has made a practice of feeding them.

Educates the Youth.

He has made friends of the birds of all young boys and girls in the town and has secured the co-operaiton of his neighbors in this wonderful work. He has experimented in the culture of trees and flowers in this far northern climate and location and has made of his own place a veritable paradise of flowers and trees. He has reforested his acres with evergreen trees, cultivated them and in a few years has obtained remarkable results. His place is a sanctuary for all kinds of birds. There are more than three hundred nests of mourning doves in the trees of his little place every spring.

Jack has done such wonderful and unbelievable things that an enumeration of them would be a difficult task. He has proven that the birds may be attracted and tamed as docile as any domestic fowl. He has proven that the migrations of the wild fowl may be controlled by the establishment of sanctuaries and refuges. His experiments have done so much to enlighten the people of the American continent that anything is possible of accomplishment.

His efforts are not intended for conservationists and sportsmen alone. In fact, he is not so much interested in replenishing the game supply as in saving the birds from extinction. His work will result in increased supply, which will allow for a surplus for game purposes just as the surplus of fowl is used for eating purposes.

As a result of his teaching bird refuges and sanctuaries will be started in all parts of the American continent. Children will soon learn to protect and cultivate the companionship of birds rather than to nourish a desire to kill them and destroy their nests. The inculcation of such notions in the minds and hearts of the youth of the nation will make for the highest type of citizens possible. The good results of Jack Miner's work cannot be measured because the possibilities are illimitable.

There is a well defined movement to establish a refuge and a sanctuary here in Minneapolis. The notion crystallized at the meeting last night. Officials of the Park Board present at the meeting made inquiries in an effort to ascertain a practical way of getting started. Jack's missionary efforts may bear early fruit in Minneapolis.

HAIG BURIED AT DRYBURGH

Body Carried To Abbey On Farm Cart and Borne To Grave By Country Folk.

SIMPLE CEREMONY.

EDINBURGH, Feb. 7.— (Canadian Press.)—Field Marshal Earl Haig today was buried among his ancestors at Dryburgh with the simple rites of a Scottish Laird. Despite the stormy weather crowds gathered along the route from St. Giles' Cathedral, where the body had lain in state, to Waverly station, in a last gesture of homage. At St. Boswell's an ordinary farm cart awaited to carry the coffin over the five miles of road to the Abbey. Another cart, loaded with wreaths, rumbled in the wake of the coffin. Instead of great soldiers and world afmous commanders, as in London, plain country folk, including a number of employees of Earl Haig's estate at Bemersyde, carried the coffin to its last resting place, a few feet from the grave of Sir Walter Scott.

DRINK WATER IF BACK OR KIDNEYS HURT

Begin Taking Salts If You Feel Backachy or Have Bladder Weakness.

Too much rich food forms acids which excite and overwork the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Flush the kidneys occasionally to relieve them like you relieve the bowels, removing acids, waste and poison, else you may feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, the stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get irritated, obliging one to get up two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids and flush of fthe body's urinous waste, begin drinking water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine and bladder disorders disappear.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help prevent serious kidney and bladder disorders. By all means drink lots of good water every day.

TO GUARD AGAINST FURTHER TROUBLE

Two Policemen Injured in Riots at Pittsburgh Coal Company Holdings.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 7 (Canadian Press).—State policemen and deputy sheriffs will be stationed at the Crescent Mine of the Pittsburgh Coal Company to-day to guard against a possible repetition of the shooting there yesterday which resulted in the wounding of two coal and iron policemen. The men were not seriously hurt.

Coal and iron police said that while they were trying to disperse several hundred men and women pickets who were attempting to persuade non-union miners not to enter the workings, some one fired a shotgun. F. P. Byrne was struck by thirty-three pellets and J. D. Buttermore was wounded in the arm. Both resumed their duties after receiving medical attention.

State police were summoned from California, Pa., to restore order. While the state officers were scattering the crowd, a policeman's mount stepped on a woman's foot, crushing it.

Lawrence Dwyer, United Mine Workers' official, who was among the pickets, said a non-union miner fired the shot. Pittsburgh Coal Company spokesman said it was not known who discharged the shotgun because police were unable to find him.

The school at Broughton, another mining town, was re-opened yesterday with state policemen and a deputy sheriff on guard. The school was closed last week after having been struck by bullets, alleged to have been fired by non-union workers.

PETERBOROUGH BOARD APPEALS

Represents Urban Separate School Boards in Privy Council Suit.

FOR PROVINCIAL GRANTS.

TORONTO, Feb. 7.Archbishop Neil McNeil sailed for England about the first of the year, and although no confirmation could be had last night, it is understood that he is overseas in connection with the Township of Tiny appeal which is to come before the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council among the Canadian cases listed as commencing on February 20th.

His Grace left in company with Thomas F. Battle, who with I. F. Hellmuth, K.C., is handing the case for the appellants. During the absence of the Archbishop, Bishop Macdonald, formerly Bishop of Victoria, is officiating.

Mr. Hellmuth sailed from New York last Saturday on the S.S. Minnetonka. W. N. Tilley, K.C., and McGregor Young, K.C., who will appear for the Porvince of Ontario, defendant in the appeal, plan to sail about February 10th.

The Separate School Boards placed the case before the Privy Council after the Supreme Court of Canada had divided evenly on their appeal from the adverse decision of the Supreme Court of Ontario. Since the litigation began, the Peterborough Separate School Board has been added as a joint appellant, representing the urban boards, while S.S. 2 of the Township of Tiny represents the rural boards.

The appellants claim, among other things, that Roman Catholic separate school boards in Ontario have the right under the British North America Act to establish and direct their own secondary schools, and the right to share in all legislative grants to public and high schools on the basis of average attendance.

The Phantom Pool of Kenfig, largest fresh-water lake of New South Wales, has moved nearly half a mile in the last ten years. At this rate it will take less than 40 years to reach the nearest village.

MOTHER FINDS IN TANLAC

The Tonic Her Daughter Needed

What a blessing Tanlac has proved to thousands and thousands of Mothers! How grateful they feel when they see this famous treatment restoring their daughters and sons to health! As Mrs. G. Baker, 12 Earl St., Kingston, Ont., says "When I think of the wonderful change that has taken place in Kathleen's health, I just feel like praising Tanlac to everyone. Before taking Tanlac, my daughter was dreadfully weak and nervous and had such severe headaches she was almost frantic. Her sleep was broken and restless; she had deep circles under her eyes and would hardly eat anything. But Tanlac has built her up until she is bubbling over with health and energy. She eats heartily; sleeps soundly and enjoys life to the limit. Tanlac is indeed a grand medicine."

Tanlac contains no mineral drugs. It is made of Nature's own medicines for the sick.

For all that Tanlac is indeed a grand medicine, the cost is less than 2c a dose—and your money will be refunded if it does not give you perfect satisfaction. Get a bottle at your druggist's today.

CAMBORNE.

CAMBORNE, Feb. 7. — The young people of this community are enjoying the excellent ice at the new rink. The hockey game on Saturday afternoon between Bethesda and Camborne drew a large crowd. The score was 2-3 in favor of Camborne.

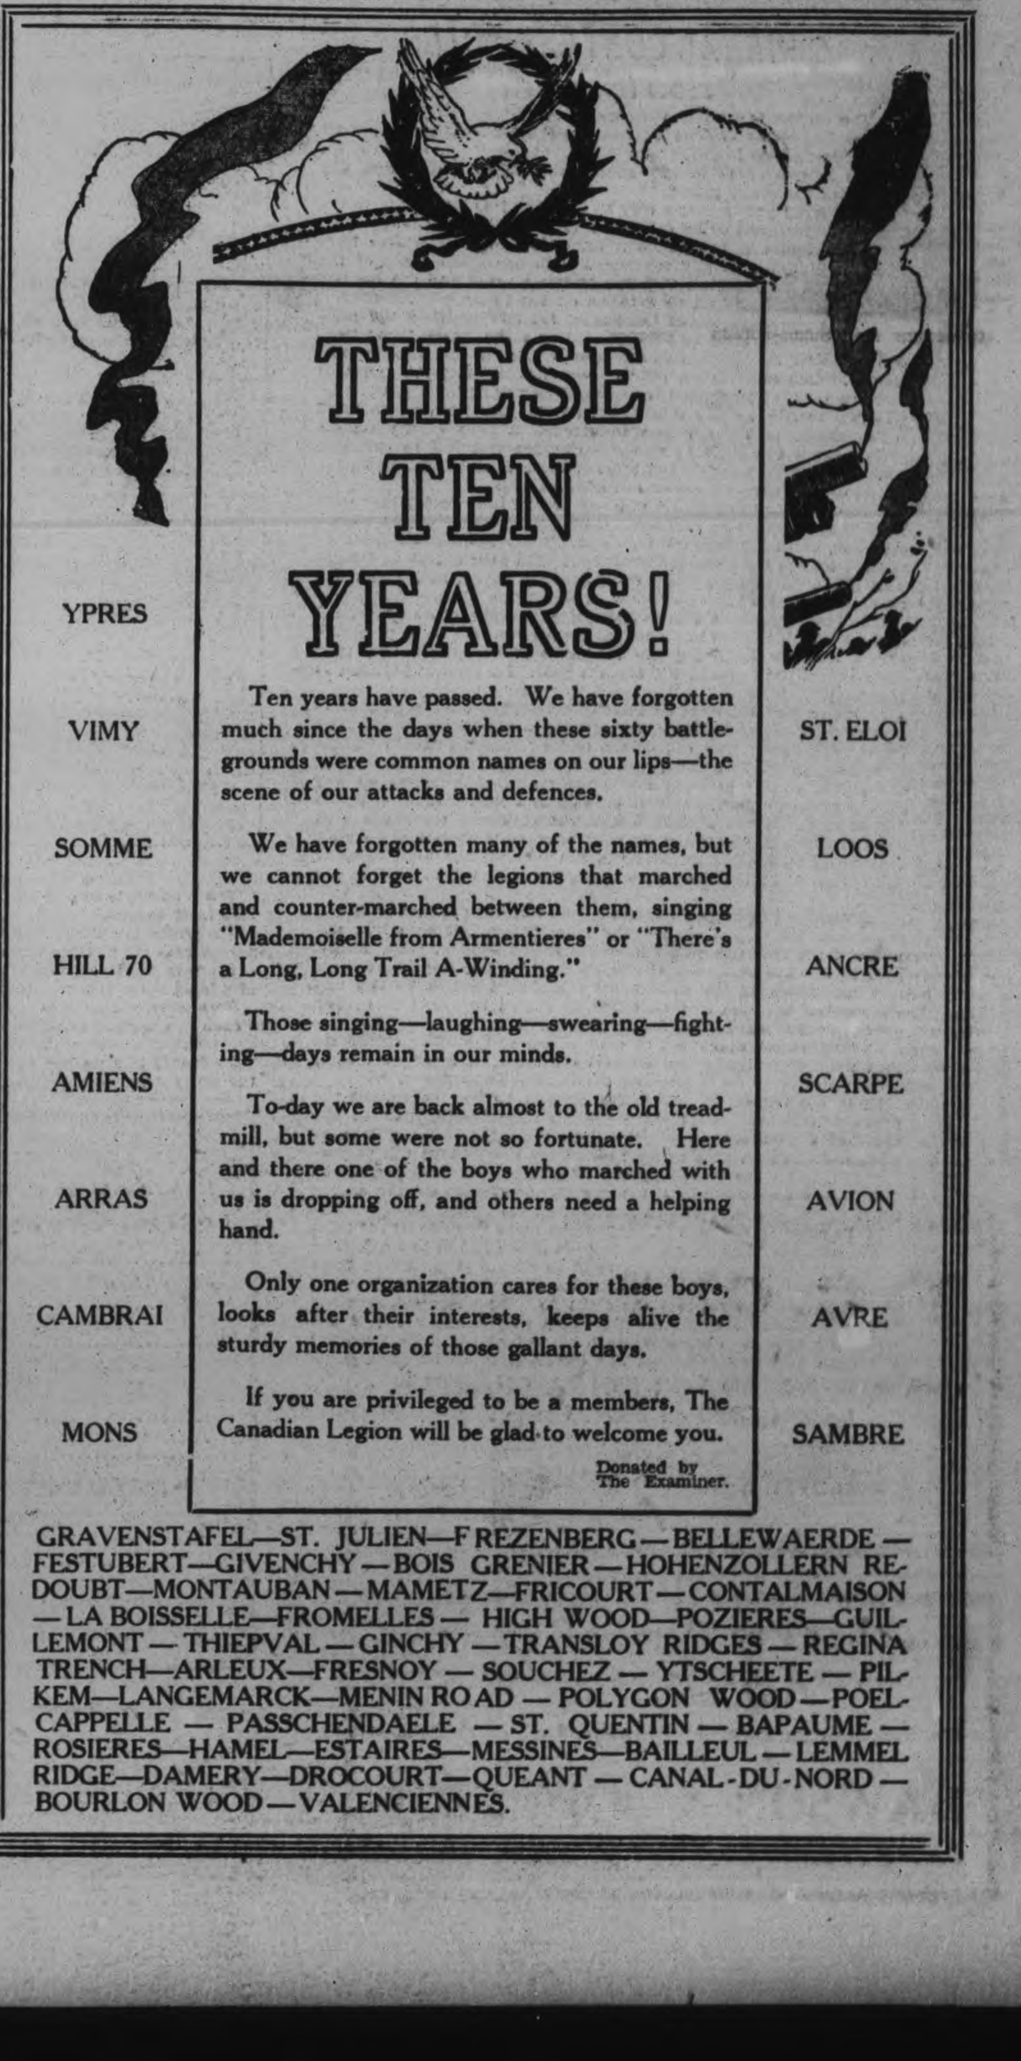
Rev. G. D. Campbell and Mr. H. Lander spent a few days last week in Toronto. The service was taken by Mr. Ellis Snelgrove of Victoria College, Toronto. He preached excellent sermons on Camborne charge.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Willis and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Howard Harper.

The young people are practising a play entitled "The Mystery Lady." This will be given in aid of the skating club.

Mr. and Mrs. William Kennedy and family spent Sunday at the home of his father, Mr. Robert Kennedy, Bethesda.

A large number from here attended the funeral on Wednesday of little Jack Davey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Davey. He was in his fifth year, and a very bright and attractive little fellow and his passing is much regretted by a host of friends.



THESE TEN YEARS!

Ten years have passed. We have forgotten much since the days when these sixty battlegrounds were common names on our lips—the scene of our attacks and defences.

We have forgotten many of the names, but we cannot forget the legions that marched and counter-marched between them, singing "Mademoiselle from Armentieres" or "There's a Long, Long Trail A-Winding."

Those singing—laughing—swearing—fighting—days remain in our minds.

To-day we are back almost to the old treadmill, but some were not so fortunate. Here and there one of the boys who marched with us is dropping off, and others need a helping hand.

Only one organization cares for these boys, looks after their interests, keeps alive the sturdy memories of those gallant days.

If you are privileged to be a members, The Canadian Legion will be glad to welcome you.

MINES.

F. G. Oke and Company wires as follows:

Toronto, Feb. 7.—After showing much greater strength during yesterday afternoon's trading, the mining market opened up much stronger this morning. The feature was that of Malartic, which opened up 10 cents above yesterday's close, and sold as high as 98 cents, later receding to around 90 cents at noon, showing a net gain of 8 cents per share.

Aconda also showed considerable strength at the opening, later selling off gradually a few points. More significant than these single advances is the manner in which the market leaders are holding their prices and small gains from last week. Amulet showed a net gain at noon of 10 cents per share. Noranda stiffened while Abana, Teck Hughes, Wright-Hargreaves and others remained practically unchanged.

The way the market in general is acting it appears as though bottom prices have been reached and that a general improvement may be expected gradually in the future. As a result, it seems that the market is a real buying market.

The activities of Lake Shore, although not receiving much publicity at the present time, are not to be overlooked. We are informed that ore is being developed on the 1,000-foot level in a truly remarkable manner and width of 20 feet running as nigh as $50 per ton are much greater than at first supposed. On the 1,000-foot level, 2,000 feet of drifting in ore has been done in the north vein and 2,000 feet in ore in the south vein.

Such tremendous vein lengths and consistency of ore deposition, together with widths of 20 feet, give some little insight into the enormous possibilities and of reserve of Lake Shore. Similar values and widths are reported in the north vein on the 1,400-foot level. The south vein has been opened up on the 1,600-foot level for a length of about 700 feet, showing widths of 12 feet of $15 ore. Also we are informed diamond drilling is contemplated from the 1,600-foot level to test the possibilities of the property at greater depth and when sufficient data has been obtained in this manner, shaft sinking to greater depths can be anticipated. Increases are being made in daily milling capacity to some 850 tons and further preparations are under way for a milling capacity of 1,000 tons per day during the year 1928. Such a production is expected to give Lake Shore a revenue of about $7,000,000 per annum with profits amounting to approximately 200 per cent. of total capitalization each year. As dividends are being paid quite regularly a rate of 80 per cent. per annum, further large increases may be anticipated which generally means further share appreciation too.

The above by no means outlines the maximum proportions that Lake Shore production may eventually attain. At a rate of 1,000 tons per day the company is well assured of many years of profitable production.

Corn Prices Higher; Wheat Little Firmer

CHICAGO, February 7 (Canadian Press).—With corn export business in progress south-west at the highest basis so far this season, the corn market here displayed notable strength to-day. Besides the weather was unfavorable for movement of corn and for curing the crop. Opening at 1-8 to ½ cent advance, corn prices subsequently scored material further gains. Wheat started unchanged to 3-8 cent higher and kept near to the initial figures. Oats were firm. Provisions likewise tended upward.

Opening prices were: Wheat, Mar. 128¼ to 128 3-8; May, 128 5-8 to 128¾; July, 126¾. Corn, March, 88 5-8 to 88¾; May, 91¼ to 91 3-8; July, 92¾. Oats, March 54½; May, 55 1-8; July, 51 3-8.

Malartic Is Leader In Standard Exchange

TORONTO, Feb. 7. — Canadian Press. — Malartic jumped sharply to-day on the Standard mining exchange selling up to 99 in early trading after closing at 80 yesterday. The close was around 90. Amulet was strong and active gaining ten at 390 at noon and Nipissing sold up 12 at 517. Noranda continued weak, easing 10 at 19.65. The rest of the market was practically unchanged with the tendency in many stocks to ease slightly. The losses however were not so numerous as the gains.

SALESMANSHIP IS IMPORTANT

Purpose of Town is Distribution of Merchandise, Says Dr. Karr.

ADDRESSES SALES PEOPLE.

"Why is a town?" was the question Dr. Alexander Karr shot at the group of merchants, sales folk and business college students at St. Alphonsus' Lyceum Hall in the first of his series of talks on Salesmanship and Merchandising, being given under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce.

Then Dr. Karr proceeded to answer his own question in one of the most interesting and instructive talks on personality as a sales force ever given in the city.

"A town," said Dr. Karr, "is the place for storage and distribution of commodities needed for feeding, clothing and sheltering humanity. It is a trading centre, a place to buy and sell merchandise. The people who do this selling are the most important people in town, for they, by their attitude toward their job, determine whether or not people will come there to buy. It is the most important job in town. On the efficiency of sales people depend the future of any city.

"The most important factor in salesmanship," continued Dr. Karr, "is personality. This is true whether you are selling goods or service. Personality is the outward manifestation of the inward man. The voice of what a man is speaks so loud at times folks cannot hear the words uttered by the lips.

"Yet personality is not the appearance though the appearance is of tremendous importance."

The speaker carried his audience along with the closest attention, using noted writers and historical characters to illustrate his points.

The second meeting will be held Wednesday morning at the Lyceum Hall. Each address is complete in itself so that those who missed the first address can start to-morrow.

M. J. Maher, of Maher and Wesley, having heard Dr. Alexander Karr deliver the first of the series of addresses, enthusiastically stated that in his opinion the address was most inspiring, interesting, instructive and educational. Mr. Maher expressed the hope that all the citizens might hear Dr. Karr while he is in the city.

Mr. Benson, assistant manager, Canadian Department Stores, Ltd., characterized the address as wonderful, especially the references to personality. Mr. Benson thought that all salespeople should hear Dr. Karr, and the beneficial effect of his talks would be felt long after his departure from the city.

One man this morning stated that he with his wife would hear the address Wednesday at 9.00 a.m.

All citizens are invited.

ALEX ANDERSON HURT COASTING

Sustains Compound Fracture of Right Leg on School Hill.

TOBOGGAN HITS POST.

One of the worst accidents of the winter sport season, locally, occurred about 8.30 last night when Alex. Anderson, of 526 Chamberlain Street, suffered a compound fracture of his right leg while tobogganing on Prince of Wales School hill.

Mr. Anderson, a member of the Cognawaga Sports Club, was on the first toboggan to go down the hill, and it struck a tree or post. He was picked up and taken to Nicholls Hospital, where, this morning, he was reported to be resting as comfortably as could be expected. The injured man was an employee of the Canadian General Electric Company.

GYM PAGEANT PLANS STARTED

Special Committees For Annual Y.W.C.A. Exhibition To Be Named.

BOARD MEETS.

The main items of business in connection with the Y.W.C.A. board meeting yesterday afternoon were the pageant and arrangements for a series of small teas in order to supplement the funs of the Association. Mrs. R. J. Kidd, convenor of the Social Committee, outlined the idea of the teas and members of the board offered to co-operate. In this way the board hopes to raise over $150.

Plans for the big gymnasium pageant are already under way. A meeting of the general pageant committee will be held on Wednesday, February 8, at 2.30, when the special committees will be named. Over 500 members are now enrolled in the gymnasium department, and are enthusiastically beginning preparation of the pageant program. It is expected the sewing committees will commence work on 350 costumes next week, and all who will volunteer to help with the sewing will be most welcome. The regular monthly reports all showed progress in the different departments several new classes being started in the educational and religious work.

SCOUT MEETING PLANS MATURE

Progress Being Made in Arrangements For Convention Next Week.

ATTENDANCE TO BE LARGE.

The committee in charge of preparations for the big Scout convention which opens here next week, met in the Chamber of Commerce Council room on Monday afternoon for the purpose of checking up on the progress being made by the various smaller committees in charge of certain phases of the work. Their findings were most satisfactory, according to J. J. Turner, Scout Commissioner and secretary of the committee, who stated that plans are working out well, and Peterborough citizens generally are offering every assistance. The billeting committee is doing good work and there has not been any serious delay in any department.

At the meeting, various communications were dealt with and further instructions to committees were given. Many invitations to attend the convention have been acknowledged and it is hoped by the committee that all invited will signify their intentions in the near future.

WATERWORKS SHOWS PROFIT

Revenue and Expenditure Both Increase During 1927.

The annual report of R. L. Dobbin, manager of the Utilities Commission, for the Waterworks Department shows that the total revenue from all sources for 1927 amounted to $127,750.96, being an increase of $1,001.75 over the total revenue for 1926. This showing is most favorable considering that the revenue for the first six months of 1926 was assessed on the basis of the higher rates which were then in force.

The increase this year is largely due to services laid for new houses and additional fixtures installed in old dwellings.

Included in the revenue for 1927 are the following items representing total discounts paid during the year by consumers on overdue accounts:

Domestic consumers	$ 730.92
Commercial consumers	61.36
Metered consumers	143.34
Special (owners)	96.04
Frontage rates	150.49
Total	$1182.15

Total revenue from water consumers amounted to $125,284.35, and the operating and maintenance charges were $124,776.90, leaving a profit of $507.45, to which is added:

Rent of the dam for power purposes	$2000.00
Rent of the Waterworks dwellings, less mantenance and taxes	463.40
Special refund	3.21
Total net profit for year.	$2974.06

The increase in the operating and maintenance charges is largely due to the costs incurred in relaying mains and many services consequent upon street paving during 1927. During the year there was expended on capital construction of mains and hydrants $2,640.69 and service pipes $3041.60.

Around the City

The Fire Brigade had two calls to handle since last evening. At 7.13 p.m. a chimney fire at 481 Albert Street was extinguished by chemicals, while shortly after midnight a call came in from 469 Parnell Street to a chimney fire at that address. Chemicals were used in this instance also.

CHAIRMEN BEGIN CAMPAIGN WORK

membership as well as investments in the activities fund.

The educational campaign under the direction of Alexander Karr, a former Canadian, is progressing rapidly. Mr. Karr spoke four time on Monday—at Rotary, the Business College, Knox Men's Club and St. Paul's Men's Club.

He began his series of salesmanship talks at St. Alphonsus Hall this morning at 9 o'clock with the students of the Business College in attendance in a body as well as some one hundred merchants and clerks. This address was well received and generaly commented upon about the city. This series is a contribution he is making to the merchants of the city in addition to hs regular addresses for the Chamber of Commerce. They will continue each morning at 9 o'clock at St. Alphonsus Lyceum Hall. Some special work is also planned for the schools, particularly the Collegiate and St. Peter's High Schools. Principal H. R. H. Kenner has consented to the distrimution of a questionaire to the student body asking them to answer five questions:

1.—Do you expect to attend an institution of higher learning when you finish Collegiate?
2.—What do you expect to make your life work?
3.—When you finish or leave school do you expect to remain in Peterborough?
4.—Why?
5.—What, in your opinion, can the Chamber of Commerce do to make Peterborough a better city?

These answers will be assembled by Dr. Karr and the conclusions given in a special address.

Dr. Karr will be the special speaker at the Kiwanis luncheon on Friday.

RAYBESTOS BEGINS RADIO BROADCAST

Silver Edge Orchestra May Be Heard Each Monday Evening.

Those who were listening in last night on Station CKNC Toronto, 357 metres, from nine until ten o'clock, heard an exceptionally fine program by the Raybestos Silver Edge Orchestra.

This is about one of the first times on which Peterborough has received any distinct advertising over the radio.

Each Monday evening until the end of April this radio hour will be continued by the Canadian Raybestos Company and their Silver Edge orchestra, and if you are really wanting to hear a high class musical program, by first class artists, this concert will be sure to appeal to you.

CROWN LIFE'S YEAR ONE OF PROGRESS

Total Insurance Now $87,877,013—H. R. Stephenson Becomes Director.

Reports presented at the annual meeting of the Crown Life Insurance Company in the head office here yesterday afternoon showed that the total insurance now in force is $87,877,013, an increase of 21 per cent. for the year.

New insurance was written during 1927 totalling $26,780,177, an increase in new business of 20 per cent. over the previous year. Cash income amounted to $3,570,406.76 and assets have increased to $10,383,193.95. The surplus earnings were the largest in the history of the company. The company is living up to its record of doubling in size every four years.

H. R. STEPHENSON, General Manager of the Crown Life Insurance Company for the past eight years, during which period the company has quadrupled in size. Mr. Stephenson was elected a director of the company at the annual meeting just held.

The address of President H. Victor Cawthra, read in his absence through illness by H. D. Burns, referred to the steady progress shown by the company over a period of years, likening its growth to that of a vigorous oak tree rather than the sudden sprouting of a mushroom.

Good Investment Return.

In presenting the financial report, General Manager H. R. Stephenson said that the average rate of interest earned on securities held was 6.59 per cent. and that a substantial profit was made on the sale of securities. The excellent condition of the company's investments was shown by the fact that the amount of interest due was less than one-thirtieth of 1 per cent. of the assets. He stated that the company expects shortly to pass the hundred million mark in insurance in force.

Directors were re-elected and H. R. Stephenson, General Manager for the past eight years, was added to the board, which is now composed as follows: Shareholders' directors, H. Victor Cawthra, C. W. Somers, John F. Ellis, H. D. Burns, H. R. Stephenson, all of Toronto; G. O. Somers of Pasadena and G. A. Morson of Havana. Policyholders' directors: W. R. Morson, F. Erichsen Brown, W. F. Watkins, G. E. Spragge, all of Toronto, and F. McD. Russell of Vancouver.

Bonds We Recommend

IN the February issue of our booklet "Investment Securities," which is now ready, will be found our current investment recommendations.

Carefully chosen Government, Municipal, Railroad, Public Utility and Industrial securities are offered for your consideration, each one being a desirable investment in its class.

TRIPLE PUMPER IS DEMONSTRATED

Gotfredson Company Takes Machine To Lakefield This Afternoon.

A new Gotfredson triple pumper came into the city this morning and left this afternoon for Lakefield, where a demonstration will be given. This pumper is much smaller than the one in the city but is especially adapted to fighting fires in small towns and villages. The town of Whitby recently purchased one similar to the one being demonstrated in Lakefield.

IN POLICE COURT

Harry Jackson pleaded guilty to exposing or keeping for sale, liquor at his residence on Water Street, and was sentenced to two months in the common jail. J. A. O'Brien appeared for the accused, and asked for the minimum sentence as his client had made a clean breast of everything and furnished the police with the information that they required. "While he did sell it was not a profitable proposition. He has foolishly blundered into it." said Mr. O'Brien.

Chief Newhall said the man's downfall was a result of being too fond of liquor and of the influence of a gang carousing around his home.

William Worboy pleaded not guilty to a charge of operating a car while intoxicated, and the case was adjourned for a week, bail being set at $1,000.

Herbert Colmer pleaded guilty to two charges of taking cars from near the corner of Water and Charlotte Streets. On Saturday, February 4, he took an auto, the property of the Peterborough Floral Company, without the consent of the owner, and on Sunday, January 8, he took a car, the property of Walter Terris. He was remanded until Friday for sentence. Colmer met with a very painful accident last fall when he fell down a steep cliff in Ottawa.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, February 7 (Canadian Press). — Soaking general rains giving relief from drought which has threatened domestic winter wheat prospects gave a downward swing to the wheat market yesterday. Corn advanced on account of big export business, but later reacted.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, ½c to ⅝c net lower, corn ⅛c to ⅜c down, oats a shade to ⅛c to ¼c off, and provisions showing 10c to 22c decline.

Wheat underwent a material setback in price right at the outset, the south-west and west reporting the best rain in months. Meanwhile the amount of wheat afloat for Europe was shown to have increased 6,625,000 bushels last week.

A substantial decrease of the United States wheat visible supply helped to rally Chicago wheat prices in the late dealings. There was also a sharp advance in cash wheat premiums here which were 1 to 3 cents up for red winters, ½c to 2c up for hard winter, and 1c to 2c better for spring wheat. Moreover, the domestic visible supply total showed 1,844,000 bushels falling-off, just about an exact counterbalance for 1,838,000 bushels increase of the Canadian visible supply.

Estimates of corn export business yesterday varied from 750,000 bushels to 1,000,000 bushels. The export buying was done at a comparatively high trading basis. Oats eased down as a result of sympathy with wheat as well as with corn.

COSTGUARDS SEARCH FAILS

Can Find No Trace of Men Reported Marooned on Ice Floe.

BUFFALO, Feb. 6 — (Canadian Press.)—Capt. Paul Forner and his crew of coastguardsmen returned to harbor this morning without finding the ten fishermen believed marooned on an ice floe in Lake Erie since yesterday. An airplane was held in readiness at Buffalo airport for a flight over the lake in an attempt to locate the men. Some doubt was expressed to-day that the men are missing. A local pilot drove the plane alone the Canadian shore yesterday after he had received reports from two sources that the men had been carried out into the lake after a floe had broken away. No signs of the men were seen by the pilot.

Residents of the Canadan shore, however, felt certain that the fishermen were adrift and helpless to aid themselves in the near zero weather. The search was pressed on their positive assurances.

CHURCH MEETING WELL ATTENDED

Trent River United Congregation Prospered During Past Year.

TRENT RIVER, Feb. 7—There were about one hundred in attendance at the annual congregational meeting of the United Church, Trent River, held recently. The meeting had been postponed the second time owing to weather conditions. Rev. W. R. Archer occupied the chair for the evening, and opened the meeting with a hymn "All hail the power of Jesus' Name," followed by prayer led by Messrs. W. W. Redden and John Lawson, after which all repeated the Lord's Prayer, followed by the hymn, "Unto the Hills."

The general business of the evening began with the appointment of George Van Volkenburg as secretary for the meeting. Rev. Mr. Archer read some laws of church government as given in the new 1927 yearbook of the United Church of Canada.

Fifteen minutes were allowed for voting on the ballots for members of session and stewards, as a number had not previously cast their vote.

A committee, Messrs. Isaac Lawson, John Scott, Thomas K. Thompson, Charlie Spencer and H. McMullen, were appointed to decide in case of a tie vote.

The first report was from Mr. Van Volkenburg on the finances of the church for the past nine months, as follows: Receipts — Envelope collections, $480.45; plate collections, $49.79; anniversary services, $121.75, plus bank interest, making a total of $679.73. Expenditures were $627.86, leaving a balance on hand of $51.87.

A hearty vote of appreciation was tendered Mr. Van Volkenburg and son Harold, who work together in keeping the books.

This appointment has doubled its amount of previous year, with no assistance from the Ladies' Aid.

The report from the Ladies' Aid was given by Mrs. Thomas K. Thompson, which showed this society in a flourishing condition, the receipts amounting to $519.12, expenditure $443.54, with balance of $109.33. The Ladies' Aid was responsible for the cost of re-shingling the church roof, the cost of which was $195.04. A hearty vote of appreciation was tendered the Ladies' Aid.

The report from the Sunday School was given by Rufus Redden. In the nine months the Sunday School had paid off indebtedness of $25.82, and supplies were paid for three months in advance. The showing was exceedingly good for this length of time but there is a present liability of over $30 of a long-standing indebtedness. Plans are being made by a committee consisting of Mrs. John Scott, Mrs. E. Hawley, Messrs. Willie Scott and George Van Volkenburg, to arrange a date for a lecture to be given by Rev. Mr. Archer on his trip through the Western Provinces last summer. A nominal admission fee is to be charged to go towards paying off the debt.

A report from the Young Men's Class was given by the treasurer, Gerald Buchanan. Receipts were $21.70, and expenditures $21.70. This included $4.20 for charitable purposes and $7.50 for missions. An amusing incident occurred previous to the hearing of this report. The receipts were $21.65, but Gerald announced that through the good-will of one of the members of the class who handed him the nickle, the deficit was wiped out.

The report from the Girls' Class by Miss Helen Scott showed a balance on hand of $1.08.

The report of Mrs. George Van Volkenburg's class, read by Fleda Thompson, showed receipts $14.39, expenditures $10.50, and a balance on hand of $3.89.

The report from Mrs. Charlie Spencer's class showed $5 paid to the Sunday School.

Considerable discussion took place regarding the condition of the church sheds. Some thought the sheds should be torn down and new ones built, but as the outlay would be considerable, it was decided to repair the present ones, and a committee of Messrs. H. McMullen, W. W. Redden and Willie Scott, was appointed to look after this work.

The scrutineers were asked to bring the ballot box for election results, and during the counting refreshments were served by the ladies of the congregation.

Before adjourning the result of the election of members of session was announced as follows: Messrs. George Spencer, George Van Volkenburg, W. W. Redden, Frank Davidson and Isaac Lawson.

The results of the voting for stewards elected were not given out as the ballots were not finished till a late hour.

The meeting closed in the usual way.

LARGE PARCELS INSURED FREE

Those For Which Postage Exceeds 40 Cents Given $50 Covering.

OTHER RATES STAND.

Certain changes in insurance of parcel post have recently come into force, the following information and instructions being received by Postmaster Charles Lacheur:

On and after the 4th of February, 1928, parcels posted in Canada for delivery in Canada on which charges of 40c or more have been prepaid, may be insured up to $50 without insurance fee.

The same insurance procedure as at present will be followed except that on the sender's receipt for such parcels the item 'fee' shall be checked with an X.

If the sender desires to insure such parcels in excess of $50 the regular insurance fee of 12c to cover the additional insurance must be prepaid.

There is no change as regards the insurance of parcels on which charges of less than 40c have been prepaid.

In this connection several rates have been raised. The Maritime provinces have been split up, New Brunswick retaining the same rate from Ontario, Nova Scotia moving into the next zone with Alberta, and Prince Edward Island rising to the maximum with British Columbia.

OPPOSITION LEADER SPEAKS IN CHURCH

Fred M. Payne, of Welland, Gives Fine Address at Lakefield.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 6.—Fred M. Payne of Welland, leader of the Opposition in the Older Boys' Parliament, was the speaker at the evening service in the Regent Street Church on Sunday last. He was introduced by the local member of the Boys' Parliament, Norman Lemay, who held the position of Minister of Cooperation.

Mr. Payne, who is a clever speaker, held the large congregation spellbound while he outlined the program of the Tuxis movement and the bond selling campaign, which is the means of raising money to carry on the work. He scored the people who, while prating of the need of leadership, are refusing personal responsibility and letting the Sunday School beg in vain for teachers to lead and train the young. Mr. Payne, besides his ability as a speaker, had a pleasing personality which made him a general favorite.

On Tuesday evening, A. B. Burrows and a number of the Tuxis Square of the Regent Street Church went to Peterborough to hear the address of Howard Scharfe, the Premier in the Older Boys' Parliament.

L.O.L. EMPLOYEE ACCUSED OF THEFT

Leonard Rowe Committed For Trial—Shortage Totals $16,000.

TORONTO Feb. 6. — Canadian Press. — Charged with the theft of sixteen thousand dollars from the Grand Orange Lodge of North America Leonard Rowe, for years an employee of the lodge, appeared in court to-day and was committed for trial. His counsel reserved plea.

Rowe was stenographer to William Lee, Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of British North America, and it is alleged his defalcations covered a period of years. The charges include falsifying and mutilating the books of the treasury.

He has not yet put up the $25,000 bail required.

THIEVES TAKE FOXES.

Steal 12 Animals Worth $1500 Each From Kingston Farm.

HAMILTON, Ont., Feb. 6 (Canadian Press).—Thieves raided the fox farm of Elliott and Nicholson at Kilbride over the week-end and stole twelve foxes, whole pelts alone are worth $1,500 each, the Provincial Police have been informed. The heavy loss has been further increased by the fact that the one remaining fox escaped and was shot by a farmer.

ELEVEN BOILS ON HER ARM AT ONE TIME

SLAYER CLAIMS SECOND VICTIM

Now Declares It Was Lucy, Not Bessie, Daly, He Killed.

LATTER STILL LIVING.

MONTREAL, February 6 (Canadian Press). — Jules Coulombe, confessed killer of Arthur Richard, variously described as a painter and a professional beggar, told the police to-day he never claimed to have killed Bessie Daly. He now says that his second victim was Lucy Daly, sister of Bessie. Bessie Daly walked into the Police Station yesterday. No trace of Coulombe's second victim has been unearthed by the police.

COUNCIL FAVORS

Board of Education say that if we appointed a man who was not satisfactory to them they would keep their own. We want that money taken off their estimates to add to the Board of Health."

Ald. Ackerman: "I don't think that you want to give the Board of Education an opinion as to what kind of man we are going to have. My idea is to approach them to appoint an officer satisfactory to both. The time is now opportune."

Ald. Greene: "The Board meets tomorrow night."

Ald. Stocker: "I think this Council has confidence in the Board of Education."

Mayor Denne: "They might try to dictate to us."

Ald. Huffman: "Would it not be an open position?"

Ald. Phelan: "I would think, in view of the Board of Education meeting tomorrow night, that if Ald. Ackerman would meet them it would put us on a better footing. I think that before we take the drastic step we want to know something more about their action. If they keep their officer we couldn't go ahead and appoint ours. Let them appoint a committee to meet with us to appoint a man to suit both."

Ald. Greene: "The motion is simply that the Council is in favor of a full-time M.O.H. In the meantime, if you and Ald. Ackerman meet them tomorrow night they will know we are in favor. That will bring the matter to a head. They might be able to make suggestions as to the doctor they would like."

Boards Represented.

Ald. Ackerman: "I think that I should state that the Board of Education and Separate School Board had representatives present at the meeting and they approved the motion. It wouldn't do any harm to see the Board tomorrow night."

Mayor Denne: "Did he have an official appointment?"

Ald. Cotton: "The passing of this resolution doesn't mean appointing an officer. The Council is agreed that the proper thing to do is to appoint one. I can't see why that can't pass."

Mayor Denne: "The money is in the Board of Education estimates."

City Treasurer Adams, when asked, said that the estimates have not yet been received.

Ald. Ackerman: "We have to start from the bottom."

Mayor Denne: "I'm satisfied with what has happened, but want assurance that the Board of Education will take the money out of its estimates so their would be no overlapping."

Ald. Phelan: "If this goes through could the Board, say five years from now, withdraw and appoint its own officer again?" City Solicitor Joseph Wearing could not say off-hand, but pointed out that the resolution moved by Ald. Macdonald was not binding. The Mayor expressed the opinion that the Provincial department would regulate that.

When the question was called, the Mayor, Ald. Phelan and Ald. McIntyre did not vote. The others present, Aldermen Cotton, Stocker, Huffman, Macdonald, Ackerman, Greene and Lowe, voted in favor.

"I haven't enough information on it to vote on it," explained Ald. McIntyre. "I thought you were going to have all the figures here for us to study."

To Reduce Appeals.

A proposal to appeal to the people to cut down their appeals for grants was advanced by Ald. Greene, but turned down, the Aldermen agreeing with Ald. Phelan that they could deal with the matter when the estimates come up.

"We hardly know yet what are going to be the appeals to this Council for financial assistance," said Ald. Greene, introducing his resolution. "There are rumors that the appeals will be greater. We hardly know yet what is going to be done, and whether the revenue will be sufficient to meet all the demands and satisfy everybody. It seems to me that the more the Council gives the more it may give. It seems to me that some education ought to be given the people as to what these requests mean with a view to reducing them. Our assessment is little higher and it looks impossible to keep the rate down.

"I would like to move that Your Worship be asked to write a letter to the press that every citizen, body or organization planning to appeal for assistance should keep as low as possible. If such an appeal is made it should awaken the people to the difficulties in handling the money, and should have some effect in keeping the demands low."

Ald. Cotton seconded the motion.

The Mayor: "I might say that every request is higher than last year. I don't like to go to the press, but I suppose I will have to."

Ald. Phelan: "The idea seems all right, but it will look as if we are getting panic-stricken. We are elected by the people to do business. Let us go over the requests as they come in, and if we see that the rate is going to be too high, let us hew and cut and let the chips fall where they may. We have that bill for $36,000 for the highway, the capital part of which will probably have to be met by a debenture issue."

On the vote Aldermen Greene, Cotton, Ackerman and Macdonald supported the motion, while Aldermen Phelan, Stocker, McIntyre, Huffman and Lowe voted against it.

Deputations Heard.

Dr. Bernie was spokesman for a deputation from the Well Babies' Clinic, and told of the work of the Clinic. The purpose is to help mothers by teaching them in order to have better babies. There was a total attendance of 1,200 babies during last year.

The Mayor assured the ladies that the matter would be considered by the Finance Committee, and asked that a statement of receipts and expenditures be submitted for consideration when the question of a full-time M.O.H. is taken up.

Frank G. Stinson read a petition from the Chamber of Commerce setting forth that a large sum is spent by the Chamber and other bodies on publicity, and asking for a grant of $3,000, the maximum amount the Council may legally grant for this work.

J. Wells Fraser supported the petition, pointing out that the money was not for the ordinary expenses of the Chamber, but to be spent on publicity. He suggested an information bureau on the highway at Sherbrooke street as one good way of helping encourage the tourist traffic. This would be provided for in this grant, along with other similar publicity endeavors.

Alpine MacNab mentioned that the money will not all be spent on tourists, but will also help to attract industries. He stated that many of the factories in Peterborough are busier, but through greater efficiency are not employing more people. The railways are interested in getting more industries, and the Chamber of Commerce is well equipped for this class of work.

Mayor Denne promised consideration in Finance Committee.

Conveniences of 1828.

That the ratepayers of James street pay 1928 taxes but have 1828 sanitary inconveniences, was the statement of W. Tinker, heading a delegation from that street. They had been told that there were not enough houses to support the sewer, but he submitted that there would be no more houses built until a sewer is available.

The Mayor announced that the Engineer had already been instructed to bring in a report on the feasibility of the construction.

$36,000 for the Highway.

The Department of Highways submitted a statement of the city's share, $36,055.53, of the cost of re-surfacing the Provincial highway last year, and demanding payment within six months.

The Utilities Commission asked for $31,454 for water for public use in 1928.

Mrs. A. Scott wrote telling of an accidnt on Perry Street, charging that nothing is done in that district to remedy slippery conditions, and suggesting the use of some toothed apparatus to break the surface of the ice.

Peck, Kerr & McElderry gave notice of an accident to Mrs. Mary Carroll.

W. Phelan gave notice of an accident on Charlotte street.

Grants Requested.

The Salvation Army's request for the usual grant of $500 and the District L.O.L. appeal for $400 for the quadrennial celebration here, were referred to the Finance Committee.

Bylaws were passed as follows:

2761—Re-appointing G. A. Gillespie, whose term had expired, to the Peterborough City Trust for five years.

2762—Fixing the rate for garbage collection on the area served at .66 mills to raise $12,606.60 on an assessment of $19,100,915.00. This is an increase of six one-hundredths of a mill, or six cents on a $1,000 assessment.

"Is it necessary to appoint a man tonight? It is a matter that should be considered carefully," said Ald. Stocker, when a bylaw to appoint a successor to Richard Hall on the City Trust was introduced.

Mayor Denne: "This is an important commission, carrying the care of a lot of money."

On motion of the Mayor and Ald. Cotton, the appointment of a successor to Mr. Hall was left over.

Ald. Phelan: "What is the advantage of leaving this to a special meeting?"

Mayor Denne: "There are no axes to grind. It's an important appointment for five years, and we should look for a man of business to go on this commission. I have no one in mind at present."

The Property Committee was authorized to sell the ashes from the Incinerator.

The Council passed a resolution asking that the game laws be amended to prevent fishing through the ice. The Mayor explained that a great quantity is taken from Rice Lake every day.

Ald. Ackerman added that while the taking of pickerel is legal, many bass and 'lunge are taken.

Garrett Spencer was granted a renewal of his billiard table license and Louis Yeotes a renewal of his eating-house license.

A resolution of regret at the passing of Richard Hall was passed unanimously.

The Mayor will look after representation on a deputation to ask the Province to provide homes for senile patients being released from the asylums.

A resolution for endorsement from the Vancouver Trades and Labor Council asking the Federal Government to take steps to institute unemployment insurance, was referred to the Legal Committee.

The City Engineer will supervise the trimming of trees by the Bell Telephone Company.

J. R. Brownlee was granted a renewal of his eating-house license free of charge for his news-stand at Charlotte and Aylmer streets.

The Mayor and Clerk will arrange for the Council to attend a service at Trinity Church.

Deputation Reports.

Ald. Greene reported that he and Mayor Denne with representatives of fifteen other centres, had presented resolutions, framed recently at London, to the Ontario Government. The Premier had assured them that the Cabinet was looking into the matter and had practically promised that the tax on gas for municipal vehicles would be removed. Ald. Greene was impressed by the fact that the Premier had not been in any way autocratic, but had given every person a chance to express an opinion.

The arrears in water frontage rates were ordered put on the Tax Collector's roll.

The men at the city rinks will be paid in full instead of being laid off and docked when there is no skating. This was decided after some discussion had ensued, opened by Alderman Phelan, who said: "It seems to me, in view of the unseasonable weather causing the rink caretakers losing so much time and they getting such small wages, they should be paid for full time. I suppose Ald. Greene has no alternative, but to cut their pay."

Ald. Greene: "I don't know about having no alternative nor where you get the information about them losing so much time. There was one bad week when they lost three days. Mr. Evans and I concluded that for occasional soft days we would keep the men on for the protection of our property. I think they lost only three days."

Ald. Macdonald: "They were chosen as men with large families and are paid a weekly wage, and shouldn't be docked."

Mayor Denne: "Mr. Parsons tells me they were not there this morning, a good morning to make ice."

Ald. Greene: "They weren't there on Saturday afternoon and evening."

Ald. Macdonald: "I think they should be paid and given instructions that they must be there."

Aldermen McIntyre and Macdonald moved that the men be paid in full, while Ald. Greene moved an amendment that the matter be left in his hands.

Ald. Phelan: "When I brought this up I thought they had lost a great deal of money."

Ald. Macdonald: "When a man is paid $15 a week it means $15 a week, not so much a day."

Ald. Ackerman seconded Ald. Greene's amendment.

Ald. Greene: "What's the use of these men being on the job when there is nothing to do?"

The motion carried.

Ald. Macdonald advocated the initiation of steps to improve the bank along Crescent street, prophesizing that in a few years the trees will fall into the lake.

Ald. Huffman advised that the Kiwanis Club had approached J. J. Duffus in regard to the matter and was getting progress.

HARVEY RECOVERS.

Actor Is Expected To Leave Hospital This Week.

TORONTO, Feb. 6 (Canadian Press).—Sir John Martin Harvey, notable English actor, is expected to leave Wellesley Hospital this week, having practically recovered from an operation for intestinal ailments performed some weeks ago. He is expected to rejoin his company at Vancouver, B.C., next Monday.

CHANGE OF WIND SAVES PALESTINE

Swarm of Locusts is Carried Into Desert Near Petra.

JERUSALEM, Feb. 6 (Canadian Press).—A sudden change in the wind has saved Palestine from a destructive visitation of locusts, which had been expected this spring, and to combat which the Government had made elaborate preparations. Last Thursday, swarms of locusts appeared near Petra, wafted on a wind blowing toward Palestine. The Government immediate began to mobilize for defence, including flame guns, when the wind suddenly changed and the locusts were carried to a barren rocky part of the desert.

Uncle Wiggily

To-day's Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY AND SUSIE'S JACK.

Sammie Littletail, the rabbit boy with whom Uncle Wiggily had lived before Mr. Longears got a wife and children of his own—Sammie Littletail was hopping down the street as fast as he could hop.

"What's the matter?" called Uncle Wiggily. The rabbit gentleman had stepped out on his front porch to let his pink, twinkling nose get a little fresh air and thus he saw the rabbit boy. "What's the matter, Sammie?"

"Susie is chasing me with a stick!" answered Sammie, hopping on faster than before.

"That's a queer thing for Susie to do," said Uncle Wiggily, "especially in Christmas week. Are you sure about it, Sammie?"

"Susie is chasing me with a stick!" answered Sammie

"Look behind you and see," advised the rabbit boy. And when Uncle Wiggily had looked, lo and behold, as they say in fairy stories, there was Susie running along with a stick in her paws.

"She's chasing you, now!" gasped Sammie. "You'd better run along with me, Uncle Wiggily! Hurry! Here comes Susie with her stick!"

Sammie was going to hop along, but Uncle Wiggily caught him by one ear, held him from running away and called out:

"Nonsense! There must be some mistake. Susie isn't chasing either of us. Are you Susie?" asked Uncle Wiggily, for, by this time, the little girl rabbit was much closer.

"Of course I'm not chasing you," Susie answered.

"Then what are you got that stick for?" Sammie wanted to know.

"That's the stick my Christmas Jumping Jack was on," explained Susie, holding it up for her brother and Uncle Wiggily to see. "But he's gone now."

"Who is gone?" asked Mr. Longears.

"My Jack," went on Susie. "This is his stick," she said again. "Oh, he was a lovely Jumping Jack," she sighed. "When I pushed him up and down on this stick he turned somersaults and everything. I was making him do tricks a little while ago, when, all of a sudden, he jumped off the stick and sailed away through the air. So I began to run after him with his stick, hoping I could find him and put him back on."

"Oh, so that's why you were running with the stick?" asked Sammie.

"Yes, that's why," replied Susie. "I wasn't chasing you or Uncle Wiggily at all. I was just chasing Jack and I wish you'd help me find him. I want my Christmas toy again."

"We'll help you find your Jack," offered Uncle Wiggily kindly. "Hop along Sammie." So the three rabbits, one big and two little, started off through Wood Land to find the missing Jumping Jack. They hunted high and they hunted low and, all of a sudden, Sammie shouted:

"Here he is! I've found Jack!" The rabbit boy pointed to the gay, red Christmas toy perched on an old mulberry bush not far away.

"Oh, Jack! Come back! Come back!" begged Susie.

"Ha! Ha! No, I'm not coming back!" cried Jack. "I'm free now, and off my stick, and I'm going to have some fun!" Away he jumped through the air, sailing along like a balloon, with Sammie, Susie and Uncle Wiggily hopping after him.

"He won't go far," said Mr. Longears. "Jack will soon get tired of jumping around and then we can catch him." So again they hunted high and low for him and then Uncle Wiggily called: "Here he is!" and there, on a sassafras bush, was the Christmas toy once more.

"Come back on your stick!" begged Susie.

"Not yet!" shouted Jack, and away he jumped. This time he jumped toward a big, fuzzy, evergreen tree and as he landed among the branches Jack yelled: "Oh, my goodness! Oh, dear—Save me! Save me!" and suddenly he jumped back off the evergreen tree, right upon the stick in Susie's paws. "Oh, what a fright!" gasped Jumping Jack.

"Well, you're safe now, but what happened?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, the Fuzzy Fox is hiding under that tree. I saw his bushy tail!" panted Jack. "I nearly jumped on him. Oh, the Fox!"

"If the Fox is there we had better run," said Sammie. But Uncle Wiggily was feeling brave that day. So he went closer to the evergreen tree to look. And when he had taken a look he began to laugh.

"Come and see Jack's Fox!" chuckled the rabbit gentleman. And when Sammie and Susie looked there was nothing but an old dusting brush half covered with snow.

"Well," said Jack as he began once more to jump around his stick, "it looked like a Fox, anyhow. But I'm glad it wasn't."

"So am I," said Sammie. So the three rabbits went home happy.

MINER'S VISIT IS IMPORTANT

Protection of Fish and Game is Subject Needing Special Attention.

HERE FRIDAY

The coming to Peterborough of Jack Miner is always an event of interest, but his visit on Friday promises to be more interesting than usual because of the importance of his topic to Peterborough's summer resort district.

The importance of preserving the fish and game resources of the country north of the city cannot be overestimated in view of the attraction offered to sportsmen, bringing them here from all sections of Canada and the United States. The tourist business has developed of late years until now it is recognized as worth cultivating. All the advertising that can be done, however, will be useless unless Peterwborough district has what the visitors want—and preservation of fish and game is a necessity.

Mr. Miner is being brought to the city by the Fish and Game Association, and he will give his lectures in the Grand Opera House on Friday, February 10. One, at 4.15, will be for children and the second, at 8.30 for adults.

Lakefield

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 7.—Owing to the hockey match on Friday evening last the attendance at the card party given by St. Paul's ladies was not quite as large as uusal.

Prizes were won by Miss Margaret Sullivan and Capt. Johnston, while the consolation prizes were won by Mrs. Johnston and Mr. M. Delaney.

Mrs. G. G. Connell entertained four tables of bridge on Wednesday afternoon, the prizes were won by Mrs. E. M. Grier, Mrs. Fletcher and Mrs. Marling.

The annual Valentine Tea of St. John's W.A. will be held on Tuesday, February 14th, in the Sunday School from 3 to 6.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Beauclerc of Peterborough spent the week-end with Mrs. Beauclerc's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Holmes.

Mr. W. F. Oliver of Toronto was in the village last week on business.

Mr. Hugh Scully of Toronto was in the village last week on business.

Lieut. A. E. Webster left on Sunday for Toronto where he will take a six weeks' course at the military school.

Rev. and Mrs. J. Ross have moved into Mrs. Harvey's house on Chippewa Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Robinson, who have sold their home at the head of Colborn Street to Mr. W. J. Dunford, have moved into "Westove," the Traill home, now the property of Mrs. Katherine Traill Heddle on Smith Street.

Miss Marion Wagar was appointed a delegate to the C.G.I.T. Conference held in Peterborough on Saturday.

Reeve C. S. Tanner was in Peterborough last week attending the County Council.

Miss Mae Irwin of Lakehurst was in the village this week.

Miss Janet Quinn of Otonabee was in the village on Saturday.

Miss Isabel Sutton of Lakehurst spent Saturday in the village with her parents.

Miss Helen Burgess spent a few days in Peterborough this week with her sisters.

Miss Kathleen Le Grandeure, who spent the past two weeks with Mr. and Mrs. D. Garvey, has returned to her home in Toronto.

Miss Olive Northey of Wesley is visiting in the village.

Mrs. A. B. Burrows and Miss June were in Peterborough on Tuesday.

Miss Bella Hamilton was in Peterborough on Monday attending the funeral of the late George Crowe.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Gordon who spent a week in the village with friends, have returned to Bobcaygeon.

Mr. J. W. Stewart of Peterborough was in the village on Tuesday.

BOXING AT LUNCHEON

Boxing matches were served between courses at a luncheon given to a number of sporting men in Paris by a prominent figure in the pugilistic world. The table was in the form of a horseshoe, the center forming a ring. Here, with each course, was given a boxing contest, representing a period in the history of the sport.

ASSOCIATION LOSES PROVINCIAL GRANT

Policy of Advertising for Tourists at Big Shows Being Discontinued.

TORONTO, Feb. 7.—The Ontario Government has discontinued its policy of advertising the Province's tourist attractions at the big United States shows, and will confine its campaign this year to newspaper and magazine appeals.

It is understood that it has washed its hands of the Ontario Tourist Association, with which it has been associated for several years in endeavoring by means of a Tourist Publicity Bureau to attract United States holidayers to this Province. The $5,000 grant which it gave to the aid of the bureau in 1926 and 1927 will be withheld this season.

May Lose Indirectly.

While the Government may save considerable in "cold cash" by abandoning its shows and fairs policy, there is no telling what it will lose indirectly in tourist patronage, because the booth displays put on at the New York Motor Show and the Chicago Show have been directly responsible, it is said, for the first-time visits to Ontario of thousands of motorists.

Failure of the Tourist Association to live up to its end of financing the bureau is said to be responsible for the Government dropping out of the picture. That, and the resignation at the first of the year of Leon Frazer, who had had charge of the branch up to that time, and had given invaluable service to the Government in his Province-selling capacity.

Government View.

The Government feels, it is said, that Mr. Frazer cannot be replaced, and on top of that it has no further hankering, it is said, to foot the heavy end, if not all, of the expenditure involved in operating the bureau.

Lyrics of Life - By Douglas Malloch

WHEN FRIENDSHIP BREAKS

Old houses sometimes need repair,
But what about old friendships? There
Is something you must give some care.

Yet I have seen a friendship fall
When just one brick in just one wall,
One message, might have saved it all.

The seasons test the timber's grain,
The Winter's snow, the Summer's rain,
And so does friendship feel life's strain.

But when the burdened rafter bends
The wiser man the rafter mends.
If that's worth saving, what of friends?

Perhaps some foolish tale he heard
About you, truthless and absurd,
You might have mended with a word.

Perhaps you did your friend some ill,
And yet he might have loved you still,
Your fault forgiven, as friends will,

And so I say to you, if you
Find some old friendship breaking through,
Oh, do not let it break in two.

For there is nothing on this earth,
With all its money, all its mirth,
Worth half as much as friends are worth.

Yes, hold them closely to your breast,
And, if they fail some little test,
Let love remember all the rest.

Yes, if you find one rafter weak,
Then find your friend and frankly speak,
Forgiveness give, forgiveness seek.

Old houses sometimes need repair,
But what about old friendships? There
Is something you must give some care.

$24,000 in Prizes for True Stories

Each year True Story Magazine pays many thousands of dollars to its readers for stories taken from their lives. In your life, probably, there is a story for which we are willing to pay handsomely. This is the time to cash in upon it, for right now True Story is offering $24,000 in prizes, ranging from $200 each up to $1,000 each for true stories of the sort you have to tell. You will find the full particulars in the March issue.

WHEN the doctor gave Ruth thirty days to live . . . .Motherlike, she thought only of her children — five overworked, shabbily-clad, fear-stricken kiddies. She just could not leave them to the mercy of their cruel, selfish father who had whipped their little bodies and warped their souls to his cowardly will. But now that Ruth knew her Fate, fear of him had vanished. Quickly she decided on a course of action — decisive, astounding, revolutionary. What if he did kill her before the allotted thirty days? She would defy him . . . . do exactly as she pleased for once!

The Eyes of Death had Revealed Her Duty

Ruth took the kiddies to town. She withdrew from a joint bank account — which heretofore she had never dared touch — the sum of $5,000.00. Then arranging for the education and legal custody of her children, she proceeded to paint the town every colour of the rainbow! Stylish new outfits for the six of them — smart hair cuts, massages, marcels, perfumes—longed-for trinkets and toys — dinner at a fashionable restaurant—afternoon at the movies—rooms for the night at a swanky hotel—breakfast in bed, yum, yum—then . . . . back to the farm late the following day in a glorious new car! Honk, honk—cheerio — here we are! But — Omigosh! — the face on "Paw" was enough to peel the bark from off a tombstone!

Everybody Likes to See a Bully Licked

What happened after that will make you laugh and cry and shout "hurrah!" all at the same time. The fray at that farm when they "ritzied" into the house looking like a million dollars was better than a Tunney-Dempsey bout—and far more exciting! Do not miss it! The story is true and won $1,000.00 in a recent contest. It is entitled: "Thirty Days to Live," and is featured in TRUE STORY MAGAZINE for March . . . . now on the newsstands.

68 Times Uncle At the Age of 25

HANOVER, N.H., Feb. 7 (Canadian Press).—Paul Couture, a French Canadian barber here, who is patronized by Dartmouth College students, believes that he holds some kind of a record, for he is 25 years years old and had, at the last census he took, 68 nieces and nephews and more than 12 grandnieces and grandnephews. Paul has issued a challenge to one and all in the United States and Canada to beat this record. And Paul is not the youngest of his father's 13 children for he has a sister, Antoinette, who is only 10.

SAINT and SINNER

Cherry, dressed in the musical comedy version of an aviatrix's costume, and looking so beautiful and adorable in its green leather and white satin sauciness that Faith could not blame Bill Warren for staring at her as if there were nothing else of the least importance in all the world, left for the masquerade ball at the Marlboro Country Club at twenty minutes of nine. Faith had detained her under one pretext or another for fifteen minutes after Bill had called for her, hoping that Nils would arrive before she left. But again fate ironically flung five stupid minutes between them, for Nils' taxi swerved in at the curb at exactly fifteen minutes of nine.

Nils was as incredibly tall and handsome, as golden of hair and as blue of eye as Faith had remembered him. No wonder Cherry had not been able to resist him, Faith thought, as she greeted him, both hands outstretched. The very air surrounding him vibrated with the magnetism of his personality. He exuded strength, vitality, youthful joy of living.

"You're thin," he accused her, the flame of his eyes sweeping over her, "but more beautiful than ever. Isn't she, Mr. Hathaway? You'd better shed a few pounds yourself, Rhoda," he laughed, as he turned and flung his arms boyishly about his husky young sister.

But even as he kissed Rhoda, Faith saw that his eyes swept over the large living room, searching for the face he had really come to see.

"Cherry has gone to a masquerade ball at the Marlboro Country Club, Nils," Faith summoned the courage to tell him. "You asked me not to tell her you were coming, and I didn't. She left five minutes ago."

Eagerness and laughter fled instantly from Nils' handsome face. "Well," he drew a sharp breath, "I deserve it. Only an idiot dares try to surprise a woman. It's rather unfortunate—for me, since I'm in town only for tonight. Urgent business takes me back to the farm tomorrow. I'm—sorry I won't get to see her."

"I'm afraid 'sorry' is a mild description of what Cherry will feel, Jonson," Bob said quietly.

Nils flushed vividly and joy flashed into his amazingly blue eyes. "I hope you're not joking, Mr. Hathaway. I came here tonight to ask Cherry to marry me."

"Then I wish to heaven you had arrived half an hour earlier," Bob exclaimed with surprising sternness. "For Bill Warren, the chap who's taking her to the dance, came with the same laudable intention. He's probably done it by this time."

Nils advanced slowly toward the couch. His face was very white, but his eyes and voice were steady when he spoke, looking down at Faith's pale, stricken face

"I did not write because I wanted Cherry either to forget all about me or to fall completely in love with me, without any pressure that I might bring to bear on her. I knew she was attracted to me from the very first, but I also knew that I couldn't interest her if she felt too sure of me. I'm sorry if I've played my hand wrong and lost her, but perhaps it's better that I did get here just too late tonight, if there's any possibility of her becoming engaged to another man. She's got to love me as completely as I love her, or—I don't want her. . . . Well, Rhoda, I've been taking liberties with your inheritance, honey. Of course, if you don't approve, it's not too late for me to back out."

HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH

BY DR. FRANK McCOY

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

© 1926 McCOY HEALTH SERVICE - LOS ANGELES - CAL.

THE SCIENCE OF KINESITHERAPY

This is really an old name for an old science which is simply the science of curing disease by muscular movements. Hippocrates, often called the "Father of Medicine," named this science as an important branch of the physician's practise, yet few physicians give much thought to the "movement" cure. Perhaps they think that it is beneath their dignity to suggest such a simple remedy.

When one thinks of physical culture, the usual picture in the mind is one of an athlete with bulging muscles, engaged in a feat of strength. Outside of the few professional "strong men"

Outsideof the few professional "str such as weight lifters, all athletes realathletic supremacy in any branch of athletics, large muscles are not the most important asset. No matter what sport the athlete elects to secure perfection in, the most important development must be along the line of the development of physical endurance. For the one seeking health this is also true.

Bulging muscles are of little use without the developed stamina for continued effort. Longevity depends upon the acquisition of this endurance.

As in the matter of mental development, physical strength and endurance increase in proportion to the obstacles imposed upon it. The training of the voluntary muscles for continued effort transmits increased strength and stamina to the involuntary muscles of the vital organs. These vital organs, forced to supply the large muscles of the body with an added steady supply of blood and nerve impulses, increase in function because of the demands made upon the whole organism.

If the seeker after health will study the methods of training used by athletes he will observe that no matter for what branch of sport the athlete is training, a large amount of time and effort is given to training the muscles for long continued endurance. This has been found to be best accomplished by taking exercises that are repeated many times rather than those requiring a few movements with great strain of muscles. Probably the kind of exercise found the most practical for this purpose is what is called "road work." This consists of running or walking increased distances each day. The wrestler or boxer, the high-jumper or shot-putter, and even the classical dancer, finds this form of exercise the best and, indeed, the one indispensable method needed to acquire the stamina for long continued effort.

Too great emphasis cannot be placed upon the necessity of developing strong abdominal and back muscles. Those exercises need be taken which will enlarge those muscles of the torso. A strong spinal development will hold the vertebrae in proper position, and likewise the vital organs of the abdomen will be sustained and supported properly only by an increase of tone and strength of the abdominal walls.

I have prepared a short series of standing and lying down exercises giving you a few minutes of correct exercise for daily use. If you want to obtain this chart, write to me care of this newspaper and ask for "Exercise Instructions." You must inclose a large, stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

No matter from what disorder you are suffering, similar training of your muscles will help you in overcoming disease and assist very materially in prolonging your life and guarding you against the infirmities of premature old age.

Questions and Answers.

Question: X. Y. Z. writes: "I have read in newspapers that being subject to ivy poison was merely a matter of diet, and with the proper diet, immunity from this poison could be brought about. Is this true, and if so, where could I learn this diet?"

Answer: Live on a diet free from bad food combinations and you will be able to build up your blood carbonate reserve so as to resist the invasion of the vine poison. The weekly menus published in this column should be sufficient to accomplish this for the average person.

Question: Mrs. R. asks: "Is oatmeal a sufficient food for a baby one year old? If not, what is a good diet without milk?"

Answer: A baby one year of age should have only milk and orange juice. Cereals should not be added until the third year. The first food added to the milk should be the cooked, leafy vegetables, finally the milk and vegetables being used at some of the meals, and proteins added to the greens at other times, when the milk should be left out.

Question: Mrs. B. asks: "Will you tell me what a Flavitis or Flobitis leg is after an operation for acute appendicitis?"

Answer: Phlebitis, to which you doubtless refer, is often present after an operation in the lower abdomen. A swelling in the leg is caused by some interference with the circulation of blood or lymph. This is due to an injury from the operation and usually caused by the removal of some of the lymphatics in the groin.

An easy way to remove Blackheads
Why torture yourself in trying to remove unsightly blackheads by painful squeezing? Why ruin your complexion by leaving blotches on your skin? The Radox way is simpler, quicker and painless. Radox ends blackheads. Makes your skin smooth and healthy. Read this letter:
"Radox is wonderful for blackheads. I was always troubled with them as I work in a smoky city, but I got them out with Radox. They have never come back since. Every time I wash I put a little Radox in the wash basin." P.M.
Simply fill a cup with comfortably hot water and tip into it a teaspoonful of Radox Salts. Dab on the part of the face affected. After a few minutes' treatment wipe your face dry and the blackheads will be seen to have vanished. Lastly, apply a little cold cream.
A ½-lb. package of Radox costs only 60c. and lasts a long time. Get one to-day from your druggist. Get rid of those ugly blackheads to-night. 13

Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 7. — Mr. Theodore Neilson, Beeville, is a week end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lowe.

Miss Oulten is visiting in Toronto. Her visit was occasioned when relatives in that city were injured in an automobile accident.

Claude Nicholas son of Mr. and Mrs. William Nicholas, Maple street, who has been seriously ill, is recovering slowly.

After two days' work by the department of roads and bridges the main thoroughfares have been cleared of snow. For several days it was almost impossible for motorists to park their cars close to the curb without running the risk of getting stuck when they tried to drive out again. This seriously interfered with the parking bylaw.

The insurance adjustors have allowed Bert Gillespie approximately two thousand dollars as the amount of the damage done to his residence and contents when fire broke out there recently.

Practically every youngster and a good many oldsters went sleighriding last Friday afternoon when three of the local churches held their annual Sunday school sleigh drives. From four till six o'clock the streets and country roads in the near vicinity resounded to the merriment of the youngsters. After two hours driving supper was served in the churches, the menus for each being well adapted to the requirements of the children.

The Canadian Legion is patting itself on the back for being the first organization to bring Dorothy Allan Park, soprano, and Mary Agnes Logan, concert pianist, to Campbellford. Both Mrs. Park and Miss Logan are everywhere considered unexcelled, and a first class musical evening is assured the people of Campbellford.

Dr. H. B. Longmore is confined to his home with an attack of 'flu.'

Falconry still is a popular sport in China.

Lesson No. 12
Question: Why should young children receive emulsified cod-liver oil regularly?
Answer: While milk is the child's best individual food, it is deficient in rickets-preventing vitamin.
That is why so many young children take emulsified cod-liver oil as in SCOTT'S EMULSION

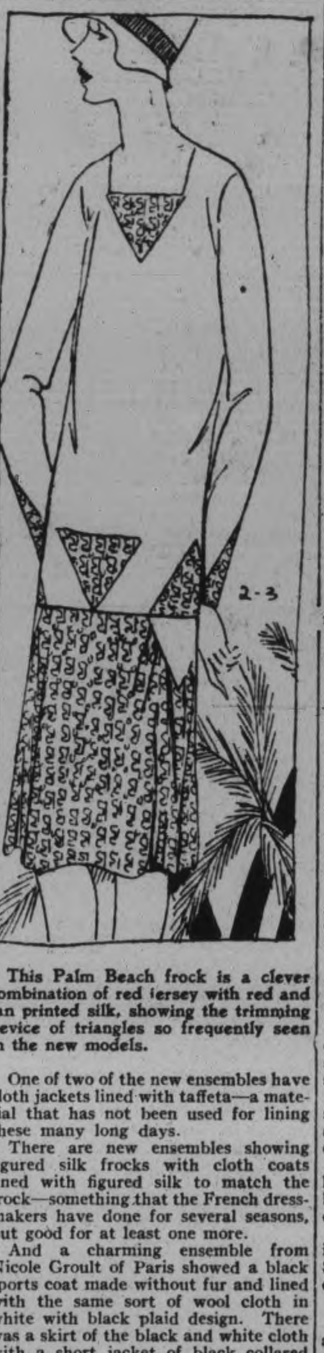
DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL



This Palm Beach frock is a clever combination of red jersey with red and tan printed silk, showing the trimming device of triangles so frequently seen in the new models.

One of two of the new ensembles have cloth jackets lined with taffeta—a material that has not been used for lining these many long days.

There are new ensembles showing figured silk frocks with cloth coats lined with figured silk to match the frock—something that the French dressmakers have done for several seasons, but good for at least one more.

And a charming ensemble from Nicole Groult of Paris showed a black sports coat made without fur and lined with the same sort of wool cloth in white with black plaid design. There was a skirt of the black and white cloth with a short jacket of black collared in the black and white cloth.

Black will be extremely smart for spring—black cheviot and other lightweight woolen materials especially. And after you have seen a few of these black things designed for early spring wear you resolve to include some partly black costume in your own wardrobe.

Even sports clothes are showing black. One that was especially smart had a tailored jacket of pea-soup green—the newest shade of green, by the way—a black cheviot skirt worn with a green and black angora jersey in graded horizontal stripes—a quite wide one extending from the lower edge to above the narrow belt and narrower ones up to the bust line and then plain green.

Sometimes figured silk is combined with jersey in effective manner. The sketch shows how this may be done. Triangular patches of the jersey and silk provide the trimming.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1928.

Good and evil planetary aspects appear to counterbalance each other today, according to astrology.

The closing down of factories in certain places may cause hardship and even suffering, the seers foretell.

There is a promising sign for advertising and publicity. Newspapers and magazines should benefit greatly.

Reactionary planetary influences will affect literature and art as well as dress and manners, the seers forecast.

Poetry is to gain in general appreciation and spiritual aspirations will be reflected in fiction.

All the signs appear to indicate that 1928 is to be a year when there will be a harvest from the tares sown since the war, but it is to make way for better standards of living.

Crime will continue to flourish and to develop mad and fiendish forms, which will bring inevitable reforms, astrologers foretell.

Warning is given against speculation and all forms of betting which will become alarmingly prevalent as the year advances.

Increase in rheumatic and arthritic maladies is indicated by the stars. Diet will continue to be a matter of first importance.

New discoveries regarding prevention of disease will mark 1928, it is prophesied, for the year will be notable for scientific research.

Before the end of the century the life span of civilized man may be increased at least twenty years, astrologers declare.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have a perplexing year in which members of the family may be difficult to deal with.

Children born on this day may be inclined to look on the dark side of life. Subjects of this sign are usually industrious and constructive.

Los Angeles has the most graceful and best formed young women in the world, says the head of the public schools health department of that city.

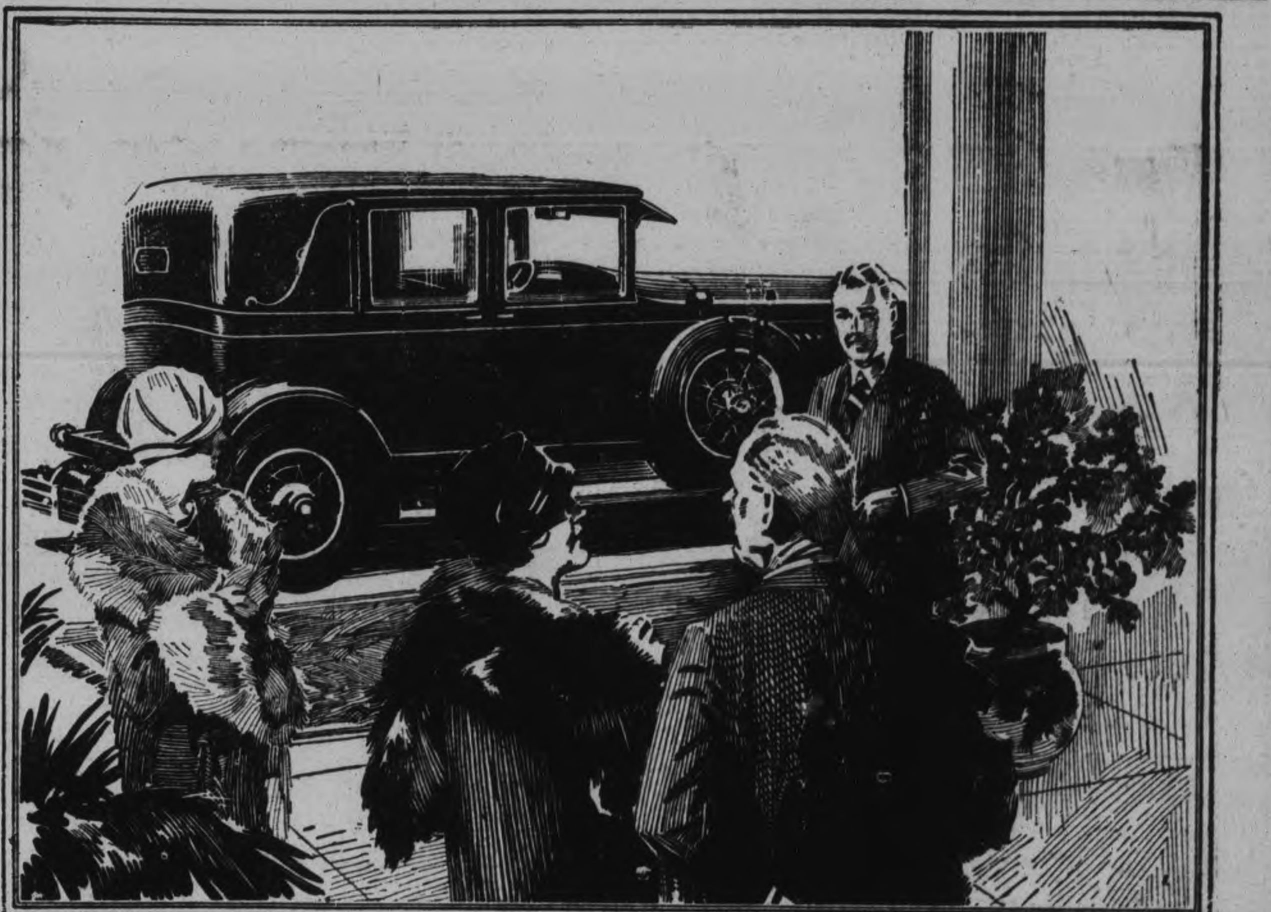
3. No.



Color Harmony—The colors for every car with Body by Fisher are selected by artists who, through long experience, have learned what colors are most pleasing when applied to a motor car body. Frequently several color designs must be created and criticized by experts before one is selected.

Hardware—Fisher introduced the period influence in automobile hardware design. Fisher body door window regulator and lock handles, dome lights and instrument panels, are all of the highest grade and designed in period treatment by artist-craftsmen.

Upholstery Material—Fisher uses mohair, velour and broadcloth, selected with particular attention to long wear and color fastness. All Fisher upholstery material is subjected to most severe tests and only the best in the particular weave decided upon is used.

WHEN you visit the showroom of any General Motors car dealer, you are certain to be aroused to admiring enthusiasm by the beauty of the various models on display. The salesman with whom you talk will tell you that the bodies for all these cars are designed, engineered and built by Fisher. Each bears the world-known signature plate, "Body by Fisher". You may always feel positively sure that any car bearing this Fisher symbol is the greatest value, and the most beautiful and comfortable car, in its particular price field. So true is this, that anyone planning the purchase of a new car would not only be safe, but wise, in confining his choice to those cars with Body by Fisher.

HAVELOCK AND LAKEFIELD BATTLE 3-3 TIE

LAKEFIELD AND HAVELOCK TIE IN THIRD GAME OF PLAY-OFFS

Hard Fought Game in Northern Village Ends in 3-3 Draw.

CONTEST IS KEEN.

Close Checking Prevents Either Team From Getting Many Goals.

If there was ever a struggle for group honors, Havelock and Lakefield Intermediates are staging it this year. In the last three games they have each scored seven goals and as a result of last night's 3-3 game in Lakefield, the absolutely final game to be played in Brock Street Rink, probably tomorrow night, should be the battle of the year.

The Railroaders stepped into the northern village last night where they were greeted by a crowd of fans that packed every available bit of standing room, and met by a determined home town team, so that in the sixty minutes of combat, there was more to holler for than was provided even in the last game here. What they lacked in well organized attack, both teams made up in aggressive individual work, and where combined defence failed, there was an abundance of close back-checking and heavy bodying that made the small number of penalties, four to each team, seem hardly enough. However, in fairness to the players, it should be stated that much of the heavy checking that might have looked questionable, was quite within the rules and Referee Nip Dwan let them go pretty freely. His decisions were seldom questioned.

The Lakefield outfit, after a disastrous first period in which the opposition got their three counters, settled down and deserved more than an even break for their efforts. They were more aggressive than the C.P.R.'s and never stopped trying. The visitors, on the other hand, started in to hold the attackers off, and at time long shooting was the chief order. Both goalies were quite busy and there was little to choose between the two. They handled all varieties during the evening and were not to be blamed for the three that beat each of them.

As for the men in front of them, Brennan, Pollock and Wright were best for Havelock, with Hooper turning in his cleanest game of the series; while Wannamaker, the Sabatino brothers and Hamilton (a newcomer to the line-up) were the best for the homesters.

First Period.

Referee Nip Dwan gave them the gun at exactly 8.30 and the boys wasted no time in preliminaries. There wasn't even as much cautious checking as on former occasion—goals were needed and needed badly.

At the face-off the puck was allowed to get loose due to some close checking that prevented effective rushing but within three minutes, both goalies realized they were in for a busy evening. Lakefield, a little slow to start, came to completely when Wright rushed and drove a hard one at Moore. They scooped up the rubber and set out for enemy territory and Fox was tried with a couple of shots before his teammates cleared. Then, four minutes after the start, Wright found the net behind the Lakefield goalie with a long drifter from the right wing. It was the first blood for the Railroaders and the hometowners didn't like it. In fact, L. Sabatino and a couple of henchmen decided to cancel it with a rush and the boy with the yellow chapeau evened the count when he scooped up a rebound during confusion behind the enemy blue line.

Still on even terms, the two teams tried hard to get going but close and persistent back checking is not conducive to spectacular play and until Louis Sabatino drew a rest for spilling Wright, play centred in between the blue lines. Playing six men to five was more to the liking of Quinn and Co.; they made it 2-1 when Wright handed a perfect pass forty feet out. Brennan did the trick in quick order. Lakefield came back strong after this and began to take the edge of the play, particularly when Barney Quinn was freighted to the box for a faulty check. Loosemore dived in and landed two shots on the Havelock goalie's pads; some rather aimless puck carrying failed to terminate in goals and Hamilton and Quinn drew rests in rapid succession. Havelock's final counter came in the dying minutes when Wright pulled a little stunt extraordinary. He shot from far out, the puck hit a Lakefield stick and bounced high but came down in Wright's path, only ten feet from the mouth of the enemy's citadel. He shot again and gave Moore little chance to save. This ended the scoring for the period and, as far as the Moguls were concerned, for the game as well.

Second Period.

The second period was most decidedly Lakefield's session with the Red and White climbing in time after time in an effort to cut down the two-goal lead possessed by the visitors. End to end shots were not unusual though, and many of the plays started when a player managed to meet the disc in mid air and start an attack. Close checking again derailed these attacks, for a few minutes. Then Babe Wannamaker and Jack drew penalties but the former came back strong and put his team within striking distance on a neat solo effort. The score stood 3-2 when the teams left the ice but from the way the homesters had come up near the last, the final session promised all kinds of fireworks.

Third Period.

Maybe that final period was not a lively one! Heavy bodying, close checking, spills, and chopping with plenty of tests for the goalies came and went during that twenty minutes and there was not a dull moment. Right in closed worked the Sabatino clan and they drove the rubber at Fox from high up, low down, close in and far out. That his team did not go down to defeat was due to the splendid work of this boy. In fact, the only counter that beat him came in the last few minutes when a loose puck was deflected off a teammate's skate into the net. His work was no more pleasant to behold than that of Moore in the Lakefield goal. That young man was out to redeem himself for even allowing three goals and he did so most creditably. He shut out the enemy sharp shooters during the last two frames.

The play was just as fast but much rougher than at the start. The fact that both teams were only penalized four times each should not be taken to mean that the boys were the least bit gentle. Hooper and J. Sabatino both going to the fence during the period. Then came the final counter that put the fans in an uproar. Havelock players cleared slowly and there was considerable scrambling when out of a corner shot the rubber. It struck among the players and ended up in the net. It was a tough break for Fox but one greatly deserved by the Lakefielders who had easily held their own share of the play. Havelock, again bottled up, shot the puck down the ice as the gong sounded.

Lakefield—Goal, Moore; defence, J Sabatino and Hamilton; centre, L. Sabatino; wings, Stabler and Loosemore; subs, Wannamaker and Northey.

Referee—Nip Dwan of Toronto.

Penalties—Havelock: Quinn 2, Jack 1, Hooper 1. Total 4. Lakefield: L. Sabatino 1, Hamilton 1, Wannamaker 1, J. Sabatino 1. Total 4.

JOIE RAY SEEKS REINSTATEMENT

Famous Miler Had Turned in Amateur Card to Become Professional.

NEVER TOOK STEP

CHICAGO, February 7 (Canadian Press).—Reinstatement of Joie Ray, famous miler, will be considered at a meeting of the Board of Managers of the Central Athletic Association called for Wednesday.

Ray turned in his amateur card two years ago, advising he intended becoming a professional. However, he never took the step, and recently filed his A.A.U. application for reinstatement. Should his application be approved, there is a chance that he will compete in the Illinois Athletic Club's indoor meet here Friday.

SPORT BITS

BAILIEBORO, Feb. 7.—Bailieboro hockey team motored to Millbrook on Thursday evening and played a game against the Millbrook Continuation School team. The game was a snappy one throughout, and at the end of the third period the score stood 3 to 4 in favor of the Millbrook boys.

"Brick" Marcus, speedy halfback of the University of California eleven, is one of the few bespectacled gridiron warriors on record.

GENARO WINS IN TITLE BOUT

Defeats Frenchy Belanger By Wide Margin at Toronto.

MUCH TOO SMART.

TORONTO, Feb. 7.—"The king is dead; long live the king." The largest crowd that ever attended an indoor sporting event in Toronto witnessed the world's flyweight crown pass from the brow of a local lad, Frenchy Belanger, to that of Frankie Genaro, of New York, a former holder of the American title and the lad who gave Belanger his hardest argument in his spectacular climb to the title. While the title did not officially change hands until Announcer Frank O'Grady read the slips handed to him by the two judges and the referee, and raised Genaro's arm, it was a foregone conclusion, and a great number of the spectators filed out of the building without watching the actual coronation ritual. In the semi-nal of the N B. A. elimination tournament Belanger won by the closest of margins from Genaro, but last night there was practically no doubt as to the outcome after the half way mark had been passed, and as the end approached, Belanger's only hope of making a successful defence of his title lay in the possibility of landing a knockout punch, but Genaro was too smart for thel ocal boy to achieve success by the one-punch route, although Belanger staged one of his characteristic battling finishes that showed he had courage; but once again the new champion's greater experience stood in the loser's way.

To sum up the bout briefly Genaro was too smart for the defending titleholder. Right from the start Genaro followed a line of campaign tmat showed he had carefully studied Belanger's tactics and had prepared a defence for them and the New Yorker made no mistake. He apparently credited Belanger's rise to the throne to the local lad's shift and it was when Belanger tried to use this in defence of his title that he looked the worst. Genaro seemingly has paid considerable attention to trick aviators as he has perfected a side slip that enabled him to slide around Belanger's right before he could start the glove on its way and then Genaro proceeded to hook and swing to the head before his opponent could align his defence to the attack.

Genaro Too Shifty.

Genaro used his feet as well as his hands to victory and he hopped in and out, beating Belanger to the punch and when at close quarters he took lots of the champion's punches to the body on his forearms and gloves and then tied him up completely. At times Belanger battled his way clear but he took as much as he gave. The loser hit the harder and straighter punches but he did not land nearly as often as did the challenger, who hooked and swung all the time and was never still on his feet. Belanger fought somewhat flat-footed and against a bounding lad, somewhat the type of Johnny Dundee, he was at a loss.

Another thing that went against the loser was his extreme cautiousness in the early part of the bout. He permitted Genaro to do most of the leading, and in this way dropped in arrears as the rounds were tolled off. Towards the end Belanger became more aggressive, but it was after his cause had been lost, and Genaro made use of his lead to let Belanger do the attacking while he was content to take matters easy and tie up his opponent.

When the bout was over Genaro did not show a mark as a result of the ten rounds against the hardest hitter in the flyweight ranks. He paid strict attention to Belanger's right all the way, and either crowded that weapon into uselessness or darted away after hooking to the head. He was not always successful in his attempts to stop Belanger's heavy artillery, but those that landed, while they must have had effect, did not leave a mark. On the other hand, "Frenchy" showed that he had been through the wars. In the fifth round Belanger's left eye commenced to swell, and it kept on puffing until in the last round he had only one optic that was of any use to him, and that was partially dimmed by the blood from a cut over the right brow towards the end of the fifth round.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

Profits of Waratahs Rugby Team Tour Amounted To Forty Thousand Pounds

LONDON, England, Feb. 7 (Canadian Press Cable).—The Evening Standard yesterday publishes some remarkable disclosures concerning the financial end of the tour of the Waratahs, New South Wales rugby team. An article, by a correspondent travelling with the team, reveals that the tour profits amounted to forty thousand pounds sterling, which is nearly twice as much as that made by the All Blacks tour in 1924.

The four international matches produced 35,000 pounds, while the match against England drew 15,700 pounds, enough in itself to cover the costs of the entire tour, which was run on the most economical lines. In fact, a representative of the International Board actually sat with the team at meals to see that the tariff allowance of a half crown for lunch, and four shillings and sixpence for dinner was rigidly enforced. He was dubbed "The skeleton at the feast."

The profits will be divided as follows: England 17,000 pounds; Wales 11,000 pounds; Scotland 7,000 pounds; Ireland 5,000 pounds. New South Wales is allowed only the six hundred pounds which was granted by the International Board to cover the expenses of the Canadian tour.

ST. PETERS' WIN FROM THE GROVE

Hard Fought Battle Was Played on Brock Street Ice.

SCORE 4 TO 2

St. Peter's team, in a hard fought battle, defeated The Grove School team yesterday afternoon on Brock street rink, 4 goals to 2. Frank Carroll and Ted LeBarr on defence made a splendid pair and time after time stopped the rushes of the visitor's forward line. N. Smith in goal for The Lakefield boys made many splendid saves and only for his superior playing the score would have been much higher. Frank Carroll ot two of the goals for the locals while Ted LeBarr notched the third one.

Ste. Peter's—Goal, W. LeBarr; defence, F. Carrol, T. LeBarr; centre F. Meagher; wings, DeForge, J Houlihan; subs., E. Archambault, J. Carroll.

Grove—Goal, N. Smith; defence, B. Hunt, B. Earl; centre, H. Peck; wings, D. Nielson, A. Bogg; subs., N. Earl, R. Pringle.

PERFECT FOR HOCKEY

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, Feb. 7 (Associated Press). — The Canadian Olympic hockey team, which reached here Sunday from Antwerp, practiced on the Olympic ice yesterday for the first time. Experts are unanimous in declaring that it is the greatest hockey team ever seen in Europe. The Varsity Grads are overwhelming favorites to win the championship.

"We only regret that we have not an American team to meet this time," said Bill Hewitt, manager of the team. The Canadians agreed that the ice was perfect for hockey.

The skaters from the United States went the full distance in their practices yesterday, Bialis and Farrell showing splendid form. Beatrice Loughran, the United States fancy skating star, gave several hundred spectators a treat.

The winter sports team from the United States received its first visit from Old Man Hard Luck when Rolf Monson, one of the best of its ski-jumpers, severely wrenched his knee after a 50-metre leap. The jumper made a faulty landing and it is probable that his injury will keep him out of the Olympics.

FAMILY BEATEN BY MARAUDERS

Two Men and Their Wives Attacked Early Sunday Morning.

ASSAILANTS ARRESTED.

ORANGEVILLE, Ont., Feb. 7.—Battering down the door of George Barclay's home early Sunday morning five drink-crazed men brutally assaulted Barclay, his son, Leith, and dragged the wives of both from their beds.

A shot gun which the elder Barclay grabbed just as the invaders smashed in the door was seized from his hands, after he had fired one shell.

Later in the day five Indians were arrested and lodged in Orangeville jail charged with the offence.

After the men had left the Barclay home, the son, groggy from the attack, in his stocking feet and half clad, walked a mile to the home of the nearest neighbor, William R. Gray, and telephoned Provincial Constable Joseph Nelson here.

A posse was organized and the hunt started for the marauders. The five Indians were arrested on the farm adjoining the Barclays, where they were employed cutting lumber for Milton Kaufman. The men, who were under the influence of rubbing alcohol, it is said, gave their names as Hardy Doxator and his brother, Charles; Ray Williams, Samuel Elijah and Cornelius Days.

The outrage, Barclay claims, is the culmination of some trouble the younger Barclay had with two Indians on Thursday, when they insisted on staying for the night. He refused and a scrap took place. Barclay swore out a warrant for the arrest of Elijah on a charge of assault, and the accused was to have been taken into custody yesterday.

Dr. C. I. Scott, of Orangeville, called to attend the victims of the attack, reports both women suffering from severe shock. George Barclay suffered from severe bruises and face lacerations and Leith Barclay bruises, abrasions and a sprained back.

HELEN WILLS HAS NO RIVALS

Possibility Exists That California Girl May Meet Suzanne Lenglen.

GREAT PLAYER.

By HENRY L. FARRELL.

Distinguished champions in no small number took the count during the 1927 season and more in the natural course of events will step down this year, but there seems to be one pretty and popular young miss who has all the promise of a continued reign.

We asked a gentleman who makes a very handsome living by picking winners and playing them what the odds should be that Helen Wills will be the champion when the 1928 tennis season closes.

"I'll lay ten to one," he said, without a moment's hesitation, "and I'll let you have accidents and illness against me."

It would seem then that the young Berkeley girl is sitting pretty as the new season approaches and is in a position to watch the other girls fight for the lower places on the international ranking list.

There is no doubt that Miss Wills ranks as the greatest amateur woman player in the world today and there are a number of competent critics who believe she could beat Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, the professional champion, if a meeting could be arranged.

Another match between the great French wizard and the young American artist on first thought might seem to be out of the question because open competition between a professional and an amateur is not countenanced by the tennis association, and also because Mlle. Lenglen has announced that she intends to play no more in public.

But a lot of strange and radical moves by such a conservative organization as the tennis association may be expected if the association doesn't find some way of getting the financial support of the public for the amateur championship tournaments.

It would not be a shock to those who have access to some facts to hear that the association might approve of or even promote a match between Rene Lacoste and Vinnie Richards and between Mlle. Lenglen and Miss Wills. Maybe this is a dream.

As far as her national position is concerned, Miss Wills is far ahead of the class and her international security is as well established.

Betty Nuthall, the pretty little English girl, may arrive when Miss Wills has passed her prime. But women tennis players last for a long time. Miss Nuthall is not a menace now as she has just learned how to serve overhead.

Kea Bouman, the charming Dutch girl; Senorita D'Alvarez, the dazzling Spanish girl; Kitty McKane Godfree, the English champion, and Didi Vlasto are all first-class players, but they do not rank with Miss Wills.

As Bill Tilden says—"You can group the women players in only one way. Miss Wills has no equal and the others have to be placed in a secondary and lower group. She ought to be the champion for six or seven more years and she is still a very young girl and she lives tennis."

"Living tennis" is the big asset of the California girl. It is her hobby and almost her life. The other girls do not take their game so seriously. Senorita D'Alvarez is enjoying the winter resorts at St. Moritz.

With the exception of Mrs. Godfree, the other European stars are wealthy and they do not care to take the trouble to train and keep up on their game.

Miss Wills, in the opinion of Mary K. Browne, one of the best critics in the game, is now at the top of her form.

"I don't believe she can improve her game, but she doesn't need to better it. She can keep it on the same edge for years and that will make her the superior of her class. I believe she could have given Mlle. Lenglen a terrific fight when Mlle. Lenglen was in her prime. Perhaps she could have beaten her."

LALLY LEADING TEXAS TOURNEY

Has Aggregate of 144 for First 36 Holes of 72-Hole Tournament.

COOPER IS SECOND

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Feb. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Tom Lally, a reformed port-side golfer of San Antonio, stole a lap on the Texas open golf field here yesterday and moved into first place at the half way mark with an aggregate of 144 for the first 36 holes of the 72-hole tournament. Harry Cooper, Buffalo, was one stroke behind Lally.

The Texan improved his 73 of Sunday, which had put him in second place behind Ed. Dudley of Hollywood, by shooting even par yesterday to Lally, as a boy in Boston, was a left-handed golfer, but he learned to play from the right side years ago and became a pro.

Cooper shot the best score of the day, a sparkling 70. He went into second place with an aggregate of 145. Bobby Cruickshank of Purchase, N.Y., and Horton Smith of Joplin, Mo., were tied for third and fourth with 149 strokes each. Tommy Armour of Washington, and Bill Mehlhorn of Pittsburgh had 150's to tie for fifth and sixth. Fred Hunt of Brantford, Ont., sole Canadian entrant, had 79-78—157.

Sixty-five players qualified with scores under 166.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

CLARA BOW IN "GET YOUR MAN"

The little lady who made such a hit in the picture entitled "It," and who was declared by Elinor Glyn to have more of this mysterious quality of "It" than any other actress of her acquaintance, is the star of the Capital Theatre's feature picture for the first half of this week, in "Get Your Man." The sparkling small creature is a real, honest-to-goodness flapper of the type which is said to be fast passing into the discard, and she used the most up-to-date methods to capture the gentleman who has intrigued her fancy.

Teh setting is in France, where Nancy Worthington, a rich American girl, is travelling with a companion. In Paris, she has an unaccompanied adventure that lands her in the wonderful waxworks show, where she meet Robert d'Albin, scion of an aristocratic family, and the betrothed of the gentle Simone, with "Blessed Damozel" braids and a gentle, blonde loveliness.

Through a series of mishaps, the pair are locked in the waxworks show all night and have plenty of time to become acquainted. They fall in love with each other, but Robert's betrothal, consummated according to the French fashion, when he and Simone were very small children, intervenes to spoil their romance. Nancy decides to take matters into her own hands and she goes to Calvados, the d'Albin country place, and gains admittance through a faked accident. Once inside the house, she manages affairs with such cleverness that she finally captures Robert, after becoming engaged to Simone's father, an amorous Marquis, and causing the poor gentleman to cut up all sorts of didoes for her sake. She does some peculiar stunts, but emerges victorious, and Simone is able to marry Henri, who is pining away for her, while Robert and Nancy are happy and the Marquis is pushed firmly into the background.—Jeanette.

AT THE REGENT.

"VANITY."

Not since she triumphed in "The Ten Commandments" has Leatrice Joy, popular Cecil B. De Mille star, been seen in so dramatic a role as she essays in "Vanity," her latest stellar vehicle, now playing at the Regent Theatre. It is said to be Miss Joy's most virile screen characterization and aside from the dramatic interest of the unusual story, the production is one of beauty seldom witnessed on the screen.

Miss Joy has the part of a society girl who on the eve of her marriage is enticed aboard a steamship by a man she had met in France and whom she trusted. She is rescued from him by a human monster who gloats over his victory and he is about to vanquish her when she confronts him with a revolver. Then follow scenes of exceptional dramatic strength, all of which are calculated to keep picture fans on the edge of their seats until the final fadeout.

Charles Ray and Alan Hale are featured in support of Miss Joy. The supporting cast includes Mayme Kelso, Noble Johnson, Helen Lee Worthing and others. The director was Donald Crisp.

In San Jose Cemetery, Spain, telephones have been installed in several caskets and are connected with the porter's lodge, thus assuring against the possibility of anyone being buried alive.

THE "CANARY" MURDER CASE

by S. S. VAN DINE AUTHOR of THE BENSON MURDER CASE

© Charles Scribner's Sons

THE STORY THUS FAR

The thing that baffles Vance most is the jewel case. It had been opened with a steel chisel after being battered with a poker. It was found not far from the strangled body of Margaret Odell. In no way can anyone account for the presence of anyone in the apartment at the time of the murder, yet Vance is satisfied two men were there, one of them unaware of the presence of the other. Finger-prints lead to the arrest of Tony Skeel, after Cleaver and Dr. Lindquist have been questioned.

* * *

CHAPTER XX

(Wednesday, September 12; 9 a. m.)

The following day, which was Wednesday, not only brought forth an important and, as it appeared, conclusive development in the Odell case but marked the beginning of Vance's active co-operation in the proceedings.

The psychological elements in the case had appealed to him irresistibly, and he felt, even at this stage of the investigation, that a final answer could never be obtained along the usual police lines. At his request Markham had called for him at a little before nine o'clock, and we had driven direct to the district attorney's office.

Heath was waiting impatiently when we arrived. His eager and covertly triumphant expression plainly indicated good news.

"Things are breaking fine and dandy," he announced when we had sat down. He himself was too elated to relax, and stood before Markham's desk rolling a large black cigar between his fingers. "We got the Dude—six o'clock yesterday evening—and we got him right. One of the C. O. boys, named Riley, who was patrolling Sixth Avenue in the Thirties, saw him swing off a surface car and head for McAnerny's Pawn-Shop. Right away Riley wig-wags the traffic officer on the corner, and follows the Dude into McAnerny's. Pretty soon the traffic officer comes in with a patrolman, who he's picked up; and the three of 'em nab our stylish friend in the act of pawning this ring."

He tossed a square solitaire diamond in a filigreed platinum setting on the district attorney's desk.

"I was at the office when they brought him in, and I sent Snitkin with the ring up to Harlem to see what the maid had to say about it, and she identified it as belonging to Odell."

"But, I say, it wasn't a part of the jewelry the lady was wearing that night, was it, Sergeant?" Vance put the question casually.

Heath jerked about and eyed him with sullen calculation.

"What if it wasn't? It came out of that jimmied jewel-case—or I'm Ben Hur."

"Of course it did," murmured Vance, lapsing into lethargy.

"And that's where we're in luck," declared Heath, turning back to Markham. "It connects Skeel directly with the murder and the robbery."

"What has Skeel to say about it?" Markham was leaning forward intently. "I suppose you questioned him."

"I'll say we did," replied the sergeant; but his tone was troubled. "We had him up all night giving him the works. And the story he tells is this: he says the girl gave him the ring a week ago, and that he didn't see her again until the afternoon of day before yesterday. He came to her apartment between four and five—you remember the maid said she was out then—and entered and left the house by the side door, which was unlocked at that time.

"He admits he called again at half past nine that night, but he says that when he found she was out, he went straight home and stayed there.

"His alibi is that he sat up with his landlady till after midnight playing Khun Khan and drinking beer. I hopped up to his place this morning, and the old girl verified it. But that don't mean anything. The house he lives in is a pretty tough hang-out, and this landlady, besides being a heavy boozer, has been up the river a coupla times for shoplifting."

"What does Skeel say about the finger-prints?"

"He says, of course, he made 'em when he was there in the afternoon."

"And the one on the closet door-knob?"

Heath gave a derisive grunt.

"He's got an answer for that, too—says he thought he heard some one coming in, and locked himself in the clothes-closet. Didn't want to be seen and spoil any game Odell mighta been playing."

"Most considerate of him to keep out of the way," drawled Vance. "Touchin' loyalty, what?"

"You don't believe the rat, do you Mr. Vance?" asked Heath, with indignant surprise.

"Can't say that I do. But our Antonio at least spins a consistent yarn."

"Too damn consistent to suit me," growled the sergeant.

"That's all you could get out of him?" It was plain that Markham was not pleased with the results of Heath's third degree of Skeel.

"That's about all, sir. He stuck to his story like a leech."

"You found no chisel in his room?"

Heath admitted that he hadn't.

"But you couldn't expect him to keep it around," he added.

Markham pondered the facts for several minutes.

"I can't see that we've got a very good case, however much we may be convinced of Skeel's guilt. His alibi may be thin, but taken in connection with the phone operator's testimony, I'm inclined to think it would hold tight in court."

"What about the ring, sir?" Heath was desperately disappointed. "And what about his threats, and his finger-prints, and his record of similar burglaries?"

"Contributory factors only," Markham explained. "What we need for a murder is more than a 'prima facie' case. A good criminal lawyer could have him discharged in twenty minutes, even if I could secure an indictment. It's not impossible, you know, that the woman gave him the ring a week ago—you recall that the maid said he was demanding money from her about that time.

"And there's nothing to show that the finger-prints were not actually made late Monday afternoon. Moreover, we can't connect him in any way with the chisel, for we don't know who did the Park Avenue job last summer. His whole story fits the facts perfectly; and we haven't anything contradictory to offer."

Heath shrugged helplessly all the wind had been taken out of his sails.

"What do you want done with him?" he asked desolately.

Markham considered—he, too, was discomfited.

"Before I answer I think I'll have a go at him myself."

He pressed a buzzer, and ordered a clerk to fill out the necessary requisition. When it had been signed in duplicate, he sent Swacker with it to Ben Hanlon.

"Do ask him about those silk shirts," suggested Vance. "And find out, if you can, if he considers a white waistcoate 'de rigueur' with a dinner-jacket."

"This office isn't a male millinery shop," snapped Markham.

"But Markham, dear, you won't learn anything else from this Petronius."

Ten minutes later a deputy sheriff from the Tombs entered with his handcuffed prisoner.

Skeel's appearance that morning belied his sobriquet of Dude. He was haggard and pale his ordeal of the previous night had left its imprint upon him. He was unshaven; his hair was uncombed; the ends of his mustache drooped; and his cravat was awry. But despite his bedraggled condition, his manner was jaunty and contemptuous. He gave Heath a defiant leer, and faced the district attorney with swaggering indifference.

To Markham's questions he doggedly repeated the same story he had told Heath. He clung tenaciously to every detail of it with the ready accuracy of a man who had painstakingly memorized a lesson and was thoroughly familiar with it.

Markham coaxed, threatened, bullied. All hint of his usual affability was gone; he was like an inexorable dynamic machine. But Skeel, whose nerves seemed to be made of iron, withstood the vicious fire of his cross-questioning without wincing; and, I confess, his resistance somewhat aroused my admiration despite my revulsion toward him and all he stood for.

After half an hour Markham gave up, completely baffled in his efforts to elicit any damaging admissions from the man. He was about to dismiss him when Vance rose languidly and strolled to the district attorney's desk. Seating himself on the edge of it, he regarded Skeel with impersonal curiosity.

"So you're a devotee of Khun Khan, eh?" he remarked, indifferently. "Silly game, what? More interestin' than Conquain or Rum, though. Used to be played in the London clubs. Of East Indian origin, I believe. . . . You still play it with two decks, I suppose, and permit round-the-corner matter?"

An involuntary frown gathered on Skeel's forehead. He was used to violent district attorneys, and familiar with the bludgeoning methods of the police, but here was a type of inquisitor entirely new to him; and it was plain that he was both puzzled and apprehensive. He decided to meet this novel antagonist with a smirk of arrogant amusement.

"By the bye," continued Vance, with no change in tone, "can any one hidden in the clothes-press of the Odell living-room see the davenport through the keyhole?"

Suddenly all trace of a smile was erased from the man's features.

"And I say," Vance hurried on, his eyes fixed steadily on the other, "why didn't you give the alarm?"

I was watching Skeel closely, and, though his set expression did not alter, I saw the pupils of his eyes dilate. Markham, also, I think, noted this phenomenon.

(To be continued.)

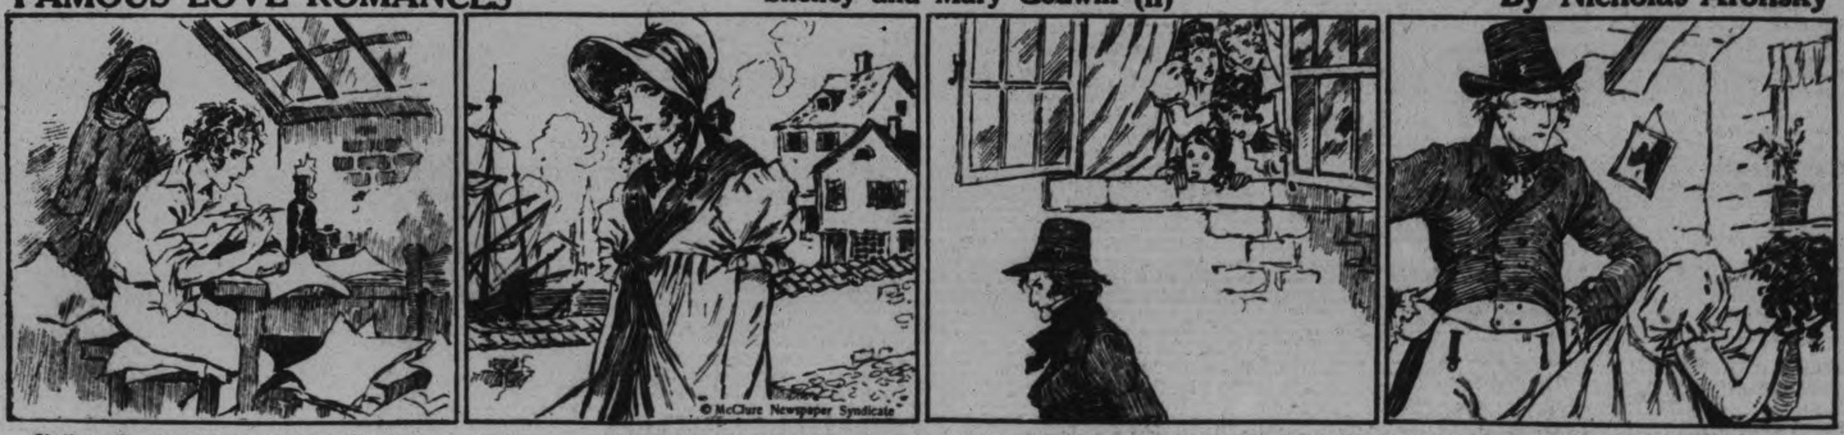
FAMOUS LOVE ROMANCES Shelley and Mary Godwin (II) By Nicholas Afonsky



© McClure Newspaper Syndicate

Shelley, after his father cast him off, literally lived in an attic in London. There he wrote away, day after day, getting into shape some of the poems that were later to bring him worldwide and everlasting fame—working in poverty, but with youthful faith and enthusiasm.

Harriet deserves sympathy. She was pretty, popular and barely sixteen when Shelley first met her. She was at school with his sisters and used to bring him their little hoards of pocket money which they sent him because his father, disgusted at his radicalism, had cast him off.

All his sisters' schoolmates were fascinated by the youthful poet—not quite nineteen, heir to a baronetcy and a fortune, good-looking, and noted as the holder of dangerously radical views. Shelley, lamenting the loss of his first love, Harriet Grove, turned to this new Harriet with interest.

And when her father and spinster sister, Eliza, became alarmed at his radical ideas, and forbade their Harriet having anything to do with him—and when Harriet, weeping, told him sorrowfully of her unhappiness at this "persecution", Shelley, though he did not love her, suggested that they elope

BRITISH HOUSE OPENED TO-DAY

Queen Unable To Be Present at Historic Function at Noon.

LITTLE LEGISLATION.

LONDON, Feb. 7. — (Canadian Press.)—Great Britain's finest spectacle of Royal pomp and ancient pageantry, the opening of Parliament, was enacted at noon to-day. It lacked just a little of its usual brilliance, however, because for the first time in his reign King George was not accompanied by Queen Mary. The Queen was ill with a cold at Buckingham Palace and the King rode alone in state in the coach of glass and gold to Westminster.

In the House of Lords His Majesty read his speech from the Throne in which he said that the British government was sympathetically studying a new draft treaty of arbitration with the United States to replace the treaty of 1908. The King touched on the improved situation in China. The Royal forecast of new legislation contained little beyond proposals for amending the parliamentary and local government franchises and consideration of measures to relieve the burden of local taxation.

The Dugout

(By J.R.H.)

Nix on that pooperino salute over there in the corner, guy. If you come into this funk hole you have to behave yourself.

And when you come in, leave the gas curtain open—the only gas around here will be inside.

Lots of you dugout guys have ideas —oh! yes you have—ideas about how things should be run. Shoot. I'll leave the curtain up and you can gas all you want to. Here for the first time since the war is a chance to grouse or boost—and there's no danger of the S.M. choking you off.

One buck wrote me a while ago raising cain because the War Memorial wasn't ready long ago, and when I published his letter, presto, the Mayor up and says the Memorial will be in place this year.

That's action. And it's no honey wagon rumor that the opinions of the gang will be respected, even considering where they come from. Oh! I'm not saying His Worship rushed all over the earth to do what this buck suggested about the Memorial—but it's a curious coincidence.

We don't want any kiss-me-sergeant disciples around here either. Speak up and speak your mind, or hike for the rear. If you've anything to get off your chest, rest your fannie on the chickenwire bed, plank your hobnails near the brazier, lean back against the burlap, and parleyvoo.

We soldats are listening.

Designed to Correct Confusion Growing Out of Previous Rules.

(By Alan J. Gould, Associated Press Sports Editor.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Three important changes in the gridiron code for 1928, each designed to correct abuses or confusion growing out of the previous rules rather than to effect a fundamental alteration, were announced to-day by the National Football Rules committee after a secret week-end huddle.

In a nutshell, they remove a good share of the protection afforded the lateral or backward passes, do away with the confusing distinction between a muffed or fumbled punt, and deal a blow at the use of the so-called "screen pass." They provide:

(1)—That a backward or lateral pass must be tossed at least two yards to be classed as such and that it may be recovered by the defensive side if grounded but not advanced, thus doing away with the protection afforded under the rules last year, to hidden ball and other trick passes behind the scrimmage line.

(2) That either a muff or fumble of a punt may be recovered by the kicking side but not advanced beyond the point of recovery.

(3)—That no player on the side making a forward pass and who has crossed the line of scrimmage may interfere with an opponent until the ball has been touched, thereby doing away with what the committee believes has been unfair blocking and checking, to screen the pass receiver, by players who themselves are not eligible to receive the pass.

African natives like crocodile meat, but most white travelers find it unpalatable.

Corporal Will Attenborough of the British Royal Horse Guards recently raised 415 3-4 pounds with his left hand.

Face Disfigured With Large Pimples Cuticura Healed

"My face broke out with small pimples which gradually became large, red and very hard. They festered and scaled over which made them very sore, and itched, causing me to scratch, and they soon spread to my chest and back. My face was disfigured and I was ashamed to go any place. I could not sleep on account of the irritation.

"I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and inside of a week there was quite a change. I purchased more and after using one box of Cuticura Ointment and two cakes of Cuticura Soap I was healed." (Signed) Nicol Stark, R. R. 1, Glenelm, Que.

MOTHERS DEPEND ON CREOMULSION TO GIVE RELIEF

Creomulsion Breaks Up Children's Coughs and Colds

Every mother realizes the danger of chronic coughs and persistent colds. The whole trouble is to find some reliable medicine which will break up the cold quickly, heal the throat and air passages, and stop the irritation and inflammation. This is just what Cremolusion, and emulsified creosote, does. It acts quickly. It soothes and heals. It not only gets rid of the deep-seated cough—it also builds up the system and thus helps ward off the danger of catching cold again. If your little boy or girl seems to cough all the time, get Creomulsion now. Money refunded if not satisfactory. Creomulsion Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

NO NEW CLUE KNOWN.

TORONTO, Feb. 7.—While despatches to the local newspapers say that Joseph Costello now in Fendale, Mich., has given to the Detroit police a clue which may lead to the discovery of the murderer of thirteen year old Florenec Costello here, the Toronto police have no fresh light on the mystery. The girl's body was found in a small creek here last month after she had been missing for two weeks. Mrs. Costello says she has not heard of any new clue.

PRAISE EXPRESSED FOR H. R. M'KEEN

The following letter is of interest to Peterborough citizens since H. R. McKeen, referred to in its contents, is at present in the city in connection with the re-organization of the local Chamber of Commerce It speaks well of Mr. McKeen's ability to carry on the work he has undertaken here. It is adressed to the American City Bureau, under date of January 28:

"Dear Sir,—Mr. Harry McKeen left Dubuque last night after having spent ten or twelve days in the capacity of educational director and connection with the Forward Dubuque Movement sponsored by the Dubuque Chamber of Commerce. It was my privilege to serve in the capacity of chairman of the Educational Committee and arrange for the appearance before the various civic, fraternal and group meetings of one kind and another, including assemblies in the public and parochial high schools and colleges. Altogether Mr. McKeen delivered more than thirty addresses during his stay in Dubuque.

"As the campaign is drawing to a successful conclusion the persons who were closely allied with the movement wish to join me in expressing our very high regard for Mr. McKeen as a clear thinking, earnest and wholesome gentleman, a convincing speaker, a man of magnetic personality and one who is in all respects an outstanding success in the work in which he is now engaged. His ideas and suggestions are sound and logical, his illustrations assembled from a wealth of experience emphasize and clarify his points and arguments his survey and cross-section of local conditions and his analysis of school questionnaires have been of great interest and vital importance to those charged with the activities of the Chamber of Commerce in Dubuque

"Dubuque has profited much by Mr. McKeen's visit, and it is our desire to express our appreciaton and gratitude to your organization for having him placed upon this assignment. His viewpoint and his methods have our hearty approval and unqualified endorsement.

"Yours truly,
"Brown, Lacy & Clewell,
"By Robert W. Clewell."

Rubanni Recital

(By Jeanette)

In a concert of an hour and a quarter in length, Miss Audrie Rubanni of Toronto, formerly of New York City, sang to about one hundred people last night, in the Grand Opera House. It was an interesting entertainment and the audience applauded each number on the program. Miss Rubanni brought with her from Toronto two assisting junior artists who were fully as good as many of the seniors heard here from time to time, and whose lack of maturity was fully compensated for by the precocity of the child violinist and the promise of exceptional ability as a musician noted in the sixteen-year-old youth at the piano.

Miss Rubanni sang in English and Italian, her rendition of portions of the opera "Norma," by Bellini, being outsanding in their excellence. Her voice is a light coloratura, thin in fibre, dramatic in essence, sweet and clear and marked by a perfect diction that makes her singing delightful from this point of view. Every word is enunciated beautifully. She exhibits a quality of emotional interpretation which gives her songs their proper value and her dramatic emphasis is just right. This histrionic quality that has so much to do with attractive presentation of any type of music, is notable in Miss Rubanni's singng.

Her voice, however, is a very marked example of the old story—the neglect of the middle register. Fine, clear, sweet, flute-like in its upper tones, and well-balanced in the lower register, the important notes that lie in between are often harsh, crude and unlikable. This was especially noticeable in the "Kerry Dances." the lovely old song that formed an encore to one group. Only in the minor-toned section that harks back to old memories, "Time Has Fled," was this a pretty number.

Miss Rubanni sang the "Norma" selections with brilliant effect. The breathy flaw in her voice was not so apparent in these selections, and fine training was demonstrated in voice control, enunciation and dramatic emphasis. The excerpts from the opera included the famous "Casta Diva" redition, a "Recitativo," a "Cavatina" and "A bello a me ritorna."

Also sung in Italian was a bit from Verdi's opera, "Ernani," "Ernani, Ernani, Involami," which brought renewed applause from the audience, and a dainty little "story" love song as an encore, "To My First Love," by Lohr.

In the group of English songs which intervened, Miss Rubanni was at her best in the exquisite little bit called "The Fairies." The light, fibrous quality of her voice was pitched to crystal clearness in this delicate little song with its rippling accompaniment.

Three other English songs were charmingly interpreted: "Winter," "The Swan," and "The Enchanted Forest," with an encore in "The Kerry Dances."

Miss Rubanni wore a bouffant frock, ankle-length, of turquoise blue taffeta, with applique flowers in henna red and pale yellow.

The two assisting musicians, Edgar Goodaire, pianist, and little Anthony Remouch, the boy violinist of Canadian birth and Polish ancestry, who created much interest here during his appearance at the Produced-in-Canada Fair last fall, were high lights in the evening's programme. This small boy with the broad brow and the deft, firm little hands, is a wonderfully brilliant violinist. He plays with the intense absorption and nervous enthusiasm of the Slav. He has a memory that takes him through long and difficult numbers unaided by a score, and all the terrors of the violin; the intricacies of double-stopping, when the bow plays upon two strings at the one time, the snares of harmonics, in which the finger, resting lightly on the string, is apt to make a shrill discord, the difficulties of deftly pulled strings that produce the pizzicato effect so much in evidence, have no secrets from him. He is master of his small violin, whose shrill, poor tone was made at moments, by the magic of this little boy's bow, to produce some wonderfully sweet cantabile effects. He played Ovide Musin's "Mazurka de Concert,' and the lovely "Liebesfreud' ("Love's Joy") of Kreisler's arrangement, both receiving such renewed applause that he came back with an encore, after each appearance. These were Kreisler's "Midnight Bells" and Auer's "Valse Bluette."

To Edgar Goodaire belongs also a large meed of appreciation. A tall youth of sixteen years, with dignified demeanor and a pleasing stage presence, he gives promise of a brilliant future as a pianist. Unlike the little boy violinist, whose artistic star is apparently already pointed straight to the goal, he is evidently still at the crossroads. Whether he will develop into the type of musician who is able to render classical music with cold, technical precision, or reach out just a little farther and include a quality of sentimental appreciation, will be decided by the years. Now, he plays as a Canadian plays, with a somewhat matter of fact, intent enthusiasm in producing tuneful and elegant sounds. He has a pure and limpid tone that is powerful and virile in the forte passages and still exhibits a very attractive quality of fine and delicate sweetness in softer music. Playing entirely from memory, his skill and fine training are outstanding, while an impeccable sense of rhythm, a bigness and breadth of style and plenty of dash and vitality, color his music. With the apparent thorough training, steadiness of mental equipment and love of his work manifested in this youthful pianist, he should go far in his chosen art.

He played Moszkowski's well-known "Capricé Espagnol" as an opening number, with loud applause that brought a dainty encore, "To the Rising Sun" by Torjussen. Liszt's seldom-heard "Hungarian Rhapsody Number Six" was a superb piece of instrumentation, the vital music with its tense swiftness and delicate ringing melody flowing out from the youthful, vibrant fingers. Another burst of applause greeted this rendition, and brought the pianist back for another encore. in Chopin's "Valse in G flat."

for upwards of three days, prior to the time when the injury was sustained.

(3) Sub-section 3 shall apply where notice of the dangerous condition of such sidewalk was given, in the case of a county or township, within three days or in the case of an urban municipality within twenty-four hours, prior to the happening of such injury and the municipality has neglected to remedy the same."

The necessity of the continuance of Federal and Provincial grants for the relief of the unemployed was stressed and the Province was urged to bring the Federal Old Age pension Act into operation.

Immigration.

The section dealing with immigration declared that it was a vital matter for the Dominion and stressed the necessity for incomers with British ideals and of easy assimilation. "The influx of persons who can speak neither English nor French," it declared, "is a danger if a fair proportion is not maintained, and immigrants without funds to provide for themselves impose a tax burden which cannot be carried. Undesirable and unrestricted immigration adds to our problem of unemployment." The whole question it affirmed, should be removed from the sphere of politics. Speaking on this resolution Mr. Wenige suggested that the Federal government be petitioned to provide concentration farms away from cities where immigrants can be kept at work and as necessities arise and work is provided or farms secured they may be distributed as occasion demands. Mr. Ferguson added that the Provincial goversnment had made a practice of notifying the authorities not to send immigrants to Ontario unless the London office was advised of the fact. Pointing out some of the difficulties in the way of regulating the trek to the cities the Premier stressed the fact that many new comers to Canada arrived for work on the prairies in the fall and on the approach of winter moved into the cities. How could this be prevented? he asked. Getting a job on the farm was merely an alibi with many immigrants he said. They merely worked for a month or two on the land and then sallied off to look for work in the cities. The problem was one for the Dominion government he thought. The inauguration of a more strict selection of immigrants might help.

Unemployment Relief Work.

With regard to unemployment relief the premier pointed out that the provincial and federal grants to the municipalitics for public works to relieve unemployment had their origin in the unique situation that developed after the war. Unemployment was general and the two governments stepped to the aid of the local bodies. The honorable gentleman declared that the question was one which concerned first the municipality and secondly the dominion. Unemployment was not general through out the province. It was incidental. The flocking of workless people to the cities aggravated the situation. He was inclined to the belief that the relief system often made matters worse. When it was known that unemployment relief work was being subsidised by the government the number of applicants was increased by men from all quarters. Who was responsible? he asked.

Answering his own question Mr. Ferguson said "The people who bring them." The Dominion government handled immigration and the system in vogue tended to create undesirable situations. A premium was placed on numbers. Transportation companies were allowed to bring in settlers without any regard to regional requirements.

Old Age Pensions.

Passing to consideration of the request for the adoption of the Old Age Pensions Act Mr. Ferguson commented adversely on the fact that the provinces were asked to contribute half the cost and take over the whoel provincial administration of the act and yet they had not been consulted on the matter and no study had been made of the existing conditions. He felt that he wanted to see where he was going. In Ontario there were considerably more than 100,000 people over 70 years of age, a proportion of the entire population that was higher than in any of the other provinces with the exception of the Maritimes. He realized that there was a good deal to be said in favor of the principle, but no matter how one's sympathies lay it was practically a business proposition. Voluntary effort was the best kind of philanthropy. "The tendency nowadays is to get away from that," interjected Mr. Tulley. "Well, it is a mistake," answered Mr. Ferguson. The government, he continued, was giving the matter a lot of consideraton. There was on the Ontario statute books a law which called on children to maintain their indigent parents. He thought there was a similar law in British Columbia, but not in any of the other provinces. The difficulty was that the parents could not be brought to take action against their children. They did not like to do it. The appointment of an officer to find out the facts and with the power to take the necessary court action would be a real help, he believed. "What would he do in cases where the children had left the country?" asked Mr. Tulley. "He would not try the impossible," answered Mr. Ferguson; "he would not go to Timbuctoo after defaulters in this respect." The government was trying to get on this year without any increase in taxation. They were giving the old age pension problem every consideration and were collecting all data in order to reach a conclusion. To adopt the act would impose an additional burden of $500,000 on the province. This revenue would have to be found by the government.

Canadian Coal.

He had been told that it was possible to bring in Nova Scotia and Alberta coal to Ontario and sell it satisfactorily. The province spent $30,000 on an experiment which showed that the out of pocket cost of bringing the Alberta coal was $7.22 per ton. He had read the report and he believed it was erroneous. Here Mayor Wenige interrupted the Premier with the announcement that a London merchant had brought to the city more than 5000 tons of coal at transportation charges of around $6 per ton. This was achieved by the use of larger cars than the ordinary. Expressing his surpise at this statement, the Prime Minister informed the deputation that he had before him a proposition from Sir Henry Thornton in which the C.N.R. president estimated the costs at nine dollars per ton and the Dominion government along with two provincial administrations were asked to chip in with subsidies. Mr. Ferguson said he did not feel that the province should be asked to make a subsidy as a general proposition. They had been glad enough to experiment to discover if the proposition were workable. He would like to see Nova Scotia coal brought to Ontario. This year for the first time they had been able to buy 400 tons of Nova Scotia coal for the Normal school of Toronto. He thought that an educational campaign along this line would lead to the finding of a way out. He hoped the Dominion government would adopt a national coal policy. It was a national problem.

Care of Senile Patients.

To meet the request of the deputation regarding senile patients would require the erection of new institutions, said Mr. Ferguson and many of these patients would become simply "boarders." There were at present 1,000 patients in provincial institutions who were such boarders. Dr. Ryan was making a survey with a view to the elimination from the institutions of those who should not be in them, such as patients who had reached the curative stage. People sometimes put their relatives into institutions and then seemed to forget all about them. This was being stopped. One man had been compelled to pay back $13,000 for the maintenance of his wife. Another had to pay $7,000 with respect to his boy whom he placed in an institution and left there. These things had been possible because the province had had no system of auditing receipts. This was in process of being rectified and Dr. Ryan was segregating types and institutions.

Doubts Efficacy of Change.

Mr. Ferguson expressed doubt whether the proposed amendment to Section 460 of the Municipal Act would get them very far. He humorously suggested that they petition the government to appoint better judges. A smile passed around the Council Board when, following a reference by Mr. Tulley regarding a successful appeal by Ottawa against a decision awarding damages to a citizen for injuries sustained by a fall in the slippery street, the Premier remarked, "Ottawa has a good government—I mean the city of Ottawa." "If we gave you all you asked for, you would not come back again" was another of the Premier's pleasantries.

The Government was anxious to keep in touch with public opinion and for this reason he was glad to talk to deputations like that before him, and he assured them that every recommendation would be considered. Returning to the question of unemployment relief, which was again raised by Mr. Wenige, he said that he was bound to say that there was no sign of a general situation. "all the municipalities which met at London on the 25th—there were 22 of them," remarked one of the deputation, "reported themselves as being more or less affected by the situation." Mr. Ferguson said that the Department of Labor was tackling the problem right now.

There were many angles to the question of sharing the proceeds of the gasoline taxes. Transportation on the highway was a public service and should be paid for by those who used it..

The Government was trying to reach the stage where it could get rid of general taxation, and wanted citizens to be assessed only for special services rendered. They wanted the highway to meet the cost of their maintenance. To-day the total revenue from the highways did not meet this cost and the Government had to take two millions out of the general treasury to meet this deficit on them. The Government hoped next year to issue debentures and take care of the highways under the amortization policy and pay out of the revenues. He thought it only reasonable that civic apparatus such as fire reels and ambulances sohuld be exempt for they were confined to the ctiy limits, but when they wanted to extend the exemption to merchants 'and grocers' vehicles, they had not so strong a case.

At the close of the interview, Mr. Ferguson spent a few minutes in general conversation with the Mayor and Alderman Greene.

Three Deputations Heard by School Trustees

BOURASSA'S SPEECH CAUSES LIVELY MOMENTS IN HOUSE; MEMBERS PROTEST WORDS

Independent Warns Against the Admission of British Radicals.

MIGHT CAUSE CRISIS.

Agrees With Critics That Poor Fought Well—Praises Britain's Peace Policy.

OTTAWA, Feb. 8 (Canadian Press).—Debate on the address is scheduled to end on Thursday. As no adjournment has been proposed it is expected the address will then be adopted. With the subsequent tabling of the estimates, the House will get down to the actual business of the session.

While Henri Bourassa (Independent, Labelle) was speaking yesterday there seemed a likelihood for a moment or two of lively times. Mr. Bourassa had spoken of the danger of letting down immigration barriers to radicals from Europe. We should beware, he urged, how we opened our doors to any one who might come from England with heart full of hatred against British institutions.

"Of course," he went on, "if you want to hasten the day of secession, if you want to precipitate Canada into crisis with Great Britain, bring as many as you can of that kind of people to this country."

There were protests from the Conservative side.

"Did the poorest of England not fight for their country in the war?" General Clark demanded.

"They fought for France and they fought for you," another voice called across to Mr. Bourassa.

There was some hubbub and Mr. Bourassa rejoined: "They fought for England, and they did it well."

Mr. Bourassa added later that he had the greatest admiration for the present policy of the British Government, to make peace as permanent as it could. As a free Britisher, he would, however, say: "Now that you are talking peace, we will help you. The moment you unmuzzle your guns we will be against you."

CHAMBER BEHIND GROWTH OF CITY

Is Organized Agency To Promote Development, Says Dr. McKeen.

Following a mixed program of music and readings given by pupils of the several classes at Queen Mary School last night, Harry R. McKeen, Director of the Chamber of Commerce Forward Movement, was the speaker.

"You will ask," said Mr. McKeen, "what relationship or connection there can possibly be between a meeting such as this one and the program of activities of a Chamber of Commerce.

"Right here so many people have a misconception of the business of a Chamber of Commerce to do for a city precisely what a board of directors and managers does for a business. The business is not so much to do things as it is to inspire and lead others to do them."

Mr. McKeen analyzed a town, showed how it developed and grew, pointed out the necessity not only for industrial plants, agricultural trading territory, strong financial institutions and adequate transportation facilities, but went behind all this and showed that the real town was people living happily together as neighbors, with comfortable homes, efficient schools, beautiful churches and recreational facilities for all.

"You must have an organized agency such as the Chamber of Commerce to build bigger and better business in order that these other things can be attained," he declared.

Following Mr. McKeen's address, light refreshments were served by the ladies. The attendance was unusually good considering the weather conditions.

SNOW STORMS CAUSE TROUBLE

Many Fishermen Lose Lives In Northern Japan—Traffic Disrupted.

13 BODIES FOUND.

TOKYO, Feb. 8.—(Canadian Press.)—Violent snow storms in the north of Japan have caused a number of deaths, damage to shipping, and a general disruption of communications. Wrecks along the coast to-day included eight motor boats. The bodies of thirteen fishermen were washed ashore and many others are believed drowned.

Kellogg Honored At State Dinner

OTTAWA Feb. 8. — Canadian Press. — A day filled with social functions culminated last evening in a dinner in honor of Hon. Frank B. Kellogg American Secretary of State tendered by Hon. William Phillips, United States Minister to Ottawa. Mr. Kellogg yesterday, accompanied by Their Excellencies the Governor General and Viscountess Willingdon, and Mrs. Kellogg visited the Dominion archives, and later the Secretary of State was a guest of the Prime Minister at a private luncheon. In the afternoon Mr. Kellogg and his party were present in the House of Commons and listened for a few minutes to the debate, afterwards receiving members and their wives in the Speaker's chambers.

DEBATE ENDS ON THURSDAY

LIVELY SESSION.

OTTAWA, Ont., February 8 (Canadian Press). — Debate on the Address is scheduled to end on Thursday. As no amendment had been proposed, it is expected that the Address will then be adopted without the House dividing. YOUNG MAN FREED OF SERIOUS CHARGE

No Bill Found By Grand Jury in Case of Sarnia Belgian.

TWO TRUE BILLS.

SARNIA, Ont., February 8 (Canadian Press). — Clifford Simpson, 22, was found not guilty by a Supreme Court jury to-day of a serious offence against a seventeen-year-old girl, for which he had been indicted by the Grand Jury yesterday.

The Grand Jury also reported no bill against Allook Buyse, a Belgian, accused of manslaughter resulting from the death of Jean Vanhoof, a fellow-countryman. Vanhoof died of a stab wound inflicted on November 13. Buyse claimed he struck in self-defence.

True bills have been found against Thomas Reid and Andrew Moffatt for manslaughter. The first-named is alleged to have caused the death of William Burdett by running him down with his car. Moffatt is accused of striking Samuel Dennis over the head with a shovel, inflicting an injury which proved fatal.

Youth Faces Charge Of Murdering Father

COUPE B.C., Feb. 8. Canadian Press. — Lee Parker 25, of Rollo, B. C., will be taken to Fort George to face a charge of murdering his father.

At the preliminary hearing here on Saturday, evidence was adduced to the effect that the elder parent had been shot by his son after the former had beaten his wife and driven her from their home.

The mother testified that the whole family lived in fear of the father when his temper was aroused.

LEVEL CHANGES NOT HARMING FISH IN LAKES

Fish and Game Association Hears That Regulation is Satisfactory.

FRED ROY PRESIDENT.

Action Taken to Prevent Fishing Through Ice and Poaching in Spring.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association was held in the Empress Hotel last evening and, judging from the splendid manner in which business was conducted, the optimistic note sounded in the various addresses and reports, the local association is serving its purpose well.

The meeting opened at eight o'clock, President Fred Roy presiding. Following the minutes of the last annual meeting, held February 11, 1927, by Secretary C. G. Graham, the president briefly addressed the twenty-five members present, reviewing the activities of the association during the past year, and making several suggestions for the coming term. He mentioned the fact that in 1927, 20,000 trout fry and numerous cans of bass fry had been obtained and placed in the surrounding lakes; that the membership of the organization had increased appreciably and that everything had "gone over" well.

President Roy also dwelt briefly on the problem presented by fishing through the ice and poaching in the spring, which is playing havoc with pickerel and game fish.

He felt that the matter had outgrown the association—that it was a matter with which citizens generally should be concerned and that a public meeting should be called. Further action in this regard was taken later in the meeting.

Water Levels Satisfactory.

President Roy also spoke of another matter which has given rise to considerable discussion. The lowering of the water levels in the spring has been blamed for the destruction of fish, but this matter had been given careful study by a Toronto University professor, who had found that the present method and extent of lowering the waters is most satisfactory. The president thought that this information, since it was first hand, should be taken as authentic.

The report of the treasurer was read by Mr. Graham. It showed a balance on hand of $150.53.

Officers Elected.

The election of officers was the next matter to be dealt with, and resulted as follows:

Honorary President—Perry Alexander, of Delray, Florida (and Oak Orchard).

President—Fred Roy, re-elected.

First Vice-President—C. H. Rogers.

Second Vice-President — Frank Barrett.

Secretary-Treasurer—C. G. Graham re-elected.

Executive Committee—Col. Frank Bradburn, Dr. McPherson, W. C. Ackerman, J. Wetton, Dr. Deyell, C. Lech, A. L. Killaly, L. Anthony.

A delegate is representing the local association at the annual meeting of the Ontario Hunters' Fish and Game Association in Toronto to-day.

Following the reading of a communication from the Department of Game and Fisheries relative to the failure of bass fry during the past few years, it was decided to have the president, select a committee to confer with the local member and the department in Toronto regarding the establishment of spawning grounds in the Kawartha Lakes, which are very suitable to such a purpose. These grounds, if properly protected, would be of great assistance in supplying the lakes for years to come, it was declared.

Suggestions Made

The Ketchecum Hunt Club's communication, proposing the changing of present deer hunting dates back to the old season of November 5 to 20, met with sympathetic response from the meeting and a resolution in this direction was adopted unanimously.

There was also a suggestion offered during the evening that parent bass be obtained from the Northern Lakes and placed in Stoney, Buck-

CANADIAN PRIMATE IS GIVEN OVATION AT QUEBEC CITY

Cardinal Rouleau Tendered the First Official Reception Since Return From Rome.

IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY.

Addresses of Welcome Read Both in French and English.

QUEBEC, Que., Feb. 8 (Canadian Press). — The ancient Basilica of Quebec, where so many great religious ceremonies have been carried out in the past, was the scene of a demonstration yesterday which will long remain vivid in the memory of those who were privileged to assist at it. It was the first actual official reception of His Eminence, Cardinal Rouleau, in Canada since his return from Rome.

The famous sacred edifice was filled to overflowing; in fact hundreds were unable to obtain admission to the church, and after His Eminence had mounted the special throne which was prepared for him, Mgh. Omer Plante read an address of welcome and of devotion to the new Cardinal in the name of the French-speaking people of the diocese. His Eminence replied to this address, and Rev. Father Maguire, parish priest of Sillery, then read an address in the name of the English-speaking people. To this address His Eminence, who is a famous linguist, speaking fluently as he does a number of modern languages, answered in perfect English.

Following the expression of good wishes and the Cardinal's replies the ceremony was brought to a close with a solemn Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

Honored for Third Time

Mgr. Plante, who delivered the French address to the Cardinal, referred to the fact that for the third time, the church, founded in Quebec by Laval, saw one of her leaders honored by the Purple, the fame of which flashed over the whole Dominion, and which was the symbol of undaunted courage, freely given in the propagation and in defence of the faith.

Mgr. Plante assured the Cardinal of the great joy of Quebec and all Canadians at his elevation. He continued:

"You have been introduced in the august council of the church. You become the councillor, the confidant, and the coadjutor of the Vicar of Christ. The Roman congregation where the most important affairs are discussed and where decisions are taken, where is weighed the supernatural destiny of mankind, have opened their doors to you. You now share the fullness of the apostolic power, whose beneficence shines on all the universe. You have access to the steps of the throne where sits the greatest monarch in the world, wherein are displayed most beneficial and more extended powers than those of any other Sovereign to whom men could bow. You are now of the elite who, according to the canons of the church, have to choose the successor of Apostle St. Peter. All these titles, your Eminence, make the church and the Canadian nation more illustrious. It might have been supposed that the two former elevations to the supreme rank of the church were mere accidents in the history of our country. It is not so and thanks to God, Canada has grown and has developed. There has been an immense multiplication of religious institutions. Our country

Public Beer Sale Legislation Sought

WINDSOR, Ont, Feb. 8. Canadian Press. — F. W. Wilson, Conservative M.L.A., for Windsor East announced to-day that he would bring in the following resolution at the coming session of the Ontario Legislature: —"That in the opinion of this Provincial House it is desirable that legislation should be enacted at this session providing for the public consumption of beer, as defined in Clause A, of section 2, of the Liquor Control Act under government regulation on the local option plan."

HOUSE OF LAITY APPROVES BOOK

General Approval Given New Revision By Vote of 196 To 80.

ALL HOUSES AGREE.

LONDON, Feb. 8. — (Canadian Press.)—General approval of the amended form of the Book of Common Prayer of the Church of England was voted to-day by the House of Laity of the Church Assembly, 196 to 80. The House of Clergy approved the newly revised version yesterday, 247 to 35, while the House of Bishops approved it forty to five.

ICE IS GREAT FOR TO-NIGHT'S GAME

A Big Following is Expected From Both Towns.

The ice at Brock Street Rink for to-night's game, Lakefield and Havelock, is in great condition.

There was no skating last evening, and it has been held for to-night.

The weather outside has not affected it in any way, as there really is frost yet in the rink.

A big crowd is expected from both towns and the usual following from Peterborough who sees these games will also be there.

FINAL RESTING PLACE

The ancient Dryburgh Abbey, situated on the River Tweed in the south-west corner of of Berwickshire, in Scotland, has received the remains of Field-Marshal Earl Haig with the simplest of rites in contrast to the pomp and pageantry of London's farewell. The abbey, founded in 1150, by King David I. of Scotland, was burned by Edward II. of England, during his retreat from his futile Scotland invasion in 1322. It was partially restored by Robert I. of Scotland. Sir Walter Scott was buried there in 1832, and Earl Haig's body now rests within a few feet of the bones of the author of the Waverley Novels.

Youth Plead Guilty To Attempted Robbery

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 8. — Canadian Press. — Ernest W. Palmer and John St. Marie, two Winnipeg boys, pleaded guiltty in the city police court yesterday to breaking into the general post office here early on Sunday morning, and attempting theft. They were remanded until Friday for sentence.

The youths who admitted entering the post office with the intention of stealing money from the cash box were frightened away when discovered by a clerk. Both are former employees of the post office department.

WOMEN WANT CLOSE CHECK OF THEATRES

Charge That Owners Added Amount of Tax to Own Revenue After Removal.

INTERVIEW PREMIER.

Consideration Promised Proposal That Women Be Appointed Cinema Inspectors.

TORONTO, Feb. 8. Canadian Press. — Following requests by a deputation of women from local organizations for closer inspection of motion picture theatres, and an investigation to the alleged charge that the amusement tax, although lifted by the government from admission tickets costing 25c and under, was not being handed back to the public but added to the theatre revenue, Premier G. Howard Ferguson said: "If I find they have not I may put that tax back on again."

The Premier stated that he was taking steps to determine whether the picture theatre owners of the province have "played fair" with the government in connection with the abolition of the tax. It was only after serious consideration that the government dropped this portion of the tax, for it meant a loss to the treasury annually of $750,000.

The deputation charged serious lack of cooperation between cinema managers and the government authorities and suggested that the whole matter of film theatre inspection be placed under the Department of Education inasmuch as it is mainly for the protection of children.

It was submitted that the law prohibiting children under 15 years of age from patronizing picture shows, unless accompanied by an adult, might be better enforced. Better supervision was asked in cases where matrons are appointed by theatre managements to look after children attending the theatres. The delegation also urged the appointment of women inspectors.

Premier Ferguson points out that small municipalities have not sufficient staff to devote much time to the supervision of theatres. On the suggestion of women inspectors he promised consideration.

IN POLICE COURT

Ernest Davey pleaded guilty to being a vagrant and was given two months in the common jail.

R. Jackson pleaded guilty to speeding on George Street on Saturday night and was fined $15 and costs.

Two local men were assessed $15 and costs each for being drunk in a public place.

BOARD OF EDUCATION NEEDS $227,500 FOR YEAR'S WORK; 1928 ESTIMATES DISCUSSED

League of Nations Society Ends Session

OTTAWA Ont., Feb. 8 (Canadian Press).—The League of Nations Society of Canada concluded its sixth annual meeting in the Capital yesterday after electing Sir George Foster to the presidential chair, and filling the various other offices for the ensuing year. His Excellency Viscount Willingdon, is the Society's patron, while honorary presidents are Premier Mackenzie King, Hon. R. B. Bennett, Federal Conservative leader, and Robert Gardiner, leader of the Federal Progressive group.

The meeting approved a resolution urging the adoption of a League of Nations Day throughout the Dominion during the month of April for the advancement of the claims of the society and a drive for membership. Another resolution supporting an appeal to the Federa l Government for a grant of $10,000 for the purchase and free distribution in Canada of official literature of the league, was also passed.

ICY PAVEMENTS CAUSE TROUBLE

Pedestrians Slip and Buses Have Great Difficulty in Progressing.

SAND GANG BUSY.

Peterborough citizens slipped all over last night and to-day. Icy pavements forced the surest footed to walk very warily, and as a result the local taxi drivers had a very busy night. Early in the evening it started to rain and soon the sidewalks and streets were covered with a slippery coating of ice. Street Commissioner Harry Evans had a gang of men busy at work sanding the down town streets last night, but by morning, with the continued rain, the streets were as bad as ever.

Many young people skated to work this morning and it was not an uncommon sight to see some young chap gliding gracefully down George street while those who walked were progressing with the greatest difficulty.

The Bo[illegible] Transit Company was able to keep the service running under great difficulty. The large five ton truck was out this morning drawing ashes so that the slippery hills and corners would not hinder the transportation service.

Workmen were late getting to their jobs this morning and many of the rooms in the public schools did not open up until 9.30.

During the day the city engineer's department has had all the men available sanding the streets but with the intermittent rain it has been a very difficult task.

Both the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Telegraphs stated that the storm had not affected their wires and as yet the Bell Telephone Company has had no wire trouble.

The highways in the country are practically impassable, as the roads are covered with sheets of ice, and the cars slip into the ditch.

O'NEILL ARRESTED; ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

Hired Man Held As Material Witness in Connection With Deaths.

BARRIE, Ont., Feb. 8 (Canadian Press).—George O'Neill, hired man on the Robertson farm, was arrested last night as a material witness in connection with the deaths of Asa Robertson, aged farmer, and Mrs. Ruth Martin in the fire which destroyed the Robertson barn last Saturday. Early to-day O'Neill attempted to commit suicide. He had been at the home of County Constable Bradley, recovering from burns he suffered at the fire, and had been under surveillance pending recovery so that he might be arrested on orders of Deputy Commissioner Alfred Cuddy of the Provincial Police. The arrest was made by Sergeant Creasy last night.

O'Neill was lodged in Barrie Jail and to-day, when his cell was entered by officers, he was found lying on the floor in a pool of blood. He had cut his throat with a pen knife. He was rushed to the hospital here and operated on, and doctors state he is in a critical condition. The wound had been sewn up.

The inquest on the deaths is set for February 13, when O'Neill would be the chief witness, but in view of his serious condition, a postponement will probably be necessary.

Board Decides Against Ceremony at Collegiate — Will Assist in Health Work.

The Board of Education is asking the City Council, for the purpose of financing the work of the public schools and Collegiate Institute for 1928, to provide $227,500, an increase of $6,900 over last year's total. This increase is made up of $3,400 extra for the public school account and $3,500 for Collegiate account.

The public school increase is more than accounted for by the inclusion of $5,750 for the purchase of the Grace Church property adjoining the Queen Alexandra School, while the increase in the Collegiate figure is an allowance for salaries for the extra staff, if any, required for the vocational department of the Collegiate after the opening of the new extension. Part of the money expended on these salaries will be returned by the province but full allowance must be made this year as the province's payment will not be made until after the end of the year.

Last night's, the regular February meeting of the board, was a long one, many items coming up for consideration and three deputations having to be heard.

To Co-operate on M.O.H.

Dr. H. M. Yelland, with either J. F. Strickland or the chairman, will be a committee to meet with the City Council's committee to discuss the details of the plan for a full time Medical Officer of Health for the city. Aldermen C. H. Ackerman and J. M. Greene appeared before the Board to ask co-operation in this matter. Ald. Ackerman, as spokesman for the committee, pointed out that other cities the size of Peterborough either have or are seriously considering the appointment of a full time officer. "We find that where this service is given," he continued, "that the ratepayers use it and the mortality of the community is cut down.

"Last year the city spent $23,000 on health altogether and we feel that we can build in Peterborough, for not more than $2,000 more, an organization as efficient as those of other cities."

Dr. Yelland asked if the Board would be consulted in the future if a change should be necessary in the staff, and Dr. Craig asked who has the appointing and discharging of the M.O.H. Ald. Ackerman replied that this is done by the Council, subject always to the approval of the Department of Health. Dr. Craig also asked what proportion of the officer's time would be given to the schools, and Ald. Ackerman answered that this would have to be worked out later but that, speaking for himself, he felt that there should be as much, if not more, time devoted to the schools as there is now, as the Board is to a certain extent the pioneer in this work in the city.

Frank G. Stinson was introduced as a deputation asking the Board for permission to arrange for Dr. Karr to address the pupils of the Collegiate Institute in connection with the Peterborough Forward Movement. J. A. McKone stated that he and his pupils had heard Dr. Karr yesterday morning and that his address had been of a very helpful nature. Dr. Karr stated that the interest of the pupils was of great help in such a campaign and that it was essential that a feeling of pride and interest in their city should be inculcated. The permission was granted, arrangements to be made by Mr. Kenner and Mr. Stinson.

The penny bank officials reported that 1,584 pupils had opened accounts and that the amounts deposited each week last month had all been over $500. Two rooms had 100 per cent. of the pupils depositors, while the record for the city was seventy per cent. The Board expressed satisfaction at this

This Day In Parliament.

OTTAWA, Feb. 8 (Canadian Press).—Today, the Senate will resume the debate on the address, Senator Turiff speaking. In the Commons, the debate on the address will be continued by the Hon. P. J Veniot, Postmaster General, and will probably be concluded tomorrow.

Yesterdays, Senators G. G. Foster and Willoughby spoke in the debate on the address in the Senate. The bill to create divorce courts in Ontario was given third reading. In the Commons, the following members spoke: T. Cantley (Conservative, Pictou); Henri Bourassa (Independent, Labelle); F. Macdonald (Conservative, Cape Breton South); C. E. Baldwell (Liberal, Swift Current); L. Jelliff (U.F.A., Lethbridge); G. MacNutt (Conservative, Colchester); Hon. J. Sinclair (Liberal, Queen's, P.E.I.); L. Johnstone (Conservative, Cape Breton, North Victoria); Hugh Allan (Liberal, Oxford North).

FIRST CHAMBER OF COMMERCE IS MENTIONED IN SCRIPTURES

J. J. Duffus Traces Formation of Silversmiths of Ephesus.

SPEAKS AT COBOURG

The genesis of the modern Chamber of Commerce is found in the Association of Silversmiths of Ephesus as related in the 19th chapter of the Acts of the Apostles. J. J. Duffus suggested in his address to the Board of Trade of Cobourg last night.

In his fanciful allusion to Holy Writ's observation of a contemporaneous business disturbance, Mr. Duffus recalled that these silversmiths sought to protect their industry against the iconoclasm of Christianity.

"These Ephesian craftsmen assembled in the market place," he said, "fearful lest the acceptance of Christianity would result in the conversion of the people from the worship of silver idols. They protested against the teaching of St. Paul, and endeavored to get an injunction against him. 'Great is Diana of the Ephesians' they kept vociferating, and this phrase might be termed the first known slogan of a Chamber of Commerce, for this gathering of the silversmiths was a sort of extemporized chamber of commerce."

The Trade Guilds

Down through the Middle Ages, Mr. Duffus traced the evolution of the Chamber of Commerce to the establishment of the trade guilds. "Their members were the artisans and merchants engaged in the making and handling of everyday necessities of life. Here in embryonic form is the Chamber of Commerce of today. To preserve a standard of workmanship, to protect the employer and employees, to arrange terms of barter and exchange, and to develop the domestic industries of manor, these guilds came into being. Such trade guilds still exist in Great Britain, for example, as indicated by the hall-marking of the goldsmiths. In Switzerland, moreover, there survive the commercial guilds of four and five hundred years ago."

"France is the original home of Chambers of Commerce, and at Marseilles, the old Greek colony, there was planted in the 14th century the first organized Chamber of Commerce although it was not until the 18th century that other chambers of commerce appeared in France. It was also in the Middle Ages that the Hanseatic towns began to play such an important part in the national commerce of the day. The word "Hansa" itself means an association, and such cities as Hamburg, Bremen and Lubeck, the then emporiums and distributing centres of the continent were themselves virtually chambers of commerce, consisting as they did of an association of business men.

Glasgow Set Example

In the economic history of the British Isles we read that Glasgow was the first city to obtain, in 1873, a royal charter establishing a chamber of Commerce. Edinburgh followed two years later so we see once more that good things come from Scotland. Manchester had the first purely English chamber of commerce which was founded at the turn of the 19th century. The London chamber did not take shape until 1882 or sixty years after there had been success-

Wife Tries Suicide Third Time and Fails

CAMDEN, February 8. — Mrs. Philomena Mignon forty, mother of five children, made her third attempt within a week to commit suicide when she set fire to her clothing at her home yesterday. Her husband, aroused by her screams, smothered the flames with a blanket, and had her removed to Cooper Hospital.

Last Tuesday Mrs. Mignon tried to hang herself, and on Thursday attempted to jump from a window.

APPROVE OF NEW MEASURE

Bishops and Clergy, Voting Separately, Favor Amended Prayer Book.

DEBATE ADJOURNED.

LONDON, England, February 8 (Associated Press). — The newly-revised book of common prayer of the Church of England, about which so much controversy has raged in recent months, yesterday again came to the fore when it was brought before the Church Assembly.

The House of Bishops and the House of Clergy voting separately, approved the amended prayer book measure, but laity—the third house of the Church Assembly—adjourned until to-day before debate was concluded on the critical issue.

The action of the Bishops and the Clergymen was expected. The vote of the House of Clergy was 247 to 35, while that of the House of Bishops was 40 to 5. The only bishops voting opposition to the measure were the Bishops of Norwich, Birmingham, Exeter, Worcester, and St. Edmundsbury and Ipswich.

Opponents of the amended prayer book argued that the measure had remained virtually unchanged since it was rejected in the House of Commons in December, and that the adoption of the revision, so long as it provided for perpetual reservation of the Sacramental elements, meant only another defeat in Parliament.

Debate in the Assembly yesterday showed clearly that it was reservation of the Sacrament that was the central point over which the controversy has developed, opponents of "reservation" contending that it was a step toward Rome.

ASSAILS HIRING OF ALIENISTS

Dr. Orbison Testifies as State Witness in Hickman Sanity Trial.

RIDICULOUS POMP.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Feb. 8. — (Canadian Press.) — The hiring of expensive alienists by both sides was assailed as "ridiculous pomp and ceremony" by Dr. Thomas Oribson, member of the Los Angeles county lunacy commission, while testifying as a state witness yesterday in the sanity trial of William Edward Hickman.

The opinion that all criminals who pleaded insanity as a defence should first go before a lunacy commission for the determination of this claim, instead of placing the state at the expense of a long, costly trial, was stated by the alienist from the witness stand. Dr. Orbison made the observations voluntarily in replying to a question by Richard Cantillon, defence attorney, who frantically and vainly tried to check the witness when he launched into the attack upon the employment of alienists.

Judge J. J. Trabucco ruled that the witness was allowed to complete his answer as he wished, but that part to which objection was made might be stricken out afterward. When the witness finished, Cantillon moved that the "irrelevant" portion be stricken from the trial records and the jury instructed to disregard it. This was so ordered by the court.

The defence hailed as its victory the entering into the trial record of a statement written by the slayer of Marian Parker, which District Attorney Keyes last week kept out of the trial by objecting to it as "tommyrot" written by the prisoner weeks after he had been arrested and confessed to the crime."

Claimed "Divine Guidance."

The statement was Hickman's story of his entry into a crime career at the urge of two boy companions and the obtaining of "divine guidance" in the kidnaping and killing of his girl victim. It was introduced by asking Dr. Orbison to read it to discover "flourishes" indicating insanity. The state did not make objections to its introduction.

Hickman wrote that he wished to aid the court, that he always wanted to do some great thing for humanity, that he placed his body in the jury's hands to be hanged if it thought that would "satisfy those who crave my blood." He pleaded to "to let this great Providence work in me toward some great good."

"I am not reasoning out of my own powers, but am being inspired by the great power," Hickman wrote. Asking "what good will it do the American people" that he be hanged or imprisoned, the slayer asserted his plea for his life should not and would not go unheeded, that it concerned the "very preservation of the fundamentals of American life."

Dr. Orbison described Hickman's address as "the plea of a man who realizes he's at the end of his rope."

A BEAUTIFUL WHIPPET SEDAN GIVEN FREE

The J. J. Duffus Motor Show To Be Biggest Thing Of Its Kind Anywhere in Province.

As an attraction at the Motor Show being held in Peterboro, which opens next Saturday, Mr. J. J. Duffus announces he will give away, absolutely free, one of the new 1928 beautiful Whippet sedans.

This car delivers for $855.00 in Peterboro, and is fully equipped with bumpers, bumperettes, spare tire, tube and cover, automatic windshield cleaner and rear view mirror.

The 1928 model is particularly smart in appearance and very powerful. It is claimed the Whippet on a speed trial at Rockingham speedway did 71 miles per hour.

Besides the car numerous other valuable prizes will be given away free to lucky visitors to the Motor Show.

All visitors to the Motor Show will be given registration cards which are numbered. These cards will be signed by the visitors and placed in sealed boxes. On Saturday, February 18, the lucky numbers will be drawn for by the Mayor of Peterboro.

Mr. Duffus fully anticipates 30,000 people will attend the Motor Show during the week of February 11th to 18th.

Preparations for this big show are now being rushed ahead at the showrooms. Cars are being brought especially for the show from Toronto, and all other arrangements are being pushed on with the utmost speed.

Earl Haig Finds Final Resting Place In the Lonely Ruins of Dryburgh Abbey

EDINBURGH, February 8 (Associated Press). — Earl Haig, warrior and patriot, after receiving the highest honors of a grateful nation, found a final resting-place yesterday in the lonely ruins of Dryburgh Abbey, Berwickshire, among his ancestors.

Thousands of men and women lined the roadside to view the last journey of the Field-Marshal as the coffin, draped with the Union Jack, moved from St. Boswell's the five miles to the Abbey.

A single farm horse drew the humble farm cart on which the body of Britain's war leader was borne.

The pall-bearers for this last service to their fallen chieftain, instead of the famous soldiers and admirals who had gathered around him at Westminster Abbey, were employees of the Haig estate at Bemersyde—the gamekeeper, the butler, gardeners, and groom.

The services at the graveside in the yard of the ancient, crumbling kirk were as unpretentious as the friends who paid the Earl last honors. The local choir sang "Onward, Christian Soldiers," the hymn of the church militant, and Earl Haig was placed in a fresh grave under the open sky, a few feet from the grave of Sir Walter Scott.

NO ELECTION FOR THIS YEAR

One of Announcements Made in Speech in British House.

FRANCHISE EXTENDED.

LONDON, Feb. 8. — Canadian Pess Cable. — That there will be no general election this year and that the bill extending the franchise to women 21 years of age and more, will be passed this year, were the two most important announcements made by ministers in both Houses of Parliament yesterday afternoon, following the state opening by King George. It was added that the bill would provide that the new class of women voters may vote at the next general election—which must be held before November, 1929. At present women are unable to cast their ballots until they reach the age of thirty.

Suffering from a cold Queen Mary did not participate in the colorful opening ceremony. Members of both houses were there and afterwards the Lords discussed and adopted the address in reply to the speech from the throne. The debate on the address in the House of Commons was adjourned until to-day.

It was also announced in both houses yesterday afternoon that Sir Austen Chamberlain foreign secretary, to-day will make a statement on Anglo-American arbitration negotiations; that the government was in favor of arbitration as far as it could possibly apply it to the many interests it had to safeguard; that in the matter of arbitration the government must carry with it the support of the dominions; that there would be no change whatever in the future British naval building program, which would go on as announced that one of the principal bills next session would deal comprehensively with factory conditions; that reform of the House of Lords would be further considered before the end of the present parliament; that to-morrow both Houses would make reference to the death of Earl Haig, and discuss the erection of a memorial.

FEDERALS WOUNDED IN REBEL ATTACK

Mexican soldiers Repulse Attack Made on Military Train Sunday.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 8.—(A.P.) — Delayed press despatches give meagre details of the wounding of five Federal soldiers of the military escort and the killing of fourteen rebels in an attack on a train between Guadalajara and Manzanille Sunday.

The train was dynamited and one car destroyed. The Federal guard fought against the rebels for more than an hour and then Federal airplanes appeared overhead, bombing the attackers, who dispersed and fled.

A despatch from Guadalajara says fourteen rebels were captured and executed and five Federal soldiers severely wounded.

With Secretary of War Amaro personally in the field directing Federal operations in the State of Jalisco, where the rebel movement seems to be strongest, arrests are continuing in Mexico City and other parts of the republic of persons suspected of plotting a Catholic revolution or violating the religious laws.

North and west of Mexico City, in the States of Queretare and Guanajuato, Federals are pursuing guerrila bands who attacked three towns, burned railroad bridges and tore up railway tracks Sunday. General Ascension Escalante, commanding a contingent of Federal forces, was slightly wounded in a battle with a guerilla band in the region of Pilhuamo, State of Jalisco.

BOARD OF EDUCATION

showing and approved of arrangements made by which James Abraham, attendance officer, will collect the money from the schools and take it to the bank.

No Corner-Stone Ceremony.

There will be no formal laying of the corner-stone of the Collegiate extension. There is a corner-stone on the present building and a stone will be placed in the extension bearing only the date. It was felt by the members that there is no room for a proper ceremony and that therefore the preparing of a stone with space for documents would be a waste of time and money.

The Board will increase its offer for the Grace Church property to $5,750, and place that amount in the estimates. The first offer was $5,000, while the trustees of George Street Church asked $6,500. Since then E. F. Reid, who has had charge of the negotiations, has made a tentative offer of $5,500. Last night a letter was read placing the Board's lowest price at $6,000, and stating that if it was not accepted within ten days the trustees would require fulfilment of an agreement made some years ago to erect a fence between the properties. This letter seemed like an ultimatum, but as Mr. Fowler pointed out that the Board has had the use of the grounds for years, it was decided, on motion by Mr. Strickland and Mr. Wilson, to make a final offer of $5,750.

Somewhat of an impasse ensued before this was settled. Dr. Yelland and E. F. Reid moved that the $6,000 offer be accepted. They were supported by Mrs. Morris, while Messrs. Strickland, Craig and Dawson voted against them. Messrs. Turner and Wilson refused to vote, and the chairman declared the motion lost.

J. A. McKone, representing the London Life Insurance Company, asked that the Board do nothing towards group insurance until his company had an opportunity to submit figures. Letters were read from the Confederation and Dominion Life Companies, asking for an opportunity to present figures on this matter.

The advisability of the Board going into the matter at all was questioned by J. F. Strickland. The teachers have a superannuation fund and their salaries are on a fair basis. He had gathered that they were not keen to go into the matter.

"How far are we going to benefit?" asked Dr. Craig.

Questions to be settled, said E. B. Fowler, are the economic value of the proposition. The Board should look into the matter of gratuities paid out in the case of deaths and consider whether the feeling between the Board and the staff would be improved. No action was taken in the matter.

JACK MINER

Naturalist, Author and Lecturer.

CANADIAN NATURALIST, AUTHOR AND LECTURER

Owner of the Jack Miner Bird Sactuary —Originator of the sanctuary idea of artificially feeding and protecting birds

By Levi Chauvin.

Much has been written about Jack Miner as a Naturalist and Conservationist, but the most remarkable and undisputed fact about Jack Miner's career as a bird lover and conservationist is that he is the man who originated the sanctuary idea for protecting, feeding and conserving the wild fowl of the continent. In these sanctuaries, artificial feeding is carried on and absolute safety is afforded the migratory waterfowl of the North American continent which winter in the southern part of the United States and spend the summer and breed in Canada.

Jack Miner's sanctuary dates back to 1904. Very few, if any, sanctuaries on the continent date back earlier than that and what has been accomplished is now known the world over, as a look over Jack Miner's mail will prove. In his mail, which comes in twice daily, you will find letters from Australia, New Zealand, Africa and many countries in Europe. The most recent is a letter from a count, formerly of Russia, now living in France, who, having read Jack Miner's book entitled "Jack Miner and the Birds," has started a sanctuary in Northern Russia based on the Jack Miner principles. Thus, as I stated above, Jack Miner's achievements are not only nationwide but world-wide.

Jack Miner is sixty-two years of age and, as he says in his book, was "born in the United States and made in Canada." His birthplace was at Dover Centre, Ohio, from which place he moved to Canada when but only thirteen years of age, with his parents. As the land in Essex County, Ontario, Canada, is very level, there was a huge market for drain tile and, his father being a drain tile manufacturer in the United States, Jack Miner followed that profession. When he grew to manhood, under financial difficulties he started, what he called, "a one-horse tile yard," which he and his sons still operate. As the clay is excavated, the cavity is made into artificial ponds for the ducks and geese to find as havens of rest.

Being a poor man financially, Jack Miner often makes the remark that too much credit is given him personally in regard to his success in placing before the world a sanctuary which is an example and demonstrates a decided way to protect birds from becoming extinct and yet increases the chance of the shooters of the community one mile away from the sanctuary. Jack Miner says, "The credit should be given to Jack Miner and his friends, the emphasis on friends." It costs him now annually between five and six thousand dollars to feed the birds which congregate on his sanctuary, which money is raised by a grant of five hundred dollars from the Dominion Government, a four hundred dollar grant from the Provincial Government and the balance—four or five thousand dollars—by his lecture fees, royalty from sale of his book and donations from his wealthy friends, bird societies and clubs who contribute towards the cost of the food for the birds. All contributions are given without Jack Miner making request for same as he says "he could steal easier than beg."

As a lecturer it is doubtful if any bird lover or conservationist has ever appeared before more people during the last fifteen or twenty years to deliver a lecture on birds than has this same Jack Miner. No doubt there are men who have appeared before as many clubs and societies but not the actual number of people attending. For instance, his lecture has filled the largest auditoriums in Canada, such as Massey Hall, Toronto, which has a seating capacity of over four thousand people. This he has filled on several occasions. To explain more fully, I reproduce a clipping from a Winnipeg paper after his appearance there. It is as follows —

> "Winnipeg had the good fortune to hear two famous men within one week. The great little Welshman, one of the world's greatest statesmen, David Lloyd George spoke to eight thousand people, while about thirteen thousand men and women and children heard Canada's greatest bird man, Jack Miner. There is at least one characteristic strongly pronounced in both of these men—their love for and their trust and faith in their Creator."

Jack Miner has crossed the continent five times in three years, going as far as Alaska on one occasion and lecturing in the various cities. This travelling has allowed him to study bird life in each part and territory of Canada and the northern half of the United States.

Last winter it is estimated that in six weeks he spoke to over two hundred thousand school children during mornings and afternoons, holding meetings in large auditoriums in the same cities each night for adults. He has appeared before such societies as the American Camp Fire Club of America; the American Game Protective Association; Chestnut Hill Garden Club; Audubon Societies; Izaak Walton Leagues and practically all the leading bird protective clubs in Canada and the Northern States. Last spring he appeared as a speaker at the banquet of the National Convention of Izaak Walton League on the same program with the Hon. Herbert Hoover, Secretary of the United States. Mr. John Burnham, President of the American Game Protective Association, calls him "the Billy Sunday for the bird family of North America."

As an author, he wrote the book entitled "Jack Miner and the Birds," published by Roilly-Lee Company of Chicago, which, during the last five years, has had a record sale in the book stores throughout the country, thus making it necessary for several editions to be printed by the publishers. The profits derived from the sale of the book go to Jack Miner's Bird Fund. Comments have flooded his mail box from all over the world. Dr. William T. Hornaday's comment on same is as follows —

> "Jack Miner and the Birds." This is its title and is a genuine one hundred per cent. contribution to the practical and helpful literature of birds. It is great. Buy it and read every word of it for its most helpful bird-lore, its bird propagation, its bed-rock common sense about pests, bird protection, bird banding, bird migration and all the rest of it. The chapter on Quail is alone worth the whole price of the book. I hope five hundred thousand will be bought and read.
> (Signed) W. T. Hornaday.

Jack Miner is the only man on earth to catch and tag wild Canada geese to study their route of migration. He has thus given to the world facts as to the exact location where the Canada geese, which migrate through his territory, nest and winter, and where they are each season of the year. To do this he had to invent a unique trap which has proved a success to the extent that he has caught as many as three hundred geese at once which were kept only long enough in captivity for him to place an aluminum tag on their legs and liberate them.

Jack Miner also invented the now famous Jack Miner crow trap. Crows have increased in Canada by the countless thousands and are the cause of the song, insectiverous and other more valuable birds decreasing to an alarming extent, to say nothing about the duck and game bird eggs the crow destroys. Jack Miner worked up a plan to reduce the crows, built and put into operation a crow trap which, if put into practice, will reduce the crows in any locality by the thousands. He has caught as many as five hundred and ten of these "nest robbers," as he calls them, at one catch. He says, "I would not want to see crows or any other bird become extinct, yet I would like to see their numbers reduced to the same extent that they have reduced our more valuable birds."

One thing which should make the people of the continent happy is the fact that Canada appreciates Jack Miner and his activities in that country. Recently McLean's Magazine, the largest magazine in Canada, arranged a vote among its subscribers as to who was the greatest living Canadian. Jack Miner's name ranked fifth, the other names ranking higher in the vote being those of men in the political world. The conservationists of Canada have paid a fitting tribute to Jack Miner while he is still in the land of the living in having started the Jack Miner League of Canada, which is but two years of age, is now going strong and doing the same work in Canada as that being done by the Izaak Walton League in the United States.

Not only does Canada appreciate Jack Miner, but also his little home town of Kingsville, Ontario. With only a population of two thousand inhabitants, it boasts that, when the geese are on the sanctuary and swans along its lake shore, the population of the little town on several days has swelled to fifteen thousand by people who have come to see the unique sight of North America.

On interviewing one of the citizens of the little town, I was informed that, when Jack Miner started his sanctuary and no shooting was allowed within one mile of its borders, all his friends who were shooters at once became his enemies. But when years rolled by and they have seen that Jack Miner's idea of a sanctuary increased their chances, now they have turned right about face and are back of him one hundred per cent. because a Jack Miner sanctuary with no shooting within one mile of its borders brings the ducks and geese to that locality. Many a goose has been killed outside the safety zone of the sanctuary which never would have been seen were it not for the Jack Miner sanctuary in the vicinity.

A whole book containing Jack Miner's biography could be written, but one of the biggest things about Jack Miner is that he, now in his sixties, is, as he says, "cheerfully devoting the balance of his life in the interest of conservation, to benefit not only us but the rising and unborn generations." He also says, "I have nothing on the sanctuary to commercialize in any way, manner, shape or form and what money is donated to me by friends is used for buying food and maintaining my sanctuary."

Jack Miner has given the plans of his crow trap to the United States Government which, in turn, made blue prints and distributed same, free of charge, to all parties interested to the extent to build one. All the letters he receives reporting ducks and geese being killed are handed over to the Dominion Government which cares for and is keeping all reports on file at the Parliament Buildings. There is, therefore, as stated above, nothing he wants to commercialize.

Jack Miner at the present time is busy writing a book on his religion. When I asked him the greatest need in the world, his reply was: "More love and education and less bayonet-point compulsion."

horn, and other lakes.

Mr. Wetton thought that it would be a good idea to issue a pamphlet explaining the aims and objects of the association and accordingly, Dr. Deyell, Mr. Wetton, the President, and secretary were appointed a committee to draft the pamphlet.

Ice Fishing Discussed

Several members of the association were not hesitant in voicing their opinions of fishing through the ice. They claimed that it had disastrous results in diminishing the supply of maskinonge and pickerel in the Kawartha lakes. The feeling of the meeting was expressed in the following resolution, which was adopted:

"Moved by Reeve Rye and seconded by Dr. Deyell, that whereas the Federal and Provincial Governments are spending considerable money in promoting the tourist traffic in Canada, and that one of the outstanding assets for tourist traffice in the Counties of Peterborough, Victoria, Durham, and the inland waters of Northumberland, is the fishing, and although pickerel are not considered game fish, yet, they, to a large extent, satisfy the tourist fisherman, we believe that in the best interests of this traffic, the words, 'and fishing through the ice' be added to subsection 5 of section 13 of the special fishing regulations of the Province of Ontario."

A resolution was adopted to be sent to the City Council, asking that body to take up with the counties, the matter of fish and game protection and if necessary, to call a public meeting, whereby the entire matter of preserving fish and game, would be discussed.

The secretary was instructed to write to the Premier of Ontario, suggesting the appointment of the local member, W. H. Bradburn, as a member of the Fish and Game Committee of the Provincial Legislature.

Further discussion of poaching that goes on each spring and of methods of prevention followed, after which the meeting closed.

ARTICLE No. 16

A correspondent has just submitted a most interesting hand for analysis, and the principles involved are so instructive that they are worthy of close study.

Example Hand

Y
A B
Z

Hearts — K, J, 8, 6
Clubs — 6, 5
Diamonds — A, K, J, 5
Spades — K, J, 4

No score, first game. What should Z as dealer bid with the foregoing hand? Should he bid one no-trump or one diamond? This hand is a very close one but, in the opinion of the writer, the one diamond bid is much sounder than one no-trump. The reasons for this should be obvious. If A has a big club suit and Z bids one no-trump, A will pass and open clubs. On the other hand, if Z bids one diamond, A, with a big club suit, will bid two clubs and thus show the danger to the no-trump. If A should pass one diamond, it is up to Y to better the one diamond bid if his hand justifies it. For example, if Z bids one diamond, A passes and Y has the following hand:

Hearts — 9, 4, 2
Clubs — A, Q, 10, 9
Diamonds — 9, 6, 4
Spades — Q, 10, 9

he should bid one no-trump. Z's bid of one diamond should indicate that he has a good diamond suit and that Y-Z, as a partnership, hold stoppers in three suits. For that reason a bid of one no-trump by Y with the foregoing hand is a sound bid.

The bid of one club or one diamond by dealer doesn't invite a take-out by partner unless his hand justifies it. Such a bid by dealer is informatory only, and his partner must use his judgment as to the take-out. Such a take-out always is optional and never obligatory; otherwise a bid under such conditions never could give correct information to partner; and information is the goal of all sound bidding. It is only when partners are getting the best bid of twenty-six cards, rather than of thirteen, that they are obtaining the best results.

Here is another type of hand that illustrates the value of bidding one diamond with Z's hand rather than one no-trump. Suppose Z bids one diamond, A bids two clubs and Y holds the following hand:

Hearts — Q, 10, 9, 4
Clubs — 9, 4, 3, 2
Diamonds — 9, 6
Spades — A, Q, 10

Some players might bid two diamonds with this hand but it would be a very bad bid. Y has no justifiable bid of his own and no stopper in clubs, so must pass the two club bid.

If B passes, Z with the holding indicated in the example hand should double two clubs. Such a double is informatory and tells his partner that he has a much stronger hand than indicated by his original diamond bid, and that he is prepared for a bid of two hearts or two spades by his partner, provided the latter has a four or more card holding in either suit. Y's bid with the foregoing hand in answer to Z's informatory double of two clubs is two hearts. At this bid, Y-Z can just go game, losing only one heart and two club tricks. On the other hand if Z had bid one no-trump in the example hand, A would not have bid his club suit. Having the opening against the no-trump there was no necessity for the bid and Y-Z thus would have had no chance to play the hand at hearts.

This preference for the four-card suit to the no-trump bid is being followed generally by the best players, so the foregoing analysis should be carefully noted. Such bids have been variously termed "Approaching Bids" or "Introductory Bids." Either term is descriptive and indicates the purpose of the bid; that is, to approach or arrive at the best bid of twenty-six cards, rather than of thirteen.

As a test of some of the principles just discussed, think over what you would do in the following hands, an analysis of which will be given in the next article:

Problem No. 17

Hearts — 10, 8, 6, 2
Clubs — Q, 10, 9, 4
Diamonds — 8, 7, 2
Spades — J, 8

A B
Z

Problem No. 18

Hearts — 10
Clubs — J, 10, 2
Diamonds — K, Q, 4, 3
Spades — Q, 10, 9, 6, 4

A B
Z

No score, rubber game. If Z dealt, bid one club and A passed, what should Y do with the foregoing hand?

Answer to Problem No. 16

Hearts — J, 6, 5
Clubs — K, 8, 5, 2
Diamonds — A, 7, 3
Spades — Q, 10, 6

Hearts — K, 8, 7, 3, 2
Clubs — Q, J, 10, 9
Diamonds — J, 4
Spades — 9, 8

A B
Z

Hearts — [illegible], 9
Clubs — 7, 4
Diamonds — K, Q, 10, 6
Spades — J, 5, 4, 3, 2

Hearts — A, Q, 4
Clubs — A, 6, 3
Diamonds — 9, 8, 5, 2
Spades — A, K, 7

No score, rubber game. Z dealt, bid one no-trump and all passed. A opened the trey of hearts, Y played the five, B the nine and Z won the trick with the queen. Z now led the trey of clubs, A played the nine, Y the deuce and B the four. A now led the queen of clubs which Z won with the ace in his own hand. How should he play the hand to go game against any defense?

Z's plan of play in his hand is to force A to discard and this result can be accomplished only by leading diamonds. At trick four, therefore, Z should lead the deuce of diamonds and cover whatever diamond A plays. A's best play is the four of diamonds. Y plays the seven and allows B to win the trick with the ten. B's best play is the ten of hearts which Z must win with the ace. Z should now lead the five of diamonds and play the ace in Y's hand. Y should now lead the trey of diamonds, forcing B to win with the queen. A's best discard is the low heart. B's best play now is a spade, which Z should win with the king in his own hand. Next, Z should lead the nine of diamonds. A can discard the nine of spades and Y the jack of hearts. B must win the trick with the king of diamonds and must lead back a spade, which Y should win with the queen. A should discard the eight of hearts.

Y should now lead his last spade, Z winning the trick in his own hand with the ace. A is now forced to discard either a club or the king of hearts. If the former, Y's clubs are good; if the latter, Z's four of hearts and Y's king of clubs are good. In either case, therefore, Y-Z win all the tricks. It is a pretty little problem in forcing discards, so should be carefully noted.

SOLVE THIS PROBLEM.

Simply add together all of the numbers shown below, just as if each figure stood one above the other in a single column. There are no combinations. All are single figures running from two to nine, and each figure is clearly indicated, the sixes having a curved stem and the nines a straight stem. Do not count the two L's in "Dolly" as two 7's.

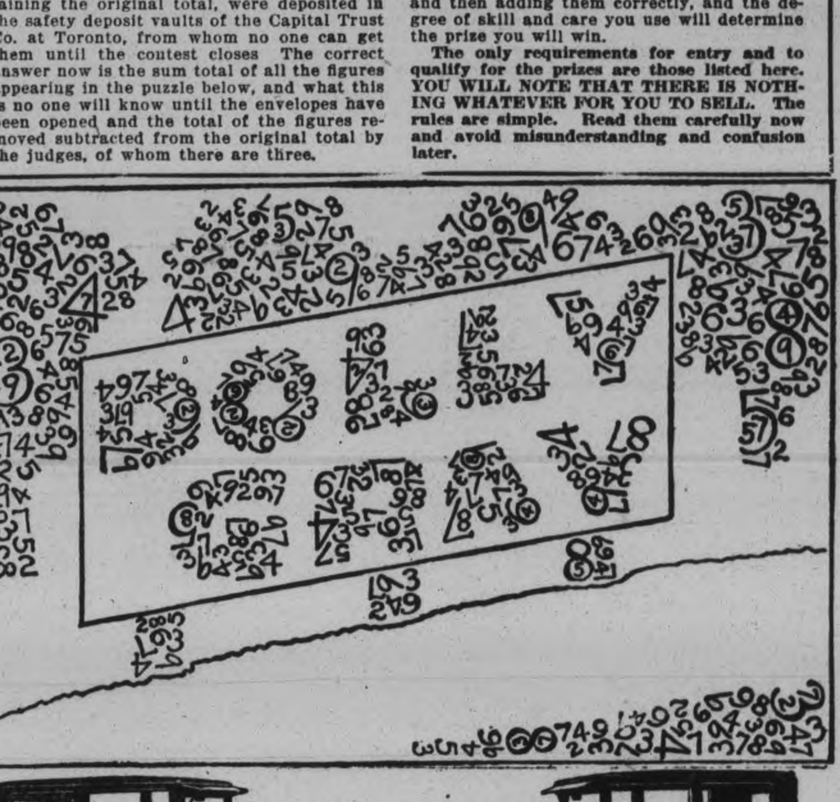
NO ONE KNOWS THE CORRECT ANSWER.

To make certain that no one knows the correct answer and to guarantee every contestant an equal chance to win, several figures were removed, by different persons at different times, from the original drawing before it was printed. Each person noted on a slip of paper the total of the numbers he erased, enclosed it in an envelope and sealed it, and these envelopes, along with an envelope containing the original total, were deposited in the safety deposit vaults of the Capital Trust Co. at Toronto, from whom no one can get them until the contest closes. The correct answer now is the sum total of all the figures appearing in the puzzle below, and what this is no one will know until the envelopes have been opened and the total of the figures removed subtracted from the original total by the judges, of whom there are three.

(1) A well-known Church of England clergyman.
(2) A Toronto High School teacher.
(3) A Chartered Accountant, formerly with two of the largest departmental stores and mail order firms in Canada.

There are no tricks to or hidden figures in this contest. It is purely and simply a matter of skill in finding all the numbers shown and then adding them correctly, and the degree of skill and care you use will determine the prize you will win.

The only requirements for entry and to qualify for the prizes are those listed here. YOU WILL NOTE THAT THERE IS NOTHING WHATEVER FOR YOU TO SELL. The rules are simple. Read them carefully now and avoid misunderstanding and confusion later.



FIRST PRIZE—Chrysler Four coach sedan. Without a doubt the finest powered and most beautiful-looking car in its class. Has a pick-up of from 5 to 25 miles per hour in eight seconds, and a speed of 50 miles per hour. Exquisitely upholstered, distinctively smart, wonderfully smooth riding, and built to ride the roughest roads. Value, $1,065.00, plus bonuses noted in prize list.

FIRST PRIZE—Chevrolet Coach Sedan—a car that anyone would be proud to drive. Body by Fisher in the latest and most pleasing color combinations, beautifully upholstered, roomy, smooth riding and easy to drive on any road. Value $850.00, plus cash bonuses noted in prize list.

THE PURPOSE OF THIS CONTEST

The main purpose of this Contest is to advertise and introduce into every home in the Province the only thing we sell—DOLLY GRAY Silk Stockings—and to accomplish our purpose we have adopted what we think is the most amazing advertising idea that has ever been used in connection with Women's Silk Hosiery.

There are no tricks to this Contest. No conditions for you to meet except those shown in this folder. No selling. No trick figures. Nothing except that you are required to answer the puzzle, and, with your answer, send in an order for our Silk Stockings.

The prizes, or their equivalent in cash, as described elsewhere on this page, will positively be given away without strings of any kind attached whatever. Contestants will not be required to buy or sell anything further in order to secure the prize they win.

If any of the figures in the puzzle are not perfectly clear to you, write to our Contest Department about them before sending in your answer. No answers may be changed after we receive them. New answers must be accompanied by a new order for stockings in accordance with the rules.

We guarantee every pair we sell.

A WORD ABOUT DOLLY GRAY SILK STOCKINGS

Throughout country—from Nova Scotia to British Columbia, from the border to the Yukon—thousands and thousands of women in all walks of life are enjoying the luxury of Carefree silk stockings—stockings that don't easily rip or run from the hem; that don't easily get "holey" at the heels and toes; that don't rip or run when they are slipped off or on; that look smart always; that embarrass—never.

Such are DOLLY GRAY, one of the best known and most widely worn good silk stockings made in Canada.

Made of soft, lustrous, service-weight silk, in the newest and most exquisite colors by the largest mills in Canada; with a double ladder or run-stop on a four-inch elastic hem; reinforced soles and heels; shaped ankles; seamed at back and form-fashioned to fit well and wear well. DOLLY GRAY Silk Stockings are in a class by themselves.

We are the largest mail order house in Canada Selling Women's Silk Stockings only. We sell as many pairs in one day as most retail merchants sell in one month.

THE DOLLY GRAY KNIT GOODS CO.

is owned and controlled entirely by born-in-Canada Canadians, and we have satisfied authorities who have enquired that our resources are ample to carry out this contest successfully.

READ THESE SIMPLE RULES CAREFULLY

1. Anyone except (a) employes of The Dolly Gray Knit Goods Co. and their immediate families, (b) the judges and their immediate families, may enter this contest and compete for the prizes.

2. Entries must be accompanied by at least $3.00 for two pairs of Dolly Gray silk stockings, $4.00 for three pairs or $5.00 for four pairs. By looking at the list of prizes now you will notice how the value of your prize is increased and the cost of your silk stockings decreased when you order more than two pairs.

3. A contestant may solicit orders from friends if he or she wishes, and for such orders will be entitled to submit solutions of the puzzle. Friends who order through a contestant may also submit solutions of the puzzle.

4. No solutions will be accepted unless accompanied by a cash order. All solutions are recorded and none can be altered once they are received.

5. Contestants need not send in the full amount of money required at any one time. For instance, a contestant intending to win the Packard Car and the bonus, may send in a $3.00 order with his or her solution and later on an order for the balance necessary to qualify for the Packard. Accurate records are kept and every time a contestant sends in a remittance, the amount of it will be added to what the contestant already has to his or her credit.

6. Contestants may send in a different solution of the puzzle each time they make a remittance, but only one correct answer will be awarded a prize.

7. All money orders and cheques must be made payable to The Dolly Gray Knit Goods Company. Cheques must be marked and include exchange. Acknowledgments will be made at once and stockings forwarded as soon as they reach us from the mills.

8. Every effort has been made to show each figure clearly. If in doubt about any figures do not attempt to send in a solution, but send in the puzzle with a ring around the figure that is giving you trouble and our Contest Department will be glad to tell you by return mail what it is.

9. Contestants may have as many puzzle forms as they wish free, by writing to our Contest Department, care of P.O. Box 392, Toronto.

10. If no contestant sends in the correct answer, prizes will be awarded for the nearest correct solutions.

11. Should more than one contestant send in the correct answer, a simple tie-breaker requiring skill only for its solution will be sent to each contestant concerned. Only those tieing will receive this second problem, and NO MONEY WILL BE REQUIRED OR ACCEPTED FROM THOSE REQUIRED TO SOLVE IT. NOR WILL YOU BE ASKED TO SELL OR BUY ANYTHING.

12. The closing date of the contest is February 20, 1928. Solutions postmarked as having been mailed after that date will be returned unaccepted. Contestants are advised, however, to send in their solutions as early as possible and win the special prizes offered for early solutions.

13. The Dolly Gray Knit Goods Company reserves the right to reject any entry they deem undesirable to accept, and to return all money received with such entries.

14. Contestants in entering this contest agree to abide by the rules and regulations herein set forth and to accept the decision of the judges as being final.

PUTTING ON THE PRESSURE.

The Canadian Labor party has taken up the cudgels in support of the old age pension system, and an aggressive campaign to bring pressure to bear upon the Ontario Government has been announced, the first step to be the holding of a mass meeting in Toronto next week.

It is proposed to form a Provincial association to "advocate the measure and make an issue of it."

The campaign is probably too late to have any effect so far as the session opening tomorrow is concerned.

The Government is apparently firm in its decision not to assume the large outlay necessary to finance the scheme, realizing that it would be impossible in that event to show a balanced budget next year.

Nor will it assume the responsibility at all until it is made apparent to everybody that the people of Ontario would prefer to have the needy aged taken care of and face a deficit rather than enjoy a surplus and feel that there are many old people who are in need of relief.

The Labor party's campaign will at least furnish a rallying point for those who believe that Ontario should follow the example of British Columbia and Manitoba and embrace the old age pension system.

COMMANDANT HAM'S PROMOTION.

Although there will be hearty congratulations upon his promotion to the staff of the Salvation Army Training Garrison in Toronto, a position he is qualified to usefully fill, many friends of Commandant Frank Ham, who for some time has been in charge of the Army's activities here, will feel sorry that his new post requires his leaving Peterborough.

This city has been fortunate in the calibre of the officers who have been sent here from time to time to lead the local corps.

Almost invariably they have been men who were not only keenly interested in their own duties, but showed a real spirit of citizenship and a desire to further community movements.

None of these leaders, however, demonstrated these qualities more consistently than has Commandant Ham, who as a member of the Peterborough Rotary Club and in many other points of contact with social service work, has been a most useful citizen whose place will be difficult to fill.

Mrs. Ham, too, in her social welfare activities, has earned general thanks.

Many citizens of Peterborough will wish these two faithful workers every success in their new posts.

BANNING "JAZZ."

Senator Smith, of South Carolina, has declared that he is tempted to bring forward a bill in the United States Congress to "ban jazz music from the air."

Such a measure, while not a bit more nonsensical than other legislation that has been passed from time to time, should be laughed out of court if it is actually proposed.

The radio is getting along quite nicely without censorship, and while there are always those who, seeing their neighbors get some enjoyment out of something they themselves do not like would welcome a prohibitory law covering this particular subject, there is no demand from the vast army of listeners-in for the elimination of "jazz," or any other feature for that matter.

The truth is, that the broadcasting stations have used good judgment in discarding objectionable features, and that each night there is offered a variety of entertainment, out of which there must be something to suit every taste.

So long as the listener-in can turn his dial at will and tune out what he doesn't like and in the entertainment he prefers there is no particular need of censorship.

To attempt to ban "jazz" would be about as successful as attempts across the line have proven in banning other things which some people have decided are not good for their neighbors.

IT'S TEAMWORK THAT COUNTS.

When a football team finds itself backed up on its five-yard line and the opportunity all set to put the ball over for a touchdown, they gird themselves to hold that line. No matter what the condition of the individual players, they call on every ounce of energy to hold as a team. That is precisely the situation of Peterborough just now. The line must be held. There have been some casualties in the team called Peterborough. Some of the star players may have been knocked out of the game. Old man Pessimist playing centre for the opposition, aided by an Anvil Chorus, has bucked the economic line hard, and because of his size has made serious advances toward defeat, and also prevented making some field goals. Failure of the team to think as a team may have prevented some splendid plays for advancement toward the goal. Some star players on the team have been pouting maybe because they didn't like some other player, and the breaks have been against the team.

But the game isn't lost—provided we play as a team. 'Tis true we have been concerned about our own affairs, and naturally so. Petty differences may have caused some of the captains to retire from the game to allow the team to unite for final push toward success. The game isn't half over. But it is time to pull ourselves together and pull as a team to save the day.

There is too much at stake to fail. There is but one way, concentration of organization through the Chamber of Commerce. Everlasting teamwork will win. The score may appear to be against us, but it need not remain that way, but to win every man and woman must play the game with every ounce of energy and bring up the reserves of our entire resources. The few star players cannot hold the line of community advance, if the balance of the team fails to get energetically into the game of community building.

Grover Cleveland Alexander, great baseball pitcher though he is, could not have won the World's Series if he had not had the united support of the Cardinals behind him. Nor can Peterborough continue to win unless everybody pulls in the team. The opposition has the ball on the five-yard line. It must be gotten out by teamwork through the Chamber of Commerce.

"WHAT PRICE, TOLERANCE?"

Those who heard Dr. Leo M. Franklin, of Temple Beth-El, Detroit, in his plea for tolerance yesterday morning, could not help but be impressed, with the breadth of vision and depth of thought of the Jewish Rabbi. In urging everyone to forget bigotry and bitterness, Dr. Franklin painted a word picture of the happiness of this world that would come from the followers of all faiths forgetting their prejudices against one another and agreeing to work together in harmony.

"Let Christians live Christ-like lives; let Jews live according to the highest teaching of Judaism; let Mohammedans live as they have been instructed by their Koran; let Buddhists live so that they will attain the highest ideals of the Buddha; let the followers of all other faiths live in such a manner that they will achieve the finest things for their religions!" And if all do that, Dr. Franklin said, then all will agree to see in the others the very finest of their faiths and old enmities may be forgotten in the agreement to be tolerant one to another and to work together for the benefit of mankind.

Intolerance in religious life is the enemy of happiness. There is nothing so bitter as a controversy over matters of religion. When members of differing faiths make up their minds to quarrel with one another there is no thought of quarter. Things are said and done which require long years to heal, if they ever can be healed. Sores are opened that run through the ages. History is replete with wars, the origin of which may be traced to religious strife.

It is useless for one faith to try to bring up all that may not be perfect in the teachings of another. Both sides can do that and revel in the thrusts that are made and the wounds that have been inflicted. It is so easy to destroy. It is not so easy to build. Bitterness once engendered soon ferments and open battle results.

The narrow view is too often taken. In discussing the faiths of a different teaching, it is too frequently the case that the flaws rather than the good points are sought. The fine tenets of a creed will be overlooked in the anxiety to discover something about which may be said: "God, I thank thee, that I am not as other men are."

There is much that is good in every faith. The Christian has the teachings of Christ to follow. If he lives up to the example set by his Lord, he will have no time to be picking faults in the faiths of his fellowmen. The Jew who comes anywhere near achieving the heights of Judaism, will be able to see only the best in other religions. So, too, with the Mohammedan, the Buddhist, the Hindu and others.

And in the several branches of Christianity, there is need for tolerance. Christians are prone to fight among themselves about the differences that exist in their various interpretations of the teachings of Jesus, the Christ. If each professing Christian would spend his earnest endeavors living up to the best teachings of his chosen interpretation, he will have learned to be tolerant of the others. He will not have recourse to strife.

In our present-day religion there is too much of doctrinal declarations and too little of the practice of beliefs. If more time was spent in trying to live according to the best promptings of our thoughts, and less time were devoted to trying to make others change their beliefs and swallow ours, this world would be happier for all. Christian faiths must hang their heads in shame as they think of the bickerings that have been allowed to sully the pages of history.

It would be impossible to bring about a uniformity of thought in matters of religion. It is doubtful if such an event would be desirable. Each man and each woman has his or her own ideas as to the interpretation of religious texts. And it is well that each is able to accept that which is believed the best.

Having accepted a faith, one should try to live up to its highest teachings. If that is done, it will not be necessary to remind ourselves that there is much good in the chosen faiths of others. With that realization impressed upon our minds, it should then be a simple matter to be tolerant of the different beliefs. It should not be a difficult thing to agree to work in harmony one with the other. It is always well to remember that no individual person, nor no individual faith, has a monopoly on perfection.—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Jack Miner's visit is intended to interest Peterborough in the preservation of fish and game, along which line there is undoubtedly need for a general awakening.

Ontario's aged poor are to receive no help from the Ontario Government this year. Surely the most prosperous Province in the Dominion is not going to be satisfied to bring up the rear of the procession.

It having been agreed that a full-time health officer is needed in Peterborough, it should be comparatively easy now to complete the job by installing such a department.

Mr. Hanna is reputed to be indignant over criticism of the reputed quarts sold in his Government chain stores.

There are so many varied views about the immigration problem that 40 minutes proved too short a period for Mr. Forke to discuss the whole question. That is one of the disadvantages of the new rule.

Ontario's Legislature gets under way tomorrow. Let us hope that the session will be reasonably brief and businesslike.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, February 8 (Canadian Press). — The trade in cash grain in the domestic market yesterday was quieter. The tone of the market was steady and prices were unchanged.

The feature of the flour trade was the weaker feeling that developed in the market for spring wheat grades, and millers generally reduced their prices 10c per barrel, which is the first change of the year, and now prices are 30c per barrel below this date last year. The drop was attributed to the continued limited demand from all sources. First patents are now selling at $7.80, second patents at $7.20, and strong bakers at $7.00 per barrel in jute bags, ex-track, less 10c per barrel for spot cash.

There was no change in prices announced for winter wheat flour, but the undertone to the market was easy, with a very small trade. The demand for white corn flour was also limited and prices were unchanged.

The strength that has prevailed in the market for millfeed for some time past resulted in prices being advanced $1.00 per ton on Monday. The market closed strong with sales of Manitoba bran at $35.25, shorts at $37.25, and middlings at $45.25 per ton, including bags, ex-track, less 25c per ton for spot cash.

The trade in standard grades of rolled oats was moderate at $3.75 per bag of 90 pounds, delivered to the trade.

Spot Hay Quiet.

The trade on spot hay was quiet, the demand being only for odd cars to meet immediate wants, and sales of No. 2 Timothy hay were made at $13.00 to $13.50 per ton. No. 2 Timothy and clover mixed hay at $12.00 to $12.50 per ton, f.o.b. cars here.

A feature of the local egg trade was the weaker feeling that developed in the market for storage eggs and prices scored a decline of 1c to 2c per dozen, which was attributed to the larger supplies available than at this period last year, and the falling off in the demand on account of the liberal receipts of fresh eggs and sales of storage extras were made at 40c, firsts at 35c, and seconds at 27c per dozen. On the other hand the tone of the market for fresh eggs was under an increased demand and a more active business was done in fresh extras at 50c, firsts at 45c.

The feature of the local sugar trade yesterday was the weaker feeling that developed, and prices were generally reduced on all grades 10c per 100 pounds. Prices were: Extra granulated, $6.25; No. 1 yellow, $5.85; extra ground, $6.65; and pairs cut loaf, $7.25 all per hundred pounds.

Dressed Poultry.

There was no change in prices for dressed poultry announced, but the demand showed improvement for supplies, and a more active trade was done in some lines.

Owing to the small supply of potatoes coming forward, an improved demand, a stronger feeling developed in the market yesterday, and prices scored an advance of 10c to 15c per bag. Prices were: New Brunswick Green Mountains $1.25, New Brunswick Whites $120, Quebec varieties at $1.10.

A firm feeling prevailed in the imported bean market, with the inquiry being fairly good.

There were no new developments in the local butter situation yesterday, prices being about steady with business being of relatively small volume.

MILLBROOK UNITED CHURCH HOLDS ITS ANNUAL MEETING

Reports Show Congregation and Societies Had Good Year.

LARGE SUM RAISED.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 8.—The annual meeting of the United Church was held was held in the Sunday School auditorium on Wednesday evening, Rev. Joseph Wilks presiding in the absence of the pastor, Rev. F. H. Howard, who was out of town on business.

The attendance was larger than is usual at this gathering, and the reports presented were most encouraging, showing faithful service on the part of officials in the various organizations, as well as the members, and indicating interest and progress.

Community singing of hymns thrown on the screen formed a fitting opening for the proceedings, an anthem by the choir, "Saviour, Thy Dying Love," with solo by Mrs. G. W. Sayles, being the next number, following prayer by the chairman.

Miss Dorothy Crossley gave a reading, "Give Them the Flowers Now," and the selection by the male quartette, "Beautiful River of Life," delighted the listeners. A vote of thanks to the members of the quartette, Messrs. H. W. Johnston, W. H. Coombe, M. McDowell, and V. C. Lambert, for their faithful services throughout the year, was moved by Mrs. (Rev.) F. H. Howard, who included also the choir in her motion, and voiced the sentiments of all present when she expressed the pleasure and inspiration received from the music furnished at the worship services, and on special occasions, week by week, and year by year. Mrs. A. J. Brown seconded the motion which was carried by a standing vote, and by a hearty clap of the hands.

A reading, "I Changed My Glasses Yesterday," by Miss Jean L. Burnham, and a solo, "One Fleeting Hour," by Mrs. Sayles, preceded the hearing of the reports. W. Fred Fallis, superintendent of the Sunday School, presented the report for that organization, showing 230 on the roll, 95 of these being in the two senior Bible classes; the average attendance during 1927 was 136, average offering $5.44, and number of verses memorized per Sunday, 126; 12 scholars had not missed a Sunday, and 10 had received awards for learning verses, one of these, Gordon Might, a little boy in the primary class, who has not yet learned to read, reciting 168 verses during the year.

Missionary and temperance instruction is given once a quarter, and supplies to the amount of $238.00 have been ordered for the current year.

Miss Estelle Hetherington reported for the Teacher Training class, one member, Miss Margaret Luxon, receiving honors after writing on the examination at Christmas. Ten members of the class are preparing for the examinations in the present class which is taking up "Teaching Values of the New Testament," and the average attendance last quarter was 17. Prayer, Praise and Bible study fill up the hour each week, the class meeting on Tuesday evenings at 7 45 o'clock.

Societies Report.

The Woman's Missionary Society could report a very good year in the nine months from April to December, the average attendance at the meetings being 40, and the program each month being both interesting and profitable. Mrs. Howard, the president, suggested a joint meeting of men and women in the near future to study the matter of Christian Stewardship, and then put the knowledge into actual practice.

The Golden Links Mission Circle, and the Sunshine Mission Band were reported by their respective secretaries, Misses Dorothy Crossley, and Dorothy McDowell; each organization had overtopped its allocation, had followed a prescribed course of study, increased in membership and in average attendance, and done some practical missionary work, given public entertainments, and enjoyed pleasant social gatherings.

The primary department has 42 on the roll, 40 babies on the cradle roll, an attendance of 30 or over each Sunday in recent months, and contributes to the missionary funds of the school through its mite-box, and birthday-box.

Mrs. Fred Smith, secretary, presented an outline of the Ladies' Aid activities, this society having 71 on the roll, and seven new members during the year. The amount raised in the nine months was $535.00, and improvements to the church kitchen will probably be the next undertaking of the Aid.

Session Reports.

Dr. A. Jemison read the report of the Session, stating that there are at present 195 families, aggregating about 625 persons, in connection with the church. Seven new members were received in the nine months, and five lost through death, or removal. The report covered in detail the regular and special services held from April to December, and appreciation of the work being done by the various departments, with special mention of the spirit of harmony and good-will which has constantly prevailed, was warmly expressed.

The church treasurer, George E. Burnham, gave the financial report in detail, the total amount raised being $3,095.34; from the weekly envelopes the amount received was $1,637.82; thankoffering about $600.00; over $800 was remitted for the Maintenance and Extension fund. The duplex envelopes have been adopted this year, and this means that a monthly remittance for the M. and E. fund will have to be made.

Messrs. W. Fred Fallis and A. J. Brown were re-elected as elders, to serve for a term of five years; the practice is that two retire each year, and these can be re-elected if the people wish, or two new ones be chosen to make up the full quota of ten who compose the session.

Stewards were elected by ballot as follows Messrs. J. H. Might, H. R. Argue, J. H. George, H. A. Fallis, W. G. Hetherington, M. McDowell, and J. McKnight.

Refreshments were served by the Ladies' Aid, and a very pleasant social time enjoyed, the gathering being dismissed by the benediction pronounced by Rev. Mr. Wilks, after all had joined in singing the hymn, "God Give Us Men."

A vote of thanks to the pastor and his wife for their hospitality in entertaining all the visiting ministers, and the laymen, who have taken charge of the special services throughout the year, was moved by Miss Hetherington and seconded by Mrs. J. McKnight, the meeting heartily endorsing the motion. Mrs. Howard replied, on behalf of her husband and herself, expressing their personal pleasure in rendering this service. This feature took place after the social hour, when the gathering was being called to order for the formal closing.

A Thought

A WISE DEDUCTION.

"Anticipation and realization permit me a double enjoyment of all my pleasures", said a clever little woman of my acquaintance recently. What a wise deduction!

The hopeful contemplation of an expected pleasure, the eager preparation for it, may strike some highly sophisticated people as childish; but we can get a genuine and substantial thrill out of such anticipation.

In imagination we may enjoy a perfect rhapsody of delightful romancing; inventive fancy can conceive a sangune assurance of the pleasure to be enjoyed.

Then, if realization lacks the breathless thrill of dreams come true, we may be consoled by remembrance of the happiness enjoyed in expectation.

"If gratitude is due from children to their earthly parents, how much more is gratitude of the great family of man due to our Father in heaven!"

—Hosea Ballou.

TROUBLED WITH LAME BACK DAY AND NIGHT

Dodd's Kidney Pills Relieved Him.

Saskatchewan Man Has Not Been Troubled Since

MUENSTER, Sask., Feb. 7.—(Special).—"I was troubled very badly with lame back day and night," writes Mr. John Steil, a well-known and highly respected resident of this place. "I also had urinary trouble which caused me to get up many times during the night. Two years ago I took five boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills which relieved me from this trouble till a year ago when I got a touch of it again. Two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills completely relieved me again and I have not been troubled since."

If you have any symptoms of Backache you may be sure your kidneys need attention. Neglected kidneys are the cause of more than half the ills to which mankind is heir.

Dodd's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys, making them strong and healthy. Sound kidneys mean pure blood. Pure blood means good health.

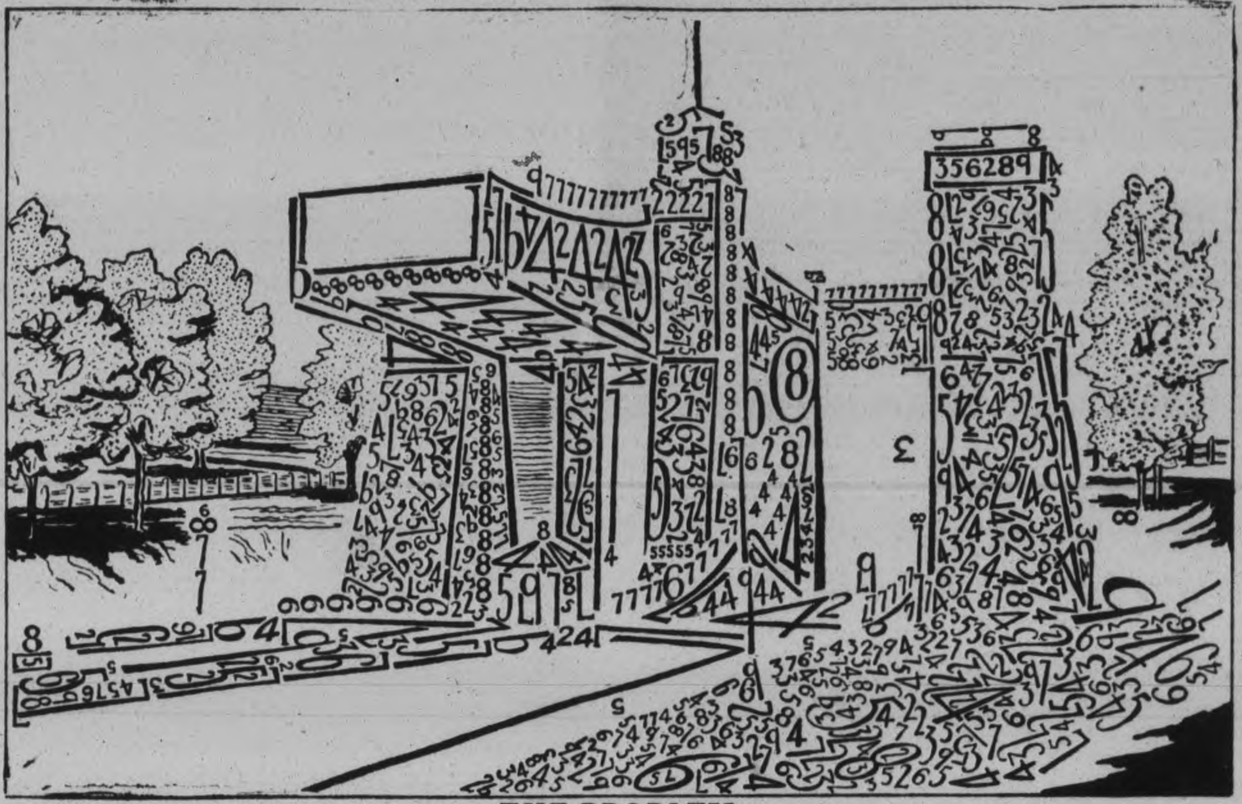
Peterboro's Famous Lift Lock

HOW MANY TONS DOES THE LIFT LOCK WEIGH?



THE PROBLEM

The problem is to add together all the figures shown above, which, when added together, represent the total number of tons that the Lift Lock weighs.

The puzzle is entirely free from tricks or illusions, every figure is complete and stands alone. The figures range from two to nine. There are no ones (1) or ciphers (0) in the puzzle. The sixes are curved, while the stem of the nines are straight.

We wish it clearly understood that every figure can be plainly seen. There is nothing hidden in the trees or shadows, but the problem of adding these is a real test of accuracy.

Remember, each figure is added separately. For example, 9777 is counted 9 plus 7 plus 7 plus 7, or, in other words, simply add them as if each figure stood one above the other in a single column.

REMEMBER, NO ONE KNOWS THE CORRECT ANSWER UNTIL THE CONTEST CLOSES

To ensure this we had Mr. E. M. Elliott, County Treasurer, and Mr. Frank Adams, City Treasurer, each erase one or more figures from the original drawing, which they carefully noted and sealed in an envelope and gave to the manager of the Royal Bank for safe keeping until the contest closes.

GENERAL CONTEST RULES

How to Enter

1. The contest is open to everyone except:
   (a) Employees of The Peterborough Examiner, Ltd., or their immediate family.
   (b) Prize-winners in any similar contest who have won any of the major prizes.

2. Additional puzzle-charts may be obtained free by writing to the Contest Department or by calling at The Examiner Office.

3. Every figure in the puzzle is complete and entirely free from tricks or illusions. If any contestant is in doubt about any of the figures, send in the chart with the figures marked and the Contest Department will gladly give a ruling on the figure.

4. When you have solved the puzzle, fill in completely the solution blank, which must be accompanied by a remittance for at least a six months' subscription at the regular rates to The Evening Examiner. (See subscription rates.) See also the prize-list and note how the value of your prize is increased by paying for a year's subscription and by getting subscriptions from your friends. Renewal subscriptions, or subscriptions in arrears, if paid during contest period, count the same as new subscriptions and will be extended from the present expiry date, but not more than $15.00 will be received on any one solution or subscription.

5. In order that subscribers who pay carrier boys weekly may participate in this contest, books of tickets containing 22 weekly tickets for $3.00, or 44 for $6.00, will be sold. These remittances must be made direct to the Contest Department with your solution. Otherwise it cannot be registered. Each ticket is valued at 15c and will be redeemed from the carrier boy at that price.

6. Readers who give their subscription to some other contestant and later want to send in an answer themselves, may do so providing they fill in the coupon, giving the name of the person they paid their subscription to and the amount paid. No further payment is necessary.

7. The contest will close on March 15, 1928, but send in your solution as soon as possible as we are offering special prizes for the first correct solutions. (See full details under "Special Prizes.") There is nothing gained by holding back your answer once you have solved the puzzle, as a contestant may make several remittances on any answer sent in while the contest lasts up to a total amount of $15.00.

8. Contestants may send in a different answer to the puzzle with each remittance, but if one of your answers is correct the money sent in on your other answers will not increase the total value of your prize, and not more than one regular prize will be paid to one family.

9. Everyone has an equal chance. You can win the first prize and extra cash for only a six months' subscription, but note how the value of the first five prizes increases if you send in more money. Aim to win the maximum Grand Prize. The Evening Examiner is now recognized as the leading daily in Peterborough district and surrounding counties and no difficulty should be found in getting your friends or neighbors to subscribe for it.

10. Contestants who remit by mail or pay at the office should see that these remittances and answers are made on a proper contest coupon to ensure them reaching the Contest Department.

11. If the correct answer is not sent in by any contestant the prizes will be awarded for the nearest correct solutions. In the event of a tie a second puzzle will be presented which will be as practicable and solvable as the first. Only those tieing will be permitted to solve the second puzzle. Should two or more persons be tied in the second puzzle the prizes will be divided equally among those tieing. No cash will be accepted on the second puzzle.

12. In entering the contest, contestants agree to abide by the rules of the contest and to accept the decision of the judges as final. The Contest Department reserve the right to alter and amend its rules if necessary for the protection of contestants or The Peterborough Examiner. It also reserves the right to refund any subscriptions and to disqualify any contestants whom they consider should not be in the contest. Contestants are assured of the same impartial treatment which characterizes The Examiner in all its dealings.

SPECIAL PRIZES—While the contest will not close until March 15, we are offering Five Special Prizes for the first five correct, or nearest correct, solutions secured by us. The prizes will be: First Prize, $8.00; Second Prize, $7.00; Third Prize, $5.00; Fourth Prize, $3.00; Fifth Prize, $2.00.

A TIP ON HOW TO WIN

Take a pencil and put down the numbers as you stroke them out, then add them up. Some suggest that you cut the chart into dozens of pieces, then check them from all sides; or if you wish, try blotting them out with colored ink or pencil. Others think the best way is to pick out all the twos, threes, fours, etc. Any they miss the first time they find later. Or suppose you try taking a combination of figures which, when added together, makes a total of ten. For example, 5 and 3 and 2 make 10. Tens are not only easily added together, but there is less danger of making a mistake.

Important Points to Remember

1. Everyone has the same opportunity. A person sending in only $3.00 in subscriptions has the same chance of winning the first prize as a person sending in more money. The advantage of sending in more money is to increase the value of the first five prizes.

2. This is a contest for Central Ontario district, or to any subscriber of The Examiner, no matter where he resides.

3. Don't forget to answer all the necessary questions on the solution blank.

4. If you collect a subscription from a friend or neighbour, that person can also submit an answer to the puzzle without further payment.

THE JUDGES

In order that each Contestant shall have fair and impartial treatment, we have arranged with Mr. Roland Denne, Mayor of the City and Alderman Nagel Phelan to act as judges for the contest. Any complaints in this connection will be referred to these judges whose decision will be absolutely final.

Toronto Stocks Weak; Some Losses Large

TORONTO, Feb. 8 (Canadian Press).—Stocks turned weaker on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning and in at least two issues the losses were considerable. Nickel sold down 2¼ at 92, and Page Hersey lost three at 90½. Page Hersey Preferred sold down 14 at 186. Losses of one to two points were shown in Burt at 71¾, Canadian Oil at 61½, Photo Engraving at 35⅞, and Hiram Walkers at 61. In the oils, British American lost fractionally at 36½, and International Petroleum to 38. Northern Bakeries, active in the unlisted section, sold down two at 45. Seagram eased to 25, Massey Harris weakened to 40⅛. The Brazilian issues, the rights and the new stock, all firmed against the general trend, with the common advancing two at 204½.

Lower Freight Rates Send Wheat Down

CHICAGO, Feb. 8 (Canadian Press).—The lowering of ocean freight rates from Argentina, together with the expectance of large shipments from that country, led to an early downturn in wheat values today. In the corn market, unfavorable weather and prospective export business were strengthening factors. Opening ⅜ to ⅞c off, wheat held near to the initial range. Corn started at ⅛ cent decline to an equal advance and subsequently hardened all around. Oats were steady. Provisions went higher.

Opening prices were: Wheat, March 128¼. May 128⅜. Corn, March 89¾. May 91¾. Oats, March 54½, May 54½.

Recovery Follows Reaction At Opening

NEW YORK, Feb. 8 (Canadian Press).—Sharp reactions took place in many stocks during the early part of today's stock market but recovery set in during the afternoon as pools resumed operations in some of the recent favorites. The passing of the American Sugar Refining dividend was followed by a break of 11¼ points in that stock, but it failed to halt the recovery which was under way when the announcement was made. Trading, which had been conducted at a brisk pace during the morning, turned dull on the rally.

The weekly steel trade reviews reported further improvement in the trade position and Wall Street looks for an incrase of more than 300,000 tons in the January unfilled orders of United States Steel Corporation, which will be made public on Friday. General Motors' dividend action tomorrow also is awaited with considerable interest, although the final quarters earnings will not be available until the middle of the month.

Noranda Leads Mines In Sudden Downturn

TORONTO, Feb. 8 (Canadian Press).—A spectacular loss in Noranda Mines and weakness in the Kirkland Lake issues were features of the General downturn on the Standard Mining Exchange today. Noranda broke a dollar at 18.25 in the morning session while of the Kirkland issues, Teck Hughes and Wright Hargreaves each sustained a loss of thirty cents or more at 8.85 to 5.20. The only strong feature in the whole easier movement was the firmness of Pend O'Reille, the British Columbia stock, which gained forty to 10.00, and Sudbury Basin, up at 13.95.

Hudson Bay Smelting sustained a half dollar loss at 19.75 and Mining Corporation was affected to the extent of a fifteen point recession at 3.89. Kirkland Lake slumped 15 at 2.05 and Teck Hughes sold down thirty at 8.85, while Wright-Hargreaves lost 34 at 5.20.

QUINTE CHURCHES PAY ALLOCATIONS

Presbyteries Make Good Showing During Year of Transition.

TORONTO, Feb. 8.—(Special.) — From reports reaching United Church offices, it is gathered that the Bay of Quinte Conference has made good use of the special arrangements made for a January drive in the interests of mission and other church funds. Several presbyteries which sent in meagre reports in the Autumn are now showing good results of the canvass for Maintenance and Extension Fund.

Banner Presbyteries in the Fall at making prompt returns of money paid in by church members were Lindsay and Renfrew. In totals for the year, however, Oshawa and Cobourg are promising well. The Treasurer of the United Church of Canada, Rev. Robert Laird, D.D., announced that the books would be open until January 31st for congregations which in the present month send to his office amounts which they designate for the 1927 period. This has enabled many churches to improve their financial showing.

The whole Cobourg Presbytery, according to the reckoning of the Conference organizers' office, will do ten per cent. better than a year ago. At Norham, although the minister has been ill, the laymen have guaranteed their full allocation for the next four years. First of all they paid their 1927 allocation in full.

On the whole, a summary issued yesterday by Rev. G. A. Williams, Bay of Quinte Conference organizer, is highly encouraging both for the year closing January 31st and for 1928.

Among places which have given assurance of reaching their full allocation are Addison, Arden, Brockville, Campbellford, Cannington, Delta, Fenelon Falls, Kingston (Sydenham and Zion), Kinmount, Lindsay (First), Maberly, Orono Centre, Oshawa, Pembroke (Wesley), Stella, Trenton (Grace), and Victoria Road.

Kinmount has given twelve months' allocation in the nine months, although it was below allocation a year ago. The Hiawatha Indians have raised their allocation.

A large building programme could not prevent St. Andrew's, Oshawa, from making a "clean-up" canvass for Maintenance and Extension Fund this month. All the Oshawa churches are meeting the nine months' obligation and this gives Oshawa Presbytery a good chance of leading all Presbyteries of the Bay of Quinte Conference toward the goal of wiping out the 1926 deficit which all through 1927 has hampered the United Church's financing.

Wall Street Church, Brockville, has given United Church offices a pleasant surprise, estimating that $5,200 would be given and then actually paying more than $5,400. This amounts to 83 per cent. of its twelve months' allocation in little more than nine months.

Hallowell in Belleville Presbytery has in sight more for the nine months than was actually paid in the previous twelve months, another instance of alertness to the general needs of a national treasury.

Within another week, final returns will be tabulated and the record for the short year just ended will be known.

THE SALVATION ARMY.

The services were conducted by Commandant Ham and were largely attended. As a mark of respect for the memory of the late Earl Haig, the afternoon service opened with the band playing "Onward Christian Soldiers," this being the favorite hymn of the late Field Marshal, followed by prayer offered by Commandant Ham. The evening service took the form of a memorial to the late Sergt. Thomas Lang, who for 35 years has been a faithful worker in the local corps of the Salvation Army, and it was with reverence, yet with a note of triumph, that the opening hymn was sung:

"Servant of God, well done,
Rest from thy loved employ,
The battle fought, the victory won,
Enter thy Master's joy."

Envoy W. Payton, speaking as representative of the corps, told of the definiteness of the conversion of Bro. T. Lang and of his happy handshake and word of Christian cheer to all with whom he came in contact. It was a remarkable fact that at whatever time he met Tom Lang and whatever the conversation was about, it always turned to the same finish—that of spiritual things. He recalled a conversation they had just after his daughter had told of her call from God for the missionary field and how though it would be hard to part with her, he was sure that God would never fail her in her work or him in the sacrifice of parting.

Treasurer J. Cunningham also paid tribute to the fidelity of our promoted comrade, not because it is customary to say good things of a man after he has gone, but from the depths of my heart say he was a good man.

A cabled message from Ensign Caroline Lang, a daughter who is engaged in missionary work in India, was read, which she concluded by saying to her mother, "Underneath are the Everlasting Arms," also messages of condolence were read from Commissioner Maxwell and Colonel Henry.

"My mind has this last few days been occupied by the thought of the suddenness of the visits of the angel of death to our city," said Mrs. Commandant Ham, "and this message of God has come to me, 'I will not leave you comfortless, I will come to you, and because I live ye shall live also,' and of God's promise, 'to be a husband to the widow and a father to the fatherless.' Thinking of our promoted comrade, those wonderful words in the book of Revelation came to me, 'And I heard a voice from heaven, saying unto me, write. Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth: Yea, saith the spirit, that they may rest from their labors, and their works do follow them.' We do not think of him to-night as being in the cold dark tomb, for how often did our comrade sing, 'Sweeping through the gates of the new Jerusalem, washed in the Blood of the Lamb,' and to-night he is with the blood-washed throng. But a strong message comes to me, 'Be ye also ready.' In the full vigor of manhood our comrade left for his work on the day of his accident, to return no more. We shall all stand soon before the throne of God and may we be ready as our comrade was ready."

Taking the 20th verse, 1st chapter of Phillipians, as his text, Commandant Ham said that the purpose of this memorial service was not that sorrow might be intensified — not to parade death before our eyes, but as St. Paul put it, that "Christ be magnified."

"It would be the wish of our comrade that I testified to the Christ that made his life what we all knew it to be. Our hearts as salvationists are torn. At the next meeting of the officials of the corps we will have to write beside the name of Thomas Lang, 'Promoted to Glory,' and on the soldiers' roll there will be a vacancy. During his life he did much good, many acts of kindness, love, fellowship. He magnified Christ by his life.

"Death has come, the parting of body and soul, but the union of the soul and Christ. We do not understand why this thing has happened, but some day the shadows will flee away and we shall meet again.

"God is able to change the lives of men. We see a good man, note his step, see that there is a power in his life we do not possess. He resists temptation of the world, flesh and devil, and we wonder what power it is. This power our comrade had. It was the power of a Living God, a Risen Christ. One of the predominant thoughts in my mind has been the consistency of Sergt. Lang. If only all Christian people would walk as did Tom Lang, how little of the bickerings and controversies that are prevalent in the church of to-day would result.

"That power is possible in every life. There are none of us who will be able to pass death. Rich and poor alike are called, young and old. What a glorious thing to know that our comrade was ready. Are you? There may be a boy or a girl, a young man or woman, perhaps you worked with Tom Lang, and you are not ready. May mercy and peace come to your heart and life to-night."

During the service the Temple Songsters sang, "He understands, he knows it all," and the band played "Abide with me," a great favorite of Sergt. Lang. Mrs. Mendel Brand sang by request, "'Tis true, there's a beautiful city," also a hymn loved by Comrade Lang.

PERSONALITY IS NECESSARY

Dr. Karr Continues Series of Addresses To Sales People.

CAN BE CREATED.

The second of the series of addresses to the merchants and their sales forces being given by Dr. Alexander Karr, under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce, was held at St. Alphonsus' Lyceum Hall this morning at nine o'clock.

Inasmuch as this group represented the other half of the store staffs who did not attend on Tuesday, Dr. Karr followed somewhat the same line of thought he did yesterday, laying special emphasis upon the development of personality to aid in salesmanship. He showed that a pleasing personality was worth more than a university education, and that the two together were irresistible. Fifteen per cent. succeed because of mental power and 85 per cent. because of pleasing personalities.

"To those of you who do not now possess this thing which Elinor Glyn calls 'it,' there is hope, for personality is created and its quality is determined by what the mind does with the materials which the five senses bring into it. You can make your personality what you will. And you can't fool folks about it. Children and blind folks are the best judges of personality."

Dr. Karr uses illustrations in all his work, carrying his points home in telling manner with a humorous story that has a tremendous punch behind it.

The third of the series will be held on Thursday morning, when the group that attended on Tuesday will come again. When President J. A. McKone, of the Business College, asekd the student body how many wanted to hear Dr. Karr on Thursday morning, the vote was unanimous.

The Madrigal Singers

The concert to be given in the Conservatory Hall on Monday evening by "The Madrigal Singers" promises to be a most attractive event. These singers are twenty ladies, with trained voices, who have been rehearsing regularly since the beginning of October, under the direction of Dorothy Allan Park. There are many well-known soloists in this choir, and the most careful attention has been given to beauty of tone, diction, and phrasing, and music lovers will find the various numbers sung in a finished and artistic manner. A feature of the occasion is the fact that these ladies are singing their difficult part-songs from memory, an unusual feat in choral work.

The beautiful old-fashioned costumes worn by the ladies will make a very effective stage picture. Several numbers will be sung a capella, including the late Dr. Vogt's beautiful "Indian Lullaby," Percy Fletcher's "O May, Thou Art a Merry Time," Miller's, "I Saw Lovely Phyllis," and MacFadyen's "Cradle Song."

The soloists for this concert are Harvey Doney, baritone soloist of Sherbourne Street United Church, Toronto, and Maurice Park, tenor soloist of Trinity Church.

Mr. Doney, according to the leading critics, possesses one of the most beautiful voices on this continent, and Mr. Park's artistic singing is well known in Peterborough. He is kindly taking the place of Mr. Dykes, who has been re-engaged by the Regent Theatre, Toronto, and so cannot fulfil his engagement here.

RED PIRATES KILL 300 MERCHANTS

Chinese Missionary and Family Also Among Slain at Hainan Island.

HONG KONG, Feb. 8.—(Canadian Press.)— The United States' Presbyterian mission at Hoihow, Hainan Island, was informed to-day that three hundred merchants and a Chinese missionary and his family had been murdered by red pirates on the south-east coast of the island. The slain minister was a member of the Hoihow mission and was murdered at Mancheong. In an attack on Lingshui, three hundred merchants and shopkeepers were killed. The town was looted and partly burned.

AGED JUSTICE PASSES AWAY

Hon. John Idington Died at Home in Ottawa in 88th Year.

HAD BRILLIANT CAREER.

OTTAWA, Feb. 8 (Canadian Press) Hon. Justice John Idington, who, on his retirement from the bench in the Supreme Court of Canada a year ago was the oldest sitting judge in the British Empire, died here last night.

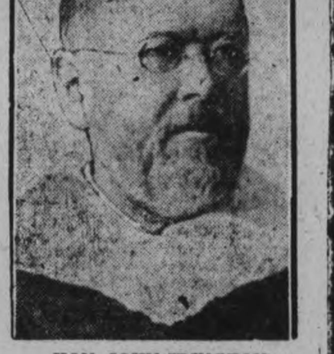
Justice Idington was taken ill two weeks ago, and owing to advanced age he failed to rally as had been expected. His death occurred at 11.15 o'clock.

Justice Idington was in his 88th year, but despite his age he was extremely active and up until the Spring of 1926 had never missed a day at the Supreme Court during his 21 years of service. In October, 1926, Judge Idington fell from the verandah of his residence on Stewart Street and sustained a fractured skull. His recovery was rapid, however, after an operation performed on his 86th birthday.

Dean of the Dominion's Supreme Court Judiciary, Justice Idington was appointed by the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier in 1905. Since that time he resided in the Capital, taking a leading part in the social and official life of the city.

In 1926, Judge and Mrs. Idington celebrated the diamond jubilee of their marriage. Mrs. Idington died only a few months ago.

The retirement of the noted jurist came under the Act of Parliament passed during last session which superannuated Justices of the Supreme Court on the attainment of 75 years of age.



HON. JOHN IDINGTON.

Recognized by the legal fraternity as one of the most eminent jurists, the late Mr. Justice Idington, in the course of his 21 years' service on the bench of the Supreme Court of Canada, and for a time previously as a judge of the High Court of Justice for Ontario, became widely known from one end of Canada to the other. He adjudicated upon practically all the important legal cases in this country during the past two decades, and his legal decision were always received with the deepest respect. On many occasions, he acted in the capacity of administrator in the absence from the Capital of the Governor-General.

Following a brilliant career at the Collegiate Institute at Galt, Ont., and Toronto University, John Idington was called to the Ontario Bar in 1864, at the age of 24 years. He immediately began the practice of his profession at Stratford, Ont., and less than 12 years afterwards his legal ability was recognized by his appointment as a Queen's Counsel.

The deceased jurist was for a time, in his early career, Crown Attorney and Clerk of the Peace for the County of Perth; and in 1894 was elected president of the Western Bar Association.

He was appointed to the Bench of the High Court of Justice for Ontario on March 19, 1904, and only eleven months after his appointment he was elevated to the Bench of the Supreme Court of Canada.

Eight children survive the late Justice Idington: Peter S., Vineland, Ont.; Malcolm, Ottawa; Walter, Galt; John, barrister, Toronto; and the Misses J. A., M.M., F.C., and K.S., at home.

Around the City

The Fire Brigade had a run over the icy roads last night at 9.55, when a call came in from 193 Dalhousie Street. The house at the above address had become filled with gas and smoke from the furnace, though the source of the smoke and gas was not ascertained until the firemen arrived. No damage was done.

George H. Moore, 698 Elcome Crescent, set a fashion for city workers when he skated to his position at the post office last night. His example was followed by many others this morning.

TRY MAGNESIA FOR INDIGESTION

People who suffer from indigestion usually have tried pepsin, charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids, and got little more than slight temporary relief—sometimes not even that.

But before giving up to chronic dyspepsia, just try the effect of a little Bisuated Magnesia — not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate or milk, but pure Bisurated Magnesia which you can obtain from practically any druggist in either powder or tablet form.

Take a teaspoonful of the powder or four tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach which now causes your food to ferment, and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn, and the bloated or heavy, lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat. You can enjoy your meals without a fear of indigestion.

THREE MAJORS ARE APPOINTED

Will Take Charge of Groups For Solicitation Campaign.

STORE HELPS CITY.

J. Wells Fraser and J. F. H. Wallace, in charge of the general solicitation group of the Chamber of Commerce "Forward Movement" campaign announced the selection of Chris. Graham, Fred L. Roy and Charles Lacheur as majors. These men will meet Thursday and select a group of five men each to serve as captains, under their direction. Later the captains will select five men to aid them in making a canvass of the city for investments in membership.

"My first opinion of Peterborough as a town with a splendid future from a commercial standpoint has been verified this week by the announcement of one of the leading department stores in the Dominion locating here," said Harry R. McKeen this morning. "Such firms make few mistakes in location as they make extensive studies before they make investments of such a size as this one. It canont help but increase the business of all stores here and will naturally widen the trading area of Peterborough."

James Dutton, chairman of the Activities committee of the Forward Movement is getting in touch with the firms and corporations whose head offices are in other cities, asking them for investment in the local Chamber of Commerce program of work.

Alexander Karr, the Educational Director, speaks at the Captol Theatre this evening for ten minutes, following the comedy reel.

An invisible camera has been invented which is operated by radio and in daylight or darkness, so that a thief, merely by his presence in the room, sets it in action.

THE CANADIAN LEGION WANTS 1000 MEMBERS

The most exclusive organization in Canada with its high ideals and worthy objectives invites into membership all those who have served the Empire in war and now wish to serve it in peace. Read the aims and objects—are they worth-while?

If you are privileged to join the Legion, do it now while this campaign is in progress, and help along the good work. You returned soldiers can make the Legion what you will—you can build up a strong, friendly force for good throughout the Dominion.

DoYouKnow

That the Canadian Legion in Peterborough has secured scores of pensions for returned soldiers in this city who, without its assistance, must have suffered?

That every year hundreds of dollars dispensed in relief bring comfort to returned men whose war disabilities have reduced their earning capacity?

That women who during the war years labored without ceasing to make comforts for your overseas men are now carrying on in the Legion Auxiliary, bringing relief to families of men who died, and others who are disabled?

AIMS AND OBJECTS

The aims and objects of the Legion shall be:

1. To bring about the unity of all who have served in His Majesty's navy, army, air force or any auxiliary force.

2. To further among them the spirit of comradeship and mutual help, and the close and kindly ties of active service.

3. To preserve the records and memories of their services, and to see that their services generally shall not be forgotten by the nation, and that due attention shall be paid to their welfare and that of their dependents.

4. To perpetuate the memory and deeds of the fallen and of those who die in the future; to promote and care for memorials to their valor and sacrifice; to provide suitable burial; and to keep an annual memorial day.

5. To see to the maintenance and comfort of those who require special treatment, of the disabled, sick, aged and needy; and to promote the welfare of the women, children and others their dependents.

6. To educate public opinion regarding national duties to the dead, the disabled, and others who have served, and their dependents.

7. To foster loyalty among the public and education in the principles of patriotism, duty and unstinted public service.

8. To support suitable undertakings for the training, employment and settlement of ex-service men and women, and the education of their children.

9. To defend their statutory, acquired and legitimate rights, and those of their dependents; and in so doing to offer the Legion's co-operation to those officially charged with the responsibility of administering such rights by Federal or other Governments in Canada.

10. To pass on to their families and descendents the traditions for which they stand.

11. To assist comrades now serving, especially in connection with their return to civil life, and to safeguard the interests of their dependents whilst they are in service.

12. To assist ex-service men to secure not less than the recognized standard rates of wages, in accordance with their ability.

13. To secure adequate pensions, allowances, grants and war gratuities for ex-service men, their dependents, and the widows, children and dependents of those who are dead, and to labor for honorable provision being made for those who in declining years are unable to support themselves.

14. To raise and co-ordinate funds for assisting those mentioned in the preceding paragraph, and to see that these and other funds raised for such purposes are applied to those purposes and none other.

15. To acquire and hold such property in the nature of club rooms, offices and equipment, and material, as may be necessary for the administration of the Legion and its authorized branches, in pursuit of its aims and objects as herein described.

16. To co-operate with Empire and allied associations of similar aims and objects.

17. There shall be nothing in this constitution to prevent the Legion from adopting a definite policy on any question directly or indirectly affecting ex-service men, and taking any constitutional action considered necessary in pursuance of it, provided that such action has been considered and endorsed by a majority of the branches of the organization; and also providing that such a policy or action is strictly in accordance with the principles laid down in this constitution.

The Legion

Is democratic and non-sectarian, and has no politics. Every member has equal voting rights; officers are elected by the members and hold office for one year.

Meetings are held monthly of all members and between these meetings business is carried on by the Commander and his Executive, chosen by the members.

The Legion Hall is open to all members. There are billiard and pool tables, reading room, writing room and canteen. All cases of distress among returned men or their families are promptly dealt with, and efficient machinery is in existence locally for dealing with cases of pension appeals.

It is an organization of returned soldiers, for returned soldiers.

No salary or remuneration is paid to any member of the local Executive or of the Provincial Executive, all of whom serve gratuitously. The local branch has complete autonomy in regard to its own property and affairs, making its own by-laws and regulations.

FUNDS

The small quarterly payments of dues go toward running expenses of the Legion and for payment of Dominion per capita dues. The proceeds of euchre drives and dances under Legion auspices form the basis of the relief work. It is from these sources that nearly all relief funds come, aided by the annual Poppy Day collection

COUNCIL ASKS FOR ROAD GRANT

Seymour Roads Cost $17,107.32 During 1927—Appropriations Authorized.

ACCOUNTS PASSED.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb .8.— The regular meeting of the township council was held in the clerk's office on Monday afternoon. All the members were present and Reeve Grills occupied the chairfl The first communication was from the Minister of Highways, reminding the council of the fourteenth annual conference of road superintendents to be held in Toronto and asking that a delegate be sent from Seymour. It was decided that the township superintendent be a delegate. A similar communication from the Eastern Ontario Good Roads Association was laid on the table till February 15th for discussion. The conference is to be held Feb. 21st. The clerk was instructed to inform Marshall Rathwell.

The school report presented by George Duncan was received and filed. The tax collector's report presented by Mrs. Dunham showed the amount of uncollected taxes to be $136.83. After discussing the matter thoroughly, the time limit was extended to March 1, 1928, on motion of the council.

In presenting the auditor's report, Thomas H. Rowe suggested that fifty copies be ordered printed and his suggestion was adopted. The report of the township road superintendent showed that from January 1, 1927, to December 31, 1927, there had been expended on the roads and bridges within the township $16,207.92, and for superintendent's salary, $899.40.

On motion of Councillors Allan and Innes, the following resolution was passed:

"That whereas there had been expended on roads in the township of Seymour, $16,207.92 during the period from January 1st to December 31st, 1927 and that there was paid for superintendent's salary as appointed under by-law number 1059, 1927, the sum of $899.40 during the same period: therefore, be it resolved, that the municipal council of the Township of Seymour hereby petition the Minister of Public Highways for the Province of Ontario, that the statutory grant as provided by the Ontario Highway Act and amendments thereto be paid on the above amounts."

Councillor Allan presented By-law 1074, appointing Harry Seaborne township constable for the year 1928. By-law number 1075 appointed the following amounts to be expended during the present year for construction of roads $4,500, bridges $2,500, for machinery $500, superintendent $1,200, maintenance and repair $6,500. Total amount $15,200.00.

The clerk was instructed to write Mr. Wilkie, Norwood, land surveyor, for information on the third concession of the township of Seymour. This being the conclusion of the business, the pay sheet and accounts were passed. After this a representative of the Sawyer Massey Co. interviewed the council regarding the purchase of road machinery, but the discussion was laid over till the next regular meeting. COURT VICTORY HOLDS SOCIAL Campbellford A. O. F. Officers Are Installed By Visiting Official.

BANQUET FOLLOWS.

CAMPBELLFORD, February 8. — The annual installation of officers for the present year in the local lodge of the Ancient Order of Foresters took the form of a social evening once the installation ceremony had been concluded, and was held in their lodge rooms on Thursday evening, February 2. The D.C.R., Bro. Mason of Peterborough, was present and officiated at the installation proceedings. The following will be the officers for the present year: A. G. Morgan, C.R.; E. Claverly, S.C.R.; A. Thrower, Secy.-Treas.; W. Feltwell, S.W.; G. Rollo, J.W.; T. Campbell, S.B.; A. Ward, J.B.; Dr. H. B. Longmore, medical officer; C. Long and J. Nancarrow, trustees and auditors.

At the conclusion of the regular business and the installation ceremony, a real honest-to-goodness supper was served with all the trimmings, including pie and ice-cream. C.R. A. Morgan proposed the toast to the King as a fitting introduction to the program. Solo, "Gipsy's Warning," Bro. A. Thrower. D.C.R. Mason proposed the toast to Court Victory, to which Bro. Bates responded. A trio by Brothers Campbell, Williams, and Claverly was followed by the toast to the officers of Court Victory, proposed by Bro. W. Ashton and responded to by Bro. A. G. Morgan. In his response, Mr. Morgan took occasion to express his appreciation of the good work which the other officers had done for him during the year. "The Little Brown Jug," sung by Bro. Thrower, and with the entire assembly joining in the choruses was especially popular. The toast to the Subsidiary High Court of Canada was proposed by Bro. Thrower and responded to by D.C.R. Mason. "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny," a trio by Brothers Williams, Campbell, and Claverly, was also very much appreciated. At the conclusion of the meeting, votes of thanks were tendered Mrs. Morgan and Mrs. Richardson for the excellent supper they had prepared and to Harold Thrower, who had acted as pianist during the evening. Thus a very enjoyable evening at the Court was concluded by singing the National Anthem and "Auld Lang Syne."

OBITUARY

MRS. J. H. GOODERICH.

WARKWORTH, February 8. — The funeral service was held on Friday afternoon in the Anglican Church for the late Mrs. J. H. Gooderich, who entered into rest on Tuesday evening, January 31, after an illness which lasted over two years. She was fifty-nine years of age. The sermon, preached by Rev. (Major) J. F. B. Belford, was taken from the first two verses of the 14th chapter of St. John: "Let not your heart be troubled. Ye believe in me, believe also in God the Father. In my Father's house are many mansions."

Rev. W. W. Jones, of St. Paul's Church, read the lesson.

The deceased when in good health, was a good supporter of and an active worker for the church which she loved. This also was carried out in her social life and won for her many friends.

Besides her husband, she leaves to mourn her loss a sister, Mrs. William Eppes of Deseronto. The pall bearers were W. S. Jackson, W. H. Barringer, E. W. Gordon, T. G. Smith, Robert Walker, and George Bensley.

Interment was in Warkworth vault until spring and then to Salem Cemetery.

Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, February 8. — Miss Ivy Ray entertained friends on Friday evening, February 3. The evening was spent in dancing.

Mrs. William Oliver, Front Street, is suffering from a fractured arm caused by a fall on the street when approximately in front of the office of Dr. Loucks.

Warden C. H. Davidson is not being permitted to let the grass grow under his feet. Yesterday he motored to Cobourg to attend to the affairs of the Counties.

Mr. John I. Adams is able to be at his business again after a severe illness.

The rainy, soft weather not only makes the streets slippery, but also makes the chances for good ice for the Trent Valley League fixture for to-night rather slim. The game scheduled for last night was postponed in order to save the ice as much as possible.

HOLSTEIN CLUB HOLDS MEETING

Campbellford District Men Decide to Concentrate on Picnic in June.

OFFICERS ELECTED

CAMPBELLFORD Feb. 8. — Owing to the storm of Wednesday the attendance at the annual meeting of the Campbellford District Holstein Breeders' Club was below expectations. However a few faithful members gathered in the room over the Herald office and discussed plans for the coming year. The 1927 officers were re-elected as follows:

President, P. B. Nelson; vice-pres., Ed. O'Connor; sec-treas., G. A. Kingston; directors, A. F. Ward, S. B. Moir, W. A. Wynn, R. Honey, L. Anderson.

The club will not hold the usual judging class in the winter owing to the uncertainty of the road conditions but will concentrate on the June picnic and field day. Those who attended this event at Presqu'ile last June had a rare treat and it is hoped that a similar event can be staged in this immediate locality during the coming summer, as local breeders have just as good cattle as anyone could wish to see.

The following committee will act with the president in arranging the field day: Ed. O'Connor, W. A. Wynn, S. B. Moir.

The Club has as secretary treasurer G. A. Kingston, Mayor of Campbellford, a one time highly successful breeder of pure bred Holsteins who still retains an active interest in the breed though his work is along journalistic lines.

ORGANIST RECEIVES GIFT FROM PEOPLE

Miss Mary Nicholls Given Bon-Bon Dish With Gold Coins.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 7.—At the congregational meeting of Wesley United Church held January 2th, Miss Mary Nicholls was presented with a solver bon bon dish on which was arranged $41 in gold pieces. The presentation was made by John Pearson, senior elder of the church, and the address was read by Mrs. Albert Northey. The following is the address:

"Dear Mary.—For the past nine years you have been the popular organist of our church which office you ever filled in a very able manner without remuneration of any kind.

"At our church services, our young people's meetings, our Sabbath School, at any and almost every church gathering you have given of your talent freely and willingly, and all services have been brightened and strengthened thereby.

"It has long been the wish of the people to express to you in some way our deep appreciation of your very acceptable help.

"We therefore ask you to accept this dish of 'golden bon bons' from the people of Wesley as a slight token of our very deep gratitude for your service of love to your pastor, your fellow members, your church and the Christ, Whom we all professedly love and serve. Trusting that God's richest blessing may rest upon you throughout your entire life.

"Signed on behalf of the members and adherents of Wesley United Church.

"Rev. T. M. Wesley, Mrs. Fred Armstrong, Mrs. J. A. Northey, Mrs. Joseph Harris, Mrs. N. Ball, Mrs. Albert Northey."

Miss Nicholls was completely taken by surprise but replied in suitable words, thanking the people for their beautiful gift and assuring them of her very deep interest in the church and community.

Mr. Wesley, the pastor, spoke a few words of appreciation, and Mrs. J. A. Northey presided at the organ while all joined heartily in singing "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow."

At the conclusion of the meeting light refreshments were served by the ladies of the community.

CANADIAN PRIMATE

has now a noted place among Catholic nations—worthy of the benevolent consideration of the Pontifical See."

English Address

Father Maguire, opening the English address of welcome to the Cardinal said: "This storied Basilica, brightened by the galaxy of illustrious prelates, the scene of so many religious and patriotic functions, for the third time welcomes with glad acclaim, another Cardinal, son of the soil, Archbishop of Quebec.."

He said later: "It is only natural that we, your English speaking children, mostly descendants of forebears who suffered for the faith, should rejoice at seeing the church of Canada so grandly represented in your person and in being blessed with a champion so splendidly armed to fight its battles.

Wisdom and justice form the groundwork of your spiritual endowments It is God's way to lavish natural gifts of a high order on him whom He is pleased to favor. Gifts of mind and heart, a commanding presence, charm of manner, ease of approach, forceful speech. Everything makes for your leadership."

Referring to the fact that His Eminence was a Domincan. Father Maguire said: "Your order is indeed a standing witness to the power of prayer."

The Abee further said: "Such a See cannot be intrusted to a more worthy pastor. Deepened by lifelong study, broadened by worldwide experience, you know neither Jew nor Gentile, neither race nor faction. Your sole ambition is to be all things to all men, that you may lead all to Christ."

FIRST CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

fully functioning the Montreal Board of Trade.

"The chamber of commerce movement in the U.S.A. is one of the distinguishing features of America's economic life" Mr. Duffus continued, "and the U. S. Chamber of Commerce is the most important business organizations in the republic. ere in Canada, Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce are most useful and active bodies in a large number of our towns and cities. There are more than three hundred organizations of this nature in the Dominion. It is on these and with these individual organization that the national chamber of commerce is being built.

A Broader Outlook

The autonomy of the local chamber is not affected by affiliation with the national Chamber, but the federated idea behind the Canadian Chamber of Commerce tends to eliminate parochialism in approaching national questions, while the spirit of Canadianism rather than of provincialism or urbanism suffuses and renders more useful the considerations and decisions of the local or municipal institution.

The Service Clubs.

I have a very high regard for all service organizations, Rotary, Kiwanis, etc. They are doing a great work, but sometimes I think we are over-organized, especially in smaller places. But one thing I am convinced of is, that no citizen should join any of these organizations, no matter how good, until he first joins and maintains his membership and interest in a Board of Trade or Chamber of Commerce, composed as they should be of all elements of the community, including manufacturers, merchants, mechanics, professional men, school teachers, clergymen, bankers, and so on. In some places they join the work of Rotary and Kiwanis with the Board of Trade, meet once weekly at dinner at 6 or 6.30 in the evening, with a half-hour for fun and then the necessary time for business.

I have in mind the town of Picton, where the Board of Trade interests adopted a policy similar to that which I have just mentioned, but in speaking with Mr. Newman, its president, a few days ago I understand that a Kiwanis Club is being established which undoubtedly will be a success, but just what effect it will have on the Board of Trade is problematical, as obviously in a large measure the same citizens will be interested in both. The fee of the newly formed Kiwanis Club is $25, I am told whereas the Board of Trade was endeavoring to function on a nominal fee of $2 or $3. Mr. Newman's comment was that if the Board of Trade charged a fee of $15 they would be able to accomplish a great deal more."

A Board's Scope.

Mr. Duffus sketched the scope and aims of a Board of Trade and said it should have no political or religious complexions. "It knows not the mean ing of rich or poor. Its interests must embrace only business, loyalty, patriotism and philanthropy. It must know naught of anything but unselfish interests. It must stand ready to be taken at its word, to do anything and everything to assist the municipal council and all other organized bodies to advance the welfare of the community."

Mr. Duffus outlined the framework of the organization and the duties of each section. "One feature which I would strongly recommend is a close co-operation between the citizens of Cobourg and the people of the adjoining counties. A friendly feeling has a far-reaching effect, resulting in advantages to both, including increased prosperity. Unless there is prosperity in the town, it is impossible to have it in the country, and likewise if the people in the country are not prosperous, it is impossible for those in town to enjoy prosperity. I would strongly recommend your Board of Trade to meet with farmers from time to time. Invite them to come in and dine with you and enjoy your hos pitality by organizing picnics and excursions, and in turn go out and participate in their various picnics and functions. In this way ideas will be exchanged and a happiness will be created which will operate and endure to the benefit of both."

This Day In Parliament.

OTTAWA, February 8 (Canadian Press).—To-day, in the House, the debate on the Address will be resumed by Col. Thomas Cantley (Conservative, Pictou).

The Senate will sit.

Yesterday, the debate on the Address was continued by the Hon. Robert Forke, Minister of Immigration; Murray MacLaren (Conservative St. John-Albert); Robert Milne (Progressive, Neepawa); B. M. Kennedy (U.F.A., Peace River); Robert McKenzie (Liberal, Assiniboia), W. C. Ernest (Conservative, Queens-Lunenburg), Agnes MacPhail (Progressive, South East Grey), R. Jenkins (Liberal, Queens, P.E.I.), D. J. Cowan (Conservative, Port Arthur-Thunder Bay), A. A. Heaps (Labor, Winnipeg North), and L. K. Laflamme (Liberal, Montmagny).

The Senate did not sit.

HOME BANK ESTATE NEAR SETTLEMENT

Directors of Home Bank Make Proposal To the Liquidators.

TORONTO, Feb. 8.—(Canadian Press).—Proposition by the directors of the defunct Home Bank of Canada will be considered by the liquidators of the bank on February 16, before the Master in Chambers at Osgoode Hall here in an effort to reach a settlement of the liquidators' civil action against the directors for five million dollars. The suit was instituted three years ago The "directors have made a proposal of settlement which has been discussed with the inspectors of the estate", said G. T. Clarkson, liquidator yesterday, "and with their approval the directors will recommend its acceptance.' '

If the directors' proposal is accepted the final winding up of the affairs of the bank will be in sight. The action against the directors calls on them to repay to the bank all dividends improperly and illegally authorized by them and paid to shareholders out of capital and not out of profits.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, February 8 (Canadian Press). — Demand for immediate delivery corn in Chicago yesterday proved to be the largest met with in a long while, and corn export business was at the highest basis yet this season. As much as 7⅛c a bushel over the price of Chicago May delivery was paid for export corn at the Gulf of Mexico.

Closing quotations on corn were unsettled, ⅜c to ⅝c net higher, wheat ⅛c to ½c up; oats at ⅛c to ¼c to ⅜c advance. and provisions unchanged to a rise of 20c.

In addition to excelelnce of cash demand, corn belt weather was distinctly unfavorable for the crop movement, and the trading basis at Kansas City was ½c higher, with no purchases reported to come here from the south-west. Export business in all positions was estimated at 250,000 bushels, including some corn for export disposed of here to Eastern handlers.

Estimates were current that Europe must buy at least 40,000,000 bushels of United States corn between now and the last of June.

Oats were firmer, sympathizing with corn.

Wheat developed firmness partly owing to corn strength and partly as a result of an unexpected upturn in Liverpool quotations. Besides, there was a forecast of colder weather south-west, and drought reports persisted from Western Texas.

Provisions reflected an advance in hog values, and there was a let-up in the aggressive selling which of late has burdened the market.

HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH

BY DR. FRANK McCOY

THE CURE OF CHRONIC RHEUMATISM

In the cure of any form of chronic rheumatism it is necessary to understand that the primary cause must be considered rather than minor causes, such as from focal infections.

The rheumatic diathesis is developed through retention in the body of certain toxic wastes. This is due to errors in living; such as eating too much food, faulty food combinations, lack of exercise, etc.

If faulty elimination of toxins is really the cause, it is easy to see that the cure must depend entirely upon eliminating such wastes. A person in normal health eliminates the natural toxins of the body through four principal channels—the bowels, kidneys, skin and lungs. Increasing elimination through these avenues is the only method which will bring about the cure of rheumatism, and this is also true of many other disorders. Whether the case is one of rheumatoid arthritis, arthritis deformans, or osteo-arthritis, the treatment is essentially the same.

To better permit the bodily forces to eliminate, it is best to stop assimilating any kind of food for several days or weeks, according to the severity of the rheumatism and the necessities of each case. Bowel elimination can be increased through the use of the enema taken two or three times daily. Vast quantities of poisonous wastes can be quickly washed out through this method, and if the alimentary tract is not burdened with food, elimination of toxins proceeds with greater rapidity.

Larger quantities of water should be taken, as much as three to four gallons daily. This increases elimination of other rheumatic poisons through the kidneys, and also furnishes more fluid for skin elimination. The pores of the skin should be kept open by frequent sponge bathing, and in some cases daily sweatings should be given through the wet sheet pack or by wrapping the patient in woolen blankets. During the blanket sweat it is advisable to use deep-breathing exercises, inhaling and exhaling to the utmost to cleanse the lungs of poisonous gases.

The sweating treatment must be used cautiously during the fast, owing to the enervation produced by the combination of fasting and sweating. It is usually advisable to fast two or three weeks to insure the best results. After the fasting regine is completed, the sweating treatments should be given about every other day, but daily if the strength permits.

For two or three weeks after the fast the diet should consist mostly of leafy green vegetables, used both cooked and raw. It is better to eliminate all proteins, starches and sugars for several weeks. This is not because their use would generate more rheumatic toxins, but it is necessary in order to give the digestive organs less work to do so that all eliminative functions may be increased.

After several weeks of this non-starchy diet it is then all right to add one egg and three or four ounces of meat, nuts, or cheese to the vegetable diet which has been taken after the fast.

If more soreness develops, it is only a sign that not all of the rheumatic toxins have been eliminated, and it may be necessary to take another short fast, followed by the vegetable diet. In this way, by alternating the fasting and the vegetable diet one can be assured of complete elimination of the poisons responsible for rheumatism. After the cure is complete, patient must learn to live on a well-balanced diet and see to it that nothing interferes with the elimination of normal wastes through the bowels, kidneys, skin, and lungs.

Questions and Answers.

Question: A Mother asks: "Is it all right to let the high school girl and boy go to school without any breakfast? They say they are not hungry. Shouldn't they have orange juice or fruit of some kind?

Answer: School children often run away from breakfast because they get up too late to eat breakfast and get to school on time. Sometimes they are not hungry because of eating too much at the evening meal the night before. Any one who is not hungry for breakfast should fast a few days until real hunger returns. If there is any time in the day when one can be expected to be hungry, it is in the morning, after not having had anything to eat for approximately twelve hours. The thing to do is to re-arrange the children's diet so that they will not overeat at the other meals, and will be hungry for breakfast.

Question: Mrs. W. H. L. asks: "Do you recommend hominy? If so, how should it be prepared?"

Answer Hominy is a good starch food. It should be prepared by first boiling in several waters to entirely remove all trace of any foreign substance used in its preparation. After draining (when it has become thoroughly tender) it may be seasoned with a little butter or cream when ready to serve. It should be eaten with the green vegetables—never with meat or other protein food.

Question Mrs. G. W. M. asks "Will you please tell me if dizziness at times and a tired feeling all the time are signs of high blood pressure? I am 46 years old, and a poor sleeper."

Answer The only way to tell whether or not you have high blood pressure is to have an examination made by the use of the sphygomomenometer, which is an instrument for measuring blood pressure. The dizziness in insomnia may come from high blood pressure, but one with this disorder is seldom bothered by being unusually tired; he generally has plenty of energy, but becomes dizzy upon extreme exertion.

Her Color Went Black. She Was Frightened To Death

Mrs. Waite, New Brighton, writes: "That deadly indigestion and gastritis, caused by constipation made my color go black. I was frightened to death, and I feel your laxative saved my life. I take them every night now for precaution, and do not fear an attack of constipation poisoning any more."

CLERGY APPROVE SECOND REVISION

Vote 247 to 35 in Favor of Book—Five Bishops Opposed.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—(Canadian Press Cable).—The House of Clergy of the Church Assembly yesterday approved of the revised prayer book by vote of 247 to 35.

The House of Bishops approved the book by a vote of 35 to 5.

The House of Clergy and the House of Laity went to work separately on the prayer book question. Both the House of Clergy and the House of Laity rejected recommendation that the proposals regarding prayer book revision be postponed for three years.

CONTEST PLANNED.

Queen Alexandra Home and School Association Arrange Speaking Contest.

The February meeting of the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association was held on Monday evening, February 6, Mrs. R. Parnell in the chair. Arrangements were made for the oratorical contest which is to take place at the teachers' "At Home" on Wednesday, February 15. Reports were received from the various committees. The splendid work of the Telephone Committee was shown in the large number present. Six new members were enrolled.

The officers for next year were nominated. the election to take place at the regular March meeting.

A splendid and instructive address on The League of Nations, given by L. J. Pettit of the Collegiate staff was listened to with much interest.

A violin solo by Reginald Kingdon accompanied by Maxwell Parnell, and a piano solo by Victor Johnson were both thoroughly enjoyed.

The attendance picture was won for the fourth month by Mr. Park's room. The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Huge Crowds Expected To Visit J. J. Duffus' Motor Show.

Sleighing and Bus Parties Likely To Come From Outside Points Adjoining Peterborough.

Widespread interest in the big Motor Show being staged by J. J. Duffus is making itself apparent throughout the entire Eastern part of the Province.

Enquiries have already been received from various counties adjacent to Peterborough and suggestions made by numerous parties to run sleighing and bus excursions to the Show which opens this Saturday.

Mr. Duffus states he fully expects 30,000 people will attend the Show and examine the cars on display.

Special arrangements are being made for music and other entertainment during Show week and—special prizes besides the Whippet Sedan are being offered and will be drawn for the closing night of the Show.

All residents over 18 years of age in the Counties of Northumberland, Peterborough, Durham, Victoria and Haliburton are eligible contestants for the Whippet sedan which is being away, while the other prizes will be open to everybody who attends the Show except employees and their families of J. J. Duffus Limited.

Boys Bring Friend Safely to Hospital

OTTAWA. Feb. 8.—(Canadian Press).—When Henry Brodie, fifteen, crashed into a tree on the Comp Fortune ski trail Monday, he broke his right leg. He was far from any residence in the Gatineau Hills and it was zero weather. His companions, Mitchell Franklin, fourteen, and Lawrence Baxter, fifteen, decided to carry their friend to the nearest farm house. It was almost two miles away but the lads brought their suffering companion out in safety. Here they borrowed a toboggan and drew him to a hospital where his fracture was reduced.

Uncle Wiggily

To-day's Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE LITTLE DEER

One day, when Uncle Wiggily had hopped away from his hollow stump bungalow to look for an adventure, the old rabbit gentleman found himself in the woods. I don't mean that he was lost when I say he found himself. Oh, no. I mean he happened to look around and he saw trees all about him.

"So of course I must be in the woods," said Uncle Wiggily to himself, and he was right. "This is lucky for me!" chuckled the rabbit gentleman. "I often have adventures in the woods and perhaps I may have one now. I hope so."

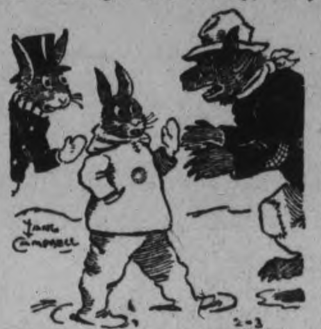
He looked to the right and he looked to the left. On both sides were trees, without any leaves on, except those that were evergreen, and their leaves never fall. On the ground was snow.

"Snow isn't so good for rabbits," thought Uncle Wiggily. "Our paws leave marks in the snow and a Fox, Wolf or Bob Cat, seeing the mark in the snow, can follow and catch us. I must be careful."

Still hoping he might find an adventure, Uncle Wiggily looked here and there and, all of a sudden he heard a noise. It was a noise as if some one was scraping away at the snow over behind a big bush. Mr. Longears listened again and still the scraping noise sounded.

"Who is there?" bravely asked the rabbit.

"I am," answered a small, little voice, and Uncle Wiggily no longer felt afraid. For he thought such a teeny, weeny voice could not belong to a big, hungry animal like Fox or Wolf. Then, looking between the bushes, Uncle Wiggily saw a little animal, with small horns on its head, digging with its front feet in the snow. The animal was scattering the snow as Jackie or Peetie Bow Wow might have done.



Eski jumped in front of the rabbit gentleman.

"Who are you and what have you lost under the snow that you are digging that way with your front feet?" asked the rabbit gentleman.

"I am a little deer," was the answer, "but I have not lost anything."

"Then why are you digging in the snow?" the rabbit inquired.

"I am looking for moss to eat," was the reply. "You see I am a little reindeer and I live in the winter on moss that grows beneath the snow. I am very hungry."

"Oh, now I know who you are!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily with a laugh. "You are like the reindeer of Santa Claus. But you are a long way from home, and I [illegible] you will not find, in this part of [illegible] country, the sort of moss you like. You should be up near the North Pole."

"Yes, I know I should," answered the little deer, "but I am lost and I am so hungry. I heard you speak of Santa Claus. Do you know who he is? My father, a big reindeer, works for him, but I have never been able to find Mr. Claus.

"You never can find him when you are looking for him," said Uncle Wiggily. "He was here at Christmas, but he has gone back to the North Pole now. You say your father works for Santa Claus?"

"Yes, my father is one of the big deer that pull Mr. Claus's sled," answered the little deer. "I often heard my father speak of drawing the sled So about two weeks ago, when my father was startling out with some of his friends to haul the sled of Santa Claus, I thought I would go with him and see what it was like."

"Did your father say you might go with him when he helped the other big deer draw the Christmas sled?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, no!" answered the little deer, jabbing his tiny horns into the snow. "I didn't tell him for fear he would say I couldn't come. I slipped along quietly, and hid behind the bushes. But my father leaped so fast that he got way ahead of me and I lost sight of him. And then I lost myself and I've been lost ever since, traveling around and living on dried grass and what little moss I could dig from under the snow. But you are right—the moss under the snow here is not like the long moss up in my North Pole home. Oh, I am so hungry I don't know what to do!"

"Then you had better come home with me, little deer," invited Uncle Wiggily. "I cannot give you moss, but I can give you other food. Come along with me."

"Is my father at your house?" asked the little deer.

"No, I think your father has gone back to the North Pole and he will be wondering where you are," said the rabbit. "But I will feed you well, and perhaps I can find a way to get you back home. Come along!"

The little deer started to follow Mr. Longears but, all of a sudden there was a strange noise in the bushes and a growl was heard.

"Dear me!" exclaimed the rabbit. And what happened next you shall learn tomorrow when the story will be about Uncle Wiggily and the deer's ride. And I hope you can stop the ice pick from tickling the loaf of bread with a piece of cake.

Man So Nervous Feels His Stomach Jump

"I got so nervous my stomach felt like it was jumping. Vinol entirely relieved the trouble. I feel better than in years."—J. C. Duke.

Vinol is a compound of iron, phosphates, cod liver peptone, etc. The very FIRST bottle makes you sleep better and have a BIG appetite. Nervous, easily tired people are surprised how QUICK the iron, phosphates, etc., give the new life and pep. Vinol tastes delicious. McDermid & Jury, Druggists, E. L. Payne, McDermid Drug Co.

WOMEN'S PAGE

PERSONALS

Messrs. R. Sedgwick and R. Hogan were in Toronto yesterday, and attended the Canadiens-Maple Leafs game.

• • •

Mrs. W. R. Widdess, Stewart street, was hostess last evening to the members of the Art Study Club of the Woman's Art Association of which Mrs. B. L. Barns is convenor. The annual merry making meeting of the club, with the motto, "Frame your mind to mirth and merriment, which bars a thousand harms and lengthens life," was the occasion celebrated, and the various stunts and contests which formed the programme of the evening were under the direction of Mrs. J. H. Seels, who spared no details in making the entertainment very interesting. There was plenty of laughter and fun for the guests in the several contests, one of the most amusing of which was a spelling match. The portrayal of the visit of the famous doctor was also productive of much mirth, with actors in Mrs. D. Carmichael, Mrs. J. E. R. Munroe and Miss S. A. Tomkins. Gaily colored paper hats of various shapes were worn by the ladies, while the gentlemen were presented with festive paper ties. During the evening, a charmingly sung vocal solo, with encore, was given by Mrs. C. H. Saunders, with accompaniment by Miss Margaret Widdess. Coffee was poured by Mrs. F. C. Neal assisted by Mrs. D. Carmichael, Mrs. H. E. Connolly and Mrs. N. H. Sutton. The table was lovely with Cluny lace, a large central crystal bowl filled with mauve tulips; calendula and narcissus, and mauve candles in silver holders. Members of the club present with their husbands and several other guests were: Mr. and Mrs. J. SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

Rhoda's China-blue eyes were as wide and eager with surprise as a child's. "Oh, tell me, Nils! But of course anything you have done is right. I don't know anything about business!"

"Good girl!" Nils laughed huskily, as he drew her plump body close to his side. "It's a pleasure to be your guardian. The fact is, honey, I've taken an option on a big dairy farm between here and Darrow—the Sweet-Clover Dairy Company's outfit. You know the place, I suppose, Mr. Hathaway?"

Bob nodded. "Fine property, but the buildings are rather dilapidated. They used to do the biggest business in the state."

Rhoda squealed with excitement. "You're selling our farm, Nils? Honest? You're going to live here? Oh, Nils! I'm so happy!"

"I thought you'd be pleased," Nils acknowledged. "She always hated our farm," he explained to Faith and Bob.

The girl's face fell. "You mean—I'll have to leave Mrs. Hathaway?" she faltered.

"I am flattered!" Nils pretended to be more indignant that he was. "What do you think I'm moving to this part of the country for, if not to be with my runaway sister?"

"You're moving here so Cherry will be willing to marry you," Rhoda retorted. "You knew she wouldn't go away off to Minnesota and bury herself on a farm."

"That's where you're wrong, young 'un," Nils was saying to Rhoda. "I've been negotiating for the sale of our place and the purchase of Sweet-Clover Farm since early in September, before I'd met Cherry. But I didn't try to influence her to take me by telling her that in all probability she'd be able to live within twenty miles of her home town and her family. I wanted her to care enough to live anywhere with me," he added stubbornly.

"I must say, Nils," Bob laughed ruefully, "that your courting tactics are fair-to-middling curious, to put it mildly. You seem to be daring Cherry to marry you, rather than asking her."

"Exactly," Nils grinned, but Faith noted that there was a white line of pain about his lips. "By the way, Mr. Hathaway, you are an architect—"

"Not at all 'by the way,' Bob laughed. "I take myself pretty seriously as an architect."

"I hear you have just cause to," Nils answered gravely. "I've made inquiries. You said a while ago that the Sweet-Clover buildings are rather dilapidated. They're worse than that. I want to wreck the whole outfit and build a model dairy plant there, including a home. I'm going to Holland to study their methods, said to be the best in the world, but while I'm gone I'd like for the buildings to be under construction. I'd rather hoped to combine honeymooning and business," he added brusquely.

"Holland?" Bob's face lighted with pleasure. "I've got a book full of Dutch architecture. Like to see it? I use the sun parlor as an office for home work and study. Come along. My idea would be to have the house and barns—"

The door into the sun parlor closed on the two blonde young men and Faith closed her eyes to pray as she had never prayed in her life.

Lyrics of Life - By Douglas Malloch

THE DAY OF WINTRY THINGS

I wish that I could find a rose
Among the snows,
One daisy on my windy way—
But not today.
This is the day of wintry chill,
The hooded hill,
A wind that stings—
This is the day of wintry things.

And so I bow my head to meet
The stormy sleet,
Press onward, since I know full well
Again the dell
Will have its roses as of old
After the cold,
Ah, yes, its Springs,
After the day of wintry things.

And you who have a load of care
Right now to bear,
Who miss the roses even as I
Have seen them die,
Have you forgotten skies of blue,
And roses, too,
God always brings
After the day of wintry things?

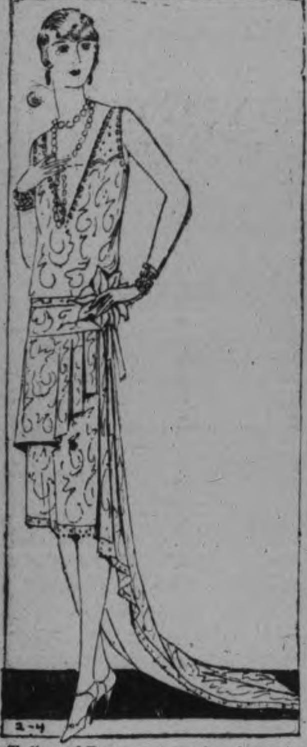
DRESS
By MARY MARSHALL



Talbot of Paris revives the slit pocket in this gray cloth skirt worn with gray and silver striped lame blouse. The pocket is edged with gold and silver galon.

The ornamental skirt pocket has for a season or so been seldom seen—and it might be hard to find many women who would greet it with real favor. It is in the misuse of these skirt pockets that the fault seems to lie and any sort of use seems to be misuse. The pockets shown in a frock by Talbot are pockets in form and name only. No one would think of using them for fear of spoiling the line of the skirt.

An interesting winter ensemble from O'Rossen of Paris has a coat of tweed with small straight collar and cuffs of astrakhan. The frock, a simple one, is made of one of the new rather irregularly dotted flannels and the lining of the coat is of the same dotted material—light foundation with dots of various colors.

O'Rossen won his first reputation as a tailor for kings—not for queens—and the story is told in Paris that the king of England once ordered a Spanish cape from this thoroughly French tailor. The young Shah is counted among his interesting men customers. It was with strictly tailored suits that he first extended his field from that of a mere man's tailor, but of late he has been putting out many suits and ensembles that depart somewhat from the strictly tailored conventions.

Worth and Doucet, I was recently reminded, are among the oldest of the well-known dressmaking houses in Paris. It was to the house of Worth that the beautiful Empress Eugenie of Paris went for her famous crinolined gowns when her husband, Napoleon III, was emperor of France—and even now it is usually Worth who makes the wedding gowns for the most aristocratic of European brides.

The house of Doucet was founded over a century ago—and until quite recently has been actively directed by some member of this famous family of dressmakers.

HOROSCOPE
The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 9, 1928.

Astrologers read this as a threatening day for inhabitants of the planet Earth. Malefic planetary aspects are dominant.

It is an especially menacing rule for aviation and care should be taken to avoid accidents.

The seers predict a disaster in aerial navigation which will prevent future foolish risks of life in unnecessary stunts.

It is well today to avoid speculation, for the mind may be easily led into foolish investments.

There is a forbidding aspect for buying and selling and excitement on the stock exchange will be frequently recorded.

Persons who exercise authority may be peculiarly autocratic under this direction of the stars. It is not a time to seek favors.

Those who are looking for employment may expect more or less disappointment while this configuration prevails.

The seers foretell increase of special training for the various humbler vocations of life and the standardizing of employees.

Commercial competition in the oil industry will affect American production, it is foretold, in an unexpected manner.

If the stars are to be believed it is well to study one's political beliefs, for many defections from party organizations appear to be indicated.

Women may rally to a non-partisan flag that indicates a peace movement as well as a campaign for general reforms, astrologers forecast.

The death of a leader among women may become of wide import, it is prognosticated.

Persons whose birthdate it is should keep to well-trodden paths. Speculation or any sort of venture may be disastrous.

Children born on this day probably will have artistic talents and ambitions. They may be too susceptible to love interest.

Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 7. — The Rev. N. Clarke and Mrs. Wallace are spending a few days in Toronto, where Mr. Wallace is attending to affairs of the church.

Mrs. Fred Free visited in Peterborough yesterday.

Miss Margaret Dickson Peterborough spent the week end at her home here.

The High School Commencement, which is to take place on Thursday and Friday evenings of this week will have as the main number of the program a part of the score from Tulip Time. The long list of diplomas and prizes will be divided between the two evenings.

It was announced last night by the executive of the local branch of the Canadian Legion that the memorial service to be held in memory of the late Sir Douglas Haig would be held in Christ Anglican church, next Sunday evening, at 7 o'clock. This is also a request from the Dominion command and every ex-service man as well as every member of the Legion whether of this or any other branch who is in town on that day, is requested and invited to attend the service. The Legion will attend in a body and will meet at their club rooms at six-thirty for that purpose.

Division court, which was to have been held to-day has been laid over until a future date on account of the serious illness of Mrs. Huycke, Peterborough.

LAWYER EXPECTED TO MEET CREDITORS

H. D. Petrie's Furniture Sold—Assignor Missing For Two Weeks.

HAMILTON, Ont., Feb. 8.— H. D. Petrie, prominent local lawyer, who has been absent from the city since making an assignment about two weeks ago, will return to the city on Friday when his creditors meet at the court house, it is reported. G. B. Loveday, custodian, and S. L. Heaton, confidential clerk for Petrie, both stated that they would not be surprised to see Petrie return on Friday, although they denied communication with him.

The contents of the Petrie home on Duke street were disposed of by auction yesterday, a bailiff having been placed in possession on account of the rent being overdue.

SEARCHERS SURE NO MEN MISSING

Check Up Fishermen On Both Shores of Lake Erie.

BUFFALO, Feb. 8.—(Canadian Press).—United States and Canadian searchers, including Capt. Paul Forner of the Buffalo Coastguard station, who covered lower Lake Erie Monday searching for the ten men believed marooned on a drifting ice floe, yesterday were convinced the men were not lost. They believed that at least six persons who reported the mishap saw shadows thrown by mounds of ice and mistook these for men. Four planes flew over the lake yesterday but failed to sight the men.

The search was called off yesterday after a check up had been made of the United States and Canadian shores of fishermen who might have been on the lake on Sunday when the disappearance was reported. None was reported missing.

NO MATTHER WHAT YOUR AGE MAY BE

If Your Life is Handicapped By Inability And Chronic Weakness Make This Test Today!

Remember "old age", lack of ambition, power and the ability to work and enjoy life as in former days is more a matter of reserve vitalty and abundant nerve force—than the passing of a certain number of years.

If you really desire it and have a spark of genuine "fighting spirit" left—you do not need to give up your usual activities and submit to the empty meaningless days and chronic weakness of old age—and here's a simple home test to prove it!

Eat plentifully of nourishing foods, take regular but not tiresome exercise and from your druggist obtain a plain sealed package of Double Strength Erbac tablets. The package will contain a 20-day supply, more than enough to convince you of the great value of this special private formula.

No matter about your age or how many treatments you have tried without success—if you now want results you should start this 20 day home test at once. If not well pleased with the outcome Bond's or the druggist who supplied you with Erbac is authorized to return your money.

Hints on Etiquette

1. What form should one use to accept or decline an invitation?

2. How does one answer an engraved invitation?

3. How soon should one answer an invitation?

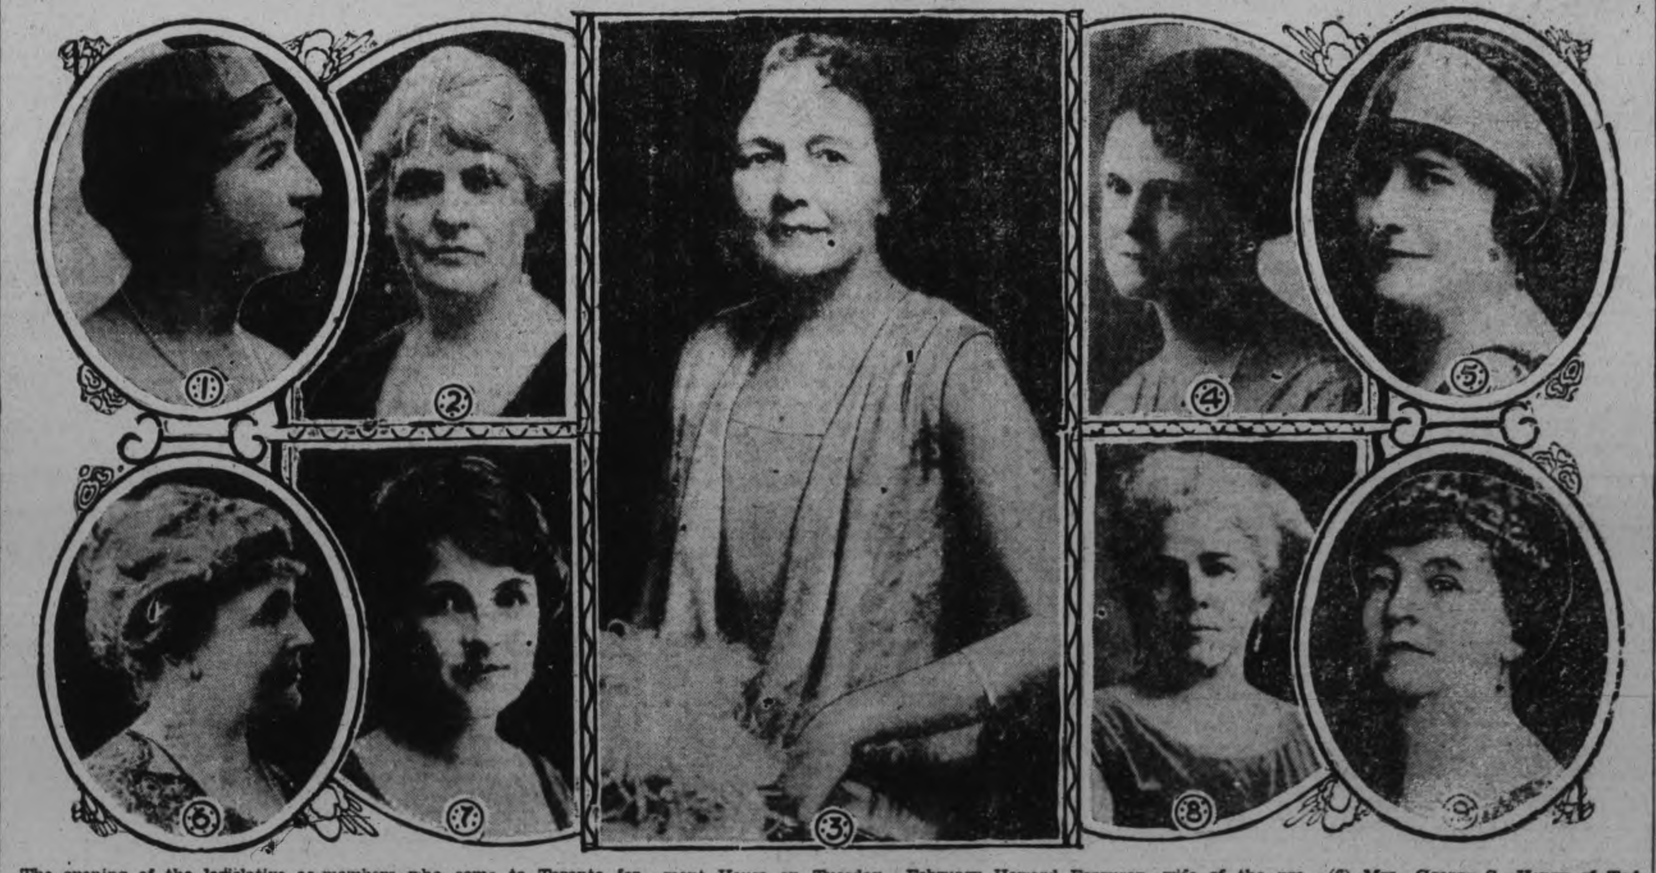
The Answers.

1. The same form in which it was given, whether by note, card or phone.

2. Write a note, using the same impersonal form the invitation employs.

3. Promptly, preferably within 48 hours.

TO BE HOSTESSES AT ONTARIO HOUSE OPENING



The opening of the legislative assembly of the province on Ontario on Thursday afternoon, Feb. 9, will be followed by a series of receptions and luncheon parties given by the wives of parliamentary dignitaries of the province for the wives of the Ontario members who come to Toronto for the opening ceremonies. The above group of ladies who will act officially as hostesses of the government includes (1) Mrs. William D. Ross, wife of the lieutenant-governor, who entertains at luncheon at Government House on Tuesday, February 14; (2) Mr.s W. D. Black, wife of the Speaker, who is holding a reception in the Speaker's apartment at the Parliament Buildings immediately following the opening of the House on Thursday; (3) Mrs. G. Howard Ferguson, wife of the premier, who will entertain for the member's wives very shortly; (4) Mrs. Charles McCrea of Sudbury, wife of the minister of mines; (5) Mrs. John S. Martin, Port Dover, wife of the minister of agriculture; (6) Mrs. George S. Henry of Todmorden, wife of the minister of public works and highways; (7) Mrs. W. H. Price, wife of the attorney-general; (8) Mrs. Forbes Godfrey, wife of the minister of Labor and Health; (9) Mrs. Hunter Ogilvie, wife of the sergeant-at-arms.

Les Canadiens Defeat Toronto Leafs 2-1

IPPLED LEAFS OLD VISITORS TO SMALL LEAD

Bailey Gives Toronto Team First Goal, But Penalties Offset Lead.

FINAL SCORE 2-1.

Canadiens Score Both Goals While Losers Play Three Men To Six.

TORONTO, Feb. 8 (Canadian Press).—Cecil Hart's Flying Frenchmen made their second visit of the season to Toronto last night, and, while they carried off the victory as on the previous visit, there was a difference. Without wishing to probe the painful past, it will be remembered that the Leafs were considerably snowed under on the first occasions. Last night, before another near-capacity crowd at the Arena Gardens, the Canadiens were only able to defeat the badly-crippled Leafs by a two to one count, and their two tallies came at a time when the local opposition was reduced to something lower than a forlorn hope. In addition, the game provided more thrills than a fog-bound trans-Atlantic flight and it stirred the fans to such a pitch at one point that it began to appear as if police protection for the referees would be necessary.

While there were many thrills in the first and last periods, the midways session was the most dramatic of the three. All the goal-getting was crowded into this frame, and most of the trobule. The contest was warming up into a spirited and highly exciting pastime, with both teams striving for the first goal following a goalless first period, when the big upset came. Irving Bailey gave the battling Leafs the edge when he fooled George Hainsworth by circling the Canadiens' net and pushed the puck through the goalkeeper's feet into the goal. It was an advantage the Canadiens pressed hard to overcome and under a stream of speedy attacks of Morenz, Joliat, and Lepine, the Leafs drew three successive penalties and the contest became a joke. Duncan was penalized for a bodycheck behind his own blue line, Rodden was banned for holding the puck, and Cox for another bodycheck.

Under this handicap the Leafs wilted. Three men, one of them the goalkeeper, cannot stand up under the systematic attack of any team, especially when that team possesses the leading scorers in the League. The wonder is the flying Frenchmen did not run up a much larger total. Roach, whose display of net guarding all through the game was featured with remarkable stops and saves, stood up against a bombardment that few goalkeepers are called upon to face, and the two goals that beat him were more than well earned. While the crowd booed the referees and hurled papers, programs, rubbers, and coins on the ice, the little goalkeeper held the Canadiens at bay until Leduc finally wormed his way into the goal-mouth almost by sheer strength and tied the score. A minute and a half later the brilliant Morenz beat Roach with what proved to be the winning tally when he drove one of his bullet-like shots straight into the net from fifteen feet in front while Roach's view was partially obscured by one of the Toronto defence men.

THIS GAME WILL GET A WINNER

Havelock and Lakefield Will Battle It Out Tonight If Extra Time is Necessary.

The Lakefield and Havelock hockey teams appear to be the two most closely matched hockey teams in the Intermediate O.H.A.

To date they have played five games, and the goals scored are a par.

The final game is being played at Brock Street Rink to-night, when the citizens of both towns will move in a body to Peterborough to see their favorites play.

Lakefield has been the most stubborn opposition that Havelock has met in the first two rounds in many years, and as the district must be decided even if overtime is necessary a great battle is expected.

Illinois Commission Suspends Dave Barry

CHICAGO Ills. Feb. 8.—Canadian Press.—Dave Barry, the 'long count" referee of the Tunney-Dempsey heavyweight championship match last September, was indefinitely suspended and his license revoked yesterday by the Illinois State Athletic Committee for refereeing in an unlicensed boxing exhibition at an hotel following an auto show banquet on Feb. 2.

Dave Adelman of Philadelphia and Eddie Anderson of Moline, Ills., the participants in the exhibition were given the same sentence.

MADOC WINS 2-1.

MADOC, Feb. 8.—Hockey fans enjoyed the game of hockey played on the Madoc rink on Friday evening when the local senior hockey team met Frankford.

Owing to the heavy roads the visitors arrived very late and were late starting, but an excellent game was played throughout.

During the first period the local team scored two goals, and after that it seemed impossible for either team to secure any advantage. The second period passed and the greater part of the third without any tally for either team, when in the last few minutes the Frankford men broke through and made their one goal. The final score was 2 to 1 for the Madoc team.

CHURCH TEAMS PLAY TO 4-4 TIE

St. Paul's and Park St. Play to Even Count in Junior League Game.

GOOD HOCKEY

Park street tied St. Paul's 4-4 in a junior church league game played at the Brock street rink last night. Both teams were well matched and showed a good exhibition of fast hockey. St. Paul's scored the first tally of the game five minutes after the play began and Park street tied the count shortly after. St. Paul's again took the lead with Park street evening the count just before the bell rang.

In the second period both teams scored double tallies to end game in a 4-4 tie. The line up:

Park street: Goal M. Wilson; defence J. Huggins and R. Killingbeck; centre, H. Epps; wings, G. Palmer and J. Taylor; subs., H. Miller.

St. Paul's: Goal, C. Kearns; defence, D. Snelgrove and H. Chenhall; centre, Gemmell; wings, C. Rose and A. Doughty; subs., M. Bennett H. Westbrook and R. Stinson.

Referee, Johnny Ward.

A return game will be played in the Brock street rink on Friday night.

Maple Leafs Defeated.

MARMORA PLAYS TO TIE SCORE 4-4

Homesters Fail to Break Count With Tweed in Overtime Play.

MARMORA, Feb. 8.—Playing overtime on a score of 4-4 Marmora failed to defeat Tweed Steel Trough Co. on Monday evening on the local rink, the score being unchanged at the finish. A good crowd turned out to view this exhibition fixture. Early in the first period Neal was penalized and while that player was off the ice Tweed, showing the better combination, scored through Breen. McGowan received a slight injury in this frame. The period closed with Tweed leading by a solitary goal. In the second Scott loomed large in the picture for Marmora, making several spectacular rushes. Breen scored on a rebound from the corner. Scott soon reduced the visitors' lead by taking the puck up centre and shooting successfully from the blue line. His popularity with the fans increased a few minutes later as he again scored. His fast rushes and neat stick-handling made him conspicuous in this period, in which Marmora appeared to have a slight edge on their opponents. Tweed scored twice more early in the third, McGowan and F. Geraldi beating Murray. Leal and Neal as the result of neat stick-handling, evened the score. In the closing stages both teams made hard rushes without success.

Teams—

Marmora—Goal, R. Murray; right defence, F. Leal; left defence, E. Bennett; centre, G. Scott; right wing, M. Auger; left wing, R. Neal. Subs, J. Clairmont. Subs, G. Speagle, H. Dorie, J. Finnegan.

Goal umpires — Dan Shannon, R. Bartlett, Mr. Alphonse Shannon.

TANKARD GAMES ARE COMMENCED

All Being Played On Artificial Ice For the First Time.

TORONTO, February 8, (Canadian Press). — For the first time in the history of the Ontario Tankard, the blue ribbon of curling in the Province, all the Tankard games proper are being played on artificial ice. They commenced on three Toronto rinks thus equipped to-day, with sixteen rinks engaged, all but two of them from points outside Toronto.

Curling

MILLBROOK, Feb. 8.— The local curling club has arranged the following schedule of games in the Scotch doubles series for the Waddell Cup:

J. E. Allen and H. Lancashire vs. T. H. Bradbury and W. Thorne.

L. C. Russell and I. L. H. Gray vs. E. J. Grassett and V. C. Lambert.

J. Steele and W. Fodden vs. J. Lancashire and E. J. Armstrong.

W. T. Wood and V. R. Hunter vs. W. G. Hetherington and P. Stinson.

J. N. McGill and Dr. L. J. Stuart vs. J. A. Vance and W. O'Brien.

H. B. Allen and H. R. Scott vs. G. W Sayles and R. W. Smith.

W. E. Ball and C. C. Garside vs. T. H. Collins and L. H. Hutchison.

H. R. Edmunds and L. H. Winslow vs. A. A. Smith and Dr. N. H. Young.

R. H. Edmunds and G. Raper vs. Geo. Hetherington and H. R. Armstrong.

The two rinks of local curlers who went to Peterborough last week and competed in the annual bonspiel were: T. H. Bradley, W. G. Hetherington, J. N. McGill and J. Steele, skip; T. H. Collins, W. E. Ball, G. W. Sayles, and R. H. Edmunds, skip.

The latter rink had a splendid record, winning five straight games in a day. They were runners up for the Peterborough Trophy, bringing home the second prize, smokers' sets in tooled brass. In the games for this trophy they defeated Dobbin of Peterborough, Perry of Oshawa, Nelson of Keene, but lost to Armstrong of Stouffville, by a score of 15-11. They were also competing for the Waddell Trophy, defeating Bryden of Lindsay, and Hare of Oshawa.

Five games of continuous play throughout one day, the final one not completed until considerably past midnight, with the necessity of being on the ice again by 9 a.m., meant a decidedly strenuous program, and doubtless herein lay the reason one of the cups did not come to Millbrook this year.

The Carew Cup, which the rink skipped by R. H. Edmunds won from W. Oke, of Peterborough, last season, will probably be played for on local ice within the next week or ten days, a rink of the Granite Club, Toronto, coming here for the game. Should the cup be lost by the present holders, Cobourg is next in line in the competition.

A 'double header' was played at the curling rink on Friday evening, the result being:

L. J. Stuart, R. Smith, T. H. Bradley, J. Steele, skip, 3, vs. G. Raper, H. J. Armstrong, J. A. Vance, L. C. Russell, skip 15.

L. H. Gray, H. R. Armstrong, A. A. Smith, J. E. Allen, skip 12, vs. Stuart, Smith, Bradley, J. Steele, skip 9.

V. R. Hunter, W. O'Brien, G. Hetherington, R. H. Edmunds, skip 10, vs. H. Lancaster, Dr. Young, J. Lancashier, W. E. Ball, skip 8.

Gray, Armstrong, Smith, J. E. Allen, skip 9, vs. H. R. Scott, W. Thorne, W. G. Hetherington, J. N. McGill, skip 7.

Through the courtesy of Mrs. F. P. Stinson a generous lunch was brought to the rink about ten p.m., the curlers thoroughly enjoying the hot coffee, sandwiches and cake generously provided for their refreshment before play was resumed.

A game in the local inter-rink competition for the Allen Cup was played off on Monday afternoon, H. R. Edmunds defeating H. B. Allen by a score of 11-4.

OTTAWA PLAYERS AMONG LEADERS

Kilrea and Finnigan Listed With First Eight Scorers in N.H.L.

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 8 (Canadian Press).—Features of the official statistics compiled by the National Hockey League for games up to and including those of last Sunday, are the upward climb of Kilrea and Finnigan, the youthful scorers of the Ottawa Senators, among the goal-getters of the loop, and the stress that is laid on the loss to Toronto of Bill Carson and Happy Day.

The two Ottawa lads are now among the first eight scorers in the Canadian division, having gone forward rapidly in the last ten days. Toronto's loss is emphasized in that Bill Carson, when he was injured was tied for third place among N.H.L. scorers, while Happy Day was in the first ten, and led the defence players of the circuit as a scoring threat.

Howie Morenz continued to lead the scoring parade, with Joliat still in second position. George Ray, Detroit; Gagne, Canadiens; and Carson, Toronto, are tie in third place. Eddie Shore of Boston, still leads the penalty list with 106 minutes while Ching Johnson of the Rangers is second with 93 minutes spent with the timers. Art Duncan, Toronto defenceman, is third, while Joliat, of Canadiens, leads the forwards in penalties with 61 minutes.

Boxing Promoters Bring Down Prices

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—One of these days when boxing returns to normalcy a fight fan will be able to walk up to the box office and ask for a $2 or a $3 ticket without being ashamed to look the ticket seller in the eye.

The sooner other boxing centres follow the lead of Detroit and Los Angeles in taking inflated figures out of fight tickets the better it will be for all hands concerned. The fan is getting tired of shelling out his hard-earned money, sometimes for shabby contests that would disgrace a pair of novices.

In Detroit last week the Loayza-McGraw bout drew a bumper crowd of 15,000 fans. This figure topped the attendance at the two contests between McGraw and Sid Terris staged previously in New York. On the strength of Sid's ranking among the lightweights McGraw and Terris should have been a beter drawing card than McGraw and Loayza. But the popular prices prevailing in Detroit drew the crowd and the McGraw-Loayza contest was the better one any way you look at it.

Los Angeles also believes in giving the fans a run for their money. The California city wins the plaudits of the fight bugs by offering the prospected Paolino Uzcudun-George Godfrey battle at a $5 top.

MELHORN TAKES GOLF HONORS

Has Aggregate Score of 297 for 72-Hole Event in Texas Tourney.

PLAYS GOOD GAME

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Feb. 8 (A.P.)—"Wild Bill" Melhorn won the Texas open golf crown yesterday with an aggregate score of 297 for the 72-hole event.

The Pittsburgh professional lived up to his nickname in taking the laurels from a field of stars after a closing 36 hole drive in which he shot one brilliant round of 68 for 18 holes and climaxed it with an erratic 79 that barely enabled him to finish one stroke ahead of "Light Horse" Harry Cooper, the youthful Buffalo pro.

Melhorn's total of 147 yesterday slightly bettered his showing in the first 36 holes of the tournament in which he scored 150. His score of 197 is the highest ever to win the Texas open.

With the victory, Melhorn acquired a purse of $1,500. Harry Cooper, with a 298, won $800, and the "Wee Scot," Bobby Cruickshank, won third money of $500 finishing with an even 300.

"Wild Bill" shot good and bad gold he established a new course record of 31 in the first nine of the morning and his 60 equalled the course record for 18 holes. In the afternoon he slipped badly, but pulled himself together on the final nine to nose out Cooper. The latter started the last round three stokes behind Melhorn and had a wonderful opportunity to win, but was unable to shoot better than a 77.

Cruickshank, in the meantime, collected a 75 in his late round. A mistake of the scorer almost gave Bobby a 299, but the little Scotsman returned to the statistician and pointed out the mistake. As it turned out, it made no difference in his final standing.

PELL CAPTURES RACQUETS TITLE

Wins Stirring Victory Over British Titleholder for International Trophy.

THREE TO TWO

NEW YORK, Feb. 8 (Canadian Press).—A stirring victory by Clarence C. Pell, American champion, over the British titleholder, J. C. F. Simpson, in the final match, won the international racquets trophy yesterday for the United States, three matches to two. The scores were 15—8, 15—12, and 15—6.

The other American singles victory was scored by Hewitt Morgan, runner-up for the American title last year, who defeated P. W. Kemp-Welch, 6—15, 15—8, 15—9, 15—10. In the third singles match, C. N. Bruce of England won from Stanley G. Mortimer, 15—9, 14—13 15—4, 13—15, 15—8. The teams broke even in the doubles last Sunday.

Playing his usual hard-driving game, Pell held the upper hand throughout his match. Simpson led 5—2 at the beginning of the first game, but Pell soon evened the score and drew ahead to win easily.

The second game was more evenly fought. Neither player had a commanding lead at any time, and Simpson drew up once to tie the score at 10—all. In the third game, Pell had little trouble winning.

The other two singles matches were harder fought but neither sparkled with the brilliance of the Pell-Simpson encounter. Morgan rallied after a slow start to conquer Kemp-Welch, but Mortimer was unable to sustain a pace, that, in the second game, enabled him to come from behind and win after trailing at 20—14.

SPORT BITS

Tenders Resignation.

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 8. — George Prodger yesterday afternoon tendered his resignation as manager of the London Can-Pro Hockey team, and Bill Holmes was appointed temporary coach. It is said that Prodger will next year manage a pro team in Toledo Ohio.

Uzcudon Admitted.

EL PASO, Texas, Feb. 8. — Canadian Press. — Paoline Uzcudun, the Spanish heavyweight, was admitted to the United States from Juarez, Mexico, yesterday, after being detained 36 hours by the immigration authorities because his passport had expired. With the passport renewed Uzcudun left with his manager, Al Mayer for Los Angeles to begin training for his bout with George Godfrey on Feb. 28.

Miller To Play For Niagara Falls

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 8 (Canadian Press). — Joe Miller, formerly of Ottawa, goalkeeper of New York Americans, played his last game in that position last night.

It was announced that Miller will leave for Niagara Falls to play in the Canadian-Professional league, and Vermon Forbes, the "Jumping Jakie" of the New York fans, will go back to the American nets.

HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMPION AT MIAMI

Gene Tunney in two characteristic poses at Miami, Fla., where he is enjoying himself on the links. Tunney is an ardent devotee of the royal and ancient game and although he is never likely to be a Walter Hagen, he can show the way to many of the alleged stars. That he has the bug "badly" is evidenced by the fact that when he was told that Dempsey had announced that he would never box again, he said: "I hope it is not true; but in any event my golf game is the only thing that is worrying me now."

NEW CAMP FOR LEAFS

Toronto Club Will Report at Albany, Ga., Instead of Augusta.

NEW PLAYERS

TORONTO, Feb. 8.—It will be Albany, Ga., and not Augusta in the new state that will be the training headquarters of the Leafs this spring. Knotty Lee, it is said, has reported favorably in this regard and rather than take pot luck at Ty Cobb's home town in the matter of hotel accommodation and grounds to Toronto club will shift to Albany. The latter place has a fine diamond and the conveniences otherwise are of the best.

Sumpter Clarke, one of the new outfielders of the Toronto club, was playing manager of the club at Albany last year and it was at his suggestion that President Solman's attention was originally attracted to the city. Clarke, who was under contract with Cleveland a year ago but who was given his release so that he could sign as a manager, has accepted terms and his documents are in the Toronto club's strong box. He played with Baltimore and later with the Red Sox.

Lyn Lester Bobo, late of the United States navy, who has a fine reputation as a pitcher, has also forwarded his contract. He was signed a year ago but couldn't secure his release from the navy and was place on the suspended list. His time was up and the right hander will be given a trial the coming season. Outfielder Burdine, a collegian with a good record as a slugger, southpaw Bill Martin of Pittsburgh, infielder Daubenspeck, a protege of Fred Hersche, ex-comedian and pitcher, and infielder Hasselman of Wheeling, are the others who have fallen into line. The latter is not likely to be kept.

It is planned to have the Toronto twirlers report to coach Fred Burchell at Albany a few days before the regular squad, who are due to be on the grounds on March 12. Last year the team made an earlier start but as the International season will not open quite as early this spring as in other season this will not make any difference. The Leafs tackle the Bears at Newark on April 18 and play the first series at home with the same club on May 2, as compared with April 13 and April 28 last year.

Covering 7300 square miles, Canada's new national game preserve has been named Wood Buffalo Park and already has 6000 buffalo. The park is half the size of Scotland.

WELL SPOKEN, MAJOR!

WES BARRY BACK ON THE SCREEN

Has a Prominent Role in "In Old Kentucky", a Racing Melodrama

Wesley Barry, whose freckles and ability to act in juvenile roles at one time made him the most famous child actor on the American screen, will make his film come-back tomorrow at the Capitol Theatre, where he will be seen in the famous racing melodrama, "In Old Kentucky", which John M. Stahl has just directed for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer with James Murray and Helene Costello in the featured romantic roles.

Barry, who has now passed the "awkward age" which usually removes juveniles from the screen for a certain period, will be seen minus all his freckles in the role of Skippy, the jockey in the A. P. Younger screen play suggested by the famous old racing melodrama of the speaking stage, that was written by Charles Dazey.

As a red-haired, freckle-faced youngster, Wesley went into pictures when he was less than ten years of age. He was one of the popular hits of the screen when he played with Mary Pickford in "Daddy Longlegs" and with Blanche Sweet in "The Unpardonable Sin" and "A Woman of Pleasure." Later he was seen in Anita Stewart's "Her Kingdom of Dreams" and C. B. DeMille's "Male and Female."

But his greatest fame came to him when he was starred by Director Marshall Neilan, then an independent producer, in a number of film vehicles which made him the most popular child actor of that time.

After leaving the screen Wesley toured the country in vaudeville, and, despite his youth, married and shook the dust of Hollywood from his shoes.

Now he is back again on the screen—sans freckles, but Wesley, just the same. Enticed by the role of Skippy, which is one of the most important in the picture, he has re-entered pictures to stay.

James Murray, who has the featured male role in the production, recently appeared opposite Eleanor Boardman in King Vidor's big twelve reel special, "The Crowd". Because of his great interpretation of the role of "John Simms" in that picture he was given the male lead in "In Old Kentucky."

PLEASING FINANCIAL STATEMENT OF GREAT WEST LIFE ASSURANCE CO.

Increases In All Departments—Total Business in Force at End of Year $502,544,842.

The financial statement of the Great West Life Assurance Company, which is appearing in to-day's paper, was the subject of congratulations at the annual meeting of the Company recently held.

Some very interesting facts were brought out at the meeting.

1927 was the best year in the Company's history and at the first of the year there was $502,544,842.00 of business in force.

Another feature of the report showed the reduction in the expense rates and this, together with other favorable experiences in all other respects, has resulted in very large surplus earnings, making it possible for the liberal scale of profits to policy holders to be maintained.

Increases were shown over 1926 in every department.

In new business issued an increase of $2,668,226.00; business in force, an increase of $45,237,263.00; Increase in assets, $11,388,943.04; Increase in income, $2,090,186.18; Increase in provision for future profits to policyholders, $837,859.00; Increase in unassigned profits and contingency reserve, $331,456.01; Increase in gross surplus earnings, $746,426.53.

Altogether the directors' report is one that should be pleasing to both the policy holders and to the shareholders.

MRS. PETER BAPTIE RECEIVES FRIENDS

Many People Call to Greet Her on 86th Birthday Anniversary.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 8.—Candlemas Day was bright and clear and many of Lakefield's residents took advantage of the fine weather to pay their respects to one of Lakefield's best-known octogenarians, Mrs. Peter Baptie, on the occasion of her 86th birthday. Mrs. Baptie, who does not look her years, welcomed her friends in her hospitable manner. Besides her sister, Mrs. James Baptie, her four daughters, Mrs. E. Sellers of Hamilton, Mrs. Stevenson and Mrs. A. M. Bowen of Toronto, and Mrs. H. J. Sutton of Lakefield, there were present two nieces, Mrs. J. J. Turner and Mrs. James Vincent of Peterboro. During the afternoon and evening many friends and neighbors called informally. The living-room was fragrant with the perfume of the choice hothouse blooms sent with their messages of love and good wishes by many friends. The callers included old and young, men and women and children, who in the rush of life's busy whirl, ran in for a few minutes with a message of good-will and the wish that God would send His richest blessing on her declining years.

CARRY ON!

Field Marshal Earl Haig, who is mourned this week throughout the Empire, saw in the British Empire Service League the fulfilment of his greatest hope—the unity of ex-service men throughout the Empire.

To this organization he devoted his life after the guns had ceased to roll, and before his death he had seen branches organized everywhere the British flag flies.

Earl Haig has passed on—as so many men who fought for the Empire are daily passing—but his organization has been built on solid ground and it will heed his command to "Carry On."

Of the nine million people in Canada, only a few thousand are privileged to join this association of ex-service men. Are you one of the few—and are you going to help the Canadian Legion carry on in the spirit of the late Commander, Earl Haig?

Join on Sunday in the tribute which all returned men will pay to the late Commander-in-Chief of the British Armies, and then associate yourself with the work which he left to you to do.

THE "CANARY" MURDER CASE

© Charles Scribner's Sons

by S. S. VAN DINE AUTHOR of THE BENSON MURDER CASE

THE STORY THUS FAR

The jewel case had been opened with a chisel after being battered with a poker. And this puzzles Vance when it is found near the strangled body of Margaret Odell. It makes him think two men were in the apartment, the murderer unaware of the man hiding in a clothes closet. In no way can the presence of even one be accounted for. Finger-prints lead to the arrest of Skeel, after Cleaver and Dr. Lindquist are questioned and Spootswoode's known actions eliminate him. Vance shoots a sudden question at Skeel: "Why didn't you give the alarm?"

• • •

CHAPTER XXI.

"Don't bother to answer," pursued Vance, as the man opened his lips to speak. "But tell me: didn't the sight shake you up a bit?"

"I don't know what you're talking about," Skeel retorted with sullen impertinence. But, for all his sang-froid, one sensed an uneasiness in his manner. There was an overtone of effort in his desire to appear indifferent, which robbed his words of complete conviction.

"Not a pleasant situation, that." Vance ignored his retort. "How did you feel, crouching there in the dark, when the closet door-knob was turned and some one tried to get in?" His eyes were boring into the man, though his voice retained its casual intonation.

The muscles of Skeel's face tightened, but he did not speak.

"Lucky thing you took the precaution of locking yourself in—eh, what?" Vance went on. "Suppose he'd got the door open—my word! Then what? . . ."

He paused and smiled with a kind of silky sweetness which was more impressive than any glowering aggression.

"I say, did you have your steel chisel ready for him? Maybe he'd have been too quick and strong for you—maybe there would have been thumbs pressing against your larynx too before you could have struck him—eh? . . . Did you think of that, there in the dark? . . . No, not precisely a pleasant situation. A bit gruesome, in fact."

"What are you raving about?" Skeel spat out insolently. "You're balmy." But his swagger had been forgotten, and a look akin of horror had passed across his face. This slackening of pose was momentary, however; almost at once his smirk returned, and his head swayed in contempt.

Vance sauntered back to his chair and stretched himself in it listlessly, as if all his interest in the case had again evaporated.

Markham had watched the little drama attentively, but Heath had sat smoking with ill-concealed annoyance. The silence that followed was broken by Skeel.

"Well, I suppose I'm to be railroaded. Got it all planned, have you? . . . Try and railroad me!" He laughed harshly. "My lawyer's Abe Rubin, and you might phone him that I'd like to see him."*

Markham, with a gesture of annoyance, waved to the deputy sheriff to take Skeel back to the Tombs.

"What were you trying to get at?" he asked Vance, when the man was gone.

"Just an elusive notion in the depths of my being struggling for the light." Vance smoked placidly for a moment. "I thought Mr. Skeel might be persuaded to pour out his heart to us. So I wooed him with words."

"That's just bully," gibed Heath. "I was expecting you any minute to ask him if he played mumbly-peg or if his grandmother was a hoot-owl."

"Sergeant, dear Sergeant," pleaded Vance, "don't be unkind. I simply couldn't endure it. . . . And really, now, didn't my chat with Mr. Skeel suggest a possibility to you?"

"Sure," said Heath, "—that he was hiding in the closet when Odell was killed. But where does that get us? It lets Skeel out, although the job was a professional one, and he was caught red-handed with some of the swag."

He turned disgustedly to the district attorney.

"And now, what, sir?"

"I don't like the look of things," Markham complained. "If Skeel has Abe Rubin to defend him, we won't stand a chance with the case we've got. I feel convinced he was mixed up in it; but no judge will accept my personal feelings as evidence."

"We could turn the Dude loose, and have him tailed," suggested Heath grudgingly. "We might catch him doing something that'll give the game away."

Markham considered.

"That might be a good plan," he acceded. "We'll certainly get no more evidence on him as long as he's locked up."

"It looks like our only chance, sir."

"Very well," agreed Markham. "Let him think we're through with him: he may get careless. I'll leave the whole thing to you, Sergeant. Keep a couple of good men on him day and night. something may happen."

Heath rose, an unhappy man.

"Right, sir. I'll attend to it."

"And I'd like to have more data on Charles Cleaver," added Markham. "Find out what you can of his relations with the Odell girl.—Also, get me a line on Doctor Ambroise Lindquist. What's his history?—what are his habits?—you know the kind of thing. He treated the girl for some mysterious or imaginary ailment; and I think he has something up his sleeve. But don't go near him personally—yet."

Heath jotted the name down in his note-book, without enthusiasm.

"And before you set your stylish captive free," put in Vance, yawning, "you might, don't y' know, see if he carries a key that fits the Odell apartment."

Heath jerked up short, and grinned. "Now, that idea's got some sense to it. . . . Funny I didn't think of it myself." And shaking hands with all of us, he went out.

(Wednesday, September 12; 10:30 a. m.)

Swacker was evidently waiting for an opportunity to interrupt, for, when Sergeant Heath had passed through the door, he at once stepped into the room.

"The reporters are here, sir," he announced, with a wry face. "You said you'd see them at ten-thirty."

In response to a nod from his chief, he held open the door, and a dozen or more newspaper men came trooping in.

"No questions, please, this morning," Markham begged pleasantly. "It's too early in the game. But I'll tell you all I know. . . . I agree with Sergeant Heath that the Odell murder was the work of a professional criminal—the same who broke into Arnheim's house on Park Avenue last summer."

Briefly he told of Inspector Brenner's findings in connection with the chisel.

"We've made no arrests, but one may be expected in the very near future. In fact, the police have the case well in hand, but are going carefully in order to avoid any chance of an acquittal. We've already recovered some of the missing jewelry. . . ."

He talked to the reporters for five minutes or so, but he made no mention of the testimony of the maid or the phone operators, and carefully avoided the mention of any names.

When we were again alone, Vance chuckled admiringly.

"A masterly eavsion, my dear Markham! Legal training has its advantages —decidedly it has its advantages. . . . 'We've recovered some of the missing jewelry!' Sweet winged words! Not an untruth—oh, no!—but how deceivin'!"

"Leaving all that to one side," Markham rejoined impatiently, "suppose you tell me, now that Heath's gone, what was in your mind when you applied your verbal voodooism to Skeel. What was all the conjurer-talk about dark closets, and alarms, and pressing thumbs, and peering through keyholes?"

"Well, now, I didn't think my little chit-chat was so cryptic," answered Vance. "The 'recherche' Tony was undoubtedly ambuscaded in the clothes-press at some time during the fatal evening; and I was merely striving in my amateurish way, to ascertain the exact hour of his concealment."

"And did you?"

"Not conclusively." Vance shook his head sadly. "Y' know, Markham, I'm the proud possessor of a theory—it's vague and obscure and unsubstantial; and it's downright unintelligible. And even if it were verified, I can't see how it would help us any, for it would leave the situation even more incomprehensible than it already is. . . . I almost wish I hadn't questioned Heath's Beau Nash. He upset my ideas frightfully."

"From what I could gather, you seem to think it possible that Skeel witnessed the murder. That couldn't by any stretch of the imagination, be your precious theory?"

"That's part of it, anyway."

"My dear Vance, you do astonish me!" Markham laughed outright. "Skeel then, according to you, is innocent: but he keeps his knowledge to himself, invents an alibi, and doesn't even tattle when he's arrested. . . . It won't hold water."

"I know," sighed Vance. "It's a veritable sieve. And yet, the notion haunts me—it rides like a hag—it eats into my vitals."

"Do you realize that this mad theory of yours presupposes that, when Spotswoode and Miss Odell returned from the theater, there were two men hidden in the apartment—two men unknown to each other,namely Skeel and your hypothetical murderer?"

"Of course I realize it; and the thought of it is breaking down my reason."

"Furthermore, they must have entered the apartment separately, and hidden separately. . . . How, may I ask, did they get in? And how did they get out? And which one caused the girl to scream after Spotswoode had left? And what was the other one doing in the meantime? And if Skeel was a passive spectator, horrified and mute, how do you account for his breaking open the jewel-case and securing the ring——?"

(To be continued.)

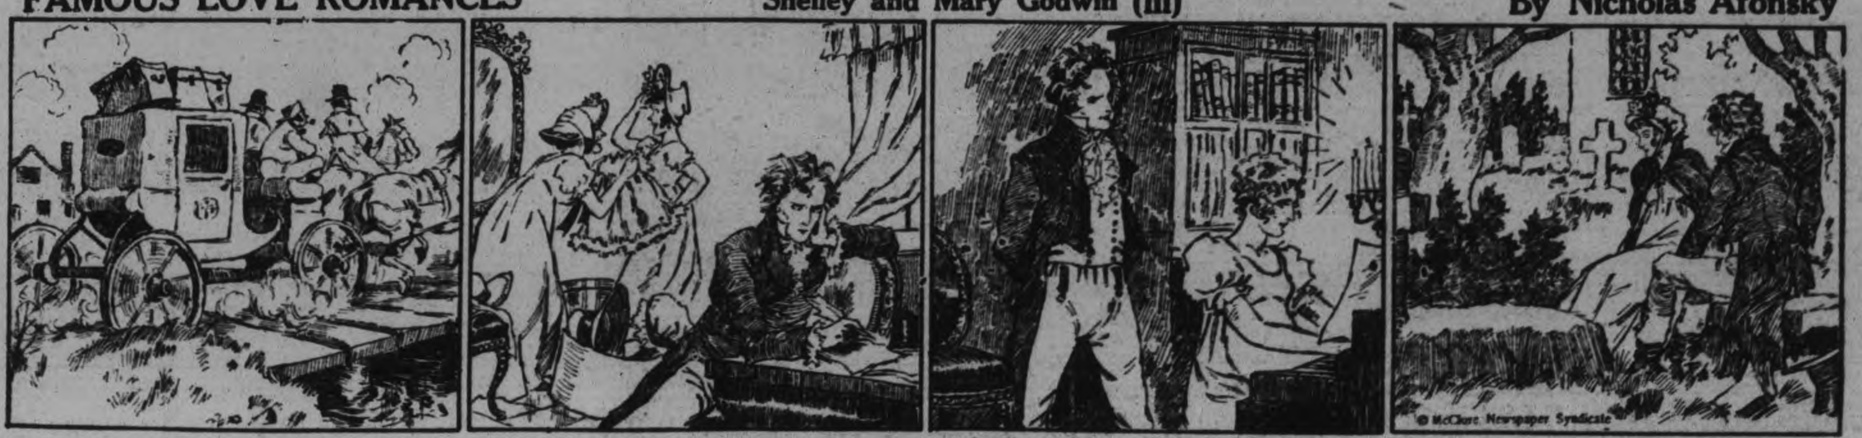
FAMOUS LOVE ROMANCES Shelley and Mary Godwin (III) By Nicholas Afonsky



© McClure Newspaper Syndicate

Harriet Westbrook was delighted when Shelley gallantly suggested that they elope. In August, 1811, they took the mail coach to Edinburgh, where they were married. Shelley had no money, even to pay the marriage fee. They lived at first in a hand-to-mouth sort of way.

When they were married Shelley and Harriet agreed to separate if they grew uncongenial. At first they were happy, but Harriet's lavish spending for silver plate, clothes and a carriage threw them into debt. Her older sister, Eliza, who lived with and bossed them, made Shelley miserable.

So they decided they were unsuited to each other and separated. Just about this time Shelley first became interested in the daughter of his friend, William Godwin, leader of English radical thought. Mary Godwin was seventeen, with golden hair and a face noted for purity of outline and expression.

They fell in love at first sight. Mary, sharing her father's advanced views, sympathized with Shelley as Harriet never could. She used to go day after day to the grave of her mother in the churchyard to read. Shelley often went with her. What should they do about their growing love?

The Dugout

(By J.R.H.)

Some guys think a war is an excuse to act like they were prehistoric.

A Lieutenant Colonel of Infantry once objected to my calling his three-ring circus an "outfit", and now here comes a conyack artist wig-wagging the information that I've no darn business calling this the "Dugout". "The war is over", says this box car; "let's forget it." Alright; let's. That won't be hard for him. I'll bet the nearest he ever got to powder was when he sprinkled Keatings in the seams of his britches.

And why does anyone want to bust up this party right away anyhow? I've never liked guys who bust up parties, and by heck nobody's going to plant his hobnails on my neck in this dump. Not that there's any comparison, but just for instance, there's some fellows want to bust up the Legion, even. They've crabbed about little things and hit it with everything but the gas alarm, but it is still going on doing its work. Same here.

Hang together, gang. When a fellow's down and needs help he wants the old gang—and if we are not there it's like being up an unmentionable creek without a paddle for him.

And meantime, don't any more of you drop jam cans down this dugout, and just for fear you and me might disagree, you'd better park your pigsticker in the sandbags outside.

Somebody nave something nice to say to me tomorrow, forth.luvofmud.

THE SONG OF THE TELEPHONE MAN.

(Sent by Clayton Martin)

This is the song of a telephone man
The man with the buzzer-box
With dirty face and filthy clothes
With mud-covered hair and eyes and nose
Who gets no sleep but a fitful dose
Who daily does work of which no one knows
Who's life is any old color but rose—
The poor D......d telephone an.

Who ever thinks of the telephone man
The man with the constant grouse
If he's a 'phone man his life's a curse
If he's a lineman, its something worse
In either case he'll need a nurse
Or else a stretcher in lieu of a hearse
And, as an epitaph something terse—
This was a telephone man.

What is the work of a telephone man
The man who's the cause of this song?
It's to be on duty both early and late
With a black buzzing phone for his only mate;
Unless he's a lineman who all men hate
And who, if he's lucky can sleep on a gate
Who gives a d....for at any rate—
He's only a telephfone man.

What does he do when the shrapnel screams,
This man who is no one's friend
He may be asleep when he hears the shout
Line's gone again, send a lineman out
It's a job for him not the slightest doubt
He may come back at the end of the bout
Or he may be found by a Uhlan scout—
It's his work he's a telephone man.

And what does he do when the battle's done?
Does he live and sleep like a man?
No, he pinches and steals his neighbor's wire
And denies the fact with curses dire
Taking no heed to the other's ire
And St. Peter above stutters, "What a liar"
While Satan chuckles and rakes up his fire—
For the poor doomed telephone man.

WEDDING BELLS

HOUGHTON—WALDRON

A quiet pretty wedding was solemnized in the Sacred Heart Church on Feb. 7th; Rev. Father Moloney officiating, when Irene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Waldron, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Frederick, son of Mrs. G. Houghton.

The bride was dressed in rose crepe, with stockings and shoes and hat to match. The bride's sister acting as bridesmaid, while Mr. G. Furphy supported the bridegroom. The happy young couple will reside in Peterborough.

A buffet luncheon was served at the bride's home after the ceremony.

PAINTER—YEARRON.

The marriage was solemnized at half past one o'clock to-day in Park Street Baptist church by Rev. J. L. Harton, of Ivy Rosaline, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Yearron, of London, England, to George F. Panter, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. George Panter, of Frank street.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her cousin, Mr. Frank Cleveland, of Toledo, Ohio, to the strains of the wedding march played by Mr. Cecil Lapp. She wore a pretty gown of blue canton crepe with blue hat and black satin slippers. Her bouquet was of Easter lilies.

The bridesmaid, Miss Ethel Tucker, was in yellow silk crepe with black hat and bouquet of spring flowres.

Mr. Hubert Panter, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents on Frank street. Mr. and Mrs. Panter leave to-morrow for a honeymoon trip, after which they will reside at 228 Rubidge street.

The gift of the bridegroom to the bride was a pearl necklace, to the bridesmaid a purse and to the best man a silver cigarette case.

WHITE—ROGERS.

A quiet but pretty wedding took place this morning at the Church of the Sacred Heart, when Rev. C. Moloney performed the ceremony which united in the holy bonds of matrimony Catharine May Cecilia, eldest daughter of Mrs. C. E. Rogers and the late Thomas P. Rogers, and John Wesley White, second youngest son of Mrs. Peter Ayotte and the late William White.

The bride wore a dainty gown of grey georgette, trimmed with rose satin, with hat, shoes and hose to match and shower bouquet of ophelia roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Madeline Charlebois, wore rosewood georgette with black hat, and carried a bouquet of columbia roses. Lorne Rogers, brother of the bride, acted as best man.

After the ceremony, a dainty wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. White leaving on the afternoon train for Toronto, Niagara Falls, Buffalo and Philadelphia. They will reside in Philadelphia.

Many useful and beautiful gifts were received by the young couple. The gift of the bridegroom to the bridesmaid was a gold mounted rosary and to the best man a pair of gold cuff links.

RESIGNS MINISTRY.

Dr. Otto Gessler has resigned the German Ministry of War, a tired man, broken by family misfortunes. His problem was perhaps the most impossible of all the Versailles peace conditions—the problems of disarming Germany in the midst of an over-militarized Europe.

MRS TALLEY ACQUITTED.

Jury Returns Verdict Without Hearing Evidence For Defence.

SIMCOE, February 8 (Canadian Press). — Mrs. Tessie Talley, of Deli, Ont., was acquitted, at the Assizes here to-day, of a charge of murdering her husband. The jury brought in a verdict of not guilty.

As the Crown rested its case, the defence asked Mr. Justice Rose if he considered it necessary that the defence put in any evidence. The jury was asked to retire and some argument ensued in Court. The jurors were recalled and asked if they required evidence from the defence. They did not, but returned the verdict.

GRADS GET BYE AT OLYMPICS

Will Play Series of Three Games With European Winners.

OPPOSE METHOD.

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, February 8 (Canadian Press). — Because of the absence of a United States team from the Olympic hockey competition, Canada has been awarded the unprecedented honor of being chosen arbitrarily for the finals. The remaining ten nations will be divided into three groups, the winner of each to play Canada in a series of three matches on February 17, 18, and 19.

A spirited but friendly argument ensued between W. A. Hewitt, of Toronto, who is manager of the Canadian Olympic winter sports team, including the hockey team and the skiers, and the officials conducting the winter sports, which commence on Saturday.

The Olympic officials proposed that the ten European teams entered be divided into three groups, and that the Grads play the winners of each group. Two of these groups would consist of three teams and the other group of four teams.

It was pointed out, however, that this would result in the Grads being inactive until the end of next week except perhaps for games among themselves.

Obituary

HERBERT ROSEBOROUGH.

The death took place at his late residence, on the 7th concession of Smith, early this morning Feb. 7th, of Herbert Roseborough, who was born and lived in the district for the entire fifty eight years of his lifetime. Known to a wide circle of friends, and a member of Selwyn Lodge, C.O.O.F., deceased was highly respected by those friends and fellow members of that lodge. He leaves to mourn, a sorrowing wife and two sons, Archie, of Peterborough, and Bruce, of Rochester, N. Y.

The funeral will take place from his late residence in Smith township on Friday, Feb. 10, proceeding to the Lakefield cemetery for interment.

Service at the house will be conducted by the Rev. Mr. Wesley at 2 p.m. the cortege leaving half an hour later.

MRS. GEORGE PRICE.

BETHANY, Feb. 8. — The funeral service of the late Mrs. George Price, who passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William Bigelow, Cavan on Thursday last, Feb. 2nd, after an illness of several weeks, following an accident several days before Christmas, when she had the misfortune to slip on the floor of her home, breaking her hip, was held in the United Church on Saturday afternoon.

Many old friends and neighbors had gathered to pay their last respects to one whom they had known for many years, so the church was comfortably filled when the funeral cortege arrived.

Rev. A. Poulter, pastor, conducted the services reading as the lesson the 23rd Psalm and choosing as his text Paul's words found in the 4th chapter of 1st Thess., and the 13th verse: "But I would not have you to be ignorant brethren concerning them which are asleep, that ye sorrow not, even as others which have no hope."

The choir sang as an anthem an old favorite hymn of the deceased, "There's a land that is fairer than day."

Six grandsons acted as pall bearers, Harry, Frank and Walter Bigelow, Hilliard and Murray Price and Harold Kincade. Left to mourn the passing of their mother are six sons and two daughters namely George, of Orono, Reuben and Alfred of Alberta; William and Herbert of Toronto, and Walter of this village, and Mrs. William Bigelow and Mrs. Wm. Byers, also of Bethany.

Interment was made in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery, Manvers. Many beautiful floral offerings of sympathy rested on the casket.

MRS. HUGH LOWERY.

BETHANY, February 8. — A sad and totally unexpected death occurred in Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough, on Friday, February 3, when Pauline Staples, beloved wife of Mr Hugh Lowery, passed away after an illness of only three weeks.

Mrs. Lowery was a beloved friend and neighbor to all who knew her, and in the case of sickness or trouble in her neighborhood she was always right there to do what was most needed, and word of her death came as a shock to her many friends.

The funeral service held on Sunday afternoon in quaint old St. Mary's Church, Manvers, was largely attended.

The service was in charge of the rector, Rev. G. Fierheller, whose message was very comforting to the sorrowing friends. Left to mourn is the young husband. Mr. Cephas Staples of Lifford is a brother.

Interment was made in St. Mary's Church Cemetery.

W. R. CORNEIL

The late William R. Corneil, who passed away at his residence, 57 Regal Road, Toronto, recently, was, for many years connected with the Swift Canadian Company and also with the Fearmon Company of Hamilton. For the past eight years he had been manager of the Toronto Municipal Abbatoir.

"There was never a more faithful man in the city service. He performed his duties in an efficient manner," said Property Commissioner Chrisholm, in speaking of him.

He was born in the vicinity of Lindsay, in 1876, a son of the late William Corneil, a pioneer of that vicinity. He received his education at the Lindsay Collegiate Institute, was a member of Shamrock Lodge A.F. and A.M.; Antiquity Chapter L.O.L.; William the Third, No. 140, and Rani Ghar Grotto. He is survived by his wife, formerly Miss Emma Woods of Toronto; one daughter, Norma; his mother, Mrs. Mary Corneil of Lindsay; three brothers, Charles H., Reeve of Mariposa; Norman A., principal of Newmarket Public Schools; and Walter G., residing on the homestead; and two sisters, Ida, of Lindsay, and Mrs. Robert G. Allan of Peterboro.

The Masonic funeral on Wednesday last to Mount Pleasant Cemetery was largely attended. The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful. Rev. Joseph Wassen of Calvin Presbyterian Church conducted the service at his late residence, after which he was borne to his last resting place. The pall-bearers were brothers-in-law of the deceased: H. Woods, Z. Woods, F. Callaghan and W. Corcoran of Toronto; G. Renwick of Montreal, and R. G. Allan of Peterborough.

JOHN McCABE.

The death of John McCabe, of 470 Gilmour Street, occurred at five o'clock yesterday afternoon at St. Joseph's Hospital, after an illness of about seven weeks resulting from a fall.

The late Mr. McCabe was one of the older residents of the city, and had hosts of friends in Peterborough, who will mourn his passing. All through Cent. Ontario he has been a familiar figure for the past eighteen years, in connection with his position as representative of the Quaker Oats Company. At the time of his death, he was also identified with the Stone & Wellington Nurseries.

A good and loving husband and father, a good citizen, a good man in every sense of the word, charitable and kindly, interested in the welfare of friends, neighbors and the community at large, the late John McCabe was a fine example of a Canadian. He was born in Ennisville, near Ottawa, and was identified with the milling business and its ramifications during all his lifetime. For twenty-five years he was associated with his father in the ownership and operation of the Shelter Valley Flour Mill at Grafton, and also lived for two years in Lindsay, prior to removing to Peterborough. His wife, formerly Miss Lily Begley, died a little over a year ago, on January 11, 1927. Survivors are five sons, Vincent M., John P., Leo, Thomas J., and Robert P., all of Peterborough, two daughters, Sister M. Kathleen of the Sisters of St. Joseph, and Miss Eileen, at home; two sisters, Sister M. Viola, Assistant Superior at Mount St. Joseph Convent, and Sister M. Mildred of St. Joseph's Academy, Lindsay, also one brother, Patrick J. McCabe of Rochester, N.Y. One daughter, Kathleen, died twenty-one years ago.

Funeral will take place from the family residence on Friday morning to St. Peter's Cathedral, where Requiem Mass will be sung at nine o'clock, thence to St. Peter's Cemetery for interment.

EVELYN O'BRIEN.

The death took place in Ottawa yesterday, after a lengthy illness, of Evelyn Labbe, wife of Mr. Harry O'Brien, of that city. The deceased was born in Peterborough and lived here for some years, when she went to Ottawa with her parents, and has been a resident of that city since. She was possessed of an excellent voice, and both in Peterborough and in Ottawa she was heard to advantage on numerous occasions.

Her father and mother predeceased her a few years ago, and she leaves now to mourn her loss her husband, Mr. Harry O'Brien, one daughter, Miss Cecile, and a brother, Mr. Harry Labbe, all in Ottawa.

The late Mrs. O'Brien was a good neighbor and friend and will be greatly missed by all those who have made her acquaintance.

The funeral takes place from the family residence, 10 Percy Street, Ottawa, on Friday morning.

REV. T. P. O'CONNOR.

KINGSTON, Ont., Feb. 8 (Canadian Press).—For 22 years parish priest at Napanee, Rev. Father T. P. O'Connor died to-day after an illness of three days. He was ordained at Kingston in 1895, and was parish priest at Stanleyville and Kemptville before going to Napanee.

SENATOR H. J. CLORAN.

OTTAWA, Feb. 8. — (Canadian Press.) — Senator Henry J. Cloran died to-day after a prolonged illness at his home here. He had been a member of the Senate for the last 25 years, and was 73 years old. Senator Cloran's health for the last number of years prevented his taking an active part in the deliberations of the Upper House of Parliament. As a newspaper editor, lawyer, crown prosecutor of Montreal, and an active figure in Quebec, he was regarded as one of the most prominent Irish Canadians in the Dominion.

"MAKE GOOD or MAKE ROOM"

This has been called "The Tragedy of Progress." A business person in this age of hurry and competition must make a success of his or her work or give place to someone who can. There is no other way.

To make good in your business ventures, in the service you render your employer, in your home life and among your associates, YOU MUST BE HEALTHY.

To be healthy you should keep the spinal nerves free of irritation, constriction or pressure, because these interfere with the normal action of the nerves. When the nervous system functions imperfectly your working ability is decreased. Do not wait till you are "all in, down and out" before you devote attention to your health, but HEED THE FIRST INDICATIONS OF LOWERED VITALITY AND LET CHIROPRACTIC HELP YOU KEEP EFFICIENT.

QUEBEC ARTICLE AROUSES WRATH OF QUEBEC M. P.

J. F. Pouliot Calls Writer "Buffoon and Janitor of Falsehood Facts."

VENIOT HITS CRITICS.

Replies To Criticisms of His Statements in Respect to Maritime Rights.

OTTAWA, February 9. — Rising to a question of privilege in the Commons yesterday afternoon, J. F. Pouliot (Liberal, Temiscouata) called the attention of the House to an article appearing in the Montreal Gazette respecting his attack on Premier Taschereau of Quebec.

He characterized some of the statements appearing in the article as glaringly inaccurate and he asked, "who is the janitor of the falsehood factory of Quebec?" He warned that "if such a thing happens once more I will name him so the country will know who the fellow is."

The article, he said, was "as malicious as it was slanderous," not only against myself but every Quebec member in this House."

"The young man who wrote that article, who is known as a buffoon in Quebec, has well-buttered bread and there is plenty of jam on that buttered bread, too,' Mr. Pouliot declared.

Concluding, he challenged the Quebec Premier to place on the table of the Legislature the correspondence between them.

Previously Hon. James Robb, Minister of Finance, laid on the table a list of the shareholders of the defunct Farmers' Bank with unpaid balances and also a report respecting the Quebec Savings Bank.

Continuing the debate on the Speech from the Throne, Hon. P. J. Veniot, the Postmaster-General, after complimenting Mr. Bennett on his elevation to the leadership of the Conservative Party, stated that his purpose in speaking to the question was to reply to criticisms of his statements in respect to maritime rights.

"There were only ten direct recommendations made by the Duncan report on maritime conditions," he stated, "and of these eight had been implemented so far as it was practicable by legislation."

Subsidies Speedily Paid.

Mr. Veniot also stated that he intended to show that his critics were "seeking to make a political football out of the issue.

"It is no wonder that we in the Maritime Provinces can't be satisfied," he said, referring to the agitation of the Opposition.

"Take the first recommendation for a money grant; that has been payable to the very full," he declared, and he showed how, subject to the bi-annual arrangement for payments of subsidies, they had been paid at the earliest possible moment.

Thomas Cantley (Con., Picton): "But the Duncan report said the money should be paid forthwith."

The Postmaster-General replied by calling attention to the necessity of Parliamentary approval to the expenditure of public moneys and the fact that the approval had been given at the earliest possible moment.

Turning to transportation and freight rates he tabled a statement showing the reductions which had been made, pursuant to the recommendation of the Duncan report. He asked the senior member for St. John to study the figures he was placing in Hansard.

In nearly every category touched on reductions of slightly over 20 per cent. are shown.

The only reason the city of St. John doesn't receive the benefit is because they don't fall in line with the regulations, stated Mr. Veniot.

Says Statement Untrue.

He charged that the statement broadcast by the St. John Board of Trade in the matter was absolutely false, and that he made that statement only after a very careful personal investigation.

This is not a paper reduction, he asserted, but the real reduction shown by traffic moving over the line.

In respect to the issue of port development which is treated under four separate heads, he stated that the appointment of a Harbor Commission was the effective proof of the implementing of this feature of the report. Not only St. John but Halifax as well had received special consideration.

He next dealt with the issue of trade policy, charging that the criticisms of the Opposition in this respect were most inconsistent. One of the strongest advocates of reciprocity in the Maritimes, he asserted, had been Premier Baxter of New Brunswick, who had called that very issue disloyal in 1911.

Hickman's Sanity At Time of the Crime, Single Issue On Which Jury Must Decide

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Feb. 9 (Canadian Press).—The jury which will decide upon the sanity of William Edward Hickman, slayer of Marian Parker, was told by Forrest Murray, assistant prosecutor, yesterday, that "the single issue upon which it was to decide was that of the defendant's sanity at the time of the crime."

Murray began the opening half of the State's argument after the court had ruled that the State would both open and close the final arguments.

"The standard by which you must judge," Murray agreed, "is whether he knew the nature and quality of his acts."

"This is the sole matter for you to consider."

"If this defendant was directed by 'Divine Guidance' and believed he was doing a great good for humanity, as his defense claimed," Murray declared, "why did he write Parker, his victim's father 'not to tell the police?' Why did he ask sarcastically, 'Why all this publicity?' If he believed Providence guided him; why didn't he want himself acclaimed?"

Murray pointed out the police raid on Hickman's apartment where he killed the girl and asked the jurors to consider the significance of Hickman's expressed hope that they "catch the fiend who committed this crime."

"Was that the question and words of a man who did not know the meaning of crime; did not know right from wrong?"

"His Guiding Providence was not mentioned in his murder confession. There he threw the guilt on Andrew Cramer, a fictitious accomplice. He then revealed the criminal's trait of self-preservation," Murray argued."

BITTER FIGHT IS EXPECTED IN BRITISH HOUSE

Prayer Book Measure Sure To Precipitate a Storm in Commons.

STATEMENT MADE.

Archbishop Tells Assembly During Debate Few Congregations Reserve Sacrament.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—Indications were that a fierce attack would be made on the book by liberal church elements in the House of Commons, which recently rejected the original revised version, holding that the ritualism authorized by it too nearly approached that of the Roman Catholic Church.

Few Reserve Sacrament.

During general debate on the assembly on the prayer book, the Archbishop of Canterbury announced that considerably less than 700 churches in the Church of England practised continuous reservation of the communion sacraments—a practice heatedly denounced by Liberals. This number, the Archbishop said, was between 4½ and 5 per cent. of the total number of churches.

In the church province of Canterbury, he said, approximately 5½ per cent. reserved the sacraments, and in York province 2 per cent.

To Discuss Details.

By their votes of approval, the three houses now agreed broadly to the new alternate forms which the Anglican bishops had proposed to overcome parliamentary opposition. The houses of clergy and laity will now discuss the bishops' proposals in detail and will consider any amendments which the members may offer. After the clergy and laity have disposed of the amendments, these must be approved by the house of bishops. The revised book then will be presented to parliament again.

TORONTO, Feb. 8. — Canadian Press. — One hundred and fifty students at Knox college, where a student was discovered to have small pox yesterday, were to-day vaccinated by university and health department doctors. Those who received vaccination for the first time will have to remain in quarantine for two weeks.

Federals Determined To Suppress Rebels

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 9 (Associated Press).—Federal reinforcements numbering 3,000 have arrived in the State of Jalaisco from Sonora, according to word received here. The War Department has not given any information as to the number of troops engaged in the Jalaisco campaign against numerous guerilla bands or rebels, but unofficial estimates place the total Federal strength at from 10,000 to 15,000.

These wandering bands, who are sometimes called rebels and sometimes bandits, have been most active in Jalisco, but recently have also been causing disturbances in the states of Colima, Michoacan, Queretaro, and Guanaquato. Federal troops who are pursuing the rebel groups are said to have scattered them into small bands which have sought safety in the mountains.

Recent press despatches attributed the uprising in the two last named states to reprisals for the recent dynamiting of the statue of Christ at El Subilete, in Guanajuato.

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS OFTEN

Dr. Karr Continues Series of Addresses to Sales People.

ATTENDANCE GOOD.

"There is an old saw that has been peddled about by so-called wiseacres that is not true," said Alexander Karr before his salesmanship class at St. Alphonsus Lyceum Hall this morning' 'Ever since I was knee high I've heard it said 'Opportunity knocks but once.' That is not true. Why even the same opportunity often knocks at you door more than once, and if you don't open it will attempt to gain entrance by a window."

This idea is a source of much pessimism and consequent failure in the world, for opportunity is everywhere, every day. Failure to see it is the difficulty.

"Nor is opportunity cold behind as is so commonly uttered," exclaimed the doctor. "You sales people should find each and every custome an opportunity to increase your ability. One sale made to the best of your ability opens up others for your natural powers to fit into. Time spent looking for opportunity is wasted. Time spent in preparation to meet an opportunity is always time saved."

The entire address was replete with apt illutrations, homely quotations, and appropriate poetry. Those in attendance went away thrilled with the romance of doing things that will find expression from day to day in their new appreciation of the job.

Dr. Karr made a strong appeal for an optimistic attitude of mind, and quoted the following poem as the essence of pessimism:

Nothing to do but work—
Nothing to eat but food—
Nothing to wear but clothes
To keep from going nude.
Nothing to breathe but air—
Ah, well—alas—alack—
Nowhere to go but out—
Nowhere to come but back.
Nothing to comb but hair—
Nowhere to sleep but in bed;
Nothing to weep but tears,
Nobody to bury but dead.

The fourth of the series will be given at the same place Friday morning at nine o'clock.

Outlines of the talks have been prepared and will be distributed to all who have attended the classes.

BIRTH.

EAKINS.—At the Nicholls Hospital, Wednesday, Feb. 8th, to Mr. and Mrs. Earl Eakins, a son.

Sir Herbert Holt, already said to be the wealthiest man in Canada, owning a million dollars for every one of his 72 years, came once more into the financial limelight when, in conjunction with his younger and not less aggressive partner, J. H. Gundy of Toronto, he became an active force behind the re-organization of the British Empire Steel Corporation, an unwieldly and badly financed but potentially great amalgamation of coal, iron and steel interests. The retirement of President Roy M. Wolvin, coincided with the entrance of the Holt-Gundy interests. ABOVE is shown a recent portrait of Sir Herbert Holt.

NOT IN FAVOR OF NEW PLAN

Montreal Chamber of Commerce Opposed To St. Lawrence Waterway Project.

FAVOR G. B. CANAL.

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 9 (Canadian Press).—Members of the Chambre de Commerce yesterday applauded J. A. Paulhus, retiring president, and Hon. Raoul Grothe, M.L.C., the new president, as they indicated the organization's opposition to the St. Lawrence waterway project, its advocacy of construction of the Georgian Bay Canal, and its stand for the abolition of the income tax.

"It is the duty of our Chambre to continue to see that the project is now realized," said Hon. Mr. Grothe regarding the St. Lawrence waterway scheme. "We are conscious of the fact that the future of our city and of its port is at stake, and we will never cease to protest against spoilation of acquired rights delegated to the provinces under the British North America Act. And with that object in view I make mine the following words in the speech from the throne, delivered at the opening of the present session of the Quebec Legislature:

"'That the future unity of Canada will be better safeguarded if the autonomy of the provinces is respected and if the letter and spirit of the British North America Act are faithfully and loyally adhered to'

"Confident in the wisdom of the Dominion Government, I trust it will lend a sympathetic ear to the vindication of our rights, and will not permit the execution of such a project."

In connection with the Georgian Bay Canal, the Hon. Mr. Grothe remarked that the distance to the sea would be cut 440 miles, while Ontario would benefit by thousands of hydro-power.

Mr. Paulhous had this to say of the St. Lawrence project: "I will content myself with saying that this enterprise would be a very onerous heritage to pass on to future generations. Let us hope that the enthusiasms of success will not cause us to lose sight of the numerous obligations we already have to meet before Canada can become one of the most prosperous and influential nations in the British Empire."

The Weather

Highest temperature yesterday, 32 degrees; lowest 28 degrees. Rainfall (mostly freezing as it fell) .27 of an inch, causing treacherous and dangerous walks and roads. The snow that has since fallen has improved conditions materially. More snow is due in this section as the amount we have had here is less than usual, although localities not far distant have a superabundance of it.—W.P.

FIRE IN PIPES DRAWS CROWD

Chemicals Suffice To Extinguish Blaze in Gospel Hall Chimney.

LITTLE DAMAGE DONE.

Fire in a long line of pipes and in a faulty chimney necessitated the calling of the fire brigade to Gospel all, 442½ George Street North, about 4.25 Wednesday afternoon, and attracted the attention of a large number of spectators.

In the building occupied by the Gospel Hall, there is a large box stove from which leads the line of pipes, and though these were cleaned only a short time ago, they were quite dirty when inspected by the firemen. The fire in the chimney was due to the bonding being broken. However, it was not necessary to use much of the supply of equipment brought to the scene by the large ladder truck and pumper, a few gallons of chemical being quite equal to the occasion. There was more smoke than fire.

At 7.00 p.m. last evening, the fire brigade made a run to 751 George Street to investigate the source of smoke, which was filling the house. The furnace was proved to be the cause, there being no damage done.

Chamberlain Indicates He Has Little Hope Of Further World Disarmament For Present

LONDON, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Little hope for the present of further world disarmament was indicated by Sir Austen Chamberlain, Secretary for Foreign Affairs, in the House of Commons yesterday, in his review of foreign relations.

Nevertheless, he declared, war between Great Britain and the United States was unthinkable, and the failure of the tripartite naval conference at Geneva, he said, should profit the nations when the time came to revise the Washington treaties.

The minister emphasized the importance of the negotiations now going on between Washington and London for an arbitration pact similar to the new Franco-American treaty. The fullest consultations with the Dominions, he added, were necessary.

Sir Austen categorically denied the charges of Ramsay Macdonald, Labor leader, that the British Foreign Office had caused the failure in Geneva by surrendering to the Admiralty. He admitted, however, that there had not been sufficient communication between Washington and London prior to the conference. In his opinion, there should have been a confidential, even semi-official, exchange of views.

Referring to Anglo-American relations in the House of Lords, Lord Parmoor said that the United States had recently made notable pronouncements in favor of peace, which had full sympathy, but much more would come out of them if they could be presented by the United States as a member of the League of Nations.

Illinois Governor To Seek Re-election

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 9. — Len Small yesterday sought a third term on a platform similar to that which made him governor twice before, but with some added planks sponsored by Mayor Thompson of Chicago.

The governor tossed his hat into the political arena less than 12 hours after a midnight conference with Mayor Thompson at which the two made their peace after several months of discord.

Governor Small will enter the April primaries as a Republican candidate for re-election on a platform advocating "America First," farm relief flood control, and deep waterways, the four cardinal principles of "Big Bill" Thompson. In addition, Governor Small's ten plank platform advanced direct primaries completion of the state hard road system home rule for Chicago in transportation problems, and "full, free and equal rights of Illinois as a sovereign state of the union."

DAYS OF GRACE HAVE EXPIRED

Motor Car Owners Must Have 1928 Plates On Their Cars.

ACTION WILL BE TAKEN.

Peterborough's motor car and truck owners have been given a month to obtain their new licenses and although many have so far not taken the opportunity of securing their new markers they must do so immediately, or they will be prosecuted before the magistrate. Chief Newhall received word from Toronto yesterday that the month of grace was up and to take action against those who have not secured their new license and continue to run their cars with the 1927 markers on them.

Chief Newhall also warns all parents that the habit of sleigh-riding on the streets, especially Hunter Street, must cease, for with the ever increasing motor traffic, it is very dangerous.

IN POLICE COURT

A local man pleaded guilty to being intoxicated on Simcoe street and was fined $15 and $5.40 costs.

Harold Cridland pleaded guilty to speeding over Hunter street bridge last night and was fined $5.00 without costs. Cridland's case was the first to come up since the city council set 15 miles an hour as the rate of speed across the bridge.

Albert Lennon was found guilty of cutting the corner at Charlotte and Aylmer streets, and was fined $7.50 and $8.90 costs. The defendant cut across the service station driveway and struck G. Little, who was obeying the stop sign by-law before entering the through street.

A young man who has been out from England for fourteen years, pleaded guilty to stealing a purse and the sum of $10 from George Dartnell of this city. Mr. Dartnell had gone to the cellar to fix the furance and the prisoner, seeing the purse in the room, took it. W. F. Huycke, who appeared for the defendant, said that the man acted on the impulse of the moment and took the money. He always had been a hard working boy who was willing to work on a farm and at present was earning $30 a month. He had a mother in England in very poor circumstances, to whom he sends money every month, and he contributed something to a sister in Hamilton who was not very well. He asked for suspended sentence. The prisoner was remanded for sentence until Tuesday so that the police may look up his record.

ONTARIO HOUSE OPENED TO-DAY IN USUAL WAY

Lieutenant Governor Officiates at Traditional Ceremony at Toronto.

PROCEEDINGS COLORFUL.

New Progressive Leader Takes Place—Two Ministers Not Present.

TORONTO, February 9 (Canadian Press). — Inauguration of the second session of the seventeenth Parliament of Ontario by His Honor Lieutenant-Governor W. D. Ross, was conducted to-day with impressive ceremonial and in traditional fashion. The opening marked the second occasion on which His Honor has been the central figure, and as is customary, the ceremony was carried out in the presence of a large gathering which, besides the legislators themselves, included representatives of the Judiciary, dignitaries of the church, and distinguished citizens.

Additional color was lent to the proceedings by the presence of the wives of Cabinet Ministers and private members, together with many others. Richly gowned, the ladies were grouped at vantage points in the Chamber.

There were the usual military features connected with the arrival of the Lieutenant-Governor at Queen's Park, the booming of the royal salute, and the inspection of the guard of honor provided by the Royal Canadian Dragoons, following which the party proceeded to the Chamber.

Before a huge assembly His Honor then read the Speech from the Throne, wich was largely retrospective in character. In fact, indications point to a comparatively brief session in view of the improbability of the introduction of any very contentious measures. The session opened to-day marked the initial appearance of John G. Lethbridge in the capacity of leader of the Progressive Party, in which position he succeeds W. E. Raney, recently translated to the Supreme Court Bench. W. E. N. Sinclair occupied his usual position at the head of the Liberal members.

There were two vacancies on the ministerial bench. Hon. Dr. Forbes Godfrey, Minister of Health, was absent on account of ill-health, while Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines, who recently lost his son, is still away in Bermuda.

Civic Reception Tendered Cardinal

QUEBEC, Que., Feb. 9. Canadian Press. — The penultinae event of the celebrations that maked the return of His Eminence Rouleau from Rome, where he received the red hat, took place at the city hall late yesterday when a civic reception was tendered to the new prince of the Roman Catholic Church. Citizens of all races and religions attended the function and paid their respects to His Eminence. The city's reception to the Canadian Cardinal capped the second day's programme, which started yesterday morning when His Eminence celebrated a low mass at the Basilica. Later he received the clergy and then spent an hour with a number of his relatives.

In the afternoon His Eminence attended a private banquet at the Grand Seminary at which Premier Taschereau and members of the Provincial Cabinet, Arthur Sauve, leader of the provincial opposition, and Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Dominion Minister of Justice, who represented the Canadian Government, were present.

STOCK SELLING TO BE BROUGHT UNDER CONTROL

Legislation For Protection of Public From High Pressure Salesmen Proposed.

IN SPEECH FROM THRONE.

Prosperity of Province Noted in Speech, Attention Being Called to Good Harvest.

TORONTO, February 9 (Canadian Press). — Proposals of legislation in the interests of the investing public, seeking to curb the activities of "high pressure" salesmen and the marketing of questionable securities, were the feature of the legislation foreshadowed in the Speech from the Throne, read by His Honour Lieut.-Governor W. D. Ross before a crowded chamber at the opening of the second session of the seventeenth Legislature of Ontario this afternoon. In this connection the Address stated that legislation would be submitted "respecting the registration of stock salesmen and brokers with a view to the proper regulation and control of the sale of securities."

The speech dealt mainly with Government activities during the past year, in this regard mention being made of the interprovincial conference at Ottawa, and adherence by the Ontario representatives to the view that the future of Canada can be best assured by maintaining the status of the Provinces as established by the British North America Act.

The much debated question of provincial power rights, in connection with which a number of problems have been sent to the Supreme Court of Canada by the Dominion Government for definite interpretation, was given only brief mention in the Speech. His Honor stating that the Government was taking steps to maintain the constitutional rights of Ontario to the water powers situated in the Province.

Reviewing liquor control legislation, His Honor merely mentioned the establishment of the Control Board, stating that since last June the Commission had devoted much attention and energy to the establishment of a strong and efficient administration. The Lieutenant-Governor added, "during the comparatively short period the Act has been in force there have been many encouraging indications of public support and co-operation."

Other proposed legislation referred to the development of Northern and Northwestern Ontario, amendments to the Workmen's Compensation Act and the Mining Act for the purpose of increasing protection of miners, respecting General Hospitals and charitable institutions and to provide for establishment of research foundation.

Elsewhere in his speech the Lieutenant-Governor declared that during the past year the treasury obtained a balanced budget, while the improved financial situation of the province was reflected in the advantageous terms secured in recent borrowings. In connection with suggestions for the care of dependent aged people, His Honor said that information on the subject was being sought by the government, while in addition it is intended to institute a special survey of the province in this respect.

At the outset of his speech, after reference to the "bountiful harvest and many blessings" enjoyed, His Honor stated that the agricultural production of the province was above the average, while the Hon. William Finlayson's project for the transferring of farmers in poorer agricultural districts of the province to newly opened territory in Northern Ontario was alho commented on.

Some extracts from the Address

"At the recent conference between the Government of the Dominion and the Provinces, called by Federal authority, procedure for amending the constitution was discussed. My ministers adhered to the view that the compact of Confederation should be strictly observed in all respects, and that the future of Canada can best be assured by maintaining the status of the Provinces as established by the British North America Act.

"The agricultural production of the Province, on the whole, was above the average, notwithstanding exceptional conditions in a few localities. Coupled with the advance in prices for many farm products, the season's harvest served materially to stabilize the agricultural industry and to enhance the general prosperity.

"Considerable progress has been made in the construction of transmission lines to convey additional power to Eastern and Central Ontario, for which arrangements were made by the Power Commission.

"Legislation will be submitted for your consideration to make further provision for the development of Northern and North-western Ontario, to amend the Workmen's Compensation Act and Mining Act for the purpose of increasing the protection of miners, respecting general hospitals and charitable institutions, to provide for the establishment of a research foundation, respecting the registration of stock salesmen and brokers with a view to proper regulation and control of securities, to simplify the procedure for the incorporation of companies and respecting apprenticeship in certain trades."

FRENCH ACES WELCOMED AT WASHINGTON

Costes and Lebrix Met By Officials On Their Arrival.

ATTEND DINNER.

Good Will Fliers Will Return To France By Steamship.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 9 (Canadian Press).—Just as the sun broke through an overcast sky that had caused concern for their safety, Lieut. Dieudonne Costes and Lieut.-Commander Joseph Lebrix swooped down to the Bolling Field here late yesterday in the huge plane which had carried them from Paris across the South Atlantic and over South Amercia to Mexico and the United States.

For more than two hours, Ambassador Claudel of France and numerous other diplomats had waited to welcome the airmen. With them were Secretary Dawes of the war department, and Secretary Wilbur of the navy department. All joined in shouting "Bravo" as the plane, the Nungesser-Coli, loomed low above them, and then turned slowly for a perfect landing on the rain-soaked field.

Welcomed by Officials

The airmen jumped from the cockpits almost immediately, to be greeted in their native language by Ambassador Claudel and his family, and then to be welcomed by high government officials here. After posing for photographers and waving an enthusiastic greeting to the small crowd that had gathered. Costes and Lebrix followed their plane as it was trundled to a hangar, gathered bundles of baggage and were whisked away to the French Embassy.

A private dinner in their honor was given last night attended only by members of the French diplomatic staff. They will be received today by President Coolidge, and on Friday will be entertained.

After their departure from Montgomery, Ala., early yesterday morning, no word was heard of the aviators until they emerged from a cloudbank over the Potomac. Some apprehension was felt at Bolling Field, but Ambassador Claudel was confident that nothing untoward had happened on this next-to-the-last lap of their trip of over 22,700 miles.

Return by Steamship.

The welcome over, Costes and Lebrix expressed appreciation for their reception in the United States. They said about four days would be spent here, after which they will head for New York. Their plane, which has now travelled approximately 62,600 miles in two trips to Russia and one to Egypt before the present flight was undertaken, will probably be dismantled there and loaded onto a ship for the return voyage to Paris.

Canadian Professor Offered Scholarship

HALIFAX, N.S., Feb. 9 (Canadian Press).—Professor Angus L. C. Macdonald, of the Dalhousie Law School, has been offered a research scholarship at the Harvard Law School for the coming year, beginning next fall, it was announced here yesterday. The scholarship, the first of its kind to be awarded a Canadian, is valued at $2,500, and is to be used in a year's free study at Harvard. It is understood the offer has not yet been accepted, pending arrangements to secure leave of absence for Professor Macdonald, but it is thought probable that he will go to Harvard next fall.

Professor Macdonald joined the staff of the Dalhousie Law School in 1924.

GIVEN OVATION AT HAVANA

Lindbergh Welcomed By Many Dignitaries On Arrival at Columbia Field.

PERFORMS AIR STUNTS.

HAVANA, Feb. 9.— (Canadian Press.) — Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, holding his famed Spirit of St. Louis true to its course and schedule, landed here yesterday to receive the plaudits of Cuba and of the representatives of many of the lands he had already visited.

The crowds which with many dignitaries of the Pan-American Congress, had awaited his arrival at Columbia Field, were excited beyond restraint as the aviator performed a few stunts within their view before swooping gracefully to earth. Cavalrymen and infantry, with drawn sabres and bayonets, quickly formed fresh lines, however, to guard the hero from the enthusiasm of his admirers.

After waiting a few moments in his plane while members of the reception committee and other officials surrounded him, Colonel Lindbergh emerged to enter the automobile, which was to take him to the presidential palace at Havana, eight miles from the field. Close behind United States' Ambassador Judah, in offering his congratulations on the successful flight from Haiti was Charles Evans Hughes. The former chief justice of the United States said: "Lindbergh is tracing the route that future commerce will follow. The best part is that it is a route of good will and what he is doing is of first importance in the development of Pan-Americanism." Thousands thronged the Plaza in front of the palace, shouting themselves hoarse. In the great reception hall were President Machado and the members of his Cabinet, offcials of the army and navy, and many others. The president gave the good will ambassador a hearty welcome, shaking him warmly by the hand.

Extends Welcome.

"You have come from the far end of this island republic," he said, "to the East, where we fought so hard for independence. You represent one of the world's greatest nations as ambassador of the air. I extend to you a welcome from every Cuban.

"You have seen practically the whole of our island, whose people will never forget what your people did for them at the time of their great need. Our country is small in territory, but great in love for liberty."

CABINET RESIGNS.

Jugo-Slav Ministry Leaves Office Following Disagreement.

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, February 9. (Canadian Press)—The Voukitchevitch ministry, which took office in April last year, resigned today. The Cabinet underwent a crisis during the past week when the Democratic members, in disagreement with their colleagues, resigned.

Liver And Onions Now Expensive Dish

BRANTFORD Feb. 9. Canadian Press. — Liver and onions or liver and bacon will soon be at the command only of the epicure with a roll, judging by the developments here. During the past few days thanks to the announcement of the discovery that liver is excellent for pernicious anaemia and for other blood troubles, it has doubled in price. The once despised waste products is now quoted at 60c a pound for calf liver, doubled within a month, beef liver 20c, and pork liver 25c—all being practically a hundred per cent. dearer than a month ago.

LLOYD GEORGE HITS BACK AT LIBERAL PEER

Former Premier Attacks Lord Ashton in His Own District.

CAUSES SENSATION.

Denies the Statements Made Against Him By Political Leader.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—With his characteristic fighting spirit, Lloyd George has leaped back into the bye-election in Lancaster to answer the severe denunciation hurled against him by Lord Ashton, a prominent Liberal peer, who charged the former minister with wrecking the Liberal party, and decribed him as a man whom even his own political associates did not trust. Lord Ashton is regarded in the constituency as a benevolent, industrial autocrat, whose munificence to the town is a matter of daily gratitude on the part of the taxpayers.

Causes Sensation.

Lloyd George's decision to challenge his critic in his own district, on the eve of the election, has caused the liveliest local sensation.

Lloyd George has already written a letter to the chairman of the Lancaster Liberal Association, branding Lord Ashton's charges as false, demanding that he shall publicly withdraw them and indicating what his own reply will be.

Contradicts Remarks.

Lloyd George states that contrary to Lord Ashton's assertions, he did support the government in sending a defense force to Shanghai and voted for the necessary estimates. He also voted to give the government emergency powers to deal with the general strike while at the same time he supported the appeal of the Archbishop of Canterbury for conciliatory measures.

TRINITY CLUB PLANS STUDIES

Educational Talk Will Take Up Part of Each Meeting.

FIRST ON LEAGUE.

The Trinity Young People's Club convened in the Reid street hall Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock.

The young people plan at their meeting this year, not only to meet for a good time, but also to spend some time each week in the intelligent study of some vital questions of the day. The first of this series of studies was taken by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Wren, taking as his subject, "The League of Nations."

At the conclusion of Mr. Wren's address the young people were more enthusiastic than ever in their desire to follow this course of study.

EXPRESSES REGRET TO OIL COMMITTEE

Rockefeller, Jr., Sorry For the Stand Taken By Robert W. Stewart.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 9.—(Canadian Press.)The failure of Robert W. Stewart to answer all questions put to him by the Senate Teapot Dome committee about the Continental Trading Company has produced a formal expression of regret from John D. Rockefeller, Jr., recognized head of the Standard Oil interests. Rockefeller's letter to Senator Walsh, of Montana, the committee prosecutor, and related documents were made public yesterday by Chairman Nye of the committee, under the oil magnate's specific permission for their use "in any way that will serve the public interest."

In the correspondence was a telegram sent to Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, at Havana, by Rockefeller, urging him to appear before the Senate committee and "to testify fully."

"No desire to protect others justifies withholding the slightest fact," Rockefeller said in the telegram. "No duty to company or stockholders comparable to your immediate appearance ,only such action will justify the confidence your friends and business associates have in you."

Refuses To Answer.

It was after the receipt of this telegram that Stewart changed his mind about a business trip to Mexico City from Havana and returned here to testify, only to refuse to answer two

GOES TO PENITENTIARY.

Leonard Rowe Had Pleaded Guilty To Theft of Lodge Funds.

TORONTO, Feb. 8. — Canadian Press. — Four years in the Portsmouth penitentiary was the sentence imposed in session to-day on Leonard Rowe, an employee of the Grand Orange Lodge of North America after Rowe had pleaded guilty to the theft of $14,941 from the funds of the lodge. Rowe for years had been stenographer to William Lee, Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge, and it was asserted the defalcations covered a period of years.

CAULDER H DAIRY CO IL

Regina Man Unanimously Re-elected President at Opening of Conference.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

REGINA, Sask., Feb. 9 (Canadian Press).—J. A. Caulder, Regina, was unanimously re-elected president of the National Dairy Council at the opening session of the organization here yesterday.

In his retiring address, Mr. Caulder had suggested that it would be policy to elect an easterner to the presidency this year, as important questions, requiring urgent action from the headquarters of the Council in Ottawa, would be raised shortly. He cited the Australian and New Zealand preferential tariff as one of the principal matters to be dealt with. Mr. Caulder, however, was persuaded to let his name stand. There was no other nomination for the office.

F. E. M. Robinson, of Richmond, Que., was chosen to succeed A. H. Outon, Truro, N.S., as vice-president.

The following were elected as Western members of the Executive of the Dairy; J. M. Carruthers, Winnipeg; J. W. Berrg, Langley Prairie, B.C.; N. S. Clare, Didsbury, Alta., and J. A. Vaulder, Regina.

PAST MISTRESS RECEIVES GIFTS

Lady McGill, L.O.B.A., Havelock, Recalls Efforts for Lodge.

HAVELOCK, February 9. — A pleasing feature of the monthly meeting of Lady McGill L.O.B.A. No. 471, on Friday evening, was the presentation on behalf of the members of a leather upholstered rocking chair, a cushion, and a box of handkerchiefs to Mrs. S. McGill, Past Worthy Mistress of the lodge. The members have appreciated the services which Mrs. McGill has so willingly rendered, often at considerable sacrifice to herself, and the gifts were a token of that appreciation for her long standing service and devotion to her duties of office and also for her efforts which were instrumental in organizing L.O.B.A. 471.

The presentation was accompanied by the following address:

"We, the members of Lady McGill Lodge, No. 471, L.O.B.A., would like in some small way to show our love and esteem for one of our best friends . We ask you to accept this leather rocking chair, cushion and box of handkerchiefs as a slight token of our appreciation of your love and kindness to us, and we trust you will be spared many years in health and hapipness.

"Signed on behalf of the members of Lady McGill Lodge, No. 471,

"Sisters M. Wrightly, M. Dafoe, M. Graham."

AUSTRALIA TO PETERBORO.

Local listeners on the radio yesterday afternoon had the experience of hearing a musical concert in Sydney, Australia. And though the music was heard on Wednesday afternoon, it was Thursday in the Antipodes. Station WMAK, at Lockport, N.Y., which has been experimenting during the last ten days in picking up short wave transmission from distant parts, succeeded yesterday in re-broadcasting portions of a concert in Australia, and while the reception was not as clear and distinct as that from London, England, it was nevertheless quite an event.

LITERARY SOCIETY HOLDS JOLLY PARTY

SPRINGVILLE, Feb. 9.—An extremely interesting and jolly Valentine social evening was enjoyed by the Springville-Fairmount Literary Society and friends on Friday evening. The large attendance marked the enthusiasm and interest that is being taken in these weekly meetings. The basement of Springville Church is an ideal spot for those looking for a good time and entertainment.

The amusements of the evening consisted of contests and sociability on the part of all present. The cake contest was an interesting feature. Broken hearts were matched to secure partners, and this being Leap Year the ladies were required to do the seeking for the missing portions of their hearts. When all couples were mated and seated, papers containing questions that must be answered only by names of various kinds of cakes were passed around. About twenty minutes were allowed for filling in the answers. The winning couple, Mrs. G. Hewitt and Mr. Sweeting, were awarded first prize, having eleven points out of the total of twenty.

Another event of interest was the unusual and embarrassing manner in which the ladies found their partners for lunch. The ladies and gentlemen were seated on opposite sides of the room. The former were provided with paper and pencil, and were given only a few minutes to write a proposal before they were gathered into a large box. The men were then required to come to the front of the room one at a time and draw a slip of paper from the box and stand there and read its contents aloud. The ladies upon hearing their own proposals went to their partners, and together they found seats for lunch. When all were again seated, Mrs. George Hewitt and her partner, Rev. A. H. McConnachie, were asked to come to the front. Several ladies then appeared with many boxes of various sizes and shapes, and a large clothes basket piled high with parcels and bundles. These were presented to Mrs. Hewitt (nee Della Bidgood) on behalf of her many friends at Springville and district. Mr. McConnachie in a few brief words expressed the sentiments of the people, explaining their sympathy to her in the loss of her home, and also the high esteem in which she is held by her friends. He also emphasized their pleasure in giving to one who was so well known by all in the church and community.

Mrs. Hewitt, in a suitable manner, expressed her heartfelt thanks.

Refreshments were then served, consisting of sandwiches, cake and tea and the evening's pleasure continued in games and a social time.

Mrs. Hewitt opened her many parcels, which contained a miscellaneous shower of beautiful and useful gifts.

Any music Any Time!

With the new Orthophonic Victrola the music is real---you may have any kind---and you may have it when you want it.

There is always a "first time" during which we form certain impressions that never again leave us. So it is with that amazing new instrument, the new Orthophonic Victrola. Whether you first meet it during day or night,—you will never forget that great surprise at hearing real singers, real players, real orchestras,—real music. Liquid trebles, —gruff basses,—all there!

How do they come here so completely? What magic put them there?—to release them for you, in such profusion of choice, at the precise moment you command?

For this magic of the new Orthophonic Victrola,—you and we must thank the scientists who spent so many of their years in developing the principle of "Matched Impedance" or "smooth flow of sound". Placed in Victor's hands only two years ago, this principle swept away old methods and traditions, and has been transmuted into all the music of all the world, to be spread into millions of homes.

So now you may have beautiful, real music, as you wish and when you wish,—from graceful cabinets which anyone can own,—from $1400 down to as low as $115. Electrical drive, if you choose, at slight additional cost, eliminates winding. At all His Master's Voice dealers on convenient payments.

DISTRICT CHURCHES.

SPINGVILLE, Feb. 9. — Morning service was held in Springville United Church with the pastor, Rev. A. H. McConnachie in charge.

The text was taken from Luke 19, 23: "Wherefore then gavest not thou money into the bank, that at My coming I might have required Mine own with usury?"

Jesus Christ was the prince of story tellers. His parables were beautiful pictures perfectly phrased. His story of the Prodigal Son is a work of Art that like all his other stories throw light on the subject in question. To be a good story teller is a great gift.

In the parable of our text we are told of the nobleman who before going into a far country called his ten servants unto him, and gave them ten pounds to keep until his return. Then again we see him returning and asking each servant to give an account of his stewardship. The first to appear on the scene has increased his lord's pound by ten pounds and is regarded highly for his efforts. A second has added to his pound, five other pounds, and is rewarded accordingly, while a third returns his one pound with nothing added, explaining that he had feared his lord's austerity and had kept it laid up in a napkin for safe-keeping. Our text tells us the feeling of his master, when he says: "Why did you not give my money into the bank that I might at least have had my own with interest?" Another picture follows—that of the lord commanding the people that stood by, to take away this one pound and give it unto the man that had ten pounds for "Unto every one which hath shall be given; and from him that hath not, even that he hath shall be taken away from him."

There are two types of people—persons who will take great risks and persons who will risk nothing.

Jesus encourages and commends the latter.

"Safety First" is a good principle on the road, but it spells utter ruin if carried too far. The first man in our story was enterprising and took risks with a view to profitable investment of his pound.

Jesus Christ was poor in earthly wealth with no home to call His own. He was therefore not interested in banking, yet he knew the ways of the world in regards to this matter of business. We must not despise material values in life. Money has its work and power. With it we send our missionaries to the foreign fields. Jesus Christ, however, by His story, was emphasizing spiritual values or investments.

We read of the Rabbis explaining to the people the "Laws of Moses." Their outlook is limited and their truths are stationary things liks the man that was given the pound and hid it in a napkin. The Laws of Moses cannot be increased.

Jesus knew the mind of man and accordingly made a progressive law, giving to it grace and truth.

The Bible enlarges the value of Spiritual truth. Some great champions of the Bible write in its defence. These defence writings are not needed. If the Bible contains the Truth it can defend itself in regards to Jesus Christ, Salvation, Heaven, future punishment.

The Bible is not merely the printed letter but the spiritual word of God. God give use great truths for investment. We may tie them in a napkin if we wish, but that is not God's intention. We are commended by God to take risks. He has left us something to go on with—to invest spiritually and also physically.

Our money is not our own, but God's. The question we should ask ourselves is not "How much should I give to God?" but "How much have I a right to keep for my own use?" Money should be spent wisely and well. It is given to us to invest in God's work. The same is true of our mind and heart. They have been given us by God and He, like the lord in our text, will come again and ask us to give an account of our stewardship. Have we given our our best? Have we put love into the business of life? Have we used our brain power to good advantage? Or are we sitting at home content with ourselves and our amusements?

There is no progress unless risks are taken. Jesus commends the man who takes a risk. The world may laugh at us for investing our money and brain in God's cause; but he who laughs last, laughs best. God, who sitteth in heaven shall laugh at those who refused profitable investment of his gifts. It is better to be a fool for Christ's sake now, so that when the last account is taken we may hear His "Well done, good and faithful servant."

MADOC CHURCHES.

MADOC, February 9. — At Trinity Church in Madoc, the Bible Classes and Sunday School met as usual with an excellent attendance. Rev. Mr. Rivers, in the morning service, talked to the boys and girls of the Young Worshippers' League about "Sailing Ships and Steamships," drawing some clear-cut lessons from them for the little people.

The special subject for the morning was well introduced by the choice of hymns and anthems by the choir, "What a Friend." The pastor having arrived at the fourth of his "Marks of a Christian," took as a text, "As a Little Child"—the mark being Humility.

The evening service began with the singing of familiar hymns and the subject was "A Model Creed," the text being John 9, 25: "One thing I know, whereas I was blind now I see"—a creed which is short, simple, positive, experimental, practical and fruitful.

The services at St. Peter's Church began as usual with the Sunday School and Bible Classes at ten and followed by morning worship at eleven, the subject of the morning sermon being, "As ye go, preach."

The ten minutes' song service introducing the evening service was much enjoyed, and the pastor, Rev. Mr. Marshall continued the series of "Famous Women of the Bible," choosing "The Woman of Solomon's Song" as his theme.

TRENT RIVER UNITED CHURCH.

TRENT RIVER, February 9. — There was a large and appreciative congregation present at the Sunday afternoon services. Previous to the sermon, Rev. W. R. Archer called upon Mr. George Vanvolkenburg to come forward and read the names of those elected for members of the Session and Managing Board as follows:

For Session — Messrs. George Spencer, George Vanvolkenburg, W. W. Redden, Frank Davidson, and Isaac Lawson.

For Managers — Messrs. W. G. Scott, Thomas K. Thompson, Gordon Shearer, H. McMullen, Frank Davidson, W. W. Redden, Rufus Redden, Isaac Lawson, Harold B. Wood, Chas. Davidson, Charlie Spencer, George Vanvolkenburg.

The members of the Session were called forward, and Rev. W. R. Archer inducted them, each renewing their vows before the congregation. The minister chose for the afternoon text, Isaiah 51, 9. The address was a continuation on the subject of prayer—the thought that we need God's care and comfort He alone can give. Many men have tried to hide themselves on account of sin, but they cannot hide themselves from the Unseen Eye. Cain murdered his brother Abel, and went about his daily work unconcerned. Some people think if they can stay away from church they feel better, as their conscience won't become stirred—recognizing the responsibility rests upon each one concerning their brother. Balaam tried to outwit the Lord. One day he was met by an angel with a flaming sword, who stopped him. God hears us when we say a word of entreaty—Jehovah lives and reigns. God speaks in punishment and calamity. It's a sad thing when a man forces his hand against the Divinity.

The minister referred to Goliath, the mighty Philistine, and David in realizing the power of God. Absalom's head was turned by false friends and he turned the hearts of the people away from the Father; he realized too late that he had made a wreck of his life. Daniel had been faithful to the edicts of his God as he prayed daily with his windows open towards Jerusalem three times a day. The three men who were cast into the fiery furnace chose to serve God rather than man. How many people pass through the fiery furnace of loss and trouble and their prayers were answered by God. When we call, God says: "Here I am."

Don't Be Skinny

Gain Pounds of Weight in 3 Weeks with Yeast and Iron—or pay nothing

It seems incredible how fast IRONIZED YEAST adds pounds of good firm flesh—on women and men, children and old people. Doctors know the value of vegetable iron and yeast in building up and improving the body. IRONIZED YEAST, in a highly concentrated form, contains all the blood building properties of vegetable iron with yeast. It will give results in half the time required by yeast and iron taken separately.

IRONIZED YEAST gives you all the weight-building benefits contained in various sickening oils without upsetting the stomach.

New Complexion for You

People ask—what is the magic in IRONIZED YEAST that transforms sallow, lifeless, faded complexions into the fresh, smooth, lovely skin of early girlhood? Wrinkles disappear. Hollows fill out. No wonder thousands of women pour in letters to us in praise of the marvelous, youthifying effects of IRONIZED YEAST!

Yet the answer is simple. Vegetable iron and yeast have been used for years to vitalize the body; to make rich, healthy blood; to improve digestion and bowel action and add weight. In IRONIZED YEAST these two valuable elements are combined in a special formula that is nine times stronger than yeast and iron used separately. That's why IRONIZED YEAST works so quickly. No nasty, pasty taste. Safe to take—pleasant-tasting tablets in a handy bottle.

An Old Recipe to Darken Hair

By JANICE RANDALL

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug stores for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, for only 75 cents. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through you hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

CAMPBELLFORD OUT OF RUNNING

Loss To Frankford On Home Ice Ends Hope of Entering Play-off.

FINAL SCORE 4-3.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 9.—In the third home game of the Trent Valley League last night, Campbellford lost their chances of coming out on top of the list, when the final day of reckoning arrives, when Frankford won out 4—3. The game was open to mostly anyone till the very last bell rang and though the local players had numerous opportunities and shots at the visitors' goal, they failed to get the puck past Lloyd. On several occasions he saved the situation when it seemed impossible for any person to do it. His cool and deliberate manner when the play moved like lightning in front of his net was uncanny.

From beginning to end the game was fast and the number of penalties remained a minimum, being only seven in all. Of these, Frankford can claim only two and the remaining five go to the home team, but these were all for minor affairs and not, as a rule, intentional. Considering the fact that the victory or defeat last night was a deciding factor for either team there was no time lost unnecessarily. The idea prominent in the minds of players of both sides was simply to pile up a score that would be unapproachable by the opposing side. To this end, Frankford got away to a good start with two goals in the first period, while the home team failed to score at all. The local rooters began to feel their spirits fail them but relied upon the old form of loud cheers to maintain an outward appearance of assurance. They were of the opinion that the home team would recover from its losses and pull out on the long end of the score finally. More than once in their history had they done the same thing and given their supporters the thrill of their lives. One very memorable occasion was when they played twenty minutes overtime in Stirling and won by one goal.

Campbellford Scores

The second period did not help much to even the score, but it proved to the local team that the Frankford goalie was not superhuman after all. Cowell managed to score the first goal for Campbellford, but as Frankford scored a solitary one in the same period, there was no numerical gain in the tally. The score stood with the visiting team on the long end of the three-one score, and only one period left for two goals to make the tie or three to win. Confidence came flooding back to the rows of local fans and when their team came back on the ice, thunderous cheers bore assurance that hope had not yet departed but had, in point of fact, increased in direct proportion to the decrease in time remaining before the end of the game.

Striking a furious pace, the Campbellford team retained the upper hand on the play during the greater part of the period. Time and again they rushed and shot on the Frankford goal, but without result until Cowell scored on a short pass from Ibey at centre. Things began to look interesting, and with four men forward, Campbellford was forcing the play. Occasionally a Frankford player broke through and got dangerously near the local net. On these occasions, fans supporting both teams stood breathless till the tension relaxed, then sighed as they sat back in their seats. But shortly after Cowell scored, Ed Lawrence broke through and took an open shot. Sanders saved nicely, but the puck dropped out of his pads right in front of him and Lawrence, who had followed in for just such an event, poked it inside the net and thus retained Frankford's two-goal lead.

Ibey and Cowell tried their combination stunt again and it worked, only this time Ibey did the scoring on Cowell's rebound. With only one goal ahead and about twelve minutes to go, Frankford went right out after another and the same was true of Campbellford. Ibey, on right wing, seemed to be everywhere just at the time he was most needed.

With only about five minutes to go, W. O'Malley got penalized for tripping and while he was still in the box, Ibey was sent off for managing to get his stick around someone else's ribs as he body checked. With one less on each side, the play speeded up and both sides came as close to scoring as they ever will and yet fail to count.

All Piled Up.

On one occasion the Frankford goal tender did not get time to clear the puck from in front of his nets before an orange and black sweater appeared for the rebound. Just what actually happened occurred with lightning speed, and could not really be seen, but there was a pile of players in the Frankford net within the second. Sweaters from both sides were in the heaving mass, and the unpiling was a slow and precarious affair. Needless to say, the man at the bottom was Lloyd, the Frankford goalie. It was the matter of about a minute before he was ready to continue the play.

The event was nerve wracking to say the least. When it all happened there was only three-quarters of a minute left to play. The Campbellford fans were certain of the goal they so earnestly sought and the visitors were equally certain that Lloyd would prove equal to the occasion. Whether it is to the goalie or to the team in general that the credit is due, is a difficult matter to decide. The fact remains that when the period ended forty-five seconds later, Frankford had the edge by one goal. This does not make it by any means a certainty that Frankford will be in the final game, but it does make it certain that the local team will not. Both teams had to win every game in order to be in the finals and with this thought in the back of every player's mind all during the game, there was little need of coaching from the official box along the side lines. Frankford will continue with their hope for the championship and the local team will complete their schedule with every bit as much pep and energy as though the silverware were just around the corner. They are still scheduled to play Madoc in Campbellford and the protested game with Tweed is still to be arranged. It is expected that this game will be played in Tweed.

Teams:

Referee—Ross Burtt, Trenton.

Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 9.—At a special meeting of the Royal Templars of Temperance, W. I. Stillman was appointed financial secretary and treasurer for the district. He will also be a delegate to the Grand Council in Toronto on February 28.

Mr. R. J. Allan has secured the agency for the Whippet cars and expects to be actively engaged in his new show rooms within the next few days.

The icy streets have caused pedestrians to resort to all sorts of contrivances for sane safety. Ice creepers" have been in big demand at all dealers and some more inventive persons relied on home remedies. The most unusual contrivance noticed on the streets was a teen-age boy with boards secured to his boots. Nailed to the undersides of the boards was a perfectly good and serviceable pair of horse shoes. About twenty boys in the public schools wore their skates to classes in the morning. For the afternoon session, there were well over a hundred similarly equipped. Their pleasure was reduced in proportion to the increase in the safety factor for older folk when they found that the school hill had been sanded by the town foreman and his gang before the boys got out for recess.

A young lady found it impossible to cross the street at the public library corner, so she momentarily discarded her dignity and crossed on all fours.

The visitors are enjoying the best of health and state they are thoroughly enjoying the stay here.

Stomach Trouble

Constant Indigestion and Cramps until TANLAC came to his relief

People who have never had Stomach Trouble seem to think it nothing serious. They say, 'Oh- it's just a touch of Indigestion." But you can't get rid of serious Stomach Trouble that easily. It is a very, very serious condition and causes an enormous amount of suffering. Mr. Alex Krenbenk, of Dundurn, Sask., knows this very well. "For the past year", he writes, "my stomach has caused me a great deal of trouble. Constant indigestion made me feel as if there was a lump of lead right in the pit of my stomach, and cramps just about doubled me up. I lost weight and my nerves were all on edge. I felt tired all the time and had not the strength to do a decent day's work."

"One of my friends told me to try Tanlac and I want to say that it was just what I needed. I am now on my third bottle and feel my old healthy, vigorous self again. My appetite is fine and I digest my meals without the slightest trace of indigestion—the heavy lump and cramps are gone for good—and I sleep fine. Tanlac did me so much good that it is a pleasure to recommend it." Tanlac is Nature's roots, herbs and barks, blended into one big, bracing tonic. It costs less than 2c a dose—and your money refunded if it does not give perfect satisfaction. Get a bottle at your druggist's today.

THE MAN WHO SHOULD NOT BE ALLOWED TO DRIVE.

At a time on Tuesday evening when the streets were sheets of ice and pedestrians, forced off the sidewalks by the slippery condition, warily picking their way along the roads, a motorist drove down Water street at a rate that was closer to 30 than it was to 25 miles an hour.

There need be no hesitation in deciding that a driver of this kind is mentally unfit to be given an operator's license.

Any man who would drive at such speed with the conditions as they were on Tuesday night has no right to be allowed to operate a car at all.

Not only was he in constant danger of a fatal accident to himself, but a slight skid as he passed by pedestrians would have resulted in death or serious injuries to people who were forced to use the road.

It is unfortunate that no way can be devised to prevent motorists of the standard of mentality of this particular offender from being given authority to handle a car.

Such drivers are responsible for the majority of accidents, and it is a pity they cannot be weeded out and rendered harmless to themselves and to the public generally.

THE ASSOCIATION TAKES A STAND.

The Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association at its annual meeting took a firm stand in two matters of very great importance.

The Association unanimously declared for a shorter deer-hunting season—a return to the old fifteen-day season, in fact—and passed a resolution asking for the amendment of the fishery laws, prohibiting the catching of pickerel through the ice.

The Examiner has advocated both these changes, believing that in the final analysis they will prove of the greatest benefit to the greatest number of people.

For the sake of our own hunters and fishermen alone, it is desirable that our resources of game and fish should be conserved, and when, in addition, the tourist angler is considered, it can be seen that to allow these advantages, which help to bring thousands of visitors and many thousands of dollars into the district, to be destroyed is the poorest possible business.

The fish and game of this district constitute an asset to be carefully nursed; instead we are going through our heritage so rapidly that unless an earnest and general effort to bring about a policy of conservation is made it will not be long until both deer and game fish will be as rare as wild pigeons and sturgeon are now.

NO DEMAND FOR THIS.

F. W. Wilson, member for Windsor East, has announced that he will introduce into the Legislature a resolution calling for legislation to authorize the public consumption of beer in Ontario.

Mr. Wilson will not get very far with that resolution, nor is it likely that he expects to get very far.

The feeling of the majority of people in Ontario against sale of beer by the glass was so strong before the last election that Mr. Ferguson was forced to amend his proposals, and there is no reason to believe that there has been any great change in public sentiment since that time.

The present Act satisfies the most reasonable of the wets, and the most reasonable of the drys have not found it in practice so alarming as they feared it would be.

There is no demand for further concession, certainly none strong enough to warrant the Legislature giving it any consideration.

It may be that public opinion on this point may change, as it has in other Provinces, but at the present moment there is no cause for thinking that any great numbers of Ontario people want to see sale by the glass and the opening of beer parlors.

MICE AND MEN.

Mice and men often contrive to do things. The mouse always by himself, the man—well, it depends on the man.

Men thoroughly imbued with the true community spirit do things for Peterborough through the Chamber of Commerce. That is the business of the Chamber of Commerce—doing things. It is a community believer. It furthers the interests of the community in a civic and commercial way. Obviously to do its best through its varied operations, the Chamber of Commerce needs money. Not only that, it needs the unrestricted, wholehearted, active, man-to-man and man-for-man co-operation.

This is what makes live communities thrive. Under this organization the community can enlist so many of the ablest men of the town in service for the community. It unifies the public spirit of the city and breaks down sectional and personal selfishness. It helps to create and express solid opinions on questions effecting the welfare of the community. It links the community with its neighbors in great business and patriotic movements. It holds up an ideal of civic development that tends to the encouragement of what is helpful and the elimination of that which is harmful. Its activities in social life make its members better business men as well as better citizens. It is the guage of the city's enterprises, prosperity and ambitions and reflects accordingly upon every citizen.

Perhaps you, Mr. Citizen, have not thus far thought that you owe your community something. If such a thought has not entered your mind, it is time for you to take stock of the situation, look about you and determine how long you could keep going without the aid of your fellowmen. You must think this through to this conclusion. You do not want to cheat yourself or your community. Give of yourself and your means. It will do you and your community good. What helps the community helps you. The Chamber of Commerce is yours, organized to the fullest extent of the responsible citizenship of the community.

Get into and support the Chamber of Commerce. Are you a mouse or a man? Mice are selfish. Men should be altruistic. In so doing they attain to the highest selfishness. In other words—service pays.

IT MUST WORK BOTH WAYS.

Mr. Frank W. Wilson, M.L.A., intimates that quiet industrial conditions in the Border Cities during 1927 were largely due to the inadequacy of a Canadian auto tariff which permitted too many American machines to be imported.

Has Mr. Wilson overlooked the point that in 1927 the largest manufacturer of automobiles in this country was engaged in the difficult task of bringing out an entirely new car and that this change necessitated practically the closing down of this manufacturer's plants here and also in the United States? Is it not a fact that the situation in respect to the Ford Motor Company had more to do with the industrial slackness in the Border Cities last year than any question of tariff?

The Star remarked the other day that it was desirable for Canada to secure the establishment of additional automobile plants and to import fewer machines from across the line. At the same time it is doubtful if public opinion throughout the country would support any move to bring about this desirable industrial development by means of a stiff, or even a slight, increase in the tariff on cars. Everyone will recall the popularity of the last reduction in motor duties, bringing with it, as it did, some cuts in retail prices. In the face of this, and in face of the well-known fact that the average Canadian feels he is paying far too much for every car he purchases, it would have to be a courageous government that would take the bit in his teeth and say: "We are going to increase auto duties."

In this very point lies the weakness of the whole Canadian tariff argument. Rightly or wrongly, the Canadian people have come to believe that tariff protection means just that much added to the price of the goods they have to buy, and that whether they purchase the Canadian-made article or its counterpart from the United States, the net cost to them will be substantially the same. This is true in so many cases that it has come to be an accepted standard. And it is something that has made tariff protection unpopular with a great many persons who would be otherwise strongly disposed toward the idea of helping industry within their own country as much as possible.

Protection, to be acceptable, should work both ways. This is to say, it should protect the consumer as well as the manufacturer. How can this happy combination be achieved? It is a question not easily answered, but the logical thing would seem to be the establishment of a permanent tariff board with a good deal of authority, operating pretty much as the Board of Railway Commissioners operates to protect both the railways and the public. This board—a basis for which might be found in the existing Tariff Advisory Board—would receive applications for tariff increases or decreases, as the case might be. The manufacturer of a certain article enjoying a protection of, say, 35 per cent., might appear before the board and show that it was desirable in the national interest to increase his protection to 40 per cent. On the other hand, a group of taxpayers might succeed in demonstrating that the protection of the manufacturer in question should be reduced five or 10 per cent. on the ground that he was taking unfair advantage of the 35 per cent. already granted him.

It is common sense that Canadians should do everything possible to encourage manufacturing within their own country. At the same time, the public cannot be blamed if it takes exception to the application of the protective principle in favor of firms who will use the help thus extended to them, to grind the last nickel out of the pockets of the people. If it is generally admitted—and both the major political parties do admit it—that Canada must maintain a policy of protective tariff, it is eminently reasonable that a tariff board, having well-defined authority, should be established to deal with just such matters as we have mentioned. The way to sell protection to the man on the street is to let him know that he, as well as the fellow above, is going to be protected.—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The present session of Parliament is moving along orthodox lines. Henri Bourassa's contribution to the Budget has produced the usual storm.

Jack Miner's addresses tomorrow should be heard by large audiences. His mission is in the interest of Peterborough, and that fact, coupled with his reputation as a speaker of much magnetism, should ensure two crowded houses.

Narrow-waisted coats are to be the new style for men. The 1928 fashions should add some variety to the landscape.

There is only one pupil in a rural school in Lanark. What a snap that youngster has in leading his class each month.

Municipalities can save a large share of the gasoline tax by making sure that no gas is wasted in joy-riding with civic cars.

The United States House approved without a change, except to increase one vote, all the War Department's military appropriations. Evidently there are no Agnes MacPhails at Washington.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 9 (Canadian Press).—Owing to the sharp advance in price for corn in the Chicago market yesterday, a stronger feeling developed in the local situation for Argentine corn, and prices were marked up 1c to 2c per bushel. Sales of car lots were made at $1.05 per bushel, ex-store. There was no change in prices for oats.

The local flour situation failed to produce any further developments yesterday. Prices for Spring wheat grades were about steady. The volume of new business was reported small. The condition of the trade in Winter wheat flour showed no improvement and the demand was still of a limited character. Car lots of choice grades went at $5.90 to $6.00 per barrel in second-hand jute bags, ex-track. The movement of white corn flour was slow and prices were unchanged.

The tone of the market for mill-feed was strong at the late advance in prices recorded under a good consumptive demand for supplies. A fair business was done in Manitoba bran at $35.25, shorts at $37.25 and middlings at $45.25 per ton. There was no change in standard grades of rolled oats.

The market for baled hay was without any new feature. Prices continued to rule steady.

Prices for storage eggs were unchanged while the demand was light. The demand for fresh eggs was fairly good with prices ruling steady.

Small supplies caused a firmer feeling to prevail in the poultry yesterday and prices, in some cases, were marked up.

A firm feeling prevailed in the market for potatoes. The demand was steady and prices were: New Brunswick Green Mountains $1.25, New Brunswick Whites $1.20 and Quebec varieties $1.10 per bag of 90 pounds.

Owing to small supplies on spot, a stronger feeling prevailed in the market for imported beans and prices scored an advance of 10c per bushel. Sales were made at $3.20 per bushel, ex-store, and car lots to arrive were quoted at $3.00 per bushel, ex-track.

The market for honey was steady but demand was limited.

The trade in butter showed no improvement and the market remained quiet. The undertone, however, was steady and prices remained unchanged.

The cheese trade was slow with demand dull and prices unchanged.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Ills., Feb. 9 (Canadian Press).—Predictions of a dollar-a-bushel corn before the end of the season had much to do yesterday with big buying which lifted prices fast.

Closing quotations on corn were buoyant at the highest level since early in December and showing 1⅞ to 2⅝ cents net advance compared with Tuesday's finish. Wheat closed ⅛ to ¼ cent to ⅝ cent up; oats at ⅜c to ½ to ⅝c gain, and provisions at a rise of 2 cents to 10 cents.

Wheat rallied at the last, sympathizing with corn strength. Besides, there were wheat crop damage reports from many sections of soft wheat territory. Earlier, the wheat market was depressed as a result of a break in vessel rates from Argentino and expected larger shipments from there, causing a decided drop in wheat quotations at Liverpool. Oats traders took their cue chiefly from the action of corn.

Provisions went higher with hog values and with grain.

CHICAGO CATTLE

Dr. Frank Crane's Daily Editorial

A NEW START
By Dr. Frank Crane.

We often wish that we could live our lives over.

We see where we have made mistakes, and see in the clutches of what untoward things we have been caught, and we would like to start again with the new knowledge we possess.

Most resolutions that are formed are useless because they have not enough steam behind them. We haven't the power to carry them into effect.

The one motivating power that we all have at hand and which we can call on in any emergency is love.

Love something.

Find something or somebody that you love. Make your resolution for the sake of that love and backed by it.

A resolution that is purely intellectual or purely from the will is not of as much value as one which is backed by the power of a supreme love.

It may be the love of a mother that you have neglected so far, but for whom you really feel strong affection. It may be love of a wife, or children, or a friend. Whatever it is, it is a life buoy for your sinking will. Lay hold of it and it will keep you up.

As well try to run a locomotive without steam or an automobile without gasoline as try to steer your life without love.

It is the motive power that underlies the will.

All of us love something.

Search your heart for some object upon which you can center all your affection and by that love you shall be saved.

Love is the keeping of all the commandments and love is the true savior of man.

We remember an instance in the Scriptures of a woman who was a great sinner, but who was pardoned because she loved much.

Love is the only thing that counterbalances our wrong-doings.

All conclusions that are reached by anything else than love are falsehood. Love sees and understands. Hate is blind.

Wise and Otherwise

Clothes are destroying morality in the South Sea Islands, says a British official. At any rate, America is getting more righteous every day.

Geraldine Farrar says youth is largely in the mind. We've noticed that, too.

People used to think the world was flat. Then it was found to be round. But it's still just a little crooked in spots.

C.G.I.T. GROUP HOLDS TEA

Enjoyable Social Event Held on Saturday Afternoon at Millbrook.

MUSICAL PROGRAM

MILLBROOK, Feb. 9.—The afternoon tea held at the home of Mrs. E. S. Burnham, Main Street, under the auspices of the Wide Awake C.G.I.T. group, on Saturday afternoon, from 3.00 to 6 o'clock, was attended by about eighty guests, and was a very enjoyable social event.

The C.G.I.T. colors were featured in the tea room with blue candles, in brass holders, burning on the tea table and the mantel, and blue runners on the white tea cloth. The girls of the group looked very attractive in their C.G.I.T. uniforms, white middies with blue collars and cuffs, and navy serge skirts.

Mrs. Burnham received with her daughter, and contributing to the musical program, which was much enjoyed, were Mrs. (Rev.) P. E. Howard, Mrs. H. W. Johnston, Mrs. G. W. Sayles and her daughter, Miss Marjorie, in vocal numbers; with piano solos by Misses Ella Elson and Estelle Hetherington, and a piano duet by two little girls, Bryer Edmunds and Mary Burnham.

Assisting in the tea room were Misses Elsie Spence and Jean Burnham, who poured tea; and Misses Wilma Fallis, Hazel McMahon, Margaret McCarthy, and Marguerite Hawken, who served the guests. In the hall answering the door and looking after the removal of wraps, were Misses Jean Stinson, Dorothy McDowell, and Annie McMahon, and inviting the guests to the tea room were Misses Margaret Howard and Marjorie Sayles; Miss Flossie McMahon acted as cashier. Mrs. G. E. Burnham, Mrs. A. J. Henderson, and Mrs. Albert Brown supervised the making of the tea and the refilling of the plates of sandwiches and cake.

The social side of the gathering was particularly stressed, and among the guests who were coming and going throughout the hours when the event was in progress, were a few gentlemen who came in for a cup of the fragrant beverage and to enjoy the musical program.

The girls chose this manner of adding to the funds in their treasury, for the first time in their history as a group, and will put on a missionary program at a public meeting, under the auspices of the Golden Link Mission Circle, in the basement of the church on Tuesday, February 14, when there will also be a social side to the gathering with contests, etc., suitable to Saint Valentine's Day as concluding features.

HORSE INELIGIBLE.

T. J. McCabe, owner of "Royal," awarded the Governor-General's Cup at the Royal Winter Fair in November, whose entry has been deemed ineligible by the Horse Show Committee as under the eligible age and over the stipulated height.

A Thought

Small children make much noise, little creeks babble along, unintelligent hens cackle, and the vanity of the rooster causes him to crow, which prompts one to say that the most successful people are silent about themselves, but the failures seem to feel that they must furnish you with a first edition of their enthusiastic efforts, but are wisely silent on their actual achievement.

Latest Comment on Grain and Industrial Markets.

Closing Quotations on the Principal Active Stocks.

F. G. Oke and Company wires as follows:

TORONTO, Feb. 9. — Noranda staged a rapid come back this morning which could be expected on account of the severe decline experienced in this stock yesterday. All available reports on Noranda operations are most optimistic and satisfactory and there appears little doubt that this reaction is of a temporary nature only.

The remainder of the market was patchy strength being shown in some issues while some of the market leaders were off a few points.

Both Bidgood and Barry Hollinger, which were two of the outstanding market features of a few weeks ago, were a little firmer at prevailing prices. Encouraging reports are being issued from time to time regarding the results of exploration at Bidgood. We are informed the downward extension of ore on the 300 foot level has been located at a depth of 400-ft.showing widths of 8-12 feet; also cross-cutting now in progress on the 600-ft. level is confidently expected to encounter a further downward extension of this ore body. Considering the very promising results that have been obtained to date on upper levels it would not be surprising to hear of Bidgood eventually locating some ore body or ore bodies of major importance at depth. Consequently the favorable outlook at the mine, and the substantial reaction in prices gives added attractions to Bidgood shares.

According to reliable information, extensive preparations are under on the 1000-ft. level at Barry Hollinger for the singing of a three compartment winze to a depth of 1500-ft. Apparently the Barry management are highly optimistic of locating at greater depths the downward extensions of ore bodies disclosed on the 1000-ft. level. As ore deposition seems to have improved considerably on the lower levels there appears fair chances of eventually locating ore bodies of major importanec.

New York Market Moving Upward Again

NEW YORK, February 9 (Canadian Press). — After an early period of irregularity to-day, the stock market swung upward under the leadership of the Standard Industrials. The lowering of the call money rate from 4½ to 4¼ per cent., reports of further improvement in the steel industry, and expectations of a special dividend disbursement by the General Motors directors after a close stimulated buying movement which embraced a wide assortment of stocks. General Motors changed hands in enormous volume, climbing nearly two points to around 139 as against the record price of 141 for the present stock established last year. United States Steel Common was bid up more than two points to 147 on buying influenced by predictions of an unusually favorable steel tonnage statement at noon to-morrow.

Prices Are Irregular On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, February 9 (Canadian Press). — Prices were irregular on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning, with gains and losses about even. Zimmerknit suffered the greatest loss, selling down two points at 23. Shredded Wheat was down one at 71. International Petroleum was very active, but sold down ¾ at 37½. British-American Oil, leader of the unlisted stocks, eased down ¾ at 36. Canada Dredge Common and Preferred were down one and two points respectively. Building Products, Brazilian New, Canadian Oil, Massey-Harris and Zimmerknit were fractionally lower. Page Hersey made the highest gain in the listed stocks, selling up 1¼ at 31½, while Northern Bakeries in the unlisted jumped 1¾ to 47.

Corn and Wheat Drop; Export Business Lags

CHICAGO, February 9 (Canadian Press). — Commission house selling increased on corn price up-turns today and indications pointed to a dearth of export business in corn overnight. Under such circumstances corn and wheat both developed weakness early with wheat influenced also by declines at Liverpool and cheaper offerings from Argentina. Opening ⅛c to ⅝c off, corn rallied in some cases to above yesterday's finish. Wheat started ⅛c to ⅛c to ½c down and held near to the initial figures. Oats were easy. Opening prices were: Wheat, March 129⅛, May 128⅞. Corn, March 91½, May 93⅞. Oats, March 54⅞, May 55¾.

Mine Market Weak With Losses Small

TORONTO, Feb. 9. — (Canadian Press.)—The mining market continued weak to-day, with losses generally within a narrow range. Pend O'Reille proved a strong spot, registering a gain of 50 cents at 10.75. Sherritt Gordon sold up to 8.00 in early trading but closed unchanged at 7.50. Kirkland Lake issues were all weak. Lake Shore sold down 50 cents at 24.00 and Wright Hargreaves sold down 13 cents at 5.02. Teck Hughes closed around 8.65. Among the Porcupines, Dome firmed to 12.00, unchanged, and McIntyre dropped back to 26.50. Barry Hollinger was firm, closing a point and a half above the close yesterday. Granada Rouyn and Capital Rouyn both were a point higher. Nipissing came back to 3.00 in spite of a small gain in the price of silver. Kelley was up one at sixty.

MRS. C. R. BANKS AGAIN PRESIDENT

Home and School Association of Queen Mary School Elects Officers.

The regular meeting of the Queen Mary Home and School Association was held on Tuesday evening, Feb 7, in the school auditorium. There was a fairly large attendance. The president, Mrs. C. R. Banks, presided. Following the business meeting, a most enjoyable program was given. Piano solo by Miss Isabella Lillico; Vocal solo by Miss Olga Huffman accompanied by Miss Buelah Huffman; Miss Winnifred Bohn was also heard in a delightful piano selection. Those present where then favored with an address by Mr. McKeen, who spoke in the interests of the Chamber of Commerce. A vote of thanks was extended the speaker and those taking part in the program by Mr. E. G. Wagar and seconded by Mrs. T. Skinner. Mr. Wagar then took the chair for the election of officers for the coming year.

President, Mrs. C. R. Banks; 1st Vice-President, Mrs. S. H. Huffman; 2nd Vice-President, Mrs. W. Lytle; 3rd Vice-President, Mr. E. G. Wagar; 4th Vice-President, Mrs. J. E. Middleton; Secretary, Mrs. W. T. Wilson; Treasurer, Mrs. Wm. Cathcart; Program Convenor, Mrs. G. S. Parlour; Refreshment Convenors, Mrs. Worsencroft and Mrs. T. Skinner, with Mesdames Trussler, Shiner, and Dobson as their helpers. Relief Committee Convenor, Mrs. W. T. Hall.

Mrs. Craig's and Mr. Wagar's rooms were a tie for the banner this month. Mr. Wagar won the prize donated by the president, for the teacher obtaining the banner the most often during the past year. The meeting then closed with the National Anthem. Dainty refreshments were then served by Mrs. Worsencroft and her assistants.

BANQUET MARKS LODGE BIRTHDAY

The Star of Bethlehem L.O.B.A. No. 650 celebrated its third anniversary by a banquet held in the Rose Room Cafe last evening.

About thirty sat down to a table beautifully decorated with orange streamers, orange candles in brass candle holders, and pretty vases of orange tulips. The three-storey birthday cake centred the table.

A toast to the King was proposed by Mayor Roland Denne.

A toast to "Grand Lodge," proposed by Mrs. E. Tait, Worthy Mistress of Star of Bethlehem Lodge L.O.B.A., was responded to by Mrs. C. Wright, Provincial Grand Treasurer of Ontario East.

Recitation—Miss Verna Huffman.

A toast to "Our Visitors" was proposed by Mrs. Terrace and responded to by Miss Brown, Worthy Mistress of Eastern Star L.O.B.A., and Mrs. F. Millard, Worthy Mistress of Vimy Ridge L.O.B.A.

A toast to "Our City" was proposed by Mrs. Anderson and responded to by Mayor Denne.

The birthday cake was cut by Mrs. E. Tait, the Worthy Mistress of the Lodge.

The remainder of the evening was spent socially.

"Pants Gang" Thieves Caught In New York

NEW YORK, Feb. 9 (Canadian Press).—Three men and two women, including Mrs. Anna Gordon and her husband, Charles Gordon, of Toronto, arrested today in a raid on an apartment in the lower east side, were declared by the police to be members of the "Pants Gang" of burglars, so called because they forced their victims to remove their trousers to prevent pursuit.

P.C.I. STUDENTS HEAR DR. KARR

Speaker Stresses Advantages of Organization in Interesting Talk.

COMPLIMENTS PRICIPAE.

Almost four hundred and fifty students of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute gathered in the Canadian Legion Hall to-day at 1.30 p.m., where they listened to a brief but intensely interesting and profitable address by Dr. Karr co-worker with Harry R. McKeen, in promoting the Peterborough Forward Movement.

Dr. Karr in his few minutes talk to the students dwelt on the wisdom of recognizing and taking advantage of opportunity as it came to each of of them, and at the conclusion of his discourse favorable and enthusiastic comment was heard on all sides.

Speaking of the meeting, Dr. Karr expressed his pleasure at having had the opportunity to address the students on whose kind attention, clean-cut appearance and general morale, he wished to compliment Principal H. R. H. Kenner.

DR. KARR DISCUSSES EXODUS TO STATES

Addresses Patrons of Capitol Theatre, Stressing Need of Building.

The patrons of the Capitol Theatre were given something extra for their money last night in a ten minute address between reels by Alex. Karr, educational director in the Peterborough Forward Movement being staged by the Chamber of Commece.

Mr. Karr had read the evening papers in which it had been announced that Canada had lost more than 274,000 of its population to the United States.

This stirred the risibilities of the doughty Doctor and he proceeded to show the why of this hegira to the land southward.

"Surely the United States is glad to welcome these fine men and women of a common language and ideals. They are our type of folks. They fit immediately into the social and economic life of the nation.

"The tragedy," continued Mr. Karr, "is on this side of the line. You have bred, and raised, and educated these fine young people only to lose them just when they have become an asset to the Dominion.

"The most important asset of any community is its man power," exclaimed Mr. Karr. "No nation can advance when it continually loses its best to another nation."

He illustrated his point by the report of a survey of man power made by England immediately following the world war. This report was so discouraging to Parliament that one member exclaimed: "Some of these communities remind me of a fished out mill-pond—nothing left but bullheads and suckers."

"Canada is not that bad but you must build your communities agriculturally, industrially and socially to hold your best young men and women here at home. That is why you should have a strong Chamber of Commerce actively at work for Peterborough. You have the natural resources and opportunity. Now build."

Dr. Karr was given a tremendous round of applause at the conclusion of his address.

MAJOR BENNETT OFFICERS NAMED

I.O.D.E. Chapter Holds Annual Meeting—Donations Made.

The annual meeting of the Major Bennett Chapter, I.O.D.E., was held on Tuesday at the home of Edythe Cottrell, 351 McDonnel Street. At this meeting it was decided to donate $25.00 to the I.O.D.E War Memorial, $25.00 to the Peterborough Health Association, and $50.00 to the King's Daughters.

Then followed the election of officers, which resulted as follows:

Regent—Jean Fraser.
Vice-Regent — Margaret McCullough.
Treasurer—Jean Killaly.
Secretary—Edythe Cottrell.
Standard bearer—Jean Burrell.
Councillors — Mary Westbye, Gwen Hewitt, Grace Caddy, Doris Kelly, Evelyn Armstrong.

During the meeting, it was decided to hold a community bridge on Saturday afternoon. March 10. Refeshments were served at the close of the meeting.

The Least Excitement Made Her Heart Palpitate and Flutter

Mrs. Ambrose Orser, Elginburg, Ont., writes:—"I suffered for some time with a bad heart which seemed to be controlled by my nerves. The least little excitement would cause it to flutter and palpitate, and at times I would have real bad spells. I suffered in this way for some time when, one day, I saw MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS advertised, so decided to try them. I had only taken a few boxes when I noticed that I felt better, so I continued taking them and in a short time my heart felt entirely different.'

Price 50c. a box at all druggists and dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

FOLLOWING GRANDFATHER

After a lapse of twenty years, the name Joseph Chamberlain re-appears on the toast-list of the annual dinner of the Birmingham Jewellers' Association, held on January 28 and attended by the Prince of Wales. The great statesman's 20-year-old grandson, who bears the same name, made his debut as a speaker under the eye of his father. Sir Austen Chamberlain, Foreign Secretary. The Cabinet Minister is seen with his inseparable monocle, while his son, who is a noted sportsman, was caught by the camera with his almost equally inseparable gun.

Bass-Canzoneri Will Meet Friday Night To Settle Featherweight Division Dispute

NEW YORK, N.Y., February 9 (Canadian Press). — The title turmoil in the featherweight division, confined mostly to argument and nominations of rival ruling boxing bodies since Kid Kaplan, the Meriden buzz-saw, laid down the championship, will get down to the business of fisticuffs in Madison Square Garden on Friday night.

A year of argument, pro and con, and a series of tournaments, finally has brought Benny Bass, champion in the eyes of the National Boxing Association, and Tony Canzoneri, 126 pound prize of the New York State Athletic Commission, into the roped arena. The boys are scheduled to fight 15 rounds, the championship route, with the winner accepted generally as the undisputed titleholder.

Bass, a willing, hard-punching youngster from Philadelphia, won National Boxing Association recognition by defeating Red Chapman, of Boston, several months ago. The New York Italian, after an unsuccessful campaign to dislodge Bud Taylor, of Chicago, as the outstanding bantamweight, turned to the heavier division, and whipped Johnny Dundee ,who vacated the title before Kaplan came to the throne. Canzoneri trounced Taylor here in a featherweight battle.

Although the youngsters are evenly matched, odds yesterday ranged 6 to 5 in Canzoneri's favor as both eased off in their final training preparations.

SEATS IN SENATE TO STAY VACANT

Government Not Expected To Make Appointments During Session.

OTTAWA, Feb. 9.— (Canadian Press.)—There are two vacancies in the Senate at the present time, both being Quebec seats. The party standing in the Upper House is now as follows: Conservatives fifty, Liberals forty-three, Progressive one, vacant two.

Though there is no established custom respecting the appointment of Senators during the Parliamentary session, it is said here that the government will not likely fill the present two Quebec seats in the Upper House until after prorogation.

TORONTO POLICE FORCE IS RAISED

One Hundred Men To Be Added at the Beginning of March.

TORONTO, Feb. 9.—Toronto's police force will be augmented on March 1 by 100 additional men at a cost of $123,000 for the remaining 10 months of 1928, the Board of Control decided yesterday at a private session when considering the Police Department estimates. The 300 asked for by Chief Dickson was not forthcoming, but special equipment was provided for at a cost of $49,000, comprising a traffic signal system at each important intersection from Bloor and Dundas streets easterly to the end of Danforth avenue and a radio system for the flashing of crime news to all police divisions and patrolling police cars.

The estimates as submitted by the department were reduced in all by $200,000, but the budget over last year will show a net increase which will mean a one-quarter mill rise in the tax rate for police administration.

Three officers will be alloted to the Island on a permanent basis. There has been but one there during the winter months.

Under the radio scheme, a broadcasting and receiving set will be placed at headquarters and in each station, while three police cars will be continually on the streets, equipped with receiving sets. Through this installation, along with the additional traffic signals, it is thought that many more officers will be made available for duty.

Woman's Face Crosses Sea By Television; Inventor Explains Difficulty of Getting Girl

LONDON, February 9 (Canadian Press).—New worlds were opened up early today when faces were flashed across the sea by television in a way which was never foreseen by Jules Verne in all his fanciful imaginations. For the very first time the image of a woman was sent across despite the fact she left her position in front of the transmitter a few seconds to glance in a wall mirror to make certain her hair had not become mussed in the excitement. Dummies and men's faces had been flashed across in previous tests, but never a woman.

John L. Baird, inventor of the televisor, explained he had difficulty in finding a woman willing to attempt to sit still for twenty minutes or half an hour. The transmission was accomplished from Baird's television laboratories in London direct into the receiving station at Hartsdale, N.Y., which had been rigged up for the occasion.

BIBLE AND PRAYER SERVICE CONTINUES

Rev. A. W. Roffe Gives Forceful Address at Bethany Tabernacle.

(Contributed.)

The Bible and Prayer Conference that is now being conducted by Rev. A. W. Roffe, of Toronto, in Bethany Tabernacle, George street, is increasing splendidly in interest. There is increasing evidence of the approach of the Lord upon this effort of the speaker to bring before the Christian people of this city the two-fold fact of our being too busy to practice the command of David in Psa. 105:1: "Call Upon His (Lord's) Name" and the mighty results that follow the exercise of this ministry.

Mr. Roffe in his opening remarks last evening congratulated those present on their successful journey to the church. It was a perilous undertaking because of the icy streets, but those who undertook it were well repaid for their coming.

The ministry and need of prayer is being wonderfully opened up at the prayer conference at the 3 o'clock hour every afternoon. The scripture verse for these afternoon meetings is Eph. 6:18, "Praying always with all prayer and supplication in the Spirit and watching thereunto with all perseverance and supplication for all saints."

And the portion of yesterday's exhortation was the first two words, "Praying always." One startling remark of the speaker yesterday was, "The sad thing to-day is that Christian people are willing to be too busy to pray."

The subject of the address in the Bible conference at 8 o'clock was, "The Exceeding Greatness of His Power," Eph. 1:19. The speaker very ably spoke of the mighty anointing of the spirit for life and service for every believer who would enter into such a life. He warned against running around after power and showed the greatness of the power to stand in faith and power to believe when trouble and adversity comes. Power to enter into God's plan and go out at His bidding in service for a lost world. The speaker saidd, "Man is looking for quantity, but God is looking for quality."

Mr. Roff's subject for these night addresses is "Out Into the Deep With the Apostle Paul."

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches rub on good old Musterole.

Musterole relieves the congestion and stimulates circulation. It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

First you feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief. Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

We Invite You As Partners

To the People of Peterborough:

The Peterborough Brewing Company is now in the process of rebuilding the Calcutt plant under the able supervision of George C. Wiedenmayer, one of the leading brewery experts of the United States. The Company has ordered its machinery and expects to be brewing its product within the next sixty days.

Our invested capital in most part has come from outside sources. It has been our effort to demonstrate to the investors in this vicinity our sincerity in trying to give to Peterborough a real industry, a needed enterprise. It has also been our effort to keep our expenditures down and to keep away from any unnecessary promotion.

The writer feels that money invested in the Peterborough Brewing Company is more than a speculation. We are certain of Mr. Wiedenmayer's ability to produce for this company ales and beers on a par or better than others brewed in the Dominion of Canada. This expression is based on our knowledge of the development and sale of "Wiedenmayer's Famous Cream Ale" of Newark, New Jersey.

Peterborough needs this industry. Peterborough should take pride in its development and success.

We do not care to sell any more shares than is necessary to carry the project to a definite success and a going concern.

We do, however, desire local partners in this enterprise who will share with us the fruits of a successful business.

People of Peterborough are familiar with Calcutt's Ale. It will be our effort to carry on the same trade name with a product meriting the patronage of the people of Peterborough and its environs.

Successful breweries have shown unusual profits. We are in possession of facts and figures warranting the assertion of startling financial successes in this particular industry, which, from our study of the situation, should, and unquestionably will, apply to the Peterborough Brewing Company.

Stockholders in this Company are enthusiastic over its prospects.

We invite you to share with us this confidence and opportunity.

At our office, 183 Charlotte Street, we will be glad to give you further details, and inspect for yourself what we believe to be one of the best investments offered here.

AN EASY WAY TO LOSE FAT

Instead of abnormal exercise or diet, they combat a cause of excess fat. They supply an element Nature employs to turn food into fuel and energy. This method was discovered by research men some two decades ago. It has for 20 years been embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. Millions of boxes have been taken, and almost every circle shows the results in new beauty, new health and vitality.

The formula comes in every box, also the scientific reasons for results. So users have no fear of harm. Go learn now what Marmola does for excess fat, and why. Your druggist supplies it at $1 per box. Take four tablets daily and watch the change.

NEW CHURCH NOW PLANNED

St. John's United Congregation, Campbellford, Needs Larger Building.

CAMPAIGN CONSIDERED.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 9.—Practically every church in the community has enjoyed a very prosperous year during 1927, but only one has so far found their church building inadequate to the need of the congregation. As a result of the exceptionally good reports from the various organizations of St. John's United Church, it was decided at the annual congregational meeting to take the initial steps toward building a new church of proportions suitable to the needs of the congregation and its activities. The reports presented at the meeting were for a period of only nine months since it was desired to close the books of the church at the end of the calendar year and not on the last day of the month of March, as has been the custom in years past. Therefore the amounts mentioned were not as large as they would have been had the additional three months been included as formarly.

The resolution to build a new church was introduced and seconded by J. A. Irwin and A. M. Rollo, and was endorsed by the congregation.

"Whereas, the present building is entirely inadequate to carry on successfully the regular activities of the church, especially the Sunday School and Young People's mid-week work, and in consideration of the fact that some expensive alterations have to be made in the immediate future: It is resolved that this congregation go on record as being favorable to the erection of a new church as soon as sufficient funds can be created to warrant proceeding with this work, and that a committee be appointed to arrange a campaign for the purpose of raising such a fund."

This was as far as the matter went on the night of the congregational meeting, but it is understood on good authority that the committee has been formed at a later meeting of the members of session and the board of managers. Just what method they will pursue in the efforts to achieve their objective has not yet been made public, but it is understood that no time is to be lost in getting the campaign underway.

Another resolution which was unanimously endorsed by the congregation was presented by D. W. Douglas and J. C. Birmingham. This expressed the high appreciation of the entire congregation of the work and efforts of the Rev. Ernest Harston since his arrival in Campbellford as minister of St. John's United Church Mrs. Harston was highly commended for her work in connection with the various church organizations.

Burnbrae

BURNBRAE, Beb. 9.—The Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's Churrh held the regular February meeting in the basement of the church on Thursday last, when a good number of members and friends gathered for a real old-time quilting bee. In addition to helping the society in a financial way by their work the ladies enjoyed an hour of fellowshp and fun at the noon hour, when a bountiful dinner was served.

Friends of Mrs. Fred Hay are pleased to learn that she is recovering rapidly from a serious operation in Belleville Hospital.

Over forty members of the Hoard's Ladies' Aid and their friends braved the elements of Wednesday evening last, to attend the regular meeting, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Oddie. After the regular business and a short program the Rev. C. D. Daniel led in a period of community fun. A dainty lunch was served.

The lure of the hockey game seems to be just as strong as ever and no amount of snow can stop the hardy motorists of this district from seeing their favorite game. With seemingly impenetratable drifts on most of the roads, the rural attendance at Friday evening's Campbellford-Stirling game was expected to be below the average, but thanks to the industrious use of shovels and the burning of a little more gas than usual most of the crowd were able to get through. Those that were afraid to trust the cars pulled out the old-time nag and went anyway.

The development of winter motoring in the past few years has been very rapid and with the increased use of warm closed cars and the demand for more winter driving, it is hoped that in a very few years some effort will be made to keep at least the main roads in this vicinity ploughed free of snow to permit the constant use of motor cars.

MISSION BAND MEETS.

Girls Give Sketch Showing Hospital Scene in Indian Mission Field.

The regular meeting of the Gilmour Memorial Mission Band was held on Sunday afternoon in the basement of the church. Mrs. J. A. Young gave a talk on missionary work. Recitations were given by Phyllis Moore and Winnifred Tighe, after which a short sketch was put on portraying a scene in an Indian medical mission hospital. Those taking part were: Margaret Mann as the doctor, Betty Edgar as the English nurse, Lilian McGregor as the native nurse. Patients were: Marion Blewett, Hazel Tighe, Eunice Hammond, Fred Metcalfe, Donald Moore, Jean Metcalfe, Harry Metcalfe, Jim Moore.

CHURCH REPORTS ARE ENCOURAGING

Annual Meeting Held by Bridgenorth United Congregation.

The annual business meeting of the Bridgenorth United Church was held on Thursday evening, Feb. 2, with a representative congregation present. The leader of the choir, W. A. Sidey, led the congregation in the singing of some familiar hymns. Then the pastor, Rev. J. V. McNeely, proceeded to conduct the business session, which consisted of the reports of the various society treasurers, and the election of the necessary stewards for the year.

The total receipts for the nine months (April 1 to December 31) were almost $2,200, divided among: Church treasury, $1,140.00; Maintenance and extension fund, $280.00; W.M.S., $59.00; Ladies' Aid, $565.00; Sunday School, $123.00.

The stewards elected were Thomas Black for one year, and W. J. Robinson for three years. Mr. Robinson was also appointed treasurer of the church.

The teachers of the Agricultural Short Course at Bridgenorth were present, and gave instructional addresses; vocal and instrumental numbers were rendered by Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Sidey, and Mrs. A. K. Nicholls, both of which were greatly appreciated.

At the close of the program a dainty lunrh was served by the ladies of the congregation, and a very happy, social hour was spent.

COUGHS AND COLDS DREADED BY MOTHERS

What a weight of responsibility rests on the mother of the family during the cold weather season. In every cough and cold she seems to hear the warning of serious developments. She dreads croup, bronchitis, pneumonia and consumption and realizes that these are the natural results of neglected colds. But Dr. Chase has provided a prompt relief for coughs and colds and a preventive of more serious ailments of throat and lungs, in his Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

This medicine is so well-known that only a reminder is necessary to most people to recall its effectiveness in relieving croup, bronchitis, asthma and all forms of throat and bronchial troubles.

LIFE UNDERWRITERS TO HEAR ROCKWELL

Nearly 100 Aready Registered For Series of Addresses Next Week.

The conference of the Life Underwriters' Association here next week promises a large attendance of the members from this city and district. Nearly one hundred life insurance men have already signified their intention of hearing Dr. Charles J. Rockwell in his three-day visit to Peterborough, and it is expected that the attendance may reach one hundred and twenty-five. The sessions will be held in the Public Library next Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, February 15, 16, and 17. The program also includes a banquet which the local association is tendering all members registering at this series.

Insurance men from Lindsay, Belleville, Orillia. Kingston, and other centres are expected to be here for this conference, which, as in other cities, should be an inspiration to all those who hear Dr. Rockwell. He began his present itinerary in Saskatoon on February 2, and will conclude it in Halifax on March 3 with three-day sessions also in Regina, Winnipeg, Peterborough, Ottawa, Montreal, and St. John.

This opportunity to life underwriters is extended under the auspices of the Canadian Underwriters' Association of Canada in conjunction with the local association, and deserves the active support of every member. H. B. Matthews. president of the Peterborough Association, hopes that Peterborough will present one of the best audiences in Dr. Rockwell's tour.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma. bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or 'flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

SEYMOUR CIRCUIT CHARGES MEET

Congregations Have Had Successful Year, Reports Show.

This week was a busy week on the charge when the three congregations held their annual meetings. The congregations gathered around 6 o'clock at tables filled in banquet style and, after a fine repast, the business sessions of the various congregations were held. The Seymour charge, under the pastorate of the Rev. Charles D. Daniel has had a most successful year. The charge has 120 families, consisting of about 600 people with a church membership of 200. The Sunday schools have a membership of 350. The leagues of 200, the Ladies' Aids of 100, while one W.M.S. The Seymour United, has a membership of 22 and raised $185 by free will offerings, twice the amount of its Presbyterial allocation.

During the nine months of this year $800 was raised for M. and E., the full allotment of Presbytery, $1350 on stipend, the minister receiving $1800 for the full year. The Ladies' Aids raised over $1000, the Sunday schools $400 and the Leagues, $120. The total receipts for the nine months of the fiscal year were over $5,500 from all sources. Six new members were received, but through death and removal certificates, this increase was diminished so that the membership is the same as that of last year. There are church buildings and property to the value of $14,000, with an insurance covering of $6,000.

What is expected to be the best year in its present history is looked forward to in this year of 1928.

The report of the individual churches are as follow:

Stephens—Hoards Station.

The minister gave a few important statistics, some of them as follows: baptisms during the year, two: marriages, one: burials, three. Three members received by profession of faith, three by letter, one member removed by death. The church now shows 35 families, with 70 members. The members of the session are Totten Williams, A. H. Parr, Edward Rennie, Alex Hume (clerk), Charles D. Daniel, moderator.

The Treasurer's Report was then presented by Andrew Heagle, a very creditable report. Nine hundred and twenty-eight dollars was received from the duplex envelopes, plate collections and thank-offering. Expenses to the extent of $900 had been met, stipend $422, M. and E. Fund, $250, renovating the church $100 and other small amounts Percy Oddie was re-elected to the board of managers, their personnel being John Thompson, Andrew Heagle (sec.-treas.) Percy Oddie, charles Hoard, Allan Hutcheon.

The Women's Missionary Society report was presented by Mrs. William Rannie. Their year has been most successful, with 22 members and 2 associate members, they more than doubled their Presbyterial allotment, an amount of $185.00 are being done by free-will offerings. Two life memberships were presented, one to Mrs. (Rev.) Charles D. Daniel and one to Miss Marion E. Walker. The officers for 1928 are as follows: President, Mrs. John Rannie; 1st Vice-Pres., Mrs. Charles D. Daniel; 2nd Vice-Pres., Mrs. William Rannie; Secretary, Miss Jean Rannie; Treasurer, Mrs. Ed. Rannie; Strangers' Sec., Mrs. Charles Hoard; Supply Secretary, Mrs. J. Parks; Assoc.-Secretary, Mrs. J. Tharby; Missionary Monthly, Mrs. J. Thompson; Press Secretary, Mrs. A. Hutcheon; Auditors, Mrs. Totten and Wray Williams.

Following this the Ladies' Aid Report was given by Mrs. Charles Hoard. A real year's work had been accomplished. The main task was the redecorating of the church and the renovation of the choir loft and pulpit platform; over $330 had been raised from the garden party, teas, etc. The New Year's officers are President, Mrs. J. Thompson; 1st Vice-Pres., Mrs. William Gunning; 2nd Vice-Pres., Mrs. J. Parks; Secretary, Mrs. Charles Hoard; Treasurer, Mrs. A. Hutcheon; Press Secretary, Mrs. J. Brown.

The Sunday school has had a most successful year. Its roll shows 13 teachers and officers, 58 pupils, 19 on the Cradle Roll and 15 in the same department. The average attendance has been 47. Finances to the extent of $115 had been raised, $20 of which had gone to the M. and E. Fund. The officers for 1928 are as follows: Supt. D. A. Weaver; Assistant Supt., William, Rannie: Secretary, Mitchell Rannie; Treasurer, Charles Hoard; Organist, Edith Gunning; Assistant Organist, Elsie Rannie; Superintendent, Cradle Roll, Mrs. Wray Williams; Superintendent, Missions, Charles D. Daniel, Superintendent Home Department, Vera Gunning; Librarian, Doris Rannie.

The enthusiasm of the League has been well held all year in spite of numerous counter-attractions. Altogether, there is a membership around 55 with an average attendance over 30. The League were responsible for presenting the church with the new system of gas lighting. The 1928 officers are: President, Frank Heagle; Vice-President, Mitchell Rannie; Secretary, Mrs. J. Brown; Assistant-Secretary, Mrs. Carmen Gunning; Treasurer, Clifford Heagle; Organist, Mrs. Percy Oddie; Assistant Organist, Miss Irene Thompson; Pres. Secretary, Mrs. Charles Hoard; Conveners, devotional, Ed. Rannie; Missionary, Mrs. J. W. Porks; Citizenship, Charles Hoard; Social, Mr. William Hume.

Last, but not least have been the activities of the Mission Circle. During the year many worth-while items of service were carried out, such as working a "motto" quilt, serving ice-cream and lemonade at the ball games, etc.; over $55 was forwarded to the W.M.S. Fund. The new officers are as follows: President, Irene Thompson; vice-President, Edith Gunning; Hon.-Presidents, (1), Miss Jean Rannie; (2), Mrs. Charles D. Daniel; Secretary, Helen Walker; Treasurer, Velma Gunning, Leafa Hay; Associate Helpers, Mrs. Carman Gunning; Literary Social Secretary, Velma Gunning; Strangers' Secretary, Mrs. Cecil Willis; Strangers' Supply Secretary, Elsie Rannie; Christian Citizenship and Finance, Doris Rannie; Press Secretary, Mrs. Frank Little.

Altogether, the church has had a very successful and enjoyable year's work.

Tabernacle Church—English Line

The report of the session was given by the minister. During the year there had been eight baptisims, one marriage and three deaths in the congregation. The congregation consisted of 50 families and had 65 of a membership. The personel of the session is Ernest Craighead, Herbert Tinney, Fred Stallery, Albert Grills, clerk, Charles D. Daniel moderator.

Ernest Mitchell then reported for the Board of Stewards. Over $1500 had been the receipts for the year, and had been expended as follows: M. and E. Fund, $300; final balance of the shed, $262; stipend, $506; smaller expenses, $200, leaving a workable balance of $300. The managers are Ernest Mitchell, Secretary-Treasurer; Fred Grills, Sam. Diamond, Garnet Grills, Fred Smith, Garnet Grills was re-elected to another term of office.

The Ladies' Aid report was quite outstanding. Through a garden party bazaar, teas, etc., over $500 has been raised, the majority of which had been spent for local church and parsonage improvements. Many gifts of flowers had been sent to the sick. Quilts, with a box of clothing had been sent to flowers had been sent to the sick. Quilts with a box of clothing had been sent to the Fred Victor Mission at Toronto; $25 was given to the M. and E. Fund. The officers are as follows President, Mrs. Ernest Mitchell; Vice-President, Mrs. H. E. Stephens; Secretary, Mrs. Sam. Diamond; Treasurer, Mrs. Fred Peake, Jr.

The Sunday school presented a very favourable report, with 13 teachers and officers, 84 pupils, 18 on the cradle Roll, and 16 in the Home Department; there had been an average attendance of about 50 Financially, the school had raised over $90, of which the majority of it had gone for running expenses. Eleven children received prizes for attendance. Firsts, Gwelda Dunk, Teddy Peake, Gerald Mitchell; seconds, Jean Peake, Thelma Stollery, Ruth Tinney, Jurene Stephens, Edythe Grills, Donald Stephens, Olive Tinney and Illene Stephens. The officers for 1928 are as follows Superintendent, Herbert Tinney; Asst.-Superintendent Norris Loucks; Secretary, Bessie Grills Treasurer, Sarah Craighead; Organist, Ruth Tinney; Superintendent Missions, Kate Gould; Superintendent Cradle Roll, Mrs. Ernest Craighead; Superintendent Home Department, Mrs. F. Peake Sr.

The League enjoying real success this year with a membership around 60, the average attendance having been about 40. Four of the members received distinction in having completed courses at T. training school and winter school and having received certificates. The officers for 1928 are as follows President, Miss Lilian Locke; Secretary, Verna Tinney; Treasurer, Clarence Dunk; Organist, Edna Diamond. The conveners are Devotional, Ernest Craighead; Missionary, Kate Gould; Citizenship, Ernest Mitchell; Literary and Recreational, Mary Peake; Junior, Violet Dunk.

Ernest Craighead gave a report of the cemetery Fund. Donations had come in liberally during the year. The expenses were about $40, but there was a running balance of $150. The members of the Cemetery Board are Peter Stephens, Fred Peake, Fred Grills, Lewis Dunk, Ernest Craighead, Sec.-Treasurer.

It was resolved on the part of all that special effort would be put forth this year for a bigger membership drive for the church.

Zion Church—Pethericks Corners.

Though last on the list of reports, this church has had a very enviable record this year. Statistics showed the following baptisms, 1; marriages, 2; burials, 4; number of families, 35, and members, 65; members of the session were William Forde, Thomas Fry, William Petherick Jr., Fred Barnum, clerk; Charles D. Daniel, moderator.

Thos. Brunton presented the Board of Stewards' Report. Over $1000 had been raised, of which the following amounts were expended M. and E., $250; stipend, $422; small accounts, $100, leaving a balance of around $300. The members of the board are Thomas Brunton, Sec.-Treasurer; Albert Petherick, Alfred Barnum, Lorne Barnum, T. J. Petherick Sr.

The Ladies' Aid presented their usual good report. During the year many real sociable afternoons had been held at the various homes. Over $135 had been raised; $15 was given to the M. and E. Fund. Many useful things had been purchased for the church and parsonage. The officers are President, Mrs. J. Simpson; Vice-President, Mrs. F. Barnum; Secretary, Mrs. H. Barnum; Treasurer, Mrs. Ernest Irwin. A special box of Christmas Cheer had been forwarded to the Deaconess' Home, Toronto, at Christmas time.

The report of the Sunday school was most encouraging. There were 14 teachers and officers, 77 pupils and 19 on the Cradle Roll. The average attendance had been 63. The school raised over $155 using the most of it for running expenses, although $30 was contributed to the M. and E. Fund. The officers are as follows Superintendent, William Forde; Assistant-Superintendent, Fred Barnum; Secretary, Jennie Fry; Treasurer, Grant Kerr; Organist, Cora Irwin; Superintendent, Cradle Roll, Miss Susie Wright; Superintendent Missions, Charles D. Daniel.

All agreed that some of the best hours during the year were spent in the League services. A keen interest existed all year and especially during the summer months, when the attendance was very high, with an approximate membership of 365; the average attendance was about 50. The officers are as follows President, Fred Barnum; Vice-President, Roy Fry; Secretary, Miss Harry Barnum; Treasurer, Aylmer Petherick; Organist, Freda Petherick; Assistant, Evelyn Barnum; Conveners, Devotional, Thomas Fry; Missionary, Earl Fairman; Citizenship, George Brunton; Social and Literary, Gladys Simpson; Junior, Gladys Petherick. The Khakis were reported as winners in the contests.

William J. Petherick Jr. reported for the Cemetery Fund. Realizing what an improvement had been made on the new cemetery a number got together and renovated the old cemetery ground also. The Fund showed a balance of over $30 in the bank.

Mention was made of the good fellowship and spiritual feeling of the congregation and the best year yet is being looked forward to in 1928. This also happens to be the Golden Jubilee anniversary of the church and plans are being set in motion for special services and an Old Boys' re-union on that date.

She Could Not Work
HEADACHES
Were So Severe

Mrs. A. Riehl, Burstall, Sask., writes: —"I was troubled with very severe headaches, and sometimes I could not do my work.

"One day a friend told me about and advised me to give it a trial. I decided to do so, and after taking a few bottles I found it had done me a world of good, and I haven't had any headaches for a long time now."

GIRLS ORGANIZE MISSION CIRCLE

Miss Helen Burns is President of George Street Society.

OTHER OFFICERS.

A number of the girls of George Street United Church met in the board room of the Sunday School Hall last evening for the purpose of organizing a Mission Circle in connection with the Women's Missionary Society. About fifty girls have already given their names for membership, and a goodly number were present last evening.

Mrs. Coon, president of the W.M.S. of the church, occupied the chair, and after the singing of a hymn, led in prayer.

The president of the Peterborough Presbyterial, Mrs. Bookhout, was then called upon to address the meeting. The girls gave her an enthusiastic welcome.

Mrs. Bookhout said she considered it a great honor to be at this meeting and to welcome the first Mission Circle to the new Peterborough Presbyterial.

She referred to the objective of the work of the Circle, as prayer, service, missionary study, giving, and the heart must be in all these.

The wise men set the example of giving choicest gifts to Christ, great love offerings infinitely above their intrinsic value. Jesus gave Himself the greatest offering of all times, and on the cross said, "Father, forgive them, they know not what they do." At Easter time, He said, "Go and tell the whole world."

"When you start out on the beginning of this your first year, you will meet with many difficulties and perplexities, but if placed in the hands of the Master everything will come out all right," she concluded.

Mrs. Coon then explained the constitution of the Mission Circle and officers required.

The following were elected:

Superintendent—Mrs. W. H. Morton appointed by W.M.S.

Assistant Superintendent — Mrs. Homer Borland.

President—Miss Helen Burns.

1st Vice-President — Miss Verna Strong.

2nd Vice-President—Miss Myrtle Stevens.

Recording Secretary—Miss Aileen Clark.

Corresponding Secretary — Miss Dorothy Wiman.

Treasurer—Miss Vera Squire.

Press Secretary—Miss Evelyn Miller.

Supply Secretary—Miss Pearl Carruthers.

Strangers' Secretary— Miss Elma Coon.

Convenor of Sick and Visiting — Miss L. Sedgwick.

Pianist—Miss Marion Purdy.

The next meeting will take the form of a supper meeting, the date to be announced later. At this meeting the members will be divided into groups and made responsible for the programs for each month.

The newly-elected president took the chair and Mrs. Morton, the superintendent, made a few remarks.

Exposure—chill—muscles knotted with pain

260 Atlantic fishermen said, "This gives quickest relief"

NO HARDIER, heartier class of men lives than the men of the fishing fleets.

Nothing daunts them—raging gales, mountainous waves, sudden and heavy strains, the freakish accidents of the sea.

How do they manage to avoid colds, rheumatism, stiffening of the muscles when they've been facing icy seas in an open boat? How do they relieve the aching of tired muscles when they've been straining over the heavy nets? What do they do for the sprains, wrenches, bruises that are bound to occur in an adventurous life like theirs?

We asked numbers of the fishermen who ply their active and hazardous trade along the Atlantic coast to answer these questions. 260 said, "We use Sloan's."

The best friend of all who face exposure and strain

It's the same story everywhere among people who have to face exposure or strain. Policemen, postmen, firemen, factory workers, farmers—they all say they rely on Sloan's Liniment to rid them of rheumatic aches, stiffness of the muscles, the pain of sprains and bruises.

Read this account of how a bad case of stiff neck was completely relieved in less than five minutes:

"I was working and got a little warm, and it turned in and rained. I got good and wet. I got a stiff neck and could not turn my head. I used Sloan's and the pain left me in less than five minutes." S. K. Smalley, 75 Union Ave., Bellevue, Pa.

Sloan's Liniment doesn't just deaden the pain. It draws new blood into the stiff muscle, the torn ligament, the rheumatic joint; and stops the pain by driving out congestion, and sweeping away germs and poisons. Get a bottle. You can never tell when it may save you hours of agony. A bottle that lasts a long time costs only 35c—at all druggists.

One of the Atlantic fishermen. They protect themselves from strain and exposure with Sloan's

A doctor who takes care of thousands of workers says: "People whose work exposes them to strain or to damp and cold usually suffer from a good deal of muscular soreness. We find that Sloan's gives them quick, positive relief."

Use Sloan's Liniment for all kinds of muscular pain. It relieves:

Rheumatism Lame Muscles
Sciatica Stiff Neck
Lumbago Colds
Neuralgia Congestions
Sprains Bruises

SLOAN'S Endorsed universally by those who do the world's hard work

MILE-A-MINUTE ON LIGHT TRACK

Special Train Came From Lindsay to Peterborough in 22 Minutes.

BACK IN 1913.

Some examples of real speed were not unusual, even 'way back in the days of 1913 when the G.T.R. line between Lindsay and Peterborough was entirely of light steel, traversed mostly by the lighter type of engines.

A glance over the November 7, 1913, issue of The Examiner discovers one example of fast travel between the above-named towns, which has probably never been duplicated.

The fact that regular passenger trains of to-day, running on heavier steel are allowed from forty-eight to fifty-nine minutes to make the trip, calling at Reaboro, Omemee, and Best's, emphasizes the high mark referred to in the article, which reads as follows:

A new record for a locomotive run between Lindsay and Peterborough was set up yesterday afternoon when a special G.T.R. train carrying the Engineer of the Railway Commission, made the journey from Lindsay Station to the diamond here, a distance of 23 miles, in twenty-two minutes. The Engineer had been inspecting some of the northern lines of the Grand Trunk, and was desirous of catching the 4.33 C.P.R. train for Toronto. Mr. Coyle, superintendent of the G.T.R. at Belleville, was with him, and arranged a special train, composed of an engine, tender, and one coach. The train was in charge of Driver Jeffrey and Conductor Halpin, and ate up the ground in great style. The flying locomotive slackened speed at Omemee and, of course, had to slow up coming into the city, so that the greater part of the trip was made at greater than a mile a minute clip.

PRIZES AWARDED AT ST. GEORGE'S

Annual Concert Precedes Distribution To Sunday School Children.

The annual prize distribution and concert in connection with St. George's Sunday School was held on Thursday evening in the church basement. The attendance was the largest for some years, many people being unable to obtain seats. The singing of a verse of a hymn followed by prayers by the rector, Rev. J. L. Hughes, opened the proceedings. The rector acted as chairman for the evening.

The greater part of the program consisted of an operetta entitled "Jack Frost," given by the girls of the Junior W.A., trained and superintended by Mrs. Hughes, who also acted as accompanist for the musical portions occurring in it. Jack Frost delights in causing pain and inconvenience to others, and tries to do his worst to the little children as they come out of school. He has a ready accomplice in North Wind, who however relents when he sees the suffering children, and finally withdraws. Jack Frost becomes more defiant than ever, in spite of the pleadings of the children, until Fairy Sunshine appears. Frost is soon subdued under her magic power, the pains of the children soon disappear and everyone is happy once more.

The characters were as follows: Jack Frost, Beatrice Curtis; North Wind, Chrissie Milby; Fairy Sunshine, Keitha Hopkins; Polly Perkins (with toothache), Eva King; Sally Water (with chilblains), Marjorie Sims; Tommy Tiffin (with gout), Irene Sturgeon; Dicky Wood (with influenza), Inez White; Bobby Barker (always slipping down) Agnes Sturgeon; Peggy Summers (unable to get water) Ruth Farr.

Other items on the program consisted of recitation by Miss Irene Howarth, Ruth McBride and Fred Warren; selections by an orchestra composed of Harold Sowden (piano), and Arthur Sowden, Bruce Harton, and Robert Simmons (violins and ukulele). Finally, the audience witnessed by television a surgical operation performed by the following boys of the Senior Class under the direction of Mr. Tucker: Lionel Monk, Eddy Hele, Kenneth and Ernest Gibson, and Reg. Stevenson.

After distributing the prizes, the rector thanked those present for their support that evening, exhorted parents to support the teachers, and referred to the flourishing condition of the school. He outlined the system of marking by which the merit of prize winners is determined.

Prize Winners

Main Dept.—(Marks given for attendance at School and Church, also for memory work):

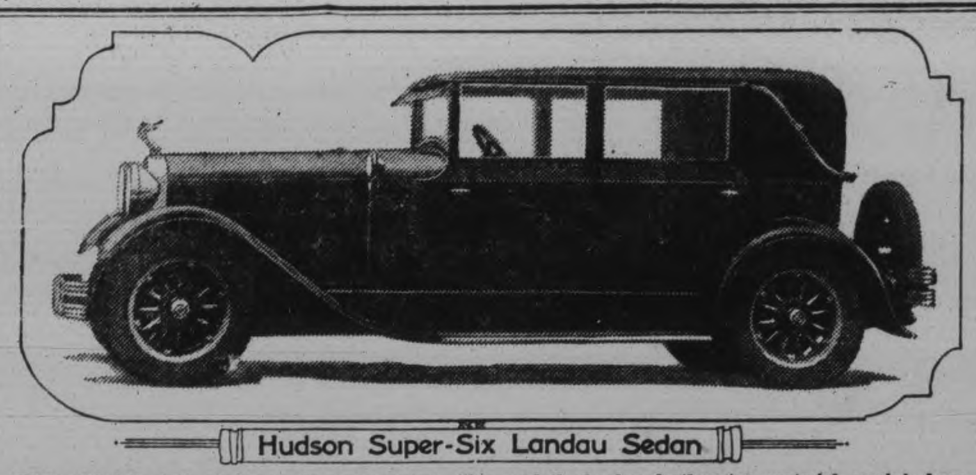
Junior girls.—Dorris Dossett, Hilda Curtis, Doris Ferguson, Edith Spenceley, Mildred Lush.

Senior Girls—Marjory McCormick, Nellie Butler, Beatrice Curtis, Marjorie Sims.

Junior Boys.—Arthur Sowden, Stanley McBride, Reggie Stevenson, Tommy Monk.

Senior Boys.—Kenneth Gibson, Ernest Gibson.

In addition to the above winners of class prizes the following were awarded certificates for complete and neat stamp albums in connection with the school lessons: Nellie Butler, Marjory McCormack, Beatrice Curtis, Hilda Curtis, Marjorie Sims, Grace Field, Freda Field, Phyllis Simmons, Frances Simmons, Alfred Field, Doris Dossett, Irene Stur-



With nickeled steel window sash, narrow steel pillars and the landau leather top material carried down to the body belt at the rear the Landau Sedan reflects smartly both speed and roomy spaciousness. This is one of the Hudson de luxe models.

In its new line of custom-built cars, presented for the 1928 season, the Hudson Motor Car Co. offers an innovation which will undoubtedly prove important. There are three of these models, the victoria, the 5-passenger landau sedan, and the 7-passenger sedan.

All these cars were designed for Hudson in Hollywood, Calif., by a firm which has specialized in special, exclusive bodies, none of which ever have been offered at less than $5,500. A few months ago a number of these de luxe bodies were purchased by Hudson officials, and others for their personal use. So different were they from models current at the time that Hudson determined on them as the basis for a special line of cars on the 127-inch chassis.

These custom bodies are built to express what Hudson terms "the vogue of tomorrow." The whole contour of the car is designed to express fleetness and modern style with a sport motive. Color schemes and mouldings are more daring than in Hudson's usual models. The front window pillars are slender in outline, while the outer rim of the windshield is brightly nickel-plated. Similarly, the window supports at the top of the doors are unusually trim and are nickel-finished. This is said to improve vision from within the car and to assist an impression of smartness.

The rear quarters of these cars are covered with landau leather, which comes down from the top in an unbroken surface. Car interiors are fully and richly finished in de luxe style.

These cars are being manufactured for Hudson in Amesbury, Mass., by a firm of custom builders whose total capacity has been contracted for by Hudson. The construction is of hand-hammered aluminum panels and selected hardwood. The use of aluminum instead of sheet steel permits the obtaining of distinctive and subtle body lines and saves the weight of one passenger.

Hudson's big production program at this time of the year is declared the result of the reception of the new Hudson-Essex line. From reports the country over, this said to have been the most favorable of any line of cars in the company's history, despite generally cold weather. In Detroit, since the introduction of the cars, retail sales have exceeded 100 cars a day—or about triple the normal rate.

SUCCESSFUL DANCE HELD AT BAILIEBORO

BAILIEBORO, February 9. — On Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Isbister, of Centreville, held a social evening and dance in the Centreville Hall in honor of their daughter, Miss Kathleen Isbister, of Peterborough. There was an attendance of almost one hundred of the young folks of the community present, and a most delightful evening was enjoyed by all.

Music for dancing was ably provided by Mrs. O. B. Johnston, Miss Grace Johnston, Messrs. W. Kinsmen, H. Cardwell, and M. Bradshaw. A victrola was also used to provide excellent music. Several novelty dances made abundance of fun for the young folk. These included a cobweb dance and a balloon dance, Miss Edith Deyell and Mr. David Fowler winning the prizes.

A most delightful luncheon was daintily served at midnight, lunch being placed on tables, with four at each table. The happy event continued until 2.30 o'clock, and everyone declared it to be the most delightful evening enjoyed for a long time.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. Tate, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. McRoberts, Mr. and Mrs. O. B. oJhnston, Mr. and Mrs. F. Wood, Bensfort, Mr. and Mrs D. Rutherford, Mr. and Mrs. E. TRINITY LADIES HEAR OF LEAGUE

Rev. D. Wren Gives Instructive Address at Regular Meeting.

NOTE OF OPTIMISM.

The Trinity Woman's Association held its regular monthly meeting in the Reid Street Hall on Tuesday, February 7. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Robert Neill, the chair was taken by Mrs. (Dr.) Neal, first vice-president. Matters of importance were discussed, after which the pastor, Rev. D. Wren, gave a most enlightening and instructive talk on "The League of Nations." The ladies present expressed themselves delighted at receiving such valuable information on world-wide topics. Rev. Mr. Wren, as is his custom, sounded a note of optimism, calling attention to the way men of wide vision and vast intellect are giving themselves to the solution of world problems.

TECO STORE
Announcement

IN TAKING OVER the J. C. Turnbull Co. Store The T. Eaton Co. Limited has much pleasure in announcing that thereby it hopes to extend to the residents of Peterborough and surrounding country, a convenient local service in merchandise distribution.

In the small floor area at our disposal we would however be unable, in several respects, to measure up to the typical Eaton store with its large scale operations. In merchandise, for example, the assortment and range would be much less than expected of an Eaton store.

Conducted as a "Teco Store" (by which name this business is to be known) we propose, however, to offer a fair assortment of up to date reliable merchandise at attractive prices.

Backed by the Strong Purchasing Power of the Eaton organization and its skillful buying—and with the same guarantee "Goods Satisfactory or Money Refunded" together with basing prices on the proven economy of Cash Dealing, we invite inspection of our goods, and to all we offer our best services.

We much appreciate the compliment implied in the J. C. Turnbull Co. announcement of yesterday. It will be our earnest endeavor to merit the fine reputation they so generously ascribe to us.

The store will remain closed Friday for re-arranging and re-pricing stock.

questions put by the committee—whether he knew anyone who received Liberty bonds from the Continental Trading Company of Canada or ever had any conversation with Harry F. Sinclair, central figure in the Teapot Dome developments, regarding the disposition of these bonds.

This refusal led to the arrest of Stewart by the Senate and institution of Federal Court contempt proceedings by that body after the Standard Oil officials had obtained his temporary release from custody on a writ of habeas corpus.

On the day the Senate issued its warrant, Rockefeller wrote to Senator Walsh expressing his regret at Stewart's refusal to answer all inquiries.

"I have not felt that Colonel Stewart failed in his duty to his stockholders" the letter said, "but I am sorry that he did not answer all of your questions for the situation calls for the fullest disclosure of the facts."

This letter of Rockefeller's was in response to one written by Senator Walsh on the first day Stewart appeared before the committee in which the senator said the newspapers would advise the oil magnate of "how well your admonition to Mr. Stewart was observed by that gentleman." The committee prosecutor added that he would lay all of the correspondence before the committee "to determine whether a faithful discharge of the duty imposed on us requires that you be called."

CHOIR ENTERTAINED.

Social Evening Spent at Home of Councillor and Mrs. G. W. Sayles at Millbrook.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 9.—Councillor and Mrs. G. W. Sayles entertained the choir of the United Church, with their husbands and wives, at their apartments in the Waverley Building on Friday evening, when a very delightful time was enjoyed.

The regular choir practice preceded the social part of the gathering, during which the forty or more guests thoroughly enjoyed the contests which Mrs. Sayles had arranged, and the music with which these were interspersed.

A dainty supper was served as a concluding feature for a very pleasant social occasion, and the host and hostess were heartily thanked for their hospitality before the guests took their departure.

The choir has been practising, each week, at the homes of a number of the members during the winter months, the social side being a pleasant feature of the gatherings. Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Lambert were host and hostess, as were also Mr. and Mrs. Stinson, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Burnham, and Miss M. E. Needham during recent months.

BANK CALL LOANS GO UP IN DECEMBER

Savings Deposits Also Increase While Current Ones Go Down.

OTTAWA, Feb. 8.— (Canadian Press.)— Call loans held in Canada by Canadian banks increased by $18,631,734 during the month of December, according to the bank statement issued by the finance department. Savings bank deposits increased thirteen and a half millions during December and current deposits decreased $25,891,774. The note circulation of the banks increased by about two million.

LADY BREAKS WRIST IN FALL

Mrs. David Atcheson Injured When She Falls From Chair.

AT WORK IN HOME.

MOUNT PLEASANT, February 9. —On Sunday morning Mrs. David Atcheson met with a serious accident in her home here when she slipped off a chair and broke her arm at the wrist while she was about her household duties in the kitchen. Mrs. Atcheson was dusting the stove pipes, when the chair she stepped on tipped with her, letting her fall to the floor. She received a bad shaking up and her arm was broken at the wrist. The break was a bad one. Both bones in the wrist were broken and protruding through the skin. No one was in the house at the time except her husband, who is in poor health also. Mrs. Atcheson was able to go to a nearby house to telephone for Dr. G. N. Earle of Omemee, who arrived in short time and attended to the elderly couple.

ANNUAL MEETING HELD AT CHURCH

Trinity United, Madoc, Has Had Very Successful Year.

MADOC, February 9. — In spite of the storm on Wednesday evening, meeting in the United Church was largely attended, and splendid interest was manifested. After devotional exercises, the pastor, Rev. G. W. Rivers, was appointed as chairman, and S. S. Ashley was asked to act as secretary. The pastor reported 145 families connected with the church and a constituency of 550 persons. The Clerk of Session, J. A. Caskey, reported the present membership as 312, 32 members having united with the church since the last meeting.

The W.M.S. report was read by Mrs. J. B. Hough corresponding secretary, in the absence of the president, Mrs. L. Ashley, the amount raised during the nine months being $241. The Mission Band, under the superintendence of Mrs. H. Bailey, had raised the sum of $40.00, which also goes to help forward the W.M.S. work.

The Sunday School, of which James Keene is superintendent, has a total enrolment of 282, including cradle roll and home department, and the sum of $367 was raised for all purposes. The Young Worshippers' League also raised about $35.00 for church and missionary work.

The Ladies' Aid, with Mrs. F. E. Brown as president, has passed through a very successful period, having raised $318 in nine months.

The president of the Young People's Society, Mrs. J. B. Hough, reported a membership of 93, and a total amount of $189 raised for local and missionary purposes.

W. H. McBain, treasurer of the church, reported a good balance on hand, with all accounts paid, while Dr. Wyper, chairman of the Finance Committee, stated that over $1,000 had been contributed to the Maintenance and Extension Fund during three-quarters of a year. Mrs. Ludbrook, organist of the church, reported a balance on hand in the choir's treasury, even though new books have recently been purchased.

Sixteen stewards were elected for the year 1928.

A ladies' orchestra furnished selections which were much appreciated by the congregation.

A hearty and unanimous vote of appreciation was tendered Rev. and Mrs. G. W. Rivers for their wholehearted service to Trinity Church since coming to Madoc. The motion was presented and recorded by the secretary.

The minister expressed his thanks for the kindly-worded motion, and told the congregation that both he and Mrs. Rivers were enjoying the fellowship of service with the people here. After refreshments and a social period, the National Anthem and the benediction brought this successful meeting to a close.

Stirling

STIRLING, Feb. 9.—At the Council meeting Monday night, all the members were present. A number of accounts were passed.

Mr. W. C. West, proprietor of Stirling Creamery, also the chief milk vendor for the village, interviewed the Council regarding the licensing of those who sell milk and thus protect the business as well as insure a good quality of milk. Mr. West complained that a great many who depended on those who only have the milk for sale in the summer come to him in the winter, and he not only loses numbers of bottles but the people who are not regular customers the year through are the hardest to collect from. The Council heard Mr. West, but decided to take no action at the present time.

The matter of collecting the taxes twice a year was taken up and a bylaw regulating this is to be prepared and dealt with at the next meeting.

Obituary

MRS. SIMON ARMSTRONG.

STIRLING, Feb. 9. — Mrs. Armstrong, widow of the late Simon Armstrong, of Harold, passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William Broadworth on Saturday last. The funeral and burial being held at Bethel church on Monday afternoon.

HAROLD THORNDYKE

The funeral took place on Monday of Harold Thorndyke, who was called to his last rest, very peacefully, on Friday evening. February 3.

Although ill for some time past Harold was always bright and cheerful, never complaining. He always had a smile and kind word for everyone he would meet and never losing faith that some day he would get well and strong.

He leaves a sorrowing young wife (nee Ivy Veeman), also his parents and two brothers.

MRS. MICHAEL KIRBY.

STIRLING, Feb. 9. —The funeral of the late Mrs. Michael Kirby took place at the Roman Catholic church on Tuesday morning. Mrs. Kirby had every attention possible, but did not rally from an attack of double pneumonia. The sorrowing husband and seven children are left to mourn. Mrs. Kirby was formerly Miss Stewart of Madoc and was in her 38th year.

MRS. WEIR.

OMEMEE, February 9. — The sudden death of Mrs. Weir of Creemore, took place at the home of her son, Rev. A. T. Weir Omemee, on Tuesday morning. The late Mrs. Weir had been on an extended visit here and had been in her usual health until Monday evening, when she was stricken with heart trouble. Medical aid was sumoned immediately, but she passed away early the following morning.

Rev. Canon Marsh, of Lindsay, conducted the funeral service at the rectory on Wednesday morning, after which the body was taken to the nine o'clock C.N.R. train en route to Collingwood to the home of her daughter, where interment will be made.

Mrs. Weir's husband predeceased her only a few months ago. Left to mourns the loss of a loving mother are a daughter, a son at Creemore, and Rev. A. T. Weir, of Omemee.

WILLIAM JAMES LITTLE.

LAKEFIELD, February 9. — The death occurred yesterday morning of William James Little after an illness of some three weeks' duration. Mr. Little had apparently been well on the road to recovery, and his death came as a sudden shock.

Mr. Little was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Little. He was born in Dummer nearly 68 years ago and lived there until his removal 22 years ago to Lakefield, where he has resided ever since. He was a carpenter by trade and well known in both village and township. He was a faithful member of Regent Street United Church and held in high esteem.

Mr. Little was twice married, first to Nina Barr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Barr. who died in 1906, and later to Mrs. Clara Miles, who survives him. There are three daughters, Mrs. Earl Orr and Miss Florence Little, of Lakefield and Mrs. Buchak, of Lensford, Sask., and one son Fred, also of Lensford. One daughter, Edith, died two years ago.

Other relatives are: Five sisters, Mrs. Nathan Payne, Lakefield. Mrs. William Carveth and Mrs. Richard Thompson, Warsaw, Mrs. John Clarke, Dubac, Sask., and Mrs. Luther Payne, Roseneath; two brothers, Robert H. of Douro and David of Dummer, and three grandchildren.

The funeral will take place from the family residence, Prospect Street, Lakefield, at 1.30 p.m. on Saturday, February 11, the Rev. S. A. Kemp conducting services at the home and at the graveside in Warsaw Cemetery.

WILLIAM BONTER.

MARMORA, Feb. 9.—Marmora has again been rendered the poorer by the passing away on Monday evening of another old honored resident in the person of William Bonter. Deceased contracted blood poisoning two days previous and his end was more or less unexpected. A remarkable career of public service is thus closed, for a few if any have been so identified with the public life of this community than the deceased, and his loss will be shared by a large circle of relatives and friends. He was born on July 9th, 1842, in Prince Edward county, the son of Thomas and Jane Bonter. Shortly after his birth, his parents moved to Rawdon township, to the farm near Stirling, at present occupied by Charles Thompson, and at the age of ten he moved with them to Marmora township, where practically the rest of his life has been spent. An interesting incident in connection wtih the life of Thomas Bonter is this. At the time of the Fenian raid, he drove soldiers from the southern part of Hastings county by team to Toronto. Returning to the subject of this obituary, it is interesting to note that when King Edward VII, then Prince of Wales, made his memorable visit to Kingston, William Bonter, then a young man, was one of a party who went out in a boat to the ship on which the Prince was, and receieved a handshake from his Royal Highness. William Bonter also cherished vivid recollections of the happenings local and otherwise connected with the year of Confederation. Some of these were recounted in the Jubilee number of The Examiner. In 1896, after being married for some years, and with a family growing up, Mr. Bonter rebuilt and remodelled what till then was known as Briggs' saw mills, but later became wider known as Bonter's mills. In reviewing his public life, there is much to be mentioned. In the days of the dual vote, he was elected commissioner for the townships of Rawdon and Marmora and Lake, and as a result received the further appointment of chairman of county gravel roads. For many years he was county constable, covering a territory which extended as far north as Bancroft. As tax collector in Marmora township for a long period, every road became familiar to him. Death released him of the last long office which he conscientiously fulfilled, that of Justice of the Peace for Marmora. In politics he was a staunch Conservative. He was also a great temperance advocate, being a life-long abstainer and one who never used tobacco. He was a devoted member of the United church, but made countless friends outside of his own denomination, giving ready support to every deserving cause. He was a member of Marmora A.F. & A.M. No. 222 and belonged to Stirling Chapter. He was also Past Master and chartered member of Marmora L.O.L. 319 and in addition belonged to R.B.P. No. 48. Besides his widow, six sons and three daughters survive, namely, Fred of Toronto, Robert of Marmora township, John and Richard of Marmora village, George of Biggar, Sask., Arthur of Regina, Mrs. Oliver Airhart of Marmora township, Mrs. S. Meehan and Mrs. C. A. Lummiss of Marmora village. There are also many grandchildren and great grandchildren.

The funeral, which was of a simple character, took place at the United church on Thursday afternoon, Rev. C. J. Beckley officiating, assisted by Rev. A. B. Caldwell, of St. Paul's. Interment took place in Marmora Protestant cemetery.

You can tell a good driver by the mileage he gets from his tires

SOME fellows are sure rough on tires — slam on the brake and slide a yard or two in stopping — drop in the clutch and spin the rear wheels in starting — speed round corners and skid.

It may save a few minutes running time — it may even look a little "showy" to the man on the sidewalk — but the real driver knows that it means miles off the running life of the tires.

Good tires will give unbelievable miles of service if you treat them right. Drive sanely.

Lot's Wife's Pillar Likely To Be Sold

JERUSALEM, Feb. 9 (Canadian Press).—The famous pillar of salt identified as being Lot's wife of the Old Testament story is reported to be in danger of being torn down for the manufacture of salt by the people holding the concession to work the Dead Sea deposits. The threatened extinction of this noted pillar is causing dismay in many quarters

THE TIRED OUT WOMAN.

Needs the Help of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to Regain Strength.

No mother should allow nervous weakness to get the upper hand of her; if she does worry will mar her work in the home, and torment her in mind and body. The monotony of the average housewife's daily toil is enough to cause depression, but there are other causes, as every mother knows that tend to weaken and make her nerves run-down. A change and rest might improve her health, but best of all for jaded women is a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills make new blood, rich with the elements on which the body and nerves thrive.

The value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills when the blood is weak and watery, and the system run-down is shown by the experience of Mrs. C. W. Jackson, R.R. 1, Gilford, Ont., who says:—"Before beginning the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I was completely run-down and could hardly walk across the floor. As the mother of young children with the usual household duties to perform, my condition was one of seriousness. I had seen Dr. Williams' Pink Pills advertised and decided to try them. This was a happy decision as I had not been taking the pills very long before I began to feel better both in body and mind. I continued the use of the pills for a couple of months and now feel like a new woman, able to perform all my household duties. I would not be without the pills in the house and I recommend them to all run-down people."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all dealers in medicine, or will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MRS. KEITH WAS HIGHLY ESTEEMED

Winnipeg Tribune Remarks On Her Many Accomplishments.

The Winnipeg Tribune says of the death of Mrs. H. J. Keith, formerly of Peterborough:

Mrs. Keith was well known in many parts of Canada, her husband having been a minister at Peterborough, Ont., Edmonton, Alta., and Winnipeg. For two years she lived in Calcutta, India, where Dr. Keith was engaged in work for the Y.M.C.A.

She was particularly well known in Manitoba. She had addressed church gatherings in all parts of the province, making a plea for missions.

McGill Graduate.

Prior to her marriage, Mrs. Keith was Miss Louise McDougall, of Montreal. She was a graduate of McGill university, where she and Dr. Keith were classmates.

She lived in Calcutta, India, during 1905 and 1906, and from 1907 to 1914 resided in Peterborough, Ont., where her husband was pastor of Knox Presbyterian church. For five years, 1914 to 1919, Dr. Keith was pastor of Westminster Presbyterian church, severing his connections there to accept a call to St. Andrew's church. Mrs. Keith was always a valuable and untiring assistant to her husband in his work.

She was a member of the executive of the conference branch of the Presbyterial, having been particularly interested in mission band work. Her ability as a speaker was where she was constantly in demand.

She also possessed a literary gift known in many Winnipeg churches, any many of her stories had been published.

Besides her husband she is survived by two daughters, Louise and Margaret, and one son, Robert, a student at the University of Manitoba. Louise, a graduate in arts of the university here, has been in training in the Royal Victoria hospital at Montreal.

ENGAGEMENT REPORTED

Princess Ingrid of Sweden is now reported engaged to Crown Prince Frederick of Denmark. She is the only daughter of the Swedish crown prince, Gustavus Adolphus, by his first wife and is thus a granddaughter of the Duke of Connaught. It has been reported many times that she was to wed the Prince of Wales. The princess, who is noted for her beauty, is seen in the court gown which she wore to a recent presentation ball in Stockholf.

SAINT and SINNER

Quite suddenly, as if her decision were an answer to the prayers she had been frantically hurling toward heaven in Cherry's behalf, Faith sprang from the couch where Bob had lovingly made her comfortable with many cushions, and hurried to the telephone. Rhoda was in the kitchen, preparing sandwiches and fruit punch for a late supper; Bob and Nils were still in the sun parlor, absorbed in plans for Nils' new home and dairy farm. No one would know, she assured herself, as she breathlessly but in a guardedly low voice, called the number of the Marlboro Country Club.

"Hello! I want to speak with Miss Cherry Lane, please. Yes, she's there tonight, attending the dance," she gasped into the telephone when a steward of the club answered.

After an interminable delay, during which Faith imagined Cherry in Bill Warren's arms, plighting her troth to him in a desperate attempt to salvage whatever happiness possible out of what she considered the wreckage of her life, the steward's crisp, English voice again came over the wire:

"Sorry, Madame, but Miss Lane is not in the ballroom or anywhere in the club house, so far as I can discover. Any message, Madame?"

"No," Faith answered dully. "Thank you."

She was so weak with disappointment and with the sickening conviction that tragedy had again overtaken the ill-fated Lane family, that she was staggering drunkenly as she moved toward the haven of the living room couch. Before she reached it the door opening directly from the living room upon the little patio was torn open, then banged shut, and Cherry, casting her jade green velvet evening coat from her, stood there, a tense, rigid little figure in the jaunty costume which she had hired for the masquerade ball. She had shed the goggles somewhere, and her golden eyes glittered wide in her shockingly white face. Even her lips, on which there was only a faint trace of the geranium-colored salve that she used, were bloodless and curled back against her teeth, as if with disgust of herself.

"Cherry!" Faith held out her arms, then dizziness overmastered her and she fell heavily to the couch.

Instantly Cherry sprang forward, the blind brightness of her eyes giving way to humid pity. "Oh, Faith, I've frightened you! I'm sorry! But I thank God you're alone." And she dropped to her knees and burrowed her green-helmeted head in her sister's lap.

"Where's Bill, Cherry?" Faith asked soothingly, as she put her arms about the storm-shaken little figure that crouched against her.

"I don't know! I ran away!" Cherry sobbed. "Oh, Faith, I've had a horrible time, but I'm safe now! I—I—"

"Tell me, darling," Faith urged, and, illogically, her heart was flooded with happiness.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)
FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1928.

Contrary aspects are strong today, according to astrology, which finds malefic influences dominant.

It is well to beware of forming opinions or indulging in gossip under this sway, which inclines the mind toward uncharitable views.

Libels and scandals are likely to multiply while this configuration prevails and political characters may suffer severe mutilation.

There is a fairly promising aspect today for merchants and manufacturers, but the tendency toward sharp bargains may be marked in many lines of trade.

Love affairs come under the most adverse conditions at this time when misunderstandings and broken engagements may be numerous.

This is not a lucky wedding day, since it presages quarrels and even divorce.

Disturbing news, delays in receiving letters and messages that miscarry may be prevalent under this direction of the stars.

The evening is a propitious time for listening to lectures or for receiving counsel from mature minds.

Revolt against traditions and long-established customs may be prevalent but useless under this planetary government.

Women interested in philanthropic reform movements may meet many discouragements under this sway, but they are to be much sought later in the year.

The national campaign is to develop novel phases in which women appear in unusual roles.

There is a sign today read as most encouraging for farmers and all who produce food products, animal or vegetable.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have trouble with the opposite sex in the coming year! Divorce may be imminent.

Children born on this day probably will be strongly individual, creative and unusual, but devoid of practical ideas.

SUPREME KNIGHT IS EXPECTED HERE

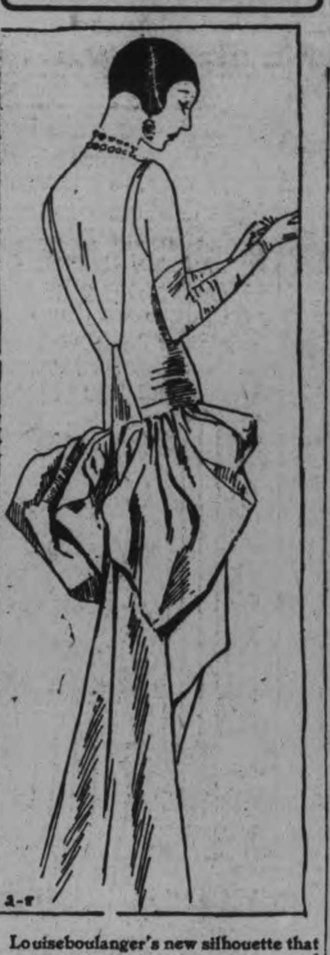
Local Knights of Columbus Celebrate Anniversary May 24.

The Knights of Columbus of Peterborough intend to celebrate May 24th the twenty-fifth anniversary of the institution of their Council. The project was recently set in motion, and committees are already at work. Supreme Knight Carmody will be present and will be welcomed on the night of May 23. It is likely that he will arrive by special train, accompanied by many members from Toronto and Western Ontario, and a uniformed guard of honor of fourth degree Knights. That same evening the delegates to the provincial convention at Belleville will come to Peterborough by special train for the celebration on the holiday, and also to take part in the reception to the Supreme Knight. Prominent members of the society from all parts of Ontario and also from Quebec are expected to be present.

A tentative program for May 24 includes pontifical high mass at St. Peter's Cathedral in the morning, exemplification of the second and third degrees in the afternoon and a banquet in the evening. Some hotel reservations have already been made for the occasion.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL



Louiseboulanger's new silhouette that reminds one of the bustle contours of the 1880's. This gown is of white faille cut very low at the back.

Wherever clothes are spoken of nowadays one hears the name of Louiseboulanger. Only a few seasons ago this was one of the less important dressmaking establishments—noted for the more extremely modernistic manner of the furnishings than for anything else. For Louise Boulanger—or Louiseboulanger as the name is usually written now—was one of the first to show cubistic decorations and there were bizarre lamps in her showrooms and weird screens that reminded one of the decorations seen in out-of-the-way studios in the Montmartre section.

So prominent a place has Louiseboulanger now taken in the world of creative dressmaking that when the Louiseboulanger silhouette is spoken of one is left wondering which of the many interesting silhouettes recently exploited by this house is the one indicated. The sketch today shows one of the most recent of her creations.

It is interesting to observe that the revived interest in petticoats which came about a year ago was a rather short-lived fad after all, and though many women bought the amusing little short petticoats most of them have gone back to the slips that after all are a lot more convenient and form a more satisfactory foundation for the frock than the petticoat that fastens on a yoke or elastic around the waist.

The new slips are rather nicely fitted and adjusted to the figure and for this reason there is quite an advantage in making them yourself. At the suggestion of a number of our readers we have had made for you a diagram-pattern of a slip that—by following a few simple directions—may be cut to fit any type of figure. Made of flesh-colored or pink silk it provides you with a useful evening slip, while of darker silk or pongee it would be suitable for general daytime wear.

Hints on Etiquette

1. When a crowd returns from a party in a taxi, should a girl keep the rest waiting while her escort sees her to the door?

2. If she lives high in an apartment house, is it necessary for him to see her clear to her own door?

3. How can she show her consideration for the waiting friends?

The Answers.

1. Certainly.
2. Not necessary, but usually done.
3. By having her door key handy and making her remarks about the evening's pleasure brief, though courteous.

OLD APPLE TREES

Old apple trees grow tired of bearing.
Young apple trees are always wearing
Blossoms in Spring, and fruit in Fall.
Old apple trees grow tired of all.
The plucking, plucking, and not caring.

I wish that some old apple tree,
Some harvest season, this could see
Some mortal kneeling on the sod,
Thanking the tree, and thanking God,
For all the apples that there be.

Olldapple trees grown tired of bearing;
Od horses weary of the wearing
Of ancient harness; even men
Weary a little now and then
Of all the taking and not caring.

I wish some night that some old sire
Would find oyuth grateful for the fire,
The table, and the roof, and all.
Perhaps old trees less soon would fall,
Perhaps old hearts less soon would tire.

TEACHERS HEAR INTERESTING TALK

A. Mowat Gives Address on Education at George Street Sunday School.

The regular monthly meeting of the teachers and officers of George Street United Sunday School was prefaced by a supper in the Sunday School Auditorium served by the members of Mrs. Stubbs' Sunday School Class. The superintendent, of the school, George Robertson, occupied the chair and made a few remarks before calling on the speaker of the evening, A. Mowat, Inspector of Public School of the City.

Mr. Mowat gave a very able and interesting address on the "Importance of Education." Mr. Mowat defined education as the normal development of the entire personality of the child. The needs for this wide education are many. Among his points were:

"We live in a mechanical age—one of narrow tasks, hence education for leisure is very necessary.

"We live in a democratic age, and unless educated we shall have tyranny from below which, is worse than tryanny from above.

"Education is all important, in the development of personality as it both cleanses and develops the individual. There is also a creative force in genuine religion. Our very civilization depends upon the religious character of the people."

Miss Greta McColl rendered a very pleasing solo and Mrs. Vaughn Walker a reading. J. E. Middleton led a discussion on Teachers' Problems which proved very helpful.

Stomach Trouble Gone —Bakes 40 Pies

"I was a nervous wreck with stomach trouble. Had dizzy spells and could scarcely walk. I began taking Adlerika, and now I run a restaurant and bake 40 pies a day." Mrs. L. Amrol. HAVELOCK WINS OUT IN GROUP PLAYOFFS

LAKEFIELD TEAM ELIMINATED IN HARD FOUGHT HOCKEY GAME

Losers Have Edge On Play, But Fail To Overcome Early Lead.

FINAL SCORE IS 2-1.

Railroaders Battle With Backs To Wall To Hold Narrow Margin in Last Period.

The Havelock hockey team can thank Wright and Fox that they are still in the O.H.A. series instead of Lakefield, as the slim forward's two goals were all they scored against Lakefield while the little goal keeper turned back the Lakefield attacks time after time when the rest of the team had faltered under the gruelling pace set by the younger Lakefield team. The final score was 2-1, bringing to a close a playoff series of four games of which the Havelock team won two and the Lakefielders one, while one was drawn.

The game was rather a rough one and fourteen penalties were handed out by Referee Bobby Armstrong. The soft ice prevented team play of any account while a tendency on the part of a few players to get the man further reduced the calibre of the hockey.

An indication of the close competition between the two teams is shown in the fact that on total goals for the six games they have played they are tied. The first game was won by Lakefield, 5-2. The second game, here, went to Havelock, 2-0. These were the regular group games, when games, not goals, counted. Then in the first playoff series Lakefield won at home, 3-2, but Havelock won here, 2-1, evening the round. On Monday night in Lakefield, the score was 3-3, and orders were to play overtime, if necessary to settle the matter finally last night.

Last night's game was mostly Lakefield. The veteran Havelock players worked in fast and scored two goals while they were fresh in the first period, and then battled with their backs to the wall to hold the margin. All their craft and experience was needed to shut out the Lakefield boys, who swarmed all over their tiring opponents for most of the last two periods, seeking the goal that would force the game into overtime.

Wright was easily the best man on the ice. He scored his team's two goals within twenty seconds, and was dangerous all through the first two periods. A heavy body-check slowed him up for the final frame, forcing him for the first time to accept a substitute. After his scoring rampage, however, Loosemore or Louis Sabatino were detailed to watch him, they being the only Lakefield players who could match speed with him, and their checking held him up and prevented his scoring any more goals.

Fox was the other Havelock star. He stopped shots from all angles, kicking and batting them out, clearing cooly in the face of attacks in force. The goal that beat him was one of those long bounders which fool the best of goalies, the puck bounding over his stick. During the final period the goalie saved his team time after time when the opposing forwards were right in on top of him.

The rest of the team played a useful game, with possibly Becky Jack standing out. The little substitute, relieving Frank Pollock, who was ill, was all over, checking and shooting. Brennan and Geraldi worked well both on attack and defence. Laing was used very little. Quinn and Hooper formed a substantial defence but there is no question that the big fellows are slowing up. They could not stand the pace, subbing frequently, and relied too much on their weight to stop the hornet-like Lakefield players.

It would be hard to pick a star from the losing team. Every man gave his best from start to finish and in the last period especially practically every one of the attackers deserved a goal. Louis Sabatino led the attacks, scoring the only goal. He packed a wicked shot and made Fox hop time after time to turn him away. When he was on the defence he teamed well with his brother John, although displaying a tendency to edge over too much.

John Sabatino was a dangerous man. He rushed hard and often, while his hard, but clean, body-checks ended many a Havelock attack. Hamilton, a newcomer as far as the games here were concerned, succeeded Louis Sabatino on the defence and was a good partner for John. His clearing was good, while he got right in on top of Fox several times on dangerous rushes.

Loosemore skated miles and carried the puck well, going right in on Fox many times but he lacked the necessary shot to take advantage of his opportunities, shooting weakly and wildly when a proper drive would have evened the count. His checking was good and he combined well.

Three hornet like players were Wannamaker, Stabler, and Northey. They pestered the heavier Havelock players from start to finish, checking them and outskating them. They showed no hesitation in charging in on the heavy Railroaders' defence, taking some bad bumps but refusing to quit. Their passing game, which contributed no small share to former victories, was spoiled by the sticky ice, while their individual rushes either ended in the corners or were smothered by Fox.

First Period.

Play centred between the blue lines for two or three minutes at the beginning of the game, with each goal keeper turning back a couple of long shots. Then Charlie Brennan went down the left boards and shot. One of the defence men stopped the puck, but Wright, speeding in for the rebound, grabbed it away and beat Moore from point blank range for the opening counter. At the face-off which followed Jack passed the puck to Wright, who went down the side, circled the defence, and repeated his counter.

Two goals in the first four minutes had the Havelock fans raising the roof, while the Lakefield contingent was dazed for the moment. Then the fun started. The Northerners swept down time after time, only to lose the puck about the blue line. Quinn was given a rest for boarding an attacker, and Jack Sabatino followed almost immediately for the same offence. Brennan stopped an attack by a trip and left the teams five to four. The hockey speeded up but no goals were scored. Play ranged up and down with the teams at full strength, until Louis Sabatino fired a slow bouncing shot at Fox from the blue line. The puck fooled the little goalie and the Cement team was in striking distance once more. Quinn and Wannamaker staged a feud in the corner and went off for three minutes each. No damage was done during their absence, which ended just before the bell rang.

During the period there was some excitement in the penalty box., A spectator climbed in to take a poke at Barney Quinn, but was unceremoniously ejected by two Lakefield fans. Then the penalty timers, who were trying to keep time with ordinary watches, got in a dispute which resulted in Quinn going out twice, only to be called back to finish his sentence. Referee Armstrong read the riot act to them and later substituted a Peterboro man with a stop watch.

Second Period.

The second period was the tamest of the three. There were no goals and only two penalties. The Lakefield team had the edge all through this period, keeping the Railroaders penned up in their own end except for sallies by Wright, Brennan, and Jack. These were usually dangerous, ending in shots on Moore, but Fox, in the Havelock cage, had a great many more drives to handle. Player after player got within firing range but the little custodian coolly picked off their drives, coming out when necessary to break up a two-man attack. Quinn served two minutes for hooking in an attempt to relieve the pressure, while Louis Sabatino also visited the bastile for an unnecessary body-check.

Third Period.

Action enough for anybody was included in the final frame. Four men down was the Lakefield rule, and the fast tiring leaders hardly ever got past the enemy blue line. They ragged the puck and shot it down the ice. When a man rushed he shot from the blue line and waited for the return rush.

A few feuds were carried on this period, which brought in half the game's penalties. Wannamaker served the first for throwing a Havelock attacker over his knee. Then Quinn and Louis Sabatino clashed and were given 5 minutes to think over their offences. They were hardly on when Stabler and Geraldi staged a bumping bee which cost them three minutes each. Four-man hockey was fast, but still Lakefield had the edge. With the offenders back, Hooper essayed a trip check and received his first penalty of the night, while after his return Wright received one of his very few penalties for slashing at a man who checked him heavily.

Fox was the hero of this period. The little goalkeeper turned aside one-man attacks, two-man attacks, and three and four men attacks. He kicked the puck, sat on it, batted it, charged out and broke up combinations, and almost everything else but catch it with his teeth. He robbed the Lakefield team of what looked like half a dozen sure goals when his tired team mates failed almost entirely in their efforts to keep out the determined attacks.

The summary:

First Period.

1. Havelock Wright (Brennan), 3 00.
2. Havelock, Wright, .15.
3. Lakefield, L. Sabatino, 11.00.

Second Period.

No score.

Third Period.

No score.

Final score: Havelock 2, Lakefield 1.

Penalties.

Havelock: Quinn, four for ten minutes; Geraldi, one of three minutes; Brennan, one of two minutes; Hooper, one of two minutes; Wright, one of one minute. Total, eight totalling eighteen minutes.

Lakefield: L. Sabatino, two totalling seven minutes; Wannamaker, two totalling five minutes; J. Sabatino, one for two minutes; Stableri one of three minutes. Total, six totalling seventeen minutes.

GRANITES MEET KINGSTON RINK

Toronto Rink Qualifies For the Ontario Tankard By Good Win.

IN CURLING FINAL.

VICTORIA CLUB, February 9. — Toronto Granites are making a hard fight to win the 13th Ontario Tankard. They qualified for the 1928 final yesterday at the Toronto Club by defeating Barrie Thistles in the semi-final by 14 shots. Granites first won the trophy in 1886 and again in 1892, 1894, 1896, 1900, 1909, 1910, 1911, 1914, 1916, 1919, and 1921. They have two balanced rinks, and many of the players who are playing this year have their name on several tankard banners. Tom Rennie, who has not curled on a tankard rink since 1921, the last year that Granites won it, has returned with a real high-class quartette. The other rink is skipped by Dr. V. McWilliams, a curler of no mean ability. In the semi-final the Rennie rink defeated R. Malcomson by 11 shots, while McWilliams was up 4 on Rev. J. S. Shortt with one end to go. The last end was not played.

Kingston qualified for the final by defeating Owen Sound by three shots after a hard battle. At the close of the regulation 18 ends the score was tied at 30 each, and each rink had to play an extra end. It looked hopeless as Thomson was lying two and was apparently well guarded. Handsen played a perfect raise, taking out the two Owen Sound rocks, and counted two in the other rock. The Kingston four had a well-guarded shot and counted one. Kingston have never yet won the tankard.

WIN SIX OUT OF EIGHT.

WINNIPEG, Man., February 9 (Canadian Press). — Visiting rinks, which fared rather badly in the opening draw of the fortieth annual Manitoba bonspiel, struck their stride yesterday with six victories out of eight games in which they figured.

Ross Harstone and his stalwarts from Hamilton, Ont., added another scalp to their belt in the Dingwall competition, by defeating Snell, of Arden, Man., 11-10. The game was decided by Harstone's last rock.

S. Mairs, St. Paul, Minn., also figured in the win column in the same event, eliminating J. Fisher, Winnipeg, 11-8. R. D. Chase, Rainey River, Ont., took his exit from the Dingwall event, losing by four points to R. Matman, Minitomas, Man.

In the other major competition of the bonspiel, the Birks Trophy, W. Finlay of Vancouver, skipping a local rink, maintained a clean record by scoring a 10-8 victory against S. Coleman, Darlingford. It was Finlay's third straight triumph.

J. E. Rutledge's rink from Fort William, Ont., was the second visiting aggregation to taste defeat yesterday. Rutledge was eliminated from the Purity Flour competition by A. M. Casell, Rathwell, Man., the score being 9-6.

Hap Day May Not Play Again, Says Doc

MONTREAL, February 9 (Canadian Press). — "Happy" Day, captain and defence man of the Toronto Maple Leafs, of the National Hockey League, will play no more hockey this winter in the opinion of Dr. Middleton, of the Western Hospital here, where Day is undergoing treatment. The hospital authorities were very hopeful of saving the tendon of Day's heel, which was severed all but a thread, Dr. Middleton said. It would be six weeks before the player would be able to walk.

AUSTRALAN ADONIS.

Here is an Australian Adonis ready for the Olympics. Cecil Light, 14 years of age, has made the 200-yard swim in 2 minutes, 35 2-5 seconds. He is expected to be on the Australian team for next summer's Olympic games.

IN PRACTICE FOR OLYMPIC EVENTS

Athletes of Norway and Finland Expected To Lead Way.

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, Feb. 9. —Canadian Press. — Although the Varsity Grads of Canada are already regarded as the hockey champions, and skaters of the United States are conceded a splendid chance in the 500 and 1500 metre skating races, the 1928 Olympic winter Sports title hunter appears to be a restricted affair between the athletes of Norway and Finland, with Germany a dark horse.

Such is the opinion of most experts after watching the teams of 24 nations go through preliminary stunts. Norway and Finland appear supreme in ski racing and jumping events with better than an even chance of slipping in ahead of the field in a majority of the speed skating features.

Scoring of winter sports is so arranged that credit in any branch goes only to the nation scoring the most points. No points are awarded individual winners.

With weather conditions continuing splendid yesterday, ski jumpers of Canada, Germany, Finland, Norway and the United States, devoted long hours of practice. Anders Haugen, the United States hope in the jumping events, got off the longest leap of the day but his style lacked the finish of the Scandinavians. Form as well as distance count in this feature.

Canada has reached such heights of favoritism in the hockey competition because of the absence of a team from the United States, that the Dominion yesterday was awarded the unprecedented honor of being chosen arbitrarily for the finals. The remaining entrants, consisting of Germany, Britain, Belgian, Czechoslovakia, Australia, Hungary, Sweden, Switzerland, France and Poland, are expected to be divided into three groups, with the sectional winners playing Canada in a series of three matches on Feb. 17, 18 and 19.

Canada, represented this year by the famous Toronto Grads, defeated the United States in the final match of the 1924 Olympics. Failure of the United States to send puck chasers abroad, disrupted the original plan of sending the Americans and Canadians at the head of two divisions.

MAY POSTPONE SLED DOG DERBY

Lack of Snow Puts Crimp in the New England Race.

DRIVERS READY.

NORTH CONWAY, N.H., February 9 (Canadian Press). — New England's unusually open winter last night appeared to have put a crimp in the third annual three-day point-to-point race of the New England Sled Dog Club scheduled to start from this town this morning.

In this country, where snowfall is usually a matter of feet, they were hoping for a bare four inches before dawn to-day to enable eight internationally known Canadian and United States sled dog drivers to get away over the 131 mile course between North Conway, Laconia, Wolfeboro and return.

The winter's total accumulation of two feet dwindled rapidly yesterday under an intermittent drizzle until bare roads or slush ice marked most of the course. Seven of the eight drivers who are entered met here yesterday, and agreed to start on time at nine o'clock this morning if a falling thermometer and forecast of a storm produced the required snowfall.

In the event of further postponement, two of the most picturesque drivers will be lost to the race.

Leonhardt Seppala, the Alaskan veteran, and winner of the run last year, and Mrs. E. P. Ricker, Jr., of Poland Springs, Me., his training partner, announced they would pull out immediately in search of better training grounds, where they might prepare for the winter's big sled dog class in the international race at Quebec on February 20, 21, and 22.

The others, who agreed to stay here awaiting snow until Monday at the latest, included Canada's three crack drivers from The Pas, Manitoba, Shorty Russick, winner of the first New England race three years ago, Emil St. Goddard, winner of the international last year, and Earl Brydges, as well as Walter Channing of Boston, secretary of the race committee, and Hi Mason of Tamworth. No word has been received from Ed. Clark of West Milan, the eighth starter, who planned to mush to North Conway from his training quarters in time to start to-day.

The teams will run under conditions which prevailed last year, starting five minutes apart, the winners to be picked on total elapsed time, the starting order each day to be alternated to equalize the running condition as far as possible. Cash prizes will total $2,300, with $1,000 going to the winner and a special prize of $200 going to the driver of the team whose dogs are in the best condition at the end of the run, regardless of their final place in the standing.

The first day's run from North Conway to Laconia totals 57 miles, the longest mush of the race. The second day from Laconia to Wolfeboro will cover approximately 34 miles ,and the final run from Wolfeboro back to North Conway is 40 miles.

FOREMOST GOLFER.

John Carrick, one of Canada's foremost golfers. He has won the junior and open championships of the dominion in the course of his rise to present heights.

Les Canadiens Set Attendance Record

MONTREAL, Feb. 9.—(A.P.)—Les Canadiens who made a runaway race of the first half of the National Hockey League season, also seem certain to set a new attendance mark. For the remaining twelve home games all of the 7,000 reserved seats at the Forum, local rink, have been sold. Only a few unreserved or "rush" seats will be available for the general public.

Last year the Canadiens led the league in attendance, drawing 185,000 spectators for their home games. The Maroons, Montreal's other entry in the league, was only 1,000 behind. Forum officials believe the combined attendance of the local sextets this year will be close to half a million.

BALL PLAYERS CHANGE QUICKLY

Only Forty-one of 1917's Big Leaguers Are Still in Majors.

AMERICAN LEADERS.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—How many baseball fans realize how quickly the players shift over a period covering a comparatively few years.

A glance at a baseball game for 1917, containing the 1916 averages, shows that only forty-one men in the major leagues in the latter year are still in the big show as players, and that of these several are through, save for occasional appearances.

The American Leaguers still in service and doing more or less playing who were around in 1916, are Speaker, Cobb, Eddie Collins, Sisler, Sam Rice, George H. Burns, Heilmann, Ruth, Schang, Peckinpaugh, Schalk, Hartley, Tobin, Jamieson, Ruel, Ken Willliams, Pennock, Dauss, Faber, Mays, Judge, Jones and Shocker.

On the National League playing roster at present are the following who were in the majors twelve years ago: Jack Smith, Picinich, Hornsby, Cy Williams, Mann, Roush, Carey, Alexander, Bancroft, Rixey, Doak, Bressler, Harper, Pipp, Kelly, Grimes, Meadows and Mitchell.

SOCCER DRAW

PIRATES BEAT CHICAGO.

Pittsburgh Scores Victory By Taking Advantage of Penalties.

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.— Scoring both goals while the Chicago team had a man off the ice under penalty, the Pittsburgh Pirates won a hard played National League hockey game from the Chicago Black Hawks here last night, 2 to 1. The victory advanced the Pirates to within one game of third place in the league race. Cotton and Milks scored the goals for the Pirates in the first and second periods, while Mickey MacKay shoved across the Black Hawk tally in the first period.

GRANITES WIN TANKARD AGAIN

Capture Coveted Curling Trophy For 13th Time, Beating Kingston.

THREE LEFT IN BURDEN.

TORONTO, Feb. 9.—Nine shots down in the first nine ends, Toronto Granites staged a rally in the final half of the Ontario Tankard finals last night at the Toronto Victoria Club to beat Kingston by two shots, in a game which was not decided until the last rock had been played. Previous to this year, Toronto Granites had won the banner twelve times, but the unlucky thirteenth had no terrors for them yesterday. In fact, the ancient hoodoo appeared to be with them in the final end.

Three Clubs in Burden.

Three clubs remain in the Burden Trophy, Stratford and Owen Sound clashing this morning at the Granite Club at 9.30, while the winner meets Orillia in the final in the afternoon. Scores:

MARLBOROS LOSE CHANCE FOR TITLE

Preston Eliminates Dukes, Arnott Starring in Victory.

TORONTO, Feb. 9—Preston pushed Marlboros into the oblivion of eliminated teams last night at the Arena Gardens, winning the Senior O.H.A. fixture by a 3 to 2 score. The Dukes had an outside chance of catching a place in the play-offs, and they fought valiantly to make the best of it, but the Riversides had the power in the pinch, slipping in for scores when most needed. A small but enthusiastic crowd was treated to a 60-minute thriller, for there was action from the first to final gongs, both teams traveling at a fast clip all the time. Marlboros were minus Harry Watson, both as player and coach, and if the Olympic star had acted in either role, the result might have been different, for the margin was mighty close, but he was confined to his home with a ninjured foot.

Gunner Arnott, a centre for Preston, was the deciding factor, as he was a leading force on the attack, and his hook-checking at mid-ice broke up and disorganized most of the Marlboro rushes. Arnott was easily the best in the game, and his superiority over all gave Preston the needed advantage. Arnott collected two of the Riverside goals, getting the first just fifteen seconds after Marlboros started the scoring, while he put his team in front in the third session.

MILE OF SMILES IN MACLEAN'S LATEST.

Douglas Actually Proves His Point in Farce, 'Let it Rain."

To be exact Douglas MacLean brings a little more than a mile of smiles to the Regent Theatre, with his latest Paramount laugh provoker, "Let it Rain." You see there is usually one thousand feet of film in a reel and five or six reels combine to make a feature picture. Any bright child will tell you the number of feet in a mile and as Doug claims a smile for every foot, well figure it out for yourself!

"Let-it-Rain" Riley, leader of the marines on a battleship, is sentenced by his commander to shake hands with Kelly, a gob, every time they meet. While this sounds like a mild punishment for some of the battles they've fought, it really has its disadvantages. For instance both men fall in love with the same girl. One day they go ashore but Riley gets there first and takes her to an amusement park. He tells th lady of his love and they are about to go into a fond embrace when the nemesis comes along and insists on shaking hands for fifteen long minutes.

Fun? And how! But in addition to laughs of this sort, "Let it Rain" has an honest-to-goodness story. We see a new phase of marine duty, the guarding of the mails. In fact some of the picture's funniest and most exciting episodes take place on a runaway mail train, the sole occupants of which ae "Let-it-Rain," a wounded buddy, his girl and three bandits!

FARM MECHANICS COURSE SUCCESSFUL

Many Young Men Study Various Work at Orono Last Week.

A splendid one week's course on farm mechanics closed on Friday, February 3, at Orono, Durham County, having had 65 students enrolled, with an average of 50 each morning and afternoon during the five days of the course. The instructors, H. P. Green, B.Sc., Ottawa, and J. H. Shaw, B.S.A., Galt, stated that it was one of the best courses yet held. The farmers and junior farmers of the community expressed themselves as being delighted with the instruction given in rope splicing, halter making, soldering, sharpening tools, concrete, electricity, farm water systems, and gas engines. Undoubtedly these courses are of inestimable benefit to any community, and we hope Durham County will be favored with a similar course next year.

THE "CANARY" MURDER CASE

by S. S. VAN DINE, AUTHOR of THE BENSON MURDER CASE

© Charles Scribner's Sons

THE STORY THUS FAR

The jewel case had been opened with a steel chisel after being battered with a poker. And this puzzles Vance when it is found near the strangled body of Margaret Odell. It makes him think two men were in the apartment, the murderer unaware of the man hiding in a clothes closet. Finger-prints lead to Skeel's arrest, after Cleaver and Dr. Lindquist have been questioned. Vance indicates he believes Skeel was hiding in the closet, and Markham ridicules the theory.

CHAPTER XXII.

"Stop! Stop! Don't torture me so," Vance pleaded. "I know I'm insane. Been given to hallucinations since birth; but—Merciful Heaven!—I've never before had one as crazy as this."

"On that point at least, my dear Vance, we are in complete and harmonious agreement," smiled Markham.

Just then Swacker came in and handed Markham a letter.

"Brought by messenger, and marked 'immediate'," he explained.

The letter, written on heavy engraved stationery, was from Doctor Lindquist, and explained that between the hours of 11 p.m. and 1 a.m. on Monday night he had been in attendance on a patient at his sanitarium. It also apologized for his actions when asked regarding his whereabouts, and offered a wordy, but not particularly convincing, explanation of his conduct.

He had had an unusually trying day, it seemed—neurotic cases were trying, at best—and the suddenness of our visit, together with the apparently hostile nature of Markham's questions, had completely upset him. He was more than sorry for his outburst, he said, and stood ready to assist in any way he could.

It was unfortunate for all concerned, he added, that he had lost his temper, for it would have been a simple matter for him to explain about Monday night.

"He has thought the situation over calmly," said Vance, "and hereby offers you a neat little alibi which, I think, you will have difficulty in shaking. . . . An artful beggar—like all these unbalanced pseudo-psychiatrists. Observe: he was with a patient. To be sure! What patient? Why, one too ill to be questioned. . . . There you are. A cul-de-sac masquerading as an alibi. Not bad, what?"

"It doesn't interest me overmuch," Markham put the letter away. "That pompous professional ass could never have got into the Odell apartment without having been seen; and I can't picture him sneaking in by devious means." He reached for some papers . . . . "And now, if you don't object, I'll make an effort to earn my $15,000 salary."

But Vance, instead of making a move to go, sauntered to the table and opened a telephone directory.

"Permit me a suggestion, Markham," he said, after a moment's search. "Put off your daily grind for a bit, and let's hold polite converse with Mr. Louis Mannix. Y' know, he's the only presumptive swain of the inconstant Margaret, so far mentioned, who hasn't been given an audience. I hanker to gaze upon him and hearken to his rune. He'd make the family circle complete, so to speak. . . . He still holds forth in Maiden Lane, I see; and it wouldn't take long to fetch him here."

Markham had swung half round in his chair at the mention of Mannix's name. He started to protest, but he knew from experience that Vance's suggestions were not the results of idle whims; and he was silent for several moments weighing the matter. With practically every other avenue of inquiry closed for the moment, I think the idea of questioning Mannix rather appealed to him.

"All right," he consented, ringing for Swacker; "though I don't see how he can help. According to Heath, the Odell girl gave him his leave a year ago."

"He may still have hay on his horns, or, like Hotspur, be drunk with choler. You can't tell." Vance resumed his chair. "With such a name, he'd bear investigation ipso facto."

Markham sent Swacker for Tracy; and when the latter arrived, suave and beaming, he was given instructions to take the district attorney's car and bring Mannix to the office.

"Get a subpoena," said Markham, "and use it if necessary."

Half an hour or so later Tracy returned.

"Mr. Mannix made no difficulty about coming," he reported. "Was quite agreeable, in fact. He's in the waiting-room now."

Tracy was dismissed, and Mannix was ushered in.

He was a large man, and he walked with the forced elasticity of gait which epitomizes the silent struggle of incipiently corpulent middle age to deny the onrush of the years and cling to the semblance of youth.

He carried a slender wanghee cane; and his checkered suit, brocaded waistcoat, pearl-gray gaiters, and gaily beribboned Homburg hat gave him an almost foppish appearance. But these various indications of sportiveness were at once forgotten when one inspected his features. His small eyes were bright and crafty; his nose was bibative, and appeared disproportionately small above his thick sensual lips and prognathous jaw.

There was an oiliness and shrewdness in the man's manner which were at once repulsive and arresting.

At a gesture from Markham he sat down on the edge of a chair, placing a podgy hand on each knee. His attitude was one of alert suspicion.

"Mr. Mannix," said Markham, an engaging note of apology in his voice, "I am sorry to have discommoded you; but the matter in hand is both serious and urgent. . . . A Miss Margaret Odell was murdered night before last, and in the course of our inquiries we learned that you had at one time known her quite well. It occurred to me that you might be in possession of some facts about her that would assist us in our investigation."

A smile meant to be genial parted the man's heavy lips.

"Sure, I knew the Canary—a long time ago, y' understand." He permitted himself a sigh. "A fine, high-class girl, if I do say so. A good looker and a good dresser. Too damn bad she didn't go on with the show business. But"—he made a repudiative motion with his hand—"I haven't seen the lady, y' understand, for over a year—not to speak to, if you know what I mean."

Mannix clearly was on his guard, and his beady little eyes did not once leave the district attorney's face.

"You had a quarrel with her perhaps?' Markham asked the question incuriously.

"Well, now, I wouldn't go so far as to say we quarreled. No." Mannix paused, seeking the correct word. "You might say we disagreed—got tired of the arrangement and decided to separate; kind of drifted apart. Last thing I told her was, if she ever needed a friend she'd know where to find me."

"Very generous of you," murmured Markham. "And you never renewed your little affair?"

"Never—never. Don't remember ever speaking to her from that day to this."

"In view of certain things I've learned, Mr. Mannix"—Markham's tone was regretful—"I must ask you a somewhat personal question. Did she ever make an attempt to blackmail you?"

Mannix hesitated, and his eyes seemed to grow even smaller, like those of a man thinking rapidly.

"Certainly not!" he replied, with belated emphasis. "Not at all. Nothing of the kind." He raised both hands in protest against the thought. Then he asked furtively: "What gave you such an idea?"

"I have been told," explained Markham, "that she had exhorted money from one or two of her admirers."

Mannix made a wholly unconvincing grimace of astonishment.

"Well, well! You don't tell me! Can it be possible?" He peered shrewdly at the district attorney. "Maybe it was Charlie Cleaver she blackmailed—yes?"

Markham picked him up quickly.

"Why do you say Cleaver?"

Again Mannix waved his thick hand, this time deprecatingly.

"No special reason, y' understand. Just thought it might be him. . . . No special reason."

"Did Cleaver ever tell you he'd been blackmailed?"

"Cleaver tell me? . . . Now, I ask you, Mr. Markham: why should Cleaver tell me such a story—why should he?"

"And you never told Cleaver that the Odell girl had blackmailed you?"

"Positively not!" Mannix gave a scornful laugh which was far too theatrical to have been genuine. "Me tell Cleaver I'd been blackmailed? Now, that's funny, that is."

"Then why did you mention Cleaver a moment ago?"

"No reason at all—like I told you. . . He knew the Canary; but that ain't no secret."

Markham dropped the subject.

"What do you know about Miss Odell's relations with a Doctor Ambroise Lindquist?"

Mannix was now obviously perplexed.

"Never heard of him—no, never. She didn't know him when I was taking her around."

"Whom else besides Cleaver did she know well?"

Mannix shook his head ponderously.

"Now, that I couldn't say—positively I couldn't say. Seen her with this man and that, same as everybody saw her; but who they were I don't know—absolutely."

"Ever hear of Tony Skeel?" Markham quickly leaned over and met the other's gaze inquiringly.

Once more Mannix hesitated, and his eyes glittered calculatingly.

"Well, now that you ask me, I believe I did hear of the fellow. But I couldn't swear to it, y' understand. What makes you think I heard of this Skeel fellow?"

"Auto Masher" Loses License

HAMILTON, Feb. 8. Canadian Press. — The first move in an effort to stop the activities of "auto mashers," who patrol the streets inviting women out for a ride, was made by the Hamilton police yesterday, when John Walker of Mary street, was informed that his license to drive a motor vehicle had been cancelled for a period not exceeding one year by order of the Ontario Department of Highways.

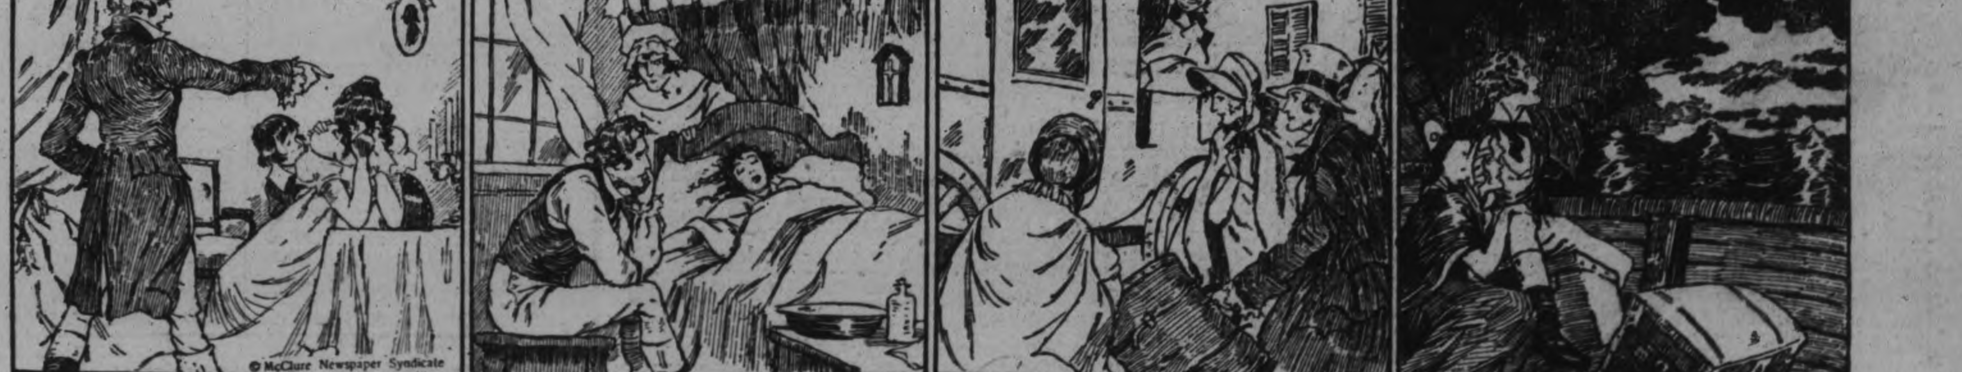
FAMOUS LOVE ROMANCES

Shelley and Mary Godwin (IV)

By Nicholas Afonsky



© McClure Newspaper Syndicate

Shelley and Mary Godwin decided that, as he was tied by marriage to Harriet, they would go away together in defiance of convention. Shelley arranged a meeting with Harriet and told her of his decision. He accused her of unfaithfulness, which she denied. He promised to look out for her and their children.

Harriet, however unsuited to be the wife of a poet, whether or not she had been unfaithful, was overcome at Shelley's decision. She became desperately ill. For days she lay almost senseless, and Shelley, harassed by the presence of her older sister, stayed by her bedside, pleading with her to recover.

At last Harriet recovered. But Shelley was through with her. No pleadings on her part could make him change his determination to leave her permanently. At four o'clock one July morning in 1814, Shelley met Mary Godwin and her stepsister, Claire Clairmont, and the three young people drove away secretly from London.

They reached the English Channel safely, and the next night crossed in an open boat to France. A great storm came up, and for a time the small boat was in danger. But at last lightning and darkness gave way to starlight, then to dawn. "Look, Mary," said Shelley, rousing the sleeping girl, "the sun rises over France."

The Dugout

(By J.R.H.)

Meri boocoo!

Here's a soldat says "It's time somebody thought of starting something in your paper for the soldiers. It seemed to me a guy wasn't news until he had dirt in his face, and that the deader he was the better news he was."

That's alright, but even this cuss who started out so friendly has to get in his dig. Listen to this;

"There are lots of chocolate soldiers who grabbed off strawberry jam and whatever in the way of decorations that came up with the rations who don't care a zoom for the old days, old ways, and the fellows who are left."

Aint it the truth?

"I just want to say that while I don't agree with everything in the Legion (if you're a soldier, Mac, you couldn't agree with everything in anything) I've stuck with it because I kinda like being mixed up with the remnants of the good old days. Keep up the work and maybe we'll yet make something of Cox's army."

Thanks, "Lousetrap", I'll see you some day in the estaminet on George street.

This is no cushy job, sitting here in the funk hole waiting for some of you guys to clean up, but if one or two will just write in modest language telling me how you like the gabfest I'll manage to hang on for the duration.

Spot Stuart will make a special rate of 2 cents a letter on communications to "The Dugout" as a special favor.

A telephone that answers itself when the owner is out has been invented in Sweden. It operates like a phonograph, recording the message from the incoming call.

Obituary

CAROLINE THOMPSON.

TRENT RIVER, Feb. 9. — The death occurred on Monday, Feb. 6, of Caroline Thompson, Trent River, at the age of 67 years, 4 months, 27 days, after a prolonged illness. Deceased leaves one daughter, Mrs. Fred Cook; also two brothers, Messrs Harry and John Thompson.

The funeral took place at the home of Mr. Fred Cook on Wednesday afternoon. Service at the house at 2 o'clock, was conducted by her pastor, Rev. W. R. Archer. Interment was made at Centre Church cemetery.

MRS. CHARLES WADE

The death took place quite suddenly on Wednesday, February 8, 1928, of Jone E. Wade, widow of the late Charles Wade, while at the home of her sister, Mrs. Chalmers, 587 Homewood Avenue, Peterborough. Deceased was in her 86th year and enjoyed the love and respect of a large circle of friends.

The funeral will take place from 587 Homewood Avenue on Friday, February 10, at 11.00 a.m. Interment will be in Bowmanville Cemetery. The Rev. Mr. Sutcliffe will conduct the services.

MRS. SARAH SMITH

The death took place last evening in Toronto of Sarah Harris, wife of the late Lawrence Smith. She leaves to mourn her loss four sisters, Mrs. R. Pollock, Mrs. T. Duggan and Miss M. Harris of Peterborough, and Mrs. H. Boyd of Marmora, and one brother, W. Harris of this city. The remains are expected tonight on the midnight train, and will be taken to the home of her niece, Mrs. Stanley McCable, 345 George Street South.

Funeral announcement will be made later.

JAMES A. ARMOUR

On Saturday afternoon there passed away at his late residence, Park Street, an old resident in the person of James A. Armour. The late Mr. Armour had been in failing health for the last few years and was in his 75th year. He was born in the Township of Percy and had resided in Tweed, Norwood, and Toronto, but had been a resident of Peterborough for the last twenty years, where he was well and favorably known.

He is survived by his widow.

The funeral took place on Monday forenoon from his late residence, via C.N.R. to Hastings, interment taking place in Trent Valley Cemetery. The services were conducted at the grave by the Rev. D. A. Thomson.

MRS. J. W. BUYERS.

The death took place in the city to-day Feb. 9, of one of the original members of Knox church in the person of Mrs. Margaret Buyers, wife of J. W. Buyers, 479 Albert street. She leaves to mourn, her sorrowing husband, one daughter, Miss Margaret, and one sister in Scotland.

The funeral will take place from the family residence, Albert street, on Saturday, Feb. 11th, at 2.00 p.m. The services will be conducted by the Rev. William McDonald and interment will take place in the Little Lake cemetery.

MARRIARGES.

POTVIN—GOODWILL.—The marriage is announced of Helen Marion Goodwill to Mr. Louis A. Potvin, on Thursday, February 9th, 1928, Peterborough, Ont.

BEER BY GLASS MOTION FIRST IN ORDER PAPER

Was Filed Several Weeks Ago By Interested Member.

MAY NOT BE DEBATED.

Address in Reply to Speech From Throne Being Discussed To-day.

TORONTO, Feb. 10. — Canadian Press. — Sale of beer by the glass is the subbject of the opening motion appearing on the order paper of the Ontario legislature. Frank Wilson, the Conservative member for Windsor East, filed notice of this motion some weeks ago so that it would appear at the earliest possible moment after the opening of the session, which took place yesterday.

The placing of the motion does not necessarily mean that there will be a debate on the question and whether or not the issue will be raised is problematical.

The Legislature made history today by settling down to the routine business of the session on the day following the ceremonial opening.

Ordinarily the House adjourns for a short while or confines itself to private business for the first few days. To-day however it will proceed with the debate on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne.

J. P. Earngey, Conservative, Kenora moves the reply, and it will be seconded by S. Colliver, Conservative, Prince Edward.

HASSELL DIES FOR 13 MURDERS

Confessed Murderer Meets Death Calmly—Negro Also Electrocuted.

INSANITY PLEA FAILS.

HUNTSVILLE, Texas, Feb. 10.—(Canadian Press.)— Calmly accepting the failure of last minute efforts for commutation of the death sentence on a plea of insanty, George Hassell, 39, confessed slayer of thirteen persons, was electrocuted at the State penitentiary here to-day. He was followed to the electric chair by Robert Benton, a negro, convicted of killing a white man.

The double electrocution required less than thirty minutes. Hassell received the first shock at 12.29 a.m. He was pronounced dead in eight minutes. Benton entered the chair at 12.46 o'clock and was pronounced dead seven minutes later. Each received three shocks. Asked if he wished to make a statement Hassell said: "I would like to announce to the world that I am prepared to meet my God. I have made my confession to God and man. Man does not understand it all, but God does."

Hassell was convicted of killing his stepson in December, 1926.

He later confessed to slaying his wife and her seven children. In a second confession he told of killing his housekeeper, Mrs. Marie Vogel, and her three children.

MARK STREET W.M.S.

Ladies Hold Birthday Tea—Good Program Given.

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of Mark Street United Church was held Thursday, Feb. 9, at 3 o'clock in the church.

This took the form of a birthday tea and was well attended.

The President, Mrs. E. Wand, occupied the chair during the opening session. Later the chair was taken by Mrs. W. K. Payne, and an interesting program followed.

Mrs. Throop gave a very interesting paper on "Factory Life in China."

Mrs. Hohner, soprano soloist of Trinity Church, sang very effectively, "Open My Eyes That I May See."

Mrs. W. Taylor gave an interesting paper entitled "The Basket Secretary."

Mrs. Hugh Hunter of Mark Street Church, sang in a pleasing voice "In Faith I Shall Arise."

The Watch Tower was taken up, the subject being "The Importance of Missions."

Dainty refreshments were served by Group B and a social half hour enjoyed over the tea cups.

Poincare Is Given Vote of Confidence

PARIS, Feb. 10 (Associated Press).—The Chamber of Deputies gave the Poincare Government a vote of confidence yesterday at the end of the long debate on M. Poincare's financial programme. It was considered also a vote of gratitude. The final vote was on the order of the day, which was adopted 370 to 131.

Throughout the debate which lasted more than two weeks, the speakers from every group, excepting the Communists, recognized that Premier Poincare had saved the franc from complete collapse and had prevented France from falling into a financial and economic abyss.

The Socialists and extreme Radicals demanded immediate stabilization of the franc at the present rate. The Premier declared that the stabilization of the franc was not possible at this time. He refused to say when or at what rate it would be stabilized, subordinating the final operation to realization of all prerequisite conditions.

LOCAL MEN AT CEREMONY

Messrs. Bradburn and Anderson Present at Opening of Ontario House.

SEATS ARRANGED.

Both local members, W. H. Bradburn and W. A. Anderson, were among the legislators present yesterday at the picturesque ceremony which marked the opening of the second session of the seventeenth Legislature of the Province of Ontario by His Honor Lieutenant Governor W. D. Ross.

Promptly at three o'clock, His Honor entered the Legislative Halls, after spending a few minutes in reviewing the brilliantly uniformed guard of honor and mounted escort.

Within the House, the spectacle duplicated the brilliance of the pomp and pageantry of former openings. Every seat in the gallery was occupied and a huge crowd swarmed on to the floor, with the result that it was almost impossible to distinguish the law makers of the province from the less exalted individuals who helped to put them into authority. Outside the chamber, a large crowd of latecomers in vain endeavored to get within seeing or hearing distance.

Among the prominent dignitaries who were on the floor of the House were the Rt. Rev. James Sweeney, Lord Bishop of Toronto, His Grace, Archibshop Neil McNeil and Rev. Canon Cody representing the church, and Chief Justice Mulock, Mr. Justice Raney, former Progressive chief, and the members of the Supreme Court representing the law. Another visitor who attracted considerable attention was General Barron, Consul for Mexico, whose dismissal from Canada has been demanded by a Quebec member of the Dominion House following his reply to the criticisms of Sir Henry Thornton's visit to Mexico by His Lordship Bishop Fallon of London.

A novel departure from former usages which is to be introduced into the internal arrangements of the House this year is the substitution of a troop of Boy Socuts for the ushers of the floor of the House.

Two members of the Cabinet were absent from the opening ceremonies.. The Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines, has not yet returned from a visit to the British West Indies, while Hon. Dr. Forbes Godfrey, Minister of Health and Labor, is at present in the United States. Both missing Cabinet ministers are expected to return to their places in the near future.

The House met to-day with one seat still unfilled—South Bruce—from which the former member, M. A. McCallum, was unseated last year. It was stated yesterday that the by-election to fill the vacancy will not be held until after the conclusion of the present session.

Yesterday's ceremonies were briefer than those of the opening last year when the big event of the first day was the election of the Speaker. From the moment of the entry of the Lieutenant Governor until the House adjourned no more than twenty minutes elapsed.

According to a ruling announced yesterday morning, no photographs were alolwed to be taken of the opening ceremonies. After the adjournment, a reception was held by the Speaker and Mrs. Black in their chambers at the west end of the Legislature buildings. This was attended by most of the members and a large number of favored visitors.

As is usual on opening days, the large crowd on the floor prevented the members from occupying the seats alloted to them for the sittings but the plan of the seating arrangements shows that Mr. Bradburn will occupy his old position at the end nearest the Speaker on the second row of the Government benches almost directly behind Mr. Ferguson. Mr. Anderson occupies the sixth seat on the third row of the Opposition side on the left of the chair.

35 WORKMEN TRAPPED BY FIRE FOUR BODIES FOUND IN HOLLINGER

Spontaneous Combustion Causes Outbreak in Lower Levels.

500 MEN BELOW AT TIME.

Heavy Fumes Hamper Work of Rescuers—No Panic Ensues.

TORONTO, Feb. 10. — (Canadian Press.)—A special despatch this afternoon from Timmins, Ontario, says: "Thirty-five men are believed trapped and four bodies have been recovered, following a fire that broke out in one of the lower levels of the Hollinger mine at ten a.m. to-day. The fire is still burning. The recovered dead are Martin Stevens, shift boss, Timmins; Harry Graham, George Dunlop, a powder man, and one man so far unidentified."

The cause of the fire is given as spontaneous combustion in a dangerous section of the 550 ft. level, where rubbish and powder boxes had accumulated. The despatch continues that information is vague at the present time, but Hollinger officials are making no statement until a complete check of the mine workers has been made. "They are optimistic, however, that early reports will be without foundation and that a later investigation will show much less damage and loss of life," it says.

Damage Not Known.

No estimate of the damage done by fire is possible yet. When smoke began drifting along the cut the 500 men in the vicinity immediately made a rush for the shaft. The overtaxed cage was able to take care of most of the men, but those who reached the top fear that 35 of their companions were caught in the fire. Those employed are largely foreigners, with a sprinkling of Canadian and English workers.

The despatch said the fire was accompanied by heavy fumes which penetrated the mine to the 1,800 foot level, proving a serious handicap to the efforts of rescue parties. The body of Stevens was the first brought to the surface. He had been suffocated by the dense smoke.

The officials concentrated on efforts to rescue the trapped men. There was no panic and cage operators and rescuers stayed at their posts. At the noon hour many employees left quietly for their homes and it was not until noon that Timmins was aware of the happening. A few anxious wives and mothers then rushed to the mine.

Company ofifcials were confident of being able to control the fire before any serious damage was done to the mine. The greatest danger was loss of life from the fumes.

The men brought to the surface spoke calmly of the incident, but from their speech it was apparent that any men left are probably in isolated corners of the mine, cut off from their fellow workers.

IN POLICE COURT

Herbert Colmer was sentenced to three months in the Ontario Reformatory, with an indeterminate sentence thereafter not exceeding six months in all, for the stealing of the use of two automoibles. Colmer pleaded guilty to the two charges of theft on Tuesday and was remanded until this morning for sentence.

Harold Burrows pleaded guilty to the charge of having a dangerous dog and was ordered by the magistrate to have the dog shot. On inquiry it was found that Mr. Burrows had already had the dog shot.

A local man pleaded guilty to being intoxicated on Water street last night and was fined $15.00 and costs.

Says Regular Trans-Atlantic Air Service Will Be Instituted Within Three Months

WASHINGTON, D.C., February 10 (Canadian Press). — Regular trans-Atlantic mail and passenger service by dirigible airships will be instituted within three months with the co-operation and approval of the United States Government, Secretary Hoover said yesterday, in announcing the conclusion of a conference with representative British interests who are responsible for the enterprise.

The dirigible R-100, now undec construction in England, designed to carry 100 passengers and ten tons of mail, is to inaugurate the new air service on a tentative schedule that will consume 48 hours on her westward voyages and 38 hours on the eastward run.

The United States Government will loan the R-100 the use of the naval air station mooring mast and equipment at Lakehurst, N.J. Negotiations are now under way with the Post Office Department by which the air liner will be given a special mail contract at a premium rate of postage, as the land aeroplane mail services now receive.

The aeronautical section of the Commerce Department will apply to the vessel only the treatment given foreign ships in American harbors, which means the acceptance of British regulations and supervision with reference to the vessel's safety and design.

In case the trial trips with the R-100 justify the outlay, Mr. Hoover said, Americans will be invited to associate themselves with the British enterprise in the construction of several additional dirigibles for the service. Commander Dennis Burney, a member of the British Parliament, has dealt with Mr. Hoover and other American officials in the negotiations for the installation of the new air service.

Labor Amendment Is Introduced In House

LONDON, Feb. 10 (Canadian Press Cable).—A Labor amendment to the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne condemning the Government for its unemployment policy and alleging that it was aggravating instead of alleviating the situation, was introduced in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon.

Speaking for the Government, Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain, Minister of Health, defended the administration's policy, which, he said, included the training of unemployed for settlement overseas. Debate on the amendment was adjourned.

The House of Lords was not in session yesterday.

KEATING GHOST CAUSED BY GAS

Professor McKenna and Two Oil and Gas Men Express Belief.

WATER STILL BAD.

Professor P. C. McKenna, the phrenologist and palmist, who is at present staying in the city, and who made an attempt to get to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Keating, at Campbellford, last Sunday, tried a second time yesterday, and succeeded.

About a week ago, Mr. and Mrs. Keating, who have achieved a good deal of prominence through the much-talked-of ghost which was supposed to be haunting their place of abode, wrote to Professor McKenna and asked him a number of questions, among them being an enquiry relative to the authenticity of the phantom which had been troubling them, also several questions as to the likelihood of oil or gas being present under their farm. The Professor tried to reach their home last Sunday by motor and came within about seven miles of it, being forced to abandon the attempt owing to the bad condition of the roads. Yesterday afternoon, in company with two gentlemen from Toronto who are interested in oil and gas propositions, he succeded in getting there, the motor car making the trip all the way.

The visit resulted in an apparently successful attempt by the Professor to banish forever the thought of a ghost from the minds of Mr. and Mrs. Keating. According to his opinion, after investigation, the occurrence was due to natural causes and was the result of chemical reactions from gases formed while the cellar was in a semi-flooded condition.

Mr. and Mrs. Keating feel keenly the amount of curious interest which has been forced upon them of late. According to Mrs. Keating, the size and shape of the supposed apparition has been exaggerated. She now states that the thing was more like London Would Welcome Early Arrangement Between Powers and Germany.

AGAINST ISOLATED ACTION.

Members of Opposition Favor Britain Taking Initiative in Recalling Troops.

LONDON, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Evacuation of the Rhineland came up in the House of Commons yesterday and the attitude of the British government was defined by Godfrey Locker-Lamson, under-secretary of the foreign office. It was in effect, that there would be no advantage in the withdrawal of the British troops, but that an arrangement between the powers and Germany that would bring about evacuation would be welcomed.

The British position favoring an earlier evacuation of the Rhineland than stipulated in the Versailles treaty has been known ever since the Locarno pact. The British government, however, was reluctant to take any isolated action in withdrawing its troops, because this would bear the aspect of bringing pressure upon France.

The recent utterances of M. Briand, the French foreign minister, are interpreted in London as meaning that the question was not one for France alone, and many members of the Opposition in Parliament favor Great Britain taking the initiative by recalling her own troops.

Noel Buxton put the question directly to the government in the House yesterday—"Whether the government will consider the question of evacuating the British troops from the Rhineland at an early date?"
